above. We can keep on working, growing, and giving until the sun never sets on Brethren missions. Or we can sit down complacently, avoiding both toil and trouble, and let the heathen mend their own broken cisterns with earthly clay.

Jesus Christ had a traveling school of theology. He trained his own men. So must we, who are Brethren, educate our missionary recruits. Let us occupy lands "which I will shew thee."

Now Is The Time To Support Ashland College

Myron Kem, President of Board of Trustees

AN ARTICLE ENTITLED "Now is the Time to Advance on All Fronts," written by Rev. Willis E. Ronk and published in the Evangelist issue of August 14, 1948, suggested the theme of this appeal to all Brethren to enlist their support for Ashland College.

Now is the time for all Brethren people to realize that Ashland is their College.

Men and women are needed for the Ministry and Missionary Field by the Brethren Church. They are needed today. Those in training now at Ashland are not enough. Others must come from Brethren homes to fill this urgent need. All Brethren should, if at all possible, send their young people to Ashland for their College training whether it be in the Seminary or the College.

We must Brethrenize Ashland with Brethren students. Ashland must maintain an open door to students of all faiths, but if we are to maintain a Brethren College the Brethren young people must attend Ashland. I realize the Brethren Youth Board is doing a wonderful work for the College, but that is not enough. Brethren young people must be inspired in the home and in the local church to attend Ashland.

In regard to financial support for Ashland it must be recognized that we Brethren have a responsibility. All educational institutions are underwritten by endowment funds, by foundation funds, by the Federal or State Government or by a Church Organization. If Ashland is to grow, Ashland must be underwritten by the members of the Church through its gifts and living endowments. Ashland cannot be financed by the tuition fees of the student body.

The Brethren Conference realizing this, has authorized Ashland College to solicit this financial support through the local churches. When this appeal is made you must realize that now is the time to get back of Ashland and help make it an institution which all Brethren people should want to attend. The Brethren leaders of tomorrow, its Ministers, its Missionaries, its Teachers, are now at Ashland. All of the growth and influence of the Brethren Church in the future will be measured by the growth of Ashland. Now is the time for all Brethren to realize the importance of Ashland College to the growth and future of the Church.

Now is the time to prepare to make a substantial gift to Ashland College. There never was a time when the need for Christian Education was more important. Ashland needs your support. The Brethren Church needs Ashland.

Why Should Brethren Support Our College and Seminary?

Dr. W. I. Duker

IN PRESENTING this subject, we are reminded of an occasion in which a good brother was preaching mightily on the subject of evangelism. He was insisting that men should give themselves to the Lord Jesus in confession of their faith and accept Him as their personal Saviour. I reminded him that every one in the audience had accepted Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour. I asked him as to his purpose in making this plea to an audience of believers. His reply was that undoubtedly there were some that were insincere in their proclamation of their faith and really needed this type of an appeal.

I also recall another good brother who insisted on preaching an evangelistic sermon and giving an invitation to a delegate body of church members at one of our National Conferences. I remonstrated with him as to the advisability of the same and he too, insisted that he was after those who had made such a confession but were not truly wrong after all. However, I wonder relative to the saved. Maybe these Brethren were not so far value of an attempt to present evangelism to them at the time and places indicated. The Scriptures, however, are quite insistent that we "Spread our bread upon the waters" and that we sow the Divine seed and look to the Lord for the increase.

To write an article to appear in a church paper and to present argument to members of said church seems to be in the same field of endeavor as were those referred to in the opening statements of this message. Certainly all members of the Brethren Church are in agreement that the support by our Church of our College and Seminary is so evident that small necessity could be found in a restatement of this need or responsibility. Where else should this support come from? Who is to benefit from the efforts put forth by these institutions? Is our College and Seminary maintained for the benefit of organizations other than the Brethren Church? Certainly other people and churches may share in benefits and delight in the Christian atmosphere generated at these places, but after all, our prime purpose should be and certainly is, that Brethren homes and in this manner Brethren institutions should benefit.

As we read today, may we increase our insistence that Brethren should support our College and Seminary and if any degree of insincerity has crept in to our heart in reference to this support may we be reminded again that "We be Brethren."

American Bible Society

MAKES 10TH ANNUAL BIBLE SEAL APPEAL

"The World Needs the Bible," is the slogan of the tenth annual Bible Seal appeal now being promoted by the American Bible Society. Five designs make up the sheets of one hundred attractively colored stamps the Society has issued. A new feature this year is another sheet of 24 poster stamps done in two colors, illustrating photographic scenes of the Bible lands. These stamps are 2 x 2½ inches each. The latter sheet has the added value of being useful and interesting to young people, particularly those attending Church and Bible Schools.

The appeal this year, which has been mailed to more than a million people, is being sponsored by Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander in Chief of the U. S. Fleet (Retired). Admiral Nimitz has written the Society: "The remarkable accomplishment of the American Bible Society in distributing Bibles for 132 years has, in my opinion, contributed most effectively to the spiritual quality of the American public and of peoples of other lands to which the Society has reached. The goal of the Society to distribute more than seven million Scripture volumes during 1947, at a cost of over two million dollars above the normal operating budget, is most commendable and merits the support of all in a position to be of aid, financial and otherwise."

In the files of the Society there are specific requests totalling 7,856,000 copies of the Scriptures. They have come from fifteen countries. The books, it is estimated, will cost $2,010,700. This sum of money is needed in addition to the regular on-going program of the Society.

Take a case in Germany of the hospital nurse who "gave them all away." "When I first heard that American Christians were sending Bibles to Germany, I wrote to the Hilfswerk, the German Protestant Relief Agency, telling them of the great demand for Bibles among my patients," she said. "I had lost my Bible and had to borrow one whenever I felt like bringing some consolation to one of my patients. Five Bibles arrived and I gave them all away, trusting that the next consignment from America would bring me one to keep for myself. In the name of my patients please receive my hearty thanks."

Will the nurse be disappointed? Multiply this case by thousands and thousands.

Church Methods

Rev. Henry Bates

(This is the first of a series of monthly articles, written at the request of Brother Vanator, dealing with practical church problems and methods. The writer is anxious that these articles cover those problems and questions which most frequently confront our pastors and other church leaders, and would appreciate hearing from "Evangelist" readers concerning some of their own problems and questions. Lest the usual charges of "Just theory," or "Idealism" be heard, we hasten to explain that all of the suggestions included in these articles have been tried and proved not in large, well-to-do city churches, but in congregations of average and sometimes below average size and wealth, and in rural as well as urban churches.)

WE HEAR MUCH today of inflation, one of the natural offspring of any war. But to the church, inflation is nothing new for through the years churches have been laboring under the effects of inflation—Inflated church rolls. Take, for example, the given memberships of an ten churches listed in the latest issue of the "Evangelist." Then write to the pastors of those same churches and ask them how many members—including the C. and E. Christians (Christmas and Easter Christians)—show any interest whatever in the church's program. Now compare the two figures and in nine, and possibly in ten of the congregations studied the latter figure will be between one third and one fourth of the former.

At our recent General Conference, representatives from three different and widely separated congregations remarked to this writer that their church rolls were in dire need of revision but that nobody was willing to undertake the task. Why should this matter be such a bugaboo? Why should men shrink from serving on the Roll Revision Committee of their church? Primarily for one reason, namely, that to the great majority of people "revising the roll" means "putting people out of the church." Such is certainly not the case! Let us consider this problem and its solution very briefly.

First of all it is necessary to find out how many of the men and women whose names appear on the church book still hold membership in the church. One church which we served had on the church roll over four hundred names, yet had an average attendance of less than one hundred. During the first month or two on the field the writer called upon practically every "member" of the church—and this was indeed revealing. One lady, for example, after her caller had introduced himself as the pastor of the Brethren Church, looked greatly surprised and asked almost unbelievably, "Is my name still on your church book?" When informed that it was, she explained that she had joined the nearby Episcopal church some twenty years ago and had assumed that the necessary entry had been made upon our books. It was not long until we discovered that between fifty and sixty of our "members" had been for a number of years members of the Lutheran, the Reformed, the Pentecostal, and various other churches. Thus through a little investigating the Roll Revision Committee was spared the mental anguish of "taking their names off the church book." We might inject here the suggestion that all church secretaries and pastors have at least the common courtesy to notify the pastor or secretary of the individual's former church when receiving members by former relation. It will aid them in avoiding the situation which this particular church faced.

In our calling we also discovered that twenty-five or so of the "dead" members were just that! They were dead, not only figuratively but literally also—yet their names remained on the church roll with no notation made of their death. Then too there were those who had joined the church while children or young people living in the community and who in later years had moved to some distant state with no intentions of ever coming back and who did not even consider their church affiliation important enough to notify the secretary of their new addresses in order that pastoral letters or other literature might be sent to them.

Thus, between these three groups, well over a hundred men and women dropped themselves from the church roll. And what was true in that particular church is true in practically every other church which suffers from "Inflation of the roll." Remedy that condition before looking for further symptoms.

But what of those who still hold membership in the church, but who have shown no signs of interest for five, ten, fifteen, twenty years? What can we do about it? The answer is not easy, and the results will not be spectacular, but every possible means should be employed to win people back into the active fellowship of the church. It may be wise to appoint a special committee to review the list of inactive members and to decide how to approach each individual. Then one or two carefully chosen people should be asked to contact each inactive member or family, and try to discover the cause of inactivity, and to help remove that cause whenever possible. Here is a task for the laymen and women of the church, for they are more likely to succeed than is the pastor who has probably used every means of approach with which he is familiar. Then too, people are usually more ready to speak to someone of their own rather than of the professional level. And remember, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again."

But there are still bound to be those who, even after receiving two or three visits from church people, show no interest in becoming active. What then? Probably the best solution is to have another book in which the names of such people are kept, and here is where the ticklish job comes in for nobody wants to assume the responsibility of putting some brother or sister on the inactive book. Yet could not much of this hesitancy be avoided if we asked ourselves the question, "Who, after all, makes a man an active or an inactive member?" Not a committee of three or five; not the Official Board of the church; not the pastor. A man makes himself an active or an inactive member of the church by the interest or the lack of interest that he manifests in the church and its program. And if a man is not satisfied to be considered an inactive brother, he is the one to make the change!

Each church must decide for itself what constitutes active membership, but certainly it should involve more than contributing five dollars to the church treasury from time to time. But that is a topic for later consideration.

The Value Of A Small Christian College

The Ashland College Chapel Choir*The Field Secretary says --*

A CHRISTIAN EDUCATION is a vital necessity, if we would solve the problems of our day. Youth of today will soon be our future and leaders in every field of endeavor. So we concluded that, if they were properly instructed with an appreciation and regard for eternal values, they would be so taught in our Christian institutions. Jesus and the Bible have no time or place in most state and public schools. Brethren people make a greater investment than that which helps to maintain their only College.

Our Education Day Goal is $15,000.00. You will want a share.

THE SMALL CHRISTIAN college has a role to play in our nation that more than most of us realize. It is in a sense the "salt of the earth" because of, for it is one of the last strongholds against the non-religious Paganism is running rampant in our school systems on all levels. Institutions, with no emphasis upon religion, are a threat to our nation founded on Christian principles. Men and women are being taught in schools with little or no concern for religion and what it means. Therefore Christian colleges must be maintained to keep the only one who knows in the matter of education.

The Value of it is today. It is just as I am made to the fact that the religious training

I consider the small Christian college one of the greatest assets our nation has today. Mass production has moved into the field of education, but not with promising results. Where no value is placed upon the human soul, we produce educated monsters. At a small Christian college, such as Ashland, spiritual values are emphasized. As the years march by we graduates forget much of the subject matter we studied, but the great truths and philosophies of life given to us by Christian teachers remain vivid.

Our own Ashland College teaches us not only how to earn a living, but how to live.

The National Sunday School Association

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION SERVICE

LOOKING FORWARD to another conference year, the National Sunday School Association stands ready to continue its service of long standing to the Denomination, the Districts and local churches. The Standard of Excellence for Brethren Sunday Schools, Article VIII, Section 2, reads: "Delegates to some convention, denominational and inter-denominational. To acquaint the school with forward-looking plans and to unite it with a larger fellowship. City, County, and State Conferences or Conventions, which feature Sunday School work, or Brethren Institutes, State Conferences and the National Conference are usually informing and inspiring. Enrollment in the Young People's Camps will also count."

A series of Brethren Sunday School Institutes is being planned for this fall. It is hoped that they may be conducted by the middle of December in the following areas: one in the Southeast district; one in Pennsylvania in the Johnstown area; two in Ohio, one in the northern part and one in the Miami valley region; two in Indiana, one in the north and one in the south; and one in the Central district. Others will be conducted during the winter.

We shall co-operate with District boards and local churches in organizing these programs. The District boards will be asked to assist in publicizing the meetings. These are week-end projects with services on Saturday forenoon and afternoon, and on Sunday afternoon. To these meetings pastors, superintendents, officers, teachers, workers, youth and children leaders are cordially and urgently invited.

The National Sunday School Association will send out speakers and demonstrators with materials and equipment for almost every kind and department of Sunday School work. You will find elsewhere in this issue of The Brethren Evangelist a list of items which will be discussed, used, exhibited and demonstrated.

Dr. Leslie E. Lindower, who for a number of years has served so well as Educational Director for the Association, resigned from the office at the recent Conference because of the press of many duties in the College and Seminary. The Sunday School Association thereupon appointed the writer to the office. Communications to the Educational Director should therefore now be sent to

THE LAST DAYS OF JACOB AND JOSEPH

Genesis 48:8-22; 50:14-26

SOME OLD PEOPLE are cross and crabbed and do not care for children. But Jacob was glad to welcome the children of Joseph and to hold them in his arms. Jacob spent the last seventeen years of his life in the Land of Goshen, near to Joseph. Pharaoh was good to Jacob and his family for which he was thankful. When nearing the age of 150 years Jacob felt he was about to die and asked Joseph to bury his body in Canaan where his father and grandfather were buried. So Joseph brought his two sons for Jacob to bless. Because the blind Jacob sought to give the chief blessing to the younger Joseph sought to correct him. But Jacob insisted as he was guided of God. He may have remembered when he deceived Isaac his blind father.

Soon all of Jacob's sons came to receive their father's last word and blessing. By the Holy Spirit he prophesied the future of the twelve tribes of Israel as the descendants of his twelve sons. The greatest blessing of all was given to Judah because Christ should come through his tribe. Jacob died and his body was buried in Canaan, but his soul went to be with God Who gave it, and the angel Who wrestled with him. This Angel was Jesus Christ. There he found Abraham, Isaac and others who had gone on before him. This was a greater honor than to be welcomed and helped by the king of Egypt.

Joseph lived 54 years after Jacob's death. Jacob's sons mourned for him 70 days after his burial in Canaan. Then Joseph's brothers feared that he would now punish them for their sin. Again they sought his forgiveness, but Joseph assured them that they had been forgiven long ago. Joseph lived peaceably all his life. He saw the third generation of his second son's children. Joseph loved and taught his grandchildren. He may have taught them some rules like the following:

1. Mind your tongue! Don't let it speak hasty, cruel, unkind or wicked words.
2. Mind your eyes! Don't permit them to look upon wicked books, pictures or objects.
3. Mind your ears! Don't permit them to listen to wicked speeches, songs or words.
4. Mind your lips! Don't let tobacco, strong drink, or the food of the glutton defile them.
5. Mind your hands! Don't let them steal, fight or write wicked words.
6. Mind your feet! Don't let them walk in the steps of the wicked.

7. Mind your heart! Don't let the love of sin dwell in it. Don't give it to Satan, but let Jesus make it His throne.

Joseph has a wonderful ancestry and proved that he was worthy of such forefathers. Joseph is about the only person in the Bible of whom there is no bad record. This is because he let God guide him from the time he was a boy. He and Daniel were much alike and treated in much the same way in this world.

When Joseph faced the great future beyond this life he said to his brethren, "I die and God will surely visit you." He made them promise that they would take his body with them when God was ready for all Israel to leave Egypt for Canaan. His body was embalmed with fragrant spices to keep it from decaying. It was wrapped with strips of cloth and placed in a box. This is called a "mummy" and will keep for hundreds of years. The "mummy" of Pharaoh is in the British Museum. It is over 3,000 years old.

The souls of all who love God go immediately to be with Him. In the resurrection of the righteous He will bring each body to its own soul in a glorified state. A dying child said, "Lift me higher! Lift me higher!" The father lifted her up high in his arms. With failing strength she continued to say, "Lift me higher!" Soon she was lifted from her earthly father's trembling arms into the bosom of her Heavenly Father. On her grave they carved her name and the words, "Lifted Higher!" God wants us all to come closer to Him, and some day to see Him face to face.

HOW TO GET ALONG WITH OTHERS

Scripture Lesson: Matt. 7:1-5; 5:38-48

For The Leader

SO YOU WANT to get along with others? If you are a normal, healthy, human, young person, you do. Oh there are some self-righteous, conceited, self-important persons who haven't the least thought of the reaction they make on others. It doesn't matter to them if people like them or not because they are so blind in their own conceit that they think everybody loves them. Then there is the type which shies away from other people. We say they are bashful, and afraid. In between, are the rest of us. Some times we are brave when out with people, but at home we cry for fear we have said or done something which will ruin our standing with others. That includes most of us, and that's why this is such an important subject tonight. Sure, you want to get along with others. You want to be friends with them, and you want them to be your friends. Perhaps tonight we can refresh our minds on some things which will help us to get along with others.

DISCUSSION

1. THINK TWICE, AND THEN SAY LESS. It goes without question that all of us talk too much. It is well to remember that God gave us two ears and just one mouth—so that we could hear twice as much as we say. And it is well to remember that what we don't say, we don't have to worry about. But always there comes that impulse to blurt out whatever comes to our mind. These are often the things that get us into trouble. Most of us are more thankful for the things we didn't say, than for the things we have said. There are some experts at thinking who always seem to be able to make a quick decision and always say the right thing. For them it is all right. The rest of us must be more careful. Theoretically, for our own good, it would be well if we would have at least 24 hours in which to make up our mind as to what to say back to people. Did you ever have it happen that after you had slept over a particular conversation which ended up in grief for you, that the next day you could think of so much better an answer to give? Well, at that, we can cultivate a dignity of control which will keep us from blurt-ing out with the first thing which enters our minds.

2. THE EFFECT OF YOUR WORDS. Did you ever see a chatter box? Always running off at the mouth. Never a moment without a word to say, or an answer for everything you say. An old farmer once said that it was the empty wagon that rattled. Again, some people can talk more and say less. Which all leads up to this, that people get tired of hearing somebody who always is keeping the words coming. Give other people a chance to say something. Maybe you could learn something from them. Above all, try to keep in mind what your words will do to people. Every word you utter puts its mark on your hearers. And it's placed there in permanent ink. Your own ears are smarting yet from words which others have spoken to you. So be careful of the words you say to others if you want to get along with them.

3. JUDGE NOT. This is a common failing of many people. Recently we sat in a group of men of a certain community interest group. There were five of us present. A sixth had not yet arrived. For about fifteen minutes the conversation was about the weaknesses of the absent member. Just listening in we didn't have a very high opinion of the one who was yet to come. His arrival ceased the conversational subject. Prior to the close of the meeting one of the original number found it necessary to leave. Soon the conversation drifted to the person and character of the one who had just departed. Very little was left of his character. One of the most enthusiastic talkers was the one who had been late in coming. Well, it made you feel almost afraid to leave the group. Needless to say, the group lacked a lot of unity which was sadly needed for it to accomplish its purpose. We cannot judge our fellowmen without causing the same thing to fall upon us.

4. LOVE YOUR ENEMIES. Yes, it is easy to get along with those who like you, and whom you like. You do not have trouble with those who are your friends, who think alike, who act alike. That is easy. But Jesus says to try it with those who oppose you, yet, even your enemies. And did you ever think that it isn't your friends who often can help you most, but your enemies? When your enemy speaks to you he points out your real faults, and tells you where you made a mistake. Your friend will, on the other hand, try to make you feel good about your mistakes. So, listen when your enemy speaks to you; he'll tell you something, which if you'll take to heart, will transform your life. (Maybe you don't agree with this philosophy, and we admit it isn't foolproof, but it has its merits.) A young preacher states that it isn't things his friends tell him that help so much, but the darts of those who oppose him. If you want to get along with others, heed the "brutal" words of those you don't like.

5. PRAY FOR STRENGTH. Christian grace is a virtue. It is not acquired over night. It must be developed as any other skill. But it is that virtue which will enable you to get along with others. Pray much for strength to develop the ability to be at peace with others. Try to understand their problems, and the things which make them the way they are toward you. It will pay great dividends always.

QUESTIONS

1. Make a list of things you can do to help you get along with others.
2. Which of these things have a basic Christian principle as part of their makeup?
3. You've heard it said of certain people that they had no enemies. Is this actually true? Why should they make such a statement?
4. What do we mean by the "second mile?"

The spirit of this age is characterized by self-will, which brings agitation, accusation, separation and chaos.

HIS LAMP

By Annie Johnson Flint

His lamp am I
 To shine where He shall say.
 And lamps are not
 For sunny rooms of day
 But for dark places of the earth
 Where want and sin and crime have birth,
 Or for the murky twilight gray
 Where wandering stars have gone astray,
 Or where the light of faith grows dim
 And souls are groping after Him.
 And sometimes a light you find Clear shining through the night
 So bright you cannot see the lamp
 But only see the light,
 So may I shine, His love the flame
 That men may glorify His name.

"YE ARE THE LIGHT"

Scripture: Matt. 5:13-16; 2 Cor. 4:1-7

Hymn: "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning"

Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

THE SAVED are to testify to the lost by their holy lives. This is God's plan for keeping souls out of Hell. The dead cannot come back to earth to testify to the lost (Luke 16:27-31). The rich man could not testify to his lost brothers on earth. However, they had testimony for they had Moses and the prophets. Only saved folk can testify of salvation. Christians in all walks of life are to testify to the unsaved by their holy lives (1 Peter 1:15, 16; 2:11, 12; Matt. 5:16). The unsaved are to behold our good works and glorify God. The unsaved do not argue in the face of a holy life.

Jesus is the Light of the world (John 8:12). We as light reflect His light as the moon reflects the sun. And like the moon, we are either on the increase or the decrease. We are to testify by word of mouth as well as holiness of life (Phil. 2:15, 16). "Philip opened his mouth" (Acts 8:35) to one who needed light (30, 31). The Saviour told the man freed from demons how to let his light shine (Mark 5:19, 20). Every Christian can testify to the lost by word of mouth (1 Peter 3:15). We cannot make our light shine. We have to "let" it shine (2 Cor. 4:6, 7). It is our duty to bear witness of that Light as did John the Baptist (John 1:7-9). If the Light has dawned upon us we cannot but let it shine (John 1:5; Rom. 5:5). The soul winner shines now, and because he shines in time he shall shine forever (Dan. 12:3).

God's light has shined in our hearts in order that we may let it shine out. The Gideonites broke their pitchers so that the light could shine unhindered (Judges 7:20). This represents the breaking of self in all its forms. With God's glory filling the soul with the sense of His love and grace we do not want self to stand in the way of what God wants. The light often shines brightest when we face trouble, persecution, perplexity, even death. Then we exhibit the light which no calamity can darken. God does not want a trumpet testimony and darkness. He wants the testimony accompanied with light. He wants more than words. He wants testimony and life. Let the excellency of the power of God be seen through our lives.

As a lamp we are to be trimmed and filled with oil (the Holy Spirit). See Matt. 25:8; Eph. 5:18. We cannot live without light. It kills and it makes alive. The same ray of light that kills the germ cures and builds up living tissue. Since all light travels in straight lines the light of Christ shines only through straight lives. The nearer we live to Christ the more light and warmth we can radiate to others. The light of Christ can be transmitted only by a transparent Christian life.

On The Sunday School Lesson

by The Editor

Lesson for October 3, 1948

A LIBRARY OF RELIGIOUS LITERATURE

Lesson: Psalm 119:97-105; John 20:30-31; II Timothy 3:16-17

THE BIBLE is more than a "book"—it is a whole library, for it contains books on Theology, Doctrine, Drama, Poetry, History, Science, Prophecy, Morality, Home Training, and even Love Stories. It is a veritable library of the best of literature. It was the prime text book for the early schools of our nation; the greatest men in history depended on it for guidance. It still remains by all odds the "best seller" on the book counters of our nation. It has been translated into more languages than any other book in existence. It has been and will still remain the source of strength and helpfulness in every walk of life.

Our lesson today covers three portions of three books of the Bible—Psalms, the hymn book of the Israelites; the Gospel according to John, which was written by the Apostle to show that Jesus is the Son of God; and Paul's second letter to Timothy which he wrote to show the value of scripture to daily living.

In the first portion, the 119th Psalm, the longest of the Psalms, we find a Psalm which contains "sundry prayers, praises and professions of obedience." Written acrostically, it is easily remembered by those who are familiar with the Hebrew language for each portion is written to begin with each succeeding letter of the Hebrew alphabet. It is literature in its best form—poetry. It shows up in its true form in the Revised Version where it is printed in poetical verse. No better examples of poetical utterance can be found. It is fine religious literature, and worthy of earnest study.

Not only is it literature at its best—but instruction at its height. No one can read the Psalms conscientiously and not be changed in thought and manner of living.

When we turn to John 20:30-31, we find that we learn why John wrote his gospel. No book can really be called literature that has no purpose. The purpose of the author should be apparent to the reader. John draws a very definite conclusion in these two verses—impressing upon his readers in the very close of the book his reasons for so writing. In so doing he brings about a desire in his reader's minds to go back over the material to check upon what he has said. The language is simple; the theme great; and the reasoning logical. What more can one desire in a book?

When Paul writes to Timothy he opens his heart to him. But he does not forget to cite him to the Holy Scriptures that are "Profitable" reading, telling him that in them he will find doctrine, the basis of reproof, the grounds for correction, and the avenues of instruction in righteousness.

How great is our Bible! Literature? Yes, but more than literature. It is the Guide Book to life everlasting and a comfort to all believing hearts.

Ashland College News Letter

By Arthur Petit

ANOTHER RECORD enrollment is in prospect at Ashland College this year. With all expectations shattered, it now appears that the record of last year of 586 day students may be surpassed before enrollment closes September 27. As this is written, September 18, more than 570 have been enrolled and more were being checked almost hourly. An exact enrollment will be presented next week. A high point in the enrollment is the number of Brethren who are now attending Ashland. That number is now more than 100, perhaps the largest number ever to attend. Pennsylvania stands high on the list of states which have furnished members of the Freshman class, four from Johnstown and three from Masontown are outstanding.

The faculty reception this year was a beautiful affair. More than fifty faculty members and their wives received the hundreds of students formally at the Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Myers Memorial Department of Music. The music department has just been redecorated and served as a beautiful background for the opening social function of the year.

News From Our Churches

AN ENJOYABLE SUPPLY PASTORATE

It was the writer's good fortune and enjoyable experience to be accepted by the Brethren Church at Hagerstown, Maryland, for a three months' supply pastorate during the months of April, May and June, of this year. It had come to my knowledge that Elder N. V. Leatherman was closing his work at this place to take up the work at the Johnstown, Pennsylvania Second church, and so agreement was reached by both Brother Leatherman and myself, whereby the church would release Brother Leatherman from a six-months notice clause in his contract and accept me as a three months supply pastor. We arrived in Hagerstown on a Friday evening, and were made welcome and assisted in getting started to live in the parsonage at once. Because Brother Leatherman could not find a place to put his household goods in Johnstown he had agreed to leave them at Hagerstown and allow us to use them while we were there. So we found food in the ice box and beds waiting and needing only our own bedding to permit us to enjoy comfortable rest the very first night. On Saturday morning at about ten o'clock someone came running to the church, where we had gone on an errand, and, called that we were wanted at the parsonage for a wedding. With that out of the way we started on another errand and again we were summoned for the second wedding within a half hour after the first. At such a rate I became fearful that I might gain a name as a "marrying parson," but things "leveled off" a bit and only two more couples came to be married in the next eleven weeks, and then on the last Saturday of my stay with the good people at Hagerstown three couples presented themselves to be joined in marriage — which made quite a day for the dominie. And we were quite happy in making so many young people happy.

In assuming the pastorate at Hagerstown we experienced some trepidation because we had heard that they were pretty "starchy" there and expected their pastor to be rather dignified and scholarly. Well, if they had any such intentions or leanings they didn't tell this preacher about it, but accepted his style of preaching and pulpit mannerisms with great patience and forbearance. Here I found a group of Brethren who were whole-souled and loyal in their support of their pastorate, and generous in their support of the auxiliaries of the denomination. The W. M. S. could have a larger support from the women of the church, but, as at all places those who are members show a commendable zeal for the projects and plans of the organization. A large Men's Brotherhood holds regular and interesting meetings each month. A very fine arrangement of the officers of the Bible School divides responsibility for the smooth running and success of that helpmeet of the church. Capable teachers present the Lesson to all the departments of the Bible School each Sunday.

On taking up the work with these Brethren we found them in the midst of a remodeling and redecorating program, with all services being held in the Sunday School Assembly room. New carpet was being laid as we left the charge, and with Lectern and Reading Desk being installed in the pulpit, and with quietly beautiful and restfully tinted walls they now have a beautiful sanctuary in which to worship. And with a new preacher—Rev. James Ault—to lead them, the work of this strong and established congregation, should go forward to larger and better things in the days to come.

The writer assumed the pastorate of the Linwood, Maryland congregation on July 1st, and has moved into the commodious parsonage provided by these good people. What with all city conveniences—except gas (and this lack supplied by ample electric current)—we find ourselves most comfortably domiciled, with the church just across the spacious church-yard. Surrounded by ample southern plantations on every side, we believe God has given us one of His finest vineyards to cultivate. We solicit the prayers of the saints that we shall be given strength and wisdom to care for the souls entrusted to our care in this attractive location. May God have all His people under His watch-care is our prayer.

Dyoll Belote.

LOST CREEK, KENTUCKY

We praise the Lord for a good year in the work here. The year has seen some real progress in different ways. We feel that you will be glad to know about it.

First for the year a very remarkable revival service whose influence has carried right on to the present time.

Next a divine, supernatural healing. Last May the writer was afflicted with heart trouble. First in prayer we committed the matter to the Lord. The trouble continued. Two doctors were consulted. We continued to grow worse. We called for two anointing services, quit the medicine, and now today we rate ourselves as a well man, can climb the hills as of yore. We praise the Lord for it all.

Then three great blessings came along, a good well running bus to take the place of the older one just about out, and the building of the chapel at Stacey. These both have been reported. Then about the same time a cottage for the workers at Haddix was built, the money for the same supplied by the W. M. S. This nice, six room cottage means much to the work there.

Well all these things have given an added impetus to the work. It all tends to the more fully established the work in these Mountains. It means progress all along the line, and the expenditure of money, life, and energy is bearing fruit. We praise the Lord for it all.

May we here remind you that in all this progress, Riverside is the hub of it. You know if the hub is all right the rest of the wheel is able to work. Satan does not like the message of Riverside. He has tried to stop it a different times and ways. This last summer he got the report going around that Riverside was closing down. This was doubtless caused by the dilapidated condition of the gymnasium here. Riverside needs a gymnasium.

We are happy to tell you that on the 5th, there arrived here five Brethren from Nappanee, Indiana, Rev. J. Milton Bowman, Brother and Sister Hossler and Brother and Sister Parcell. Brother Hossler came to see the gymnasium situation, so that he could the more wisely plan the new building to be erected. Brother Bowman preached a mighty good sormon for us while here. The only place we now have for social activities, and with so large a group as this we must have them, is the dining room, which is now way too small, and also so hard on the furniture, etc. We praise the Lord for their help.

School opened the 6th, with the largest attendance we have had for many years, if ever. The chapel and dining room is now too small. Attendance in the dormitories has almost doubled. This increased attendance made it necessary for us to purchase 25 new cots and mattresses, and chairs, and other things. We saw no other way to do, as we had prayed for the young folks to come here who would be interested in our message, and here they came. Will you please pray that the Lord will enable us to meet those bills? Thank you.

Now, folks often ask us what we need, and so often on the spot we do not think of the needs. May we here list some of them: For the kitchen, inlaid linoleum because of its lasting qualities as the other kind only last just a short time under the treading of the workers there; then we need a potato pealer. For the dormitories, a davenport, and floor lamps. For the high school, lockers and typewriters. For the office, a small safe and adding machine. Play ground equipment. A room equipped for the teachers so that the rooms at the dormitory may be given to the girls we have had to turn away, and also large cooking utensils, 16 qts. Will you join us in prayer for these things?

We also praise the Lord for the help needed, except a music teacher. Will you help us pray a good music teacher here? The workers follow: Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Keck, Miss Stella Hartford, Mrs. Louetta Landrum, Miss Stevenson, Miss Hunter, Mr. Hall, and the Drushals. These are simply trusting the Lord for their going, and a better group of workers you will seldom meet. We Praise the Lord for them all.

We did enjoy meeting old friends, and the new ones too, at General Conference. Some have passed on, and yet the Lord is keeping some of us here to help carry on. Those who have passed on now realize what we only see by faith. Our only desire here is that we may be in the will of the Lord and do it. With this almost doubled attendance responsibilities have also increased. Please pray for us that His will be done.

G. E. Drushal.

BRUSH VALLEY, PENNSYLVANIA

The writer closed his pastorate at Brush Valley on the 29th of August. I went to Brush Valley on the 5th of March, 1944, having been called into the ministry from the Third Brethren Church of Johnstown in February, 1944. During my stay at this church 64 were baptized, 62 were received into membership; 2 are awaiting membership; 3 were received into membership by former baptism; making a total of 65 added to the church. All 64 were baptized in the Allegheny River. A more faithful group to attend all services cannot be found. The percentage of attendance at all services is about 85%. Here is a group that shows every kindness possible. Many times during the four and a half years the pastor and family received gifts from the church and from individual members of the church. May God continue to pour out His blessings upon this church. May God watch over the sick and all those who are unable to attend the services. It is the prayer of the writer that his successor, Rev. Paul Naff, may have the greatest of success in this field of the Lord's work.

NORTH VANDERGRIFF, PENNSYLVANIA

The writer closed his pastorate here in conjunction with the Brush Valley church on the 29th of August, 1948, having gone to Vandergrift the first Sunday of September, 1944. During my stay at this church 26 were baptized with 21 of these being received into membership. Even though this is not one of our large churches, here was a very faithful group in every way. The average attendance at all services was about 72%. This group was also very kind to the pastor and family during the four years. Many gifts were received from the church and also from individual members of the church. May God continue to richly bless this church in all its efforts for the up-building of God's Kingdom. Rev. Naff will also serve this church in conjunction with Brush Valley. May you, Rev. Naff, have the greatest of success in these fields of God's work.

In conjunction with serving these two churches, the writer also taught Science in the high school in Vandergrift and also received his Master's Degree in Education from the University of Pittsburgh.

BERLIN, PENNA., FIRST BRETHREN CHURCH

The writer began his pastorate here September 1, 1948. Much work was done to get the parsonage in good order for our coming; the good women of the church cleaned the house from attic to cellar; 9 men were on deck when the moving van arrived to help place the furniture in the house. Four boys were baptized in the church baptistry last Wednesday evening, September 8, 1948. The following Sunday 7 were received into membership, 3 having been baptized at Camp Juniata. Friday evening, September 10th, a reception was held in the church social room for the pastor and family. About 125 were in attendance. Seven of the pastors of Berlin and community were present to speak a few words and to also give us a cordial welcome. After the program refreshments were served. I can truly say that the pastor and family thinks Berlin is a beautiful place to live and will enjoy working with these fine people. We ask for your prayers as we begin our work in this field, that God's name might be glorified.

Percy C. Miller.

Travels

A short vacation was much enjoyed over Labor Day. Accompanied by Mrs. Riddle, we spent a few days resting at Shipshewana and at Syracuse Lakes. We shared in the Smoker family dinner on Labor Day at their comfortable lake cottage. Besides the fellowship with fine Christian families, the E. L. Miller cottage, with a refrigerator full of good things to eat, was turned over to us for a few days. This being our first vacation in over two years, it was something to write about.

Following this, we were dated near Walkerton, Indiana, where we met Miss Ruth H. Huey, a Chinese girl. Her sponsor is Mrs. Alta Walters, a member of our North Liberty church. This charming, talented young lady wants to enter Ashland College when her last year of high school is completed. It is her ambition to become a medical doctor and then return to her own people, to render a great service.

One of the unusual experiences of this month has been the planning and arranging for the sailing of the Bylers to South America on October 8th from New York. Also, we are now arranging for the return of Miss Kugler to Argentina about December 3rd. With all this has been the scheduling of speakers for our Educational Day program among many churches. A goodly number of churches are being contacted this year who have not been heretofore.

September 17th I attended and served as chairman for the annual business meeting in Columbus for the Co-operative Brethren Church. Reports were given and plans made for the coming year.

September 19th—It was a joy to speak in the Milford, Indiana, pulpit where Dr. W. I. Duker is the pastor.

In the evening, I spoke at Warsaw to another good audience with Rev. Brant as pastor. We also, at the same service, ordained a deacon and deaconess. Both of these churches are carrying on a good, substantial program. Both are good supporters of our institution.

September 26th—I was at Pittsburgh in the newly decorated church and parsonage with the Robinsons in charge. In the evening I was greeted with a very good audience at Cameron, West Virginia, where the Baers live. This man Baer, is not only a preacher but is taking the place of a contractor in the completion of their church. Our Board has assisted in this work. Many business people in Cameron are loud in their praise for the efforts of Brother and Sister Baer and the new church. Brethren—let us pray for a great year and for many souls to be saved.

E. M. Riddle, Field Secretary.

The famine situation in South India is so bad that it takes precedence over the refugee problem. Ten million people have not had yet this year, and will not have for the rest of the year, one full meal a day. Relief headquarters are being set up in Madras and supplies are being sent to distribution centers.

The Time Is Now

by John F. Locke

The Archbishop of York preached a sermon in August, 1948 in which he declared that we are living in the period described as "the time of the end." Many are gloomy over the imminent possibility of the third world war. The sabotage of the peace so costly won is being openly and frankly discussed. Many young people are frankly discouraged about the prospect that life holds for them.

A young man sought out a great teacher and Christian leader several years ago and asked him a serious and sober question, "Should a man marry and rear children in such a world as this?" He was told that the world would be upset for as long a time as he could hope to live. Now the young man lives with his wife and child in China. They are Christian Missionaries. The time is now to live, to be truly Christian by witnessing. We cannot, dare not, wait for a better world or a more perfect one. So far as we are concerned this confused world is all we are going to have. There couldn't be a better world to be alive in and at work in for the Kingdom of God. For our kind of world with all its problems is the kind Christianity began in. Like the famed remark of B'rer Rabbit "Born and bred in the briar patch," one sees that Christianity was, and is designed to succeed in a time like this.

Let's take a quick look at some great missionary opportunities of today. Japan has a population half the size of the United States, trying to live in an area the size of California—80,000,000 souls trying to survive physically. They are constantly on the verge of starvation. The atomic bomb didn't end the war. General MacArthur has pointed out they were starving. Now, we are not being Christian if we let them starve physically. Christian Japanese have been through a veritable Hell for their faith. Today they plead for missionaries rather than food. Japan is today a spiritual vacuum. We can either fill it with Christianity or it will be filled with Communism. That is the judgment of MacArthur who asked for 1,000 Protestant missionaries and all Protestantism has sent him is a few more than half that number. The Japanese actually pay to hear an evangelist preach the gospel and convict them of their sins. These starving people pay eight yen a copy for New Testaments and bought 1,200,000 last year. Dr. Herrick B. Young talked with a native pastor on his recent trip. What does this Christian leader in Nagoya ask for? Not food, as we would suppose, but books, nails to build his chapel, and a missionary to help him! That is the spirit of Christian Japan. What are we going to do about it?

INDIA

In India the government is still unsettled. The population here has doubled in the last 400 years. A man went out to India as a missionary a few years ago and found that 81 out of every 100 babies died before the age of six. Sacred cows wandered around but were not milked or ever eaten by the starving people. What to do about it? He had come to heal, to preach and to do all manner of good work for Christ's sake. He observed that the poor people of India had goats for pets, so he introduced a strain of milk goats. T. B. is not transmitted by goats. From 1935 to 1945 the infant mortality fell from 81% to 45% in his section of India. He put on goat fairs with evangelistic preaching in a tent. People would ask him why he was so interested in reducing infant mortality and he would tell them about Jesus and how he was following in His footsteps.

In India there is now an openmindedness to the Gospel on the part of many Indians. In the recent massacre of thousands of Hindus and Moslems the minority of Christians gave relief to both sides regardless of their faith. Now many will listen to what the Christians have to say. They were neutrals, but active for Christ.

AFRICA

In Africa the war has brought interest and development to Africa. The old Dark Continent is changing vigorously in these days. In many sections the serious contest is now between Christianity and Islam. Some radiant Christians have come from Africa.

In England we are told that most of the people are pagan. And France has been that way for a long time since the French Revolution. But a hall in Paris was crowded recently when it was advertised that the gospel would be preached. Mankind in Europe and in China, India, Japan, South America is open to the gospel as it hasn't been for the last 1400 years. Will we grasp the opportunity to speak for Christ while so much of humanity is open and receptive?

In England there is wide interest in C. S. Lewis' books. This ex-atheist is a frank apologist for the Christian faith. It is becoming "intellectually respectable" to be interested in Christianity in Britain and the U. S. The retreat from Christianity began with the intellectualists, the return may begin with them. In this country the appalling rise of mental disease and divers problems related to adjustment to life have made the psychiatrists much sought after and they have, in many instances, become interested in the gospel when some colleague has told them of it. In every area of life and in every area of the world the need is witnessing for Christ.

COMMUNISM

Communism is now a crusading religion. Purporting to offer brotherhood of man and plenty for all, it has now become Christianity's rival. Are we going to abandon all of East Asia to the Communists? We cannot wait, the time is now. "Who is my neighbor?" "He that showed mercy." Our Christian directive is to go and do likewise. To show mercy we shall have to send food and spiritual bread for the calls are coming from all over the earth for us to come over and help them.

The burden of evangelism lies upon us. The weight of Christian witness the world around lies upon American Protestant Christians. We alone can carry the burden. Weakened and wasted Europe certainly cannot. We haven't begun to tap the resources of the churches in men and money in this country. The average church of our own denomination spends most of its income on making itself comfortable and paying for the pastoral care it enjoys. We are living on a sub-Christian level when our highest expression of Christian interest is the care of the church property and the payment of the pastor's salary. There is a world of lost and dying people to be reached with the gospel message and program.

American Christianity is too superficial. We could do far more than we are doing to fulfill the great commission of our Lord to Go and Teach and make disciples. "Some believe in God but don't trust Him." Here we have the amazing good news that the Eternal God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son to become incarnate in the Virgin Mary and die for our sins on the Cross of Calvary and that He rose from the dead . . . It is amazing good news that he came not to condemn the world but that the world through him might be saved. Do we really believe that enough to give our all to it? As ministers and laymen do we mean it enough to encourage our comfortable, middle-class church life to face up to the challenge of our day and pay the price in money and life? As we attempt great things for God He will fulfill our expectation.

Recently, I listened to the most eminent historian of Christianity today, Dr. Kenneth Scott Latourette, recount the story of William Carey. He told how this shoe cobbler gathered information on the religious state of the world and wrote a pamphlet on "THE OBLIGATION OF CHRISTIANS TO GIVE THE GOSPEL TO THE HEATHEN." He preached it to his fellow Baptists and some told him to "sit down, young man, when God wants the heathen converted he will do it without your help or mine." It was a discouraging time but Carey went to India, to Serampore where he put the language of the scriptures into the languages of the East. He wrote home that all Protestants ought to come together to plan to give the gospel to the entire world. Right then the Napoleonic wars were on! They wrote back and told him his idea was fine, but the times were not propitious. But God didn't disappoint William Carey. He expected and attempted great things for God and God rewarded him. Recently the great World Council of Churches meeting in Holland was aimed at realization of the Great Commission. The International Missionary Council meets every ten years to plan cooperatively to do the work of evangelization just as Carey suggested. Carey may seem to have been ahead of his time but he used the only time he had! The story of Carey reminds us that this is not the first time the world has been discouraging. But whenever the church has ventured out on its real business God has always fulfilled the promise and given more than we could ask or think.

For the Christian who is missionary minded the times are not gloomy but bright with opportunity. Latin America, Asia, Africa, Japan, India, Europe, and our pagan hosts at home challenge our best efforts. The next time you sit in your attractive church and sing the words

"Take my silver and my gold
Not a mite would I withhold, etc."

Think about them! Think about them when you listen to and observe the time and money and effort squandered on trivial and superficial alleged "Christian" activities at home. Let's get on with the main business of the Great Commission for the time is now!

Miss Kugler In U. S. A.

Miss Louisa Kugler, who came to our continent by plane for our General Conference, has since been visiting churches and Sisterhood groups. Mrs. Milton Bowman has very largely arranged for her trips. A number of women have acted as chauffeurs for Miss Kugler. She has spoken in many churches in Indiana and Ohio and will appear in the Midwest Conference. Also, she will appear in churches of Iowa and Illinois before going to Pennsylvania, Maryland, and the Virginia districts. She has been wonderfully received and has created a greater enthusiasm for our mission program in South America. She will return to her country December 3rd.

Well now, all you have to do is send $1.00 to Brethren Youth, Inc. at Ashland College, Ashland, Ohio, and you will receive a whole year's subscription.

Don't miss it! You'll be surprised at what you see, and so will we.

1948 Thanksgiving Offering

In a recent penetrating article in this paper, Dr. W. I. Duker carefully pointed out the fact that there are some things which need not be "sold" to Christians. It is not the purpose of this article, therefore, to try to increase interest in missions, for in recent months the Brethren church has shown a tremendous upsurge of interest in missions. Rather, you are invited to consider a few of the objectives the Missionary Board has before its homeland program. In this way you can better evaluate the stewardship of the funds which you so generously give.

The Goal—The Board is asking the church this year for a $36,000 Thanksgiving Offering. The contributions have been so generous in the past, but to expand its program the request is made for an average expansion in gifts of about $1.00 per member.

Strengthening — The strengthening of established churches is one of the ways in which the Missionary Board serves the church. Last year substantial sums were used in this program.

New Churches—The Mission Board has helped many Brethren congregations in the erection of their church buildings. It will continue to do this under a plan to be announced soon.

Mission Points—A number of the home mission points receive support from the Board. These will be continued and the work expanded as your contributions permit.

New Mission Points—Many members of the Board are eager to see a new home mission field established soon. An offering of $36,000 will bring this nearer realization.

During this Thanksgiving period the needs of the homeland are emphasized. Has your church been of strength and succor to you in the past year? Your Thanksgiving offering will enable you to extend the influence of your church in gratitude for what you have already received from the hand of God.

The goal of $36,000 is based upon the needs of the present and the dreams of faith for the future. From time to time, these hopes and plans will be shared with you through these pages. Shall the Brethren Church continue its forward march? The answer will be found in every congregation of the brotherhood.

Have you been thrilled by recent manifestations of an urgency for moving out in church service? More young people are devoting their lives to the work of Christ through the church. One of the most thrilling events in a decade has been the sending out of the Bylers. One man writes: "I think this sending of missionaries from our church at the present time is one of the greatest awakenings we have had for a long time. I can see people from every church taking on new life and courage in this endeavor."

The Missionary Board is the servant of the church, and yet at the same time you have given it the responsibility of leading out into the new opportunities of this new day. It is the prayer of the Board that it may continually serve the best interests of the church, that the "new life and courage" permeating every congregation may yield a great harvest for the Master.

The Thanksgiving Offering At Work

Muncie, Indiana Brethren Church

The completion of the Muncie, Indiana church is near at hand. The first unit was built about twelve years ago. With it, the old church was moved to the rear of the lot and since then the congregation has carried on their program.

Under the direction of Rev. E. D. Burnworth, as pastor, and some very capable church leaders, they have unitedly gone forward in the building program. They will reach their goal in a very short time.

It is the desire of the pastor that they may arrange the dedicatory services and the coming of the new pastor at the same date.

Rev. and Mrs. Chester Zimmerman of Johnstown Third Brethren Church will take over the leadership of this church some time near the beginning of the new year.

Brethren — our Thanksgiving offering for Home Missions helps in such work. Pictures of other churches will appear in these columns from month to month. A new church is a distinct contribution to the whole program of the denomination.

First Unit of the Washington, D. C. Brethren Church

The Washington Brethren Church was organized in April of 1942 under the leadership of Mr. T. C. Lyon who has served as the moderator since that time. Rev. J. Ray Klingensmith helped to get the work started by giving what time he could to visiting, preaching, and counseling, until the first of November. Rev. Clarence Fairbanks assumed the responsibilities of the pastorate in November, 1942, and has served in that capacity to the present time.

In the fall of 1946, we purchased a plot of ground, 119 feet by 265 feet, on Branch Avenue at Q Street, S. E. for $7500, which was paid out of the money that has been accumulated in the Building Fund. This investment has proved to be a very wise one since the neighborhood has been in the process of development and has increased substantially in value. We have enough ground on which to construct our church and in addition we will have enough left to construct an educational building and a parsonage when they are needed.

Joseph Blair was engaged to draw the plans for the church shortly after the purchase of the ground. We had planned at the time to construct the entire edifice, but costs of construction have risen so rapidly that we are able to build only the first unit, which should be completed within the next two months, at a cost of a little over $50,000.

Akron, Ohio—

Another card says, "On September 12th, a father and son were baptized. September 19th, a man of about forty-five years of age was baptized. On the following Sunday, a mother and her two sons." A total of six since dedication, which was the last Sunday in August. Rev. J. G. Dodds is the pastor. He is spending a few days in the midwest and will be a speaker at the conference in Mulvane. He also states—"When I return six others will be baptized."

Fremont, Ohio—

A card from our pastor, George S. Hagenbuch, says—"Seven souls confessed Christ as Lord recently. All are adults. Six were baptized and received into the church. The other one is now ready to do likewise. They are sincere and real workers for the Lord. Rejoice with us. The Lord has been good to us."

We like such reports. The State and General Boards both give some help to this congregation. The first reason for missionary endeavor is to see souls saved.

Udell, Iowa—

The Rev. W. R. Deeter is praising the Lord for victories won at his church in the past few weeks. He reports 92 people in an evening service last Sunday. They have raised funds for residing their church and also for repairs and painting on the tower. They are planning for a new oil furnace, also.

Travelogue

The past year we have had the privilege of being in Chicago where I took some missionary courses at Moody Bible Institute. Upon the completion of the term, the Mission Board requested that we plan an itinerary of visits among Brethren churches, that we might become better acquainted with the people and speak to them about missionary work of the church. Since the seventh of August, it has been a real pleasure to spend nearly all our time among our Brethren in Indiana and Ohio. Time limited us to these areas. We do regret that it has been necessary to reject invitations to many other churches. Here, we shall report our activities and express our gratitude for the fine reception we received everywhere we traveled.

Sunday, August 8th—We went to Warsaw where we took part in their worship service at the 9:30 hour. The pastor, Woodrow Brant, was at the Brethren Home in Flora, giving his services so that the Scotts might have a vacation. We enjoyed our first visit to this church and only regret that it was impossible to remain and become better acquainted with the people. However, a service was awaiting our arrival in Goshen; and there, during the worship hour, we had fine fellowship with Brother Ronk and his people. A goodly number of Prayer Partners were enlisted from this church and a good offering was received.

In the evening our gathering was in a lovely little country church at North Liberty. Flannelgraph was presented to the children, in addition to the regular preaching. The people presented a fine missionary offering; the money being used for the purchasing of our outfit and equipment.

During the interim between programs, we made our home in Elkhart with Jane's parents, Rev. and Mrs. King.

Friday, August 13th—We had a very pleasant time and fellowship in the Gilmer home at Huntington. This is a mission church and gave a nice response to our service.

Saturday, after some visiting with Brother Edgar Berkshire, we had time for devotions with the people of the Brethren Home. The Scotts served watermelon to the entire group and we made a tour through the building. Those who were able, were at the church service in Flora the next morning.

During the Sunday School hour, I spent a bit of time with the Brethren at the Burlington Church. Their new organ had just been installed and was to be dedicated that evening. During the worship hour, we were together with the Flora people and enjoyed an inspirational service with them.

In the evening, we journeyed to Loree Church. Brother Higgins entertained us in a fine way. This church is in the midst of a remodeling program.

Monday, August 16th—A lovely banquet was served by the Mexico ladies to the Southern Indiana laymen's group. About 100 men had a fine meeting and much enthusiasm was expressed in a missionary project. Here is where the station wagon project for South America really had its start. Thanks to these men for their interest.

Tuesday, August 17th—We had fellowship with friends in and around Mexico and Corinth, where Jane lived for a while. Carl Fisher of the Mexico congregation offered us their home. The hospitality we have been extended everywhere has been a real joy for us.

Wednesday, August 18th—It was a nice meeting with the Peru congregation and Brother Carrithers and his family. An exceptionally good offering was presented from this group.

Saturday, August 21st—At Williamstown, Ohio, there was a Youth Rally with a very enthusiastic group of young people. The S. M. M. and W. M. S. furnished the fine food throughout the day. Devotions, singing, a musical program, a recreational program, as well as several class sessions were the order of the day. Some instruction on the use of flannelgraph materials was given as well as a session of our missionary work in South America. A project was decided to furnish the mimeograph machine for the field.

In the evening another message was presented and the service closed with a candle-light and consecration period. The time spent here will long be remembered as we think of Brethren Youth in action in the homeland. Charles Munson directed the rally.

Sunday, August 22nd—It was our happy privilege to worship with the Ashland congregation again. We renewed many acquaintances and were pleased with the response.

In the evening a service was held with the Mansfield people. Though they are without a pastor, they continue with all the regular worship services.

Monday, August 23rd—Of course beginning today we were at the Conference all week. Especially inspirational to us was the Brethren Youth group. We feel much encouraged with the prospect of many new missionary recruits and the interest they are showing. It is certainly the responsibility of US ALL to encourage and strengthen and help them in every way possible. Let us pray for them daily. We appreciate too, the many words of happiness expressed by friends concerning our going to South America. We are pleased to know that so many are joining ranks as Prayer Partners in Missionary Endeavor.

The following week was spent in happy fellowship with my family in a reunion in West Virginia.

Immediately upon our return to Indiana, a trip was made to Chicago to consult with the Argentine Consul concerning the visa. A cablegram was sent requesting an answer.

Rather than remain inactive as we awaited the reply, we left at the end of the week for southern Indiana and Ohio, arranging more services. Our sister, June Byler, journeyed with us and took part in all the services following.

Sunday, September 12th—I went to Dayton for the S. S. hour, while the ladies remained in West Alexandria. We were all in the worship service there and heard Brother Garland from Jones Mills, Pennsylvania, present the message. This was the scene of our first pastorate, so we enjoyed the fellowship of many friends during the dinner in the church basement. A great many improvements in appearance were noted with appreciation.

In the evening, a service was held in New Lebanon for the W. M. S. public service. Friends from Gratis and West Alexandria were present. Clayton Berkshire and his family entertained us at the parsonage.

Tuesday, September 14th—We drove to Oakville, Indiana, for a meeting. Jane's family lived there while she was in high school, so again we were among old friends. A very good attendance was present for this week night service, especially since it was planned on short notice. There is no pastor at present, since they are awaiting the arrival of Brother Henry Bates.

Wednesday, September 15th—In the evening a fine service was held at Hillcrest Brethren in Dayton. They were about to launch a "Loyalty Week Program" and this meeting was very well attended. The group was responsive to the prayer appeal and we fully enjoyed the fellowship with the people and Brother Whetstone.

Thursday, September 16th—We went to Ashland and met some of the young people at the college. The next two days were spent with friends and relatives near Smithville in Wayne County, Ohio.

Saturday, September 18th—In the evening we were entertained by the Drushal's in Wooster and thoroughly enjoyed a time of Christian fellowship. Future mission plans were discussed at length and we were pleased with the enthusiasm and efficiency of Brother Drushal.

Sunday, September 19th—In the morning we had a wonderful service with the Smithville folks and their pastor, Brother Vernon Grisso. The meeting was an inspiration to us all. The people had decided to furnish the folding organ that is needed in Argentina. Their enthusiasm was so large that they brought in enough to buy exactly three organs, with a few cents left over!

That evening we were in the Louisville Church with our brother, John Byler. They were in the midst of their revival meeting, but they graciously allowed us to conduct the service. This church will lend partial support to June when she is on the field. Fine hospitality was given us in every way here.

Tuesday, September 21st—We went back to Elkhart (June remained in Louisville) to await a further reply on the visa.

On Wednesday morning the wonderful news came that permission was received for us to enter Argentina. We went to Chicago to get the visa and were informed that it is a "permanent" permit. That means we can come and go for the rest of our lives!

We are exceedingly thankful to the Lord for this answer to our prayers. Our grateful thanks also, to all our Prayer Partners who have been faithful and earnest in their petitions for this answer.

The rest of the week was spent in making purchases and meeting with the purchasing committee of the Mission Board. Brothers Studebaker and E. E. Miller served as the committee.

Sunday, September 26th—We were in New Paris and enjoyed wonderful music, a lovely dinner, and homecoming services with words of inspiration from Brother Rench, Willis Ronk, and Brother Stewart.

We had a meeting with the young people in Nappanee at 5:30, and also an evening worship in the new church where Brother Milton Bowman is pastor. It was a full day of happy service.

Monday & Tuesday, Sept. 28-29th—Much credit goes to our Brother Everett Miller of New Paris for his hard work and persistent efforts to get all the equipment packed and boxed, and sent to the express office in time to reach the boat two days before sailing. He finished everything in two days with the help of L. King and Charles Smith of Elkhart. A number of the employees of the Smoker Lumber Co. left their regular work and helped with the boxing. It was a job that was done under constant pressure for time and yet it is all finished at this writing. Mrs. Miller furnished lovely meals as we worked together.

Next Sunday, October 3rd, we shall have services in Elkhart and South Bend. Monday morning we shall leave for New York City. Friday evening, October 8th, at 5:00 P. M. we shall sail for Argentina.

We request your continued and constant prayers in our behalf as we go and anticipate a happy term of service with our Brethren in Argentina. Our sincere thanks again for the hospitality, encouragement, and inspiration we have received in the churches where we have been.

WOULD YOU LIKE to be a prayer partner of Jane and Rob Byler in their great venture in South America? They are going in the strength which God gives them, and for this they urge that you pray with them, and they promise to pray for you and the interests of the church in the homeland.

In your prayers for them remember to thank God that someone presented the plan of salvation to us and that we have been called to share this salvation with others. Pray, too, for God to increase our missionary vision and interest and to call forth other young folks who can carry the message to those who have not heard. Pray for the guidance and protection of each of the missionaries on the foreign field, and pray for the people whom the Bylers will meet there—that the Lord may prepare their hearts to receive His Word.

If you would like to be a Prayer Partner of the Bylers, send your name and address to

Miss Janet King
1101 Middlebury St.

She will forward the names to Mr. and Mrs. Byler, and they will try to send news letters from Argentina to you occasionally.

A MISSIONARY DAY

The Missionary Office at Ashland never experienced a day like September 30th. It was a day of rejoicing and fellowship.

The Rev. and Mrs. Robert O. Byler and daughter, Susan, Miss June Byler, Miss Louisa Kugler all met for final consultation and plans, for insurance and other minor details with the office force.

Brother and Sister Byler and daughter will leave New York City October 8th on the S. S. Brazil bound for Cordoba, Argentina, South America. Miss June Byler will sail the early part of January. In the meantime she will make a short visit with her parents in Sheffield, Illinois, and later take a course in Child Evangelism in Philadelphia.

(Note—Miss Byler will be glad to visit a limited number of churches the latter part of November and during December. Write the Missionary Board.)

Miss Kugler will be attending the Midwest Conference and churches in Iowa and Illinois. Following this trip she will be escorted through Pennsylvania, Maryland, and Virginia districts by Mrs. C. Y. Gilmer of Huntington, Indiana.

Brethren and friends—Pray every day for your missionaries, for their protection, for divine leadership, and for health and strength, that many souls may be won to our precious Lord.

E. M. Riddle, Field Secretary.

The Great Commission Still Stands

by Evangelist C. C. Grisso

"And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world. Amen."

It would be interesting to know how many sermons have been preached and how many articles have been written from the above verses, and yet withal we have given it so little attention. I believe the time has come for the whole church to streamline this, the watchword of our Christian faith, and make it fit into its proper place in the days through which we are passing.

Sixty years ago the Student Volunteer Movement adopted a slogan, "The Evangelization of the World in this Generation." They believed it could be realized. Indeed, it was a startling presentation of the responsibility of the whole church to give every individual in the whole world an opportunity to know Christ, and that within a single generation. If that could have been accomplished sixty years ago, it certainly could be in a time like this with our rapid transportation and marvelous methods of communication. The Bible has been translated into a thousand languages and practically every nation under the sun has been opened to evangelism. Truly, there is before the church an open door. Will we yet recognize our tremendous responsibility to a lost world, and with it understand God's program for its evangelization? This whole program is set forth in five great outstanding doctrines in this, our Lord's "Great Commission."

FIRST, THE DOCTRINE OF THE TRINITY. Certainly we do a great injustice to these verses to deny that it teaches the doctrine of the Triune God. Here the three persons are mentioned in the baptismal formula.

SECOND, THE DOCTRINE OF THE DEITY OF OUR LORD. "All power is given unto Me." Only He who is God incarnate could make a statement with such proportions. St. Paul declares Him (Christ) to be God, manifest in the flesh. John says, "The same was in the beginning with God, and all things were made by Him." Thus our commission is from God Himself.

THIRD, THE MISSION OF THE CHURCH.

FOURTH, THE DIVINE PLAN FOR ADMINISTERING CHRISTIAN BAPTISM OR THE INITIATORY RITE INTO THE CHURCH.

FIFTH, THE DOCTRINE OF THE CONSUMMATION

OF THE AGE. The whole plan and program of the church in this age will reach its climax and fulfill its purpose in "the consummation of the age," in the personal, visible return of our glorious adorable Lord, when He comes to "make up His jewels," when He shall receive to Himself His own. It is only when this truth grips us that we have come to possess a true philosophy of life.

It is the purpose of this message to deal more particularly with the third of the above statements, namely, The Church's Divine Commission. Here is to be found our marching orders. Here is set forth one supreme task—the evangelization of the world. We read recently an article dealing with "The Failing Church." Is the church failing? No, the church our Lord built is not a failing, dying church, but rather a prevailing conquering church. Our Lord had primarily one purpose of coming into the world, and that was to die; to shed His blood. Likewise the church has one mission; and that is to evangelize the world. Not to convert it, no, for if that is her mission then indeed she has failed for there are more heathen in the world today than a century ago. Thus to convert the world at the present rate of progress would be out of the question, for it is going on accomplishing exactly what our Lord intended for her. That is "the gathering out of the world a people for His Name." If she has failed in part, it is because she has given to other things; she has side-stepped her God-appointed task. No wonder many are doubtful about the church. They have been led to believe that she is to lead in the bringing in a golden age of peace and universal brotherhood to the troubled nations of the earth.

We are continually reminded of the efforts put forth and the money spent and for it all we have lawlessness, tragedy, hatred, immorality and war such as has never been known. They say, is this all that your Christianity has to offer? If so, it is a failure. But no, I repeat, the church has caught the spirit of our great commission for world-evangelization and missionary endeavor and is sending the gospel over land and sea as never before. The day of peace shall come when the Prince of Peace shall come, and until then "the gates of hell shall not prevail against her."

Yes, the one great basic doctrine of the Great Commission is the preaching of the Gospel. We read, "Go into all the world and preach the Gospel." This gospel is defined by St. Paul and we might do well to read it again that we be not mistaken as to its content. "Moreover, brethren, I declare unto you the gospel—which also ye have received—by which also ye are saved—for I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures; that he was buried, and that He rose again the third day according to the scriptures. This is the Gospel message. This is the Good-News that God is reconciling the world unto Himself. It is for this message that the world is waiting, waiting to know of Him who took our place and that "There is a fountain filled with blood, drawn from Emmanuel's veins; and sinners, plunged beneath that flood, lose all their guilty stains," and that there is no hope for man apart from that shed blood and in His finished work accomplished on Calvary's cross.

Let us never forget it, it is to the church, the Lord's own body of believers that has been committed this task. To her has been committed the oracles of God, that with it she might go over land and sea with her glorious message until the last soul has heard, and the last soul is won to make the Bride and Body of our Lord complete, until millions shall have been marshalled beneath her banner, and the knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth as the water cover the sea.

The Great Commission Still Stands. What shall be our response? Those of us whose lives have been touched with this glorious gospel from the earliest morning of our existence until now; we who were born under the very shadow of the church, and reared at the knees of godly fathers and mothers, and lived under the very drippings of the sanctuary and upon whose lives the full-orbed splendor of Christianity has shined—what shall be our answer? What shall be our attitude?

Finally, let me close with this picture. The scene is on a hill outside the city walls. There the Son of God is being crucified. His hands are torn with nails. His brow is pierced with thorns. His heart is bleeding. The sun refuses to shine, but amidst it all I hear a voice. "It is finished." The great plan of redemption born in the heart of God is now receiving its finishing touch and God and man stands reconciled. All this He has done for us. And now He is asking of us, "Will you obey my voice, will you go forth in My name, and will you give yourself wholeheartedly, devotedly and sacrificially for the spreading of My gospel even to the evangelization of the whole world?" Shall we not respond with our hearts and our hands and our substance, with all that we have to gladden His heart and spread His kingdom from pole to pole?

"Waft, waft ye winds the story
And you, ye waters roll,
Till like a sea of glory
It spreads from pole to pole
Till o'er our ransomed nature
The Lamb for sinners slain,
Redeemer, King, Creator, in bliss
Returns to reign.

—Mexico, Indiana.

Christians Asked to Take Religion Seriously

If Christians of the world would become as concerned about religion as they were about winning the last war, future wars would be impossible, Dr. M. Theron Rankin of Richmond, Va., told the Southern Baptist Woman's Missionary Union.

Urging a world-wide religious emphasis, Dr. Rankin, who is secretary of the foreign mission board of the Southern Baptist Convention, said the pressing need of peoples of the world today is for hope. The Communists, he said, are exploiting the hopelessness of people. "They hold out promises of hope that cannot be fulfilled," he declared. "Christians have a message of hope that can be fulfilled in the life of every individual." Educator Calls for Religion Program in Schools

An "alarming" degree of religious illiteracy has resulted from the fact that only about twelve per cent of the communities in this country offer any form of religious education in the public schools, Dr. Zora Klain, chairman of the department of education at New College for Women, said.

Dr. Klain said that "most of us are products of a weekly hour of Sunday School. Children grow up knowing only their own religion and think other beliefs are no good. That, in a democracy, is not a healthy attitude to develop."

Leaders of the world's major religions gathered recently in New York to devise plans for the moral and spiritual support of the United Nations. Among some of the convictions which they stated were these: "The United Nations cannot succeed unless religion succeeds." "Religion must become a force for world unity." "The root of the present-day chaos lies in the moral deficiency, ethical poverty and spiritual destitution of those who are placed as leaders of the present-day world."

Presidential Possibilities

The President of the United States of America is, or should be, the most influential person in the world. He is the representative of the people which is, or should be, the most influential people in the world.

Since the rulers of this world are responsible to the Creator of it, they should seek to know his plans and purposes and be governed accordingly. Those plans and purposes are revealed to us in the Book which has been the guide of those who have done most to make our nation great. In it we read, "If any man lack wisdom, let him ask of God who giveth to all men liberally and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him."

The character of this divine wisdom is described by this same writer as follows: The wisdom from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy. And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace." James 3:17.

This text is worthy to adorn the wall of the office of the President of the United States. This wisdom is from above and therefore has the backing of heaven, which is worth more than the backing of all the powers of earth or hell. It is pure and will not shorten life by the torments of an accusing conscience. It is peaceable and will therefore take the sword only when "the time is come to destroy the destroyer."

It is gentle and easy to be entreated, and therefore is sensitive to the petitions and prayers of the good people who represent the principles which make a nation great. It is full of mercy and of good fruits and therefore will be loved because, guided by it, this nation will, under God and far as its power extends, be known as the helper of the poor, and the down-trodden and the oppressed of this "one world."

It is without partiality and without hypocrisy, and will dare to discard all the rules of so-called practical politics and will consistently hold to the principle of doing the greatest good to the greatest number. If the forces of evil fight to defeat or to delay the rule of righteousness, let the heart of the ruler of the nation be found in the front ranks of them who battle for the right.

To be sure, the world can not be made perfect in a day, nor in a thousand years, but the helm of the good ship of state can be held facing straight for the shining goal that God has set in the sky ahead—the New Jerusalem which cometh down from the sky as fast as we go forward to meet it.

"And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace." Cater to the vociferous pretensions of the evil element and you will be embroiled in the abominations and the strife and the judgments which are the harvesting of their sowing. But say it by your record as a public servant, "Lo, I come to do thy will, O God," and you will go down in history as an Abraham or an Alfred the Great, and beyond the history of this world will shine as one of the stars of heaven.

Please do not think me presumptuous if I consider your very busy life and call your attention to a few revelations in the Word of God which may help you to take the right attitude toward some of the most pressing problems of the day. Here I will let these scriptures speak for themselves.

First, How about Russia? I do not mean the common people who are good and bad, just as our own people, but the atheistic group which has usurped power and tyrants and pretend to dominate the world. Read Rev. 16:13-16 and ask: What are the three unclean spirits which are gathering the nations to war? Read Ezekiel, chapters 38 and 39, and compare them with Rev. 19:17-20. Note that the literal Armageddon is the famous battleground of Esdraelon in central Palestine, and also that we do not find any allied armies gathered to oppose these invaders.

Second, How about the Arabs? The Arabs claim to be descendants of Abraham through Ishmael. Read the prophecy concerning the descendants of Ishmael in Gen. 16:11, 12. Read also the cause of the dispossession of people from their lands occupied by them. Lev. 18:24-28.

Third, How about the Jews? For the story of the ten tribes of Israel read II Kings 17:6-24 and Isa. 62; Jer. 23. For the two tribes of Judah read II Chron. 36:14-21; Jer. 23:1-9; Isa. 2:1-5; 62:1-12. Especially Zech. 12, 14.

Fourth, How about Assyria and Egypt? See Isa. 19:17-25, especially vs. 24.

Fifth, How about the United States?

1. The United States has had more light than any other nation; therefore it also has more responsibility. Amos 3:2; Luke 12:48.
2. Rewards and punishments of nations are conditional. Jer. 12:16, 17.
3. The patience of God must not be construed as pardon. Gen. 15:13-16.
4. Accumulated sins bring accumulated judgment. Matt. 23:26.
5. Though elected by the people, rulers are accountable to God. Dan. 2:21; Rom. 13:1.
6. No people or government has a right to legalize sin in any form. Read the list of six woes in Isaiah 5:8-22.
7. God's people are taught to pray for their rulers. I Tim. 2:1, 2.

Remember, therefore, that your best friends and helpers will be praying much for you, and chiefly that you also may be much in prayer for guidance.

Quid Pro Quo

A boy who had left the farm and got a job in the city, wrote a letter to his brother who stayed on the farm, telling him of the joys of city life. In it he said, "Thursday, we autoed out to the country club where we golfed until dark, then picniced and later motored to the beach where we weekendend."

The brother on the farm wrote back. "Yesterday we buggied to town and baseballed all afternoon. Today we muled out to the cornfield and gee-hawed until sundown. Then we suppered and armchaired for a while. After that we staircased up to our room and bedsteaded until the clock fived."—Watchword.

NEW JOBS IN CHINA

Scripture: Luke 10:2; 1 Cor. 9:16-22.

For The Leader

THERE IS A LOUD knocking at the door of your heart tonight. It is a knocking which you cannot cease to hear, nor avoid, nor refuse to acknowledge. It is the knocking of the missionary call for your life. The great call of the gospel needs the answer of great young people to take that message everywhere. In a special way tonight, the call comes from China. If your neighbor would come and tell you he needed some help which you could give, you would gladly go, perhaps at great risk to yourself. Well, why not then for those in China? We learned last week that Chinese Christians are our brothers in Christ. Yes, they are our neighbors. They need our help. There are many jobs for young people in China. If the Lord lays the burden on your heart, don't say "no." Better for you to go.

DISCUSSION

1. THE OPEN DOOR IN CHINA. There is a beckoning hand for new leaders, workers and missionaries. Stations are undermanned. Those who are there are growing older, some are in poor health, and new ones are needed to replace them. Native workers are helping out, but we still need trained workers from America to assist. New stations need to be established, for countless millions of China's mass of people do not yet have the Gospel. Right now there is an open door for new workers. How long this will continue, is not ours to say, for the forces of evil are working strongly. We should enter China now in ever increasing numbers before the door should close. Stations are already established from which new parties can be sent out to establish new points, if we can get the workers. Are you willing?

2. THE NEED FOR LAY WORKERS. In addition to the great need for missionaries, there is a need for Christian workers of all kinds. A Christian Doctor can in himself be a missionary in his profession. A Christian truck driver, electrician, carpenter, machinist, and all, can serve their Christ in their respective jobs in China. Regardless of your trade or occupation, you can find a job in China. There you can help the cause of Christ with your Christian profession. And it matters little where we serve as long as we are serving Christ. If you love adventure, travel, thrills, and good hard work, open your heart and life for a call to China for service. Your Lord will go with you, and you are safe.

3. A PLACE FOR STUDENTS IN CHINA. Did it ever occur to you to go to China to study? Some of their young people are coming to America to study. Opportunity is there for Christian witnessing in China's universities and schools. The Chinese students respond to Christian living as they see the improvements in lives of Americans over their own way of life. Thus interested, they are ready listeners to the gospel. We go across states to go to school. Why not cross an ocean to learn first hand the language, customs and need of this great people? It is a possibility for us.

4. A PLACE FOR FARMERS. Want to have adventure in farming? We think of our pioneering ancestors in their covered wagons. There are greater thrills in going to China and farming. The land will produce, but not with ancient methods which many Chinese still use. But our modern methods, in their hands with our instruction, will do much to help the food shortage. Instead of having to send so much food abroad, we can help them raise their own food. Going with a Christian faith and attitudes, we would be doing a great work for Christ in China.

5. WOE IS ME! "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel," said Paul. He had a conviction of gospel preaching, and he knew he would have to answer to God if he didn't. Do we consider it as such today? If we hear the knocking, and do not follow it, it will be to our disadvantage. When God lays His hand on us, we must go. Missionary boards are willing to send missionaries and workers to man their stations. It is the most challenging work you will ever have. Don't pass it by.

6. WHAT ABOUT GIVING? Yes, we should not forsake the financial end of missions. Those who do go often go at much financial sacrifice to themselves and their families. Do we appreciate what they are doing? If we do, our mission envelopes will be packed full. A fifty cent piece a year will never back up our prayers for missions. Some of our churches and individuals are doing marvelously in mission giving. More must be done. What are you willing to give this year? When the knock comes, we must answer. With the world, in all its glitter and promises of easy money pulling at our ambitions, we must not turn a deaf ear to the gentle pullings of God. Young people, first of all, give ear to the call of your Lord for a life's work. Sometimes you may have to go entirely on faith. But what a wonderful faith it is. It is a faith with rewards. There is a song that goes, "I can hear my Savior calling." The answer is, "Where He leads me I will follow." It could be to China. Would you be willing to go if the call would come?

QUESTIONS

1. Approximately what percentage of China has been reached by the gospel?
2. Where are the chief centers of missionary activity in China?
3. Which Denominations have mission points there?
4. Is there room for more? Is there room for a Brethren Mission in China?
5. Would you be willing to go as a Brethren Missionary if our Missionary Board should open a work in China?

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

We wish to express our heartfelt appreciation to everyone who has been so kind to us during the recent illness and death of our husband and father, George S. Baer. Especially do we appreciate the many cards and messages which came during his illness. He had meant to make acknowledgement of them, but found it impossible. Your inquiries and sympathy will ever be remembered.

THE LAST HOUR

"It is the last hour"—1 John 2:18

The sunset burns across the sky;
Upon the air its warning cry
The curfew tolls from tower to tower,
O children, 'tis the last, last hour!

The work that centuries might have done
Just crowd the hour of setting sun;
And through all lands the saving name
We must in fervent haste, proclaim.

The fields are white to harvest. Weep
O tardy workers, as ye reap,
For wasted hours that might have won
Rich harvests ere the set of sun.

We hear His footsteps on the way!
O work, while it is called today,
Constrained by love, embued with power,
O children, in this last, last hour!

—Clara Thwaites.

THE CALL TO DEFINITE CHRISTIAN SERVICE

Scripture Reading: Luke 5:1-11

Suggested Hymns: "I Can Hear My Saviour Calling," "I Am Thine, O Lord," "I Gave My Life for Thee," and "Take My Life and Let It Be"

Suggestions for Prayers:

1. Pray in the Holy Spirit, giving thanks for Christ and His Great salvation and what it has done for the saints. Thank God for faithful Christian workers at home and abroad, personal work in the laity and the ministry.

2. Pray about the world's needs—multitudes of sheep without a shepherd, fields white unto harvest. Obey our Lord's command to "pray the Lord of the harvest to send forth laborers into His harvest."

3. Pray for the training of workers in our church; for those who are in training; for those who ought to give themselves to this work; and for those who have the heavy responsibility of training these workers.

4. Pray that God may thrust out some of your own people into definite Christian service for Christ and the Church.

Seed Thought Provokers:

Read Matt. 4:18-22. These young men were already disciples of Jesus (John 1:35-51). They left all—their former business even at the height of its prosperity in order "to become fishers of men," i. e., winners of souls and Christian workers. With this in view they first followed Jesus as students in His training school for workers. After this special training with Jesus for three and one half years, they became the apostles of the Christian Church. So effective was their ministry that it was said of them, "they have turned the world up-side-down."

Jesus stressed the great commission many times (Matt. 28:16-20; Mark 16:15, 16; Luke 24:45-48; Acts 1:8). Paul summarizes the commission in 2 Cor. 5:18-21. Jesus said, "As my Father hath sent Me, even so send I you."

In the great commission (Matthew's account) is stated three things: Christ's authority, His charge, and His promise. Christ claimed authority over the physical (John 1:3). He claimed authority over the spiritual (Eph. 1:7; Acts 13:38, 39; 1 John 1:9). In John 11:25, 26 He claimed authority over the physical, spiritual and the eternal. Christ proved His authority over the physical through His miracles.

Christ asserted His authority over the spiritual in the forgiveness of sins (Mark 2:6-12). He proved His authority over the eternal in the raising of the dead. The promise he offered is, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." How could we carry out the great commission without Him? When our souls are flooded with His presence and power we can win souls for Him. How many of you believe that the Great Commission is still in effect? How many of you believe that the Great Commission means that you are to go and preach the gospel to lost sinners? We are all called to the self-same task. We can all witness. We can all go with our money to carry out the Great Commission. Let us all take our places in the line that searches out the lost with our prayers, tears, thoughts, time, talent and money. Let us nobly pass the mercy and blessing of salvation on to those who know not the Lord.

HISTORY IN THE OLD TESTAMENT

Lesson: I Kings 4:21-29; 11:6, 9-11

NOT MUCH can be said in the very short space that we have this week. So much of our understanding of the problems of the Israelites and their relation to God depends on our knowledge of their history, as recorded in the Old Testament, that it is of vital importance that we study each section of the Old Testament with a view to establishing a firm ground historically and then relating every phase of our studies to that ground. The section we study today puts us in touch with the kingdom of Solomon at a time when it was the largest and also carried the greatest influence in world affairs. But it also leads us to the cause of the downfall of that kingdom—the forsaking of God by the ruler. It is necessary, then, that we do more than study the present lesson, but also take a view of the entire history of Israel. With this in mind, we can have a profitable discussion in any class.

Youth Accepts The Challenge

by Charles Munson

You said it! Youth certainly does accept the challenge. Oops, maybe we had better wait and find out what the challenge is all about. Isn't that just like youth though; ready to jump at the drop of a hat? But really that enthusiasm is something to be desired, and that sometimes hasty recklessness is almost to be desired at times. Let us get back on the subject, though, and see just what the challenge is about. Build a better world—yes, we will take that challenge. Build a stronger church—O. K., we will take that challenge. Win souls for Christ—yes, sir, we will take that also. There you are—Youth does accept the challenge.

Well, that sounds good on paper but let's see what BRETHREN YOUTH says about it. We WILL build a better world by our cooperation with other churches in our community, and other Brethren Churches throughout the nation. By this cooperation we WILL help to break down class hatred, prejudice, greed and all the rest; for we will be giving and taking, and learning to get along with other people.

We WILL build a stronger church, generally, and particularly Brethren. For you see we are uniting on common purposes and projects; we are going to work together to accomplish certain objectives in our church. Yes, Brethren, there are quite a number of young people who have given their lives for full time service for Christ. They are working toward the ministry and toward work in the mission field. In fact, it seems that all of our youth are catching the fire, and as a result, we will see a stronger church.

We WILL win souls for Christ, too. After all that's our purpose as witnesses for the Lord Jesus. We, as youth in the Brethren Church, are going to unite our forces on a program of "Evangelism for Christ." It is our belief that if we unite our forces, and have a common program throughout the nation, we can win many souls for Christ. In addition to this, we believe that we can reclaim many who have stepped a little aside. Through this emphasis we feel sure that we can help many find the Lord Jesus.

Now of course there will be those who will say, "Well, brother, that sounds good—but." Don't you be one of them. Obviously it will take time for some of these things to work out into efficient programs, but with the help of God, we WILL build a better world, at least in the part in which we are living; we WILL build a stronger church; we WILL win souls for Christ. We firmly believe that trusting in God for strength we can go forward with the same assurance Paul had when he said, "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." Yes, Brethren, WE ACCEPT THE CHALLENGE.

The Thankful Prisoner

by L. E. Lindower

With the prison chains dangling at his feet and the Roman prison walls surrounding him, Paul, the self-styled "prisoner of the Lord" took up his pen to write his letter of rejoicing to the Christians at Philippi. What could this poor imprisoned preacher rejoice about, with the knowledge that his life was in the hands of a half-lunatic Roman Emperor? Let us find the things for which he gives thanks, and then bow our heads in shame for our unthankfulness in the midst of plenty and ease.

I. Paul was Thankful for the Furtherance of the Gospel.

"But I would ye should understand, that the things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the Gospel." (Phil. 1:12) He points out first that the circumstances of his being imprisoned for the cause of Christ are known in the palace and other places. He seems to be thankful to be a prisoner if that takes the Gospel into the palace. He also finds out that by his courage others are stronger to proclaim the Word of God, and this is another cause of thanksgiving. Some have even thought to provoke more contention against him by preaching Christ. He is even thankful for this—"What then? notwithstanding, every way, whether in pretence, or in truth, Christ is preached; and I therein do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice." (vs. 18)

How thankful can we be for the furtherance of the Gospel? We can give thanks that the Word of God has been printed, translated and made available to almost every nation and tongue. The story, "2000 Miles for a Book," is the account of the effort of an American Indian to get the Word of Life for his tribe. Five hundred years ago people were paying a big price or a heavy penalty for merely reading the Bible. We can parallel Paul's words by saying that in spite of the fact that the Bible is so greatly neglected today by many, and so greatly reviled we can still give thanks that it is still the "best-seller" among books.

But just to have the Book printed does not further the Gospel! May our thankfulness for God's Word, urge us on to further its message.

II. Paul was Thankful for Hope in Christ.

"That in nothing I shall be ashamed, but that with all boldness, as always, so now also Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life or by death. For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." (Vss. 20-21)

No matter how much can be accomplished in this life, we know that it comes to an end in a comparatively short time. By introducing, in the above simple words, the confidence in Christ for future destiny, this hopeful prisoner gave the highest meaning to life and death.

Death may be a very dark tunnel to the human understanding, but Paul's hope in Christ puts a hand-rail in the tunnel, coated with the phosphorescent glow of faith, for the support and direction of life. Rejoicing in hope!

III. Paul was Thankful for Remembrances of Believers.

"I thank my God upon every remembrance of you." (vs. 3)

The one who has taught or preached the Word has many remembrances for which to be thankful. There are those who it has been our privilege to see turn from sin to Christ. These and others we have seen "grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ." There are great spiritual riches in witnessing the spiritual growth of those whom we may have helped into the Kingdom.

Like Paul, we can also be thankful for the remembrance of those who have given themselves for the Lord's service. It is in these that life has been invested, and from which the greatest returns come in rich remembrance and spiritual wealth. With Paul, we can say, "Always in every prayer of mine for you all making request with joy." (vs. 4.)

The "fellowship in the Gospel" is another source of thankful remembrance, and joyful request. The ties of this fellowship help to bind us together as the Body of Christ. Our thankfulness for this fellowship will help us exercise more Christian love and less destructive criticism toward our fellow-laborers in the Word.

IV. Paul was Thankful for the Opportunity to Suffer for Christ.

"For unto you it is given in the behalf of Christ, not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for His sake." (vs. 29.)

There are those who have had and do have the opportunity of expressing such thanks today. Let us not be sure that we can give thanks for not having to suffer for Christ. It didn't sound right, during the war, to hear people say in public prayers, "We thank thee that we can meet here in peace without molestation." When there is suffering in the world the Christian has no right to feel satisfied not to be molested. Perhaps we ought to have the courage to pray for persecution. Ease seems to bring laxity. Perhaps in our too fortunate situation we can't give thanks properly. Perhaps we ought to try to realize what it would be like not to have the things we have before we can truly say, "Thank you, Lord."

The prisoner's thanksgiving has extended in so many directions that in 4:6 he can only sum up, "in everything by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. Are we big enough to accompany everything in life with thanksgiving. The thankful prisoner was!

THE TIME IS HERE

The missionary upsurge in our church during the past year demands a genuine response now. Due to the fact that our foreign work is growing and new recruits are on the field with another ready to go by January, besides other promising folks who will go somewhere to answer the Lord's great call, we face the moment when our Home base must be greatly aroused and strengthened.

Our first vital need is a sense of greater Christian Stewardship far in excess of present practice.

Two facts confront the Brethren Church:

1. Funds contributed to our churches and mission pastors are so much less on account of the decreased value of the dollar.
2. While as a consequence our support has remained at a stand still, the spiritual needs all over the world, and the great opportunities to thrust the cause of Christ forward are multiplying daily.

Therefore every member should increase his contributions, even to doubling them, to the work of his church at home and across the world. Again—what about the principle of having "As much for others as for ourselves." And lastly, every member of the Brethren Church would do well to stress the practice of one-tenth as a minimum basis of Christian giving.

So we make a stronger Home base with a larger Thanksgiving Offering.

—E. M. R.

I THANK THEE LORD

I thank Thee, Lord, for childhood time
For merry laughter, frolic, fun,
In my younger days.
For wholesome joy, for playmates dear,
For careful training, leading on
In righteous ways.

I thank Thee, Lord, for those who told
The story of Thy wondrous love
When I was young.
That as a simple child I learned
That only Wisdom from above
Could make me strong.

I thank Thee, Lord for Christian home,
God-fearing parents, tender care,
For guidance true.
For Bible stories simply told
For grace at meat, for family prayer,
For "God bless you."

I thank Thee, Lord that I was taught
Long years ago that without Thee
True life I'd lack.
For though I've sinned oft gone astray
Those truths so early taught to me
Would draw me back.

I thank Thee Lord now as I go
On down through life, close to the end
Of life's slow sand,
I am not strange with Thee, dear Lord.
I early learned to call Thee friend
And know Thy hand.

—Agnes K. King.

THANKSGIVING

We trust Thee through the years for good
Which Thy kind hand has granted—
The largeness of the fruitful field
Which we in spring time planted.
The gracious skies have sent us rain;
The soil its strength bestowing,
(Has given us a wealth of grain
Beyond our hope at sowing.
Today we gather round the board,
Thy blessings spread before us;
Be present at our table, Lord,
And watch in mercy o'er us.
Seal Thou Thy children's gratitude,
And hold us in Thy keeping.
We trust Thee through the years for good
In sowing and in reaping.

The Church Needs The Service And Worship Of Every Member On Its Roll

by Chester Zimmerman

When the tide is out you may have noticed, as you ramble among the rocks, little pools with little fish in them. But when the rising ocean begins to lip over the margin of the lurking-place, one pool joins another, their various tenants meet, and by and by in the place of their little patch of standing water, they have the ocean's boundless fields to roam in. When the tide is out—when religion is low—the faithful are often isolated; here a few and there a few. They forget for a time that there is a vast expanse of ocean rising; every ripple brings it nearer; a mightier communion, even the communion of saints, which is to engulf all minor considerations.

The real Christian is not afraid to give of his service for if he is rubbed a little by life it only puts a shine on the sterling worth of his fellowship. The pseudo-Christian is like a bubble. As you know, a bubble is bigger than a drop, but it does no more to fill the spring, for bubbles are but drops distended. Bubbles of pride, bubbles of hypocrisy and self-assertion, bubbles of the river of time, until God's finger touches them and they are gone. It seems that some folks are so afraid of the finger of God that they will not come to his house lest they be touched from on high with his finger. Could this be the reason our churches are so little filled during time of revival?

Suppose Aaron had one day undertaken to set up the whole of the tabernacle without help. How long do you think it would have taken him? It is certain that it would have been a very difficult task for one lone person. God's way was that many would help in the transportation and assembly of the tabernacle. When each man did his share of the work at the right time it was an easy task. But pity poor Aaron if he had been forced to do it all. To modernize our thoughts we can say—pity the Sunday School superintendent who has to do it all; or pity the poor minister who has done all the pulling for years; or pity the poor moderator who gets no help from his officary.

Suppose you had to wash an automobile all by yourself and make it shine. How long would it take you to do it on one of these big, new cars? Facilities and arm-reach and the amount of accumulated dirt would be determining factors of course. But it would take quite a while, wouldn't it? Yet I read of a gas station manager who advertised a free wash job with each tankful of gas sold and you got the car washed while the gas was being put in your car. How did he do it? He had a corps of girls hired to do nothing but wash the cars as they were given the gas. Each one had just a small part of the car to wash. How long did it take to wash the whole car? Just as long as it took to put in the gas. Nothing amazing about it at all for it is just an example of teamwork.

Suppose you had to set up four of the so-called pup-tents and ditch them so the water wouldn't run into them in case of rain. How long would it take you? Long enough, I'll wager, that you would be tired and disgusted when it was all over. Yet I have seen a patrol of eight boys in the scouts set up the four tents and take time to ditch around them in less than five minutes. Two of the boys could do the task of putting up a tent in less than three minutes but the others were a little slower and brought the average time up. Isn't it rather obvious what a little co-operation can do?

This word co-operation isn't a new one, neither, in the Christian way. It is too often a neglected one, though, and it is one of the reasons that the church of Christ is making the slow progress of today.

Some of our church boards are quite afraid of enlarging church committees and appointing enough committees so that each member of the church is represented on one. I've noticed though, and so have you, that the successful churches have most of their members working on committees. There are even some members who love the Lord so much that they work without being on any committee or holding any office. Surely the Lord loves these!

There is standing in New York City today a beautiful church edifice, with all modern appointments, which had its origin in the desire of a poor woman to do something for God. The church building had been talked of for some time, but the way had not opened for anything to be done. Finally, she declared, "We ought to stop talking and do something." Of her small means she gave a few hundred dollars, which formed the nucleus of a building fund that grew by degrees, until finally a wealthy gentleman gave a large sum of money for the erection of the building. To the poor woman, however, is due the credit of having initiated the efforts which resulted in the building of the church.

The Chinese, whose quaint confession of faith was, "I am reading the Bible now and behaving it," had a better conception of what is involved in being a Christian than many professed believers of long standing. All too many are certain that worship is finished when the prescribed hour has been spent in church. This can be only the beginning. When our worship does not carry over through the rest of the week it is not the right kind of worship. The fact that you worship on Sunday and during the remainder of the week can be one of the most powerful factors in influencing another to confess Christ.

Carlyle in one of his tender moods, describes the effect upon his after life which was produced by the humble worship of his early days:

"That poor temple of my childhood is more sacred to me than the biggest cathedral extant could have been; rude, rustic, bare, no temple in the world was more so. But there were sacred lambencies, tonuges of authentic flame, which kindled what was best in one, which has not yet gone out."

More New Churches

First Brethren Church at Cameron, W. Virginia

The new church at Cameron, West Virginia, is nearing completion. It had stood as a first unit for a dozen years, and every church leader who saw it agreed with the pastor that it must be finished if the church is to grow. The towns people have looked forward to the hour of its completion. They are now loud in their praise for this beautiful church.

A card from the pastor this week says, "The church is now being plastered." The Rev. and Mrs. Arthur R. Baer are leading this church to victory.

The Program of Extension and Sustentation of Missionary Endeavor Measures the Program of the Church

by Percy Miller

The mere announcement of a missionary sermon is enough to keep a considerable number of people away from church in most Christian congregations and even among those who come there will be not a few whose attitude of mind is indifferent or latently hostile. Sometimes I wish we could find another word for missions, though I suppose it would soon become worn and weak in its appeal. The important question is why so many people who support missions even in a perfunctory way are not interested in hearing of the results of missionary efforts. They say that the subject is dull, but I am sure that this is not the deep underlying reason. The mention of missions is a reminder of those obligations which lie beyond the zone of immediate responsibility, and we naturally prefer to draw the curtains of our minds over them. It is unpleasant to be reminded of duties we have no intention of performing and for the avoidance of which we have built up a formidable breastwork of excuses.

I mention the above as an example of a very weak church. The measure of the strength of a church depends upon the measure of its consciousness of its duties; among them 'the Program of Extension and Sustentation of Missionary Endeavor.' The church is a body of Christians. Christians should support missions because of the explicit command of our Lord. "Go ye therefore and teach all nations . . . Ye shall be witnesses unto me . . . unto the uttermost parts of the earth." In so far as we are loyal to our Master we have the missionary motive, because it is in accordance with his will. God's laws rise out of our nature and our needs. And this command that we go out and teach all nations is no exception to the rule. There is a reason for it, and that reason is to be found within ourselves.

It is an inherent quality of spiritualized human nature that we should act for the good of others as we have the opportunity. Suppose a child across the street is seriously ill, and I believe I know a physician who can effect a cure. My impulse is to tell its parents at once. I am sure that we believe in the Gospel of Christ, and I am confident that we believe that when it is proclaimed and understood it saves men from superstition, from inadequate knowledge of God and duty, and above all from sin. Therefore, if I am ready to act on the lower ground of my neighbor's physical good, surely it is most inconsistent to refrain from action in behalf of his immeasurably higher spiritual good. In a word, that is the genius of missions.

James Gordon Bennett sent Henry M. Stanley into Central Africa with the commission: "Find Livingstone, never mind the cost; find Livingstone and bring him back." The Word of Jesus Christ to His Church is, "Find lost men; never mind the cost; find them and bring them back to Me."

As I write this article I wonder how many of us really realize that we are the direct fruit of missionary endeavor. We can pay our debt to those who went before us not by singing their praises but by carrying on in their spirit. Through missionary endeavor Christianity spread westward until it finally reached this country. The Pilgrims and the Puritans and other adventurers who crossed the Atlantic to establish themselves on this continent were the result of Christian missions, and as their children we share the same inheritance. It is only through ignorance of this essential fact that anyone professing to be a follower of Christ can disavow interest in the very agency by means of which our civilization, culture, and faith were made possible. No wise and kind-hearted man denies to others at the bottom, the ladder by which he has climbed out of a pit. The only way for the Christian to repay his debts to those whose heroism and sacrifice created the benefits he enjoys is by working to fulfill their uncompleted tasks.

How many realize today the value of the investments in missions from a material point of view? I realize that this is to put the matter on a low level, but life is composed of many motives, and it may not be amiss to remind those who have little imagination and idealism that there is a close relationship between business welfare and the evangelization of the world. The truth is that for every dollar that has gone into missions several dollars in actual profits have come back.

Every Christian should be concerned about human betterment. The missionary uses as his vehicle of light the school and the hospital, and in these latter days he teaches the people to rise in the scale of well-being by showing them how to use their own resources.

Patriotic individuals will be concerned about the missionary endeavor. Strong though this nation is, it is not immune from those dangers which injure and threaten other nations. Whatever our politicians attempt, we can not live to ourselves alone. China tried building a wall around herself centuries ago, but it did not keep out foreigners or their ideas. Japan and Korea also tried isolation. There is no absolute quarantine against diseases. If we would escape from disasters in the future, we must remove the cause at the source. There are diseases of the mind and soul as well as the body. Here quarantine is impossible. If the present leaders of Russia had been Christian, how vastly different, less painful, and less disastrous would have been the course of recent history; the same true of Germany and other countries.

Any church that will support missions will see the welfare of itself. Nor is this a selfish motive, since its well-being can not be achieved apart from the well-being of others. Only as we give can we receive fulness of life. We are His children and all other men are our brothers.

We pass from death to life only as we love them and have faith in them and work for their emancipation from sin. We find our lives by losing them in a holy purpose, and there is no purpose so sacred and ennobling as that of introducing men to Jesus Christ.

So far, I have spoken in positive terms and have taken no account of the various objections that are offered to missions, usually by those who have given the subject little thought. I trust that I am right in the conclusion that most of these objections fade away in the light of the considerations I have set forth and therefore require no further rebuttal. The old missionary motive was to save dying heathen from hell; the modern motive is to give our less fortunate neighbors a more abundant life, now in the assurance that this is the best way to immortality hereafter.

How does your church measure up in the considerations given above in regard to its missionary endeavors? We will have to let this for each church to answer for itself.

A NEW MISSION PROJECT

An encouraging report comes to us. For more than a year we have carried a correspondence with Brother Fred Phippen and his wife, who live near Sherwood, Michigan. These folks are true Brethren and live in a township where there is no church. Brother Charles E. Johnson heard of this place and volunteered to go there and preach for two weeks under the direction of the Missionary Board. The Phippens did everything humanly possible to get ready for the meetings. They secured the Mattison Township Hall for a meeting place. They advertised, visited, and arranged for every detail.

Brother Johnson states that there was curiosity as to who they were. They opened the series with 14 present. The audiences increased to 39 for its largest. His report notes the fact that they are a prosperous people. He was greatly pleased with the way he was received. On the closing Sunday they organized a Sunday School with 29 present.

Here, in my opinion, is a most needy and worthy field. They have a lot of talent but must be cared for and developed. One of their greatest needs is a regular pastor. These people are determined to go ahead and will carry the work of preaching between them until some one is found to take over. Dr. I. D. Bowman is familiar with the field. He was with them in one service. So, also, was Milton Bowman and Walter Lichtenberger, Secretary of the Indiana Mission Board. All of these men were greatly impressed.

What I Found In South America

by A. G. Studer

General Secretary Y. M. C. A., Detroit

One cannot travel through the countries of South America without being impressed with the progress that evangelical Christianity is making. Everywhere in the larger centers and in rural sections, there are to be found the splendid results of the missionary enterprise and so thoroughly established and so deeply rooted that nothing can stay an increasing acceleration and developing of its work and influence.

There are probably today close to 3,000,000 Protestants whose potential power and importance will have enlarging and multiplying significance in the moral and spiritual life of the continent in the immediate decades ahead.

It is encouraging to know that there are thousands of Protestant churches scattered across the country, representing many denominations; and some in the capital cities are churches of great strength, both as to the number of their membership and to their influence.

The stability and indigenous character of the work are evidenced by the fact that there are 52 theological colleges and Bible institutes, 60 hospitals and clinics, and many Protestant bookstores and publishing houses. There are also 155 different church papers and periodicals read. Many of the most outstanding educational institutions are of missionary origin, and thousands of well-trained young men and women are graduated each year, most of whom come from the homes of the well-to-do and influential Latin Americans.

The American Bible Society is carrying on a magnificent service. It has headquarters in all the large cities, and works in close cooperation with the Churches, church schools, and missions, as well as with the Y. M. C. A. They sell at a nominal price thousands of Bibles, and a large number of New Testaments; and give away unnumbered quantities of the Gospels.

The demand for Bibles is so great that double and treble the amount could be disposed of, if they were obtainable. What would it not mean to the building of the Kingdom, if this great need could be more adequately met in the immediate years ahead!

There are evidences everywhere that a new day is dawning in the moral and spiritual life of South America; and though it may be slow, it is inevitable.

The

Field Secretary

Travels

October is past. It was a heavy month for your Secretary, from the first day to the last one.

The first Saturday and Sunday I spent in Milledgeville and Lanark, making some calls and speaking in both churches. After a splendid morning service at Milledgeville, Brother White and I drove to Lanark Brethren Church to share in the Homecoming dinner and fellowship service of the afternoon. It was also the opening day of their revival services. Both of these churches have been good supporters of our college and missionary programs.

I hastened back to Ashland on a night train to attend the last rites in memory of our good friend and brother, the Rev. George S. Baer.

After two short trips during the week, I departed via train for Mulvane, Kansas, to the Midwest conference. This was a comfortable and enjoyable trip on one of the fine Sante Fe trains from Chicago. This conference is not large but an exceptional interest was manifest. The local people gave it very excellent support, besides wonderful care and meals for the delegates and speakers. Excellent decisions were made in the conference. They went out the day following the close of the conference to locate a place for a new Sunday School. This district voted to attempt the opening of three such schools during the year. Their progress in their new camp deserves the best of commendation.

After the conference, the journey homeward was made with Brother J. G. Dodds of Akron, who was also a speaker in the conference. Well, it was only 990 miles to Ashland, with beautiful weather, a good car, a good driver. We started Monday early, and landed at Ashland at 4:00 P. M. Tuesday. Yes, we stopped part of the night at a hotel in Illinois. So different from a few years ago, while crossing Missouri we had every word of the last game of the World Series by radio with all of its excitement while making our 60 to 70 miles per hour.

The following Sunday, accompanied by Professor Miley, we visited three of our Miami Valley churches. Professor Miley spoke at New Lebanon, while I went to Gratis and West Alexandria, both during the morning. Both audiences were very receptive to the message. These churches are active and responsive. Both have well kept, attractive buildings.

The last day of the month, as usual, is not to be forgotten soon. At the morning hour I delivered a college and missionary message, at Columbus, O. The Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Murray have shepherded this co-operative church for several years with his work as a teacher in one of the city high schools. During the afternoon, their younger son and I accompanied this fine couple to Washington C. H. where a communion service was held. This has been done once or twice a year for some time. It was unusual; a rainy afternoon, an old church well kept, located on Chillicothe Road out of Washington C. H., with trees and a beautiful lawn. Here nine souls gathered for a Holy Communion Service. The two witnesses said that it was most impressive and surely was scriptural. At least three loyal folks were kept at home due to illness or age. It is the old story of many a country church; good roads, automobiles, consolidated schools, lack of leadership, etc., all have contributed to less and less country churches. This church does make a contribution to the organizations and boards of the church.

There was no uncertainty about it. We could easily discern that these folks did fully appreciate the communion service.

Live with a great faith.

—E. M. Riddle, Field Secretary.

Cablegram—

The Missionary Office received a cable message October 27th stating, "The Bylers arrived safely in Buenos Aires." Secretary Riddle sent a wire with this information to the parents of each Brother and Sister Byler within a few minutes.

LESSON XXXIII—GOSPEL TEAMS

Text—"The Lord appointed other seventy and sent them forth two by two." Luke 10:1.

Team work is valuable in everything else, but especially so in Gospel work.

1. Who formed the first missionary team sent out by the church? Acts 13:1-2.
2. What apostles selected helpers to form teams? Acts 15:39-40.
3. How can a Gospel team divide the work between them? Acts 13:5; II Tim. 4:11.
4. How can a team help each other in case of need? Col. 4:14.
5. How can they encourage one another when in trouble? Acts 16:25.
6. How can teachers and apprentices work together? Acts 18:26.
7. How is united testimony a help in teaching? II Cor. 13:1.

GOSPEL TEAMS

It has always been my custom in church work to try to have something for every member to do. The Christian Endeavor society with its many committees opens the way for this. In Rio Cuarto we had a team of eight young men, who on Sunday mornings would find a companion and go out to give tracts, put them in mail boxes of the houses and do personal work. The city was divided into eight districts with a young man in charge of each district. Thus the entire population was systematically and persistently educated in the Gospel. The harvest did not fail to come.

LESSON XXXIV—THE SOCIAL GOSPEL

Text—"Ye are the light of the world." Mt. 5:14.

This title does not mean that social help should ever be substituted for the Gospel message, but only have place as an expression of Christian charity.

1. What was the social program of Jesus? Isa. 61:1-2a; Luke 4:18.
Is it for us? I Pet. 2:21.
2. What cautions have we against neglecting the poor? Jas. 2:5; Gal. 2:9-10.
3. Has the church a ministry to the sick? Jas. 5:14-16; Acts 8:5-8.
4. Has the church a message for public officials? Luke 21:12-13; Luke 26:28-29.
5. What are we commanded to do for those in authority? I Tim. 2:13.
6. By being good citizens do we give good testimony? Rom. 13:4-10.
7. What powerful arms can we use for the public good? Acts 16:24-26.

LET YOUR LIGHT SHINE

When in 1942 we wished to begin a tent meeting in the city of Cordoba, I went to the chief of police to speak about it and he said to me, "You do not need to ask permission to hold such a meeting. We will send some one to see to it that you are not molested, for we consider you evangelical workers as our best helpers to promoting law and order." Similar testimonies have come from merchants and others, showing that the Gospel is gaining the confidence of the people.

LESSON XXXV—A MODEL SERMON

Text—"And Peter lifted up his voice . . . and they said, 'What shall we do?'" Acts 2:14.

God works through his laws. Peter "in the Spirit" preaches a model sermon.

1. Does Peter begin with a friendly greeting? Acts 2:14.
2. With what interesting incident does he win attention? vss. 16-21; Joel 2:28.
3. What explanation paves the way for his message? vss. 16-21. Joel 2:28.
4. What was his proposition? Jesus is the Messiah, the Christ. vs. 22. What proofs does he give?
 - (1) His miracles vs. 22.
 - (2) His death, predetermined, was also prophesied. vs. 23.
 - (3) His resurrection, of which they were witnesses, vs. 24.
 - (4) The prophecy of David. vss. 24-28.
 - (5) The testimony of the eye-witnesses. vss. 29-32.
 - (6) The sending of the promised enduement, evident to all. vss. 33-35.
 - (7) The prophecy by David of the interval between the two comings. vss. 34-35.
5. The conclusion: Let all Israel know assuredly that God has made the Crucified Jesus Lord and Christ.
6. The Exhortation Repent and be baptized and receive the Spirit. vss. 38-39.
7. The results, Three thousand converts were baptized and added to the church. vss. 41-47.

A WINNING SERMON

The sermon of Peter will always be an example of the power of the Holy Spirit using a human messenger. But when Jesus won the woman of Samaria he won a whole city, for she prepared the way for Philip who did the preaching in Samaria. Acts 8. It was my joy to preach one sermon which resulted in the conversion of the entire congregation. It was in Montreal, Canada, on a cold winter day with rain and wind. I did not expect anyone to come, but one man came, and I preached my best for him, and he accepted Christ. He said he came in, not to hear me preach but to escape the cold rain. Who was the man? He was the director of the Canadian Pacific railway. He next brought his wife and lovely family and became a most valuable helper in our mission.

LESSON XXXVI—A SERMON BY PAUL

Text—"And in this name is preached remission of sins." Acts 13:38.

This is another model sermon, but it is directed to the Gentiles.

1. The friendly salutation. Acts 13:16. Why? Gal. 2:7.
2. Interesting history, Moses to David, in preparation for theme. vss. 17-22.
3. Proposition: From David God has sent Jesus the Christ. vs. 23.
4. Proofs:
 - (1) The testimony of John the Baptist. vss. 24-25.
 - (2) His rejection due to not knowing the prophecies. vss. 26-29.
 - (3) God raised him from the dead. vs. 30.
 - (4) He was seen during many days. vs. 31.
 - (5) Thus God fulfilled his promise. vss. 33-34. See Ps. 2:6-8; Isa. 55:3.
 - (6) Jesus did not see corruption (Ps. 16:10). vss. 35:37.
5. Conclusion: Jesus is the promised Savior. vs. 39.
6. Exhortation: Heed the warning to scoffers in Hab. 1:5.
7. The results: The Jewish leaders were jealous, but the Gentiles rejoiced and carried the message to all that region.

WHAT'S NEW IN THE MISSIONARY WORLD

by Helen L. Garber

The missionary in prison—can such a circumstance further the gospel? Paul found it did. Who can count the missionaries who have been in prison in our time? How clearly we see that the program of the gospel is effected by world affairs. Already the airplane is common routine for the missionary. Other developments now in progress have their influence on the missionary enterprise.

For many years we have known the value of pictures to promote missions in the home church. The missionary is encouraged to use his camera and slides are shown in his reporting the work on the field. (What an aid in the progress of the gospel). More recently moving pictures have been prepared to tell us the story.

But had we thought to put this effective tool, that is, visual materials—in the hands of the missionary as he presents the good news of Christ on the field? Early this year an extended study tour of representative mission fields was made to discover how the missionary could be equipped better with visual aids in teaching of Jesus, the Savior. Experts are at work on the findings and are joining in a cooperative effort to prepare the best possible visual materials. Are we as concerned that the missionary be fully equipped to tell the gospel on the field as we are that he tell us of his work with modern materials?

While we have been slow to use the eye in spreading the gospel, we have depended strongly upon the ear for the entrance of this divine truth. The immediate problem of the missionary, then, is to learn a language. In some cases, to learn this language requires three stages: understanding a new language and reducing it to writing, teaching the people to read, then speaking the language with naturalness and clarity that the gospel may not be confusing. Through the years many persons have contributed to this great adventure. Each one of these steps is a specialized process and the missionary's need is dictated by the field to which he goes.

Interesting advancement is being made. The work of the Wycliffe school and the devotion of Dr. E. A. Nida, now with The American Bible Society, in the direction of reducing a new language to writing is a thrilling tale.

But how shall they read except they be taught? The literacy movement is another engaging story and acquaints us with the vision and untiring effort of Dr. Frank Lau-bach. The story of Jesus is prepared in the basic words of the language. Each one learning teaches one other before his return for his next lesson. Certain missions have promoted the literacy movement with real profit in the gospel.

But how shall the missionary speak except he learn? At this point the missionary strikes an essential requirement. His immediate contact is first and always speech. He learns to speak by hearing primarily, not by seeing. Unless his ear is trained to hear accurately and his speaking organs trained to reproduce what he has heard, he will be handicapped. The war forced us to recognize and practice some fundamental principles in this matter. But a missionary had pioneered in this path years before, and with this adventure are linked the scientific insight and perseverance of Dr. Thomas F. Cummings. His daughter, Miss Esther Cummings, is now carrying on his method and spent eight months this year under the direction of two mission boards giving intensified training programs in various missions in Africa and South America. The new missionary can go to his labor with confidence in meeting one of his most difficult problems of equipment—mastering the language.

Another significant trend in missions in our time is the rather general concern to make the work self directed and supported as soon as possible. We are learning to think of the world church. The younger churches of mission lands take their place as members of the family of God. The recent Assembly of the World Council of Churches demonstrated this reality. Appreciation is freely expressed for the contributions made by representatives of the "younger churches of Asia and Africa. The missionary concern of the church was studied by Section II of the Assembly (with the theme—"The Witness of the Church to God's Design.") "Burdened with a sense of urgency, the Assembly called on the churches to pray for a new baptism of the Holy Spirit and once more to 'go everywhere preaching the Word.'" Churches in 44 countries joined in these concerns at the Amsterdam Assembly. It was not "I-am-doing-something-for-you" but "we-are-doing-one-thing-together."

World missions, as we read the story today, are rich in adventure and opportunity. The love of Christ may reach out through many channels that the glorious news of this crucified and risen Savior may be spread effectively and speedily.

From the Christian World

Take Notice, Mother! "Dr. David B. Rotman, Chicago Municipal Court psychiatrist, says that in 1931, the ratio of women drinkers to male drinkers was one to five; the 1947 ratio was 1 to 2 (this was in Chicago). The number of eighteen, nineteen, and twenty-year-old girls and women found in taverns is appalling. In practically every child delinquency case, we find a mother who hangs around saloons."—S. S. Times.

The Effect of Alcohol—"The uniform effect upon bodily functioning is depression. After drinking, all functioning is on a lower level, no matter how the drinker feels. Alcohol increases the risk of bodily infection; it is injurious to health, and shortens life.

"The principal effect of alcohol is upon the behavior of the person—his emotions, self-control, judgment, discretion, memory, and association of ideas. Alcohol dulls the higher faculties of the mind, intellect, will. The use of alcohol is responsible for much crime, particularly misdemeanors, many accidents, much absenteeism from work. The output of work is lowered, while the quality of the work is reduced."—S. S. Times.

Abstinence Saves Bills—"The Westchester Joint Committee on Alcoholism, in a report filed with the State Interdepartmental Council in Albany, . . . declared that 6.6 per cent of the men and 1.5 per cent of the women in the nation are now 'problem drinkers,' and that the state should provide psychiatric facilities for their 'care, custody, detention, treatment, employment, and rehabilitation.'"—S. S. Times.

When Not to Drive—According to Norwegian law, no alcohol shall be imbibed for eight hours before driving. A person having a blood-alcohol content of .05 per cent is considered unfit to drive. In America, a driver is not legally declared a dangerous driver until the blood-alcohol content is .15 per cent. We could learn about safety from Norway.—S. S. Times.

Puerto Ricans will choose their own governor, for the first time in the history of the Island, at an election to be held on Nov. 2nd. This is a big step forward but it does not allow the island the power to vote for independence, statehood, or any one of the alternate schemes that have been proposed.

Missionaries—No small amount of concern and anxiety has been manifest for missionaries, whether or not they are safe and well provided for in China and other regions where Communism controls.

The Christian Century quotes one writer as saying, "Christian work and workers usually fare well during the early periods of Communistic occupation, but trouble is likely to start when the Communistic civil administrators move in."

Only time will reveal future happenings when Communistic civil government is in force.

A draft constitution for the new nation of Israel has been written and is being studied by a subcommittee of the Israel state council. It takes its spirit of liberalism and democracy from the Constitution of the United States, and its declaration of fundamental rights is based not only on modern constitutions but on ancient Hebrew traditions.

Five thousand five-gram vials of Streptomycin have been sent to Russia by the American Friends Service Committee. The National W.C.T.U. held its Seventy-Fourth Annual Convention in Portland, Oregon, Sept. 22-26. Increased war on the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverage with emphasis on tying up the sale of alcohol in communities by local option and upon total abstinence by individuals was the program of the year. Approximately 2,000 delegates and visitors attended the Portland Convention.

Christ Calls for Workers and Money In Missions

by Elmer R. Carrithers

"Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he will send forth labourers into his harvest." Matthew 9:38.

Too often Christian people look upon missions as some work that is needed, but do not concern themselves with its need. "Why bother with the affairs of other people," is their response. They are concerned with what is happening around them, and in other countries, in a material way. When people understand that Christian ideals make a better world, they grow enthusiastic about Missionary work.

"Christian Missions" is carrying out the proclamation of the Saving Gospel to the unconverted and indifferent, everywhere in the whole world, according to the command of our Lord. "And He said unto them, 'Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature.'" Mark 16:15.

"Missions" means a sending forth for a definite purpose. A Christian Missionary is one sent on a Christian mission. To the Church, a missionary is a proclaimer of the Gospel message. In Missions we have three essential factors to consider; a sender, one sent, and one to whom sent.

We are working under the Christian Banner, so we should look to our Sender and Leader, Jesus Christ. We need to make Him our example.

Jesus was the Great Missionary. He spoke of Himself as the messenger sent by the Father to a lost world. "For the Son of man is come to seek and save that which was lost." Luke 19:10.

As the Father sent Him, so Jesus sends His people to be missionaries. Today, the Church calls and sends out men and women to carry the Gospel to the four corners of the earth.

Today, we need consecrated young people to take up the Lord's work. We also need Christian colleges, and Seminaries, where they will be able to receive the proper preparation to go forth into their field of labour. We need to support these young people, and the institutions where they prepare for the blessed time of soul winning.

The Christian Missionary, or sent one, does not go out in his own strength, but as the commissioned representative, of the One who has made it possible for him to carry His message. To carry out the Lord's message, the missionary must proclaim the Gospel in public, and with all the authority of heaven and earth. The message of the Missionary is no common matter to be whispered about; but is an official declaration from the highest authority of the Universe. The Missionary has a message of "Good News" for the unsaved and dying. Will it be you who will carry this message of the, "Only Way of Life," to a lost soul?

The Missionary has been commissioned by our Lord, to go forth to the unsaved of the world. Today it is the task of the Church to prepare, provide for, and send men and women, to various fields of endeavor. In our own country there are a multitude of people without Christ. In some sections of our nation, there are people who have never heard of the Bible, or Jesus. Not too far away from the borders of our land are nations that need Jesus. How are these people to know the way of salvation unless some one is sent to them? "How then shall they call on Him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in Him of whom they have not heard? And how shall they hear without a preacher? Romans 10:14. There are people longing for the day when someone will come to teach, and preach, the Christian way of living, so they can enjoy all the blessings of a Godly life.

Even in an African village, the message of salvation changes the lives of men and women. It takes an effort on our part to give of our time, money, and prayers, but there is a pleasure in giving to Missions.

One thing to remember, we must sow before we can reap. In sowing the seed of the Gospel, we can touch the lives of native workers in the foreign fields. Then the native workers are able to carry on the blessed work of the Lord among their people. There is no limit to the number of souls that may be converted and made workers for the Lord, by only one consecrated Missionary.

"And how shall they preach, except they be sent? As it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!" Romans 10:15.

It is hard for us at home to fully realize the need of sending out some Christian worker, to people in need; but it is the Lord's command to send labourers into a field white unto harvest, and assist them in their work by our prayers and money.

Scripture: Ephesians 1:22-23; Matthew 16:15-16.

"(God) hath put all things under his feet and gave Him to be the Head over all things to the church, which is His Body, the fulness of Him that filleth all in all."

INTRODUCTION

OUR TEXT from Ephesians is Scriptural evidence of what we are to consider the Church. It is more than a human organization, for Christ is spoken of plainly, as the Head, and the Church, just as plainly is referred to as the Body.

As you and I direct the activities of our bodies, so Christ directs the activities of His Body—the Church. And the work of the Church is to continue the work that He began in His earthly life and ministry. It is authorized by him: "as the Father hath sent me, even so send I you." As the various members of our own bodies respond to our heads, we, as Christians, need to respond to our Head—Christ, if the work of the Church is to be fulfilled. And we must think of the Church in terms of all redeemed individuals—not just those of some particular denomination or local church.

I. Christ is the Church's Founder and Foundation.

It was upon Peter's confession that Christ told him and all who would hear that the Church should be founded upon "Christ the Son of the living God." It is never founded upon a human being. Such a church would not have the power nor the extended life that the true Church enjoys.

II. The Church is Christ's Because He Paid for It.

Christ did not only found and create the Church, but He paid for it with his blood upon Calvary. Ephesians 5:25.

People often speak of themselves as Christians, yet hold no church affiliation. Perhaps the radio is partially responsible for this attitude. This is dangerous, man-made doctrine, and it is without Biblical foundation, although there are many who no doubt are sincere in such belief. But a close examination of Scripture will soon show that Christian Brotherhood was to be found only within the Church, and Christians of Bible days were all members of a church organization.

III. It is Christ Who Makes the Church Alive.

Washington Irving, in his "Legend of Sleepy Hollow" tells a story of the "headless horseman." Nothing in real life is more ridiculous than to think of a body performing its normal functions without a head. Life and activity within a body is dependent upon its head. If this be true of the human body, how much more true is it in the Church—the Body of Christ? Christ said: "Because I live, ye shall live, also." Without the Head, in other words, there is no life. Paul experienced the same truth when he said: "I live, yet not I, for Christ liveth in me." Christ was necessary in the life of Paul if he were to live. The same holds for us. "In Him we live and move, and have our being."

Just as an itching ear can't scratch itself, nor a finger remove a thorn by itself from its own person, neither can we as separate members of the body of Christ perform our functions of serving Him by ourselves.

We must have the help of the Head, Christ, as well as the united cooperation of the members of the body or Church if we are to follow His teachings and be obedient to His commands. For an example, let us think of Christ's command, found in the Great Commission. "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." No individual, however ambitious, devout, or sincere could possibly begin to fulfill this commandment. It is a command to a whole body—the Church. And only as the Church responds, with the aid of all of its members, can the command be obeyed.

Again, we are taught that we should assemble ourselves together and enjoy fellowship with each other as Christians, as well as with Christ. It is rather difficult to think of fellowshiping alone, or serving the sacraments to our individual selves.

As members of the Church of Christ, believing in it with our whole hearts, we can do no other than to:

1. Be a member of the Church.
2. Be interested in its every activity.
3. Be supportive of its endeavors with time, talents and possessions.
4. Seek to win others to Christ, helping them to become members of His Great Body.
5. Bound closer to Christ than it would ever be possible to be outside of the Church.
6. Show our love for that which He loved and loves.

As members of Christ's Church His commands don't seem impossible. When confronted with them, as individuals, they do seem impossible for us, and the task to fulfill them is beyond our powers. Who could ever hope to carry the Gospel to all areas of the world by himself? But it can be done as the Church does it in a united effort.

One other thought: The greatest assurance of salvation is to be found within the church. We can't imply from this that all church members will be assured of salvation, for all of us have known some whose salvation is quite doubtful, as far as their fruit-bearing and obedience were concerned. But the church is the logical place to seek for it. A traveler, crossing the ocean, given his choice between a row-boat and an ocean-liner for his means of conveyance would be foolish to select the row-boat. And in the same manner, with the security that the Church of Christ has offered throughout many centuries. It will offer greater certainty and assurance of salvation than any man-made proposition.

CONCLUSION

Today we find membership in the Church, hard work. We are called upon to suffer at times, and certainly there are many occasions for sacrifice. But this is all the more reason why we should remain in and work with the Church. For this struggling, striving Church—the Church Militant, as we sometimes think of it, is to become eventually, the Church Triumphant—the Church Victorious. “For if we suffer with Him, we shall also reign with Him.”

THE DOUBLE-MINDED, CARNAL BELIEVER

Scripture: James 1:2-8

Hymns of Deliverance and Victory

Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

THE SCRIPTURES speak of the natural, man the carnal believer, and the spiritual believer (1 Cor. 2:14; 3:1). The word carnal means fleshly or the old nature. The carnal believer has two natures, the old and the new, and he lets the old predominate over the new (1 Cor. 3:3). Let us look into the mirror of God's Word and see what manner of man we are (James 1:23, 24).

The natural man has one mind, a single mind (Eph. 2:2, 3). His understanding is darkened (Eph. 5:17). He is cut off from the life of God (Eph. 4:18). He lives only in the realms of the flesh (Eph. 4:19; Rom. 8:5-8). Being without God, the natural man has a reprobate mind (Rom. 1:28).

“A double minded-man” (James 1:8) has two minds, and two natures (Rom. 7:13-23). The two natures are contrary and conflicting. The only solution to this problem is in Rom. 7:25. God has a provision for us in Jesus Christ whereby we can live victoriously and be more than conquerors. To get rid of the dominion of sin go to Rom. 8:2. To become a spiritually-minded believer follow Rom. 6:13. The decision is with you. Yield yourself unto God according to Rom. 8:13. An Indian convert felt that he was “a double-minded man, . . . unstable in all his ways.” He was in constant conflict. He said that there were two big dogs fighting in his heart and mind. “Which one wins?” someone ventured to ask. “The one I say, ‘Sic ‘em’ to,” he replied.

God wants us to be spiritual and fruitful in good works. We cannot be what He wants us to be as long as we are driven by every wind of unsound doctrine (James 1:6; Eph. 4:14). God wants us to be steadfast (1 Cor. 15:58). Confession of sin and yieldness to God enable one to comply with God's spiritual laws so that we may have power in prayer (1 John 1:7).

In the Christian life we start as babes but we are not to remain as babes (Heb. 4:12-14; 1 Peter 2:2; 2 Peter 3:18). Read Matt. 13:3-8, 19-23. Those who have no depth of root go back into the old life. Those who refuse to endure tribulation and persecution depart from the faith. Galatians 2:20 is our recipe.

Let us pray that we be deeply rooted and grounded in the love of God and that we walk worthy of the vocation wherewith we are called.

POETRY IN THE BIBLE

Lesson: Psalm 24

IN ORDER TO CATCH at a glance that which is expressed as Biblical poetry, one needs only to turn to a copy of the Revised Version of the scriptures, or any one of the many modern versions that are to be found today. Of course there are five books of the Old Testament that are definitely found in poetical form—Job, Psalms, Proverbs, Ecclesiastes and the Song of Solomon. However there are many places in both Old and New Testaments where the sacred writers break forth in ecstatic utterances in poetical form. For example, there is the Song of Miriam, Moses' sister; the Song of Mary the mother of Jesus, and many others which you can find by searching the Word of God.

Poetry is one of the highest means of expression. It is sometimes a medium through which the individual sets forth his or her desires in language that conveys the beautiful and often symbolic thoughts that have carried the writer beyond and above the ordinary things of life. At other times it carries the real “down to earth” philosophies of life in such a manner that it impresses our minds to such an extent that we are able to repeat it over and over again to our good and to the edifications of others. Such is the familiar portion of scripture we study today—Psalm 24.

Our Golden Text expresses it well—for even if it is old, it is an ever “new song in our mouths.”

Someone has said that in this Psalm we are able to see God in ten ways—Owner, Operator, Master, Maker, Builder, Benefactor, Savior, Sovereign, Conqueror and Commander. Make it your study to see if you can find them.

St. James, Maryland. The Laymen's Public Program will be held in the St. James church on Sunday evening, December 12. We understand that the program "will star local talent."

The W. M. S. Public Service was held on Sunday evening November 21, with Mrs. James E. Ault, of Hagerstown, Maryland, as the guest speaker.

Mr. Norris has been elected as the teacher of the Young Married People's class at St. James. This is the class formerly taught by Brother Henry Bates.

Mexico, Indiana. Brother Robert Higgins, pastor of the Mexico church, reports that he and his family, together with Mr. and Mrs. James Kraning, enjoyed a trip to our Lost Creek Mission. They delivered a load of clothing and other articles. Brother Higgins had the privilege of speaking during the chapel hour on Wednesday morning, November 10.

Falls City, Nebraska. A card from Mrs. Mary E. Rieger, church correspondent, tells us that special evangelistic services are being conducted in the Falls City Church from November 14 to 28, with the pastor, Rev. H. E. Eppley as evangelist.

Oakville, Indiana. Brother Henry Bates tells us that he and his family are settled in the parsonage at Oakville. In his bulletin of November 7, he says that they found the parsonage well stocked with food when they arrived and that they were received in a fine way by the congregation.

Cheyenne, Wyoming. Brother Frank Garber writes us that "Things are slowly advancing in the Lord's work at Cheyenne, with many signs of God's approval. We now have the yard at the church leveled and ready to seed, which makes the church present a much more attractive appearance."

Hagerstown, Maryland. We note by Brother Ault's bulletin of November 7 that the W. M. S. Public Service was held on that evening with Miss Louisa Kugler as the guest speaker.

Gratis, Ohio. Brother W. S. Crick, pastor at Gratis, reports the Homecoming at Gratis as follows: "More than 170 attended the services. However some attended the forenoon services and did not stay for dinner; others came too late for the services and were present for the fellowship. There were 140 at Sunday School. One hundred and fifty-four enjoyed the dinner which was provided by the W. M. S. Two former pastors, Rev. A. E. Whitted and Rev. E. J. Berkshire were present. Many letters and greetings were received and read following the noon-day meal.

Bryan, Ohio. Brother E. J. Black writes, "We just concluded our services here last night, with the pastor as evangelist." He reports a fine attendance and a number of reconsecrations and several additions to the church and one first time confession. He says a fuller report will be forthcoming.

Brother Black says that he has been granted the privilege of holding some meetings. Anyone desiring his services will contact him at 109 East Wilson Street, Bryan, Ohio.

We note that Keith, Kent and Carolyn Corwin presented Brother Black with an electric record player to be used with the public address system that carries the services to the street. The Junior Church was the recipient of a cross in natural wood color, presented by Mr. Russel Snyder.

Berlin, Pennsylvania. Brother Percy C. Miller, pastor of the Berlin church was the guest speaker at the rededicatory services at the Valley Brethren Church at Jones Mills on Sunday afternoon, November 14.

MORE FOOLISH THAN MILLERS

AS I SAT in the church on the first night of our recent evangelistic meetings, I could not help observing a miller that had found entrance into the building through an open window. It flew up to one of the lights, high in the church auditorium, circling it again and again, trying to get into the source of the light. But no entrance was to be found. Seemingly discouraged, it would dart down toward the pews, only to shortly return to its search for the light. Time and again this was repeated, but it never gained its purpose, nor did it seem to become weary of its trials. As I watched

It set me to thinking!

How much men and women should be like that miller—never actually defeated in that which they are attempting to accomplish. Always and ever seeking the “Light” and, even though seemingly exhausted by the efforts put forth, and forced down to lower levels by circumstances over which they have no control, they should at all times seek to rise above these obstacles and be lifted up and toward the “Sun of Righteousness”—the “Light of the World.”

We can take a great many examples from nature and nature’s children. God has placed in these creatures an intuition which they follow and which leads them in their lives, whether these lives be short or long, to do those things as they should. We have had a pair of robins that, for a number of years, have built their nest and reared their young under the eaves of our front porch. Back each year at practically the same time, they exemplify the leading of an inherent something that cares for them and watches over them.

Our Father has placed within us, as His final creation, minds with which to think and reason; hearts with which to love; a conscience which is expected to direct our ways, and a will by which it is directed. What His creatures do by intuition, He expects us to do by reason. He has done for us as thinking and reasoning personalities what He could not do for the birds of the air and the beasts of the field—sent His Holy Spirit into our hearts and lives to lead us in His paths of righteousness; to take charge of the “conscience” He gave us, and to “lead us and guide us into all truth.”

As I sat in this meeting and watched that miller, I thought, “Here in these meetings is opportunity for those who do not know and understand about the “Light” to rise upward toward it. They will not be foiled in their entrance into and contact with “The Light” as is the miller. Yet they are not even entering into the open doors of the church to take advantage of the opportunity offered to know “The Light.” They are even more foolish than the miller, for it is trying to enter the light. The church bell rang; the invitation to attend has been given; the opportunity is now before them—yet they are failing to take advantage of it. Truly they are more foolish than that miller.”

How true the words found in Ecclesiastes 2:13-14, “Wisdom excelleth folly, as far as light excelleth darkness. The wise man’s eyes are in his head; but the fool walketh in darkness.” How far are we to blame for the failure to reach the untouched multitude of men with “The Light?”

Think it over!

APPRECIATION

WE APPRECIATE the fact that many of our subscribers are taking seriously the matter of sending in full information when they renew their Evangelist subscriptions or send notice of change of address. But still there are those who move from one place to another and either fail to notify us here at the Publishing House, or the local post office. In consequence we get a notice from their old address, from their post office, that they have moved and left no change of address. This caused us trouble, for we do not know what to do about the change of address, and, in order not to receive copies of the Evangelist back from the office of address, we must “pull” the stencil from our files. Sometimes we find that when that stencil is taken out there remains several months of paid up subscription. Then, oftentimes we receive inquiry as to why the subscriber is not getting the magazine. At that time we find where the subscriber has moved and obtain in this way the new address and put them back on our mailing list. We want you to get your Evangelist, and to this end we are asking your cooperation in this matter. We covet your continued cooperation in this part of our work.

SUNDAY SCHOOL COMMENTARIES

We are recommending two commentaries for the Sunday School lessons of 1949, namely “Higley’s” and “Arnold’s,” both of which are very good. However, since the “Higley’s” commentary has been used very successfully by many of our Sunday School teachers, we urge that Sunday Schools provide their teachers with this valuable teacher’s aid. It, to our thinking, covers better the needs of our own denomination. However, the “Arnold” commentary is fine and very satisfactory for additional study. Each of these commentaries is priced at $1.50, and will be sent to you postpaid for that price. Order now while we have them on hand.

Gems from Galatians -- "Faith Fainting"

Rev. Chester F. Zimmerman

"And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not." Galatians 6:9.

AT A RECENT boat-race the crews of three great colleges contested. Of course only one took the prize. We cannot help feeling a little sorry for the others, who had trained so hard, only to be beaten. But how different God's prize system. In His gracious economy, no one need fail. Every faithful servant is surely rewarded. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life," is the promise of God.

But this involves keeping in touch with God. From the inner reaches of New York Harbor, out through the Narrows to where deep water begins, there is a channel which is called The Ambrose Channel. It is sixteen miles long. It is not so very wide. For ships, in storm and fog, it is not so very easy to navigate. There is danger upon either side. Every method known to the harbor authorities of setting up lighthouses and installing bell-buoys had been tried, up to a few years ago. Yet in spite of them all, owing to the dangers on either side, many vessels came to grief.

Then someone suggested laying an electric cable right in the center of this channel and energizing it with what is called "an alternating current of electricity," from the shore. It was done. This cable, like the channel, is sixteen miles long. This cable emits sound waves. Ships equipped with audiphones, or listening devices, attached to the hull, pick up the sounds sent out by the cable until by their strength they know they are right over the cable. Now, no matter how thick the fog or how black the night or how hard the storm, they follow this cable to safety. No danger of shipwreck or harm now, no possibility of it. It is the ship's conscience. Seek to keep constantly in touch with your conscience, as the ship keeps constantly in touch with this electric cable, in order to avoid damages and come safely into port.

The difference between static and dynamic faith can be fairly explained by two illustrations. A man stands opposite a chasm. It is spanned by a thin plank of narrow width. He develops suddenly or acquires by degrees a certain confidence about the plank and himself. His friend who has put it there assures him that it will bear his weight and that assurance he honestly accepts. He is also confident about himself. He feels he could and would walk across without losing his head or his balance. He has a certain attitude of mind; he is prepared loyally and trustingly to do certain things. That is like the man of Faith. But the full Christian faith in life means something more than that. It means faith in action—movement, life. The man puts first one foot on the plank and then the other. That is faith in action.

The second illustration is the man of faith who is like a man standing in a completely dark world except for one circle of light around his feet. That is part of the Christian's faith. But it is only part, standing—static. Discipleship means not merely standing in faith, but walking by faith. The man steps out of the circle of light into the darkness that surrounds him. Faith in action—dynamic. And it is a reality. The circle of light follows him, and he walks not in darkness, but in light, ever stepping into darkness, ever followed by the light.

This seems to be a day when the church as a whole is not as conscious of individual responsibility as it should be. The necessity for practical Godliness is forgotten. The fields are still white unto the harvest. One acute observer puts it this way "We have too many resolutions and too little action. 'The Acts of the Apostles' is the title of one of the books of the New Testament; their resolutions have not reached us." Quite a bit of legitimate condemnation is to be found in this observation. It is always easy to pass a resolution, then forget about it, or allow someone else to become fully responsible for trying to carry it out.

A farmer in Connecticut found a small potato in one of his pockets when he came in from the fields. Passing it to his boy, twelve years old, he said, "Here, plant that, and you shall have all you can raise from it until you are of age." The boy cut the potato into as many pieces as there were "eyes," and planted it. He continued to plant, each succeeding year, the entire crop. The result was that his fourth year's harvest amounted to four hundred bushels. Then, seeing that the boy's planting would cover all his land, the farmer asked to be released from his bargain. God never asks to be released from a bargain. He has promised an abundance of blessing if we faint not.

SPEAKING AT the closing session of the Forty-first Annual Convention of the American Mission to Lepers, which was held at the Moody Memorial Church in Chicago, Illinois, October 21 and 22, Dr. C. Oscar Johnson called on cooperative Christianity to aid world victims of leprosy. He described the Christian leprosy program as "too big for any one little group" and asked that "every loyal child of God put his hand in that of his neighbor and walk out against the dread evil that is around the world and which is claiming so much life and happiness."

Throughout the ages, and to our time, the man with leprosy has been the "forgotten man" doomed to isolation and neglect. Nothing short of a miracle could bring healing. "To be lonely when you have something which isolates you from the rest of society—whether it is blindness or a disease that is contagious—that is sad enough. But to be forgotten in that condition is a terrible plight."

Modern advances in science have pointed out ways of combatting leprosy unheard of in other ages, and thus unprecedented opportunity has been given to the Christian church to follow the example of the "Great Physician who Himself came to touch those who were unclean and to help them."

"Wherever there is a human need, every real Christian heart must respond. Even though there are many claims from Europe for relief and clothing—all of which we must meet—we must not make these leprous friends of ours the forgotten people of the world. Let's not get so busy that we will leave one great area of human need, such as this, untouched."

In another session of the convention Dr. Eugene R. Kellersberger, General Secretary of the Organization, called for a restudy of the laws concerning leprosy and the replacement of modern intelligent methods of leprosy control for the outmoded prejudicial, and "grossly unjust" practices prevalent in most parts of the world today. Having returned recently from a world tour of the leprosy work established and supported wholly or in part by the Christian medical mission, he was able to present first-hand information. He said in part:

"The old concept that all leprosy patients are alike, no matter what type of disease they have, is dying out gradually. The colossal ignorance and unreasonable fear on the part of the laity and the general indifference on the part of the medical and nursing professions are also undergoing change.

"We now believe that only certain types of leprosy are infectious—perhaps 35 to 45 percent—and that the remainder are resistant cases who tend to become arrested cases. Such cases should not be segregated in the usual sense of the word, nor treated as 'dangerous.' Herein lies the great injustice as regards leprosy, which has meant the ruin, social ostracism and tragic death of countless innocent victims of a disease that can easily be prevented and is actually less infectious than most diseases."

Praise was given the intelligent program of the Brazilian government with regard to leprosy control in its policy of separating advanced cases from those which can be treated in clinics and dispensaries, and of giving special attention to children—both those with leprosy and those in danger of contracting the disease. India, also, has taken progressive steps in combatting its leprosy problem in recent years.

"An intelligent view of leprosy calls for a large measure of preventive medicine, particularly for the protection of children exposed to infection; more clinical treatment, and less forced segregation of hopeful cases. Leprosy is not a bed disease, nor an institutional disease. On the contrary, an intensive occupational therapy—physical, mental, and spiritual—in addition to medical treatment and care is essential."

In the convention attention was called to the fact that "in many countries the actual treatment of leprosy patients has been assumed by governments and governmental agencies, but invariably the work has been initiated by the Christian church. There is, throughout the world an overwhelming need and demand for modern medicines and modern medical care, but many governments, especially in the primitive countries, are unable to provide these. It devolves upon Christian medical missions to extend the means and the personnel to make possible these new methods of treatment by qualified doctors and nurses.

The American Mission to Lepers, a cooperative agency of thirty-nine Protestant churches and church groups, is now in its forty-first year. Through this agency it provides a physical and spiritual ministry to persons who have been afflicted with leprosy, aiding one hundred and twenty-seven leprosy colonies, hospitals, asylums and preventive homes for children in twenty-seven countries around the world. Its main office is at 156 Fifth Avenue, New York City, but there are also branch offices in Chicago, Los Angeles, Dallas and Boston. It likewise associates in its work with the Mission to Lepers of London, which was founded in 1874.

Usher Resistance To Worship

E. M. Hosman

Resistance results in heat. I got hot. It was the Sunday before Christmas. If ever I am in the mood to worship the King, it is Christmas time. I approached the entrance to the sanctuary. I guess I wasn't particularly wanted. At least no usher was there to usher me into the House of God. Nevertheless, I went in—still no usher, except in the far corner apparently waiting until I should "Eenie, meenie, minie, moe" to which aisle I should go.

Since my dubious friend in the far corner was the only usher in view, I took a chance and headed for his station. He handed me the order of worship and started down the aisle without so much as a welcoming nod, a whispered word, or even an inquiry as to where I would prefer to sit. I really was tempted to sit not so far forward as he indicated, but my good manners triumphed, although my blood pressure was getting higher with each step.

The service began—the call to worship, the opening music, the scripture reading—all brought me back to the atmosphere of worship. But just as the choir reached the high point in the anthem, "WHAM!" The usher breezed by to slam the window down. When the minister announced the offering there was an embarrassing delay—the ushers were late. Just before the minister began his sermon, some late comers were squeezed into my pew, upsetting the poise and worshipful mood of all concerned.

Yes, it was a beautiful service and an inspiring sermon, but with lots of "Usher Resistance." All of which leads me to suggest that ushers should be as well trained for their part in the worship service as the musicians, the minister and others who help one enjoy a satisfactory worship experience.

Such training for ushers is available. A course for church ushers is offered both on the campus and by correspondence by the School of Adult Education at the University of Omaha, Omaha, Nebraska. Upon request, Mr. Hosman, the director will be glad to send information about how this course can help you and your church lessen "Usher Resistance to Worship."

Announcing a New Tract Contest

A religious tract-writing contest, open only to veterans and servicemen, has been announced this week by the Colportage Division of Moody Bible Institute.

According to executives of the Colportage Division, the contest is designed to fill the urgent need for religious tracts in army and navy camps. "We receive letters every day from chaplains asking for 10,000 or 20,000 tracts," they reveal. "Thousands of new recruits are pouring into the camps. We desperately need new tracts that will reach them."

Only servicemen or veterans, including chaplains, are eligible to write tracts for the contest. Entries should include an explanation of the writer's service record.

Four prizes are being offered contest winners, in addition to publication of the tracts. First prize is a set of four books in the handsomely bound Wycliffe Series of Christian Classics, including Krummacher's The Suffering Saviour, Bonar's Memoirs of McCheyne, Bunyan's The Holy War, and the yet unpublished volume by Jonathan Edwards, The Life and Diary of the Reverend David Brainerd.

A selection of any three of these books will be awarded as second prize, with two as third prize, and one as fourth prize. Entries should be between 500 and 750 words in length, and should be sent to Colportage Tract Contest, 153 Institute Place, Chicago 10, Illinois, before March 1, 1949.

A BETTER WAY

Raymond Stoffer

A better way for me I've found;
It has set my feet on solid ground;
I know not why I spurned so long
Jesus' help that makes one strong.
No better way was ever known
Than God's, who leaves His not alone.
Since He has set my faint heart free,
I love those not loving me.

Now seems the birds up in the tree
Sing out His praise, sweet as can be.
I love to speak His matchless Name,
To please Him always, my highest aim.
Though purchased at an awful cost,

'Tis the only way to reach the lost.
This way of life is all I need,
On His Word and Promises I feed.

I commend Him to you, and you,
There's naught too hard for Him to do.
Just trust His grace and mighty power,
To guide and protect you every hour.
And, traveling along life's road,
He carries our burdens and lifts the load.
No other way can one select
To be content, as God's elect.

If on you 'now' I can't depend,
You'll waste the day and lose a friend . . .

Too busy, Idle?—Work to do?—
I'm sorry I can't count on you."

The day thus idled quite away,
God called at eve and said, "Today?"

The sun then set; the darkness came;
The task undone . . . and I'm to blame . . .

God called me . . . I refused to do
The task . . . He said, "I CAN'T USE YOU."

My conscience woke me in the night . . .
I prayed to God till morning light:

I asked him to forgive the sin
That burned so hot my soul within . . .

I told him—(tho he knew I lied)
My precious time was occupied . . .

Service denied, reward refused,
Because I chose to not be used . . .

Tho God forgave the sin, I know
'Twas just because He loves me so . . .

Since God did all He could for me.
I can't love Him and idle be . . . (John 14:15).

DEVOTIONAL LESSON

Lesson: "Samson"

MAKING SPORT OF LIFE MEANS RUIN

Judges 16:25

By Edmund Vance Cook

"It was in sport I turned the tails to brands
And burned in wantonness the ripened grain;
It was in sport I fought with naked hands
And slew my brother brute with needless pain.
It was in sport I sounded war's alarms,
For war is play and slaughter is a bliss;
It was in sport I sought Delilah's arms
And bartered all my birthright for a kiss.
It was in sport I laid the pillars low
But force breeds force and blow replied to blow
And wrath brings ruin when the temple falls.
Slain by my slaying, rightly served am I;
Wrecked in the ruins of my sport I die!"

Moral: Life is intended to be a great and glorious adventure but never to be gambled away in sport.

SAMSON: A STRONG CHAMPION WHO LOST HIS TITLE

Judges 16:21-31

SAMSON had real ability and an opportunity to prove it. His people needed his strength to free them from the bondage of the wicked Philistines. But the Philistines conquered Samson (Judges 16:21). Samson the mighty became a weakling. Before the Philistines put his eyes out he was blind to the fearful results of sin. He knew that usually it did not pay to live in sin, but he thought he was different. Since he was the world's strongest man he thought he could take care of himself. He thought he could not be harmed by those things which destroyed others. He believed that he could sin and get by. But the writer of the Proverbs says that only fools make mock of sin. The Bible, all history, and current events tell us that "the wages of sin is death," "Be sure your sin will find you out," and "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." It is the Devil's trick to make us blind to sin. He tells every novice in drinking that he will never become a drunkard—that he can take it or leave it alone. But they usually take it.

Thus we are all only common, ordinary human beings when it comes to the results of sin to which we may be subject. The sin we indulge in will soon enslave us, become a binding habit, and ruinous to body and soul. All thieves get caught sooner or later. "The way of the transgressor is hard." The confirmed drunkard knows it. People do not intend to die without a Saviour. Yet most people do because they are bound to the sin of neglect. Satan does not care if they intend to be saved sometime so long as they decide not to be saved now.

When Samson was caught he was blinded, bound, imprisoned, and made to grind food for his enemies. The man enslaved by drink makes a living for the bartender who is an enemy of God. Any liquor seller is an enemy of God and of decent people. In his death Samson sought to avenge himself against his enemies and perished with them. He had lived a wicked life and died with wicked men. If Samson could speak to us, no doubt he would warn us that Satan does his wicked best to blind and delude us until he has us bound by sins in his service unto our damnation. Therefore let us turn from any and all sins and trust Jesus to keep us from sin and from sinning.

Explain: "Samson was more blind when he saw than when he lost his eyes." There is hope for a boy when his sins get him into trouble.

"SERVING GOD"

(Dedicated to Katheryn Kuhlman)

Dot Custer

Every day serving her Lord,
Whom by her is never ignored.
Every day doing her best,
Allowing herself never a rest.

Every day giving her all,
Helping others not to fall.
Every day hearing of woe—
From those she doesn't even know.

Every day she tells of His love,
Pleading that we accept Him above.
Every day thanks doth she give—
To God for whom she doth live.

Even these words do not impart
The love for Christ in her heart.
What makes it very wonderful, though,
What words can't tell, God doth know.

Only when we play the game fairly can we merit a good name.

For success try aspiration, inspiration and perspiration.

Do your best; leave to God the rest.

Journeying Across America

Rev. Freeman Ankrum

(The following is a running account of the cross country trip made by Brother Freeman Ankrum and family, the trip occupying the time between July 26 and September 13. It will be interesting to our readers because of the number of Brethren churches visited and the descriptive writing of the author—Editor)

MONDAY MORNING, July 26, Mary Alice Ankrum, Mrs. Ankrum and the writer started on a trip to the West Coast. The first day's drive was by way of Wheeling, Zanesville, Ohio, Indianapolis, Indiana to Flora, Indiana, where a stop was made with the family of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pope. We had lived here while pastor of the Flora congregation. The second day found the travelers at Garwin, Iowa, eight miles east of Marshalltown, where a pastorate had been held for four years. Some time was spent visiting former members and acquaintances. The country was beautiful and the crops good.

Thursday the journey was made to Shelton, Nebraska, in the heart of the irrigated country. They were in the potato digging season, which yielded as much as 600 bushels to the acre—the largest crop on record.

Friday the journey led us into Kansas and finally across the line into Colorado. Miles and miles were traveled with here and there a tree which had been planted by some settler around a small house. As the day ended Pike's Peak loomed up when we were within sixty miles of it, as Colorado Springs was neared. Here the Jacksons from Masontown were spending the summer. They were splendid guides and we all traveled together through numerous places of interest. After visiting numerous beauty spots such as "The Garden of the Gods," "Cave of the Winds," the trip was made up Pike's Peak which loomed with its snowdrifts in the distance. The altitude of Colorado Springs is 5,900 feet; that of the Peak, 14,110. This Peak was discovered by Zebulon Pike in 1806 who stated that it never would be climbed. However there is a cog road 8.9 miles long up one side and an auto road 21 miles long up the other side. The trip was made by train, the descent by auto. Snow banks were nearby, with a temperature of 53 degrees at the top. At one time on the cog road, the front of the forty foot coach was ten feet higher than the rear. The grade is 25%. The highest telegraph office in the world is located upon the mountain top.

Sunday afternoon we started toward Denver, attending the services of the Colorado Springs Church of the Brethren in the forenoon. We were delayed at Denver by starter trouble, but on Monday we headed for Rocky Mountain National Park, northwest of Denver. The highest auto highway in the world is found here; much of it being above 12,000 feet elevation. That night we stopped at a hotel in the hunting country of Colorado—Hayden.

The next day the barren flats of Utah presented Salt Lake City. When we looked upon the expanse of salt flats and desert, only one tree met our gaze. A visit was made to "Temple Square" where hundreds were viewing the Temple and going through the Tabernacle. An ordinary pin was dropped by an attendant and could be heard a distance of 200 feet.

As we left Salt Lake City an attendant at a filling station asked, "How do you like Utah?" We replied, "Give it back to the Indians." The attendant said, "Wait till you see Nevada." Here we encountered our first really hot day. At Brigham, north of Salt Lake City we looked up Mr. and Mrs. William Conner, formerly of Uniontown, Pa., Mr. Conner being a half brother of H. H. Smitley of Masontown. Leaving there we spent the night at Logan, Utah, a beautiful city, made so by irrigation.

The next day we journeyed into the potato country of Idaho. This journey led us to the west entrance of Yellowstone National Park. After driving 205 miles through the park, leave was taken through the east entrance.

Our trip east toward Cody, Wyoming, was made through the Canyon and across the Buffalo Bill Dam. Beautiful country, though it required very careful driving. We visited a real western Rodeo, put on especially for tourists.

Next day the trip was made to Montana, where we were met at the state line, given information and made honorary citizens of the state. The night was spent in the Capital city, Helena, where the capitol building looms up against the mountain, with the passes to the West visible.

After passing through Idaho again, entrance was made into the state of Washington, with the night spent at Wilbur, and a visit made to Grand Coulee Dam. This is across the Columbia River and is so large that it beggars description.

Spending the night in the Washington fruit section, we journeyed on amid beautiful wheat fields, which was being cut by giant combines.

We found Spokane a beautiful and busy city. Seattle was visited before going to Rainier, after crossing Lake Washington on a floating bridge. Passing on we visited Tacoma, Vancouver, Portland and Bonneville Dam, ending the day at Corvallis, Oregon, where we were to spend a week with our son, Laird Ankrum, who was entering Oregon State College to complete his college work which was interrupted by the War.

On Monday morning, August 16, the journey was continued toward Crator National Park, whose chief feature is a lake with neither inlet nor outlet, which is 26 miles around and is in the crator of an extinct volcano. We spent that night at a camp in Cave Junction.

California was reached on Tuesday, but we traveled miles over rough country before reaching the coast at Crescent City. Rain fell for miles, but here and there we got a glimpse of the Pacific. Spending the night at Laytonville, we crossed the Golden Gate Bridge at San Francisco at noon. A stop was made at Manteca where we visited Rev. J. W. Platt. Passing up an urgent invitation to spend the night, we journeyed on to Oak Dale.

The next day led through the Bret Hart and Mark

Twain country to the Yosemite National Park, which comprises 1189 square miles and is very beautiful with its towering rock formations.

After leaving Yosemite the trip continued to Kingburn where a visit was made with Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Jacobs. He was acting president of Ashland College when we were there. Leaving here we passed through cotton fields and the oil field of Bakersfield, stopping at Greenfield to spend the night.

August 21 found us at Long Beach, where our daughter Mrs. Genevieve Shidler resides. Numerous visits were made from here through Southern California.

On Friday, August 27, Long Beach was left behind and the journey started eastward. Among other places visited were Los Angeles, Riverside, and Mt. Roubidoux where thousands come for the Easter Sunrise Service.

Leaving San Bernardino the Desert soon made itself known with its almost dead world and intense heat. After driving a number of miles in the desert to Barstow, California, a wait was made until sundown after which time the Mojave cools off. The distance through the desert from the above named town to Las Vegas, Nevada, is 155 miles. The moon rise on the desert was beautiful. The Sam Kurtz family was visited in Las Vegas from Saturday morning until Monday forenoon. This is a wide open city for gambling. Also some 24,000 weddings are performed each year in the city. So profitable is it to Justices of the Peace that twelve men were running for the office, one of the candidates telling us that they secure any place from $50,000 to $75,000 each year through this medium.

Monday morning, August 30, found us visiting the Hoover Dam a few miles out of the city. From the Hoover Dam the country is a dry waterless desert for 65 miles, with just two small service stations in the middle, and they are about a mile apart. After crossing much barren country Williams, Arizona was reached, and here the turn north to Grand Canyon was made. A drive was made for eight miles along the west rim of the canyon.

The journey was continued next morning toward Phoenix, pausing at Prescott, the mile high city, from where an almost limitless view of the desert was obtained. At Phoenix the night was spent with Warren Mack and daughter, formerly from Masontown. Here the heat was intense, and so warm were the sidewalks that a blind boy had placed shoes on the feet of his eye-seeing dog. When we asked him what the dog did first when they were placed on him, he said, "He stepped around some."

From Phoenix to Globe, crossing the Coolidge Dam, we spent the night in Las Cruces, New Mexico, and early on September 2 we left for El Paso, Texas. The plains were crossed as we headed for the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico. We found 100 miles in Texas without a town; just a couple of small service stations were all that could be found. We ate our lunch 750 feet below the surface of the earth in the caverns.

Night found us in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arno Rhodes at Clovis, New Mexico. The next night was spent with Mr. and Mrs. Joe McAvoy in Amarillo, Texas. As we crossed the great Texas Panhandle we saw the great ranches spread before us. Thomas, Oklahoma was our week-end stop. This is the heart of the "Flying Farmer" organization. Many men have their own ships and their own landing strips. Leonard Hutchinson, owner of a plane and its pilot, showed us the country from the air. A number of photographs were taken of the farms.

Abilene, Kansas was our next stop, with side trips to the Indian burial ground near Salina. Thursday found us traveling through Topeka on our way to Hiawatha. This was familiar territory because of a pastorate in Hamlin some eight miles away. Visits were made in Morrill and Hamlin and some of those we knew some thirty years ago were found and visited.

Friday forenoon we traveled east through Missouri, cooking our supper in Mark Twain Park at Hannibal, the home of Mark Twain. From Hannibal to Springfield, Illinois, where we visited the tomb of Abraham Lincoln. Then on to Lebanon, Indiana, for the night. And finally on to Masontown, which place we reached at 7:30 P. M. September 13.

The trip covered 22 states and 10,140 miles, with an elapsed time of 50 days. Five hundred and seventy-five gallons were purchased with price varying from 21 cents in Drurx, Kansas to 35 cents outside of Yellowstone National Park. Of the many things to impress a person, one is the immensity of the country, the vast spaces without any inhabitants and the labors that have been performed to make it possible to reach so many sections of the country. Numerous pictures were taken and some three hundred purchased which will be used to make a pictorial history of the trip. A great admiration of the Pioneer is born when travel is possible at high speed over good roads, where the trail blazer traveled with neither speed nor roads, and with very little water. How the Indians exist in such primitive state in these modern times is also somewhat of a puzzle.

The Bible

When I am tired, the Bible is my bed;
Or in the dark, the Bible is my light;
When I am hungry it is vital bread;
Or fearful, it is armor for the fight.
When I am sick, 'tis healing medicine;
Or lonely, thronging friends I find therein.

If I would work, the Bible is my tool;
Or play, it is a harp of happy sound.
If I am ignorant it is my school;
If I am sinking, it is solid ground.
If I am cold, the Bible is my fire;
And wings, if boldly I aspire.

Should I be lost, the Bible is my guide;
Or naked, it is raiment, rich and warm.
Am I imprisoned, it is ranges wide;
Or tempest-tossed, a shelter of the storm.
Would I adventure, 'tis a gallant sea;
Or would I rest, it is a flowery lea.

Does gloom oppress? The Bible is a sun;
Or ugliness? It is a garden fair.

Homeward Bound

"If there's something you fear to do, do it." That's modern psychiatry as I know it. If it's hard to do, try to do it anyway. If it's easy, it is, perhaps, quite worthless. Did I say that's modern? Well it is also ancient. It is the Jesus way. He never promised a beautiful home in heaven for nothing. It is foolish for folk to think of it so. Great values are purchased only a great cost. And yet, people all around the world are trying to convince themselves that they "can eat their cake and have it too." Subsidies, government handouts, "floor level" prices so that certain people can not lose are all a part of the silly picture that sooner or later will be paid for by someone—maybe ourselves, maybe our children. Tax, Tax, Tax! Pay, Pay, Pay!

Now that that is off my chest, maybe I can get back to Homeward Bound.

My last trip "home," which means Ohio, was a most expensive one. It cost more than the insurance allowed to make my treasured car good again; it cost me much pain and disappointment; it cost my parishioners fewer visits; it cost me 70 days without a car and that is some long, long time to be without a means of transportation; it cost me an entire loss of my yearly visit to the Winona Bible Conference, a pleasure of more than forty years extent. But doing the thing that is trying or difficult or dangerous, all were brushed aside for one more trip last week, to get a transient relief from a two-weeks' revival, much of the cost of which my doctor-brother paid since I was, for most of the time, his guest and without the usual recompense to him of choring on his big lot in Carey, Ohio.

We Did It

We did brave the trip and this time filled with pleasure and profit. We went so far as Ashland (Mecca of Brethren) to call on our professor son and family; we drove to visit near relatives and to consider family affairs and all, not forced to do it because we feared, but because we desired.

We Should

Many people have heard me say with all the force of my being, Never say, "I ought, but I don't." It is one of the most damaging sayings that ever escape the lips of good-meaning people. When we ought, we "owe it," for says Webster, that is the source of the word "ought." In the translation of John 13:13, Weymouth says: "If I then . . . have washed your feet, it is your duty to wash one another's feet." I remember once hearing a famous preacher say: "What Jesus commends, I command." But here Jesus did not simply "commend," He commanded. What we ought to do, is our duty to do. When we glibly say "I know I ought, but I don't" we inwardly injure ourselves and deliberately disobey our Lord if we have come to a realization of truth and duty and leave it undone. So, when the doctor said: "Better come to your Ohio home and take a rest," we believed we should and we did.

A Revival, Did You Say?

Well, we who have seen them come to an altar running, crying, laughing, and have immersed them by the hundreds "into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit," find no words to characterize the present-day meetings. Here, we had one of the finest setups I have had for many moons; a good, lively song-leader, a faithful and efficient pianist, a group of faithful members, liberal with their time and offerings, with a negligible impact on the neighborhood and small evidence of revival—all this makes it difficult to characterize and lamentably hard to relate or confess.

Two decades ago, such a Revival Team was usually greeted enthusiastically by a full house in the first service; the people (members) had prayed, perhaps for two weeks ahead for a revival; they had canvassed the neighborhood personally to invite and urge attendance; the members in multiplied numbers had moved to or toward an altar to surrender life and service to be empowered for the effort at evangelizing their constituency. But now, most of that is like fifteen lines of blanks. In other words, mainly, none of it is done. Doubt, apostasy, the influence of ungodly members in the big unevangelistic churches have chilled the experience, expectancy and urgency of the spirit of revival among all until it comes to be, really and truly, in too many cases, a "protracted meeting."

"I Ought, But I Don't"

That's what is wrong with modern churchianity. Yes, the world is deliberately chosen. Instead of the prayer, visitation campaign, we have dancing, bridgehounds winning their bet, tipping at the social glass, sometimes beer, sometimes pink tea, sometimes stuff stronger; and that will never win people to salvation. It may win them to clutter up membership rolls with more like themselves, spiritless, worldly, selfish, do-less, unconsecrated, who "know they ought, but do not."

Still Homeward

Are such homeward bound? Are they trying to "disciple every creature"—even their own kinfolk? "If any man will come after me let him deny himself (his self) and take up his cross and follow me"; To pleasure? Fun? Dancing? Bridge Parties? Taking godless oaths in lodge and clubs? At the end of the journey it is going to be: "Well done, good and faithful," "or depart from me . . . I never knew you!" We determine which. It is our choice and it is silly, and indescribably incongruous for us even to assume that people "who are urged to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God" (Rom. 12:1) will hear the "well-done" if they have continually said: "I know I ought, but I don't."

Ashland College News Letter

By Arthur Petit

THE ASHLAND COLLEGE A Cappella Choir under the direction of Dr. Louis E. Pete is preparing for its annual tour of the Brethren Churches. Last year the choir traveled to Washington, D. C., so the itinerary this year will be west. Just how far the trip will carry is not yet decided. Dr. Pete has tentatively selected his personnel. Included are the following Brethren students: Nadine Burley, Cameron, W. Va.; Doris Guenther, New Lebanon, Ohio; Jeanette DeLozier, Ashland; Phyllis Deeter, Dayton, Ohio; Esther Grumbling, Johnstown, Pa.; Betty Rowsey, Ashland; Carol Snyder, Louisville, Ohio; Dolores Thomas, Johnstown, Pa.; Eileen Metheney, Masontown, Pa.; Carolyn Bixler, Ashland; Doris Gilbert, West Alexandria, Ohio; Pat Dovey, New Lebanon, Ohio; Bob Keplinger, Dayton, Ohio; Dorman Ronk, Ashland; Ardene Frantz, New Lebanon, Ohio; Doug McLean, Dayton, Ohio; John Keck, Lost Creek, Ky.; Lewis Smith, Elkhart, Ind.; Alvin Grumbling, Johnstown, Pa.; Ivan Ronk, Goshen, Ind.; Lyle Lichtenberger, Elkhart, Ind.; John Lindower, Ashland; Joe Schultz, Berlin, Pa., and Doris Hart, Washington, D. C.

Ashland College has just completed one of its most successful football seasons since Walter Leckrone called out a squad of about 15 in 1920. Ashland succeeded in winning from Rio Grande, Cedarville, Defiance, Kenyon, Bluffton and Hiram. In mud ankle deep at times, it held Findlay and Otterbein to tie scores. Only Heidelberg, one of the top smaller colleges in the nation succeeded in conquering Ashland. The policy of playing smaller colleges, more our own size, makes for more interesting football. Joe Commisso, member of the Ashland Brethren Church, captained the team this year.

Ashland, by action of the faculty, decided to enter the Mid-Ohio League next year. Findlay, Defiance, Bluffton and Cedarville will be the other members. The teams will play for a championship. George Donges of Ashland is president.

The football season was saddened this year by the serious injury to Russell Cooke of Mansfield whose fifth cervical vertebra was broken in the Hiram game. Cooke, a veteran, is in Crile Hospital for veterans. He will remain for about four months in the hospital and will have to undergo a long period of convalescence. He is married and his wife is at his side in the hospital. He was a sophomore. Instructors are cooperating to continue his studies without interruption.

Maridean Ward, Peru, Ind.; Betty June Myers, Ashland; John Lindower, Ashland; Pat Dovey, New Lebanon, Ohio; Bonita Bowman, Dayton, Ohio; David Rose, Johnstown, Pa.; Eileen Ronk, Ashland; and Jeanette DeLozier, Ashland are all members of the staff of the Ashland Collegian, campus newspaper.

New attractive letters, a block "A" with a white cross superimposed upon it, have appeared on the campus. They are worn by members of the Men's Gospel Teams.

Statistics released by the Recorder's Office this week indicated that Ashland now has students from 15 states, the District of Columbia and England. Ohio leads with 520 students 214 of which come from Ashland and Ashland County, while 134 are from Mansfield and Richland County. Outside of Ohio, Pennsylvania leads with 28 students. Eleven are from Indiana. Other states represented are: California, Illinois, Iowa, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, New Jersey, New York, Texas and West Virginia.

Laid to Rest

BECHTOL. On October 22nd we were notified of the home-going of Mrs. Emma Bechtol of Mishawaka, Indiana. She was a deaconess in the South Bend church, and in the absence of the pastor we were asked to officiate. We had known her for many years. She arranged for our first wedding after we were ordained to the ministry. She was a lovely character. Brother Bechtol preceded her in death several years ago. The church has suffered the loss of a loyal supporter who was always interested in the work of the Lord. She leaves a foster daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Meinke of Mishawaka, and many relatives and friends. Service was in the South Bend church.

C. A. Stewart.

PETERS. Christian Mae (Rister) Peters, daughter of Henry and Louisa Rister, was born at Lanark, Illinois, May 13, 1895, and passed out of this life October 27, 1948, at her home in Lanark, at the age of 53 years, 5 months and 14 days.

On November 30, 1916 she was united in marriage to Lloyd E. Peters, also of Lanark. To this union was born one child, a daughter, Ruth, who is now Mrs. Max Sisler, of Lanark, Illinois.

On December 31, 1919 she united with the First Brethren Church at Lanark, where she remained a faithful member until death.

Left to mourn her passing are: her husband, Lloyd E. Peters; the daughter, Mrs. Max Sisler; a grandson, Douglas Sisler; two sisters: Mrs. Rose Hepner and Mrs. George Geison; and two brothers: Henry and William Rister, all of whom live in or near Lanark.

Funeral services at First Brethren Church, Lanark, by her pastor and interment in the Lanark Community Cemetery. She will be greatly missed by the membership of her church as well as by a large group of relatives and friends.

THE BIBLE'S SIGNIFICANCE TODAY

Scripture: Psalms 119:105; Hebrews 4:12; II Timothy 3:16

For The Leader

Tonight we are thinking in terms of the value of the Bible for today's life. Far too many people, yes Christian people, neglect the use of this marvelous Book. Yet in the Bible we find the only way to eternal life, the only certain advice for today's life journey. Why do people neglect this Book? The reasons are many. How can it become more helpful to us? That is part of our discussion tonight. Let us bear in mind that we can never get too much Bible reading, nor can we spend too much time in reading it. Let us learn to love this Book, fondle it, respect it, for it is our whole way of life.

DISCUSSION

1. A LAMP AND A LIGHT. The Scriptures are forever showing the contrast of light and darkness. In Genesis, God divided the light from the darkness, calling the light, day, and the dark, night. The spiritual contrast is even more significant. Light is in Christ, darkness outside of Christ. The Bible concludes with a contrast of eternal day for the righteous, and eternal darkness for the unrepentant. Another picture of light and darkness is revealed in Psalms 119:105. Here the Word (the Bible) is depicted as "a lamp unto our feet, and a light unto our path." Now why do people use a lamp or light? Why do we turn on the lights of our automobiles at night? Simply to see where we are going, and to see the dangers along the way. Precisely that is why we are to study the Word of God. We want to see where we are going, so we read the Bible, and it tells us plainly. We want to see the dangers along that pathway, so we read the Bible, and it sheds light on these dangers. Better to drive your car down a rough, crooked road at full speed without lights on a dark night, than to venture forth into life without a working knowledge of God's Word.

2. HOW THE BIBLE HELPS US. In addition to showing us the only way to heaven, as through faith in Jesus Christ, it gives help for daily living. A high standard of ethics and conduct is explained in the Bible. When we will live by its teachings, we shall live victoriously. You will note as you read its pages, that men's sins are spread forth in all their evil and corruptness, but you will also note that sin is always punished and condemned. It is never glossed over or idealized. Weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth in outer darkness is the positive eternal punishment for the sins of man. The Bible warns us of this, and thus encourages us to live as Christ would have us to live. All sin will be punished, perhaps not in this life, but surely in the one to come. Thus in warning us of this, the Bible helps us to avoid yielding to sin. If we neglect the Book, we have no warning, and then we sin.

Let the Bible help you in your daily desire to live a true Christian life.

3. IN THE PATHS OF RIGHTEOUSNESS. In this day and age of "fast living" on the part of so many young people it is easy to pick out those who are living on the Christian standard. The difference is becoming more and more marked each day. Though we sin in secret we are told that "our sin will find us out." Yes, our sin is written on our faces. Guilty consciences, shifty glances, worn and haggard expressions are a marked contrast to a healthy, godly smile of the true Christian young person. The Bible reveals to us the paths of righteousness that lead to health, prosperity and life eternal. Be smart, young people, and use the Bible for "instruction in righteousness."

4. WHY IT IS NEGLECTED. We wish that every person who stands up and sings "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow" in church could read this passage. Call the attention of your parents to it, for it exposes a prevailing sin among church people. Why do people neglect the Bible? The answer is found in the closing words of the 12th verse of Hebrews, 4th chapter. It is a "discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart." And, young people, how many Christians and church members want their real thoughts and secret sins brought to light? We can put on a good profession of Christianity in our churches, we can hold office, and sing songs, and give offerings. We can applaud our preacher when he gives us a comfortable feeling of security by "white washing" sin. But when we read the Bible it points the accusing finger at us and it hurts. So, we neglect it. Young people, that's why we don't read our Bibles more. It pricks our conscience to the place that we slap it in the face and refuse to have anything to do with it. But, if our medicine is bitter, better take it and get well.

4. GETTING THE MOST OUT OF OUR BIBLE. Surely all of us by the time we are sixteen should be able to say that we have read the Bible through at least once. Why, shame on you! This wonderful Book from God and you've never taken the time to read it clear through as a continued story? It is the most thrilling experience for you. Do it! What, you don't even own a Bible? How much did you spend on cheap magazines this past year? You probably could have bought a deluxe edition of the Bible for half the amount. And did you know that the time you've wasted on those cheap magazines, which do not feed your soul, would have enabled you to read God's great love story clear through? If you've read it from start to finish, you probably don't understand it all, none of us ever do, but you do have a real picture of God's dealing with us humans. The Bible will be further helpful to us if we will study selected passages and books dealing with Christian living. Use it, and profit by it, always!

QUESTIONS

1. What is the explanation that the Bible is still the best seller by far, and yet it is the most neglected book? Explain the mystery.

2. In what ways can we improve the use of the Bible in our lives?

3. Dwight L. Moody wrote on the fly-leaf of his Bible, "This book will keep you from sin, or sin will keep you from this Book." Explain just what you think he meant. Don't you think it is truly a thought provoking statement?

ON THE LOOKOUT

The world perplexed and torn with strife,
Its anxious rulers pale and dumb,
Seeks in the pleasures of this life
A vain escape from wrath to come.
In this the eyes of faith discern
A sign that Christ will soon return.

The churches, neither hot nor cold,
Deny the faith that once they knew;
Seducing spirits, growing bold,
Declare the Word of God untrue.
In this the eyes of faith discern
A sign that Christ will soon return.

But there are some of God's elect,
In spite of silence and delay,
Who, like a longing bride, expect
The coming Bridegroom any day.
In this the eyes of faith discern
A sign that Christ will soon return.

"THE REVELATION OF JESUS CHRIST"

Scripture: 2 Thessalonians 1:7-10

Hymns of the Second Coming

Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

OUR SCRIPTURE SAYS, "the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from Heaven." We know, then, where He now is. He is in the Father's house, preparing a place for us (John 14:1-3). After the Rapture comes the Revelation. "When the Lord Jesus shall be revealed," "every eye shall see Him" (Rev. 1:7). Man's unbelief and Satan's power cannot prevent His Coming again. He will be revealed as the One crucified for sinners (Zech. 12:10). The angels, the guards of His glory, shall accompany Him and purge His kingdom (Matt. 13:41-42). One angel shall bind Satan and cast him into the bottomless pit (Rev. 20:1-3). His angels of might shall also execute judgment upon the beast and the false prophet (Rev. 19:20). The fires of His righteous judgment shall be rained on the sinners of earth (Matt. 13:41-42).

Why will the Lord Jesus be revealed from Heaven with His mighty angels in flaming fire? 2 Thess. 1:8 is the answer. The sinner is under the just wrath of God (John 3:18, 36). He is not coming to put men on probation, but to execute judgment (Isa. 66:15, 16). His vengeance is in the form of "everlasting punishment" (2 Thess. 1:9). The word "everlasting" here is the same as in the term "the everlasting God." This destruction will last as long as God does (Matt. 25:41). It will be everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord (Matt. 25:46).

Christians will not be the objects of the Lord's vengeance (1 Thess. 1:10; 5:9). They will be raptured to Heaven before the awful day of vengeance (1 Thess. 4:13-18). The awful day of vengeance will come upon those "who know not God, and that obey not the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Thess. 1:8). The day of grace will be at an end. There is no salvation apart from Christ (John 14:6; 5:23). We can come to know God only through Christ (1 Tim. 2:5).

The Gospel demands repentance toward God on the part of the sinner (Acts 17:30; Luke 13:3). There can be no exercise of faith without repentance (Matt. 21:32). There has to be a change of mind before there can be a change of trust from dead works to first works, namely, confession and obedience in baptism. Faith in Christ's death for our sins, and in His resurrection for our justification is required (Rom. 4:25; Rom. 10:9, 10).

HISTORY IN THE NEW TESTAMENT

Lesson: Acts 1:8; 4:1-4; 13:2-3; 16:9-10; 28:16, 30-31.

WHEN WE STUDIED the lesson concerning "History in the Old Testament" a few weeks ago, the space which we were permitted to use in the "Missionary Issue" that contained our comment was so short there was little opportunity to say much concerning history in general, as it is applied to the entire Bible. As we meet it in this lesson of "History in the New Testament," we want to pause long enough to say a few things about the entire historical aspect of the Bible.

First of all we want to remind you that the more the manuscripts of the Bible are examined, and as more archaeological expeditions unearth more evidence, the more certain we can be that the Bible history is a true account of the happenings as they are related to biblical characters. Of course there are many secular incidents which are not mentioned in the Bible, for it is not the purpose of God's Word to give an exhaustive account of all historical events. But that which is related to His chosen people becomes more real and is more thoroughly substantiated at each turn of the years.

Therefore when we study Bible history we must realize that we are dealing with a certain class of people in their relation to God and to the nations among which they are situated. The purpose of the history which is found in the Bible is to acquaint us with the facts which led up to the coming of Christ into the world in the person of Jesus of Nazareth.

As we studied about Old Testament history, we found ourselves coming up to within four centuries of that coming, and then we were compelled to turn to secular history to fill in the gap until the writers began again to take up the threads of the history in what we know as the New Testament. It is to that part of the history that we turn for this lesson.

While the Gospels—Matthew, Mark, Luke and John—carry a history of Jesus' birth and ministry, it is to the "Acts" we turn for the history of the early church. Born as it was in persecution that caused a wide scattering of its early adherents, the church was only made the stronger by the attempt of its enemies to destroy it. In the verses referred to in our lesson, we find the beginning of the mother church at Jerusalem; the rapid growth of membership (from 120 to 5000 in a very short time); the missionary urge which was brought about by a great revival at Antioch, and which resulted in sending forth Barnabas and Paul; the definite call to a definite missionary activity in what we know as the Macedonian vision of Paul; and the final activity of Paul, the great missionary to the Gentiles. In it all we see the launching forth into all that was embodied in the final command of our Lord as He said, "Ye shall be my witnesses in Jerusalem, Judea, and Samaria, and to the uttermost parts of the earth," and the following of His word to "Go make disciples in all the world."

That they succeeded is "history" well written. That the "Word of the Lord" was accomplished is easily seen, not that it is accomplished as swiftly as it should be, but with the steady, certain growth that has marked it through the centuries. Maybe we haven't "tarried" in prayer enough; perhaps we have not heard the "Macedonian call" plainly enough; perchance there has been too much hesitation to "go forth" without fear. Gospel History could be written more quickly and with a steadier hand if we were to do as those of old—be willing to become "witnesses" (really martyrs) for the cause of Christ.

Brethren Youth

Santa Claus says make "The Brethren Youth" a Christmas present. Yes, that's the new youth magazine for our church. Subscribe, for only $1.00, by writing to Brethren Youth, Ashland College, Ashland, Ohio. Quite a number of organizations are subscribing for the young people in their church. It will make a lasting Christmas present, and likewise a useful one. A card will be sent to everyone for whom you subscribe indicating that it is a gift from you.

Make this a "Brethren Youth" Christmas.

BRETHREN YOUTH SUGGESTS THAT YOU FILL THE STOCKING FOR KENTUCKY

To give you an idea of what you can do for Kentucky we are listing the ages, and groups of students at the Lost Creek, Kentucky, Mission. Fill your orders by December 16th for the students go home on the 17th. It's a short time, but you can do it with a little extra effort.

There are 29 boys up to the age of 12.

There are 11 boys above 13.

There are 8 girls up to the age of 12.

There are 24 girls above 13.

You may choose your own gifts for these children. It was purposely left that way so that you would have some choice.

Also they need Christmas decorations badly. They could use 12 small vases, an electric phonograph, and 3 dart sets; and pictures for the rooms listed below, or some other decoration.

You might think of something for rooms, so here are some helps:

There are 12 rooms in the boys' dormitory.

There are 4 rooms in the Meyers home for children.

There are 15 rooms in the girls' dormitory.

Do it now—make it a big Christmas for Kentucky. They are our people.

News From Our Churches

MAURERTOWN, VIRGINIA

We are just closing what has been one of the most wonderful autumn seasons in this most wonderful section of God's good earth. What colorings in the woods and on the mountains! To use the colored brother's terminology, it was simply magnolius, scrumptious and splendiferous. God could have painted more wonderful scenery, but I don't believe He ever did, at least not anywhere around these parts. Surely "the firmament showeth His handiwork." The many thousands of visitors and sight seers during the past two months have attested to all this. So much for God's wonderful work in our natural world.

Our past six months have been months of activity of various kinds. Just before Easter we wrote our last report to The Evangelist. The day after Easter the pastor went down with an infected foot and that was not so good. Already we had been shaping things for our annual D. V. B. S. Four ladies came to us from the "Brethren Youth Crusaders," Misses Doris Hart, Carol Snyder, Nina Royer and Doris Brownsberger, and they spent two weeks here with our children and they had a nice school and well attended. There were a few more enrolled than last year. The teachers had their headquarters at the parsonage. Several of the members assisted in getting the children to and from the school, the pastor driving more than thirty miles each morning in that service. The school closed with a program on the evening of July eleventh. A nice group of parents and others was on hand to encourage the children and workers. The usual offering was lifted for the support of this work by the "Crusaders."

Just before this school we attended our district conference at Oak Hill, West Virginia. This is about two hundred and seventy-five miles from Maurertown. But the drive over those West Virginia hills was a treat, and the conference was enjoyed very much by all in attendance. The Maurertown church, a good group of conference attenders, sent its usual full delegation to Oak Hill.

Several of us also enjoyed and "sweated" through the general conference sessions. Whew! that was hot. It was the only real hot weather we had all summer. Our most seasonable summer with lots of rain helped give us the wonderful scenery this fall. But it had its disadvantages too. It was wet here until the middle of October, and that delayed farm work so much that practically no seeding was done here until the middle of October and that ran into our revival meeting time and helped cut down the attendance.

Our Fall Communion service was conducted on October seventeenth with the auditorium full of communicants. The next evening we commenced the revival meetings with Dr. R. F. Porte of Ardmore, Indiana, as the evangelist. Brother Porte brought excellent messages at each service and folks enjoyed his sermons to the full. At said, the attendance was not quite up to par, but on the Sunday evenings he had a really good hearing. We feel that much good was done to all who attended these services in spite of the fact that there were no additions to the church right then. During the past two months, however, we have received six into membership in the church, all by baptism and confirmation. We feel that some others counting the cost and looking our way will be along in the near future. No one can properly estimate the good done by fearless preaching of the Word for a period of weeks. We leave the results to God. He will give the increase.

Our Sunday school is a wide awake institution and we give a lot of our time and effort in helping make this teaching auxiliary a going affair. Then the Woman's Missionary and Sisterhood of Mary and Martha societies are also on the job all the while and hold their monthly meetings and they help in many ways. At a recent all-day meeting the W. M. S. had a quilting party and made two of the covers, one of which went to the workers at Had-dix, Kentucky, and the other to one of our local families that could make good use of it. Both were much appreciated by the recipients.

Thursday evening of this week, November 9th, we had Miss Louisa Kugler and Mrs. C. Y. Gilmer with us for an evening service. The W. M. S. had charge of the meeting and used it as their Public Service of the year. It was a rainy evening but the folks turned out quite well in spite of the inclement weather. The ladies were entertained in the parsonage and the pastor and wife had a nice time with them both. Miss Kugler speaks fluent German and that made the visit all the more enjoyable to the pastor who also takes care of himself in that lingo. We even sang a few German songs to the delight or disgust of the two pastor's wives who had to listen even though it was as bad as Greek to them.

At present our church and Sunday school are gathering funds for a redecoration program that the church has made its aim for the near future. If a legacy of some $2,300.00 or more, left us recently, comes as expected it will be a big help to the program afoot. We have very liberally helped outside works and places and now we must do a little face lifting on our own plant. Oh no, we do not intend to pull ourselves into our shell and drop support of missions, etc., but we are going to help ourselves a little too.

Now for Thanksgiving and Christmas with their special services and enjoyable times together in God's house and in His work. We pray that all our works and workers over the Brotherhood may have the blessings of God on them and their work. We have a work to do and let us do it. Please forgive me for writing at such length and I won't do it again until the next time. God bless and keep all of you is our prayer. Pray for us too.

Brother Ed.
(E. L. Miller)

LANARK, ILLINOIS

The congregation at this place is still carrying on. The new year finds us ready to work with our pastor, Rev. L. O. McCartneysmith, who is beginning his third year's work here. Mrs. McCartneysmith's health is improved enough for her to take up her duties again.

We started the new year by having our Fall Evangelistic Campaign, beginning Rally Day with Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Adams of Pleasant Hill, Ohio, as our evangelist and song leader.

Our Sunday School is showing a healthy increase in attendance. During October we had a loyalty campaign and many of us received certificates for regular attendance. Our four Adult classes care for the fellowship dinners and social activities of the church. Recently one class of women entertained the elderly ladies of the church, and on November 16 the Men's class held a supper for men and boys, with Rev. D. C. White of Milledgeville, as our guest speaker.

Our unified service is working fine at present. We find that by "streamlining" the whole morning program we gain time without losing out on the worship service.

The W. M. S. ladies are busy doing their benevolent work at this time. Thanksgiving will be observed on Wednesday evening, November 24. The midweek meetings are quite well attended under the name of Bible Study and Prayer Service.

A new feature for us is a "Youth Church" which is conducted in the Sunday School room during the regular church hour. The work is in charge of our pastor's wife, with a corps of good assistants. We are proud of this fine group of young folks, the largest group we have had of late years.

We covet your prayers in behalf of the Lord's work.

Mrs. John Livengood, Cor. Sec.

WARSAW, INDIANA

Seemingly, a church, like an individual takes a vacation, then comes home to rest and recuperate. The Warsaw Church, has for a number of years cooperated with the larger part of the Warsaw and Winona Lake churches by holding only a Sunday morning service during the months of July and August, then in the evening a union service was arranged or members of the various churches were free to do as they like, without feeling any definite responsibility to their church. This has generally been accepted as very successful, but this year was not up to par. So starting with the new church year the return from vacations, by pastor, laity, and the church routine in general was a factor to deal with.

The Auxiliary organizations—Sunday School, W. M. S., Laymen, Brotherhood, Sisterhoods, along with a Christian Endeavor effort, are all active. The Sunday School is probably the most far reaching, as we have unified services and most of the Sunday School attendants arrive at 9:30 for the worship service. A Junior Church is conducted for the children during the adult service.

Rev. W. B. Brant was recalled as pastor for this year and is keeping the Bible Study and prayer meeting active. With all the services, every member could find a place to serve. As a football coach remarked about his team "they have the mechanics, if they have the spirit." The Church has provided the "mechanics" which offers opportunity for Christian service to "whosoever cometh."

Homecoming and Rally Day was observed October 3rd, with Dr. G. C. Carpenter as speaker. He has spoken many times from this pulpit, as he served the church eleven years as pastor during its early struggles from a mission church to self supporting. His message was challenging and presented again the truths of God's Word. Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter were greeted by many old friends, and made the acquaintance of new folks during the noon social hour, at which a bountiful dinner was enjoyed.

October 24th was another outstanding service, with Gil Dodds as speaker. This was not Gil's first appearance here, as he has been one of the youth group speakers, and whenever he comes this way we welcome the chance to have him speak for us. A partial list of others, who have visited the church are: Rev. Willis Ronk, Rev. E. M. Riddle, Rev. Delbert B. Flora and the Byler's, Jane and Robert. The church has been definitely praying for the latter group and their mission work.

One wishes it were possible to report larger increases in active church attendance, also a genuine spiritual awakening among old members and a larger number of those seeking Christ and the church, but the seed is sown and God giveth the increase. The choir is active, the director, Mr. Albert Hartman and pianist Mary Louise Long are faithful. A revival service is being planned. Join your prayers with ours that the unsaved, may come and hear the way of the truth of the Holy Word of God.

Jennie Bennett, Church Correspondent.

REVIVAL AT CALVARY, NEW JERSEY

It was a great pleasure for wife and myself to spend two weeks in service with the Calvary Brethren of New Jersey. These Brethren are without a pastor, yet they are holding fast to the Church and Sunday School as well as to the C. E.

Sister Vianna Hackett helped us a great deal in visitation, her spirit is highly optimistic, and she has little and no part in pessimism, but she is a "pusher" for the Lord and sacrificed much of her time, as well as her car, for our service in visitation. We also had our home with the Hacketts and ate frequently at their table. May I say that we fared the best in every way, for which we are very thankful.

The people as a whole treated us in the finest manner and spared nothing to make us comfortable. Wife and I think that the folks at Calvary, N. J., are fine Brethren, and warm Christians. Our stay was rather short, but we had a wonderful fellowship with fine spiritual Brethren.

May God bless and help them in every way to the good of the Church and the Glory of God.

Our service with them helped us to know the condition of the church better than we knew it before; and it seems to me that those kind folks should have a real consecrated pastor, whom the two churches there should pay well so that he could give his life and time for the furtherance of the Brethren Church. There are some in the community who have tried to discourage and even to separate some of our Brethren there from our Church. I think that we helped the people to stand firmer and to hold together in the church, as Brethren. I know that if they fully trust in God and push forward, the work will glow and grow for Christ our Lord.

We baptized three on Sunday afternoon in the Sergeantsville Brethren Church. Brother Newcomb went to a great deal of work to help us in getting the baptistry in readiness. May I say that the water and church was in the best condition for us. The baptism went in the finest order. I say that because we had two ladies to baptize who were not physically strong. One of these were taken into the Calvary Brethren Church last year without baptism, because the Doctor deemed her too weak to stand the water in the baptistry or to go under water in any place. However we took our time and she was baptized and rejoiced much to be able to follow the Lord to the full. We also baptized her husband, Mr. Tempelton, who manifested great satisfaction with his wife in the joy of the Lord and in the fellowship with the Brethren. The third we baptized was Mrs. Rittenhouse—one who had been in fellowship with and in active service in the Baptist Church. She taught Sunday School in said church for many years, and she had no idea of leaving that church. Yet after teaching and preaching the gospel to her she became a little uncertain in her faith, and on the last day, after asking her a few questions, she said, "Yes I will follow the Lord baptism." People say about the latter that she is influential in the community. I hope that all three of them will become mighty in the service of the Lord in our church, for the need of such is great.

May I state with emphasis that the members of Calvary Brethren Church are among the kindest of Christians. They are concerned about others both physically and spiritually and very helpful among the sick. This factor belongs to every Christian, but many do not practice it.

Sister Christiansen and myself are very thankful to the Calvary Brethren for their kindness to us and their appreciation of services rendered them. Our prayer for them is that they may hold tighter together than ever before, and work harder for the furtherance of the Gospel of Jesus Christ in their vicinity. May the Lord, with His choice blessing, spur them on and help them all to the fullest joy in Christian Service.

Yours in His service,
The Christiansens.

Field Secretary

Travels

The first week-end trip of the month called us to Roann, Indiana. Even without a pastor, this splendid church carried out every detail of the day with real precision. This church has the lead in the town and community. It is to be hoped that they shall soon have a pastor. We were wonderfully entertained and well paid, financially, for the trip, besides having a real blessing being with these people.

After one day at home, I took a train for Meyersdale, Pa., where a mid-week service was conducted. Due to very bad weather all day, the attendance was not large but a fine interest was manifest. Their great need is a minister, some one to lead and pastor the flock. Our mission there was to give some assistance at this very point. After a number of calls in Summit Mills and Meyersdale, also at the hospital, the following day I went to Berlin.

Here I was entertained by the Rev. Percy Miller and family. Armistice Day evening, we drove to Vinco (65 miles) for the special services. Before I could get on my way, Brother Miller made a proposition—namely that I remain until Friday evening and speak at the Father & Son Banquet in his church. Then he would deliver me to any place necessary, so that I could make my train to Trenton, New Jersey, on Saturday. Said proposition was accepted and carried out. It was a lovely banquet and program with a fine spirit. (118 fathers and sons present). It was a great evening for all concerned.

At the evening hour of 9:45 P. M., the Millers, somewhat desirous to add some mileage on the new Dodge, informed me that we would make the trip to Altoona that night rather than wait until the early morning, as the weather-man wasn't promising anything very handsome for the following day. When I awakened at the Penn-Alta Hotel, I was sure Brother Miller had made a wise choice.

Saturday at 3:00 P. M., as I stepped off the fine Pennsy train, at Trenton, New Jersey, I was greeted by my former college friend, Emmert Wilson. Mrs. Wilson joined us and I was the guest in their attractive, lovely home at Stockton, along the Delaware river.

I had never before seen the Sergeantsville and Calvary churches.

Well, Sunday was a full day. I taught a class and preached at the morning hour in Sergeantsville, and in the afternoon I preached at Calvary and then conducted the communion services at the former church in the evening. This charge of two churches is needing a pastor. They need him now. This is a fine community and a good field. It was a heavy week-end and a big trip. However, the churches showed their appreciation by fine care and by generously assuming the expense involved. I shall not soon forget my wonderful visit with the Wilsons. Yes, I landed at home at 1:30 A. M., Tuesday.

After a few days at the office and a short business trip, I answered a call from Johnstown to be the morning speaker at the Third Church and in the evening in the Second Church. These churches gave a fine audience and both are doing a fine service. The Zimmermans and Leathermans give care and leadership to these churches. It was the Sunday before Thanksgiving and thus afforded a great opportunity to make the missionary appeal.

Let it be known also, that these churches have presented an unusually fine group of young people in recent years for Ashland College and Seminary.

A considerable time was required during the

A Christmas Meditation

"The Afterglow"

by Willis Ronk

"The Time draweth near the birth of Christ;
The moon is hid; the night is still;
The Christmas bells from hill to hill
Answer each other in solemn mist."

We are in the light, the glow and the beauty of the Christmas story; a story of which we never grow weary. What other story so ravishes the heart of childhood? What other story gives such rapture to the vision of old age? What other story gathers all people of all climes, and of all conditions, within its vast and tender heart, making them all rejoice with joy unspeakable and full of glory? We know the answer, there is no other. Our Christian Christmas message stands unique in history.

At Christmas time, we like to hark back to the happy memories of childhood with snow, with sleigh riding, with Christmas gifts and the happy moments so closely associated with Christmas, but this is not keeping Christmas. We like to exchange our little gifts with friends, relatives and loved ones; we like to invite and to be invited to enjoy Christmas festivities, but even these are not the true keeping of Christmas. We need to go back to the greatest event in human history and to hear,

"Celestial choirs from courts above
Shed sacred glories there;
And angels with their sparkling lyres
Make music on the air."

"'Glory to God' the sounding skies
Loud in their anthems ring,
'Peace on earth good will to men,'
From Heaven's eternal king."

Yes, we need to hear the angel say, "Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ the Lord." Luke 2:10, 11. We need to behold the wise men, as they worshipped the Christ Child and presented their gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh Matt. 2:11. Perhaps we need to walk along the way with the shepherds as they "returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them." Luke 2:20.

As I meditate upon these words, I think back to a California winter, and the memories of boyhood days. Nowhere have I seen the beauty of the sunset and the glory of the afterglow so pronounced as there. The sun sets behind the western hills in all of her glory, and when seemingly it should be dark, the brightness and the glory of the sun is reflected in the western sky—not only is there light, but beauty and glory beyond imagination—the afterglow.

The years and the centuries have passed since the events which made that first Christmas, but the beauty and the glory of His Person remains undimmed through the passing of those centuries. Indeed we who live after the elapse of the centuries, with the pages of human history behind us, and the radiance of His Person about us, should see with clearer vision than those who walked along the roads of Palestine so long ago. If the shepherds "returned, glorifying and praising God, for all of those things which they had heard and seen," then too, from our lives and from our faces should ever be present the Christian Afterglow.

It was in the midst of the world's darkest night, that Jesus was born in Bethlehem. One cannot study the history of those times without being appalled at the mental confusion, the spiritual darkness and the moral degeneracy. Over a period covering centuries the Jews had presented the world's highest, finest, and noblest in religion, through the laws and codes of Moses; the songs of the psalmist; and the message of the prophets who spoke of social justice, righteousness, and the coming of The Righteous One. Then in many instances the people permitted it to drift into a cold lifeless formalism.

The Greeks had represented or presented, as you may choose to state it, the culmination of the world's best in music, art, architecture, sculpture, and philosophy, but the Greek and his world had fallen into the sensuous and vile, without power to lift man or society.

The Romans had brought the conception and realization of law and order and had held the civilized world together during a critical period of history, but now the empire was on the verge of falling apart. To the thinking, the moral, or the religious man, this was a time of dark despair. It was in the midst of this world darkness when multitudes of hearts were in despair, that the star appeared in the brightness befitting its mission, and the voice said "Fear Not—for behold—a Savior."

Zacharias hailed the coming of Jesus as the Dayspring, or the rising from on high, and that soft light which shone from a stable nineteen centuries ago has spread unto the whole world. The course of human history has been changed. As we stand again in the glow of Christmas tide, we hear the chant of peace, good will, and we look about us in disappointment, for the ideal of peace has not been realized. And for that matter, many of the Christian ideals have not been realized, but we follow on! Some one has said that Plato's Republic was a wonderful dream which never came true, in fact it could never come true, for it presupposed a different kind of world, a different kind of nature and a different kind of human nature. Jesus knew life as it was, he accepted men and women as they were, Publicans and sinners, and they were transformed.

Jesus knew that something could be done about and with human nature and that is the heart of the matter. Impulsive Simon Peter, who cursed and swore and who denied his Lord, became brave and trustworthy under the Master's care. Paul, the proud persecutor, became the humble persecuted for Jesus's sake. Augustine, the dissolute became a leading church thinker. It is nonsense to say that no one has lived up to the golden rule and, therefore, its attainment is impossible. I do not profess to have attained, but God's Grace as sufficient for attainment. Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as wool, though they be red like crimson, they shall be as white as snow.

All kinds of Utopias and Golden Ages have been promised to the world, and none have been realized. With the first Christmas was born a new hope, and with each new Christmas the hope is renewed, a Savior is indeed promised, has come, He is here. His kingdom is not of outward pomp and glory and of marching armies. His kingdom is first in the heart, in meekness, in love, and in truth. He is no longer confined to the mountains of Judea or Samaria. He is in the heart of His children everywhere; the inner life is the center of life, the dynamic to the moral and makes possible the kingdom of righteousness. The Glory of the Son of Righteousness shines with an abiding afterglow after the elapse of the ages.

Jean Paul Richter said, "Being holiest among the mighty and mightiest among the holy, He has lifted with His pierced hands, empires off their hinges; has turned the stream of centuries out of their channels; and still governs the ages." That human life began approximately 1948 years ago at Christmas time. "And the Word was made flesh and dwelt among us." The coming of Christmas means the coming of Christ—the coming of Christ means the coming of light, peace, and love.

Light looked down and beheld Darkness,
'Hither will I go' said Light.

Peace looked down and beheld War,
'Hither will I go' said Peace.
Love looked down and beheld Hatred
'Hither will I go' said Love.

So came Light and shone,
So came Peace and gave rest;
So came Love and brought Life."

It is little wonder that these humble shepherds of long ago were thrilled by the appearances of the star and the birth of the Christ Child; the only wonder is that we today are so calm in the face of so great an occasion. We should be thrilled to the depths of our being, until we would want to sing for joy and that a glory should be manifest in us. The Christmas spirit should go with us every day of our lives, the afterglow should be manifest to all men.

"Joy to the world! The Lord is come;
Let earth receive her king;
Let every heart prepare him room,
And heaven and nature sing."

KENTUCKY MISSIONS have challenged many churches, classes, W. M. S. groups, and individuals the past few months. Trucks from various churches and localities have gone there with supplies and equipment. Gifts range from a large size refrigerator to an old fashioned dinner bell. Included also, are radio-phonograph, records, new typewriter, heaps of clothes from many places, besides candy for Christmas. Oh, yes, one Sunday School provides money to cement a floor in the boys' dormitory. Besides a number of other useful things for Haddix, I am aware that one W. M. S. group is sending curtains, drapes, conglomug rugs, small rugs, etc. for the new cottage where the two ladies live. The National Mission Board answered an emergency call and provided two new furnaces, besides a bath tub and some other very needful plumbing at a total of nearly $1000. Some of your Thanksgiving offerings will be used for these furnaces.

Very fine reports have been coming from the Kentucky station.

The Rev. J. G. Dodds has recently concluded a two weeks special campaign for souls, in the new church. He says, "Ten were received during the meetings, nine of them by Baptism, another was received since." His final statement is that seventeen have been received since Dedication Day, which was August 21st.

Congratulations—Pastor and people.

Driving Spiritual Roots Deeper

by E. J. Black

Someone has said, "The Bible has an answer for any question." This is, of course, the truth. However, the Bible also asks many questions. For instance, "What is man that he be clean?" "Is anything too hard for the Lord?" "What shall a man give in exchange for his soul?" These and many other very personal questions are asked. But perhaps the one that is more intimate than them all is when Job asked, "Will a man rob God?" The Bible, answering this question, emphatically says that, "A man will rob God"; poor, rich, bad, good, religious, and unreligious men, will, have, and are robbing God. God, therefore, answers by stating, "Ye have robbed me in Tithes and Offerings." The accusation is directed at the believer out of fellowship, or the backslider living in sin.

Many are asking, "What is the Tithe anyway?" Again the Word has the answer. Lev. 27:30, 32; "All the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land, or the fruit of the tree, is the Lord's: it is holy unto the Lord. Concerning the tithe of the herd, or of the flock, even of whatsoever passeth under the rod, the TENTH shall be holy unto the Lord." What is a tithe?

A tithe then is a tenth. A tenth of wages, salary, or industrial pursuits less operating expenses. Does that mean deduct living costs—NO; after debts are paid—NO; support of dependent relatives—NO; car repairs—NO. If we are to practice scriptural tithing, the tithe MUST be deducted before anything else is paid. The U. S. government demands first a tenth, and now a fifth of our income, and all classes pay without being able to protest. The farmer leases his farm to a share cropper for half or a third of the income. If the employee, or share cropper were to pay their income tax, and increase from the farm, as Christians pay, (or pretend to pay), their debt to God would work something like this. They would promise to take an offering once a week; hold an oyster supper once a year; get names for a quilt; sell jello; ask for donations; put on a play; or something as ridiculous. How would our Secretary of Treasury react? What answer would the farm owner make? To be sure, it sounds impractical and foolish, and it is. But how more foolish is it to believe that the Church, the greatest institution on earth, can survive when Christians have no better plan than those just mentioned?

Someone will say, "When I have paid my tithe, have I done my full duty?" The laws of the tithe and offering are found in Deut. 12:6. "And thither ye (religious people) shall bring your BURNT OFFERINGS, and your SACRIFICES, and your TITHES, and HEAVE OFFERINGS, and your COWS, and your FREE WILL OFFERINGS, and FIRSTLINGS of your flock. Paul gives us a picture of how the early church was supported when he wrote, "Upon the first day of the week let EVERY ONE OF YOU lay by in store AS GOD HAS PROSPERED HIM . . . not grudgingly, nor of necessity, for God loveth a cheerful giver." There are three things upon which our Christianity is gauged; our conduct, our charity, and our consecration. Primarily and fundamentally, tithing is not a law any more than praying, salvation or fasting, but it is a LAW OF PRINCIPLE, which to a real believer should be more binding than Mosaic Law. Jesus himself, speaking of the tithe to the Pharisees, said, "These things (paying tithes) ought ye to have done, and not to have left the other undone."

Is systematic giving as good as tithing? NO, a thousand times NO. A well-to-do Deacon said, "I pledge myself to give ten cents a week, no less and no more." A church of one hundred would be "sure" of $10.00 a week, even if their expenses were $50.00. This kind of giving cannot take the place of the tithe.

Does a man sin when he does not tithe? Is robbery sin? 1 Cor. 6:9-10 "Know ye not that the unrighteous . . . nor thieves, nor covetous . . . shall inherit the kingdom of heaven."

Is it possible that the Brethren Church has not enjoyed the growth she is entitled to because Brethren people are keeping back from God his rightful dues? Have we Brethren ministers, in our zeal to propagate our doctrines, emphasized some to the exclusion of others? Namely, Communion, Baptism and footwashing, failing to stress others, i. e., tithing, secret societies and nonconformity to the world? Perhaps, Brethren, much of our trouble in financial matters are of our own making. Who knows? Is it possible that many of our pastorless Brethren churches are standing today as a monument to covetousness, greed, and selfishness on the part of those who have withheld from God, and neglect on the part of leaders to stress this vital truth of tithing? Many young hearts have beaten high in anticipation of a life of full time service, here or abroad, only to learn that the funds available would not permit them to enjoy the smallest luxury of life, not to speak of the many necessities. Certainly, a thinking people should make the ministry so attractive that our consecrated young people would be eager to enter full time service. Our seminaries surely are affected by this sin of withholding from God, when young people choose almost any other profession in preference to full time service for the Church. We are proud of the thirteen enrolled this year, but there must be more if we are to furnish all our churches with preachers. What an opportunity there is for Brethren people to invest in these boys who will some day be their preacher. The proper thing to do is to begin now to lift the mortgage, paint the church, redecorate, raise your preacher's salary so he can live comfortably and not have financial burdens, beside the burdens of his church. A tithing church can do all this.

When we think of the sacrifices of our heroic missionaries in South America, we should blush with shame when we realize that they do not have access to the simplest Sunday School literature, in many instances as we do here. Why? We all know why: insufficient funds. The doors of opportunity have never been open wider than they are now for Brethren folk to help in our work in South America. Our missionary offerings have been increasing these last few years, but not in proportion to salaries. The Macedon-

Miss Kugler Sails To South America

Monday night, November 29th, at Mansfield, a little company saw Miss Louisa Kugler mount the Trail Blazer for New York City, where she spent her remaining few hours with Miss Ruth Clapper, until her departure Friday on the "S. S. Uruguay" for South America.

Miss Kugler was brought here in August for our General Conference and since then has been visiting our churches and conferences. Practically all the time she has been accompanied by leaders and workers of the church. She was as far west as Mulvane, Kansas, and east to New York and New Jersey.

The church owes a debt of gratitude to those who ably helped and directed her course while she was here.

We voice here in, also, our appreciation to Miss Kugler for her presence, her many messages, and her willingness to share her life in the traveling which was entailed in such a trip.

She has borne a very wonderful testimony in our midst. Her zeal and courage, with a most Godly spirit, will win. She has lifted the missionary spirit in our church. It is already evident.

Because of the generous offerings from churches and individuals, Miss Kugler takes with her a lot of useful equipment for her work at Villa Constitucion, as well as for some of the other workers. A number of donors designated that their gifts be used for some specific need at her station.

I want to add, also, that the initial invitation for Miss Kugler to come to our America was given by the S. M. M. Girls. They helped with the expenses of bringing her here, while the W. M. S. has helped with the transportation on the return. The remainder has been done by the Missionary Board.

She was wonderfully received everywhere she went and will have this country and hundreds of new friends for her and our missionary work in Argentina. It is her regret as well as ours that she could not appear in every one of our churches.

Miss Kugler: May God's blessing and direction be over you enroute home and may you feel His presence and leadership in all your labors for Him. As we pray for you, we covet your prayers for us.
—E. M. R.

WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO BE A MISSIONARY?

A young woman asked the above question of a minister and he listed these points for her on a card. Read them and try making a better list. If you are convinced you have what it takes, what are you waiting for? To see the need is to have a real authentic call.

1. You have to want to. The half hearted will soon find an excuse for giving the whole idea up for something easier and less beset by difficulties.
2. It takes some special training and educational preparation depending on the type of missionary work you want to do, such as—home or foreign work, teaching, medical or agricultural missions, etc.
3. It takes a willingness to sacrifice comforts, family ties, etc.

4. It takes the realization that St. Paul had, that you are debtor to all men.
5. Of course, it takes prayer. Read Acts IV . . . How the early church prayed.
6. It takes love for Christ and love for souls.

God Is Doing Something For Us

by John T. Byler

When the Mission Secretary made the assignment of the above topic, he, wittingly or unwittingly, covered a great deal of territory. Never in our history has there been a time when God has not been busy doing something for us, either as individuals, as a nation, or as a church. And never should we as Christians allow ourselves to think that great and marvelous things are not being continuously done for our benefit and on our behalf.

But somehow, those of us who were able to attend our Annual Conference last August, or those who were unable to attend, read of the events taking place during that period of time, know that this is a special time for rejoicing, for God is truly doing something for us—something of a special nature—something reaching out into avenues and areas of service which too long have been areas untouched insofar as our church is concerned. And for this increased activity, we are truly thankful.

To be more specific: In our conference in August, five new missionaries were set apart and plans were laid for their being sent to new fields of labor just as soon as humanly possible to send them. Two of these have been located in their work in Kentucky, two have gone into the field in Argentina, and the fifth is waiting for necessary passport and visa so that she too can start her work in the Argentine as soon as the way is opened for her. But just as important as the actual beginning in the work already mentioned is the new work that has begun in the hearts of a dozen or more other consecrated young people whose purpose it is to follow these new workers into any field of service that the Lord chooses for them.

Why is this so important in our consideration of the thought that God is doing something for us? Simply because it opens to us a new vision as a church. No church can long remain alive if it has no missionary vision. The first great work of the church is missions, and any church that refuses to recognize this fact is a dying church. An artist, once asked to paint a picture of a dead church, painted a large, elaborate structure of beautiful proportions, fairly well filled with prosperous looking people. The view of the church was from the open door as one looked into the sanctuary. At this door had been placed an offering box, marked "foreign missions," and it was this particular object that the artist used to signify that life was about gone from what otherwise might have at first sight, appeared to be a live church. He painted over the box a cobweb whose appearance indicated that it must have been undisturbed for a considerable length of time.

God is doing something for us when He awakens in the hearts of our young people a desire to be of service at any cost to themselves. But unless we who remain at home are willing to hold up their hands even as Aaron and Hur stayed the hands of Moses when the children of Israel met Amalek, we will be guilty of refusing to allow God to continue to carry on the work that He has begun among us. The work of the church is costly; it costs the lives of those who wish to see it carried forward; and if you are a part in it, it must necessarily be at tremendous cost to yourself. Christianity is not something to be played with—it is not a toy that can be picked up and discarded at will. It is full time work; it requires everything that we can put into it. In fact, it requires that all else be made secondary to it. If that be true, being a Christian reaches out into the realm of man's possessions and his pocket-book, as well. And somehow, this becomes the spot where so many people stop. They are willing to be Christians to the extent that Christianity shall not affect their money. When money is mentioned, there are certain reservations added to their lives. This ought not to be, but since it is, we ought to take time to examine the situation a bit more carefully.

Just whose is your money? To whom does it belong? It is true that you worked for it—perhaps at hard labor, or through long hours. But from what source did you receive strength for that labor? Who allotted to you the hours which were used in earning the money? Who sends the sunshine and the rain which makes the growth of the food which you eat? Then by what special virtue can you call all of these things yours, even though you did work for them?

The things which you use from day to day—health, energy, money, talent, time, and everything else of value have been entrusted to you from God who gives us all of our blessings. And since they are only yours "in trust," you are only a steward of these things. And as with every good steward, it is necessary that everything in your care be accounted for. The fact that Christ has paid your redemption price for sin does not release you from any obligation to God concerning the things which you normally call your possessions. Christ came not to nullify the law—rather, He came to fulfill it. And part of God's law still has to do with your obligation to Him concerning your tithes and offerings. We have no right to expect God to bestow upon us His blessings when we fail to meet his requirements. The law of the tithe (or tenth) has never been written off the books, though many Christians have never thought of it as applying to them.

Have you ever stopped to consider what might be done in our church if all of its members took seriously their privileges of tithing? We would be able to carry on such a program of missionary activity—both at home and abroad—as we have never dreamed of. And the blessings which God would shower upon us would be beyond our fondest hope. Listen to His Word: "Bring ye all the tithes into the storehouse, and prove me now, herewith, said the Lord of Hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it." (Mal. 3:10) God throws out a challenge to us in these words. He offers us untold blessings if we will only take Him at His word and let Him prove His interest in us. But we sit back clutching our paltry possessions, unwilling to share them, thus cutting off the riches of Heaven that might otherwise be ours.

The Scripture is plain in its admonitions concerning the matter of our giving. There are about seven plain rules all of which any Christian can and should follow. According to these rules, Biblical Christian giving should be:

1) According to income. (Deuteronomy 16:17) "Every man shall give as he is able, according to the blessing of the Lord thy God which he hath given thee."

2) Without show. (Matthew 6:3) "But when thou doest alms, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doeth."

3) Freely. (Matthew 10:8) "Freely ye have received, freely give."

4) With simplicity. (Romans 12:8) "He that giveth, let him do it with simplicity."

5) Regularly—every week. (1 Corinthians 16:2) "Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered, that there be no gathering when I come."

6) Cheerfully. (2 Corinthians 9:7) "Every man according as he purposeth in his heart so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity for God loveth a cheerful giver."

7) According to ability. (2 Corinthians 8:12) "For if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not."

Malachi asked "Will a man rob God?" and speaking for God, he said that men robbed God when they failed to bring Him their tithes and offerings. Too long we have been guilty of the same sin, and too long we have been without the blessing that is in store for us if we will meet His requirements. It is not only a matter of meeting our obligations—it is good business. Let us help to put and keep the Church on a sound Christian and business basis.

OF INTEREST TO CHURCHES AND PASTORS HAVING A SLIDE PROJECTOR

Rev. Vernon D. Grisso, Chairman of the Publicity Committee of the Brethren's Home and Benevolence Board, has been instrumental in securing a group of 40 2x2 slides of the Brethren Home at Flora, Indiana. These may be had for a service in your churches by writing to Brother Grisso, addressing him at Smithville, Ohio. He says that there is another group of pictures that seems to have been lost in the mails, but that they may turn up at any time, thus adding to the number. But the forty are available. Make your reservations for these pictures, and having used them, be sure to return them immediately, in order that they may be sent to another church.

Driving Spiritual Roots Deep

ian is again calling, this time to your pocketbook. "Come over and help us."

Kentucky, as much a state as Ohio, Indiana or Pennsylvania, is the scene of another of our missionary posts. Yet when we receive the mail from there, we learn of their need for cast off clothes, used furniture, used dishes, etc. Have we forgotten that these are our Brethren? Have we forgotten that nowhere but in the states mentioned are people compelled to resort to such means to continue the work of the Church? Rev. and Mrs. Drushal and other workers are doing a noble work, yet how much more could be accomplished if every member of our church would share in this splendid work, by giving more liberally, that the burden might not be carried by so few.

It is quite evident that possessions are needed to enhance a man's freedom. It is even doubtful if character in this world can be complete without them. However, possessions in themselves are inadequate to bring any lasting blessing. Keeping them for ourselves reminded Jesus of the Rich Fool. Squandering them brought forth the parable of the "Prodigal Son." Sharing them, the Golden Rule. But tithing them, God promises an unusual blessing. Mal. 3:10 "Prove me now herewith, saith the Lord of hosts, if I will not open you the windows of heaven, and pour you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it."

Is there any substitute for tithing? Absolutely NO. The builders of the tower of Babel tried to use slime for mortar; brick for stone; and the tower fell. Jeroboam substituted golden calves for the people to worship at Dan and Beer Sheba, instead of worshipping Jehovah God; result—judgment. The Unwise Builder substituted sand for rock when he built his house, and it fell. Don't pay as you go. Don't pay only for what you get. Don't give because you feel you must. But pay God when you owe Him, then begin to give your offerings, because God loves a cheerful giver.

latter hours of the month in getting boxes of equipment ready for shipping for Miss Kugler.

By the time this is in print, she will be sailing the deep waters enroute to her people in South America and we hope she arrives before Christmas.

May Jesus be exalted and truly worshipped as we again anticipate the Yuletide season.

Approach the New Year with greater fervor and love for our Lord.

Our Wonderful Salvation

by C. C. Grisso

Wonderful! That is the word that needs to be used in attempting to describe our salvation. When we begin to think of the salvation that has been provided for us; a salvation that is full, complete and eternal; a salvation that came out of the great heart of God, and that was wrought by our wonderful Saviour; then it is that these poor, mortal, finite minds of ours lack words to express it. For it all is too wonderful for human minds to comprehend and for human lips to speak it forth. Now, in connection with our theme there are four things that to me are outstanding, and concerning which I would have you think with me for a few moments.

First: Our Salvation is WONDERFUL IN ITS ORIGIN. It was all planned in the councils of heaven before the dawn of creation. We read, "He (Christ) became the Author of Eternal Salvation." But, "Christ was a Lamb slain from the foundation of the world." But what of the cost to the Author to accomplish that? Saint Paul tells us in that great fifth chapter of Romans that the whole human race was brought under condemnation and sin and death, because of one man's disobedience. How great must have been the news of man's revolt, and how great the consternation and the suspense of the Heavenly ranks, when it was first announced that man had sinned—that he had deliberately disobeyed the voice of God. What would the Almighty God do about it? Would he uncork the vials of His wrath and consume him? It would have been easy for Him with one swift decisive stroke to have hurled this rebellious pair out of existence. But God's great heart of love could not let him go. Some one must volunteer to save the race from total loss. Who was that One? None other than God's only begotten Son. And in that moment the Son of God became the world's Redeemer. But what a price He paid! He went all the way to Calvary with its torture and its shame to make possible our Redemption. "He Who knew no sin was made sin for us." "He was made in the likeness of men," that men might be transformed into His own perfect likeness. "He was made flesh" that He might suffer in the flesh for us. "He was made poor that we through His poverty might become rich." He "was made a curse for us" that we might be redeemed from the curse. Yes, think of it again, He, who was God, and perfect man, became sin, became flesh, became poor; He was made a curse. That was the price that was paid. No mortal mind can measure the infinite distance of that descent, for to do so would be to measure the love of God.

"Out of the ivory palaces, into a world of woe,
Only His great Eternal love, could make my Saviour go."

Second: Our Salvation is WONDERFUL IN ITS SCOPE. Some poet, whose name I do not recall, in speaking of the love of God, likens it to an ocean that overflowed its banks until it poured out over a sin-ruined world. No wonder that poet or another wrote these lines:

Could we with ink the ocean fill,
And every blade of grass a quill,
Were the whole world of parchment made
And every man a scribe by trade,
To write the love of God
Would drain the ocean dry,
Nor would the scroll contain the whole
Though stretched from sky to sky.

The greatest announcement ever heralded to a lost world was that "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." And there is nothing in that expression for self-congratulation; that God has chosen any race or nation or peoples as the object of His special favor. No, and should an angel come to earth to carry a personal message from the great heart of God to every one for whom it bleeds, he would go to every home in every land. In the homes of the poor and down into vicious brothels where hell has spent its venomous rage, and out and on across the frozen waters into the snow-walled huts of "Greenland's icy Mountains to India's coral strand": across pathless jungles of the world's darkest continents, even to every unexplored nook of God's great universe; and, lest someone be missed we should write in blazing letters of fire across the heavens, "God so loved THE WORLD." As the whole world had come under condemnation because of Adam's sin, likewise the whole world is included under grace. And, thanks be to God, there is no individual case or condition that this wonderful salvation can not reach.

One day a missionary went down the streets of New York thinly clad. As he passed a gambling den he met a staggering drunken wretch. He said to the missionary, who had talked with him, "Pard, if you want to help me, give me your coat." He gave it to him and said, "Now come with me to the mission." He came, he heard the message of salvation, he believed it, he accepted it, and soon he became a great preacher, although having spent seven terms in Sing-Sing. When he died they opened the doors of the great Broadway Tabernacle, where there passed an endless stream of people. Great mountains of flowers surrounded the casket wherein lay the body of Jerry McCauley, and the preacher said, "He had more power than all preachers in New York combined." But it could not be accounted for apart from Jesus Christ.

Yes, read again the list of twice-born men as it grows into the millions and we will come to appreciate our wonderful salvation. So wonderful in its scope that EVERY SIN OF EVERY AGE AND DISPENSATION HAS BEEN BOUND IN ONE MIGHTY BUNDLE AND NAILED TO THE OLD RUGGED CROSS. Christ literally put Himself there, in the place of every sinner, and paid the price in full for every sin and every sinner is pardoned on the simple terms of appropriating Christ to himself in all that He wants to be to him; his Saviour; his Lord, his Redeemer and his Master.

"Jesus paid it all, All to Him I owe, Sin had left a crimson stain, He washed it white as snow."

Thank God! there was opened that day, in the House of David, a fountain for sin and uncleanness, a "Fountain filled with blood, Drawn from Immanuel's veins,"—a fountain to which every sinful soul may come for cleansing.

Third: It is a Wonderful Salvation because of its effect upon human character. If we want to know what sin is and how deep down in it men will go, just read the first chapter of Romans, and yet Saint Paul is bold to affirm that "the Gospel is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." If our Lord Jesus Christ is the author, He is also the Finisher of our salvation, for verily, "He who hath begun a good work in us will perform it unto the day of Jesus Christ." He will "save to the uttermost them that come unto God by Him." Yes, Christ takes me "Just as I am" and makes out of me a character upon which He, Himself, can one day look with delight. The story is told of how Michelangelo, who one day saw a piece of marble lying in the filth and mire of the city street, ordered it to be taken to his studio where he applied his skill and mallet and chisel until there was fashioned the face of an angel. That, my friends, is a chapter in your life and mine, for one day, we also, were "in the miry clay," covered with the filth of this world, but we were washed; we were cleansed; we had the "precious blood applied" and in a moment, by the wonder-working of His power divine, we were transformed into the likeness of His Son. What in all God's universe could do a thing like that for us, save one thing? Nothing, "Nothing but the blood of Jesus." Yes, this Wonderful Salvation not only saves, but it keeps and meets the need of every human soul and heals the wound of every aching, throbbing heart.

And now, let me suggest finally, THAT OUR SALVATION IS WONDERFUL IN ITS GLORY. What of the future? What is yet to come for the Christian? Our salvation has its roots deeply anchored in the past, but its true realization lies in the future. All the glory of the past is not to be compared with that which is to come. "Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love Him." "The sufferings of this present time are not to be compared to the glory which shall be revealed in us." Yes, and St. Paul makes bold to affirm concerning the wonders of this glory in these immortal words, "In Whom we have obtained an inheritance." Yes, we have an inheritance, incorruptible, undefiled. Listen with me to the heart-beat of the apostle, Peter, as it comes to us across the centuries, and join with him in saying, "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a living hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for you, who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last day."

"Into GLORY—here we wait fulfillment,
None hath seen or even heart conceived,
By His cross alone we'll enter glory,
Bought by Him—By Him to be received!"

Thus as we approach the dawning of a new day we raise our spiritual sights and our horizon shines with the light of eternal hope! All the wonders surrounding the resurrection of our Wonderful Lord is ours! "Christ the first-fruits—afterward they that are His, at His coming." The great doctrine of the resurrection of our bodies, together with the changing of the bodies of living believers at His appearing, and together going to "meet our Lord in the air"; these all are necessary to complete the work of redemption and the perfecting of our salvation, and "it is nearer than when we first believed." Our Lord will complete it, never fear! Glorious hope! The resurrection trumpet shall sound and we shall live again, eternally, in the light and glory and splendor of a new and better day.

SOUTH AMERICAN LETTERS

When we arrived in Buenos Aires, Brother Hallman (of the Mennonite Church) offered to get our cash exchanged. We had over $600 of Mission Board money and a little cash of our own. The official rate of exchange was 4.80 pesos for one U. S. dollar. Many are buying American dollars and he got 8.60 for ours. This was double the amount we would have gotten if it had been sent in check form to the Bank of Argentina through the Bank of New York.

At Colon, a work which has been going only eight months, we have a large congregation. The attendance at the services (not all members) is about 30 to 35. We heard a nice choir from there sing at the conference in Rosario. We have not been there yet. They sometimes have as many as 50 in the C. E. meetings. We understand the Hall which they rent is nice. The pastor and his wife have two rooms.

Here in Cordoba we are in the home of Dr. Yoder and his daughter, Grace Farre. They have all been looking for a place for us to rent, but so far with no success. We have looked too, but rent is high. Usually between 200 and 400 pesos for three to five rooms with bath, and not always with a garden. It is necessary to lease usually for at least a year at a time, so we want to be sure and choose wisely.

The congregation here meets in a small rented house. They were able to remodel a bit and make a hall large enough for meetings. There are about 30 members who took communion on Sunday. At prayer meeting the attendance was 33, and the C. E. has about 25 who come. The morning S. S. attendance is around 50. The pastor and some of his young people conduct the other two S. S. each Sunday. Last Sunday the one had an attendance of 12 and the other 25. The Romanenghi children, Norman—20, and Elsie—17, are both wonderful workers . . . completely voluntary. Also, Miriam Farre, who is 15. Grace and Eleanor (Yoder) both visit and help in many ways. But to show you the handicap of having no car here: the other day we started out with Grace Farre to do some calling in one of the annexes. We waited for two hours for a bus which never did come. Often they break down, or do not run on schedule. The workers often do not get to scheduled meetings on that account, and there aren't many phones. Yesterday we made six calls with Brother Andenmatten, who has a '29 Studebaker. He is pastor here, but also works in a book store. The streets away from the main part of the city are very bad—just dirt. It has been very dry here, so it is quite dusty. Another day we walked with Eleanor Romanenghi to visit a sick lady.

The members are quite scattered, but many of them come quite a long distance. Most of the people are poor and it is a real step for them to become self-supporting here. By the way, Brother Andenmatten has voluntarily given up his salary from the church to be used for other work, and lives on the salary he receives at the book store. Apparently he wanted to do this. He receives his rent—three rooms in connection with the hall. They have two small children.

We are quite well pleased with what we have seen of the work, but you can see there is a lack of equipment. Most congregations have made their own benches and some of the S. S. classes meet in little sheds or in the living quarters of the pastor. The church in Rosario is almost fully equipped in every way. You can rightly be proud of it. It is large enough to care for as many as 200-300 people. It had adequate S. S. rooms and living quarters. There is an organ and a piano.

The others are small and unattractive and inadequate. When we rent, we can not remodel and improve at will. Then there is always this problem of the lease running out or the possibility of having the rent raised. It would put our work on more permanent footing if, at least in the five centers, we could have something of our own. The whole building at Rosario was at a cost of about 45,000 pesos. To do anything similar, it would now cost at least 90,000 pesos or (depending upon the rate of exchange) about $18,000. They have five rooms for living, with bath and a large auditorium and about four S. S. rooms. There are wide patios for social gatherings, and the roof is used for children's classes, also. There are two storage rooms and a bath for the church use. There is a large garden, a small playground for the children. At the conference there was room enough in the back yard to put up a large tent where all the men slept. The ladies used the S. S. rooms and the members donated mattresses and linen and dishes. They really took care of the situation very well. Of course Rosario is the only place where a conference can be cared for.

This is a great experience for us. We are happy to be here. The people who are members seem to be devout and earnest. It is a hard field, but the young people are coming in good numbers and seem enthused. Of course we have been here such a short time, our report is incomplete. But these are the things we have seen and heard so far.

There is a very great need for true gospel witness. In this large city, there are only five Protestant churches. There is room for many more. The Plymouth Brethren are most active, then Baptists and Methodists. The Mennonites have a large work, but it is widely scattered over the country. We are endeavoring to learn the language, but speaking is much more difficult than understanding others. We covet your continued prayer that we shall learn well and be able to work soon.

The Lord has blessed us richly and we are grateful for this experience.

—Rev. & Mrs. R. O. Byler.

NEWS

From the Christian World

Christian Endeavor has been received in many areas of Germany since the war, and among the brightest spots is Bremen-Blumenthal, where 1700 young people gathered last summer for an annual conference. Bible holidays are conducted every two weeks in certain places, with attendance in each of 100 or more. Young people go back to their heavy work with new strength in their hearts and souls. Life in Germany is difficult and hard for everyone, and perhaps more difficult for boys and girls, as only so few really believe in the Lord Jesus Christ. They are gathering to help others.—C. E. World.

More than 1000 new missionary volunteers responded to God's call during the past year. These consecrated young people are seeking to get the best preparation possible in order that they may be true representatives of the Christ as they carry the Christian message to foreign lands.

One out of every two hospital beds in the United States is now occupied by a mental patient. Mental hospitals are overcrowded about 10% on the average. Much more care is needed for the increasing number of mental patients in our own country. The Christian Church has an obligation.

A LAMP—

A colporteur was traveling on a long journey in the southern part of the state of Sao Paulo in Brazil. He discovered that some years before another colporteur passing through that region sold a Bible to a man who lived in a little hut among the hills, far from the main road. He began reading and became deeply interested. He read and taught the truth to his family. The good news spread in the sparsely settled neighborhood and others came to know Christ and found in Him spiritual life. By and by they had opportunity to send a request for an Evangelist to visit them. He very soon organized the congregation and a church was built. The work has prospered; on Sundays, the people gather for worship, many coming long distances, some on foot, some on horseback and some in ox-carts. The entire community has been blessed and awakened.

Minnesota is a step or two ahead of most of the states in facing up to our responsibility to dislocated persons in Europe. The ministerial association in Minneapolis met recently to discover how many DP's could be employed and housed in their community. The governor of the state went even a step further and appointed a ten-man commission composed of representatives of church, labor, agriculture and welfare groups to study the resettlement in Minnesota of homeless people of Europe. The governor said, "It is in the American tradition that we accept these new pilgrims with goodwill and great good hospitality."

More than one hundred ten years of Bible work in Brazil by the American and British Bible Societies have culminated in the formation of the Bible Society of Brazil. The new society was inaugurated in a ceremony in the First Baptist church of Rio de Janeiro.

A STORY—

A story is told of Dr. Carey, the pioneer missionary in India, who used to be a shoemaker. He used to go about from village to village preaching, for he greatly loved to tell the story of Christ. One day a friend stopped him and said, "Mr. Carey, I want to talk to you very seriously. By your going about preaching as you do, you are neglecting your business. If you only attended to your business more, you would be all right, and would soon get on and prosper, but as it is you are simply neglecting your business."

"Neglecting my business?" said Carey. "My business is to extend the Kingdom of God. I only cobble shoes to pay expenses."

The Arab-Jew struggle has made its mark felt farther than many would think. Immediately after the decision to partition Palestine, eight American mission schools in Beirut area were closed, including the American Junior College for women. Some schools soon reopened but that did not end the difficulties. The Lebanese government notified the American University that sixty students (Jewish) attending the institution would have to leave the country.

Mrs. Willard Stevenson, a member of the Plymouth Congregational church, will be the first woman to go to India in a new experiment to foster amity among nations. She is called an "average American churchwoman" and has been commissioned as the first associate short-term missionary in that denomination. She will represent American churches as housemother and student counselor at Ahmednagar College in India, which is 250 miles east of Bombay and a branch of Bombay University. Mrs. Stevenson has no theological training but has been engaged in state denominational work for fourteen years. She will remain in India for nine months, after which her goodwill role will be taken over by a member of the clergy. He in turn will be succeeded by an educator.

Mrs. Tamaki Uemura, world famous Christian leader in Japan, is conducting on invitation a weekly Bible class for the imperial princesses. She has also been named one of the five members of the commission to supervise the new national police system.

FISHERS OF MEN

LESSON XXXVII—THE CASE OF NICODEMUS

Nicodemus learns that the only entrance to a new kingdom is by a new birth.

1. Does the law of reproduction according to species (Gen. 1:1-25) still exist?
2. If it does, how can lower animals change themselves into men? 1 Cor. 15:50.
3. Why cannot the natural man change himself into a child of God? 1 John 5:11.
4. What are the steps in this new creation? 1 Pet. 1:18-25.
5. What danger is there in confiding in our own goodness? 1 John 1:9, 10.
6. What advantage has a person with a good life? Mt. 13:23.
7. Why seek the conversion of persons like Nicodemus? Acts 9:15.

BORN AGAIN

Nicodemus, with all his learning in the law, had not learned the biological law that "like begets like," and children of God must have divine parentage. A boyhood friend of mine, had, on the contrary, more faith than understanding when he planted his pocket knife in the ground, expecting it to produce a tree with pocket knives . . . Synthetic chemistry has accomplished wonders, but it has not produced life.

LESSON XXXVIII—THE CASE OF THE SAMARITAN WOMAN

Text—Jn. 4:42—"We know that this is truly the Christ."

A bad alien woman, once converted, prepares a city for revival.

1. Did he know what he was doing? Jn. 2:24, 25.
2. What three customs did Jesus break to converse with this woman? Jn. 4:9; 27; Lk. 7:39.
3. How did he introduce the conversation? Jn. 4:6, 7.
4. What advantage was there in conversing alone? Matt. 18:15.
5. What was his purpose in exposing to the woman her sins? Jn. 1:9, 10.
6. How did he reveal himself as the Messiah? Jn. 4:25, 26.
7. How did the woman stir the city of Samaria? Jn. 4:39.

THE TESTIMONY OF EXPERIENCE

The Samaritans believed because of personal knowledge. I once heard a judge speak in a union revival meeting. He said, "I have never been able to believe, but the testimonies I have heard cause me to desire what you have, and I now here pledge myself that if God will give me the light, I will follow it. Then he began to pray for the light and in a few moments he shouted, "I see. I know. I do believe."

LESSON XXXIX—A CASE OF FANATICISM

Text—Jn. 21:15—"Lovest thou me more than these?"

Sometimes people condemn others to cover their own sins, but God sees the heart.

1. Who were fanatical—The Samaritans or the two disciples? Lk. 9:52-56.
2. Who has a right to call fire or throw stones? Jn. 8:7.
3. What is a good text for the self-righteous? Lk. 17:10.
4. How should we treat those who sin through ignorance? Rom. 14:1, 13, 21.

5. How should we treat trouble makers who are not willing to learn Tit. 1:10-13; 3:19.
6. What concession should sometimes be made for the sake of peace? Rom. 14:21.
7. Is it right to proselite from other churches? See Rom. 15:20, but also Gal. 2:4, 5, 7-10. Rev. 18:4. If it is right to teach the truth, the whole truth and allowed people to reject it?

MODERN FANATICISM

In beginning our mission work in one town in Argentina, a leading young woman, urged on by the priest, went from house to house to urge the people to get together and throw me out of town. She was not to blame, because she thought she was doing God service. A woman in that same town told me later that people thought at first that we Protestants were worse than the vilest of villains, but after reading some of the tracts we gave out they began to see that our teaching was not so bad, and after two years they began to say to each other that they believed our teaching to be better than theirs.

LESSON XL—EL CASO DEL UNIVERSALISMO

Text—Matt. 20:16—"Many are called but few chosen."

The pretense that all will be saved is an opiate for the present only.

1. Solomon spoke of a common end when deep in sin himself. Ecc. 2:10; 3:18-20.
2. What did Solomon say in his old age? Eccl. 12:13, 14.
3. What does David say about judgments? Ps. 62:12.
4. What do the prophets say about it? Ezek. 18:20.
5. What does Jesus say about it? Matt. 7:13, 14.
6. What do the laws of nature say about it? Gal. 6:7, 8.
7. What is the final message in the Bible about it? Rev. 22:14, 15.

A FALSE FOUNDATION

I once heard a zealous universalist preacher harangue a crowd at a railway station. A typical argument was this. "Away with these silly dogmas of the church! What do these flowers have to know about God in order to be beautiful? What do these birds know about Sunday?" His arguments were on a par with the learned (?) college professor who wrote an article in a learned scientific magazine advocating free love for people because, forsooth, it is practiced by some animals. Must we look to the beasts to learn science? If not, then much less must we follow their morals. "Be ye therefore perfect even as your Father in Heaven is perfect."

KEEPING CHRISTMAS ALL YEAR LONG

Scripture: Isaiah 11:1-9; 61:1-3

For The Leader

TONIGHT WE ARE all full of our memories of the Christmas just past. It is still fresh enough in our minds, that we can well discuss its meaning and purpose. In order to keep Christmas all year long, we must know what the purpose of Christmas really is. So many, many people have the wrong conception of Christmas. The only place where we can find the correct ideas about Christmas is in the Bible. So, as we study the scriptures, let us pray for God's Spirit to enlighten us in our thinking. Christmas will always mean far more to us if we observe it as the scriptures teach us to do.

DISCUSSION

1. CHRISTMAS IS THE BIRTHDAY OF A SAVIOR. (Isaiah 9:6, 7; Matthew 1:21; Luke 2:11). Prophecy and writings in the Old Testament reveal the promise of a Savior. The early narratives of the gospels in the New Testament reveal the coming of that Savior. How did He come? He, who was the "only begotten Son of God," was born of the virgin Mary, in this way assuming the body of human flesh. (John 1:14). The entrance of Christ into the world in human flesh is called the birth of Jesus in Bethlehem. All of your stories about Christmas should bring out this great truth that the babe of Bethlehem was the living Son of the Eternal God. Thus He alone, should be worshipped. Mary, while she was valuable to God in the performing of this birth, was just a human being, and should not be worshipped. As we consider the coming of the Savior, we can promise to honor Him and serve Him all year long.

2. CHRISTMAS IS THE BIRTHDAY OF A GIFT. (II Corinthians 9:15). One of the most impressive Christmas cards we ever received bore the words of this verse. All at once the full import of Christmas fell upon us. Christmas IS a time of giving. But the gift that is outstanding is not the expensive offering of the wise men, gold, frankincense, and myrrh. No, the gift which outshines them all is the gift of God in the Person of His Son. "For God so loved the world that He gave." One of the slickest tricks of the Devil has been to blind our eyes to the real Gift, making us to center every thought on the gifts we give and receive. To really keep Christmas, we must worship the real Gift, even Christ, the Son of God and Savior of the world. Giving of gifts to one another serves its purpose as long as we do not go to extremes. First of all, though, giving to the work of Christ should have first place. Don't ever forget that!

3. CHRISTMAS IS THE BIRTHDAY OF A FRIEND. (Proverbs 18:24b). For young people, there is never a Friend who can do more for you than Jesus Christ. He is always loyal and faithful. He always has your best interests at heart. He will give you complete happiness and joy. He will help you when you are tempted and weak. He will guide you when you don't know which way to go. And when you have grown old and are ready to pass from this life, He will usher you into the most beautiful place called Heaven. For this, we must be to Him a faithful follower. We must shun the things of evil, praying for His strength to overcome temptation and sin. We must seek His counsel and help each passing day. We must find a place of service for Him. Remember, He is our friend, and we want to continue to have Him as a Friend, so let's keep Christmas all year by proving to Him that we love Him.

4. THE BEST GIFT WE CAN GIVE. (Romans 12:1). If this one verse were followed by all young people who profess to be Christians, the world would be transformed. The testimony of young people is sadly weakened simply because they do not present themselves a living sacrifice to God. Church just means to them a place to come "because parents insist on it" and a place to "gab." How sacrilegious! We certainly aren't going to win other young people to Christ when we present ourselves unto them in acts of sin. No, we must come clean for Christ, and present our bodies a living gift to Him! God can use each one who so dedicates himself or herself. The weakest vessel can be used of God. In many of our homes there are pianos, or for that matter, most any kind of an instrument. What a joy it is to sit down and play an instrument that is in good pitch and tone. But what agony to try to play on a piano that is out of tune. It's more than agony, it's embarrassing. How do you think God feels when He tries to produce the melody of the gospel message on young people who are out of tune with Him? Present yourself unto Him as your gift this Christmas, let Him tune your life to Him, and you will find yourself richly rewarded in many ways.

5. LET'S KEEP CHRISTMAS ALL THE YEAR. Our scripture lesson foretells the day when Christ shall reign on the earth. The most beautiful verse is the latter part of the 11th chapter of Isaiah, (verse 9) when it says, "the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea." But that is not for now, yet in a sense it is true insofar as we are willing to make it so. We can be true to Him all year long and encourage others to do so, too. Thus the influence of Christ for good will help to make this world a better place in which to live. Let's dedicate ourselves to this purpose this coming year.

QUESTIONS

1. If a friend of yours asked you to explain to them about the coming of Christ into the world, how could you explain it to them? Remember, the story of Christ is the story of salvation. A lost soul may be reached if you know the facts, and present them in the right way. We should always be ready to speak a good word for our Lord!

2. What would you say is the best way of keeping Christmas all the year?

The size of your troubles generally depends on whether they are coming or going.

SIGNS

"All things continue as they were,"
The scoffer used to say,
But even he must see that now
They change from day to day.

The warring nations lust for power,
The fig tree buds at last,
Across the earth the antichrists
Their fateful shadows cast.
Dark are the signs for scoffers now,
Their hearts have failed from fright
But O, for us who trust His Word,
The signs all glow with light!

Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

WE DO NOT NEED to be gyped by date setters nor the identifiers of the Anti-Christ. On the other hand we cannot believe in the second coming of Christ and keep silent about it. Peter rightly corrected sinful silence, the scoffers, and the extremists on this subject (1 Peter 3:9). Christ never belittled the matter of discerning the signs of the time (Matt. 24:3). He gave a whole chapter on signs. We are not to be asleep on this subject (Rom. 13:11).

One outstanding sign of the times is anarchy. It is rampant among the nations for "the mystery of lawlessness doth already work" (2 Thes. 2:7), and the spirit of the Anti-Christ is already in the world (1 John 4:3). We are rebels against God in our hearts and against the authority of all wholesome constitutions. People are trying to disgrace themselves as did the antediluvians (Matt. 24:37). Anarchy is making void the law of God and becoming a law unto ourselves as Israel did in the book of the Judges (17:6; 21:25). When God's people, the salt of the earth are removed, the world will literally spoil. The Holy Spirit Who now restrains lawlessness will one day leave the world (2 Thes. 2:8-12). Men never believed lies so readily as today. They are headed for the deception of the Man of Sin.

A second sign of the times is apostasy, a falling away from the faith in the professing church (2 Thes. 2:3; Tim. 3:5; 4:4; Luke 18:8). A fashionable, unbelieving world church is in the air. Having no gospel it will preach on social and economic matters. It will finally pass under the sway of the Antichrist, the Beast of Revelation 13 (2 Thes. 2:4).

A third sign is apathy in the true church (Matt. 24:12; Mark 13:36; 1 Thes. 5:6; Rom. 13:11). The church of today is characterized by the Laodicean church of Rev. 3:14-21. When times get incurable judgment ensues (Luke 17:22-37). General McArthur thinks we have had our last chance and that the Armageddon of Rev. 19 is at our door. The Middle East is looming in importance. The bride of Christ, however, is not looking for the Antichrist but for our Lord's appearing (Heb. 9:28).

APOCALYPTIC LITERATURE IN THE BIBLE

Lesson: Revelation 21:1-7; 22:1-5, 7

THE LESSON TODAY leads us into one of the most often misunderstood and far too often misinterpreted books of the Bible—The Revelation. In most versions the title given this book is "The Revelation of St. John the Divine." It would far better be stated, "The Revelation of Jesus Christ to John," for John is not the "revealer" but simply the one whom Jesus chose to be the writer who set down the many things which Jesus saw fit to "reveal" or "show" to His servant. The fact that this book is called "The Revelation" tells us of its purpose—"to reveal" or "to unfold."

Every one who thinks about the realities of life must have a desire to know about (as the first verse of the Revelation tell us) "things which must shortly come to pass." As we read the words which follow in 1:4 we find that, in reality, this is another letter which John has written to "the seven churches which are in Asia." It has been revealed to John just what relation each church bears to the Founder, or the Foundation of the church, Christ Himself, and sets forth their failures and their possibilities in such a way that they cannot but recognize their part in the pictures drawn.

But as we go to our text verses we find John pointing out that there is something wonderful that is in store for the faithful followers of the Lord. There will be a "new" heaven and a "new" earth—a new place of habitation. Following, as these chapters do, the dread terrors that will meet those who fail to follow the Christ, these words are like beautiful melodies which follow the rasping tuning up of the instruments before a concert.

These two chapters may be called the grand "Amen" to all that has gone before—from Genesis to Revelation. Our lesson bears the imprint of a gracious and loving God who cares for His own.

Revelation—not understandable? What Christian dares say it is not the most revealing book in the Bible?

INTERESTING ITEMS

Apology. We are very sorry that due to either mis-copying or to the leaving out of a word, we made the meaning of a couple of sentences other than that meant by Brother Bame in his "Travel Flashes." In the issue of December 4, on page 7, under "Capital or Socialism" line 5, should read "The whole creation of peoples." In the seventh line from the bottom of the same page in column two, the line should read "to sell all, but it is not said that he must give all." The word "not" was inadvertently left out. A thousand pardons, Brother Bame.

College Corner, Indiana. In the letter calling our attention to the above, Brother Bame also says, "Our work here goes on gaining slowly, but surely, and these people are proving, at least locally, what a small group can do when they set their heads to it and give their hearts to sacrifice and determination. They have not only doubled their local expenses, but enlarged their offerings to our denominational drives; have made one of the finest basement-kitchen arrangements to be found in like places and all of it done on a completely free-will basis. We have baptized 10, and the Sunday School average has raised more than 35%. Praise the Lord."

Dayton, Ohio. We note that Dr. Glenn Clayton, President of Ashland College, was the Guest Speaker at the Dayton Church on Sunday, December 19. Dr. Clayton ministered to these people for some weeks in the interim between pastorates and while he was still identified with Ohio State University.

Brother Whetstone also says that a group of Seminary men and women from Ashland College and Seminary gave a program of entertainment at the Dayton Church on Wednesday evening, December 15th. This group made a number of the churches throughout Ohio, giving the same program. It was well portrayed.

Meyersdale, Pennsylvania. We welcome Vol. I, No. 1 of the Meyersdale bulletin to our bulletin drawer. One by one the various pastors are seeing to it that the editor gets the bulletin from their churches. Brother W. S. Benshoff, who has recently assumed the pastorate of the Meyersdale Church, is following his regular procedure in sending on his bulletins, even as he did when he was pastor of other churches. Brother Benshoff reports having gotten settled in their new work and that the prospect list is growing. He tells that the earnest efforts of the people are manifest and that the work bids fair to go on to great things. The Christmas program was given by the children on Sunday morning, December 19th.

Loree, Indiana. The Loree Church is in the midst of a revival at the present time. Brother J. Edgar Berkshire, pastor of the Flora Brethren Church, is the evangelist. The meetings began on December 26 and will close on January 9th. Brother Austin Gable, pastor of the Denver-Center Chapel Circuit is in charge of the song services. Brother Robert K. Higgins is pastor of the Loree Church.

St. James, Maryland. The St. James Christian Endeavorers sponsored a "Caroling Project" on Friday evening, December 24th. The carolers returned to the church for refreshments.

On Sunday, December 19th, the supply pastor of the St. James, Rev. Donald Warrenfelz, was unable to get to the church on account of bad weather, and his place was acceptably filled by Brother Roy Lowery of the local church.

We are asked to say again, that the St. James Church is in need of a regular pastor. Anyone interested is asked to contact Mr. Roy Lowery, 118 West Potomac Street, Williamsport, Maryland.

Goshen, Indiana. Brother W. E. Ronk, pastor of the Goshen Church, says that the attendance at the Northern Indiana Brotherhood meeting which was held at Goshen recently was 191, and that the offering for the station wagon project amounted to $1,021.73. He says that the Goshen men gave $280.00 of this amount. Over 200 dinners were served.

Nappanee, Indiana. We note that recently Brethren Don Miller and Henry Staley took a truckload of goods to Lost Creek, Kentucky. The material was from the laymen of Nappanee and nearby towns.

Stockton, California. Brother Charles Johnson, who recently became pastor of the Stockton Church, says that a choir was recently organized. After the organizational meeting the members were served refreshments by the choir director and wife, Brother and Sister Harry Ernst.

At the recent business meeting of the church it was voted to paint and decorate the church auditorium. A committee is in charge of the work.

Brother Johnson also says that immediately following the morning service on Sunday, December 5, twenty-five of the congregation made a trip to the Ione Boys' Reform School to hold service. It was a drive of forty miles.

LET US THINK ABOUT OUR OPPORTUNITIES

AN OPPORTUNITY, once set before us, becomes an obligation the moment that opportunity is realized. But far too often we keep our eyes closed to opportunities, being fearful lest, seeing them, we find ourselves obligated to a task which we would far rather not find in our schedule. Especially is this true when we find that finances are involved.

I have recently been working on two phases of such work, both of which include a financial plea—The Publication Day Offering, and the Benevolent Offering—which are received, one following the other, in the months of January and February.

What I found in investigating the offerings of last year intrigued me, and, of course, set me to thinking!

Turning to the Financial Booklet which was put out for the 1948 General Conference, I found the following amounts for the various offerings:

Publishing Co.—Press Fund	$ 4,296.21
Publication Day Offering	5,144.67
White Gift Offering	7,529.75
Home Mission Offering	21,061.19
Foreign Mission Offering	26,226.78
Benevolent Offering	7,384.72
Ashland College Educational Offering	22,022.67
Brethren Youth Offering	2,243.57

Total Regular Offerings$95,909.56

Now let us do a little further figuring. The Statistician's report shows that there were reported 18,052 members in our churches. It takes a very little time and energy to establish the fact that the per capita offering given by the membership of the Brethren Church during the past Conference year amounted to the munificent sum of $5.31. Isn't that something to be proud of? That doesn't even cover the cost of your daily newspaper. At least it does not cover mine, for we pay the sum of $13.00 per year just to keep informed about the doings of our city.

Of course this does not say that there are not very many in the membership of the churches that contribute a great deal more than this average sum. There are many that contribute in sums that will mount into hundreds of dollars. But just where does that leave the rest who do not?

A careful study of this "giving" proposition should make a number of people do a great deal of thinking. We should always ask ourselves, "Just what am I doing to help in a constructive way, the various activities of the church which I am identified, and what am I doing to help with the work of the various "Interests" of the church?" We have long since learned that one is not judged so much by what he gives, as by what he keeps for himself, and what he does with that remainder. It seems to the editor that it is about time that we begin to re-examine the whole matter of "Stewardship" as it is taught in the Eternal Word of God. Don't you think so, too?

Now, think it over!

ROANN, INDIANA, JOINS THE 100% LIST AND OBLIGATIONS

Brother Oren Leedy of the Roann, Indiana, Brethren Church, recently sent us a fine list of 118 subscriptions to The Evangelist, 16 of which were renewals and 102 new subscriptions. We appreciate this advance in this fine congregation.

We have recently received bundles of rags from the Woman's Missionary Society of the Uniontown, Pennsylvania, Second Brethren Church, and from the "Sem-Wives" of Ashland. Also one sack of rags without any designation on it. So can't give proper credit. Thanks for all of these. Keep them coming. We use lots of them.

Appreciation Expressed

We wish to express the appreciation of the Publishing Company for the fine patronage out over the brotherhood of our Book Store. Many orders for Bibles and books of various natures have come to us. We trust that all were filled as desired. Do not hesitate at any time to report to us any failure of orders to arrive, for many times we order the books or other materials sent to you directly from the publishers or the distributive agencies. If we do not hear from you, of course, we always take it that your order has come to you as you desired.

Many, many Bibles were sold during the pre-Christmas time, which just goes to show that the Book of Books is still at the top of the list in sales. And why should it not be a "Best Seller" when it is the most of all desired by men and women, boys and girls?

Send someone, Lord to love the best there is in me, and to accept nothing less from me: to touch me with the searching tenderness of the passion for the ideal; to demand everything from me for my own sake; to give me much that I cannot think of myself; and to ask so much that I can keep nothing back; to console me by making me strong before sorrow comes; to help me so to live that, while I part with many things by the way, I lose nothing.

ABOUT THE Publication Day Offering

J. E. Stookey, President of Board

THE NEEDS OF THE Publishing Company are the needs of the Brethren Church.

Do we, as Brethren, appreciate the contents of the above statement?

Once again we are called upon to give to the Publication Day Offering, to support the cause of Christ through the printed page. As we hold up the hands of those who labor so diligently to disseminate the news of the Brethren faith through Christ, we are making a contribution to the most wonderful work possible.

Our Lord and Saviour has done so much for us, having given His all that we might live abundantly. May we, out of our abundance, give to Him, that we may show our love to Him.

The Equipment Fund Goal is in sight, so let us not relax our efforts, but push the program to a successful conclusion.

The church as a whole must support the Publishing House if we are to receive the whole message which is essential to round out the full program of the church, and to reach the hearts of lost men and women. That is our COMMISSION.

If the Publishing House were to fail, the church will fail also in its highest ends, because they are so interlocked that neither can exist without the other in a practical way.

Our prayer is that the Brethren people as a whole, will grasp this wonderful opportunity and that the cause of Christ will go forward in and through the church as never before.

"WE WANT A BETTER PUBLISHING HOUSE—WE CAN HAVE A BETTER PUBLISHING HOUSE IF WE WANT IT HARD ENOUGH."—Geo. S. Baer.

THE ABOVE STATEMENT is as true today as it was on the day that it was uttered. The question we ask is: How many of you want a better Publishing House hard enough to do something about it?

The Board of Directors and the Force employed at the Publishing House are the servants of the Lord first, and then servants of the Shareholders of THE BRETHREN PUBLISHING COMPANY second. Hence we welcome constructive criticism and suggestion whose sincerity is indicated by deeds of loyalty and whole-hearted support.

The Board of Directors is indeed grateful to the many members of the Brethren Church who have contributed so generously to past Publication Day Offerings and to the Press and Equipment Fund. General Conference has set the minimum Publication Day Offering at $5,000.00; and also set the minimum Equipment and Press Fund at $15,000.00. The Publication Day Offering is taken annually during the month of January—this year the offering ought to exceed $7,500.00. The remaining part of the $15,000.00 should be raised before General Conference in August, for this is the third of three years designated by General Conference for the campaign. What will you and your local church do toward making this a better Brethren Publishing House?

Is your church on the 100% Evangelist subscription roll? If not why not? Does your church use all available Brethren Sunday School literature? If not? why not? Are you using available Tracts published and approved by the Brethren Publishing House? If not, why not? Or, are you weakening the faith and teaching of the Brethren Denomination by using church magazines, Sunday School Literature, and tracts that do not adhere to Brethren teaching?

The Brethren Church will be strong only in so far as her membership are trained to be loyal to Brethren doctrines. It is the aim of your Board of Directors that the Brethren Publishing House largely aid in producing a stronger Brethren Church. A stronger Brethren Church will make a better Publishing House—and a BETTER PUBLISHING HOUSE will make a stronger Brethren Church.

We need a true and loyal Brethren as Business Manager to bring to reality Brother Baer's VISION OF A BETTER PUBLISHING HOUSE. If you know of such, help us to contact him.

THE COMMUNICATIVE URGE

Somewhere along the way we picked up the desire to communicate. In some of us it may have come earlier than in others, but most people like to share an idea. And so it should be . . . Mrs. Brown's baby may have a new tooth, but it isn't news until somebody tells someone else. The top secret must be told, or so it would seem these days, for the urge to communicate gets the best of the best people. The early apostles had the communicative urge because they had an astounding, a shockingly peaceful news story. They had to communicate.

Publication Date -- January 23

THE ARTICULATE WORD

Beautiful thoughts are fine things to store in the attic of your mind. Dust them off, wiggle some muscles, and these ideas become words. You may intellectually love the young lady, but it doesn't amount to much until it becomes the articulate word. The communicative urge forced our church fathers to articulate the dynamic of Christianity.

THE WELDING FORCE

America is held together by railroad tracks, telephone lines and radio tubes. The whirl of modern life will not fling it apart as long as these instruments of cohesion perform their amalgamating influence. Ideas of Americans get around. The theme of democracy becomes articulate. America lives! The welding force of the modern church is its continuous communication of the articulate word, the Word made flesh and dwelt among men.

THE PREPAID PIPELINE

Ideas may articulately flow from the faucets on the modern typewriters, but to get these ideas widely communicated so they may exude their welding force takes men and machines. The pipelines for ideas must be prepaid. The publishing interests of the Brethren Church provide the great welding force of the Brethren ideal of Christianity. You cannot escape participation in these publishing interests, for through them you share the communication of the articulate word, and do your share in welding our church together.

MY FIRST ACQUAINTANCE with the Brethren Publishing Company was in June, 1896 when I was employed by the company as a compositor at 13 cents per thousand ems. Its headquarters was located in Founders'

Hall of Ashland College. The office (there was only one) and the composing room were on the first floor, the press room and bindery in the basement.

Through the years I have watched with intense interest the growth and development of the plant in both equipment and personnel. I think I can say that I have been personally acquainted with every editor and business manager and most of the employees in the mechanical department, through the years.

The Publishing plant has been housed in four different locations—Founders' Hall, Seventh Street, Orange Street and the present location on College Avenue.

One time when a $600.00 new press was badly needed, the business manager sent out a call for 600 people to send in one dollar each, which was soon received. All contributions received thereafter were returned to the donors.

The present building and equipment stands at the highest peak in the history of the Publishing House. Much of the credit is due to past and present personnel. The plant now has one of the finest presses obtainable for its type of work. Two things in a printing plant that have always fascinated me. One is the printing press; the other a mailing list. Guess that is the reason I get so much joy out of seeing this one in operation.

The Publication Day Offering is due this month and it is our hope that everyone will do his best to make this offering adequate to meet the needs.

The Press and Equipment Fund of $15,000.00 bids fair to be completed during this, the third year of its operation, if pledges are met and the usual contributions are forthcoming. This speaks well for the church. There is still need for replacement of worn-out machinery.

A good Publishing Plant is the strong right arm of any church. Ours has provided the church and Sunday school literature for more than fifty years since I have known it. The printed page as well as the spoken word, is an instrument in the hands of God for the preaching of the Gospel and the extension of His kingdom on the earth.

Consistent Christian Living

(A Radio Message over Station WARD in Johnstown, Pa.)

C. F. Zimmerman

ONE EVENING a student asked Phillips Brooks this question, in a perplexed and serious tone, "Is conscious personal fellowship with Jesus Christ a part of Christianity?" Phillips Brooks was immediately as much in earnest as was his questioner. He hesitated, reflected, and replied, decisively: "Conscious personal fellowship with Jesus Christ is Christianity. That is what differentiates the religion of the Bible from all others. A man is a Christian in so far as he knows Jesus Christ."

This is the whole basis of consistent Christian living. Without this fellowship we are as wavering as the clouds of the sky. The principles of God have not changed. Our understanding has not been always perfect. Yet in fellowship with him we have gone forward.

Somebody has said our churches are made up of people who would be equally shocked to see Christianity doubted or put into practice. Mahatma Gandhi, perhaps the greatest soul in India has said, "I would suggest first that all that you Christians, missionaries and all, must begin to live more like Christ. If you will come to us in the spirit of your Master, we cannot resist you. I would suggest that you must put your emphasis upon love, for love is the center and soul of Christianity." He did not mean love as a sentiment, but love as a working force, the one real power in a moral universe.

As with most matters of Christianity, this concern of Christian living is a personal and individual matter. We may, in the long run, have consistent Christian living as a church, but the primary emphasis must be the everyday, workaday, living of the very average Christian. Some years ago, when Dr. F. B. Meyer was addressing an audience at Brighton, he saw among the company Dr. and Mrs. Handley Moule. Dr. Moule, who afterwards became Bishop of Durham, was detained in conversation at the close of the meeting, and Dr. Meyer, as he walked out with Mrs. Moule, remarked to her, "We all have reason to be grateful to your husband for his books." The reply, according to The British Weekly which related the incident when Bishop Moule died, was a beautiful tribute from a wife to a husband: "I have seen every one of these books lived."

On a steamship bound for Bombay a minister reports that he became acquainted with a gifted young physician from Ceylon who had just completed seven years of study in England. "I left India a Christian," he said, "the son of a converted mother. I am returning to India a Hindu." Pressed for an explanation, he gradually unfolded his experience. While still in his native home he had built up a picture of what a Christian land would be like. He had gone to England. He had not found it such a land. He had been appalled by the intemperance he had seen, by the mad rush for money, by the bitterness of the industrial world, by the lack of appreciation for members of his own race, by the reliance of a "Christian" nation on its naval power.

Another of those foreign students, after a sojourn in the United States, remarked, "I have been turned away from hotels because my skin was dark. I have been refused food in restaurants. I have been generally treated as if I belonged to a lower species. And yet you call your people Christian and me heathen. It looks to me as if you worship one Asiatic, and treat all others as worthy only to be your servants."

These are rather drastic and yet I feel fair appraisals of our so called Christian democracies. It is a very difficult thing for anyone to see himself or his religion clearly. An objective view is better for us although not so pleasing.

A little girl, trying to learn the Ten Commandments, was told by her mother to write them out. When she brought the result for inspection she had written, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it wholly." The mother said, "Why, don't you know how to spell better than that? The word should be 'holy' not 'wholly.'" The good grandmother, who was sitting by, said, "Maybe the child has not made such a mistake. At least her idea of holy is preferable to that of many who think they keep the Sabbath if they go to church in the morning, and spend the rest of the day feasting, lounging, or visiting."

We have some peculiar ideas of the Lord's day existing. A recent article in the Pittsburgh Press called it a "religious holiday." This term was applied to it by an executive of the county who was trying to justify in the public press his decision to have a fair open on Sunday. I'm quite certain his definition would meet the approval of many church members.

The following little story helps to illustrate the problem of the pastor setting an example and the way in which he is observed and tested by the church membership and others. May your wisdom be as great as the wisdom of the Presbyterian minister of early days who settled near the headwaters of the Susquehanna. A good man, he was, but full of humor and ready with his repartee on all occasions. Jack Rickitt, a quasi-parshioner, but who was more punctual at the river than at church, presented the minister one Monday morning with a fine string of pickerel. The minister thanked him graciously for the gift. "But, Parson," suggested Jack, still retaining the fish, "those fish were caught yesterday. Perhaps your conscience won't let you eat 'em." "Jack," replied the minister, stretching out his hands toward the string, "there's one thing I know—the pickerel were not to blame!"

Charles Spurgeon once received a letter from a man who declared that if he did not receive within two days a specified sum of money from the preacher he would publish certain things which would put an end to his influence and popular esteem. Mr. Spurgeon sent back a postal with these words: "You and your like, are requested to publish all you know about me across the heavens." This great preacher was serene in the consciousness that there was nothing in his past which could injure his good reputation. It was a matter of fellowship and consistency with him that made it possible for him to defy the black-mailer.

One of the things that would work for a greater Christian consistency would be the realization that we are seen from on high in whatever we are doing. A story is told of a father who was blind who always attended the cricket matches of the school in which his boy played. The boy was a first-rate batsman and was captain of the school, and although the father never saw his son play, he seemed to gain pleasure from being present. Suddenly the father died, and the day after his funeral an important cricket match took place at the school. Owing to his recent bereavement, it was thought that the son would not choose to play. But he did, to the astonishment of all, and he was seen to bat with great earnestness and with an unusual seriousness. Asked by one of his companions, when the match was over, why he played with such care and why he played at all, he answered, "You see, this is the first time that my dear father would see me play, and I wanted to do my very best, because I was conscious that his eyes were upon me." If the eyes of a departed earthly father can be so important how much more important the eyes of our heavenly Father. This brings us back again to the matter of conscious fellowship with Christ. These are the things that make for consistent Christian living.

The captain of an ocean steamer is often in charge of as many as fifteen hundred people, and his authority is over a thousand activities. But his great business is to get his ship alongside the pier at New York, safely at any cost, and as swiftly as may be. That one business settles many questions which might otherwise trouble the captain. He looks at every subject which claims his attention, and asks, "Will it hinder? If not, will it help?" And those questions keep his life properly narrow, so that it stays in the rightful channel. And this is exactly what singleness of aim does for the Christian. Without such unity of purpose the distractions of worldliness will overwhelm him and the purity of his life will be lost.

In the Olympic Games at Paris, Eric Liddell won the four hundred meter race in "record time," and the press proclaimed him the king of sprinters. But there was more in the victory than just winning the race. When the young athlete, chosen to represent his country at the Olympic Games, found that his race was called to be run on Sunday he refused to compete, saying, "I object to Sunday sport in toto," and so counted himself out. The sporting press of Europe derided him; he was giped at and criticized on all sides, even by the papers of his own country. But the stand taken by such a noted athlete had its effect and the race was not run until later in the week. When young Liddell won, the public that had condemned him changed its opinion and gave him great applause. Other Christian athletes have taken just as fine stands and I believe that we should mention Gilbert Dodds of our church also. It takes a steadfastness and consecration above average to be entirely consistent in sports as in everything. It is a wonderful thing when a young man like Gilbert Dodds receives an award like the "Sullivan Award" for advancing sportsmanship. The eyes of the sport world can see that sincerity which is part and parcel of consistent Christian living.

It would be almost incredible for most ministers to have their sermon heard and believed as was that of a missionary on an island of the Pacific Ocean. His sermon was on "Thou shalt not steal." He told them that if they had stolen anything they must return it to the owners. The next morning he found his house surrounded by the people, bringing back their stolen goods. "We have not been able to sleep all night," they said; "all these things we have brought with us are stolen goods." They returned all these things to the rightful owners. One man went seventy miles to another island to find the owner of a saw. This was the right way to hear the word of God.

The closer a person is to God in fellowship and His word in knowledge the more consistent will be the life. "Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness?" (2 Pet. 3:13) is the plea of Peter. "Who is a wise man and endued with knowledge among you? let him shew out of a good conversation his works with meekness of wisdom," is the exhortation of James (James 3:13). "Only let your conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ: that whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs, that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mind striving together for the faith of the gospel:" (Phil. 1:27) is the appeal of Paul. The scriptures are just filled with those pleas and plans for a well rounded consistent Christian life. Christianity is not only a faith but it is a life. We err when we forget this.

A public-utilities company, seeking a franchise in a large city, sent an unscrupulous representative to interview a city official whose vote was sorely needed. When the official intimated that his vote was not for sale, the representative exclaimed: "Think of the money, man! It's the bargain of a lifetime. You'll never have another chance to make that much so easily." "So easily!" replied the official. "Listen, friend! No one ever yet got a bargain in sin. It's the highest-priced thing in the market. You tell me that all I have to do is to vote 'right.' Well, it isn't. That's only the beginning of what I'll have to do. I'll have to carry the consciousness of my dishonesty to the grave. I'll have to live with a remorseful conscience. I'll have to pose before my wife and children as some one I know I am not. Don't tell me it is a bargain!"

Christians were urged to a closer walk with the Lord and responded in great numbers. The unsaved had the Way made plain and stepped into it, willingly and intelligently. Those who had lost faith came back confessing and left the altar with new light on their faces. It is impossible to give exact figures of the number who came to the altar. Delegations were present nearly every night. They came from Dayton, New Lebanon, Clayton, West Milton, Troy, Piqua, West Grove. Three morning broadcasts were given over station WPTW—Piqua. These figures are conservative and not a full report, 155 making some move for Christ during the meeting. They came as follows: 31 young people besides their mothers; 20 of them for confession, 10 from other churches; 61 signing Tithing cards and coming to the altar far prayer; 23 Family Altar dedications; 10 Life Work Recruits, ready for the Lord's call; 30 at the altar on Men's night when 108 men sang "The Ninety and Nine." They came on the invitation to witness to the saving power of the Lord Jesus. The worth of these decisions could not be measured in dollars and cents.

Brother Sibert also says, "Again I say rejoice—The roof is on the new part of the church. As soon as the doors are set we will have it enclosed and can heat it."

Advertising The Church

PRACTICAL CHURCH PROBLEMS AND METHODS—III

Rev. Henry Bates, S. T. M.

"It Pays to Advertise!" More and more the world is becoming "publicity minded"—from the largest industries in our great cities to the smallest grocery stores in many outlying communities. Every day merchants are learning the truth of that slogan of the advertising concerns—"it pays to advertise." The secret of all good advertising is to make people want what you have to offer, and then to lead them to the fulfillment of those wants. The chief task of the church is to lead men and women into a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ—to draw them into the great fellowship of believers. It is necessary, therefore, to create in the hearts of men and women a desire for the higher life which the church, as the servant of Christ, has to offer, and, having created this desire, to direct their attentions to the place where the desire might be fulfilled. This is the purpose of advertising the church.

Certainly there is greater possibility of attracting the disinterested and the unsaved by constantly keeping the church and her program before them than there is by sitting back and not making any effort to attract them. Time and space do not permit an exhaustive study or discussion of this important matter of advertising the church, but consider a few of the most important and the most common means of keeping the church in the community's mind.

Church Property. The condition of the church buildings and the property surrounding the buildings is one of the most important means of advertising the church. Visitors in the community, or strangers passing through, are not likely to stop at the church which needs a coat of paint, or which has several windows broken, or which is completely surrounded with knee-high grass and weeds. For it is a generally accepted fact that the church which is neat and clean on the outside will probably be neat and clean on the inside; while the church that is shabby and deteriorating on the outside will be in a similar condition on the inside. It is surprising how easily the condition and appearance of a church can be improved to such a degree that people passing by will stop and take notice, while the members will be proud to take their guests over to see their place of worship. A shrub or two planted before the entrance; a little ivy planted beside the side door; or a well cut lawn with neatly trimmed hedges; these are the little things which frequently attract or repel the potential church-comer.

Bulletin Boards. Every church should have a bulletin board outside on which is painted the name of the church, times of service, the pastor's name, and any other pertinent information. One man, an active worker in one of our Ohio churches, told this writer that he was first attracted to that church because the name "Brethren" which appeared on the bulletin board, appealed to him. If the church is off the main highway, if it is up a little lane, or country road, or a side street, put a number of signs at various intersections pointing out the direction to the church. As with church property, church signs and bulletin boards must be kept neat and in good condition. A sign in need of paint, hanging by one or two nails in a precarious position, or overgrown with weeds, is of little value either to the church or to the public. These signs need not be elaborate or expensive—every church probably has at least one man who is capable of making a suitable and serviceable one. The important thing is to let people know that the church is in the community, and that it is wide awake to its opportunities.

Weekly Bulletins. Another means of advertising the church and her program is that of the weekly bulletin. These may serve a double purpose—for the bulletin not only contains the order of service and the announcements for the week, but it is also, or at least can be, an attractive invitation to all to attend the services of the church. These bulletins need not be elaborate or expensive, but they should be neat and attractive.

The church bulletin, like the church property, is often used as a measuring stick. If the church hands out bulletins that are poorly printed, smeared, blurred, poorly written, and generously spotted with misspelled words, she cannot expect people to think very highly of her program, nor can she expect those bulletins to be very successful in attracting outsiders into her fold.

Posters. Still another means of advertising the church is the use of posters. No matter where one goes these days he is sure to see in every store window posters announcing the coming attractions at the neighborhood theatre or announcing the coming to town of the circus, carnival, or some other kind of show. Why should not the church use a modified form of this type of advertising? Can it be that we feel that what we have to offer is not worth advertising as widely as is the bill of fare at the local theatre? God forbid!

Again, these posters do not need to be expensive, in fact they can be one of the cheapest means of bringing the work of the church before the public eye. It is not necessary that these cards be elaborately printed by some professional printer, in fact, the results are sometimes more effective if the people knew that the posters have been made by local men and women. The young people of the church very often enjoy this type of work and many of them are quite handy with it. The wise pastor and church will, therefore, use the talent in his own midst to help to advertise the church and at the same time to make his young people feel that the success of the church depends to a certain degree, upon them and upon the work which they do.

The Pulpit. There can be no denying of the fact that the greatest means of advertising which the church possesses is the pulpit message itself. A church may erect beautiful buildings, it may have wonderfully landscaped surroundings, signs may be posted all over town pointing the direction to the church, and neat, well printed bulletins may be distributed each week, but unless the spiritual food that the church has to offer is of the same calibre as the rest of these offerings of the church, they become as "sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal." Good preaching and well-designed, enthusiastic worship services in the sanctuary, with the pulpit at the center, challenge the countryside to attend the church and to give it their loyalty.

There are, of course, countless other means of advertising. Every pastor and every church should be awake to these opportunities, and should seize upon every chance to keep the work of the church before the eyes of the public, for only as this is done will the church grow, and only as this is done will the unsaved be brought into the church to hear of the glorious plan of salvation which God has provided. Caution must be exercised against over-spectacular advertising. The church is not supposed to compete with the circus in its offerings to the people, and it should not strive to compete with the circus and the theatre in their spectacular advertising. Have something to advertise; advertise it; and let the final product excel its advertisement! Don't disappoint people like the pastor, who, during the First World War, advertised that he was going to speak on the coming Sunday on the topic, "Three Nights in a Submarine," and then told the large group which came to church that week, the story of Jonah in the belly of the whale.

But, "It pays to advertise!"

National Goals Program

Rev. J. G. Dodds, Chairman

HOW MUCH INFORMED BRETHREN?

By C. Y. Gilmer, Member of the National Goals Committee

AN EXAMINATION or test in school may be quite revealing to the teacher as well as the pupil. It may show that the teacher assumed too much, thinking that the pupil is well informed, whereas, his teaching was not as effective as it ought to have been. Instead of testing the pupils the examination may be a test of the teacher's own work.

Many a Brethren pastor would likely be chagrined if his congregation were interrogated concerning vital information relative to the Brethren Church, her mission and institutions. If anyone doubts the statement just made let him submit a general informational test in the field mentioned to an organized adult group in his church, and see!

Here is the point—uninformed people are not interested in something of which they know little or nothing. There can be no good response toward urgent needs where good knowledge and sympathetic understanding have not been cultivated. We need a general "KNOW-YOUR-CHURCH" campaign in our denomination. Highly supervised denominations are well informed religious bodies. Their gains are due to effective teaching and propaganda programs on missions, Christian education, temperance, Christian help work, and the like. Their local congregations strive to meet all objectives. Their representatives go to conference with a good report and come back home with an informed mind.

Since the Brethren do not care for supervision, they may well take to something that will prevent stagnation. We suggest that the Goals Program will do this if our leaders take it in good earnest. The goals are objectives that really matter. They who point their constituency to them will be careful to get their folk to know, understand and appreciate the program of the Brethren Church. It would be gross error to say that "we are without a program." Wholehearted adoption is the need.

Here Is a Program

1. Membership. Educate for personal evangelism; know the meaning of church membership.

2. Missions. Give definite missionary instruction all the time. Teach how to pray intelligently and effectively that there may be power with God and man.

3. Reading. Have all read The Brethren Evangelist and use Brethren Sunday School literature. Know the content of Brethren tracts. Know the needs and possibilities of The Brethren Publishing Company.

4. Education. Know your college and seminary. Recruit for the Brethren ministry; patronize our own educational institution; strive to meet the financial needs here.

5. Benevolence. Make provision for superannuated ministers and missionaries, and needy Brethren. Know your Brethren Home.

6. Be familiar with the auxiliary work of the Church: the work and goals of the National Sunday School Association; summer camp work, the purpose of the White Gift Offering; Brethren Youth, Christian Endeavor; Woman's Missionary Society, Sisterhood of Mary and Martha; Laymen and Brotherhood; personal workers' and leadership training classes; tithers' band; prayer band.

Strive to bring illustrations from our own Brethren heritage. No better illustrations can be found than here. Change the inside bulletin board frequently. Be informative in weekly calendars. Appear before the church and her auxiliaries with definite denominational information. Inform, inform, inform. Remember this job is never finished. Be sure your information is correct, then disseminate it. Always know the latest vital information. See that everyone knows it, too.

He Believes In Religious Education

During the past few years I have been more and more impressed with the efforts made toward educating the young people of our country in the ways of life as laid down by Christ himself. This education, of necessity, must spring from both the home and the church. The church must show leadership. This leadership must be directed by people who have a real heart interest in educating youth for successful living.

We are now living in an age when we are thinking more of church unity than ever before. The principles of Christ-like living are more emphasized because our differences in denominations are not having the great weight they had at one time. I am vitally interested in bring together all evangelical churches on a basis whereby they will not lose the benefits of their various denominational groups but will be able to federate their interests on a broad Christian basis so that nothing will be lost because they are Methodists, Episcopalians, Presbyterians, etc. God speed the day when we shall all be united in a great effort to bring in the Kingdom of Christ without denominational differences and with one accord.—Andrew H. Phelps, industrialist.

The Basis of Church Extension

Rev. Cecil H. Johnson

IN WRITING upon this subject of Church Extension it is only right that, first of all, we examine it and see if it has a proper basis upon which to rest.

Church Extension is based upon the Scripture. Jesus, Himself, laid the foundation of the Church. He was the foundation. "... upon this rock will I build my church..." He is building His Church in the world today according to His eternal purpose. When Jesus gave His parting command, "Go ye therefore and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you, and lo, I am with you alway, even to the end of the world." He gave the pattern as well as the command for church extension.

The apostles accepted the command and the pattern and Peter's sermon on the day of Pentecost is their first effort at church extension. As we read on in and through the Book of Acts we discover how rapidly the Church grew until it reached all the way around the Mediterranean Sea. Notice these Scriptures:

"Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls. And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers. Praising God, and having favor with all the people. And the Lord added unto the church daily those that were saved"—Acts 2:41, 42, 47.

"And daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and to preach Jesus Christ"—Acts 5:42.

"And the word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith"—Acts 6:7.

"Then Philip went down to the city of Samaria and preached Christ unto them. And there was great joy in that city. But when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women"—Acts 8:5, 8, 12.

"Now they which were scattered abroad upon the persecution that arose about Stephen traveled as far as Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the word to none but unto the Jews only. And some of them were men of Cyprus and Cyrene which, when they were come to Antioch, spake unto the Grecians, preaching the Lord Jesus. And the hand of the Lord was with them: and a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord. Then tidings of these things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jerusalem: and they sent forth Barnabas, that he should go as far as Antioch"—Acts 11:19-22.

"As they ministered to the Lord and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them. And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away. So they, being sent forth by the Holy Ghost, departed unto Selucia; and from thence they sailed unto Cyprus." Acts 13:2-4.

"And when they had ordained them elders in every church, and had prayed with fasting, they commended them unto the Lord on whom they believed"—Acts 14:23.

"And so were the churches established in the faith, and increased in number daily"—Acts 16:5.

These scriptures, and many others that could be given, indicate to us the great interest and activity of the early church in this work of church extension.

Church extension is essential to the Churches' continuity. It is true that in many cases a church grows old and dies out. This results as a rule from a feeling of self sufficiency and self satisfaction. It comes as a result of a let-down in evangelism and real efforts at soul winning. No Church can cope to live long when it ceases to be interested and active in propagating the Gospel and in extending the borders of the Church. If this is true as regards the Church at large and I believe it is, then it is also true regarding a denomination that does not carry on an effective program of Church extension.

Every member of the Brethren Church should be awakened to these facts and made to realize that our very life blood depends upon our interest in, our loyalty toward, and our faithful support of an active, forward moving program of Church extension.

JR. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR OF THE BERLIN CHURCH

This is the first report from the Jr. Christian Endeavor of the Berlin Brethren Church. During the past summer the Christian Endeavor Group divided itself into Junior and Senior Groups. The officers for the Jr. group are: Janet Darr, President; Flora Belle Walker, Secretary-Treasurer; Mrs. Richard Layding, Advisor.

When we had our special services before our Fall Communion, both groups attended one evening in a body. Our minister, Rev. Percy C. Miller, told a short story on "Contentment."

We have met one of our goals at least, a 10% increase in membership. Our increase has been 45%.

The Junior and Senior Groups put on a play, "The Lord's Acre," at the Brethren Youth Rally in the Third Brethren Church of Johnstown. This same play was put on at Main Street Brethren Church of Meyersdale, Penna. when the Penna. District Sunday School Board held an Institute there on October 31, 1948.

As for the social events, we had a social gathering in the form of a Hallowe'en party at the home of Dorothy Hepler.

Our group has also sent an offering of $3.00 to the National Christian Endeavor Board.

"LOOK OUT FOR YOURSELF!"

Scripture: Luke 12:15-21; Matt. 16:24-26

For The Leader

TONIGHT we have a lesson in selfishness. All of us have a little of it sticking in us, but there are those who have far too much. We say that they cannot see further than their own interests. Well, that's about all they have, too, for a selfish person has few friends. It is our intent this evening to look at an example of selfishness; also to suggest some ways in which we can be less selfish.

DISCUSSION

1. A PHILOSOPHY OF LIFE. The suggested subject is one of egotism. Nothing matters in life but what concerns the individual. The whole world may be starving without the gospel, or food. A man next door may be sick, but he dies without our attention. We may think the whole world revolves around us as the center of things. We feel all other people should cater to us. If this be the attitude of our life, we are eventually destined for failure. In time, we will have run through the patience of our friends and family, and will be pretty much alone. How much better to follow a philosophy of interest in others?

2. ONE MAN'S SELFISHNESS. Picture the rich man in the lesson tonight. He sat in his easy chair one evening and began to think, or rather, to gloat. As he sat at ease he thought of his overflowing barns of riches and grain. He had done pretty well; now it was time to sit back and interest himself in himself. He was proud that he had done so well by himself. What matter that down in the village, men and women were starving for lack of food. Yes, even those who had harvested his crops for him and who had done it on starvation wages. But he was not concerned about others. He was all right, why bother about others? The Bible is silent on how many people attended his funeral, but it's a safe bet the crowd was slim. Thus a man who lived only for himself had to leave it all behind, and worse, he died unwanted and unloved, unprepared for eternity. It's a poor philosophy to follow.

3. A BUBBLING SPRING OF REFRESHMENT. We all know people who are overflowing with love for others. They are everywhere doing things for those in need. Self matters little, yet they always seem happy. That is certainly true, and can be for all of us. The more we interest ourselves in others, the more we will enjoy life. If we try to save our life for ourselves, we will lose it; but if we give it to others, and to Christ, we will find it again in many ways.

QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

1. What makes people selfish?
2. Make a list of selfish traits you have observed in others. Suggest a cure for each of them. How can we go about helping people who are interested only in themselves?

"DON'T COUNT ON ME!"

Scripture: Romans 14:7-12; Luke 12:48b

For The Leader

REMEMBER the story of the general in the army. Things were going against them. So he told his men to go forward into battle and fight until it was impossible to hold out any longer, and then to retreat. At the close of his talk he said, "I'm a little lame, I'm going to start running back now." That is just the philosophy suggested in "Don't Count on Me." Here is one who refuses to accept any responsibility. It, too, is a dangerous one, for it also leads to ruin.

DISCUSSION

1. THE WELL-WISHER. In every Church and C. E. Society there is the well-wisher. It is wonderful when crowds are good and things are running smoothly. But when things go wrong, they are already in hiding. If it is going good, they say, "Look at what we have done." If it goes bad, he says, "Well, I told you you'd make a mess of it." But, ask them to take some responsibility and they insist they are too busy, or, they wouldn't think of giving time to do this or that. And brother, when asked to help in a financial way, well, they're in danger of being laid off, or they had to pay their taxes, etc. Yes, they'll give you an encouraging slap on the back which turns out to be a discouraging kick in the pants.

2. THE LORD HAS A LOT OF THEM. The Lord has a personal job for each person who has named His Name. After all, we have pledged ourselves to follow and to serve Him. But there are many who feel they can coast through the pearly gates. We ministers call them the "cold and indifferent." Always there are some in every church. They think the church should be kept heated, the services kept going, the minister well dressed and active, etc. But if such depended on their prayers, attendance and financial support, all would fail. Just to show you a few statistics to bear out what we have just told you, we quote: "90% of all giving to the church is done by 10% of the membership. Far less than 50% of the membership ever attend on any one particular Sunday, and a slim 10% can boast of having attended at least 48 out of 52 church services. Prayer meetings are lucky if they can record a number equivalent to 15% of the membership. "Don't count on me" seems to be a popular practice today.

3. WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT? The best thing we can do is realize that we must give an accounting of our lives before God. Every moment of time, every dollar, every talent must be accounted for. If memory has failed us here, it will be revived in that day. So the best we can do is to resolve to be perfectly faithful to Him. Say, as did Isaiah, "Here am I, Lord, send me." Or as Samuel did, "Speak, Lord for thy servant heareth."

QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

1. What can we do to encourage indifferent ones to be more faithful?
2. Should we refuse to do anything asked of us in the service of the Lord?
3. Do you think a person can assume too much responsibility in the Lord's work?

NOT FOR YOU?

By Rev. J. T. Vellinga

No healing if you are not sick;
No bread if surfeited and fed;
No water while you sense no thirst;
No pillow for your rested head.

No joy to cheer you on the way
If you are well-content;
No truth, no light, nor even God,
While self supplies your sacrament.

No pardon if you have no debt;
No peace if all is calm;
No strength if you all strength possess—
There is in Gilead no balm.

His love is never forced on you
While you are self-contained;
Christ saves the lost, but leaves the rest
In their conceit sustained.

But he who knows he's sick and blind,
And owns his guilt and shame;
Will find the Great Physician kind,
And seek to glorify His name.

THE BIBLE'S KEYWORD

Scripture: Isa. 45:22; Luke 19:10; Acts 16:30, 31; Eph. 2:8; 1 Tim. 1:15; Rom. 10:9; Heb. 5:9.

Hymns of Salvation

Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

THE BIBLE'S KEYWORD is "salvation." Yet, in many quarters it is a misunderstood term (Prov. 14:12). It was misunderstood in the early days of the Church (Acts 15:1), and Paul had to refute false views.

Many folk today trust in church membership and "religion" for salvation. They fail to realize that the only Saviour is Christ (Matt. 1:21; Acts 4:12; Isa. 45:22). The religious Nicodemus was a lost man (John 3:3). And so was the religious Pharisee (Luke 7:36-50). And likewise the devoutly religious Cornelius (Acts 10:22). Saul perhaps outclassed all in religious zeal, but, lacking Christ, he was lost (Phil. 3:4-9). Saul, Nicodemus, Cornelius, and John Wesley discovered that no amount of religion can save. If religion can save, Christ died in vain. "'Twas not the church that saved my soul, Nor yet my life so free from sin; 'Twas Jesus Christ, the Lamb of God, He rescued me, He took me in."

If a moral, upright life can save, Christ's death was in vain. But one cannot save himself by his self-righteousness (Eccl. 7:20; Isa. 64:6; Rom. 3:10). Christ came to save sinners and nobody else (Luke 5:32; Matt. 9:12). Salvation is the portion of only those who feel their spiritual need (Matt. 5:3; Luke 18:9-14). The man who is righteous in his own eyes is lost (Luke 5:8; Job 40:4; Isa. 6:5). Only the wedding garment of Christ's righteousness will hide one's sin and save his soul (Matt. 22:11-13).

Salvation is the free gift of God, unmerited by us, but merited for us by Another (Rom. 6:23a; Eph. 2:8, 9; Titus 3:5; Rom. 4:5, 6). "'Twas not my works that saved my soul, Nor yet my zeal, my prayers, my tears, 'Twas Jesus Christ, the Son of God, He bore my sins, He calmed my fears."

Christ said that none of us keep the law (John 7:19), so there is no salvation in law-keeping (James 2:10; Rom. 3:20-28; Gal. 3:11; 2:16-21). "'Twas not the law that saved my soul, Nor yet the deeds of virtue done; 'Twas Jesus Christ, the gift of God, He bled, He died, my soul He won."

The conditions of salvation must be met or salvation would not be our blessing. These conditions are not works of merit, but must be met. For all God's promises are conditional except the one promise to the Jew that he shall return to Palestine in unbelief. These conditions of salvation are: seeking the Lord and calling on His name (Isa. 55:6; Acts 2:21; 17:27); repentance and faith in Christ and the Gospel (Mark 1:15; Acts 3:19); Confession of sin and of Christ (Acts 26:20; Matt. 10:32-33); and obedience to and in salvation (Heb. 5:9; Acts 2:38).

Pray that you may be empowered to help your unsaved friends.

BRETHREAN BEREAN BAND INSTITUTE

After some over eight years absence from the State of California I have again been privileged to attend a Berean Band Thanksgiving Institute. I have been asked to report this and give my impressions of it.

This Institute was in the form of a banquet, held in the Lathrop church on November 19th. Here 130 enthusiastic Christian young people sat down to fried chicken and all the trimmings. What a meal and time of fellowship. In these days of world confusion and distrust of one for the other one is made to look up and take hope as they see these young men and women, soon ready to go forth and take their places in the world, gathered together in true Christian thanksgiving to God for His blessings upon them.

Following the meal Rev. Virgil Ingraham, pastor of the Stockton church, brought a stirring message which sent these young folks forth to strive for greater accomplishments in their Christian experience. It was truly a wonderful experience which gave me an added thrill to again be a resident of California and to be privileged to work with the Bereans.

As I have sat and listened at various times to these young people in their singing, praying, and testifying I have been made to think of the words of Christ upon the founding of His church: "Upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of Hell shall not prevail against it." As long as we meet with young people of the caliber of these here we know that statement will not fail.

News From Our Churches

FROM ST. JAMES TO OAKVILLE

On the 31st of October we brought to a close a very pleasant ministry at the St. James Brethren Church, at St. James, Maryland, to assume the pastorate of the Oakville, Indiana, Brethren Church. The years spent at St. James were happy years for us, and we trust that some good may have come of them for the brethren down there. We have a church at St. James of which the denomination can well be proud, and we pray that before too long the Lord will call a man to pastor that flock. One of the fine assets of the church is that it is richly blessed with a number of well trained and experienced teachers and lay leaders, a need in any church. Having always been of the conviction that after God calls a man into the ministry He expects that man to do everything in his power to properly train himself for that high calling, we were especially grateful to the St. James folks for giving us the privilege of attending the Lutheran Seminary at Gettysburg, Pa., where we were able to complete the requirements for and to receive the Master of Theology degree. Much could be said relative to the time spent down in the beautiful mountains of Maryland, and of the work done there, but that can be best reported by some other.

On November 1st we assumed the pastorate of the Oakville Church, recently shepherded by Brother Ault, now at Hagerstown. During the two month interim between the Aults leaving and our arriving the services of the church went on uninterrupted—for which we are very thankful. Upon arriving on the field we found the parsonage sporting a new coat of paint, scrubbed to shining from top to bottom, and a generous supply of canned goods and other groceries in the kitchen. The church also is in excellent condition having recently been completely refinished on the interior, new pulpit furniture purchased, and carpet placed in the sanctuary. Some repairs and improvements are still underway.

As soon as we were settled in the new home we set out to meet the people. We have always found that it is so much easier to remember names and faces, and also to get to know parishioners better if they can be met in the home. In the past four weeks one hundred and four homes have been contacted, and we hope to have reached all of those available by the beginning of the new year. We have discovered here, as elsewhere, that folks still like to have their pastor stop in to see them occasionally.

The services have been well attended and apparently appreciated, judging from the number of folks who have told us that they like to hear "just plain Gospel preaching." The prayer meetings are comparatively well supported, there being a nice group of young folks present each Wednesday evening. At these mid-week services, following the period of prayer, a Bible study hour is held. The life of our Lord is being studied at the present time—using the four Gospels in parallel, with the writer handing out mimeographed "Suggestive Questions" each week.

The church has two Women's Missionary Societies, both of which are quite active; a Sisterhood of Mary and Martha; and a fine youth organization composed largely of high school and college aged boys and girls. Those young people are active in all phases of the church's program and we look for fine things from them. Then too, we have a fine choir which is very loyal in bringing special music from week to week. At the present time there is no men's organization, but we hope, within the near future, that such a work will be started since there are a number of faithful men in the congregation.

As the new year is upon us we are looking forward to a great year in the Lord's vineyard. Following the precedent here, whereby a new pastor holds the first revival meeting, the writer will conduct a two-week meeting during the first two weeks of March. Several have also spoken to the pastor relative to a Teachers' Training Class, and it is our desire to see such a program put into practice early next Spring. For the younger folks of the church and community some tentative plans are also in the offing. Building upon the experience and joy which we had in St. James in the field of a Weekday Bible Class or school, we hope to organize such a work here as time goes on. And also, in response to numerous suggestions and requests, we are beginning now to make plans for a Daily Vacation Bible School next summer.

We invite the prayers of the brotherhood for the success of the Lord's work in this fine rural community, acknowledging with the poet of a few decades ago that "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of."

Henry Bates, Pastor.

LINWOOD, MD., TO LOST CREEK, KY.

In our last news we did not state where we were going. We had written Brother George Drushal, Superintendent of the school at Riverside and asked him if he would be able to use us at the school at Lost Creek. Then we saw him at the District Conference at Oak Hill in June and we talked the matter over. Then he wrote us that we had been accepted for the work there.

Right away we contacted various churches that we might tell people that we were going to Riverside to do whatever the Lord would have us do. All of us know that here is a great Mission field within 350 miles of our own college and seminary at Ashland, Ohio—500,000 people in these mountains of Kentucky have not been reached with the Gospel. There are very few churches here and the "fields are write unto harvest." Brethren let us get to work right here in this great mission field.

On July 25 we spoke for the Brethren at Raystown near Riddlesburg, Pa. We were glad to be with Brother Ralph Singer that Sunday. The next Sunday we were with Brother S. E. Christiansen at Georgetown, Del. It rained all the way there, 150 miles and all the way back to Baltimore. We were glad to meet these Brethren again. We covet your prayers for the work here.

We sent our goods by truck to Lost Creek. We do wish to thank Walter Brandenburg for being with him for a few days. Then as Mrs. Keck had resigned as Postmaster of the Linwood office and was checked out, we left New Windsor on Monday, August 16, at about 3 P. M. and got as far as the Natural Bridge in Virginia that evening. At 3 P. M. on Tuesday we were at Lost Creek which is 570 miles from Linwood, Md.

We had 8 rooms at the parsonage at Linwood, then 6 at Union Bridge, and now three at the Boys' dormitory. We arranged the furniture the best that we could for it is a little difficult to place furniture for six rooms in three. We drove to Teegarden, Ind., 450 miles on Thursday, leaving Lost Creek at 7 A. M. We took Brother Wm. Boyer with us as far as Peru, Ind. He had been here at Riverside all summer and is a member of the Roann Church. We were glad to be able to attend our National Conference and on Conference Sunday to be set apart for special service to Lost Creek by the Mission Board.

We left our son John at Ashland to attend our college and we arrived at Lost Creek, Thursday, Sept. 2. We worked all day Saturday getting beds in order at the Girls' dormitory and in Myers Hall for the younger children. Brother Drushal had to get 25 new cots. The Boys' dormitory was cleaned, curtains were hung and the hot water heater given by Rev. Edgar Berkshire was used for the first time.

We were glad to see Rev. J. M. Bowman and the other people from the Nappanee Brethren church. The school children have no gymnasium and they need one so badly. All of us are praying daily that the new gymnasium will soon be built. Pray for this with us.

School began on Labor Day. The log chapel was crowded to capacity. Brother Drushal said it was the largest number that he ever saw in the Chapel at the opening of school. The writer brought the opening message and tears came to his eyes as he spoke about thus standing on the threshold of a greater and larger school at Riverside. We are very glad to be teaching here. Mrs. Keck is teaching French I, Biology and Home Economics while the writer is teaching English Literature for the Juniors and the Seniors, World History, American History and Bible II. At the opening of school there were around 75 pupils in the grades, 48 in the High School and about 86 ate in the dining room. We are in charge of the Boys' dormitory and there were 28 boys in the nine rooms. Ralph is with us while our daughter Grace rooms at the Girls' dormitory.

We are preaching at two places. Our first place on Sunday is at a school house. This is 3½ miles away from Riverside. Miss Stella Hartford teaches at Riverside and also teaches Sunday School at Leatherwood. She has been holding fort there for several years. Our first trip there we appreciated to the uttermost the beautiful scenery. The road bends first one way, then the other. The big hills are ever right before you. Houses are mostly very small. The shingles on many of the homes are home-split ones. There are many new homes. We parked the car at the Leatherwood village store and Post Office and walk up the road about one-fourth of a mile, then down a very steep bank to a small creek, then across a foot log about a foot wide. (Mrs. Keck has not as yet fallen off of it), to a path along a corn patch and on to a school ground. When we got there the first Sunday, there were five fine girls present. The school house was locked so we held our service on the porch. Just lately there were 42 present and now one man will give some ground to build a church on it. Pray for this work.

Miss Hartford walks up a "holler" three miles to another place to hold an afternoon service in a home. She is nearly 72 years old. Then she walks back to the mouth of the creek and some of the school here meets her with a car. Most of the people have no cars and walk miles to go to services.

In the afternoon we go to Howard's Creek, which is about four miles above Haddix. We take Harold Barnett, a student, with us for our service. Mr. Hall, a teacher and a student worker, and Walk Derrosett go with us as far as Haddix. Then they walk two miles to Big Branch to hold services. We get Mrs. Myrtle Kessinger at Haddix and leave her at Drybread Branch and then she walks one mile up the creek bed to hold services in a home. At Howard's Creek we hold our services in a home. The first Sunday we held the service by the store. The Kentucky river flows near by. It reminded me of St. Paul when he preached by the riverside. These people are hungry for the Gospel and only a few are here to take them the Word of God.

Do pray for the work here. This is a Faith Institution. The school and workers receive nothing unless something is sent in for them, and the Bible is taught in all grades five days each week.

Elmer M. Keck.

CERRO GORDO, ILLINOIS

After a little over four years of labor we closed our work with these good people the first of November. Here is a church that has gone through tribulations and disappointments, many times in the depths of despair, only to arise and in the strength of the Master move onward toward victory. We spent many happy days here laboring together, both in the spiritual and the material growth of the church. The evening of our closing service we were presented with a beautiful picture of the Lord's Supper. Several substantial gifts of cash were given to both Mrs. Johnson and myself by individuals. The ministers of the town gave us a farewell party at which time ice cream and cake was served. We left behind us many whom we shall look forward to meeting in that great Eternity beyond where there shall be no more parting or shedding of tears. May God speedily raise up another pastor to take up and carry forward the work in this place.

STOCKTON, CALIFORNIA

After a leisurely trip across country we arrived safely in the State of California on November 9th. Only one thing marred a perfect trip. We were caught in a blizzard between Cheyenne and Laramie. Thirty-five cars were wrecked that night trying to get over the summit. We were stalled from 3:30 in the afternoon until after midnight when a tow truck picked us up and took us in to Laramie—$20.00 please.

After visiting with members of our family we took up the work of the Stockton church the first of December. I am not ready to say much about the work here save that I have met the most enthusiastic group of men and women, and especially young men and women, that I have ever met. How I wish that you could hear them sing, pray and testify for their Lord. He is real to them. Just last night my choir director said to me: "It brings tears of joy to my eyes when I see the willingness and readiness of this group to undertake in any task that is assigned to them." Their outgoing pastor, Rev. Virgil Ingraham, has done an outstanding piece of work here.

The Stockton of today is not the Stockton I knew a few years back. Then a drowsy city of some 40,000 is today a rip snorting city, counting additions now building, of over 100,000. Hundreds upon hundreds of children, to say nothing of older people, with no church within miles of them. Both day schools and Sunday Schools are real problems. What is true in Stockton is true all over the State. There is room and real need for dozens of Brethren Churches. The fields are ripe unto harvest, but where are the reapers? Keep your eye on the Stockton church. She is on the march and thank God it is upward. More later.

CHURCH NEWS—VINCO, PA.

It has been some time since Evangelist readers have had a report of the work at Vinco, so we are sending along a few of the highlights. The work has been going along as usual at Vinco. Since our report last fall a number of things have taken place which should be of interest to the brotherhood. We conducted a week of Pre-Easter services, with the writer bringing the messages. These services served to improve the spiritual life of the church somewhat. Special music was in charge of the various auxiliary groups. We were highly honored in being able to have the Ashland College A Cappella Choir in our church for a concert on their tour in the east. Their program was well received by a full house. The Brotherhoods conducted their Public program in May, having Rev. Charles Munson, Brethren Youth Director, as speaker. In early June we conducted our Spring communion with 63 women and 70 men participating.

Revival at Brush Valley

In the early part of June we went as Evangelist to the Brush Valley Brethren Church, then pastored by Rev. Percy C. Miller, for a two weeks' meeting. We found a church which is situated in a strictly rural area, yet which has a tremendous pulling power on the people for many miles around. Some families drove as much as 12 to 15 miles each way to attend all of the services. Many walked four or five miles each way to attend. The interest and loyalty manifested is a credit to the pastoral work, and to the love which the people themselves have for their church. The attendance and interest increased as the meetings progressed. Along with the evangelistic services, a Daily Vacation Bible School was conducted, with very good attendance and results. They gave a closing program in conjunction with the last Friday evening service, to a full house.

The passing of the Evangelist's father shortly after the start of the meeting caused a change in plans, but Rev. Miller graciously carried the load for the five nights we were absent. The meeting was well worth while, for there were quite a few reconsecrations, and 12 accepted Christ as their Savior. We assisted the Pastor on the last Sunday afternoon in a beautiful baptismal service in the nearby Allegheny river. These 12 were confirmed and received into the church Sunday evening. We certainly appreciate the gracious hospitality of the church members, and of the Millers' in making our stay a pleasant one. Although Rev. Miller has since left this field, his ministry will continue to be felt in the Brush Valley community for many years. We wish for him in his new field, and for the Brush Valley people under their new pastor, many fruitful and successful years in His service.

Further Vinco Activities

July was Conference month in Vinco. We entertained the Pennsylvania District Conference. We were very glad to have them with us, for they proved to be courteous and appreciative guests. A new, and commodious cement block garage was completed on the parsonage ground this summer. Our new building program has been slowed up due to building conditions, but the foundation is dug, and work will continue as soon as conditions permit. The writer was given a fine call of the Church to continue for another year as pastor, and we would have continued in the fellowship of these fine people, except that we have felt the call of another field of labor.

Revival Under Rev. and Mrs. Adams

We have just concluded a two weeks' revival at Vinco under the capable and spiritual direction of Rev. and Mrs. Samuel J. Adams. Rev. Adams preached the Word night after night as a true gospel minister, bringing conviction to many hearts. Sister Adams performed a valuable service in leading the music and presenting choruses and special numbers. All in all, the Adams have given us a good meeting in the Lord, and we appreciate their efforts, also their fellowship among us, and in the home of the Pastor and wife. Average attendance—120; Eleven received into membership.

At this writing we are in the process of closing our 2 year and 2 month pastorate with these people at Vinco, and moving to our new work. We have accepted the call of the Brethren Church at Meyersdale, Pa., and by the time you read this we will be busily at work in our new field. We covet your prayers.

EVANGELISTIC MEETING, VINCO, PENNA.

Monday evening, November 8th, Mrs. Adams and I began our meeting with the Vinco Brethren and their pastor, Bro. W. S. Benshoff. From the first night the interest and attention of these folks was all that ine could ask. The reception of the truth and the kind words of these folks we did appreciate. We greatly enjoyed our stay with the Benshoffs, they truly did all within their power to make us feel at home. Christian fellowship, how rich, we shall always remember this privilege. Our days were spent in seeking the lost and visiting those who needed the Lord. The highway and the byway is where we must seek those who are without Christ. Brother Benshoff planned well for this part of our meeting.

From day to day we were welcomed into those homes that ministered to our physical needs. We could not have asked for more from any people.

This church has a great future and a great opportunity. New homes are appearing everywhere and many of the people are coming to this church for spiritual help.

The church choir and the mens' chorus rendered a great service during the meeting. Special nights which brought out night after night various groups to the service helped greatly. Folks from Johnstown first, second and third churches and groups with their special music added much to our meeting. Rev. and Mrs. Zimmerman, Rev. Percy Miller and family, Rev. E. M. Riddle, Rev. and Mrs. Leath-erman, Rev. and Mrs. George Jones, and Rev. J. L. Bowman were present during our meeting.

We thank the church for this opportunity and our thanks also for the offering we received.

May the church be faithful in all things, "Until He shall Come," is our prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Adams.

Oakville, Indiana. A fine deed was done by the Oakville "Flower Committee" just prior to the Christmas time. Brother Henry Bates says, "The Flower Committee of the Sunday School visited the sick and aged and distributed poinsettias to bring a little cheer to them at the Christmas season."

Brother Bates, always a booster for subscriptions to the Brethren Evangelist, is right on the job at the new pastorate at Oakville, urging the members of the congregation to subscribe. We feel that is the proper attitude for every pastor and congregation.

The Oakville church observed the departure of 1948 and the coming of 1949 with the following program: 6:30—a carry-in supper; following the supper the annual congregational business meeting; at the close of the business session the "Older" young married people's Sunday School class provided a program of entertainment and recreation; at 11:30 the New Year's Eve Candlelight Watchnight Service was held.

Canton, Ohio. On Sunday morning, December 5, the Canton Church held a service of dedication for the new vestments for their Choir. The choir and congregation have been working for some time to get these robes, aiming to have them before the Christmas season of this last year. They succeeded.

Brother Beekley says, "Another Sunday School Class is being formed for the children in the Junior Sunday School in the basement. That's what makes a Sunday School grow."

Nappanee, Indiana. Brother J. Milton Bowman has this to say in a recent bulletin, "Our church pews have come at last. They are really beautiful. The choir furniture is almost ready." He also says that many laymen helped to load, unload and assemble the pews.

December 12 was Cash Day for the new church in the Nappanee congregation. We have not learned how much was brought in.

Waterloo, Iowa. Brother V. E. Meyer reports that the sum of $5,555.71 was received recently by the Waterloo Church from the estate of Harry Miller. It was given to be used in the Lord's work.

Brother Meyer also reports the gift of a new maroon Choir curtain, the gift being made by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klingaman and Helen Jordan; also that Mr. and Mrs. Bert Holmes gave the choir a lovely mirror.

We note that a Christmas party—a pot-luck supper, followed by a program—was held at the Waterloo church on Thursday evening, December 23.

Louisville, Ohio. A recent issue of Brother John T. Byler's "Pastor's Helper," his monthly church paper, carried a very interesting note which we want to pass on to our readers. "The Junior Christian Endeavor Society has adopted a little girl, born of leper parents. She lives in Siam and her name is 'Sao Kao.' She is twelve years of age. A Christmas offering was sent to her."

Mexico, Indiana. Rev. Robert Higgins, pastor of the Mexico-Loree Circuit says that a number of the Mexico young people attended the recent All-Day Youth meeting which was held at the Denver Church.

He also sends a program of the Christmas Cantata, "The Gift Supreme," which the Loree Choir gave in the Mexico church on December 22.

St. James, Maryland. The following is from the St. James Bulletin: "Again the W. M. S. has met the challenge and answered it. Over 100 pounds of clothing was sent to the mission at Lost Creek, Kentucky. Mrs. Roy Lowery sponsored the clothing project for the Signal Lights. Mrs. Isaac Litton, chairman of the Benevolent Committee, sent a Christmas box for the W. M. S. with over 50 pounds of candy, cookies, toys, etc."

Gratis, Ohio. We note that Rev. and Mrs. George H. Jones, and a friend Miss Ethel Smith from Johnstown, Pennsylvania, who were enroute to St. Petersburg, Florida for the winter, paused long enough at Gratis for Brother Jones to have a part in a Sunday School and morning worship service in the Gratis church. Brother Jones was a former pastor.

Brother Crick says, "The Cash in the Christmas Stockings, hung on the Christmas tree, totaled $66.70. This sum goes to the church redecorating fund." He also says that the church gave the Cricks a generous and varied supply of edibles.

West Alexandria, Ohio. The formal installation of Brother Harold R. Garland as pastor of the West Alexandria church was held on Sunday afternoon, January 2nd.

Sunday evening, January 16 has been set aside by the West Alexandria church as the time for the rededication services of their newly painted, redecorated and re-equipped church building. Delegations from surrounding churches are invited.

FAITH, TRUST AND CONFIDENCE

FOR THE PAST ten years that the editor has been identified with the Publishing House, the first two years as the Secretary of the Publication Board, and the past eight years as Editor of Publications, we have fully realized that the Publication Board has made the three words at the head of this column the key words of its work—the Faith and Trust being in God and His help, and the Confidence being had in the membership of the Brethren Church.

Few, if any, projects have ever been attempted by the Publishing Company in these recent years without seeking the approbation of Almighty God. Projects were not started in any haphazard manner, but were born in prayer. For after all, the work of the Publishing of the "Glad Tidings" of the Gospel is the work of the Divine as well as the human. Being but instruments in the hands of God, therefore, it behooves us to "consult" with Him in every effort, regardless of how small or great.

If Jesus had not meant what He said, He would never have said it. Yet he said, "Whatsoever ye ask in my name, I will do it." There is also the element of "nothing doubting" that must be taken into account. The erecting of the building and the ability to purchase the land came through prayer and faith in God that, if it was to be, He would show the way. He did! After meeting what seemed insurmountable difficulties, it was done. Equipment was the next thing and we prayed—so did you—and many thousands of dollars were saved in the purchase of this much needed equipment. Especially is this true of the new suction feed, pile delivery, magazine press. Out of practically a clear sky came the opportunity to purchase a press, just the kind we needed, at a saving of about $7,000.00. At the present quotation on the same press the saving is appreciably more, we would say nearly $10,000.00. We had an opportunity to buy a folder, just the kind we need—at a great saving—but possibly we did not pray enough and it slipped by.

Nevertheless, the thing that we want to impress on your minds at this time is that the first thing that should be uppermost in our minds is that there is a necessity for all of us to put our trust in God and to have faith in His ability to provide. Paul wrote, "My God will supply all your needs through the riches of grace in Christ Jesus." To me, that means material things, as well as spiritual. God is the owner of all material things and it is His purpose to supply all the needs of His children.

The Publication Board has had confidence in the membership of the Brethren Church. That confidence has been vindicated. When the call came to give for the various needs of the Publishing Interests, the church-at-large responded in a magnificent way. We needed a new automatic Kluge job press—the money was forthcoming from the Brethren. We needed a cutter and a stitcher and a mailer—the offerings grew. We needed the new magazine press—the church is making great contributions to that project, and we are sure, will finish the job before next conference time. The elevator became a "must"—the call went out and it was met. Sure, the Board has confidence that the church, seeing the need, gives willingly and graciously, and, we are sure now we can say, since the gifts have been coming in so wonderfully these past two years, they have been given in many cases, sacrificially.

But why should we not give? We pray; God hears our prayer; He sends the impulse out into our hearts; what else is there for us, as Christians, to do except respond? Constantly the Christ is saying, "I gave my life for thee; what hast thou given for Me?" And we must answer.

I heard a man once say, "Every one who conscientiously prays for a cause, must by the very fact that he so prays, give to the support of that cause." He prays because he believes it is worthy of his prayer; and he also gives because he believes it is worthy of his support.

The Publication Day offering is a NECESSITY. If it were not, the Board would never ask for it. There might come a time when all the equipment that is necessary for the putting out of all the literature that the church should have is in place, that the Board could say, "Now we do not need to insist on this offering." But that time is not now present. The need is great—let's make our offering great by sacrificing a bit. We can do it, if we will to.

Think it over! THEN ACT!

Ashland, Ohio. In spite of more sickness than is the usual run in the Ashland Congregation, the attendance has been holding up marvelously well. Especially is this true in the evening attendance, both on Sunday and in the Mid-week services. Special services are arranged each Sunday evening and the interest grows. Last evening the editor had the privilege of showing slides of the Brethren's Home at Flora and explaining them. Next Sunday evening, January 9, the regular Youth Night, which is observed once each month, motion pictures of the Publishing House and a Missionary Film will be shown.

On Wednesday evening, December 29th, Brother H. H. Rowsey, pastor of the church, baptized five persons, four of which were recent converts at the Garber Memorial Brethren Church, a new project which is sponsored by the Ashland Church (Park Street), and which we are trusting will, in time become a strong Brethren Church. As yet it has not been organized as a regular church. This work is advancing in a fine way since the fall season has given renewed impulse to the effort. Brother William Fells, a student at the college is doing the preaching; Brother Robert Holsinger is acting as class leader, and Brother Robert Hoffman is Superintendent of the Sunday School. Both of these boys are students at the college and seminary.

Meyersdale, Pennsylvania. Brother W. S. Benshoff who recently assumed the pastorate of the Meyersdale Church, expresses his appreciation for the fine way in which they were received at the time of their moving into the parsonage—members setting the furniture in place, stocking the larder and serving the Benshoffs a piping hot supper.

The World, The Church, and Us

(Moderator's address, delivered at Mid-West District Conference at Mulvane, Kansas, October 8, 1948.)

IN THIS COMPLEX and confused world situation in which we find ourselves it is difficult for us as Brethren to find our proper place in it. In order to do so it seems imperative that we step aside from our usual thinking for a little while and with the aid of the Spirit of God take a look at the World and the Church and then, as with the aid of a powerful field glass, try to find ourselves in the picture. Having found ourselves we then shall try to discover what place in it we occupy; what part we are to play; and what is the importance and the responsibility that is attached to us in this great world drama.

LET US LOOK AT THE WORLD. From almost every news report today we hear that the world faces great crises: that of the real possibility of another world war which with the use of atomic bombs will all but destroy civilization from the earth and turn back the calendar of human progress by hundreds if not thousands of years.

It seems to me that the world has always faced a crisis. At every period in world history there has been present impending calamity, the seemingly unsurmountable obstacle and the imminent danger of collapse. Yet the world has survived. There has been the collapse of one civilization after another, and empire after empire, and nation after nation but the world goes on. But not FOREVER!

Listen to God's Word: They shall perish, but thou shalt endure: yea, all of them shalt wax old like a garment; as a vesture thou shalt change them, and they shall be changed. Ps. 102:26. (read verses 25 to 26). As Brethren people we are agreed that this is the Church age and the final age of world history. Is the world growing old like the many forms of life within it? I believe it is. There are now two and three quarter billion people in the world and we are told that in so short a time as ninety years from now it will have doubled its population. Estimates are that twenty to thirty million people are dying each year due to insufficient food. World food supply poses a great crisis. Other experts tell us that we face a real shortage of fresh water to meet the domestic needs of the great cities of our country and others. This might easily become a real and difficult problem.

The first and the greatest crisis that ever came upon the world was in the Garden of Eden when Satan came and tempted man to sin and the human family fell under that temptation. All of the trials, calamities and judgments that have come upon the world since have come because of sin. The Deluge came upon the world as God's next judgment of sin and the third great trial or crisis to come is the tribulation which will mark the close of this age when God will again judge the world.

Sin, dear people, is the world's greatest problem. This is indeed a troubled world. We would further note some things in our national life: It is estimated that another war would cost America the astronomical sum of 500 Billion dollars which would mean national bankruptcy. We are beset with strikes which cost labor untold millions and threaten to destroy our economic life and our great industrial system. The increasing consumption of liquor which cost America nearly 10 Billion dollars last year. Our increasing divorce rate which threatens seriously the institution of the home with a national average of about two divorces out of five marriages. There is the everpresent problem of race hatreds and prejudice. Anti-Semitism is still a world problem. Crime is on the increase along with the increased use of liquor, narcotics and tobacco.

We have seen momentous things take place in the last few years that will go down in world history as epoch making events. We have witnessed the crushing by the Allied armies the greatest and most powerful military machine the world has ever seen. We saw the fall of two great empires, Germany and Japan. We saw the formation of the United Nations. We have seen Russia rise from a third rate nation of thirty years ago to become one of the greatest of world powers and which now threatens the peace of the world. Last May we heard the startling news that the Zionist Jews had declared to the world the creation and birth of a new nation, or rather the rebirth of an old nation, Israel. Over 600,000 Jews are now in Palestine to establish this new nation, even according to the promise of God as given in the Prophecies. This passes as one of the greatest problems now before the United Nations. So we might go on.

Things do not remain the same. Great things are in the making. Tomorrow's news is unpredictable. The world is growing old. Time races on and is running out. The world is in great trouble and that trouble is sin. What the world needs is Jesus!

LET US LOOK AT THE CHURCH. As I look down there upon the world in all its tribulations I see the Church. Not the Roman Catholic Church, nor the Protestant Church, nor any one of the different branches of the Church, but the Church Universal, the Church of the Living God: that body of believers, who through faith in Jesus the Christ have been baptized into that one body and have received the gift of the Holy Spirit of God. This is the true Church. "If any man have not the Spirit of God he is none of His." I see in the world both the true and the professing Church. Sometimes referred to as the visible and the invisible Church. I'm not so sure as to that designation.

The Church today is facing a crisis. It seems to me that the Church has always been face to face with crisis. In fact the Church was born in a great crisis. It then faced great persecution, was then swallowed up by the world and lost in the dark ages having departed from the true doctrine and dominated by the Roman hierarchy. Then came the revitalizing influence of the Reformation followed by the growing coldness and division into the numerous divisions of Protestantism. Now we are experiencing the lukewarmness, against which the Church is warned by our Lord. These things have plagued the Church throughout her history yet the Church goes on and will go on to the end of this age when God will have finished His great purpose in the Church.

Has the Church kept her covenant with her Lord? Has she carried out her Mission in the world? It is estimated that there are about 750,000,000 Christians in the world or about one-third of the world's population. The Gospel has been taken to all the nations of the world and to the islands of the sea until there is scarcely a tribe on earth where the gospel has not been preached. The Church has translated the Scriptures into over a thousand different languages and dialects. She has established hundreds of great institutions of learning throughout the world. She has controlled governments and influenced many others. The Church has within its ranks the best minds in the world. Its moral code is the basis of judicial jurisprudence in most of the leading nations today.

The Church has great and powerful organizations through which it wields its influence. In America we have The Federal Council of Churches and the American Council, each opposing the other. Recently there was organized The World Council of Churches into which membership and fellowship were invited both the Roman Catholic Church and the Jewish faith both of which refused. We can observe the struggle for power between these different groups as we go about our work as Christians today.

Can we not see in the world picture of the Church the great world Church of the prophetic Scriptures in the making? I believe we can. Can we not see in this bright appearing picture that the world Church has taken all the glory? That it has a form of godliness but denies the power thereof: The Power of the Holy Spirit? But, can we not see also within the total body of the Church those saving elements, smaller bodies of Christians, faith missions, strictly Christian institutions of learning, and leaders of influence and power who are truly Christian which all together constitute the real source of Missionary accomplishments in the world? I believe we do.

Let us remember that God is not only dealing with the world today in respect to sin but that he is dealing with the Church also in respect to obedience to His revealed will and our faithfulness in carrying out the Great Commission. Not in preaching a social gospel, not in creating a better world or social order nor by helping man to build and to climb his own ladder to a higher plane for that is folly. But rather we are sent to preach the Gospel of Christ and redemption from sin through faith in Jesus Christ who taught men saying, "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Light, No man cometh unto the Father but by me."

LET US LOOK AT OURSELVES. Now that we have located the Church in the world let us see if we can find ourselves as a Denomination, as a Church in the picture. Having found our Church let us find our local Church and then our own individual selves. Let us see if we can discover our own personal relation to the total scene.

What are we doing? A tourist came upon a scene where a number of men were at work apparently constructing a great structure, and began to inquire what they were doing. The first man he asked replied, "I'm just working here for wages to feed and clothe my family." The second said, "I'm doing just as little as I can to get by and draw my pay." But the third man replied, "I'm building a great cathedral." We are engaged in the greatest work in the world, that of building the Church.

What is the Brethren apology? Why did we come into being? What is the reason for our existence, if any? These are questions I have had to answer for myself and which every one of us must answer if we are to see the Brethren Church continue. Alexander Mack and those seven other souls who stood with him on the banks of the Eider, nearly two hundred years after the Reformation, must have had a reason for standing apart and alone and for pressing forward to establish the Brethren faith. Said they, "We will take the New Testament scriptures as our rule of faith and practice and accept them as an easy yoke." We, Brethren, have taken the Bible, the whole Bible, and nothing but the Bible. I believe God called the Brethren Church into being and therefore we are responsible to Him. We are Brethren because we believe in Brethren Doctrines and we believe those doctrines are true Bible Doctrines. There is no other Church like the Brethren Church. If there were reasons for the Brethren Church in Mack's day, there are even greater reasons for the Brethren Church in our day. I'm not ready to sell out and quit business. I heard Mr. Churchill say, "I did not become Prime Minister to liquidate the British Empire." We have a basic, fundamental message of Bible doctrine of God's plan of redemption in Christ and of the Christian way of life to present to this lost and needy world and we must present it.

The Brethren Church today faces a crisis. Applying the principle already used I would say we have always faced a crisis. We have the alternative today of sticking to our God given message given by our Lord Jesus in the Great Commission and receive God's help and blessing or follow the course of the Modern Church and the devices of men, and face God in the judgment for failure. We are a small Church, we have a big job to do and we propose to do it. The reasons why we have remained a small church are not difficult to understand in the light of our Church history. We too, can grow like certain other small Denominations we could mention are growing today because we have a great message, a great Saviour and a great way of life to present to the people.

Is there a field and is there a need? The world is the field and the need is great. America has been evangelized and there is a church in almost every community in our land; but the great task and the great challenge to the Church today is to RE-EVANGELIZE not only America but the civilized nations of the world. Statistics show that 52 percent of our population in America has no connection with the Church. The remaining 48 percent includes many who do not know Christ as their Saviour. Our field is every field where the whole gospel is not preached: half gospel is not enough.

What is the Brethren Church doing today and what have we accomplished? In the short period of nine years since our unhappy experiences of division which left us almost entirely without a mission work, either Home or Foreign, our Missionary Board has reorganized and promoted the work and at present I am told our South American work is greater than what we had before. Our Home Mission work also has been growing rapidly with new church buildings built, new Churches established and plans under way for still greater things. Our Kentucky work was never in such fine condition as at present. Our Brethren Home is filled with people and many fine improvements have been made and it too is in a prosperous condition. Our Publishing Company found itself with no building, no money and some wornout machinery; but today we have a fine brick building, a new press, many other pieces of modern equipment, a good job business and a fine subscription list for the Brethren Evangelist. Our Woman's Missionary Society continues to keep the pace set many years ago and at present are ready to build that new College Chapel. Our Brethren Laymen have organized and developed into a real and active body of Brethren men that know where they are going and what they are doing. Our National Sunday School Association has reached a high point in its effort to serve the Church. Our Camps are producing many of the recruits for the ministry and many other consecrated workers for the Church. Our College and Seminary likewise were never in such good shape both financially and in student enrollment. Our Sisterhood Girls and our Boys' Brotherhood are marching forward under the banner of Christ. Our Christian Endeavor is a much alive organization with great plans for the future. Our Brethren Youth movement is positively the most forward marching body the Brethren Church has ever seen. We will soon have leaders to lead, missionaries to send, preachers to fill our vacant pulpits and to open new Churches and extend our borders. Our Youth are on the march. We must provide the fields both at home and abroad. We must encourage them and challenge them to great things. Faith inspires faith. It is true we have weaknesses but let us think of our strength instead. We have our needs also. We need another foreign mission field. We should have more new home mission points opened each year. We need to complete our line of Brethren Sunday School lesson materials. We need more Brethren leaders, both preachers and laymen, who will give themselves to the writing of books—Brethren books. We have a mission in the world, a great work to do and let us be convinced that thinking, and planning and working objectively will help us most of all to achieve the desired goal. Let us create loyalty to the Brethren Church by every legitimate means. Let us give more attention to our distinctive Brethren Doctrines. Let us take courage.

There are dangers to be avoided as there have always been. Beware of liberalism. We have the old fashioned gospel to preach. We believe the Word of God. Beware of materialism and the social gospel. Man cannot save himself. Beware of mergers for they mean death to minority groups. What I have said thus far has been said with our entire Denomination in mind but I have had in mind also every District, every local Church and every individual member of the Brethren Church.

Our District has its own peculiar problems and advantages. I recommend that we press forward, under the grace and power of God and to the exaltation and glory of Jesus' name, preaching the Word in all its fullness and power, and planting Sunday Schools and Churches across the land until Jesus comes again.

Faith is a moral quality. Our Lord saw this clearly, because he never linked faith with knowledge but always with repentance. The opposite of faith is not unbelief, it is impotence.—The Outlook, New Zealand.

Horizon Unlimited

ANOTHER MEMBER OF THE PUBLICATION BOARD SPEAKS

Rev. W. C. Berkshire, Mission Board Representative

IN THE FIELD of Christian publications there are "horizons unlimited." It is a world of opportunity in which we live. It is a day of opportunity for the Brethren Church. To see the possibilities in the field of publications and advance in the strength of the Lord, might well be our objective.

Our Lord said, that "the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light." We see continually, how true this is. The business world uses every modern method and invention to promote its interests. Quality, production and efficiency, all are of primary consideration in the enterprising world. In contrast, note how often the "children of light" are resigned to "the methods of yesterday, the machinery of antiquity." Upon this basis, quality, production and efficiency cannot be guaranteed in the Lord's work.

The most modern machinery, the best executive minds, the most skilled laborers and the best methods known, are not too good for the Lord's work. They are not too good for the Publishing interests of the Brethren Church.

The improvement program promoted by the Brethren Publication Board is more than press and equipment. It is basically, a program to improve efficiency and quality. To this end let every member support this phase of our work generously, with continued prayers and gifts.

CARE SEED PACKAGES

Two CARE seed packages containing potential vast harvests of food for humans and fodder for livestock in Europe are announced by Executive Director, Paul Comly French.

Thirty-one selected varieties of vegetable seeds, enough to plant a garden up to 50 by 150 feet, are contained in the package designed for family use. The other, weighing 20 pounds, hold enough hybrid field corn seed to plant 2½ acres and provide valuable feed for fattening meat animals or maintaining a high level of production in dairy cattle.

The new CARE packages are being offered for $4 each, and orders are now being received by CARE at 50 Broad Street, New York 4, N. Y., as well as at all CARE offices throughout the country, for guaranteed delivery in eleven European countries. Orders should be sent at the earliest possible date to insure delivery in time for the planting seasons.

"This latest expansion of CARE's service, supplementing our $10 food and clothing textile packages," Mr. French said, "comes in response to many appeals both here and abroad. It has been pointed out that since Europe's recovery depends upon its ability to produce for itself, anything Americans can do to provide the means of production will speed the recovery. These seed packages sent now, will go a long way toward solving Europe's food problems next year."

Late Governmental Figures Regarding Income and Expenditures

Dr. Robert M. Hopkins, Director of the National Stewardship Institute

TO THOSE WHO HAVE been studying the rapidly mounting expenditures that are involved in the increased cost of living and have noted the alarming lowered ratio which benevolent giving sustains from year to year, it will be of interest to note these recently released figures from the U. S. Department of Commerce. These cover income and expenditures for 1947.

First of all, it must be borne in mind that the national income has reached an all time high. The income for 1947 is reported to have been $202.5 Billion. The latest governmental reports indicate that the national income in 1948 will probably be at the even higher figure of $215 Billion. It was $179 Billion in 1946 and has been climbing steadily since the depression year of 1933 when it was 39.5 Billion. In 1939 at the outbreak of World War II it was $72.5 Billion. In other words, there is now available five times the amount for expenditures that was available in the depression, and over two and a half times the amount when World War II began. Let us note how this unprecedented income is being spent.

Food, which in this analysis includes both tobacco and beverages, has taken almost one third of these expenditures, $61.8 Billion. Food purchased for off-premise consumption has increased 17% in the past year. Expenditures for tobacco, which account for $3.9 Billion, have increased almost 14%. Tips with meals, which are also included in this total expenditure, have increased from $442 Million to $449 Million.

Clothing, with which are included many accessories, accounted for personal expenditure of $22.6 Billion in 1947. They were $22 Billion in 1946, as that indicates there has been but little increase here.

Housing and household operation combined occupy second place in total expenditures. They were $36.4 Billion in 1947, almost a 15% increase over 1946. The purchase of electrical appliances made the largest gain in these expenditures, and was almost twice that spent in 1946.

For transportation, expenditures doubled what they were two years ago in 1945. Expenditures for new automobiles and net expenditures for used cars, the largest item of increase, were almost doubled in one year, 1946, 1947, while the comparison between 1945 and 1947 reveals an increase of twelve fold.

Recreation increased during the year from $8.6 Billion in 1946 to $9.4 Billion in 1947. Motion pictures, which receive the largest income in recreation, showed a slight decrease of $5 Million, but professional baseball and football, together with horse and dog races, show a combined increase of $13 Million.

Private education and research had made an increase in 1946 over 1945 of $164 Million, and a further increase of almost $60 Million is now reported for 1947. Most of these increases are credited to higher education.

The expenditures in 1947 for religious and welfare activities were, according to this Government report, $1,615 Million Dollars. This is only Five Million Dollars above these expenditures in 1946, but it is actually Four Million Dollars less than the $1,619 Million Dollars reported in 1945. These annual reports, which are released by the Department of Commerce, are criticized by some church statisticians. One reason for such criticism is undoubtedly due to the fact that many churches and benevolent institutions do not report their income and expenditures. Therefore, these critics feel that since they have not reported, the Government statistics can do little more than indicate trends. The trend, as thus revealed for these expenditures in 1947, is far from encouraging.

According to this report for 1947, only eighty-five cents out of each One Hundred Dollars expended last year was devoted to religion and private welfare, which is less than 1%. When the expenditures for private education are included, of which a large portion was given for church supported colleges, and when other additions are made which may be properly included in benevolent giving, this percentage is lifted to approximately 1.5%.

If the forty-six million Protestants in the U. S. A., the twenty-five million Roman Catholics, the nearly five million Jews and the million others who are affiliated with other religious bodies, gave in 1947 on the average, the average amount which was given in 1947 in twenty-one Protestant churches that hold membership in the United Stewardship Council, the total amount given would be $1,614 Million. The United Stewardship Council carefully computes the average for those Protestant denominations which are members of that body, and this total is ascertained by applying the proportion to all the religious groups as indicated.

It is of interest to note that this projection would make a total of $1,614 Million, which is almost identical with the amount reported by the Government, as indicated above, $1,615. The Government, of course makes its computation for all religious bodies and it includes all private social welfare and foreign relief agencies.

By following either process, it is evident that the total amount given for church and related charity at the present time is just about four times the amount which is given in tips with meals, and it is less than half the amount which is being spent on tobacco. Church and charity, therefore, continue to occupy a place in expenditures comparable with tips and non-essentials. This ratio between benevolent giving and total expenditures grows less and less as the total income rises and benevolent giving in the aggregate makes but comparatively slight increase.

This proportion in 1947 was less than one-third what it was in the depression years of the thirties. This is the more regrettable when it is remembered that all dollars are depreciated in value. There is undoubtedly urgent need for concerted effort to challenge all citizens to mount to higher levels of intelligent, generous stewardship expression.

Be the strongest "salt" and the brightest "light" you can from now on.

Influence

Rev. E. L. Miller

WE SHALL NOTE two phases of influence as we go along. There is that phase shown and cast while we are here living among our fellows. And there is also that phase that goes with the legacy we leave to posterity and the ages to come, be it good or bad. Is there a text? Certainly, and here it is: Romans 14:7, "For none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself." Some one is touched with our grief and also with our joys. If born for only one short day or hour, some one is touched and influenced by that advent. And certainly if that day or week should be extended into months, years or decades of years, all the more our being here has influenced some person or persons in some manner or other. Our living is done among our fellows, and we both influence them and are influenced by them. Sometimes the circle of associates may be small and our influence is more or less restricted. Then at other times it may be very sensibly felt at great distance. But whatever, it is felt.

The declaration of the scientist that the pebble tossed into the pool of water affects every drop of water in the pool is correct. The drops nearest to the point of entry will be affected first and most apparently. But to the edge of the pool the disturbance is felt and often seen, though it may grow less and lighter. And a man's influence upon the society of which he is part is likened unto that pebble. He comes into the midst, and whether a Jesus with every influence for good, or a Judas Iscariot, Adolph Hitler, Benito Mussolini or Al Capone with the influence all in the other direction, yet is the influence felt.

So our entering the picture and living here does make a difference to and with our fellows. And it is constantly being shown to us that men do not die unto themselves. At times the effect of the parting one may not be too great, even upon those who are rather close to him. But then again, what wonderful effect the departing of others does have upon those near and further removed too! We mourn, lament, meet and miss. They have tied themselves to us in such fashion that our entire lives are affected by their going. They leave holes, empty places in the order of things, places that cannot well be filled. So we see that both barrels of our text are loaded. May it ever be for good.

Living and dying today are both very costly. The high cost of living is readily matched by the high cost of passing on. It is true for many of us that we can hardly manage to get together the wherewithal for living. And yet with funeral expenses as they are, one dare hardly think of dying. Yes, living and dying both have their expenses. May we say that they also have their dangers, not all of which are physical? But both our living and dying may be of such character that all about us may be impressed and influenced for every good. Much complaint may be made about the manner of some folks' living, while at times it is not quite so about their dying. When a very disreputable character died quite suddenly an elderly lady asked the question, "What was the complaint?" She got a ready reply, "No complaint at all, lady, everybody's satisfied." The kind of life lived by the departed brought that answer, a life with influence of the wrong sort, but the influence was there. And it followed after.

How wonderful that men living good and exemplary lives cannot take their influence with them when they leave us. And how awful that when some men die they cannot have all their influence pitched out into the darkness with them. The Lord knew what He was about when He had Joshua destroy Achan when he was caught in his sin of stealing from God. He had him and his kith and kin, bag and baggage, and all his belongings obliterated. God wanted neither Achan nor anything belonging to him left that might remind men of him. And of course the terrible lesson to those who would rob God is also put before men. All that was left of Achan was a bad memory of him. God knows all about the influence of living men and also of the dead. And we know it too, and there is the rub. Indeed, we are wonderfully and fearfully made. Stress the wonderful side and don't go into reverse action. Then all your influences shall be for good.

But this is supposed to be an article for the Sunday School page and as the radio men would put it, "Where is the plug?" that is, the plug for the Sunday School and its work. Here it is. The Sunday School is an institution exerting influence for good only. Be on hand to get the inspiration afforded by this great auxiliary of the church of the living God. The Sunday School teaches the wonderful Word of God and presents the gracious Son of God. The eternal truth and the eternal Son, the greatest influences for good in this wicked old world are taught so that they might shine out through the lives of young and old with an influence that eternity alone will be able to evaluate or measure. Like Dorcas of old, let us be full of good works and alms deeds which we do so as to make our world better and a nicer place in which to live. You can neither live or die to yourself, so make the most and best of it while you move, live and have your being here on God's footstool. And you cannot take your influence with you. Make it good.

BOOK WANTED

Brother E. J. Beekley, pastor of our Canton, Ohio, Church would like to obtain possession of a book entitled, "Lectures on Preaching," delivered before the Divinity School of Yale College, 1877, by the Rt. Rev. Phillips Brooks, D.D. If you have such a volume that you would part with, address Brother Beekley, at 604 Paar Place, N. E., Canton, Ohio.

WITH THE LAYMEN

SOUTHERN INDIANA LAYMEN MEET

THE SOUTHERN Indiana Laymen met at the Peru Church on Monday evening, November 15, 1948. The ladies of the church served a very bountiful meal in the church dining room.

We gathered in the main auditorium for the evening program. Brother Fayette Shoemaker acted as program chairman. Rev. Elmer Carrithers, pastor of the host church, gave a short welcome. James Donaldson of the Mexico Church acted as song leader. Miss Dorcas Carrithers accompanied at the piano.

The opening number was, "Praise Him, Praise Him." We were then led in prayer by Harold Donaldson, Harry Mishler and James Kraining. "Showers of Blessing" was sung. Morris Rufe favored us with a musical reading, "Ain't God Good to Indiana?"

Brother Shoemaker then introduced Rev. Woodrow Brant of Warsaw as speaker of the evening. He began by saying that he would like to change the alphabet—"I'd like to get U and I closer together," emphasizing that the ministers and laity should get closer together. The Lord Jesus when He was here on earth gathered a company of men about Him. We should fellowship together through the Lord Jesus Christ. "Let's get on fire for Christ. Not only are ministers called for full time service, but laymen as well." He gave two poems which were fitting, "How to Kill Your Preacher," and "Are You an Active Member, or Do You Just Belong?" True fellowship comes through showing God to those who know Him not. "Stop and think or stop thinking!" Do you have a burden on your heart for the neighbor who is going to hell? Psalm 119:59 says, "I thought on my ways and turned my feet unto thy testimonies." If you are right with God and are thinking right, the results will be action. What are you living for? "To me to live is Christ." "We can learn to know each other better by learning to know the Lord Jesus Christ better. We must depend on the Lord for strength for we cannot do anything within ourselves. We can't all be Simon Peters, but we need a lot of Andrews." He closed with the poem, "In The Road."

The group then sang, "Oh, Master Let Me Walk With Thee."

Brother H. D. "Bud" Hunter had charge of the business session. The Secretary's and the Treasurer's reports were read and approved. The roll call of churches resulted in a count of eighty-three present. The Loree Church extended us an invitation for the next meeting which will be held on February 21, 1949. It was voted to give the entire evening offering toward the Station Wagon Fund: The offering amounted to $212.40.

This being the time for the election of officers, the election was held and resulted as follows:

President Kenneth Stout, College Corner
Vice-President Walter Shinn, Loree
Secretary-Treasurer Guy V. Purdy, Roann
Brother H. D. Hunter dismissed the meeting with prayer.
Guy V. Purdy, Secretary.

NORTHERN INDIANA LAYMEN'S BROTHERHOOD MEETS

THE FORTY-EIGHTH Quarterly meeting of the Northern Indiana Laymen's Brotherhood of the Brethren Church was held in the Goshen church December 6, 1948.

The usual fine supper was served to the men in the basement by the ladies of the church. Rev. C. A. Stewart of New Paris gave the invocation.

Following the supper, Mrs. Harold Hummell played organ music while the men assembled for the meeting proper. Charles Wick, president of the Goshen Laymen, was in charge and extended a cordial welcome to all present. Herman Roscoe led in group singing. For devotions Rev. W. E. Ronk of Goshen read from the third chapter of Philipians and offered prayer.

Mr. Wick then expressed great pleasure in having with us Dr. Glenn Clayton, President of Ashland College and Seminary, and introduced him as the speaker of the evening. In reviewing the conditions of the lay organizations of the church, he noted that they have definitely outgrown the infant stage, and he was looking toward the future with great anticipation. The general theme of the message was, "Be Ye Doers of the Word." The laymen are the service organization of the church to get things done. To be doers you must have an individual, personal experience, which gives a will to do. The Pilgrims had it. The founders of the old church, school and government had it. Today the need is great—the job is big—if we want, we can affect a change. Through the avenue of missions we have the opportunity of extending the power of conviction to the utmost. To accomplish this we must put away doubt and fear; selfishness must be replaced with sacrifice. We must walk closer to Jesus. We do not need more plans to build—we need simply to kindle the fire of the Spirit in our hearts. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, you have done it unto me."

President Harold Hummell then took charge of the business meeting, and introduced Rev. E. M. Riddle of Ashland, Ohio, and Oscar Robarge, National Vice-President of Bryan, Ohio.

One hundred and ninety-one men answered to roll call, during which they brought cash and pledges amounting to $1,120.73 in support of the Station Wagon Project. The present officers were re-elected. The regular offering for the National Laymen's Organization in support of the Station Wagon Project. The present officers were re-elected. The regular offering for the National Laymen's Organization in support of the Chapel Fund amounted to $119.11.

With the promise of a "fish supper" the invitation of the Milford Church was accepted for the March meeting. President Hummell appointed a Project Committee, with Brother Swintz of South Bend as Chairman, to work along with the presidents of the Warsaw, Nappanee and Elkhart organizations.

Announcement was made of the Christmas truck leaving from the Nappanee Church on December 18th, for the Lost Creek, Kentucky, mission, and an invitation was given to all churches interested to send along food, clothing, bedding, toys, books, paint, tools, articles of furniture, etc.

Plans are being made for a joint meeting of the Northern and Southern Districts at Warsaw in June.

"ICH DIEN!"—"I SERVE"

Scripture: Luke 22:24-26; Matt. 20:25-28

For The Leader

"Onward, Christian soldiers, Marching on to war; With the Cross of Jesus Going on before." These words from that great hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," is a challenge that is wrapped up in our subject this evening. Christ's great army of soldiers needs each of us. We are indeed in a warfare, and it is against evil. The ultimatum is served. Either we make a definite warfare against the evil of our day, or we go down under it. Are you going to be a faithful "server" in Christ's army? We hope you will say, "Yes," for then you will be helping the cause of Christ just that much.

DISCUSSION

1. WHY "THE RIGHT" FAILS. Many Christians throughout the land are perplexed because of the outcome of November wet-dry battles, especially in a state like Kansas which was "dry" for sixty-eight years. Now the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages will be permitted. "Christian Life" points out that the wets gave "all out support to defeat the dries. Big money, subtle, but high-powered advertising," were used. Further we quote from "Christian Life," "At the same time, the anti-liquor forces were weakened by divisions, lack of money and lack of the united support of those who profess to back the temperance cause." And adding to this we would say that the amazing indifference on the part of the great bulk of Church people sadly contributed to the defeat of "the right." Instead of a head stuck in the ground attitude, we should follow our subject tonight, and serve. We should be out on the firing line. Sufficeth it to say that church people could control every office, and block every evil in the nation if they would stand up and say, "I serve."

2. MORAL RUIN A HINDRANCE. In the last war, a great many of our young men were turned down at the induction centers because of their ruined physical conditions. Ruined because of their immoral sins and abuses. Do you know that the same thing is true among those who should be the willing workers for Christ and His Church? Space does not permit a lengthy discussion of this matter. It is terrible, but true, that the gross, immoral sins of the world have made devastating inroads into our young people who come from our Christian homes. Stick your heads into the clouds, parents, if you don't want to believe this is true. Better still, come down to earth; snoop around a little, and "get hep" to what your young people already know to be a fact. A young person can no more serve in the ranks of Christ with a dissipated moral spirit and body, than a young man can serve in the army of his country with a broken body. This is a really serious situation among young people today.

3. WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT. There is a way out! God can use anyone, regardless of their past. Though broken in body and spirit, they can be reclaimed at the cross of Christ. But the conversion, or reconsecration must be genuine. There is no time for young people, who, filled up with remorse over their sin, walk to the altar in "reconsecration," knowing full well while doing so, that at the next temptation they willingly will sin. If God is to use us, we must be sincere!

4. THE KIND OF YOUNG PERSON GOD WANTS. A careful study of the scriptures reveals that God used young people in His work who were perfectly normal human beings, the like of which there are a lot of today. In other words, young people today have talents, energies, and time just like Bible young people did. David and his sling; Samuel and his restless night; the young servant of Naaman; the lad with the fishes and loaves, and many others could be mentioned. In each case you will note that they were talented, and were willing to be used of God. As a result, their names shine forever. The kind of a young person God wants today is one who is willing to be used of Him. First, we must yield ourselves to Him. Second, we must abstain from the fleshly lusts. There are many temptations which beset a Christian young person who sets out to do His will, and we must carefully guard against them.

5. POWER FOR VICTORY. The strongest soldiers and the best are sent to the hottest battles, and the most strategic points. Why? Because the best can do the best. They are well fed, clothed, and cared for. Why? Because they are needed for victory. They are valuable to the final outcome of the battle. We, in saying, "I Serve," certainly need great power. If we are to be successful in our Christian living, we must trust in Christ for strength. We must seek the abiding presence of the Holy Spirit for power and strength. We must seek the abiding presence of the Holy Spirit for work and ability. All of us are tempted to sin. In our weakest moments we are tempted to yield. The outcome depends on how closely we have been living with Christ. The life that is precious in His sight, is the life the tempter seeks to destroy through sin. So watch! The world needs more and more young people who are willing to be pure in mind, body and spirit, to fill in the depleted ranks of Christian laborers. It is far better to live for Christ in purity of life than to serve sin and selfishness with tragic consequences. So, let's face the issues squarely. There is no middle ground. When we say, "I serve," it means in the fullness of ability, going and doing what He wants us to do. Are you willing?

QUESTIONS FOR DISCUSSION

1. What about the "double life?" Can a person be careless in daily life, living a "shady" life, and still do an effective work in the Church?

2. What do you think we should do about those whom we know are not living decent lives and yet are holding offices in our churches, Sunday Schools and Organizations? Should they be permitted to continue in the work?

3. Is there such a thing as keeping your sins from your fellowmen?

4. What solution would you offer to solve the low morals problem of young people today?

OUR BELOVED

It is not for a King we are longing,
To make the world-kingdoms His own;
It is not for a judge who will summon
The nations of earth to His throne.
Not for these, though we know they are coming;
For they are but adjuncts to Him,
Before whom all glory is clouded,
Besides whom all splendor grows dim.

We wait for the LORD, our Beloved,
Our Comforter, Master and Friend,
The substance of all that we hope for,
Beginning of faith and its end;
We watch for our Saviour and Bridegroom,
Who loved us and made us His own;
For HIM we are looking and longing;
For Jesus and Jesus alone.

THE FAITH OF OUR LORD'S SECOND COMING

Scripture: 1 Thess. 4:13-18

Hymns of the Second Coming

Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

THE MOST GLORIOUS FACT of the past is that Jesus came to die for sinners and rose again (1 Cor. 15:3, 4). The grandest fact of the future is His second coming (1 Cor. 15:51-58). The certainty of our Lord's return is specified in 318 references of Scripture. The final word at His ascension was the certainty of His return (Acts 1:11). The Lord's institution of the Cup points to His return (1 Cor. 11:26). And so does the Lord's Supper (Luke 22:16; 29, 30; Rev. 19:6, 9). Jesus said He would return (John 14:3).

Conversion could not be the Second Coming. The New Testament writers, although converted, still looked forward to His coming again. The coming of the Holy Spirit was not the Second Coming of Christ for after Pentecost 150 references are given in Scripture informing us that Jesus is yet to come. The spread of the Gospel is not that return, and neither can humanitarian enterprises be the personal return of Christ. Death is not the Second Coming for after our Lord's return there will be no more death.

Our Lord's Coming will be personal. It is the "same Jesus" that went away who will return (Acts 1:11). He said, "I will come again." His Coming will be unexpected (Matt. 24:36, 42, 44; 25:13). The Rapture is preliminary to our Lord's coming to earth again. In the Rapture He will come FOR His saints. Then will occur the resurrection of the righteous and the living righteous will be translated. After having taken the saints to Heaven He will return to earth bringing His saints with Him (1 Thes. 3:13; Jude 14; Rev. 20:6). The exact time of His coming is not to be known of man (Acts 1:7; Mark 13:32). However there are signs that tell of the approaching end of the age (Matt. 24:6, 7). One sign is the persecution of the Jews and their return to Palestine (Matt. 24:9; Isa. 11:10-16). We see an increase of knowledge (Dan. 12:4). We are living in a time of false messiahs (Matt. 24:23, 24). There is a great falling away from original Christian faith by modernism (2 Tim. 3:1-5; 4:3, 4). Prophecy seems well fulfilled. Evidently the full number to be saved according to the election of God have not yet entered the church invisible.

When Christ comes in the Rapture the bodies of the saints will rise first. Living Christians will be translated (1 Thess. 4:16, 17). The resurrection of the unrighteous will occur a thousand years later (Rev. 20:5). The lost living ones will be left to face the Great Tribulation. Only martyrs for the faith will be saved out of this period (Rev. 20:4). The Revelation of Christ from Heaven will end the Tribulation (Zech. 14:1-6).

The Lord's Coming will bring the glad resurrection (1 Cor. 15:51, 52). The saints will escape the Great Tribulation. It behooves us to be ready (Matt. 25:6; 24:42). Let us be diligently occupied in Christian service (1 Cor. 1:7).

COMMENTS

On The Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for January 23, 1949

JESUS AND THE WILDERNESS PROPHET

Lesson: Matthew 3:4-17

PROBABLY ONE OF THE best known characters in the Bible is John the Baptist. And he should be well known, for a careful study of his life will give us much of the background and the feeling of the Jews of his day. We meet him very briefly in the time of his birth and his relation to Jesus. But he dawns suddenly upon us when he comes out as the "Wilderness Prophet" and preacher along the shores of the Jordan River.

In our text today we get a description of both the man and his activities. He was evidently an out-of-doors individual, rugged in appearance and in health. That he was able to attract men to him is evidenced by the statement found in verses 5 and 6 where it says, "Then went out to him Jerusalem and all Judea, and all the region round about Jordan, and were baptized of him in Jordan . . ." That he was a convincing and a convicting preacher is shown by the words, "confessing their sins."

Outdoor preaching was not anything new to the Jewish people. All, or most all, their prophets were men who came suddenly on the scene and held forth in a very forceful manner in the streets and on the corners of the highways. John was no exception, and he had a message that carried conviction to the hearts of his hearers. After all, it is not so much the appearance of the messenger, nor the actual words which he speaks, but rather the content of the message which he brings and how it fits into the lives of his hearers. John the Baptist had a message that struck terror into the hearts of his listeners. It is found in almost its entirety in the words of the Golden Text: "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand."

But while John the Baptist did not have complete understanding of the thing he was doing, yet he had been informed that he was to introduce One who was "to come after him," One who "was preferred before him," and One "the latchet of whose shoes he did not consider himself worthy to unloose," but One that he was to almost doubt at the very end of his life. And it was of this one that Jesus said, "There is no greater prophet than he."

The main thing to take into account in this lesson is that John the Baptist performed the task that he was set to do, namely, the presentation of Jesus as "The Lamb of God who taketh away the sin of the world."

We note that John was a very humble man. He was one who had the opportunity to present himself as the Messiah. But when asked if he was the one who was the Anointed of God, very plainly said he was not. In his words, "He must increase, but I must decrease," are found the essence of his strength and his loyalty to his task. How wonderful that he was able to baptize Jesus and to hear the voice of God say, "This is my beloved Son; hear ye him."

Our lesson should be that we should take our tasks with the same sincerity that John the Baptist did. Do the thing that God sets before us and do it with all our strength, even though it lead to imprisonment and death, as John found it doing.

News From Our Churches

CERRO GORDO, ILLINOIS

We are still carrying on since Brother Charles Johnson left as our pastor. We have been having a service every Sunday morning, which has been in charge of a class or organization of the church.

November 14th we had Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins and children from Springfield, Illinois, who are "Youth For Christ" workers. They really brought a wonderful message in music, the three boys are wonderful singers, all under eleven years of age. The mother is the pianist. Mr. Jenkins is not a minister, but he made a wonderful gospel talk. We had a large attendance at this meeting. We are looking forward to having them back.

November 28th the Woman's Missionary Society held their Public Service Program with Miss June Byler, who is soon to go to South America as a missionary, as guest speaker. She brought a wonderful message which everyone will remember for a long time. The meeting was well attended.

The Sisterhood girls are going to have charge of the service this coming Sunday. The Sunday School has purchased a piano for the Junior Sunday School room.

We trust the Lord will be with us and help us to carry on to His good until we can get a pastor.

Mrs. Loretta Metzger, Secretary.

FREMONT, OHIO, REVIVAL

We started a revival in this city on November 8th and continued over the 21st. The beginning was not encouraging as at this church the pastor and wife, had during the previous month, gathered in seventeen souls, and I was told by one of the leaders of the church, "Our pastor and wife have done good work here, and very few pastors would have stepped into a church like ours under such conditions as prevailed in our church a year ago. May I also say that I have great hopes for our work here now and I want to tell you we had a wonderful harvest recently and I feel much encouraged with this work as it is now going." I told him, "Brother this is the smallest congregation I have had during any revival I have ever held. But I can not blame you people, but the blame lays with the evangelists for the small congregations." He responded "Brother may I say you have more people hearing you than any other evangelists we have had during the last eight years, don't be discouraged, even if we have no converts. Our church is getting strengthened and uplifted and we feel ready to go on." However I was hungering to see the lost come to hear about a Savior, who could save them from their sins. We continued visiting and our wives sang some very beautiful songs in solos, duets from time to time. Several selections were rendered by the members of the church, which we enjoyed very much. One very rare treat we had at an evening service that is, George the pastor and Alex Burkett sang us a song "backward." Reader, did you ever hear it that way? If not then you take a trip to Fremont and ask them to sing a song "backwards" for you; I am sure that they will oblige you.

We enjoyed the kindness and hospitality bestowed upon us by the Fremont Brethren, and we are thankful to them for their many prayers and their interest in the service. We appreciated the opportunity while in Fremont staying with our daughter, son-in-law and family, Rev. G. S. Hagenbuch and wife who spared nothing for our comfort.

There were three that came to receive their Savior next to our last service, for which we praise the Lord.

S. E. Christiansen.

UDELL, IOWA

Our many friends will be glad for more news from this little mission church. We have a number of things to praise the Lord for. We are still laboring in this worthy field. The new furnace has been in use for six weeks and has given satisfaction. The walls have been "kemtoned" and the New Look is commendable. One family presented the church with a brand new Pulpit on Homecoming Day, and Dr. George T. Ronk, our guest speaker, was the first to stand behind it with a spiritual message.

Brother Ronk is an old friend and standby to this church. His two messages on Homecoming Day reached the hearts of many who heard, and brought tears to their eyes. He can "touch the spot."

The Offerings from the "Acre for The Lord" brought in over $270.00 for the day. Now all bills are paid except $179.00 on the furnace. That will be cared for soon, we hope.

The W. M. S. is faithful and makes its usual contribution to our auxiliary activity. A young man, Lawrence Powell, is our new Sunday School Superintendent, and is doing a fine job. He is clean in every way and talented; he does solo work; object teaching, and leads the singing. We sure miss his sister Doris, who is in College some sixty miles away. Some of our spring and summer gains in attendance have been lost, but we are still hoping to regain them.

Our Sunday evening attendance is good. One Sunday evening recently we had about 90 people present. People linger after the service to visit and talk about the good things. We are looking forward to our mid-winter revival. It is much needed. Beginning January 2 we will have Rev. Hugh Sawyers with us for two weeks or longer who will bring us the Old Gospel Story in Message and Song. Carl Long will be the song director. Keep us in mind when you pray.

W. R. Deeter, pastor.

CAMBRIA, INDIANA

The Cambria, Indiana, Homecoming was held on Sunday, November 28. During the morning worship the pastor brought the message. In the afternoon service three special numbers were given. Rev. C. Y. Gilmer, guest speaker from Huntington, spoke on the subject, "The Good Samaritan"; Mrs. Gilmer told of her travels with Miss Louisa Kugler through Pennsylvania and the eastern churches. A basket dinner was served at the noon hour.

There were ten children in Sunday School on Sunday morning, December 5, which was an increase over the average. Attendance has been good, usually over twenty, and up to thirty-one two weeks ago. The Lord is still supplying courage and hope. May He continue to bless us all.

Bright Hanna, Lay Pastor.

Laid to Rest

SINGER. Elder Ralph M. Singer, 55 years of age, an ordained minister of the Brethren Church, whose residence was at Mineral Point, R. D. 1, Pennsylvania, departed this life at 6:00 P. M., Friday, December 3, 1948, at his residence.

Brother Singer was born April 11, 1893 in Jackson Township, Cambria County, Pennsylvania, son of James M. and Matilda (Sell) Singer. On March 15, 1912 he was married to the former Anna Daugherty, who survives along with five children—Mrs. Twila Smith, James M., Lyle D., William L., and John B. all of whom live in the home locality. He is also survived by two half-brothers, George and Walter Singer; two sisters, Mrs. Lucy Mackall and Mrs. Cora Byers, and a half-sister, Mrs. Grace Byers; and seven grandchildren.

Mr. Singer was quite a public-spirited citizen in the affairs of community life. He was endowed with the gift of sociability, and was ready in conversation, writing and public speaking. He had been handicapped for a number of years with a bad heart condition. As a licensed minister he was pastor of the Brethren Church at Mt. Pleasant, Pennsylvania for a period of three years. On September 15, 1946, he was ordained to the full gospel ministry. At the time of his decease he had charge of the Raystown Brethren Church in Bedford County, Pennsylvania.

Funeral services were conducted from the Vinco Brethren Church, Tuesday afternoon, December 7, with Rev. C. Y. Gilmer, a former pastor, in charge, assisted by Rev. J. L. Bowman, twice a former pastor, and a life-long friend, and Rev. C. F. Zimmerman, pastor of the Third Brethren Church, Johnstown. Interment was made in the Pleasant Hill Cemetery on Benshoff Hill, near the city of Johnstown, Pa.

C. Y. Gilmer.

MILLER. Ira Miller, a life-long resident of the New Paris, Indiana, community, passed away very suddenly on December 18, 1948, at his home in New Paris. He had been in failing health for some time, but his death was unexpected. He was a member of the First Brethren Church of New Paris and had been active in the church for many years. He would have been ninety years old his next birthday in the spring. He leaves his companion, Rebecca, and two sons, Orb and Everett Miller of New Paris.

The service was conducted by the pastor, assisted by Rev. W. I. Duker a former pastor, on Sunday, December 19, in the church in New Paris.

Revival Reflections

By John Funk Locke

This evening of Thanksgiving Day, 1948 seems a good time to put some reflections on paper, having just preached a Thanksgiving sermon on the subject "We can be thankful." Certainly we at Mt. Olive Church can be thankful for the wonderful way in which the Lord blessed in our Fall meeting this year. Brother Vernon Grisso was with us two weeks in October and won many friends among our people. The meetings were well attended, the audiences being consistent in size and enthusiasm. The special musical offerings were many and very appreciatively received. Of course the real interest in such a meeting is what it accomplishes for the lasting benefit of the church. Twelve were baptized and received into the church at the close of the meeting and Brother Grisso went home a happy man, I know. Last Sunday the attendance was excellent at the morning service and at the Communion service at night. The fine spirit of the meeting continues with us. It is to be hoped that others may be baptised in the coming months who were contacted then. A revival should never be over when the last service with the evangelist has been completed. We know that the prayers and interest of our people will keep going.

We wish to publicly thank the Smithville Church for the loan of our genial brother for these special labors with us. He was greatly appreciated. We feel that he rather liked our church and community too. For which we are duly thankful.

Oak Hill, West Virginia

The day following the Mt. Olive Meeting it was my good fortune to be able to commence a meeting with Brother Rose at Oak Hill, West Virginia. It was raining when our meeting closed the night of October 17. Then during the night the rain turned to snow. Imagine, if you can, the weird and rare beauty of golden autumnal glory in the forests topped by a fluffy snow. All day as I drove toward Oak Hill it seemed to get colder so the snow became more plentiful in the forests in the afternoon. For the first time in 37 years, I was told, it snowed there before it frosted.

Arriving safely at Oak Hill I set up my picture machine in the church and moved in my baggage to my abode with one of Oak Hill's most distinguished citizens, Dr. H. A. Duncan, Sr. Then I went to Brother Rose's for the evening meal. At the table as we happily visited the phone rang and Mrs. Rose received the tragic word to deliver to her husband that his father had just died of a heart attack. Heroically our brother held back the surging sorrow that seizes us at such a time. He laid plans quickly for the work of the church and his classes at a nearby high school while he should be absent. Then we went to the evening service. Lest the service should suffer, he made no mention of the sad news that had come to him until time for the benediction. Needless to say my sympathy for him was great as was my admiration for his Christian fortitude and devotion to the Lord's work. Smith Rose loves the Lord and he loves His church and the consecration which he brings to his pastoral labors is of the highest order. The Lord has surely been good to the Oak Hill brethren in sending them this man of God as their leader. He is a faithful Bible teacher whose manner of life adorns the doctrine of God our Savior. The gospel trumpet will give forth no uncertain sounds where he ministers. He seemed to me to be the right man in the right place, after I had spent two weeks among his people and observing his work. Brother Rose is favorably known among us all for his fine contributions to our Sunday School Quarterlies, having done the verse by verse commentary in the Adult Quarterlies for some years.

Dr. H. A. Duncan, Sr. proved to me a most delightful host and helpful companion. Together we did most of the fine meals justice. On several days his brother James took his place. Needless to say the meals were excellent and the fellowship fine. Dr. Duncan delighted me with stories of his experiences of the many years of his practice and of his recent trip to Brazil and other Latin American points.

Brother Rose was most gracious as entertaining pastor. In his car he conducted me over some of the most scenic regions imaginable in their autumnal glory. With him I was privileged to assist in the anointing of two of the faithful saints who were ill. Besides our visiting we also made two trips to the Gatewood Church where he gave me the privilege of filling his regular afternoon preaching appointments.

Both of the Sunday morning services were broadcast over the local radio station. These worship services were carefully prepared for by the pastor and the choir. I was privileged to hear a transcription of one of these services at the radio station with a number of the choir attending. This is a revealing experience! The choir sounded fine.

The attendance was gratifying. Many persons came every night. There was a fine fellowship and spirit about the meeting, the people seemed eager and attentive. Each night at 7 until 7:20 a group met in the prayer room upstairs for silent prayer. The only audible prayer was the closing one. This was deeply impressive and decidedly helpful to those taking part and for the meeting in general. A number were baptised and received into the church at the services the Sunday following the close of the meeting.

The offerings were very generous. The church has the custom of guaranteeing a minimum sum for the meeting. This they far exceeded. Naturally I appreciate this tremendously even though I had no right to expect it.

Those who attended the recent Southeastern District Conference at Oak Hill know that the church is clean and beautiful in its new paint throughout. Never in its entire history, so far as I am able to learn, was the church in a more favorable position to make progress. Let us who read these lines pause and pray for the pastor and people that a rich spiritual and numerical growth may be theirs in spite of all the seductive enticements of Satan.

Again I say a sincere "Thank you" to all who helped make my visit there so pleasant.

Smithville, Ohio

At Smithville, Ohio we had a two weeks meeting almost compressed into one wonderful and memorable week. Beginning with Sunday morning, November 7, and continuing through November 14th, the services proceeded without interruption each evening. Brother Grisso had planned with his congregation that this week should be kept free as far as possible of other engagements. It was a most encouraging thing to see busy people there at every service for the entire meeting. A goodly number were there every time. Here again I found a most appreciative and receptive people. There was a fine atmosphere of worship in all the services. The Smithville Church is a beautiful place of worship, as most of our people should know from the report of its rather recent improvements carried in the pages of the Evangelist.

Besides the good music which was provided from the local congregation we had one evening, the first Monday, a most notable addition to the regular services in the person of the nationally known bell ringer, Wilbur Fish. This musical Fish even drew melody from glasses and from a set of cranks. Harmony from cranks is rare.

Mrs. Locke accompanied me to Smithville and we were most comfortably cared for at the parsonage. Our visit here was a happy continuation of that which had begun earlier when Brother Grisso was with us at Mt. Olive. I remarked to the church as I began, that I would be satisfied if my visit among them could be as profitable for them as his was for us. From the viewpoint of additions to the church I regret to say it was not. From every other angle the meeting was most pleasant. The Smithville church is a most notable church. The people seemed like a happy family. The response to the live leadership of Brother Grisso seemed to be quite healthful. It was a pleasure to sit in the Sunday School class of Brother J. Garber Drushal, President of the Missionary Board of the Brethren denomination. This was the first time I ever knowingly preached to a professor of Speech. I tried to forget his professorial and academic attainments and regard him as just a brother. The Drushals never missed a service so he must have done something of the same sort.

Stanford Amstutz did us the great favor of giving his colored pictures of his recent trip to Europe one night after the services. This private showing and lecture was very educational and enjoyable.

On Tuesday and Thursday mornings of the week I spoke before the Seminary Chapel in the College Chapel room at Ashland. Here it was good to see the fine student body and to renew friendships with brethren of the faculty. The subjects given were: "Personal Questions" and "Are Christians Christian?" On both occasions I was the guest of Dean Stuckey to dinner following.

On Friday morning Brother Grisso introduced me at the Smithville High School, one of the nicest High schools I have ever been in. Here I spoke to the student body and faculty on, "Youth is the Time."

Of meals I can only say they were superb. And like the meals, so was the offering. This generous people rewarded my humble efforts as though I had labored much longer among them. For the hospitality and generosity of all we are deeply grateful.

On Saturday it was our happy privilege to meet with Brethren Drushal and Rev. W. C. Berkshire of New Lebanon as a sub-committee of the Fraternal Relations Committee of General Conference. Brother J. Garber Drushal is now the secretary of the committee and many of you will be receiving communications from him relative to the work of this Conference committee. It was a pleasure to confer with these fellow committeemen. Afterwards we were dinner guests of the Drushals and following that we were their guests at a colorful football spectacle when Wooster defeated Wittenberg.

It was good to be back in our own churches again too. We can be thankful they did not fail to help us by prayer and their faithfulness to the services while others served in our stead. Brother Fels Lam preached at Mt. Olive and Dr. Jacob Huffman, M.D. spoke on "Alcohol in the Human Body" one Sunday morning; Rev. William Rhodeffer of the Church of the Brethren and Miss Mable Gibson of the Week Day Religious Education program filled other appointments at Bethlehem.

Thanks be unto God for His goodness in all the above activities.

Dr. Charles A. Bame

One by One

One by one we are born into this world. One by one we grow up to be the kind of person we become. One by one ("whosoever will") we unite our lives with the Master. One by one, we pass to the beyond. Mobs are always wild, passionate, pliable and mostly wicked. Acts 19:21-41. One by one we give an account to God. Romans 14:12. One by one, each shall receive his own reward according to his own labor." 1 Cor. 4:8. Quite individualistic is this measuring of ourselves by Christian standards. Socialism as a "gimmie" proposition has always been a failure and, as I believe in the revelations above recounted, always will be so.

Social Measurements

Social measurements always portend and include trouble. By them, some must be superior and, most of us, puppets of the overlords. Limiting others to some men's assumed superior intelligences and standards is nothing so unlike our "all-men-are-created-equal," our Declaration of Independence and our Constitution, as irreligion; and all should rejoice that we know well that the source of these pyramiding standards is nothing save the Spirit of Christ and His eternal Word, and but for the sake of which there would never have been an America, a Constitution or a Declaration of Independence. It is to be hoped that soon, we shall again return to the ideals of the precious Word of God, the example of our Lord Christ, and the great document of the Founders, without which the world would now, so far as one can prognosticate, be utterly and hopelessly lost. It is high time for Christians to study their politics in the light of the revelations of our Lord Christ, and practice them in the voting booth.

Well, now I have been traveling some, but not in my new auto. No, not a new Cadillac or Packard, but the old one renewed since the wreck. It is good enough and does not make me "stick out my nose and hold up my head" as if I were the owner of any of these bull-nosed things that whiz by one, swifter than the wind, to end up in the hospital or jail.

Pride

Pride still and always will go "before destruction and a haughty spirit before a fall." Prov. 16:18. Even socialism would be better by millions of years than that "sorry" end. Americans have so much money for which they have not given account to God that deadly breakers are not too far ahead to be seen by the humble.

Once, Brethren cried out loudly against pride. For two centuries it was a part of their message loudly, unashamedly acclaimed; but now it is almost entirely shunned and our children are so fed up with ungodly dancing, shows, mimicry and imitation of things condemned and preached ever since the believing people tried to be true to the Word of God that one with a few years of experience and observation may well wonder where to find a sign of unworldliness and humility. Where, I ask, shall we find it?

A Great Day Coming

Is there a day of accounting? Yes, unless we cast off all the admonitions and teachings of the precious Word. "All shall come forth from their graves; they that have done good unto a resurrection of Life and they that have done evil, to the resurrection of judgment." John 5:29. "Thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just." Luke 14:14. "If!" But note the conditions.

There are more beauty parlors in most cities than prayer meetings. Women spend more to be in style than for missions; for cocktails than food for the millions of hungry. Professed Christians ride around in expensive autos and pay into the treasuries of clubs, lodges and for pleasure trips more than into the treasuries "where moth and rust doth not corrupt nor thieves break through and steal." But they have been warned and admonished. "Verily, I say unto you, they have their reward." Now, not in the "great day coming." Now! Mark 6:5.

"To serve the present age

My calling to fulfill;

O! may it all my powers engage

To do my Master's will.

A Tribute to an Estemed Brother

Dr. George Stanley Baer was an highly esteemed brother and co-laborer in the great work of Christ and His church. No one could question his loyalty to his church, his sincere conviction as to the truth of her doctrines and ordinances, his readiness to serve with the full measure of his talents and the utmost limits of his strength. For many years as editor of the Brethren Evangelist and much responsibility in the Bible School literature, which then included the "Angelus," one of the best Sunday School papers ever published, he carried on with becoming dignity, with admirable literary style and staunch adherence to our historic teachings which have made us Brethren. The departure of some of the leaders of our church from these teachings grieved his honest soul in his contention for the truth. The unhappy division of the church not only displaced him from his position of trust and influence, but brought untold agony to his soul. His heart was given to peace and love and not to contention and strife. He was therefore sensitive to these unseemly things and given to kindness and forgiveness.

However he bore it with becoming grace and yet there is no doubt that it took toll of his strength. He manifested the finest attitude in Christian spirit in all his dealings, willing to go the second mile if need be, but not willing to compromise on matters of principle. He was free from any dishonorable practices in his life and his work. One of those wholesome, congenial Christian gentlemen who diligently labored to the very best of his knowledge and entitled to the confidence of his fellowmen. Certainly our Lord can say to Dr. George Stanley Baer, "Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make you ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." May our dear Lord give grace and strength to the bereaved family.

Travels

Nine churches were contacted on my first trip in December. Dutchtown, near Warsaw, had been on my slate for over two months, waiting for a date when I could be with them.

Here is a lively, country church and one that is prospering. Under the leadership of the Rev. Wm. Overholtzer, they have recently rebuilt their church. The building really has been transformed, with a new entrance, a balcony, class rooms, lights, and decorations. The congregation has greatly changed in the past few years, since my last special meeting with them. New folks received and a number who have been translated to the church triumphant, changes a church body. This congregation and pastor deserve commendation and praise. A fine audience greeted the speaker in spite of heavy rain and wind.

The evening of the same day was spent with the Warsaw people. Brother Chas. Webb was present, also, with pictures concerning the relief work which has engaged his time for the past two or more years. Warsaw is progressing.

The next few days were spent in South Bend, Elkhart, Goshen, and New Paris, calling at schools and homes to contact prospective students. It was also a privilege and a joy to share in the Northern Indiana Laymen's meeting and banquet in the Goshen Church. Over 200 men came for this meeting, with determination to reach their goal for the evening. This group had decided to raise $1000 or one-half the amount needed for the new station wagon, which is enroute to Argentina. When the attendance record was given they reported $1021.00. Well, there was great rejoicing. This was a fine example of service by Christian laymen. God can wonderfully use such an organization of men.

Enroute home calls were made at both Bryan and Fremont. Fine reports are coming from these places, also. Such a trip gives one increasing courage and determination.

Two days in the office, then off this time to Washington, D. C. to assist in the special dedication services for the new Brethren Church in the capital city. Like people in Nehemiah's day, these folks also had a mind to work or they could not have been ready for the day.

Dec. 19th was the first service in the new church. Your Secretary was honored to be chosen the speaker for this first service. Then President Drushal delivered the afternoon message, while Dean Stuckey was the evening messenger. Miss Ruth Clapper of New York, accompanied by her mother, presented beautiful numbers at each service. The Rev. Clarence Fairbanks, Thoburn Lyon, the moderator, the Building Committee and, in fact, the entire church should be praised by the Brethren at large for beginning such an attractive and inviting building in the District of Columbia.

Enthusiasm, inspiration, and genuine happiness was running high on this dedication day that these people could once more worship in their own church.

I am sure a detailed report will be sent by the pastor.

On to Hagerstown and Waynesboro. At Hagerstown the Aults have been well received. The church building was carefully decorated during the summer. The work at this place is one of exceptional promise. Due to the kindness of Brother Ault, I was taken to Waynesboro, where we made several contacts with people who are yet faithful to the church and her institutions. On account of the very disagreeable weather, we were not able to see everybody who resides in that city and com-

Navigation Toward Tomorrow

by

J. Garber Drushal,

President

One of the modern wonders of transportation is the science of aerial navigation by which pilots and crew chart the course of the huge airliners that now roam about the ever-smaller globe. Or at least it appears the second-cousin-to-the-impossible to the non-mathematical unwinged landlubber. It involves apparently striking and astounding mathematical precision, calculations of the future where miscalculations would be hazardous.

Some of you have doubtless sat up on the flight deck of one of these flying boxcars to observe the mysteries of flight operation. You were amazed. No land in sight, nothing but open sea. Then the navigator looked at the sun, took a bearing, maybe used his radio, slipped the slide rule back and forth, then casually said: "At 2:41 p. m. our plane will be right over Rock Cay Island." Just to prove him wrong you checked your watch very carefully. But miracle of miracles at 2:39 there appeared on the horizon a tiny speck. At 2:40 you saw that it was an island. At 2:41 you were over it—or so near that you sheepishly admitted the navigator right again.

These calculations are designed to get the plane to its destination on schedule. The ability to predict mathematically accurate courses into time and space has become habitual. In many ways navigation has come a long way since Bowditch.

You know there are some people who would have all of life like that. They would want to predict with almost complete certainty every turn and event of life. They would hope that at the beginning of the year the pastor of the church or the moderator of the denomination could sit down and pencil out the new year. They want the slide rule to show the events of the coming era: the progress, the landfall, the new horizons.

Mayhap it is fortunate man cannot take these calculations. Tomorrow is not navigated in this manner. You do not say, "On March 3 at noon, I'll be there and do thus and so." Rather, the changing waves of life's vicissitudes, the winds of the day drive his craft of life first to one place and then another, with the permissive and persuasive will of God.

Frankly, sometimes your Missionary Board officers wish for a little of this calculated certainty. They would like to say that there will be $40,000 here for foreign missions, $40,000 here for home missions, $15000 here for this project. But this is not the case. What faith will bring forth is not that predictable. But this is not cause for despair.

Moses moved forward by cloud and fire. Paul moved westward by the call of the Spirit. Where there was a willingness to move out the Great Navigator provided the means and the end.

Thus the Missionary Board greets the new year with this hope and faith in God. Guided by His Spirit, the onward march of the Christian church in general, and the Brethren denomination in particular will find new vineyards of service.

Whence shall this march lead?

It may lead to new mission fields. It may lead to new missionaries. It may lead to new churches. It may lead to new ventures in Brethren expansion.

How far will the Great Navigator plot the course?

As far as the individual spirits of the believers in the Brethren Brotherhood consecrate their whole souls to the work of the church, that far will the new year take this church. Your part? Your opportunity is unlimited.

Navigators must take account of rocks and shoals, storms and air pockets. But these are not reasons for not starting the journey. The Pilot of the church bids her move on.

"Chart and compass come from Thee;
Jesus, Saviour, pilot me."

May this be the guiding prayer for 1949!

Letter From Miss Kugler In South America

Villa Constitucion (S. Fe), 26. Dec. 1948.
Rev. E. M. Riddle

Dear Mr. Riddle,

Last Tuesday, 21st of Dec., I arrived well in Buenos Aires. Mr. Zeche and some friends came to the port to meet me. I came with everything well through the custom-house, but I had to pay 19.15 pesos tax for my Kodak, which I used taking pictures during all the time I was visiting in the States. But as I bought it there, I had to pay tax for it. All the equipment about which Neptune Co. took care is yet in bond (deposit) from the Moore McCormack Line. I didn't receive any paper or list from the Neptune Co. Tomorrow I will go to Buenos Aires and see what I can do.

On Wednesday night I arrived in Villa Constitucion. Many from our congregation were waiting for me. I found everything in the best condition. Certainly each one from our members was faithful co-operating in the Mission work during my absence. On Friday evening, we had a Christmas program prepared by Miss Noemi Herrera, Benjamin's sister. It was very good, everybody enjoyed hearing the children and young folk in their poems and songs. I was happy and surprised at the same time. I wouldn't have expected that Noemi would be able to prepare such a good program.

For today, Sunday, my young people had prepared a special program to celebrate my return. At noontime, we had dinner all together and we were about 35 around the table.

I am happy to be back again in my activities, but continually I remember as a great experience in my life, my visit to the States. It means a real blessing for me that I could visit so many of our churches there and know all of you. Thank you for all your sympathy, help, love, and prayers.

At this time it is very hot here, more than during conference time in the States.

Greetings to all my dear Brethren in the States.

Sincerely, In His Service,

H. Louisa Kugler.

CHURCH TEST IN AFRICA SPEAKER SAYS CHRISTIANITY MUST ACT AT ONCE

Christianity must win Africa in the near future or it never will, Chief Albert Luthuli of the Zulu tribe said in a speech to the World Mission assembly recently.

The simple African culture, he said, is crumbling under the thrust of Western civilization's commerce and industry, "with tragic results" for a people "quite unprepared for such a dramatic and swift change in their way of life."

IN A TRAGIC PERIOD

"The people of Africa," Luthuli said, "are passing through a tragic period of spiritual, moral and mental confusion; there is a disturbing spiritual, moral and physical deterioration."

It is imperative, the chief warned the 3,000 delegates attending the largest Protestant conference in twenty-three years, that the Christian church attain the same missionary standard in Africa as exists in other overseas areas.

"We especially need help in the field of education and social rehabilitation, with special emphasis on securing and training African leadership, both clergy and lay," the missionary-educated chieftain said.

"The task of winning Africa," he continued, "is unfinished and urgent. The task is for now, or it will be too late."

SAYS EXPANSION IS NEEDED

Luthuli made his appeal a few hours after Dr. Ralph E. Diffendorfer, who conceived the idea of the World Mission assembly, outlined the needs of an expanded Protestant missionary program.

Diffendorfer asserted that "we never will get Christ before the world today if we do not have bigger plans and exercise more tremendous power than we have exerted in the past."

"We have done nothing of that kind yet," he declared. We have just gone on smugly as we were, doing our jobs in the old way . . .

"Christians must either serve the needs of all God's men better than the Communists or be prepared to yield ground to them. 'The Soviet idea is the one that speaks directly to the problems of Asia, speaks to the hungry and landless, the debt-ridden and the oppressed.'"

Bible Studies On

Christian Character

Having attended the summer camp of the Brethren missions, which was held in Cordoba during January and part of February, I copied the outlines of the Bible Studies on Christian character given by C. F. Yoder and when the reports of the camp were made in Rosario, those who were not there desired to know more about these studies. So I arranged for meetings on Saturdays in which I reproduced them as best I could.

I must say that the meetings were well attended and the studies received with enthusiasm. At the close of the series there were beautiful testimonies given as to the blessings received, which caused much emotion to all. Thank the Lord for these studies on Christian character. Pray for the youth of Rosario that there may be a rich harvest of workers. We are now preparing for the Christian Endeavor convention which comes Nov. 1-3.

This Is The Hour For Continuing Home Mission Advance

R. F. Porte, South Bend, Indiana

"The criminal is the product of a spiritual starvation. Some one failed miserably to bring him to know God, love Him, and serve Him. As a result, the criminal's mental attitudes and actions are guided by a selfish individualism. He has no respect for the law—he hates it. Moral traditions are subject to his scorn as he declares war on society." This is the estimate of the moral and spiritual lapse in our world by J. Edgar Hoover. The Christian teachings of the centuries have not gone unheeded by every one but have been sadly neglected by too many people. After a great war there is always a moral decline, but let it be observed that every great war brings the world to a much lower state of morality and spiritual understanding. Crime increases at the rate of 7.4 per cent every year. In 1946 there were 36 murders, 33 cases of rape, 185 felonious assaults, 172 robberies, 981 burglaries, 630 stolen automobiles, 2580 miscellaneous larcenies of various types committed in each day of 1946. Mr. Hoover mentions a case where some boys of 14 years of age fought the police with tommy guns and did not surrender until the police killed one of their number. How did the boys get the guns? They robbed a National Guard Armory. Their leader was 18 years old.

"Criminals are not born, says Mr. Hoover. They are the product of neglect, the victims of indifference, the result of an age which has thrown morality in the junk yard!" It does little good to place the blame on parents, the school, or the church. The problem affects every last person in the whole wide world. The solution of moral and spiritual decline is a problem in which every person must be interested. Suppose we say, "Somebody must be responsible for this problem," and the voice is unanimous, "Yes." Whom do we blame? The church, the school, the home in varying degrees. This does not solve the problem at all. How shall we begin to solve our problem? First, by strengthening these institutions by universal participation. The next step is to deepen and crystallize individual moral sentiment against destroying factors in our world. The moral and spiritual effect of the church, school, and home rests upon a fertile soil in some human hearts. The products of land and factory are definitely determined by very definite conditions which we know well, so also the spiritual and moral institutions of our nation and the world. God's acre will not produce unless man cultivates that acre just as he cultivates the acres he hopes to harvest for himself. God's moral and spiritual acres will not produce unless God's servants are diligent in their cultivation of the harvest we each hope to have. The church is the one institution which develops spiritual convictions. Other good institutions tell about moral and spiritual values but the church calls people to accept them and define them. There are too few people with settled convictions on settled and defined Divine truth.

This is no time to relinquish the work of missions because our task is not completed. You do not need to go out of your home community to find people who know almost nothing about the fundamentals of the Christian faith. It could almost be said that there are people who do not know who Jesus Christ is. A general observation will prove to any one that there is no deep impression in many people as to the essential meaning of Christ the Savior and His hope and promise to people everywhere. The believers in Christ have a solemn duty assigned to them to witness for Him to every person in the whole world. The test of a true friend and believer in Christ Jesus is the witness he gives. If we properly witness for Him and cause others to take knowledge that we have been with Jesus we have then faithfully carried on our witness. A statement before me says that Protestant Christians give one dollar per person per year to spread the Gospel in all the world. That is not too aggressive, is it? History shows the beneficial results of preaching the Gospel to hearts of good will. In the light of these facts and the light of the present moral decline, Christian people are being challenged to increase the effort to preach and teach the Gospel of Christ. Let us remember our commission, "In all the world to every creature" and in the light of facts there are people who need to know the Savior.

This writer is deeply moved by the fact of paganism in the world. A few years back one might consider an atheist as a sort of freak, but today it is a movement openly declaring its determination to destroy the Christian faith. The moral condition of our people will be tested by the response of professed Christians against this atheistic movement. The worst anti-Christ efforts today are masked under the most subtle cognomens. Very few people have any idea what the so-called "New Deal" really means. Certainly some of the facts in the news should arouse some suspicion. This writer may not be too far afield when he declares that the so-called "New Deal" is nothing more than man's attempt to work out his own economic and moral destiny. The depression of the thirties weakened the moral stamina of many good people. These good people sold out to the liquor traffic for one thing and the next step might be, will these people sell out to a human colossus? Will people trust God and believe His Holy Word? The signs make one tremble in fear lest many good people sell out to a human savior rather than believe in and suffer for the Savior God sent down to earth to bring us life everlasting. God save our people from selling their birth-right for a mess of pottage! How shall people of good will escape being deceived? Listen to preachers that hold up Christ and believe in the Spirit inspired Word of God. Danger is here now in the form of bold unbelief, apostasy from the Christian faith and way of life, and in the plain indifference of millions to all warning from consecrated preachers and periodicals which declare the fundamental truth of God. The solemn warning against the encroachments of sin today is being sounded by the offices of the church of the first born in Christ to all who will hear.

Perhaps the greatest reason for continuing the Missionary advance is because the light is more greatly needed when conditions are the darkest. The terrors of the French Revolution were kept out of England by what was called the "Holy Club" of Oxford. These men prayed; they fasted; they sang; they expounded the Scriptures; they became evangelists. Spiritual fires soon ignited. The arm of God was moved. Preaching became creative. The Gospel message took effect. Men began calling upon God.

History will reveal to us that what is happening in the world today began in Germany in May 1, 1776. Green's history of England reveals that the Wesleyan revival saved England from the fate of France and England has had a tremendous affect upon the moral and religious trends in America because the Wesleys and others preached the Gospel of salvation in the new world. Adam Weishaupt tried to launch radical socialism before Marx. It took the power of God manifested in Christian believers who counted not their lives dear unto themselves, but by earnest prayer and fearless preaching and Godly living stopped the hordes of atheism in a time just as fertile as it is now; so Christian people today may take courage and undertake the one and only way to stem the tide of atheism by reinaugurating intercessory prayer groups and fearless preaching of the Gospel of Christ the power of God unto salvation and live separate lives from the world and worldly things. Church members who ally themselves with organizations which despise the Name of Christ as the only Savior from sin and who use the Bible only as a token of religious morality instead of the infallible eternal Word of God are 75% defeated before they ever start to deal with the moral problem of this hour.

The fearless prophet of God in the Methodist Church Dr. Bob Shuler points out the terrorism of Palestine culminating in the assassination of Count Folke Bernadotte, the best friend the Jews ever had. What is wrong here in Palestine? Israel rejected the Savior of all sinners, the best Friend sinners ever had, the Lord Jesus Christ. I may say no truer word than this in summary of this short writing when I say that the whole world has not known to bow the knees at the cross of Christ at Calvary and ask for pardon. The enthroned Christ is the hope of the world. Israel proves the results of rejecting Christ; our empty, prayerless churches, and unbelieving social reformers in many pulpits is proving to be the weakening of Spiritual power among us to stem the modern tide of atheism, infidelity, and moral decay. As did Gideon of old, may the faithful of God lift the light and take the sword of the Word of God by which they shall be able to defeat the assaults of sin in these last days of this dispensation.

BIBLE READINGS

THE FIVE ALLS

Between Stratford-on-Avon and Bidford, in the county of Warwickshire, there is a country inn with the sign of "The Five Alls," and on the sign are painted the sun, a soldier, a ploughman, a lawyer, and the King. The meaning of which is: the sun shines upon all, the soldier fights for all, the ploughman ploughs for all, the lawyer pleads for all, and the King rules over all.

Among the many "alls" in the Scriptures are five which embody the message of the Gospel.

1. SIN

"All have sinned and come short of the glory of God" (Rom. 3:23). To sin means not wrong-doing merely, but to miss the mark of God's requirement as expressed in the ten commandments, and to come short of God's holiness, righteousness, truth, love, and the Lord Jesus Christ is God's Perfect Ideal of what man ought to be.

2. SACRIFICE

Of Christ in His death, it is written, "He gave himself a Ransom for all" (1 Tim. 2:6). Literally that means "a procuring price." He laid down His life for all. The sacrifice He made was—"Himself." No one but Himself could pay the price, nothing less than giving His life could meet the need and the requirement. Nothing else is needed, for He has given what was demanded. Those who receive Him know the losing power of that ransom.

3. SUPPLY

"Freely give us all things" (Rom. 8:28). The greater includes the lesser. Since God has not spared His Son, He will not spare us anything. "All blessings" are ours (Eph. 1:11) "all promises" (2 Cor. 1:20), and "all things" (1 Cor. 3:21-23). With such a store we cannot starve, and with such a supply we shall have plenty to pass on to others.

4. SANCTIFICATION

"To redeem us from all iniquity" was one of the purposes for which Christ died (Titus 2:14). "Iniquity" means lawlessness, and lawlessness is man's self-will in opposition to God's will. Self-will is the essence of sin—any want of conformity to the will of God.

5. SERVICE

"Whatsoever ye do, in word or deed, do all in the Name, of the Lord Jesus" (Col. 3:17,23). If all we say and do, in all the relationships of life, are done in the Lord's name, all will be well done; for to act in His name means to act as He would act, with his authority and sanction.

Youth

And Our Missionary Program

by Virgil E. Meyer

Who will answer these questions? Our young people are quite naturally concerned about the future—their future. When they are approached about the question of giving their lives to the full time work of the Lord in our church, they want to know and have every right to know something about the future plans of the church. Isn't it time to begin to look ahead and make some plans for a larger Brethren Church and a larger Brethren Mission work? Let us look at some of the problems through the eyes of our young people.

I. OUR YOUTH AND CHURCH EXTENSION

For years we have been saying that we must build some new churches, new congregations, or die as a denomination. We have said that we cannot stand still; yet we have built only two new congregations in the last nine or ten years. The bottleneck seems always to have been a lack of sufficient ministers to pastor our existing churches and to start new ones at the same time. In the last five years very few men have come out of our seminary to take over churches. We have every reason to believe that situation will very soon be changed! In seminary and pre-seminary work we now have 34 young people who are training for full time Christian work. It now seems that there might be 20 more who will enter college next year for the same purpose. In the next seven years we have every reason to believe that we will get at least 25 ministers out of this group.

The question that the church must answer is: Are we going to expand our denomination enough to give ample opportunity to work? Will we now start to build new congregations? Out of this group of 54 there will most certainly be a number who will want to go into mission work. More than this, with our present youth emphasis work, we have every reason to believe that we will continue to have a large number of young people volunteering for the ministry and the mission field. I am not worried that we will have an over supply of ministers or missionaries. I am deeply concerned lest our youth get their training and be ready to serve only to find that a visionless church has made no provision.

Our young people are asking where the funds are coming from to start new churches. How will we finance an expanded ministry? They want to know what our plans are. They are asking whether they will be able to make a living in the Brethren Ministry. They want to know whether we are deadly serious about forging ahead for Christ, as a denomination. In the moderator's address of last conference Brother Whetstone expressed it thus: "Finally, in our look to the future, we must intensify our vision. Without a vision the people perish. We must know where we are going before we can hope to get there. Churches grow and move forward on the beam of vision. After all, we have the Church as we have it today, because that is all we have wanted it to be. It matches our vision, and it cannot go beyond that vision." In this mission program of building a larger, more efficient church here at home, our young people would say "what are your plans?"

II. OUR YOUTH AND OUR MISSION PROGRAM

Four of our young people have gone into foreign mission fields in the last year. Ten young people presented themselves as potential mission workers at our last conference.

This should prove to many of us that our church is on the move. Our young people are willing to give themselves to the Lord's work for the winning of lost souls. But there are questions.

Where will we get our training? Our own church provides no mission training program! It is pretty easy to throw stones at our seminary on this score. But wait, let us look again. The seminary has a very limited faculty. With teaching Bible in the college as well as carrying a full seminary course there just isn't time to put in another course. They are going to need more help. But alas, when we look over the giving of the church in the educational day offering last year we find that we gave only $16,772.67. That is less than one dollar per member! If we are going to have young people giving their lives for the Lord's work the very least the church can do is train them.

A Church which is not at heart a missionary Church, which is concerned chiefly with its own selfish interests and has little desire to extend its messages to others, is not the Church of the Gospel or the Master. Christians should be the first to recognize that yet today we have the spectacle of secular states on fire with missionary enthusiasm and rejoicing in every expansion, no matter what the cost, setting an example to a self-centered and lukewarm Church. Moreover, such states are also paying great attention to the training of the young, thus insuring a rising generation to carry forward the cause. In the Church we hear on every hand the complaint that there are few to take the places of the devoted Churchmen of the older generation who are now too rapidly passing from the scene; and, if that be true, the Church is facing a dubious future.

—Bishop Oldham.

CHINA

Then the young folks want to know where they will be sent after they get their training. Will we make it possible for them to serve in Kentucky by providing adequate living accommodations? Will we guarantee them a salary that will give them at least the necessities of daily living?

Will we send our young volunteers to our South American Mission Field? They want to know, "Do they really need us? If we prepare to go to South America will the church give us what we need to work with?"

III. OUR YOUTH AND THE FUTURE OF THE BRETHREN CHURCH.

Brethren Youth have heard the call to witness to "the uttermost parts of the world." The church must get the vision and train these young people to the fullest. We must assure them that we are going to go forward as a church. We must start new congregations. We must build new churches. We must support them in our mission fields. It looks to me as if we have the greatest opportunity to grow in the next few years that we have had for a long, long time.

If we are to make the most of our opportunity, we must continue and strengthen our youth program. We will have to increase our mission giving. We will have to double our giving, double it again, and possibly again. Do I hear some crying that we can not possibly afford it? A better question would be can we afford not to? When the people of the Brethren Church start praying about their mission program there will come inspired giving. When our young people are inspired to give their lives dare we be any less inspired than to give our prayers and our dollars? I think I know the people of the Brethren Church well enough to believe they will support such a program. Our young people want to know your plans.

munity. I am sure it is most gratifying that Brother Ault is willing to serve these people in any need or emergency.

By the time this report is read, the New Year will have been ushered in. Brethren, why not make this a greater year? Why not challenge every church to be a soul winning group? When all else is said and done, it remains that our first task is to win souls for the Lord.

Each day during the last week of the year, it was my privilege to broadcast a devotional message from the new Ashland FM station. The Ashland Ministerial Association regularly has this period each week. Ashland College and the Missionary Board were mentioned on every broadcast.

May God give us sufficient grace to be humble; love enough to be willing to burn ourselves out for Him; and the unction of the Spirit to activate every act.

A Prosperous, Happy New Year To Every Reader of This Column.

E.M.R.

From the Theological Seminary in Chungking, West China, comes the following thrilling story.

"O Lord, I thank you for shutting me up in prison, for here I have found the liberty that is in Christ Jesus." That prisoner's prayer echoed down the long cell-enclosed courtward.

As the church service progressed and 200 convicts rose to sing, the rattle of chains accompanied the first note. But what a slight noise compared to hearty "Amens" and "Praise the Lord's" that punctuated the prayers! Well might they sing and praise, for "this is the Lord's doing, it is marvelous in our eyes." Of the 1,000 inmates of the Shungking Municipal Prison, 39 received Christian baptism there behind gray prison walls at Christmas time; another 203 followed on Easter Sunday. Several of the 203 were members of the staff in charge, including Wang Yung, warden of that section of the prison. Now they have organized their own church, complete with deacons. Of the ten convict-deacons, four are serving terms for opium smoking or selling, two for graft, and four for murder! As we left them—still singing choruses—Warden Wang remarked with a glow on his face, "You know, after I saw their changed lives, I could not refuse to believe in the Lord myself. Here, indeed, the Lord Jesus has come to set the captives free."

We rejoice in the work that God is doing in this prison through Chinese Seminary students; we rejoice in their church work and in their factory, college, and street-corner evangelism. Do pray for them.

Rise and Progress of the People Called Quakers. By William Penn (about A. D. 1695). A reprint. The introduction to this little reprint is written by Dr. William W. Comfort, ex-president of Haverford College. He states that Penn wrote this treatise as an introduction to the journal of George Fox, who was the founder of the Society of Friends, to "bring back the people to that acceptable union of faith and works which had so often been thrown out of balance in Christian history."

It is to be hoped that this testimony to the early faith of the Quakers, which was a revival of First Century Christianity, may, in this day, bring a reaction to modern Quakerism, which is so far off "balance" in many groups that the original evangelistic faith and zeal are submerged by good works and the energy of the flesh.

William Penn reviewed the history of the Christian Church, with its ups and downs, and then described in detail the distinctive testimonies that made the seventeenth century Quakers "a peculiar people zealous of good works," "as Christ, their Redeemer, prepared and moved them by his own blessed Spirit, for which they waited in their services and meetings . . ." Their emphasis was upon present-tense salvation, "the Light of Christ within, as God's gift for man's salvation." Again, "forgiveness of sins that are past through Christ the alone propitiation" was affirmed, but the Atonement as the primary basis of God's dealing with sinners has usually been side-stepped by most Quaker writers.

Another section gives a very keen appreciation of the life and character of George Fox, who shook England with a victorious life message. The booklet ends with earnest exhortations to Friends for consistent living.

The Inner Compulsion

by Rev. J. M. Bowman

General MacArthur sensed that the great need of Japan in her defeat was theological. This great nation was tragically defeated, deceived by its military leaders, its pagan gods, and by its Emperor, who was considered divine. Japan is looking for a new way of life, so MacArthur challenged the Christian world to send one thousand missionaries to Japan. They came, but how? Twelve hundred Catholic priests, one thousand nuns, and a mere one hundred Protestant missionaries volunteered. Of the twenty-three hundred who went, only one hundred were Protestants. Fifty per cent of any Japanese crowd will now accept Christ, if He is presented to them in a dynamic way. This is a tremendous challenge! Unless the Protestant Christian Church awakens to this great opportunity in Japan, China, and other countries now, Catholicism and Communism will make a clean sweep.

G. P. Raud gives the following facts in "Europe's Millions." In Czecho-slovakia and Rumania, only 7% are Protestant; in Poland, 4%; in Yugoslavia, Russia and France, 2%; in Greece, Italy and Portugal, one-fifth of 1%; in Spain, Bulgaria and Belgium, one-tenth of 1%. The same condition exists in Mexico, Central, and South America. What has happened to the Protestant Churches, and to the Brethren Church in particular?

The inner urge, the inner flame, the inner compulsion, the driving power of the Holy Spirit in the hearts of the individual believer has staggered to slow motion, and in some cases stopped completely. This power of the Spirit is the only hope of the Christian Church against the political organization of Catholicism and Communism. What can we do about it? Get back to God's plan of evangelism. Matthew 28:19, 20 is the Great Commission. "Go" is the command. The world is the target. The going individual, the going local church, and the going denomination are the growing ones. If Matthew 28:19, 20 is the Great Commission, then Acts 1:8 is the Final Commission. If the Church fails to put into practice the commission to go and witness for Jesus, she fails, no matter how much blustering activity she may promote. We are agreed that the Church needs a great Spiritual awakening. If we started with one Christian, and won another for Christ in one year, and each would win another each year, in twenty-five years the entire 3,000,000,000 people in the world would be Christians. Instead, the population of the world is increasing more rapidly than souls are being saved. That puts a real responsibility upon our generation now. It may not be our business to win the world for Christ, but it is our business to witness to the whole world. If we use modern facilities for travel, fly missionaries into outposts, use the press, tracts, radio fully, moving pictures and other visual aids, it is possible to witness for Christ to all nations in our generation. If we practice both the Great and Final Commissions; stir into flame the gift that is within us, the results would astound the most skeptical.

There are some signs of reassurance. At the great Youth for Christ Conference at Winona Lake in July, thirty to forty teams of zealous missionary groups are being sent to Europe and Asia. They will blanket many countries with the Gospel of Christ. Multiplied thousands are being saved. Some of these new converts have actually been crucified and tortured to death by communists because of their faith in the living Christ. Christianity means something to them! What does it mean to us?

At this convention, the great world missionary Oswald Smith, whose local church is giving $170,000.00 per year to missions, gave an invitation. He asked for recruits for foreign missions in the age group of 17 to 30. That night, 200 volunteered to go as quickly as they could be prepared. It was a sight to stir one's soul! Their slogan is "Evangelizing the World in our Generation." This is an ambitious program. It can be done!

Another sign of reassurance is the fact that our Brethren Youth are rising to the challenge of full time Christian service. Our organizations, however, are slow in providing fields for service and the proper means of preparation. We are long on talk and short on action. So afraid are we of a dominate witness for Christ that we are prone to criticize those who have Holy Spirit zeal and enthusiasm by calling them fanatics. If Paul the apostle were alive today, he would be considered by many church leaders, fanatical. In fact, he was. He was a fool for Christ's sake! He would not be accepted by many today.

In Acts 1:14, one hundred and twenty believers tarried and prayed for ten days until Jesus' promise to send the Holy Spirit should be fulfilled. What do you suppose the Lord thinks of the Brethren Church today? Although costs have more than doubled in the last few years, our missionary giving has remained practically the same. The Home Missionary Treasury was depleted in the middle of the year. Many other groups are increasing missionary gifts several hundred per cent. We are at ease in Zion while the greatest challenge in our history faces us. We are so slow to go! It takes us forever to get moving! Let us search again for that inner compulsion, the Holy Spirit. Let us all take to heart the Final Commission in Acts 1:8. "But ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost has come upon you, and ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem (local community), and in all Judea, and in Samaria (Home Missions), and unto the uttermost part of the earth (Foreign Missions). What does Jesus think of us as individuals? When was the last time that you individually witnessed to some soul about Jesus Christ? What about our local churches? Are cobwebs over the missionary boxes? The hour calls for action! The uttermost parts of the world is our target. Could it be possible that Christ is saying of us Brethren, "Awake thou that sleepest and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give you light?"

LETTER FROM THE "BYLERS"

Dec. 4, 1948
Ave. Lugones 230
Cuidad de Cordoba, Argentina

Rev. E. M. Riddle
Sec'y of Brethren Mission Board
Ashland, Ohio

Dear Bro. Riddle:

Greetings once again from Cordoba! The Lord continues to bless us with new experiences here. I feel that you'd be interested in knowing that at present we are engaged in a tent campaign. This is in a district not too far from Cordoba called Barrio Commercial. We have one family of Believers there who come to our church in Cordoba. They are fine workers in the church and it is in their home that one of our annex Sunday Schools is conducted each Sunday. Since this little town is about 20 miles from here and there is no other work there (Catholic or Protestant) this family would like to see if there will be a great enough response to start a work there with preaching services and Bible Study conducted regularly. They have offered a lot next to their house for the building of a small chapel if the response merits such a project.

The tent meeting began on Monday night. The young people and Bro. Andenmatten met several nights to mend the tent and make benches the week before. Each night a number of the people go from here to these meetings. Brother Andenmatten packs as many of our folks as possible into his old '29' Studebaker. The rest of us ride out in an old omnibus that looks and sounds as if it were on its last trip. (They do frequently break down and you still have to walk to your destination.) Without exception, during the trip out to the Barrio, this bus has been crowded far beyond its capacity. Every seat is occupied and there are usually at least twice as many people standing. They crowd together like "sardines" all through the aisles and the entrances. Then there are usually 10 to 14 hanging on the outside of the bus. We have never seen or been in such a crowded bus before. It takes 45 minutes in this exasperating omnibus to reach our destination, whereas in a car, it only requires 15 minutes. There is an hour between buses and this is the only way to go unless we walk. I frequently think walking would be far better because of the rudeness on the part of many of the men. The decent women are obliged to carry large hat pins (and use them) if they want to be left alone. I must wait until January before I can get a license for the bicycle, so I can't use it yet. You can imagine the anxiety on the part of everyone and particularly the women—who are so frequently molested—about the coming of the Station Wagon.

The first night of our meeting, there was only one adult from the Barrio in attendance—the rest were members from Cordoba who went out. The children even stayed outside. But each night there have been a few more who come inside and last night most of the benches were full. There are nearly always more standing outside through the whole service than the number who will enter. (Since we have come to this community the Catholics have been handing out propaganda, telling the people not to come to our meetings and that they would conduct mass this Sunday and baptise anyone or marry them free of charge. So you see, we have a bit of competition!) Norman Romanenghi plays his accordion, and his sister, Elsie, has been giving flannelgraph stories each evening for the children. We are so glad that we brought a good supply of such material, for it is scarce and expensive here. However, the children like it. Last night, we tied the organ on the top of Bro. Andenmatten's car and took it out to use also. It helps the singing to have one or two instruments. No one has responded yet, but each night the interest is more keen. There have been some strong Pentecostal efforts down here, but their reputation as well as their testimony, is for the most part, bad. It takes several nights for the folks to see just how we're going to act and what we're going to do before they want any part in the service. So far our contribution is limited to playing instruments and singing in a quartet. Brother Andenmatten and several people take turns preaching a simple Gospel message.

I think we are going to continue another week in this place and then go to another Barrio where there is no work. We are hoping that by viewing the response in these places, we can judge whether either of these communities might be a good place for us to live. There are many different sections where we have looked for a house, but it is difficult to know in which one we ought to consider living. We want to go where there will at least be a kind response to our being in the community. One appreciates good neighbors and those who will make good playmates for Susan. Some places do not have good bus service or are poor locations or other reasons. In all our looking we still have not found anything for rent in the 200 pesos per month category. There is a lot of building and quite a few for sale and again the price varies according to the neighborhood. Actually it would be difficult to get anything suitable under 30,000 pesos or even more, or $5000 plus. A larger place with a garden, garage, and a few fruit trees—in a good location—would go up to 50,000 or 60,000 pesos or $12,000. We shall look again this afternoon.

We shall be anxious to see Louisa when she comes. I'm sorry that I can't meet her with the station wagon. There is still no answer on that. We really need it. Even the house-hunting would go much faster with a car. However, we are getting a good initiation into how the majority of the people get along all the time.

We had a nice meeting tonight and a fine crowd. It was Saturday night and we didn't expect too many but they came anyway. I hope that June will soon have all her necessary papers so that she can soon join us. We continue to look forward to her coming, as well as the coming of Louisa. We trust that before many months, we will have the station wagon. It will have so many valuable services to offer.

As ever,

Rob, Jane, & Susan.

What Missions Will Do For Your Church

by Bernard B. Stanton

God pity the Church that has no missionary interest or zeal!

A Church without a missionary passion is lifeless, narrow, selfish, disobedient, backward and subnormal. It is not worthy of the name "Church." It can look forward to no progress. It is under divine disfavor. It is a weak organization and bound to be spiritually feeble.

On the other hand, a Church with a missionary outlook has a brighter uplook, and a promising forward-look. A missionary Church is a progressive Church. Its interest is in others. It has spiritual power. It advances in all things. It is awake, alive, victorious. It is a normal Church.

God announced to Adam His plan of propagation. He said, "Be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth." The same command was given to Noah after the Flood. A similar idea was presented to the disciples of Jesus Christ when He told them to "Go into all the world and make disciples of all nations."

It is always God's plan and purpose, physically and spiritually, to multiply and propagate. It is His will for the individual. It is also God's will for the Church. It is His desire that both the individual Christian and the Church reproduce themselves. Disobedience to that law results in stagnation and death.

God has told the Church to "Preach the Gospel to every creature." If it does not do so, it soon finds itself a rebel against God, and a spiritual nonentity. When a Church obeys that Great Commission, it finds itself basking in the sunshine of His smile, the recipient of His greatest blessings and a leader in spiritual affairs. A Church with a missionary vision, passion and program is in line with God's will and His law of reproduction.

The Church that strengthens the missionary program strengthens itself. A missionary vision necessitates a solid doctrinal foundation. Doctrines relating to man, sin, grace, faith, salvation, redemption, and kindred teachings must be studied and understood. A doctrinal Church is bound to be a strong Church.

A missionary program calls for an increasing prayer ministry. Could a Christian be missionary-hearted and not find his prayer-life developing? Could there be real interest without earnest intercession? A missionary Church is a praying Church. A praying Church is a progressive Church. A praying Church is bound to be a powerful Church.

A Church with a missionary passion is a giving Church. Missions takes money and a lot of it. Can a missionary Church profess to be interested in winning the lost and then withhold its offerings? Convictions must be backed up by contributions, or the profession is vain. The Gospel must be accompanied by giving. And a giving Church is a strong Church.

It has been proven time and again that when a Church starts giving liberally for missions, the Church itself is blessed abundantly, financially as well as spiritually. God blesses when the Church progresses in missionary spirit.

A missionary Church has a world outlook. It is lifted above local provincialism, petty jealousies and minor problems. When the Church starts to look upon the masses of unsaved in the world, and sees them as Christ did, "as sheep having no shepherd," it will not be long before the Church will have a missionary passion and program. Then the Church's ministry will be as broad as the purpose and plan of God.

A missionary Church is an interesting Church. If the local congregation loses itself in the routine of weekly meetings and ordinary local activities, it may become very dull indeed. But when missionary programs are conducted, world maps spread out, pictures shown and reports and letters from the foreign fields are read in public, there is new interest and a fresh spark of vitality added to the humdrum routine.

A good missionary program in the Church gives the congregation a new goal for which to strive, a new objective to reach. That is always inspiring. It gives a high and noble purpose to the local Church. It offers a cause worthy of our best support. It presents a calling to which the young people can rally and to which they can give themselves in unselfish service for God and mankind.

The Church with a strong missionary vision invites missionary speakers, who add new interest, blessing and life to the local Church. No matter how well-liked and beloved the pastor may be, a new face behind the pulpit, a different voice, a fresh message from a missionary is a welcome variety. The visiting missionary is a new and vital link between the local group and the world-wide missionary program.

A strong missionary program in the Church should lead to a revitalized evangelistic effort at home. When the congregation is made to realize that the heathen in some other place are lost and bound for eternal Hell, and that it is necessary to send missionaries to them with the Gospel, the local Christians should awake to the fact that their own friends and neighbors are just as lost as the heathen across the sea. Fresh interest and renewed effort is stirred up to win the lost in the community.

In these and other ways, a missionary program in the local Church will strengthen, revitalize and add to the progress of your Church. Missions can do wonders if you let them.—Selected from Missionary Digest.

MARTYR SEED

A brilliant Chinese student was offered a fine position with the Government. When Bishop Wilson S. Lewis asked the young man why he refused the splendid offer and volunteered to preach the Gospel for a mere pittance, he said: "During the Boxer uprising I lived in an inland village where there was a temple for devil worship. The Christians were led by the soldiers to that temple and ordered to renounce their religion and bow before the devil image or they would be executed. I saw one hundred and sixty-three of my townsmen walk by the devil god with heads erect, when a little bow would have saved their lives—then out to a great beam over which they placed their heads for the swift stroke of the executioner's sword that sent their heads rolling in the dust. My father was one of that number. It was the unshaken integrity of their faith that thrilled me and gave me a longing for the New Life. I must go back and tell my fellow townsmen of Christ."

INTERNATIONAL CONCERN

For many centuries the care of the Holy Places has been a matter of international concern. After the Crimean War (and one of the causes which led to this war was the dispute between France and Russia over the Church of the Nativity at Bethlehem), the present rights of the communions in the Holy Places were laid down and have been rigidly adhered to ever since. Every communion knows what portion of the building it may occupy, the time and duration of their services, when they may burn incense and what routes they may travel. One can only hope that the Holy Places will escape severe damage in the present controversy, and we prayerfully echo the words of Jehovah through Isaiah: "Speak ye comfortably to Jerusalem and cry unto her, that her warfare is accomplished."

U. S. LIQUOR BILL: MILLION EVERY HOUR

The U. S. liquor bill is $1,100,456.62 an hour—enough hourly, to buy 110 homes at $10,000 each.

The figures were computed by Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, president, National Woman's Christian Temperance Union, Evanston, (Illinois) after an analysis of the latest federal expenditure report issued by the U. S. Department of Commerce.

And the actual drink bill is only half the final cost, she adds.

"An equal sum must be added to cover the cost of drink-caused crime, insanity, disease, broken homes, poverty and other human and economic waste."

She estimated the gross cost to the public of more than $2,200,000 an hour.

Eighty-seven drivers in Colorado had their driving licenses revoked during October for excessive drinking. Ninety others had licenses suspended for the same reason.

The nation's relief load has increased 54 per cent in the last three years in spite of the post-war prosperity boom. At the same time the costs have gone up 136 per cent. This sharp upward turn is attributed to inflation, unemployment among unskilled workers displaced by skilled veterans and movement of many families to other parts of the country, causing temporary family emergencies.

Two thousand five hundred German children are to be taken into Dutch homes for three-month periods. The Protestant churches of the Netherlands has extended the invitation through Hils-werk, the German Protestant relief agency (EPS)

The American Bible Society has continued to send Bibles through the iron curtain. Forty thousand Gospels went to Yugoslavia recently, additional Bibles were sent into Poland and into Russia.

LESSON XLI—EL CASO DE UNITARIANOS

Text—2 Cor. 13:14—“The love of God, the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the communion of the Holy Spirit Be with you all.”

The hope of being saved while rejecting the only Savior, is a false hope.

1. Does the sun cease to be one sun because we know it as light and heat and power?
2. Does a man cease to be one person because known by his will and his reason and his conscience?
3. Does God cease to be one God because revealed in his work as Father, Son and Holy Spirit? See text above.
4. What is the end of those who dishonor God the Father? Rom. 1:19, 20.
5. What about those who reject Christ the Son? Jn. 3:36.
6. What about those who dishonor the Holy Spirit? 1 Cor. 3:16, 17.
7. How about those who dishonor the children of God? Mt. 10:40, Acts 9:1-4.

NO OTHER NAME

A Japanese student in the University of Chicago said to me, “I am graduating this year and returning to Japan. How can I tell my people what you have in your religion that we do not have in ours?” I said to him, “Tell them that we have Christ. No other religion has one who lived the perfect life as he did; One who died a vicarious death as he did; One who actually saves us from sinning as He does; One who is coming again to reign as He is coming.” He said, “I will think it over.” Before he left he came again and said, “I believe you are right and I will try to persuade my people to learn and follow the Gospel.”

LESSON XLII—THE CASE OF LEGALISM

Text—2 Cor. 3:6—“He hath made us ministers of the new Covenant, not of the letter, but of the spirit, for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life.”

The legalist gives lip-service without love and has the body of worship without the life.

1. What trouble did legalists cause at Antioch? Acts 15:1, 2.
2. Why was the letter of the law given? Rom. 8:3; Gal. 2:15, 16.
3. Why was the new covenant given? Heb. 8:7-13.
4. What are the seven steps in Christian salvation? Eph. 2:4-10.
5. What do they lose who trust in the letter of the law for their salvation? Gal. 5:4.
6. What one word tells how to fulfill the law? Gal. 5:13, 14; Rom. 13:9, 10.
7. What is “the law of Christ?” 1 Cor. 9:21; Gal. 2:20; 6:2.

A Jew once gave me a “frontlet” which is a tiny parchment in a roll with the ten commandments printed upon it. It was enclosed in a little capsule of tin, which was held against the forehead by a rubber band. He fully believed that he should thus obey the law literally. I tried to show him that it is obedience to the spirit of the law which God desires. But it behooves us to ask if it is not possible that we also may be too much concerned about forms to discern the spiritual teaching they convey.

LESSON XLIII—THE CASE OF CLERICALISM

Text—Rom. 12:10—“In honor preferring one another.”

A Pharisaical tyranny stifles the spiritual life of the church.

1. What text teaches the equality of believers in Christ? Mt. 23:8; Gal. 3:27.
2. What passage reveals the role of Peter in the church? 1 Pet. 5:1-3.
3. What passage reveals the beginning of clericalism? Jn. 3:9, 10.
4. What does Jesus say of such usurpation? Rev. 3:2, 15.
5. Who is the only Head of the church? Eph. 1:21-23.
6. Who is the only Vicar of Christ? Jn. 16:13, 14.
7. What great privilege have all believers alike? 1 Jn. 2:27.

A MODERN DIOTROPHES

A pastor of another denomination related to me the story of a bishop who was noted for his very rigid discipline. For any offense against the customs or traditions of the church, he would insist upon expulsion. But at last his own daughter complained to the church that her father was obliging her to sin with him. As soon as he learned of the accusation he disappeared and was never heard from again. Jesus was stern enough with the hypocrites but also merciful with the repentant sinners.

LESSON XLIV—THE CASE OF BALAAM

Text—Rom. 8:13—“If ye live after the flesh ye shall die.”

1. Of what evil deed was Balaam guilty? Rev. 2:14; Num. 35:1-3.
2. What is the meaning of “the way of Balaam?” 2 Pet. 2:15.
3. What was “the error of Balaam?” Jude 11, 12.
4. What does God say about the same sin in Titus 1:12, 13?
5. Do we have such hypocrites in the church today? 2 Tim. 3:1-6.
6. What will be the end of such deceivers? 1 Cor. 6:9, 10.
7. What precious truth should we always remember? 1 Cor. 6:19, 20.

THE DOCTRINE OF BALAAM IN MODERN LIFE

Balaam could not curse Israel, but he taught the heathen to tempt the Israelites to fornication and thus expose them to divine destruction. That is Satan's shrewd way of destroying modern Christianity. He is turning people away from the stern command to repent and believe the Gospel and is substituting a social Gospel of diversion. I overheard one high school girl say to another, “No one pretends to be good now any more.” That is what sinful beings like to believe, and that belief will be their destruction.

"LET GOD SPEAK—THROUGH ME!"

Scripture: 1 Corinthians 3:16; 4:2

For The Leader

AT THIS, the first day of Christian Endeavor Week, we should reaffirm our faith, life, and purpose in Christ. It should be a time of reconsecration and re-thinking on our duties as a Christian young person. Our scripture this evening is very thought provoking. For one to measure up to the suggested standards will take a high degree of careful living on our part. But with the Spirit of God working in us, it is possible. If we are to let God speak through us, we must be purified vessels. It is not permissible for us to partake of sinful pleasures if we intend to be used of God. The two ways are incompatible. Tonight we shall consider some of the requirements of being a proper person through which God can speak.

DISCUSSION

1. DEFILED TEMPLES. Our scripture plainly teaches us that we, as Christians, are temples of God. In the next verse, it gives a severe warning if we defile our bodies. God says He will destroy that person. So, if we lead others into sin, or yield ourselves to sin, we are under that condemnation! The picture we would leave with you in this respect is that of young people, wholly yielded to Him, engaging in Christian pastimes, living pure, wholesome lives, being modest in dress and conduct, and having respect for themselves, and others. Can you measure up? If so, God can surely speak through you.

2. TEEN YEARS GOVERNS ENTIRE LIFE. We believe in the complete forgiveness of sins by our Heavenly Father, through our faith in Jesus Christ, and the obedience of His commands. Yet it is folly to think that we can "run wild" in sinful activities during early life and not reap the results through the years. Many a person has been useless, compared to their abilities, because of the sins of their youth. A man had a very expensive watch which he valued highly, and which kept perfect time. However, all of a sudden it refused to keep good time. A jeweler took it apart and found nothing wrong. Again and again he tore it down and rebuilt it, but could find nothing wrong with it. Finally he concludes that the watch must be magnetized. So he asks the owner where he might have been with the watch, and discovers that the owner had been working around some electrical equipment, magnetizing the watch. It had become magnetized with that with which it had come in contact in other days. It was rendered unfit for service by its previous associations. So, let's be careful what we do now, so that there will be no regrets when our time of service comes.

3. WE ARE WHAT WE WATCH. We are always doing things the way we see others do it. Dress, hair-dos habits, customs, etc., are all done as others do them. Often a new idea comes from one person, and we make an idol out of that person. We ask you, who is the one you are following, in the moulding of your life ahead? Two girls, roommates in a certain college, had two pictures on the wall. At the foot of the one girl's bed was the picture of Marie Antoinette, a despicable character of history, coarse, rough, and hard. Over the foot of the other girl's bed was a picture of the Madonna, Mary, holding the Christ in her arms. Each morning, the first thing each girl saw was the picture above her bed. In life, after graduation, the first girl became rude, rough and vulgar. The second, a noble character, sweet, unselfish, and kind. What made the difference? That which they looked upon daily. Do you look upon your movie idols, your "he-men" of the flesh? Do you look on the sensuous, lustful models of the screen and magazines? If so, your life will be that kind of a life. Better to look on Christ, and you will become like Him. Then God can speak through you.

4. KEEPING OUR HEART IN TUNE. Perhaps the greatest of failures on our modern life is that of failing to keep our hearts in tune with God. That clanging cymbals, and busy schedules of today's life are anything but encouraging to a real fellowship with God. What one of us has not gotten up at the last minute and rushed through a demanding busy day, to the hour of retiring without giving one thought to communion with God? That is fatalism in God's service. If we do that, we will soon be so far from God, He'll be a stranger to us. It is a sad fact, but true, that in America we have more time saving devices than ever, yet have less time to live. Something is wrong with our appraisal of values and time. But, if God is to speak through us, we must ever walk in that spirit of communion in which He can speak to us! If we fail in this, we have failed in all.

5. SPEAKING GOD'S MESSAGE. You will note the subject is "Let God Speak—Through Me." It is vital that we note that it is God's message that is to be spoken, not ours. So many times we hear people say, "Now here's what I think," or "I think it is thus and so." That is pretty poor talk. Rather it should be "God's Word says thus and so." If God is to speak through us, it must be by the use of His Holy Word in our message. The ideal sermon would be the reading of proper scripture passages, less comment. The Bible says the Word of God is a two edged sword, and the sword of the Spirit. It says nothing about man's opinions, or ideas, as possessing any convicting power. So, if we are to speak for Christ, it must be His message. In our talks, sermons, etc., we must adhere as closely to the Bible as it is humanly possible to do. At any rate, when we speak for God, it must be after we have spent much time searching the scriptures for thoughts, verses and truths.

DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. List things which tend to spoil our testimony for Christ.
2. In what ways can God speak through us?
3. Are sermons all preached from the pulpit? Explain.

God's "I wills" of judgment are as sure as His "I wills" of mercy.

TILL JESUS COMES!

By Etta Gracey Storr

"The grace of God be with you all Till Jesus comes"—What benediction!
It makes the cares and trials of life
Seem but a light affliction;
It brings the thought that He may come
Today, perhaps tomorrow!
It takes the hurt from pain, and leaves
A balm for all our sorrow.

"Till Jesus comes!" They thrill our hearts
Those words of expectation;
O Lord, Thy loved ones watch for Thee
With glad anticipation.
Of all Thy grace bestowed on us,
Help us to tell the story,
That others in this hope may rest
And meet with Thee in glory.
—The Bible Advocate.

THE SECOND COMING MOTIVATES PRACTICAL DUTIES

Scripture: Luke 19:12-27

Hymns on the Second Coming

Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

THOSE WHO THINK that the doctrine of the Second Coming of our Lord to restore all things and to reign in peace and glory discourages missionary effort are sadly mistaken. Instead this great doctrine motivates for steadfastness in the faith, and for confidence of hope (1 John 2:28). It lends courage for exercising Christian patience amid trials and vexations of this earthly life (James 5:7, 8). It enables one to keep cool and to persevere (1 Peter 1:13). It inspires us to have victory over the lusts of the flesh (Col. 3:4, 5). It reminds us that our citizenship is in Heaven (Phil. 3:20, 21). It aids in observing temperance in all things (Phil. 4:5). It helps us to be pure and holy and keeps us under Christ-control (1 John 3:2, 3). Looking for the blessed hope causes us to live godly lives (Titus 2:11-13). By it our Saviour admonished us to be watchful (Luke 12:35-40). It activates for good works (Matt. 16:27; Rev. 22:12). It moves us to urge and persuade sinners to repentance (Acts 3:19-31). What greater motive can be found in Scripture for the cultivating of Christian virtue?

Let us pray about this supreme motive and make it the possessor of our daily lives.

If you are God's man you will be cussed and discussed.

Lesson for January 30, 1949

MEETING AND MASTERING TEMPTATION

Lesson: Luke 4:1-13

THAT TEMPTATION can be met and mastered is very definitely shown by the fact that Jesus, in His humanity, met and mastered all of the temptations that satan, in all of his power and cunning, set before Him. That they were real temptations we dare not doubt. That Jesus could have yielded to them there is also no argument, because anything that is set before a person to tempt him is not a temptation unless there comes an inner urge to yield to it. It is not the temptation that is sin, it is the yielding to it that becomes the wrong. The old song which we sing so often has it just right, "Yield not to temptation, for YIELDING is sin." The urge to yield to temptation is human; the power to resist temptation is spiritual.

We have often heard it said that Jesus could not yield to these temptations; but it should rather be said that He could not yield and remain the divine Son of God. But nevertheless He was tempted and did not sin, as we will find in our Golden Text: Hebrews 4:15.

Our lesson revolves around three questions—Why did He not sin? How did He resist? What were the results? Let us see!

Why did He not sin? Was it because He was the Son of God? Verse one tells us the element within, that was the basis of His power, "And Jesus, being full of the Holy Ghost . . ." He was "led by the Spirit," or urged or impelled. There was an inner prompting. He responded to it, even as He should.

How did He resist? The Word of God became His weapon. He said, and He meant it, "It is written." In other words, He knew the Word and also the Author. He knew just what to quote. When tempted, try letting God put the right scriptures in your mind and heart. It is a pretty good rule to follow that if there is the least doubt in your mind as to whether you should do the thing presented, better go slow. "When in doubt, go slow," is a very good rule to follow in any phase of life. When God and satan come face to face, satan always loses.

What were the results? With Jesus it was the ministration of angels. The Word says that these came upon the departure of the tempter. It also says that satan only left Him for a season. Do you think that the "wilderness temptations" were the only ones that Jesus had to endure? Even to the very end of His life He was beset by them on every hand. Remember how He prayed in the garden, "O Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me!" Tempted? Certainly, yet He was able to say, "Nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done."

Do we have temptations like He had in our day? Certainly we do; and we can meet and overcome them like He did—by the power of God.

THE NEW YEAR

A flower unblown; a book unread;
 A tree with fruit unharvested;
 A path untrod; a house whose rooms
 Lack the heart's divine perfumes:

 In silent shade, 'neath silent skies;
 A treasure with its gifts concealed—
 This is the year that for you waits
 Beyond tomorrow's mystic gates.

Ever can shadow my brow,
Home—in the presence of Jesus,
Through all eternity—now!*

Stockton, California. In a recent communication from Brother Charles E. Johnson, recently installed as pastor of the Stockton Church, he says, "Last night a man handed me an envelope containing $50.00 to be used in decorating the inside of the church. It is so badly needed. Work will begin at once. As soon as it is completed I will begin a meeting . . . Our need is more adults. We have young people and children, and a finer bunch you never saw. The adults have given until it hurts trying to keep ahead of the growth . . . What is badly needed here is a few hundred dollars spent on the buildings to make them attractive. With this I believe the work would be self-supporting in a short time." Looks like here is a place where a few dollars invested will go a long way.

Meyersdale, Pennsylvania. A reception was given for the incoming pastor, Rev. W. S. Benshoff and his family by the Meyersdale church soon after they arrived in their new home. We quote from Brother Benshoff's bulletin of January 9th: "A sumptuous turkey dinner, with all the trimmings, complete to dessert, was enjoyed by one hundred and ten guests on New Year's Day at the noon hour, it being the Pastor's reception. We thoroughly enjoyed the event which was held in the church basement. John H. Blocher was the Toastmaster, and Mrs. Paul K. McMillan was pianist. We wish we could name all those who furnished food and labor; suffice it to say that we, (your pastor and family) really appreciate the wonderful things you did for us that day. No one has ever had a better, more heart-warming reception than that which we experienced. The weather was stormy as could be, but it certainly did not spoil the spirit of those in attendance. Members of the Meyersdale Ministerium and their wives were guests. Each minister gave a brief response of greeting. The committee on arrangements was: Mrs. Harry T. Staub, Mrs. George Wahl, Mrs. C. M. Bird, Mrs. Clara McKinzie, A. L. McDaniels and Robert C. Lorenzen." Brother Benshoff says, "This was a REAL affair."

Brother Benshoff says that there has been a fine increase in the attendance at the Mid-week Prayer services.

The Tuesday evening service of the Meyersdale "Christian Emphasis Week" was held on January 11th in our church. Two hundred and sixty-four were in attendance.

The District Missionary Board of the Pennsylvania District met at the Meyersdale parsonage on January 3rd. It was a regular scheduled meeting of the board.

Masontown, Pennsylvania. We note from Brother Freeman Ankrum's bulletin of January 9th, that the laymen, in their regular meeting in January, had a very lively discussion upon the Book of Revelation which will be continued in their February meeting. At the meeting the organization voted to give $10.00 to the Press Fund of the Brethren Publishing Company. May we hint that it might be a fine thing for other Laymen's Organizations to follow their example!

Brother Ankrum reports that at the meeting of the Pennsylvania Examining Board recently held in Masontown, the board acted favorably upon the request of Robert Hoffman of the Berlin Church for Licensure. Brother Hoffman is a pre-seminary student in Ashland and is doing good work as the Superintendent of the Sunday School of the Garber Memorial Brethren Church in east Ashland, a project which is sponsored by the First Brethren Church of Ashland.

Uniontown, Pennsylvania, Second. We note that the following were ordained to the offices of deacon and deaconess in the Second Church at Uniontown: Deacons—Eli DeBolt and Walter Solomon; Deaconesses—Mrs. Elijah DeBolt and Mrs. Leroy Solomon. Brother Freeman Ankrum had charge of the service.

Johnstown, Pennsylvania, Second. We note by Brother N. V. Leatherman's bulletin that the Executive Committee of the Cambria County Brethren Christian Endeavor Union met at the Second Church on Sunday afternoon, January 4th, to make preparation for the Quarterly Meeting of the Union which is to be held on February 1st.

Brother Leatherman reports that a very lovely Candle Light service was presented recently on Sunday evening during the C. E. hour, in charge of Mrs. Morris Kline, assisted by other C. E.'rs.

Nappanee, Indiana. Brother J. Milton Bowman reports that in averaging the attendance in Sunday School for 1948, it was found that the average was 274. A goal had been set for a 268 average, which was more than met. The gain of 30 per Sunday average is shown above the average of the past three years.

Oakville, Indiana. Brother Henry Bates reports that a group of faithful men and women gather in the church each Sunday morning at 9:15 to pray for the services of the church.

Revival services will be conducted in the Oakville Church from March 1 to 14.

WASTE MAKES POWER

I LIKE Scientific magazines. That is, the practical kind like "Popular Science" that takes you into its confidence and speaks in terms the ordinary layman can understand. Such magazines sort of keep you informed concerning the advances that are made and permit you to talk, at least semi-intelligently, concerning these advances.

Well, in last month's issue of "Popular Science" the caption on one article was the above words, "Waste Makes Power." The opening paragraph of this article said, "The reciprocal aircraft engine has taken a free ride on the turbine wheel. The power now wastefully spewed out in its exhaust has been harnessed and put to work on the crankshaft—adding power, range and payload."

After telling what may be accomplished, the writer adds these significant words, "And all this uses no extra fuel nor adds any appreciable weight to the airplane."

This set me to thinking!

Here is an idea that can be taken over in the work of the church. Not alone in the realm of motors, but in practically all avenues of material advancement, men have been endeavoring to make use of "waste" materials to secure more efficiency and greater economy. "Waste" materials are more and more going into finished by-products, or are helping to make the original article more serviceable or productive.

But has the church looked at this side of its problem? Has there been any considerable investigation made concerning the matter of "waste" in time and money in the work of the church? Has the matter of wasted energy and the "foolish" expenditure of time among Christians been called to their attention in such a way that they have felt the urge of a new duty to their church? Has there been a consistent effort to turn wasted dollars into channels that would furnish additional power for the spread of the Gospel?

Just take your pencil and paper and figure out what might be accomplished by the membership of your church if each one would only save one hour a week of what is now "wasted time," and only five cents a day of that which is "wasted money," and use it in the Lord's cause. A church of fifty members, utilizing this waste would find itself in possession of 2,600 hours of time, and $912.50 in money for additional "power." What advances could be made! The church in general surely needs to wake up to its opportunities. Has your church done anything about it?

Think it over!

Someone has said that Jesus has given us a triangle as a pattern of life. He is standing at one corner saying, "If you want to do something for me, do it for the poor fellow in the other corner of the triangle."

Corrections for your Annual

In issuing the General Conference Annual Number of the Evangelist, which should be in your hands long before this time, much difficulty was encountered in getting exact addresses, due, in part, to the many changes. Every effort was put forth to get these correct. But in spite of all we could do, errors crept in, and the only thing we can do now is to use these columns to make the proper changes. To the present time we know of, or have been informed of, only three changes to be made. Others, no doubt will come to our notice. These changes are as follows:

1. Chester F. Zimmerman's street address in Muncie, Indiana, should be changed to 1413 Kirby Avenue. (Pages 51 and 55).

2. E. D. Burnworth's address should be Rural Route, Gaston, Indiana. (Page 55).

3. In the Pennsylvania District list of churches the Secretary of the White Dale Church, Terra Alta, West Virginia, should be Mrs. Frank Arnold, Rural 4, Terra Alta, West Virginia.

Should you find other changes of address that should be made, write the editor and these will be made in future issues of the Evangelist. We suggest that, having read this and noted the changes, that you get your annual number and make the necessary changes as above, NOW. Then it will not be forgotten.

They Help

In renewing her subscription to the Evangelist, Mrs. Ida E. Beard of Arlington, Virginia, who is a member of the Milledgeville, Illinois, Brethren Church, but living in Virginia, very kindly sends us $2.00 to cover next year's subscription, and tells us that she surely enjoys reading the entire Evangelist. We appreciate her "upping" the price for us.

In the same mail came another $2.00 subscription to the Evangelist from Brother Harrie C. Funderberg of New Carlisle, Ohio. Brother Funderberg contributes to the column, "Bits of Brethren History," which is run intermittently in the Evangelist, and which, we are told, is enjoyed by our readers, especially by those who are older and have a memory of these things. Thanks, Brother Funderberg.

Is Heaven A Real, Literal Place?

Rev. Harrie C. Funderberg

WHEN JESUS SENT JUDAS away from the upper room with the words, "That thou doest, do quickly," (John 13:27) and satan entered into Judas so that he, burning with hate, went to the chief priests to betray Jesus for thirty pieces of silver; and when Jesus finally convinced the eleven remaining disciples that He was to be crucified the next day—it must have been the darkest hour any of them had ever seen. Misery and death filled their hearts, so, to comfort them, Jesus breaks forth in language which is aimed to bring joy to their hearts, and He says, (in John 14:2-3) "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you, and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself, that where I am there ye may be also."

So, Heaven is a "place." Jesus called it that twice. He has gone to prepare such a place. It is in the Father's house of many mansions.

We have no account of how these disciples took this message, "let not your hearts be troubled," but to realize that heaven was an actual and blessed place, must have thrilled their hearts beyond expression.

Do not think of heaven, then, as a ghostly, unreal, indefinite state. Rather think of it as literally real and as concrete as the houses in which we live. Human minds seem not to comprehend the beauties of God's Paradise, with its streets of gold and its gates of pearl, and that Jesus is preparing these many mansions for His own. A prepared place for a prepared people—human eye is too dim to behold its beauties.

The last two chapters in the Bible—Revelation 21 and 22—tell us something of this wonderful place that Jesus is preparing for His own. It is called "The Holy City," and again "That Great City," the "Holy Jerusalem," having the glory of God, and her light like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper stone, clear as crystal.

The Word describes the City of God as a literal city, with walls of shining jasper, one hundred and forty-four cubits high, and with streets of gold. The foundation of the walls of the city are decorated with every kind of precious stones. The twelve gates are of pearl. This wonderful city is twelve thousand furlongs square. With ten furlongs to an English mile, or eight to a Roman mile it can be readily seen that this City far surpasses all the cities of the earth in size—fifteen hundred miles square. Refresh your memory by reading the two chapters to which we have referred.

Where is Heaven?

We know it is up, somewhere, away from the earth.

Part I

The scripture states that Jesus "went up" while they beheld Him (Acts 1:9). Elijah went up in a whirlwind in a chariot of fire into Heaven. Paul said he knew a man that was caught up to the third heaven—presumably himself. So we get the direction of Heaven as being up.

When Christ reigns on earth we will reign with Him. The scripture says we will come back to reign with Him. It also says, "If we suffer, we shall also reign with him." "Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the resurrection; on such the second death hath no power, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years." So then, for a season of a thousand years the Christians' Heaven is going to be on earth, during that happy reign of Christ, which reign is pictured in Isaiah 11:1-16, and in Micah, chapter 4. In this period peace and happiness will be perpetuated, and even the ferocious beasts will have lost their anger. "The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb and the leopard shall lie down with the kid, and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together, and a little child shall lead them. And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox; and the suckling child shall play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the cockatrice' den. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain: for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea." Isaiah 11:6-9.

Oh, the peace and joy on the earth when Christ shall reign as the King of kings and the Lord of lords. Then the nations "shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." (Micah 4:3) and all nations shall serve the true God in peace and holiness.

"Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped; then shall the lame man leap as the hart, and the tongue of the dumb sing: . . . And the ransomed of the Lord shall return, and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy upon their heads: they shall obtain joy and gladness, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away." (Isaiah 35:5, 6, 10.) Then, and then only can we look for lasting peace.

The Biblical Ordinance of Anointing for Healing

Rev. Delbert B. Flora

I. AFFLICTION. "Is any among you sick?"

1. Addressed strictly to believers (Christians)—"among you."
2. "Sick"—the Greek word is "astheneo" which has primary reference to physical infirmity. This is not a psychological disorder, which would be "atheneo-psuchos," mental infirmity.

II. PRESCRIPTION. "Let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord."

1. "Let him call for the elders."—The one who is sick takes the initiative. The elders, plural number, of the local congregation of the church are representative of the universal Church of which Christ is the Head. The calling for the elders manifests faith.
2. "Let them pray over him, anointing him with oil."—The revised Version margin renders, "having anointed," in which Dean Henry Alford and others concur. This places the use of the oil before the prayer, which would seem the more natural.

(1). "Anointing"—The Greek word: "aleipho"—The Biblical usage:

—Genesis 28:18, 19 with 31:13. The Hebrew word for anoint here is "mashah," from which comes "Messiah." The Jewish scholars who translated the Old Testament into Greek about 200 B. C., which is called the Septuagint or LXX, used James' word for anointing in this instance, i. e., "aleipho." Notice that Jacob did not rub the oil on the stone.

—Ex. 30:31. The Hebrew sacred word "mashah" again is translated by James' secular or profane word (so-called by some) "aleipho." The oil is used here also for a sacred purpose.

—Ex. 40:14, 15. "Anoint . . . anoint." Again James' word is used as the translation of the sacred word in connection with a sacred use of the oil. "Anointing." The Hebrew sacred word is used, but this time the Septuagint uses the sacred word from which we get "Christ." Note that both James' word and the word from which we get "Christ" are used for the same ritual.

—Num. 3:3. Once more James' word is used for an anointing which is sacramental.

It is true that anoint is used in other instances where there is no sacred meaning or intent, but we are establishing the use of the oil by God's servants in sacramental ritual, as directed by James.

It should be noted that the New Testament writers quote from the Septuagint as holy Scripture. At least thirty times they quote from it directly.

We conclude therefore, that James rightfully used his word for a sacred ordinance.

(2). "With oil."—The significance of the oil is not that of a medicinal agent.

—Consider the religious use of the oil already seen in the Old Testament.

—Oil is often used in the Old Testament as symbolical of the Holy Spirit. The anointing and consecrating of the tabernacle and its furniture may be studied here. Our point is more definitely taken in the following considerations.

(a). 1 Samuel 10:1-6.—The anointing with oil expresses communion of the Holy Spirit to Saul.

(b). 1 Samuel 16:13-14.—The gift of the Spirit, symbolized by the anointing, having been conferred upon David, it was necessarily withdrawn from Saul.

(c). Zech. 4:1-6.—The question, "What are these?" is answered in verse 6, "by My Spirit." The Holy Spirit was to be the strength of Zerubbabel in his work of restoring Jerusalem. The oil flowing into the lamps symbolized the Holy Spirit in power.

Psalm 36:10—life flows out from God.

Genesis 1:1, 2—the Spirit had work in creation. "Moved" is given in the Revised Version margin as "was brooding" upon, as a hen broods upon her eggs and hatches them.

Psalm 33:6—"breath" is "Spirit" in Hebrew.

Genesis 2:7 (cf. Job 12:10)—from the Spirit all creature life continually flows.

(e). Jesus performed His miracles of healing and did all His work in the power of the Holy Spirit.

Matt. 3:16—at the beginning of His ministry He was, in a special way, filled with the Spirit.

Luke 4:1-14—His period of temptation was endured in the power of the Holy Spirit.

John 3:34—the Spirit was not given Him by measure.

Acts 1:2—He gave His commands in the power of the Spirit.

Acts 10:38—direct declaration that He healed in the power of the Spirit.

Remember that He is the Head of the Church which is represented by the elders in this ordinance.

SUMMARY:

1. This anointing is a sacramental and not a medicinal application of the oil.
2. The oil is a Scriptural symbol of the Holy Spirit.
3. The anointing with oil symbolizes the coming of the Holy Spirit, who is the life principle of the earth and in whose power Jesus healed, upon the sick person in healing power.

4. This is to be done "in the name of the Lord." The Lord's name is used as the vehicle of healing power.

—Acts 3:6; 9:34; 16:18—"In the name of the Lord" signifies "in the authority given by the Lord." Comparable with the well-known phrase, "in the name of the law."

5. Prayer will be considered below. Suffice it to say that all believers recognize the value and power of prayer.

III. RESTORATION. "And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord will raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him."

In sickness, let the sick man inform the elders of the church. Let them, representing the congregation of the faithful, pray over the sick man, accompanying that prayer with the symbolic and sacramental act of anointing with oil in the name of the Lord. Then, the prayer of faith shall save (heal) the sick man, and the Lord shall bring him up out of his sickness; and even if it were occasioned by some sin, that sin shall be forgiven him. Such is the simple and undeniable sense of James.

1. "The prayer of faith."—James 5:13-18 is an argument for the efficacy of prayer in all kinds of afflictions. One special instance is given, that of one sick. One example of this efficacy is given, that of Elijah. For the sick believer, prayer and oil are to be used together.
2. "Shall save the sick."—Souls are saved by the blood of Christ, not by anointing oil. James used "save" in the sense of "heal" as is often true in the Gospels. See Matt. 9:21, 22; Mark 5:23; 6:56, etc., where the same word that James uses occurs. James is talking about sick Christians who are already saved in the Lord.
3. But not all who have been anointed and prayed over live—WHY? If all would live, death could be entirely prevented and that is not possible under this dispensation.

We may only conjecture as to the answer and dare not speak with too much finality, for we cannot see behind the veil. Even Paul, when he prayed to have the "thorn" removed, was denied—2 Cor. 12:8-10. Some one says, "The very essence of prayer is acquiescence in the will of God." Paul did that. It would be presumptuous for us to say that the great apostle did not pray the "prayer of faith."

James says, "and if he shall have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him." This seems to be the force of his words, "And even if he be in a state of having committed sins, i. e., abiding under the consequence of some commission of sin, it shall be forgiven him." It is not taught here that this certain sickness is necessarily the result of having committed particular sin. Disease is the result of the fall of man, and a righteous man may be sick because of imperfection of the body. But the illness may be the direct result of disobedience to God. Compare John 5:14. Perhaps all those who are suffering as a direct result of sins are healed and raised when they follow James' instructions. But let us not understand that all who are healed following the anointing service have been sick because of sins committed. As in the case of Paul, God may have a gracious purpose in not restoring one to health.

Although we cannot certainly answer this question, the believer, the child of God, will derive a great comfort from having placed himself in the hands of his kind Heavenly Father by means of this sacred ordinance of the anointing with oil.

NOTE: The ordinance of anointing does not preclude the calling of a physician. James no place in these instructions, implies that we are not to use every means at hand to bring about our recovery. In fact, when he says that the sick person shall take the initiative in calling for the representatives of the church, he suggests that the sick shall do his utmost for his healing.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NEWS FROM BERLIN, PA.

THE BERLIN Brethren Young People's Christian Endeavor has reached some of its goals. We have made our goal of ten per cent increase in membership. The officers are:

- AdvisorMiss Geneva Altfather
- PresidentBetty Pritts
- Vice-PresidentLois Walker
- Secretary-TreasurerGaye Pritts

We change program committee personnel every three months.

On November 21 Rev. Percy Miller made a talk to the society on the subject of "Stewardship."

Each member of the C. E. has received a name from our Kentucky mission. The members each sent a Christmas gift for one person. We did this instead of exchanging names in the society.

We had a Progressive Party on November 26th. We started out at the President's home and went to the Advisor's home; from the Advisor's home to one of the member's home; then to the Vice-President's home and from there to the church. At each home a game was played and refreshments were served. The theme was an Indian Party. The thought was of Thanksgiving. At the close of the party the reading, "Thanksgiving Through Thanks-Living," was given by Dolores Mosgrave. We closed with the song, "Count Your Many Blessings." There were eighteen at the party. We had three visitors from Johnstown.

We are now getting the Brethren Youth Magazine, and The Brethren Evangelist.

We gave the play, "The Lord's Acre," at the Brethren Youth Rally in Johnstown. We also gave it at Meyersdale.

We have given money for missions and for the Thanksgiving offering.

Travel Flashes

Dr. Charles A. Bame

In The Fog

We live ten miles from our church. We are in the Wabash Valley and our church nearer the Mississinewa, a more famous tributary. It is in the territory of this river, famous as the roaming ground of the first white child (Francis Slocum) in the Northwest Territory, carried away from her family in New York; lost for many years, and then found by her brothers who were amazed to find her so orientated to her Indian family and religion and customs that she remained true to her Indian environments rather than try to readjust himself to what we call civilization. (But is it?) It may be, but unless we can find a better way to live in the new world created by modern inventions and warfare, we may need to write a new definition to that word.

Out of the Fog?

No, not yet—maybe in deeper. For, what has that all to do with fog? Well, in between these two rivers, we do have fog. Several kinds. Of some kinds I shall try to write. It is the Sunday before what will be Christmas Sunday, even though we did have our Christmas Party at the church on December eleventh, Christmas DAY is a thing of the past. Store-keepers did not wait until after Thanksgiving this year to get out their Christmas novelties and nonentities. Christmas Day as a Day has ceased to exist and now it is a whole season of just about a month. Already, the post-office had warned that after the twelfth of the Christmas month, there could be no assurance of pre-Christmas delivery of things mailed! What a "mess" prosperity makes of things! What a fog is that!

No Church Tonight

I had such instructions from our Moderator who lives near the church. Between these famous rivers, I believe we have more than the usual rainfall, moisture and fog. The Sunday Night Service is less a problem in the per-centum of attendance than in the cities, since most of the BIG churches have had to vacate for the movies. The small sects, not having worshipped crowds, nor allowed the ungodliness of diluted Christianity to overcome them can still get enough folk to come to get some spiritual help and inspiration. But our people recently voted to continue the evening service save on impossible nights—when it is too foggy for safe driving and when it goes below zero. For good or ill, it seemed wise rather to do this than to vacate entirely (like the others do) or to endanger lives by being unable to "see more than 20 feet ahead," as the Moderator said it was on that night, having just made the trip from Wabash to his home near the church. It was kind of him for we would not have been aware of it amid the city lights and a full moon, shining! (Believe it or not).

Other Fogs

It may be said that this fog made the service that night, quite impossible for us. And I presume that the good Lord will take that into account in the Day of Rewards; but there are fogs which we well know He will not excuse. There are so many things of which we may be sure, if we are informed and instructed in the Word of God, for which foggiess will never be excusable; for "all that are in their graves shall come forth, they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life, and they that have done evil unto the resurrection of judgment. John 5:28, 29. There is no foggiess in the revelation in God's Word; it is our ignorance of it and our inexcusable willingness to have it so, that puts us and keeps us into the fog concerning what is right and what is wrong.

Get Out of the Fog

There is no excuse for ignorance in America—at least any Brethren folk I know, and I have been in almost every congregation. Ignorance is excusable only when knowledge is impossible. Morons, and imbeciles will receive all the mercy a gracious God can give; but if professed Christians wish to fog themselves up with the education (?) of the movies and taverns and the slushy rot of such that comes into our homes through the radio; if they do that (as many do) and avoid and shun the knowledge many pastors are, with aching hearts, wishing and ready to offer, who can expect that even a gracious God will excuse that? If the good fellowship of the pastor and brethren are refused, avoided, eluded or eschewed, and the company of the wild, licentious, frivolous, trifling, petty, often filthy guffaws of the unregenerate chosen, even on Sunday, then we know by Sodom and Gomorrah, Babylon and Nineveh, even Jerusalem, God's future ruling city, what will happen to Hollywood, Los Angeles, New York, Chicago and all the rest—even to the smallest of them?

Need A Fog Lamp?

A fog lamp is of some assistance; but not assurance. We need more than that. To get out and keep out of the moral sloppiness of modern life is the best country in the world, we need more and more, the Lamp of God's Word, rather than less and less. Psalm 119:105. Twenty-five times in the Book of Exodus it is said, "Ye shall know the Lord." At least 12 times Paul asks the divided, quarreling Corinthian church, "Know ye not?"

The Clear Sky

There are so many things we may know, escaping horrowing and inexcusable ignorance (Rom. 2:1-6), which oh, so many account irrelevant by all we can see and know, that we'd better try getting out of the fog into the clear sky. Stop the mad rush for material things and re-evaluate the spiritual. Try getting the only real and abiding knowledge extant, God's message to man. Once it was said, "they that sit in darkness have seen a great light"; now it would seem that "they that sit in darkness, love it and revel in it—and sure as day is light, play the Devil in it."

What We Can Know

Jesus said, "If any one is willing to do his will he shall know." John 7:17. And Paul wrote, "We know that the whole creation" groans and travails "for the redemption of our bodies." Rom. 8:22. And, "We know that all things work together for good to them that Love the Lord." Rom. 8:28. Also, "We know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle is destroyed, we have a building of God." 2 Cor. 5:11.

John says, "We know it is the last time," and that "we are in him." 1 John 2:18. Yet again, "We know that we shall be like him," same chapter. "We know that we have passed from death unto life." 1 John 3:14, and that "we have the petitions we desire of him." 5:15; also that "We know that we are born of God." 5:19. Best of all: "We know that he was manifested to take away sin and in him is no sin." 3:5.

But why more? Look into it in your own concordance and discover more. Let us conclude this "foggy" article with the admonition of our "Master," who on the last night of His life said: If ye know these things . . . happy are ye if ye do them." John 13:17. Let us get out of the fog and into the brilliant, glowing light of the glorious gospel of the son of God.

Young Men and Boys' Brotherhood

Monthly Devotional Lesson

- 1. Scripture Order
- 2. Prayer Circle
- 3. Scripture: 1 Samuel 3:1-20
- 4. Lesson: "The Boy Is Father of the Man"

CAN YOU EXPLAIN our lesson title? It is like the proverb: "As the twig is bent, the tree is inclined." You may have heard it said of a boy of good promise, "You will hear of him some day." This was true of a boy who grew up to be a true man. He was Samuel of whom the Scripture says he "was established to be a prophet of the Lord."

Samuel means "asked of God," for he was in answer to his mother's prayer. He was true to his mother's training and prayers. More than half of what parents ever do for a child is done by them for the child by the age of three. Samuel may have been anywhere from three to seven years of age when his mother "lent him unto the Lord" to serve in God's house. This was a great sacrifice for a loving mother. But Hannah loved God. It is like missionaries leaving their children in the homeland to be trained there, while they are in foreign service. Those who love the Lord more than their children or parents, love their "loved ones" more because they love the Lord. The Lord takes care of such "loved ones" because they place them in His hands while they are in His service.

God deals with every boy as he starts on the road to manhood. God calls the soul to salvation and then to Christian service. Eli, the priest, was attended by Samuel. Eli had bad boys, but Samuel refused to be led astray by them. God called Samuel to reprove Eli for not punishing his wayward sons.

When God called Samuel, Samuel thought it was Eli calling him. Samuel did not mind getting out of bed as some boys do. He was prompt and ready for service. He had the "Here-am-I" spirit. He was eager to serve when he heard the calling voice. How much better that is than murmuring, sulking, and arguing.

A little child once wished he were a painter so he could help God paint the beautiful sunset. God does not need that kind of help from us. But with our willingness and co-operation our lives may be made to conform to the beauty of all His works by our being led and molded by His Spirit. God can make a Christian life more beautiful than the sunset He paints, if we are God-controlled.

Eli knew that God had caused a boy to bring him a rebuking message. Poor Eli was made to suffer for his weakness as a father. He had no right to be easy with his sons. He thought he was good to them, but he let them go into the depths of sin. If our parents really love us they will even severely punish us to keep us out of sin.

God called Samuel by name. Does He know your name? Who taught us that even the hairs of our heads are numbered? Why did He so teach us?

Samuel served the Lord when but a boy. His readiness for every boyhood task and duty trained him for becoming the last and best of the judges, and the first and among the best of the prophets in Israel.

"Wanted! Young feet to follow
Where Jesus leads the way,
Into the fields where harvest
Is rip'ning day by day;
Now while the breath of morning
Scents all the dewy air,
Now, in the fresh, sweet dawning,
O follow Jesus there!"

The New Water Cooler Delivered

At long last the New Electric Water Cooler, so kindly purchased with the money given by the National Woman's Missionary Society, has been delivered. While it is not connected as yet, the shop force want to send out a fervent "Thank You" to these good women. Coming, as the water does, right past the furnace, without refrigeration it is very unpleasantly warm, and must be run off for a considerable length of time before it is fit to drink. Through the new cooler there will be a welcome change. It will be of as much value to us in winter, therefore, as it will be in summer when the water is just naturally warm. We trust that it will soon be in operation.

"LET GOD SPEAK—THROUGH A UNITED CHURCH"

Scripture: 1 Cor. 12:4-14

For The Leader

THIS IS THE SUNDAY in which we observe the founding of Christian Endeavor. It was the year 1881 that saw the first C. E. Society. Since that time it has become a factor in the training of countless church leaders throughout the world. Today we are thinking in terms of a united Church. We well remember the old story of a man with many sons who sought to impress on them the necessity of sticking together, and asked each son in turn to break the bundle. All failed to do it. Then, separating the sticks from the bundle, he asked his sons to break them. The sticks were easily broken. The moral is, stick together, and you will be strong, and cannot be broken. Protestantism has lost much through its lack of united composition. There are factors which have caused this breakdown of union effort. To get a fair picture, we must consider many angles.

DISCUSSION

1. A UNITED CHURCH EFFORT IS IDEAL. Everywhere you go, you will see something which the past generation saw little of. That thing is church cooperation. We well remember the story from Noah's ark of the cross-roads churches: One singing, "Will There Be Any Stars In My Crown?" On another corner a church was singing, "No Not One." The third was singing, "That Will Be Glory For Me." Today, churches are at least engaged in united efforts for right and Christ in the community. This is fine provided it is a mutual cooperation without one church seeking to be dictatorial over the others in the community. It is fortunate that our community churches can work together in this way.
2. YET THERE IS A DANGER. This danger goes farther than just earthly principles of operation. It reverts back to scriptural truth. God has always purged His evangelization body, the visible church, from the things which would destroy its message and mission. Divisions have often served to separate an indifferent group from an active, gospel preaching group. (The merits of these, if any, must often be doubted in the long run.) But it is the case, and as long as Christendom flourishes upon the earth, these will take place. Thus Christianity is divided into two camps, those who seek to honor Christ and preach His word, and those who in thought and act, seek to deny part of the Bible, declare parts of it as not for this age, or seek to preach a gospel which is not scriptural. It is dangerous for us to unite with such, lest our own testimony be destroyed.
3. MANY MEMBERS AND ONE BODY. Regardless of union efforts, or not, we are still a part of the great effort of Christianity. Each in our own individual way, doing our own individual job as a Church and as a Christian. The sum total of our efforts is a work which must be reckoned with in the world. Let no person fool you. The Church has been the one force for righteousness and law that this world knows about. Speak to your law enforcement officials, and they will tell you what the lack of Sunday School and Church training is doing to our boys and girls. Your laws stem from the tenets of the Christian faith. The church stands for righteousness, law, order, decency. We, in our own individual ways, must uphold these principles of conduct that our nation and government might be preserved.

3. WHICH WAY ARE YOU LEANING? It should not be necessary for us to ask such a question. But because it is such a real problem today, we must. Doesn't it occur to you that when we pledge ourselves to follow Christ and serve in His Church, that it should be 100%? Yet how often we have to keep encouraging people, visiting them to get them out of the "miff tree" (cold up there). We have to put on special incentives and contests to get people to come to church. We have to listen to their excuses, (no reasons) as to why they do not come to church. Others then, bless them, lean so far into the work that they are always loyal, faithful, dependable and willing. Are you the kind of a person that must always be tugged at to come to church, or can your Pastor class you among the ones whose loyalty is never in question?

4. A COCK-EYED SITUATION. Speaking of pillars in a church, did you ever think what kind of a church building would result if our spiritual lives and attitudes constituted the physical properties of the building? This leaning, for instance. Picture the faithful who stand straight, strong and solid. Then picture the ones leaning as far out of plumb as they can. Picture the missing pillars. Picture those who have crumbled in the dust of their spiritual lives. Picture those who creak and groan when asked to serve or give. Then wonder how we get anything at all done in our churches. We once saw a building which looked pretty tottery. But one who knew told us it was very safe. And he pointed out that in the places where the strain and weight were greatest, the strongest pillars were located. Thus the building stood. Are you a strong, loyal pillar, that you can be used where the work is hardest? It's a good thing to think about on this anniversary of Christian Endeavor.

HIGHER THINGS

I thought I needed earthly things
That worldly eyes adore,
Until the day when I confessed
I needed Jesus more!

I thought I needed earthly fame
And compliments galore,
Until the sound of Jesus' Name
Could satisfy me more!

I thought I needed earthly friends
To linger by the door;
But now I know that Heaven sends Kind souls who love Him more.

All else is unimportant here
Nor gold nor earthly things,
If I can have my Saviour near
My heart to Heaven sings!

CHRISTIAN JOY VERSUS SELFISH PLEASURE

Scriptures: Psa. 16:11; 35:9; 43:4; Neh. 8:10; Isa. 12:3; 61:10; John 15:11; 16:24; Rom. 14:17; Phil. 4:4; James 1:2; 1 Peter 1:8; 1 John 1:4; Jude 24, 25

Hymn: "Earthly Pleasures Vainly Called Me"; "O Say, But I'm Glad."

Prayers of Gratitude

Seed Thought Provokers:

GOD SAYS people who live in pleasure are dead while they live (1 Tim. 5:6). Moses knew that pleasures are but for a season (Heb. 11:25). The vanity of human courses in the works of pleasure are listed in Eccl. 2:1-11. Pleasure leads to poverty of the pocket book (Prov. 21:17), and of the soul (Eccl. 12:1). It leads to fear (Isa. 21:4), and to judgment (James 5:1, 5). The boundary line of pleasure is set in 1 John 2:16.

The secret of happiness is "to glorify God and to enjoy Him forever." Consider Scriptural reasons for Christian joy: redemption through the blood of Christ (Eph. 1:7; Rom. 5:1); personal salvation from sin by the grace of God through faith in Christ (Eph. 2:8, 9); the new birth by the Spirit of God (John 3:3, 5, 7); personal experience (Gal. 2:20); divine ownership (1 Cor. 6:19, 20). Yieldedness to God (Rom. 6:13; 12:1, 2); the lordship of Jesus by the Holy Spirit (1 Cor. 12:3); the Spirit-filled life (Eph. 5:18); bearing the fruit of the Spirit (Gal. 5:22, 23); assurance of success in Christian life and service (2 Cor. 9:8); victory over sin, death and Hell (1 Cor. 15:57; Rev. 21:1-7).

Pleasure is for today; joy knows a tomorrow. Pleasure pleases; joy satisfies. Pleasure shines in; joy shines out.

Pleasure has an end; joy remains. Pleasure sours; joy stays sweet. Pleasure is earthly; joy is Heavenly. Pleasure glorifies self; joy glorifies God. Pleasure weakens; joy strengthens. Pleasure wastes; joy feeds. Selfish pleasure leads to hatred; joy is the result of love.

Of pleasure the weak and compromising Christian says, "I see no harm in it." The stalwart saint says, "I see no good in it!" Judge doubtful indulgences in the light of 1 Cor. 10:30-33. We are not to behold vanity (Psa. 119:37). We are to glory in the Cross that has crucified us to the world (Gal. 6:14). Second Timothy 3:1-5 gives the Bible view of those who live in pleasure. Anything that antagonizes Christ and the gospel the Christian will joyfully avoid (James 4:4).

Pray for those who should not be enslaved to the world.

THE TEACHING MISSION OF JESUS

Lesson: Mark 1:14-15, 32-39; Luke 4:16-21

SOMETIMES we have difficulty in putting our finger upon the center of the lesson. But in this lesson, which deals with the teaching mission of Jesus, it seems to the writer that that which was the impelling force in the ministry of Jesus is found in Mark 1:35 where Mark reports the early morning activities of the Master. He says, "And in the morning rising up a great while before day, he (Jesus) went out, and departed into a solitary place, and there prayed." The last three words, thus quoted, really tell the story—He came to bring God's message to men, direct from Him.

Dealing, as this lesson does, with the teaching mission of Jesus, we turn our thoughts, first of all, to the reason for Jesus coming into the world, and second, to the things which He taught.

With regard to the first, we realize that, in the words of Jesus, He "came to reveal the Father" unto His followers. His words to Philip's appeal, "Show us the Father and it sufficeth us" are the evidence of this. He said in answer, "... he that hath seen me hath seen the Father." (John 14:8, 9) The fact is further substantiated by Jesus' word in Matthew 11:27, where He says, "... neither knoweth any man the Father, save the Son, and he to whomsoever the Son will reveal him." So, in this revelation of the Father we find the reason for much of the teaching ministry of Jesus.

This leads us to our second thought—what was it that Jesus taught? In the closing words of Jesus as He was about to ascend to the Father, having completed His task here on earth, (words found in Matthew 28:18-20) we find one part of this command of Jesus (which we call "The Great Commission") contains the words, "teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you ..." or as might well be said, "whatsoever I have told you to do," or "of which I have taught you the meaning." In other words, He wanted His disciples to continue to "teach" the things He had "taught" them.

We can get a pretty good summary of what Jesus taught by turning to John, Chapters 13 to 17. We would suggest that this particular portion of the scripture be carefully re-read with a view of gleaning the important things that Jesus was to leave with His disciples.

Throughout His earthly ministry, which only lasted for three and one-half years, Jesus taught as much by what He did as by what he said. We find Him putting words into actions. We see this exemplified in the story of the curing of the paralytic borne of four and let down through the roof to Jesus. (Mark 2:1-12) Note the first words of Jesus to the sick man, "Son thy sins be forgiven thee." This evokes the question in the minds of the scribes, "Who can forgive sins but God only?" Note Jesus' answer, "Which is easier to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee, or, rise up and walk?" Then He puts His teaching, (the matter of forgiveness of sin) into action and says to them, "But that ye (the scribes) may know that the Son of man hath power on earth to forgive sins," and then He turns His word to the palsied man, "I say unto you, Arise, and take up thy bed, and go into thine house." The result? Immediate action and healing. And thus He taught as He ministered. There are many more such illustrations.

The force of Jesus' message is set forth in the second verse of our printed text: "... the time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe the Gospel." That message has not changed! It never will change! No real preacher dares preach any other message! The Gospel? It is set forth in John 3:16.

Mark 1:22 tells why His message carried the weight it did—"... he taught them as one who had authority, and not as the scribes." His message was directly from God.

The Luke passage in our lesson tells us what the content of His message was: gospel to the poor; broken hearts healed; captives delivered; eyes opened for the blind; captives liberated; the acceptable year of the Lord preached. That's His message for us today and every day until He comes for His own which coming will fulfill the cause for which He came the first time.

NEWS FROM OUR CHURCHES

VALLEY AND MT. PLEASANT, PENNSYLVANIA

The Valley Church, Jones Mills

On November 28, 1948 we brought to a close our work with the Valley Brethren folks of Jones Mills, Pennsylvania. This was indeed three and one-half years well spent in the Lord's work that will not soon be forgotten, having made many friends both in and out of the church. I must say that I never have, and doubt if I ever will, live in a community where I will be received by members of other churches as I was received here. However, this was probably due to the writer's organizing what we called the "United Young People's Rally," which was made up of all the churches of the community, with a service held in a different church each Thursday night, a service which consisted of the singing of hymns and choruses, after which the message was brought by some outside speaker. (Someone outside the community.) It was our aim to have a different speaker each Thursday evening. The people of our Valley church manifested the old Brethren spirit of generosity, bestowing gifts upon us, too numerous to mention, from time to time.

About a year and a half ago a project was started by the young people's class to redecorate the interior of the church building. We are happy to report that this project was completed and a re-dedication service conducted on November 14th, before our departure. On this occasion we were happy to have as our Guest Speaker, Rev. Percy C. Miller, pastor of our Berlin, Pennsylvania, Brethren Church.

Mt. Pleasant Church

We also are happy to report that from June 8, 1947 we served the Mt. Pleasant, Pennsylvania, Brethren Church. Here we found a very loyal group of folks, even though they are small in number, they are desirous of seeing their church stay on top. Here, too, we made friends that shall long be remembered. From these Brethren also came many gifts that were deeply appreciated by both pastor and family.

Farewell Party

These two churches sponsored a farewell party in the Donegal Grange Hall, to which all the other churches of the community were invited, and to which invitation some of all the other churches responded. On this occasion the Valley Church presented us with a set of dishes, service for eight, while the Mt. Pleasant Church presented us with a set of Club Aluminum Cookware. The Methodist Church gave us an all-purpose serving tray. Then, too, we received some personal gifts from friends in the church and community, such as, a chenille bed spread, bed blanket, towel set, and some gifts of cash.

We take this means of thanking these churches for the fine spirit of thoughtfulness towards us during our stay in their midst, and upon leaving them. We pray God's richest blessings on them and that He will soon send forth a shepherd to care for them. Thanks Brethren, for everything.

H. R. Garland.

FALLS CITY, NEBRASKA

Three months have passed since Rev. H. E. Eppley was installed as pastor of the First Brethren Church of Falls City, Nebraska.

On November 5, Rev. Cecil Johnson and family returned to Falls City for the wedding of their daughter, Gertrude, to Gerald Wissinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wissinger of Falls City. Rev. Johnson, assisted by Tommy Shannon, performed the ceremony. A reception followed at the church.

Rev. Eppley began a two weeks revival meeting on November 4th. From this meeting eight were baptized on December 19th. Six others are waiting for the consent of parents to also be baptized.

On December 19th the children and young people put on a fine Christmas program. The White Gift Offering was presented at the same time.

On January 2nd we had the pleasure of having Dr. L. E. Lindower and Spencer Gentle of Ashland, Ohio with us. They led a Sunday School Institute which was most helpful to all of us. Any one desiring help in Sunday School work can have it by calling on these two men. They know their Word and know how to present it.

Our advanced Teacher's Training Class expects to start their lessons as soon as the books arrive. We plan to be a growing church through the year of 1949.

REVIVAL AND OTHER INTERESTS AT LOST CREEK

All the workers are very busy here at Riverside. There are three grade school teachers and eight in the High School. Here is a tentative daily schedule. At 6:15 A. M. the teachers and workers meet in Brother Drushal's home for prayer six days each week bringing before the Lord the needs of the school and the problems that may arise. Breakfast is at 6:15 A. M. All assemble in the High School chapel at 8:00 o'clock for the daily chapel service. One of the teachers leads the chapel service each day. At the close of this service the grade school children go back to their building. Dinner is served at noon and school is out at 3:15 P. M. Supper is at 5:00 o'clock. Around 76 eat in the dining room each meal. Each dormitory has its own devotions at 6:15 P. M. The students assemble in the dining room at 7:00 P. M. for study, four nights each week. We need a larger library room in which to study. The prayer meeting service is at 6:30 P. M. each Wednesday evening. All the boarding students must attend. Once each week, on Friday evening, a social is held in the dining room for students who are fourteen years old and older. A new Girl's dormitory with a social room would be wonderful. Sunday School, morning worship and Christian Endeavor are held in the church chapel on Sunday. The workers go out to their various mission points (7 of them). Rev. Drushal preaches in the church chapel in the morning and in the chapel at Stacy in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Martin came in September to be on the teaching staff. Mrs. Martin taught music. Brother Martin became the school coach and field Evangelist. Rev. Drushal asked Brother Martin to hold the revival at the church. The revival began Sunday, October 3rd. Then Brother Martin became ill with virus pneumonia. Brother Drushal asked the writer to continue the revival beginning Thursday evening, October 7 to the 14th. During this time there were 18 first time confessions. Brother Martin finished the revival.

This is a great work. It is a land of few churches and many people who need to have a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ presented to them. School houses are used instead of churches for religious services. And now if the school houses cannot be used for this purpose after June, 1949 what will these mountain people do? Where will they worship? It seems like there is a law that will prohibit school houses being used for religious service after next June.

In one week in October, nineteen Brethren were here at Riverside. Many others have been here since then. Do plan to drive down here. The roads are most excellent and the hills are beautiful, ever changing and Riverside is only 343 miles south of Ashland, Ohio. A beautiful $45,000.00 concrete bridge crosses the Troublesome River at the entrance to the Riverside school campus. The iron bridge was swept away by a flood in 1939. The river had to be forded since that time until we drove here from Linwood, Md. We were the first to cross this fine bridge, August 17, when it was opened to the public for the first time.

There are many needs here at this Mission and we are praying that the Lord will meet every need. About the middle of October, Mrs. Keck got a 20 qt. kettle for the kitchen. The Brethren at Teegarden, Ind., got this. On October 21 we left Lost Creek for Ashland, O. We took Sister Carrie Stoffer of Haddix along. She teaches school there and wanted some of her personal things since they have their cottage (thanks to the National W. M. S. and other friends). Sister Stoffer's home is at North Georgetown, O. We stopped at 11:00 P. M. to visit some friends in Columbus, O. They have a lunch room at the corner of the Ohio University campus. We left Miss Stoffer at the Mansfield railroad station and soon were in Ashland. We were glad to be present at the inauguration of our new college president. We saw the Homecoming football game in the rain. Then on Sunday Brother and Sister W. A. Beeghley sent back with us one dozen salt and pepper sets for the dining room here. The Sisters of the W. M. S. of the Ashland Brethren church sent 35 dozen cookies for the dormitory students. And how these students did enjoy the eats. They said "Go again" to us. Since this time cookies have been received from the Brethren at North Georgetown, O.; Maurertown and Mr. Olive, Va., and Linwood, Md. The students are charged $14.00 per month for board and room and the cookies help them to have something more often for dessert.

On Sunday evening, October 24 we visited the Brethren at Pleasant Hill, O., and presented the Riverside work to them. We were well entertained by Rev. Floyd Sibert and his family and the offering took care of the expenses of our trip to Ashland. Two large skillets were also given for the kitchen at Riverside. Since that time several more have been given and now the kitchen is well supplied with skillets. In Dayton we drove past the Brethren church. We stopped and since the janitor was present we went in. It certainly is a fine church. We got Miss Stoffer at the Cincinnati bus station and continued to Lost Creek.

Mrs. Keck attended the Rally of the Southeast District which was held at the Hagerstown Brethren church, Monday, November 8th. She is the president of this district. We believed that she should attend the Rally and we do wish to thank all those who took care of the expenses of this trip.

On Friday, November 5th, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Bair of Canton, O., brought the new 14 cu. ft. Worthington refrigerator in their Dodge station wagon. This was a W. M. S. project of the Ohio District. Praise the Lord for this. It was needed so badly. So many things are needed here. Will you remember this Faith Mission in prayer? A dinner bell was placed on a pole, Monday, November 8th. Now we can hear the call for meals. Many thanks to Brother and Sister W. A. Beeghley of Ashland, O., for the bell.

On Sunday, November 7th, as I returned from the service at Howards Creek, I noticed that we have driven the car (1947 Ford) 10,000 miles since we got it March 27. Most of this has been driven for the interest of the work here at Riverside. How wonderful it is to be found doing the work of the Lord. The bus, the Dodge truck and Brother Drushal's care are constantly in service for the work here. Is there a need for Christian work here?

Three of our dormitory boys have Christian parents; 6 one Christian parent; 20 No Christian parents. Thus you can see the great need of Christ in the hearts of these people. Pray for these mountain folk.

Elmer M. Keck.

FREMONT, OHIO

The following report is rather a lengthy one and yet we wish to make known to our many brothers and sisters in the Lord the progress here in the Fremont First Brethren Church.

On Sunday, October 24, ten souls came forward and confessed Jesus Christ as their Lord and Saviour. Four of them were adults.

During the evening service these ten were baptized and it certainly was an inspiring sight and our souls were certainly blessed. The services went off with perfect peace and they all said that they had received a blessing in it.

The following Sunday, October 31, the above ten souls entered into the Laying-on-of-hands service, and received the right hand of fellowship of the church. Those received into church fellowship were: adults—Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Booze, Miss Pauline Miller and Miss Betty Miller; children were—Helen, Janet, Clyde, Jr., and Margaret Booze, Paul and George, Jr. Hagenbuck. We praise the Lord for these souls, this day and every day.

During the two weeks prior to our Homecoming Day most of the young people of our church got busy and redecorated the basement and the kitchen of the church. The results are really beautiful and inspiring, and our many thanks go out to all those who have helped in this fine and splendid work.

On November 7, we observed Homecoming Day. The attendance was very good, the blessings were many, and the fellowship was a delight to our hearts. The speaker of the day was Dr. Glenn L. Clayton, President of Ashland College. He delivered a fine, inspiring message in our morning service. The folks were really blessed with the message and also with the fact that our College has a spiritual man such as Dr. Clayton at its head. New hymn books were dedicated and sung from for the first time at this service.

Miss Julia Naugle played two numbers for us on her accordion—"The Old Rugged Cross," and "In the Garden." Mrs. Glenn Clayton sang, "No One Ever Cared For Me Like Jesus," a song from our new hymnals. Dr. Clayton spoke on the "Dynamics of Faith." Mrs. Susan Metzgar, a former member of our church was received back into fellowship with us during the morning service. Sister Metzgar was a member of our former Fostoria church, and since that church has been disbanded, she has had no home church until she was received back with us. We are very anxious to obtain the names and addresses of any of those who were former members of the Fostoria Church in the hope that such can be reclaimed for our church. If you know of such or have this information, please write me here at Fremont.

After the morning service a dinner was enjoyed by seventy-four of our members and friends in the newly redecorated basement. The menu was meat loaf and scalloped potatoes, with the extras. It was a carry-in dinner and was excellent. Two of our members also celebrated their birthdays at this dinner—Brother W. R. Fellers and George Hagenbuck, Jr. Two beautiful and delicious cakes graced the tables in honor of the occasion.

The afternoon service was well attended. A number of our brothers and sisters from Bryan, Ohio, were with us in the afternoon. The singing was under the direction of Brother Charles Hineman of Bryan. Miss Gladys Hineman acted as pianist. The Bryan Laymen's Quartet composed of John Farlow, Robert Perkins, Rollin Scott and Mr. Hineman sang, "I Want My Life to Tell For Jesus," and "Wandering Child, O Come Home." Brother Hineman gave us a very fine solo, for he sang, "The Holy City."

Dr. Clayton spoke in the afternoon on the words of God from Jeremiah 2:11, using this as a basis for his message, and it was very fine and inspiring. Since the afternoon service was the opening service of the Revival, the message centered on that theme of "The Glory of the Lord."

Our Revival and Evangelistic services were held nightly except Saturdays from November 8 through the 21st. The evangelist was Rev. S. E. Christiansen of Georgetown Delaware. Both Brother and Sister Christiansen arrived here Monday afternoon after a tiresome trip from their home in Delaware.

Rev. Christiansen is a very capable evangelist and has been used much of the Lord here in Fremont. Each evening instructive and enlightening information was given the people on "Dispensational Truths" from a chart which was hanging on the platform. His messages were elevating and convincing and especially convicting. Although there were only two who made public confessions and one who reconsecrated her life to the Lord, we will never know how far reaching was the effectiveness of the Word of God. There were a number of folks under convictions, but they would not yield unto the will of the Lord.

Sister Christiansen did much to aid in the services. She added much in the way of singing, doing solo work and assisting in duet numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Hagenbuck, who also aided her in singing. Special music by members of the church and Sunday School and outside groups did much to add to the meetings. Group singing of choruses and hymns was led by the pastor. The attendance was very encouraging, our average attendance for the two weeks being thirty-five. This, we are told, has surpassed the attendance of many previous revival services in this church.

On Wednesday evening, November 24, the pastor spoke at a joint Thanksgiving Service in the city; six other churches aided in promoting the service.

On Sunday, November 28, Mrs. Katie Jenkins and Mr. Floyd Kinsey enjoyed the rites of Holy Baptism by Triune Immersion. These two people had accepted the Lord during the Revival and publicly confessed the Lord on the closing night of the services. They were received by the laying on of hands on Sunday, December 5th.

On the evening of December 5th we held our Love Feast and Holy Communion. Twenty-five attended, but we had anticipated forty; yet because of so much illness the number was not as great as expected. The complete service was held by candle-light. It was impressive and the presence of God was certainly felt, recalling to our minds the first service conducted by the Master Himself. Several came from a distance to partake of this service, the Smiths and Mrs. Campbell of Inkster, Michigan, motoring home after the service. If those who love the Lord are able to travel that far, don't you think some of us who live close, should be anxious to attend more services of our churches?

I have been deeply blessed and encouraged to go on to greater service here in Fremont, especially since recalling to my mind all that the Lord has done for us since coming here. I trust that you shall also receive a blessing from the Lord as you read this report, for in a way you, too, may have been working here in Fremont by means of your giving to the District and National Mission work of our Church.

I also wish to thank publicly the members of the Mt. Olivet Brethren Church in Georgetown, Delaware, in being kind and considerate in permitting Rev. and Mrs. Christiansen to be with us for the services in November. This is also the sentiment of the members of the church.

George S. Hagenbuck, pastor.

INTERESTING ITEMS

Gratis, Ohio. We learn from Brother W. S. Crick's bulletin of January 9th, that in a recent meeting of the official board of the church a committee composed of Woodrow W. Essig, Robert L. Zimmerman and Norman D. Michael was appointed to solicit bids for the re-decorating of the interior of the Gratis church house. The impulse for this project came some time ago and the money to do the work has been gradually accumulating until at last they are ready to proceed with the task.

Berlin, Pennsylvania. Brother Percy C. Miller, pastor of the Berlin church, says that the two auxiliaries of the church have made contributions toward the purchase of an electric dish-washer for the Brethren Home in Flora, Indiana.

St. James, Maryland. We learn from the St. James bulletin that the Woman's Missionary Society held an All-Day meeting in the church on January 19th, with Mrs. James Norris in charge of the morning program and Mrs. David Poole of the afternoon session, at which time she gave the Mission study. At noon a covered dish dinner was served. The offering taken was for the Haddix, Kentucky, Cottage Fund.

We note also that the project of the St. James Layman, namely, the putting up of a garage at the parsonage, is progressing in fine shape, the walls having been laid and the work ready for the carpenters.

Evangelistic services of one week have been scheduled for the week of February 27th, with Brother James Ault, pastor of the Hagerstown Brethren Church as the evangelist.

Loree, Indiana. Brother Robert Higgins, pastor of the Loree Church, says that the "pews" of the church have been given a "new complexion," this being done by concerted effort of many of the members of the church. He also says that the floor is being refinished, some of the pews repaired and returned to place. This completes the renovation of the auditorium which has been done by volunteer labor.

Stockton, California. We learn that Brother Charles Johnson, recently installed as pastor of the Stockton Church, has purchased a home in that city the address of which is 26 West 4th Street, and that they are busy getting it in shape to move about February 1st. So after that time Brother Johnson's address in the Conference Annual should bear that new street and house number.

Ohio "Valley" Laymen Meet. We note that a meeting of the Ohio Valley Laymen was scheduled for January 17th at our New Lebanon Church. Mr. Harold Bayless of General Motors was the speaker, using as his subject, "Standing in the Gap." It was a dinner meeting.

Nappanee, Indiana. We glean from Brother Milton Bowman's bulletin of January 16th that Revival meetings are scheduled to begin at the Nappanee Church on January 31st, continuing through February 13th. The evangelist will be Brother C. A. Stewart, pastor of our New Paris, Indiana, Church.

Elkhart, Indiana. We quote from a letter just received from Brother L. V. King, pastor of our Elkhart Church: "We had a wonderful service Sunday (January 9). Baptized four Juniors, three boys and one girl. Had 377 for Bible School, 300 for morning service and 100 for evening. It was just a regular service without any special occasion. Things are looking up and encouraging . . . January is Membership Month with a goal of an increase each Sunday of the month, and the final big Red Letter Day the last Sunday which will be known as Membership Sunday, when we will try to get every member present. It will also be Cash Daay."

Elkhart has set the date for their Evangelistic meetings as February 7 to 20, with Rev. W. C. Berkshire of New Lebanon, as evangelist.

Masontown, Pennsylvania. Plans have been completed for the Woman's Missionary Society Public Service in the Masontown Church. It is being held on Sunday morning January 30th. We note also that the W. M. S. is sponsoring a service by an Ashland College Gospel Team, which will be held on Easter Sunday, April 17th. Services are also being scheduled by this team for the previous Friday and Saturday nights.

Brother Ankrum's bulletins bear a new dress in that a picture of both the church and the adjoining new parsonage graces the front page.

Oakville, Indiana. Beginning the first Sunday in February all the boys and girls below high school age will gather in the church basement to hold their own opening exercises. A program is being arranged that will be of especial interest to the young folks. Mrs. Henry Bates, wife of the pastor, is supervising this new departure for the church until some one else can be prepared to carry on. This is being done to make the services attractive, not alone to those already in attendance, but also to attract those of the community.

BUT THE LORD WAS BRIEF

IN MY READING, recently, I came across a thought provoking five paragraphs that I want you to read with me. The little article is titled, "They Buried a Brewer." It follows:

"Columns filled the paper. Throngs filled the streets. Ecclesiastics crowded the sanctuary. Politicians and townsmen of high and low degree had their calls of condolence properly inscribed in the news of the day. It was like the death of Dives. Everyone was there but Lazarus. He had died of his sores.

"If fifteen thousand attended the funeral, there was an even larger company that did not arrive. Many of this large crowd were already dead of alcoholism. Some were murdered by people inflamed by drink. Some were in asylums, driven there by the madness brought on by drink. Some, not dead, were too sick to come.

"On hospital beds, with various and loathsome diseases, they heard the name of the great brewer, but their thoughts about him and his product were not laudatory, and so were not printed. Other thousands missed the exercises because they were in no condition to be seen on the big avenue or in the costly cathedral. Poverty due to drink kept them from attending. It was a great affair.

"They buried the brewer. His predatory path was strewn with money. He had made sport for the people, and increased their thirst so they would buy more drink. Poor Lazarus, who lay at his gate, was dead and had been tenderly carried to Abraham's bosom. Nothing is said about his earthly obsequies, but, being a beggar, we may guess that they were short.

"Dives died also and was buried. The Lord is brief in His Word, but we may be sure that Dives had a big show, but the Lord was not interested in it, because He was not in it. His eye was on Lazarus."—The Presbyterian.

Of course, as usual, this set me to thinking!

We mean no disrespect, nor are we trying to be "funny" or sacrilegious, but by this method we are seeking to impress a few facts upon our minds.

Just suppose that some one would ask God to write a little more specifically about Dives of the scriptural story. What do you think He would say? I believe He would say, "What has been written is sufficient; it tells the whole story."

That story was brief and to the point—"The rich man died and was buried, and lifted up his eyes in hell, being in torments." What more could He say? Dives' opportunity had run out, for it was there and he failed to grasp it; therefore he had to take the consequences. The Lord never over estimates, nor under estimates any proposition. His statements in His Word are usually brief, but very comprehensive and to the point. He leaves no room for doubt. He always says what He means, and means exactly what He says. To go to great length to tell more of Dives' life story, would be but to take away the emphasis which He wanted to be expressed.

God says, "Go work in MY vineyards and in MY fields; sow wheat, not tares; gather grains not weeds of discord. The opportunity lies before you—grasp it!"

Think it over!

Returns from the Publication Day Offering to date

Ever since the first of January we have been receiving returns on our Publication Day Offering. This offering should now have been taken in practically all of our churches. We would appreciate it very much if these offerings could be sent to our office in the near future. We realize that many churches have a "waiting period" in the sending in of their offerings, in the hope that additional offerings may come. This is commendable and we would not want to "rush" any church Treasurer in sending in the amount which is the largest obtainable. But last year we received an offering in January covering the "previous" year. That seems a little too long to wait.

We express appreciation in advance for the offerings that we know will come in. Below are the ones already in our hands:

Goshen Church, Goshen, Indiana	$ 98.11
(This in accord with Goshen's quarterly budget)
Mr. W. P. Spiggle, Middleton, Virginia	2.00
Verda Hade Hess, Waynesboro, Penna.	5.00
Maggie Kring Frank, Johnstown, Pa., First	5.00
Mrs. Elbert C. Smith, Springfield, Ohio	3.00
Terra Alta Church, Terra Alta, W. Va.	18.11
Carl E. Boone, Wabash, Indiana	2.00
Laura Rager Manges, Crawfordsville, Indiana	5.00
Hazel Rodabaugh, Elizabeth, W. Va.	2.50

And now we come to the additional gifts to the Press Fund

Verda Hade Hess, Waynesboro, Penna.	$ 5.00
John I. Oberly, Wyatt, Indiana	15.00
Mrs. Maude Webb, Goshen, Indiana	100.00
Myrtle Laughlin, Hagerstown, Md.	10.00
Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hildebrand, Johnstown, Pa.	10.00

Do more than just look at the "Block"—do a little figuring. We did and we find that it only takes a little over $3,500.00 to reach our ultimate goal of $15,000.00. This ought to be easy for us to reach by General Conference time. But it should be constantly on your minds.

"The Big Fisherman"

Have you read Lloyd Douglas' latest book, "The Big Fisherman?" It deals with the life of St. Peter, and is very interesting reading. You will remember Douglas as the author of "The Robe," which was so popular and still is. We are able to supply you at the regular price of $3.75, sent to you postpaid, while our supply lasts. Remember that book rates have increased as have all other postage rates.

Is Heaven A Real, Literal Place?

Rev. Harrie C. Funderberg

Part II

I CLOSED my former article with the Christian in a blessed state. Isaiah 35:5, 6, and 10. Then after the end of the thousand years, the last sinner will be judged; the earth will be purged by fire of all the taints of sin forever, and at last the New Jerusalem will come down from God out of heaven—the “Father’s House” of many mansions. That “Tabernacle of God” and our heaven, will consist of this wonderful city on a new earth, surrounded by a new firmament. Then there will be no need for a light, because the Lord God and the Lamb shall be the light of it, and there will be no night there. Then Christ will dwell with them, and they shall be His people, and God Himself shall be with them, and be their God, and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes, and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away. Revelation 21:3, 4. (Who wouldn’t want to be there?)

Then in heaven “His servants shall serve Him, and they shall see His face, and His Name shall be in their foreheads, and there shall be no night there, and they need no candle, neither light of the sun, for the Lord God giveth them light . . . and they shall reign for ever and ever.” Revelation 22:3-5. May God make heaven real to us. It is a real place—a literal place prepared for His saints.

We must remember that Jesus went to heaven with a physical body—His body came out of Joseph’s new tomb to meet His astonished disciples who were afraid when they saw Him. Jesus said to them, “A spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see me have . . . It is myself, handle me and see.” Luke 22:39. He invited poor, doubting Thomas to “reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands, and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side, and be not faithless, but believing.” John 20:27. Later John the beloved, in writing of Him, spoke of Jesus as the One “which our hands have handled” (1 John 1:1). A long time later, when Jesus met the aged John on the “Patmos Isle” and gave him the revelation, Jesus laid his Hand His physical hand, upon the head of John. Yes, Jesus in heaven, has a physical body—a body of flesh and bones; a body of material substance. In 1 Corinthians 15:50, Paul says, “flesh and blood” could not inherit the kingdom of God. But never did he say that flesh and bone could not.

When Jesus ascended to heaven from the Mount of Olives, there stood by the disciples two men in white apparel who said, “Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? This same Jesus which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen Him go into heaven.” Acts 1:11.

Now note. They said “this same Jesus”—the Jesus in heaven is not another, but the same, the Jesus Who will return for His saints. When He comes again to Jerusalem the Jews will look on Whom they have pierced (Zech. 12:10); His feet shall stand in that day upon the Mount of Olives (Zech. 14:4). Jesus now has hands and feet, and it is not unreasonable to suggest that they are the same hands and feet, with the nail scars in them. Heaven, then, must be and surely is, a real, literal, physical place.

Enoch, in heaven, has a physical body. Enoch did not die. Enoch walked with God, and he was not; for God took him. (Genesis 5:244). In Hebrews 11:5 we are plainly told that “By faith Enoch was translated that he should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him: for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God.”

(Note: “Enoch did not die; people may have looked for his body, but it was not found, because the body was the part that was translated—the body of Enoch did not remain here. So it must still be alive today in heaven. God did not send Enoch anywhere, but rather took him to that happy homeland of God and His angels and departed saints.” Evangelist John R. Rice.)

Elijah also is in heaven, with a physical body. Of all the races of mankind there are but these two of which we have any definite knowledge of going to heaven without going through the medium of death. Then, there must be three physical bodies in heaven—Jesus, Enoch and Elijah.

History teaches us that it is at least probable, that even those that are in heaven are temporarily clothed with some kind of a physical body, awaiting the resurrection of their own bodies. However, we do know that when Moses appeared on the Mount of Transfiguration with Elijah to talk with Jesus, that he appeared visibly in the sight of the disciples. Moses who had died and his body had been buried by the angel of God (Deuteronomy 34:5, 6) appeared visibly to the disciples.

Samuel, when he was called back from the dead appeared visibly to Saul and to the witch of Endor (1 Samuel 28:12).

In hell the rich man saw Abraham and saw Lazarus in his bosom (Luke 16:23).

John saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the Word of God, and for the testimony which they held (Revelation 6:9). Even if the souls now in heaven do not have physical bodies, they surely appear visibly to men.

Again history says heaven is a real, physical place, and as literal as the city in which we live; of physical properties and dimensions, made of material substance. Heaven is real and Jesus is there preparing a real place; a real mansion for His redeemed, so that "where He is, there we may be also."

What Is Marijuana?

"Marijuana" is a Mexican nickname for the hemp-plant our forefathers, 100 years ago, raised on farms all over New York state as the raw material from which in those days hemp rope and twine were made. Long since the manufacturers of such products turned to other cheaper and better materials from Central America and the Philippines—source of "Manila" rope.

But birds and winds have scattered the seed of the hemp-plant far and wide, and four years ago it was growing as a wayside weed all over this state (New York.)

This American hemp (Cannabis Americana), is the twin of the Indian Hemp (Cannabis Indica) that, under the name of "Hashish," has been a lethal curse to the Orient for centuries.

American Hemp is the only narcotic plant, except tobacco, that grows on the North American continent. And, though our ancestors never dreamed what they were letting loose upon our generation, hemp is the deadliest narcotic known to Medical science. Any physician or druggist can tell what the reaction of other narcotics will be, but no scientist can predict what will be the effect of "Cannabis," the active principle of the hemp-plant, Marijuana.

Four years ago under various names—"Mary Warners," "Merry Wonders," "Mary Janes," "reefers," "greefos," "loco (crazy) weed," "hay," "Moochas," "mooties," "Mu," "Muggles," "Love-weed," "Joy-smoke," etc., this deadly narcotic, in cigaret form, was being bootlegged throughout the State, Grade and High School children being the major target for their sale, at anywhere from 25 cents to a dollar each! And every kind of criminal activity was the result of their sale.

In 1943 with the loyal backing and hearty cooperation of the W. C. T. U. and the State Grange, the Christian Civic League secured passage of a stringent law requiring the cutting, drying and burning of Marijuana, whenever found growing; with heavy penalties—fine or imprisonment, or both, for failure to do so. And because the law is still actively in force, a "word to the wise" as to how to identify Marijuana may be in order.

It is an "annual" growing from 3 to 4 to 13 or 14 feet in height. The stalk, from about $\frac{1}{4}$ to 1 inch in width, is fibrous and tough. The spearhead shaped, sawtooth-edged leaves are from 3 to 8 inches long, from $\frac{1}{4}$ to 1 inch in width. They number from 3 to 9, sometimes 11, on a stem, branching like the spreading fingers of a hand; dark green above, light green beneath. The bunchy, greenish blossoms are one-tenth inch across. The seed is smooth and globular.

For four blessed years, thanks to this law, we did not find a trace of the sale of these "Killer Weed" cigarettes anywhere in this State. But recently the Menace of Marijuana has begun to creep back upon us. Three months ago Buffalo newspapers reported that 9 bootleggers of "Killer Weed" cigarettes had been apprehended there, and 200 of these cigarettes, which they were retailing at $1.00 each, were confiscated and destroyed. And two weeks ago in Albany a man was arrested for selling Marijuana and other narcotic drugs.

Thus I am issuing a warning to Northern New York and the Canadian Provinces by telling a few of the results that happened before we secured the Anti-Marijuana law, and may be duplicated at any time.

First. It causes hyper-exhilaration, a jovial mood with uncontrollable, often silly laughter; and a feeling of unusual mental ability and superhuman physical strength.

Second. The second effect of Marijuana is that of visions (phantasms—pleasing, sensual, or gruesome, as may be), coupled with a remarkable loss of relation as to space or time. One addict feels he could climb a mountain or cross a continent in a few strides. To another seconds seem like minutes, hours like days.

Third. The third effect of Marijuana is extreme aphrodisia. Sexual desire flames into undeniable, uncontrollable passion.

Fourth. The reaction of Marijuana upon its victims is a resistless desire to kill, coupled with hallucinations that someone is doing them or attempting to do them, bodily harm; and that they must defend themselves.

A Rochester pastor told me of a high school boy he knew about, who after smoking two Marijuana cigarettes, killed his father, mother, two brothers and a sister, with an axe!

When asked by the authorities why he committed the awful crime, he said: "I thought father and mother and the family were after me, that they were going to 'get me' and cut my legs and arms off"; (a persecution complex, as the psychologists call it, a frequent symptom) "and the only way I could think of to stop them was to kill them."

Perhaps you think, because your boy or girl does not even smoke tobacco cigarettes, that they are safe from the deadly peril of Marijuana. They are not.

In Denver, Colorado, were two High School boys who had grown up together, close friends like David and Jonathan. One, on the sly, had become addicted to the use of "reefers." One morning, on their way to school, he stopped and smoked one. Immediately siezed with the idea that his friend intended to kill him, he took out his pocket knife, plunged it into the heart of his chum, and the best friend he had on earth fell dead at his feet!

Two girls in Newark, N. J., became Marijuana addicts. The price was high, but the appetite for the drug was powerful and insistent. So they provided themselves with a gun, and, after the other passengers left, held up the conductor of the trolley car upon which they were riding. He refused to give; they shot him dead, got $2.10 from his pocket, and life-imprisonment in the State prison of New Jersey.

We could go on and multiply these cases end on end, but suffice to say that repeating the terrible crimes committed in words would do little good. It is action against these things that counts. Just let us remember that while Marijuana addiction produces a ghastly harvest of hold-ups, suicides, murders, rape and unspeakable orgies of lust among grade and high school children, it is astounding the multitudes of intelligent people, well informed in regard to the less important matters, who do not even know what Marijuana is, much less what it is doing! And there is not only total ignorance, but apparently total lack of interest among some who should be most interested.

Let us not only be aleft and active in destroying Marijuana wherever found growing, but let us spread the warning concerning it until public sentiment is sufficiently aroused to destroy the traffic in this Killer-Weed drug throughout the Nation.—From an address by E. L. Tiffany, M.D., New York.

Brethren Youth

BRETHREN BEREAN BAND NEW YEAR WATCH MEETING

A PRACTICE of a number of years' standing is the New Year's Watch Meeting conducted under the auspices of the young people of The Northern California Brethren District Conference.

Fifteen years ago the young people of our churches formed their organization. The beginning was very modest and humble, but in a few years the activities affected the entire area. In a comparatively short time these young people selected a name that they desired should characterize their aims and dominate their purposes and programs. Their text is Acts 17:11b, "they received the Word with all readiness of mind and searched the Scriptures daily whether these things were so." God give us strength to emulate the Bereans of St. Paul's time.

This new year found our Bereans at the hospitable home of our camp mother, Mrs. Estella Huse. Sixty-two persons gathered there to watch 1948 depart and welcome 1949. After a rousing song service of deeply spiritual choruses led by Howard Crom, and with the first president of the Bereans, Enid Ruth Quinlan, at the piano, Brother Charlie Johnson led in prayer. The president, Alvar Bryce Platt, then conducted a brief business meeting. Most of the business pertained to improvements to be made at the camp ground and in a little while $180.00 was provided for that purpose.

The various groups, as they come naturally to form as to age and other considerations, then spent some time in pleasant social exchange. It is real joy to be in meetings where you find people enjoying happy Christian fellowship, some of whom a year ago knew nothing about joys of the Christian life. Here were a number of such folks and they praised God for His great salvation, purchased by the Lord Jesus Christ at the cost of His suffering. Their warm testimonies of His saving grace and power and their prayers for unsaved loved ones and friends were an inspiration to us older ones, and we determined by the leadership of the Holy Spirit, to put forth greater effort to gather in more precious souls for the day of His coming kingdom. As some of us thought of God's dealings with us during the year, we recalled that from about eight years up to seventy years of age, souls had made the great decision. We praise Him.

After refreshments and at about 11:30 P. M. another chorus was sung; then a reading by Bessie McDonald, followed by a Scripture lesson by Virgil Ingraham. A period of testimony then followed. Brother Charlie Johnson gave a short talk. The Bereans then went to their knees in prayer and continued their devotions while 1948 silently slipped into the past and 1949 was newly born. Thanks to God for saving sinners and for other manifold blessings, and asking His guidance by the Holy Spirit in the new year, constituted the burden of their prayers.

Rising from prayer the Bereans wished each other a good New Year. Not as the world, did they observe the coming of another year. Two more institutes; a day at the District Conference; participation in all revival meetings; then the summer camp at their own Camp Berea, are all before them for this term. All visitors to California are invited to meet with us. The Bereans are active in all departments of Church work. We are sending greetings to the brotherhood.

J. Wesley Platt, Pastor Counsellor.

"THERE IS NO GOD?"

Dot Custer

We have the sun with its beautiful rays,
And rain which is helpful in many ways;
We have the earth on which Christ once trod,
And still some say, "There is no God!"

We have the moon and stars that shine,
And flowers made by a God divine.
We have blue sky, and birds that fly,
They believe there's a God! Yet some say, "Not I."

We have the Bible which doth unfold
The sweetest story ever told.
Still there are many, though it be odd,
Who yet will say, "There is no God."

You know it's tragic, but it is true—
Here's what the unbelievers do:
When tragedy strikes, this is their plea:
"Oh, my God, my God, won't you save me?"

Yes, there's a God, at last they admit,
But they're somehow ashamed to mention it.
I wonder if we, who know God above,
Unashamedly tell of His wonderful love?

New Postage Rates

And speaking of postage rates, please get your Sunday School orders in plenty early, before we mail out our "bulk" of orders, for when we have to pay extra parcels post postage on your order it makes a great inroad into the returns on the literature. For when we can ship on our permit, these quarterlies go out by permit weight, but when they must go in single shipments we have to send by parcels post, for we must have a certain weight in order to take advantage of the permit rate. So—it will help us a great deal if you GET YOUR ORDERS IN EARLY.

REMNANT RELIGION

"And the residue thereof he maketh a god, even his graven image." Isaiah 44:17.

THIS IS TAKEN from Isaiah's prophecies, and is an intensely graphic description of conditions in his day with reference to men's attitudes toward religion.

My mother was a seamstress, and would be away from home sewing in the homes of her customers for days and weeks. Often when she came home she would bring with her a bundle or flour-sack full of remnants from the goods with which she worked. These were carefully looked over and saved to be used in making quilts or comforters during the long winter evenings. Some of the remnants would sometimes be better for carpet-rags, which suited grandmother who was a carpet-weaver. Some pieces were good for one purpose and some for another, but always the quilt-patches were sorted out first. And you all understand how these were joined together in "catch-as-catch can" fashion to complete a top for the quilt. And this method of procedure was permissible and successful in making what was sometimes called "Crazy Quilts."

Our text and context tells how the men of Isaiah's day sought to mingle their devotions with their everyday life, but with their personal needs and desires getting first place in the division. They attended to their physical needs first, and to their religion afterwards. In a certain parish in which I served, in soliciting contributions for the support of the church, the good sister assured me that they always took inventory at the end of the year, and if, after they had met all their obligations with their creditors, they had anything left they gave something to the church. Well, it seemed quite obvious that they must have worked in the RED constantly, or else that woman was an arch-prevaricator.

The worshipper of whom Isaiah speaks chose a tree which he cut down and converted into fire-wood, using part to warm himself, and part to cook his food. He was a frugal fellow; he built his fire around the stump, so he would get some good out of that—and then, when he was warmed and fed—he took what was left of the stump and shaped it into some likeness of some sort and worshipped it. "Some divinity," that, for a man to accord honor and worship to it!

Mother got the left-overs of the cloth with which she had worked, and out of them she patterned her bed-cover. And that could be done without any despite to propriety or good-judgment. But when men start doing as the central figure of our study did, they are flouting the Almighty in the face. For far too many folks religion gets the last time, means and talent; all other human wants and desires having received first attention. Men even live their lives in sin and worldliness and debauchery, and then, when life grows bitter and drab, they turn to a religious faith (or perhaps better, to a semblance of a godly life), and fling the ashes of a misspent life in the face of the Almighty and expect them to be accepted by God in lieu of a righteous existence as their token of appreciation of God's long-suffering goodness in sparing their lives.

I am reminded that this method of dealing with God runs directly opposite to that of the Lord, who warned His followers in no uncertain terms: "Seek ye FIRST the kingdom of God, and His righteousness; and all these things SHALL BE ADDED UNTO YOU." It will do to bring remnants and left-overs to construct a quilt, but not to offer the remnants of a misspent life to the Almighty and expect to be rewarded satisfactorily for such an offering.

Rather would we commend the example of David when the plague came upon his land because of his unwarranted numbering of his people, and against the advice of his counsellors. Having been directed to build an altar on the threshing-floor of one Araunah, he was offered all the materials necessary to complete the carrying out of the service. David's reply to the offer sounds almost like words from the New Testament: "... neither will I offer burnt offerings unto the Lord my God which have cost me nothing."

A LAYMAN HELPS THE BROTHERHOOD

Fred W. Brant

A FAMILY which was suffering from the loss of their home in a tornado sent their young son, Tom, to his aunt. Three days later they received a telegram which read, "Returning Tom. Please send the tornado." The pep of such "young tornadoes" as Tom should and can be used to the Glory of God in the Brotherhood.

A fine Christian man that saved many lives in the Johnstown flood was telling his many friends about it after he got to Heaven. There was a man that would speak up at each hearing of it and say, "Fiddle Sticks." The man complained to St. Peter about always hearing "Fiddle Sticks" every time he would tell his story. St. Peter told him that he shouldn't mind, that that was only old Noah.

I am conscious of the fact that some of you have had more experience than others. We are all indebted to our beloved Brother Leatherman for going to work after he had the vision that something could and should be done with our young men and boys. Brethren, the Young men and Boys' Brotherhood is the greatest thing that ever happened in the Brethren Church.

Brother Layman, God will hold every one of us responsible for his part. I can't do your work. You can't do mine, and by the Grace of God I wouldn't want to if you were willing. I don't intend to be robbed of the joy, the God-given joy, that is mine and of every one that labors in God's Vineyard.

I do thank God that He sent to us, of the Berlin Brethren Church, a man that is interested in our young people.

He does more than make suggestions. He helps to make them work. Pastors sent from God do, like Jesus, help us. Pastors, in the name of God, don't make suggestions that you do not think worthwhile to help put them into practice. That will kill the Spiritual life in a church sooner than most any other sin. Did I say "sin?" Yes, you sin against God and High Heaven and against His little ones. What does God's Word say? "It would be better for a mill-stone to be tied to your neck and you cast to the bottom of the sea than to cause one of God's little ones to stumble.

The young men and Boys learn to pray in the Brotherhood. Men and Brethren, the greatest need of the church today and of the nation today is Prayer. God pity the Pastor that has a church where the Laymen do not pray. The future will have many praying Laymen, if we do what God would have us do for our Young Men and Boys' Brotherhood.

OUR CONSOLATION

We have our friends to comfort us
In sorrow and distress,
And always there are worldly goods
To give us happiness.
But consolation deep and real
Can come from God alone,
And only if we ask Him with
A fervor all our own.
There is no other way for us
To overcome our fears,
And find the path to perfect peace
In trouble or in tears.
There is no sympathy on earth,
That ever can compare
With all the everlasting joy
And solace of a prayer.
Because we know that God gives ear
To every word we say;
And when we feel that we are lost,
He helps us find the way.

Of Interest to Ministers who Travel

United Air Lines has filed a notice of a tariff which, if approved by the Civil Aeronautics Board, will give reduced airline fares to the clergy for the first time in history.

Harold Crary, vice president—traffic and sales of United, has sent a letter of intent to the Air Transport Association in Washington, detailing his company's plan to offer the clergy a 25 per cent discount on basic airline fares. He said United expects to file a tariff with the Civil Aeronautics Board on January 28 for an effective date of March 1 to provide this reduced transportation for all ordained or licensed clergy. Such persons would have to hold a clergy card issued by United Air Lines for which there would be a $3 annual charge.

The reduced fares would apply between all stations on United's 80-city system except Honolulu and Avalon, Santa Catalina Island.

Ashland College News Letter

By Arthur Petit

AS YOU READ THIS, the first semester of the largest student body in Ashland College in history will have been completed and students will be registered for the second half of the year which begins the first of February. Six hundred students is some experience to a college which before the war never saw many more than 300 at one time. A number of new students are entering at this time, but the number is still incomplete as this is being written.

Dr. Pete is busy planning his trip with the a cappella choir again this year. If satisfactory arrangements are made, northern Indiana and Illinois will hear the choir this year. Several churches as yet have not replied to letters about the choir trip. As soon as possible, the itinerary will be published in the Evangelist and otherwise. So far, Nappanee, Goshen, Elkhart, Milledgeville and Elgin (Church of the Brethren) have replied.

The basketball team is doing well this season although they have not won half of the games they have played. In the last three games they lost by 4, 5, and one one point respectively to Hiram, Wooster and Heidelberg. The season is a little more than half over.

The campus broadcasting transmitter, a five watt outfit is now broadcasting daily to the campus and to the people of Ashland for about 500 yards from the campus. All this and the daily FM broadcasts have been made possible by the gift of Miss Florence Cleaver who gave the means some two years ago for the setting up of a radio broadcasting minor in the Ashland College curriculum.

The election of the May Queen will be held shortly after the beginning of the second semester. Only junior girls are eligible. Several Brethren girls are included in this number. May Day this year is May 15. It is not too early for Alumni and friends of the college to plan to be here. May Day is one of the most beautiful, and is the oldest, tradition on the campus. It has survived all of the changes of more than 30 years of changing student bodies.

A Belated Tribute

I trust it is not too late to offer a word of esteem for one of God's noblemen, Dr. Geo. S. Baer. If it were necessary to say that we always agreed on everything, I could not write. If it were to say that he was great as most men count greatness, neither could that be said. But since we may all "be fully persuaded in his own mind" (Rom. 4:5), and still be Christ's, I am constrained to offer this word.

Dr. Baer was my associate in the editorship of Brethren Publications for six years; we came in at the same door, lived in the same room, much of the time, did our separate tasks, submitted our product to the Brotherhood, came and went to our homes, attended the same church, sat at the same communion, prayed together.

For six years I was his pastor and he, one of my best listeners. Of very different temperament and backgrounds and as to the sources of our religious thinking we never to my present memory had a single conflict in our conversations nor a dispute as to either's position on the great subject of theology, the greatest subject for clashes.

He did his work and let the world think what it wished. If I remember rightly there was no thought in him to force anyone to believe what he taught, as long as he was connected with the Publishing interests.

So far as I know, there was just no quarrel in him. I do know that he had temper but he did not surrender to ugliness with it; he had opinions and expressed them on paper so well as to receive the commendation of one of the most consistent and wise Dunkers I ever knew: J. H. Moore, for decades, the editor of the Gospel Messenger who, in a personal letter to me said of Dr. Baer: "That man knows what he wants to say and where he is going." If he was handicapped in speech, he was agile and keen with his pen. He could and did suffer "ill-treatment with the people of God" without rancor or complaint; he could surrender his position rather than fight and return to a lesser position for the sake of the Cause and none ever know that feelings were ever on the outside of his heart. He was pure, unreservedly Brethren, Christian, saint, surrendered. What more needs to be said.

It does seem sure to me that no better monument to his memory could be raised than to finish the debt on the new press this year! If he looks down from the Home in Glory, or if God allows the thoughts of the departed to urge the living to fit into the pattern of their thinking, as I believe possible (Heb. 12:1, 2), then I believe none can doubt that he is saving: "For my sake, for the sake of the Brotherhood, please get that debt paid. We can have it if we want it hard enough."

Charles A. Bame.

Five minutes spent in the companionship of Christ every morning—aye, two minutes, if it is face to Face and heart to Heart—will change the whole day, will make every thought and feeling different, will enable us to do things for His sake that we would not have done for our own sakes, or for anyone's sake.—Henry Drummond.

HAS OUR NATION A CASTE SYSTEM?

Scripture: Gal. 3:26-29; Acts 10:9-18, 34, 35

For The Leader

THERE IS A PROBLEM in the world today that presents itself as an imminent danger to our livelihood. It is the antagonism of and to less fortunate races of people. The problem is not an easy one to face, much less to solve, in the face of materialistic philosophies which seem to be running the ways of men. Only in the way of Christ, as taught in His Word, will the answer be found. But men are not willing to look to His Word, nor accept His way, so the trouble increases by the day. In our own day we can create good will by Christian attitudes towards those of other races. Let us do it.

DISCUSSION

1. YES, WE HAVE A CASTE SYSTEM! In India, there is a system of classes. You are born into a particular one, and you remain in that through your entire life. In fact, your caste is imprinted on your forehead. While we do not mark them as such in America, yet there are ways in which people "know their place." Even among the so-called white race these castes exist. You have your elite, or "upper crust." Then the middle class, and the poorer class. Parts of our towns are known as "millionaires row," or "the other side of the tracks." And in social circles, you must "belong," or you can't get into a particular party. And do you know that people in our churches even speak of those they'd rather not have join their church! That's even true in Brethren Churches. We wonder what these people who are so hostile to the negro race, for instance, are going to do when they must sit beside one of them in heaven's banquet halls!

2. THE GRAVE DANGER. It's as true as day follows night, that the racial picture in America is changing, and changing fast! Heretofore, the whites have, by numbers and intelligence, held the upper hand in American life. Now, the facts indicate a definite change. Our foreign and negro populations are increasing far more rapidly than our whites. It is highly probable that the day will come when we might have a Negro for President. (Many readers will disagree with the statement, but not because they don't believe it, but because they don't want to believe it.) It is a possibility! The grave danger lies, not in a Negro, or any one of another race being a President. The grave danger lies in the long cherished resentments, humiliations, anti-American philosophies, etc., inbred in those of other races, becoming a ruinous power in our American way of life. It is possible!

3. THE BIBLE HAS AN ANSWER. It is true that God is no respecter of persons. This fact should be held uppermost in all our minds in thinking of this race question. All those who accept His Son as Savior and Master, are held in the highest esteem by our Heavenly Father. Thus before

God, there is absolutely no difference between an Italian Mexican, Spaniard, Chinese, or Negro. Before God, men are either saved or lost. In fact, long before the so-called "white race" knew of Christianity, men of other races were carriers of the gospel. And who of us are able to say concerning the possibility of other races becoming even greater carriers of the gospel than we have been?

4. THE BIBLE HAS THE ANSWER. We've been trying for years to solve the race problem by education and reform. The truth of the matter is that the people will just not stand for a doctrine of the equality of the races. In the scriptures it tells us "ye are all the children of God, by faith in Christ Jesus." These choice words enlighten us on the true solution of race relations. When men love Christ, they love each other. Color, race, and station are forms of pride and conceit. These vanish before the matchless grace of our Lord. Now, if we could get the various opposing groups in our nation to bow at the feet of Christ, believing, accepting, and following Him, the race problem would indeed vanish. But as long as men have their selfish interests at heart, there is no solution. So the problem is not so much race relations, as it is how to get men to love Christ, and thus each other.

5. THE ANSWER TO THAT. God has provided a way in which men can be brought to a love for one another. It is through Evangelization. History proves that when gospel evangelization slows down, these other problems arise. When missionary work is highest, the other problems tend to disappear. So, it is our suggestion in solving the race question and caste system in America, that we energize an intense program of gospel preaching. In no way does this infer a "social gospel" preaching, for that has been tried in the last several decades with absolute failure in solving the problem. Men cannot be taught to live together from the outside; it must come from the heart. The gospel of Jesus Christ has the answer to the world's ills. It permits rich men, poor men, high "caste" and low "caste," white and black, educated and unlearned, to worship God together. Only in churches is such a thing possible. Pray that we can keep our churches awake to their spiritual responsibilities in this direction.

QUESTIONS

1. Is your church open to anyone in the community who would want to come and worship? Think carefully before you answer!

2. Could a church, with a family group or groups in power, and to which you must belong, (or there isn't any place for you) be called a church with a "caste" system?

3. Suggest ways in which we ourselves can help to solve the race and caste problems of our own community life.

FIRE AT LOST CREEK

Just as the second side of the EVANGELIST was about to go to press, Brother Riddle, Missionary Secretary, informed us that the Wheeler Hall, at Lost Creek, which housed the twenty-five boys and Brother and Sister Keck, had burned to the ground on Sunday evening, January 23. Fortunately no one was hurt. Brother Riddle says that the Mission Board is taking steps immediately to go to their rescue.

THE ANVIL OF GOD'S WORD

Last eve I paused beside a blacksmith's door,
And heard the anvil ring the vesper chime;
Then looking in, I saw upon the floor
Old hammers worn with beating years of time.
"How many anvils have you had," said I,
"To wear and batter all these hammers so?"
"Just one," said he, and then with twinkling eye,
"The anvil wears the hammers out you know."
"And so," I thought, "The Anvil of God's Word
For ages skeptic blows have beat upon,
Yet, though the noise of falling blows was heard,
The Anvil is unharmed, the hammers GONE."

CHRIST ON THE AUTHORITY OF SCRIPTURE

Scripture: 2 Tim. 3:16, 17; 2 Peter 1:21; Matt. 5:18

Hymns of the Bible

Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

JESUS SAID, "The Scripture cannot be broken" (John 10:35). He cited the Genesis record as the reason for His disapproval of divorce (Matt. 19:4-6; Mark 10:6). Unless the Genesis record is true Christ was using a false basis for His teaching. There is nothing evolutionary about the doctrine on marriage. In Luke 11:51 Jesus referred to Abel as an historical character. He also cited the record of Noah as an historical fact (Matt. 24:37-39; Luke 17:26, 27). Our Lord's coming was revealed to Abraham (John 8:56). Jesus said that fire really fell on Sodom and Gomorrah (Luke 17:28-30, 32). He warned us to remember Lot's wife (v. 32).

Jesus did not scoff at the Book of Genesis. Referring to Exodus 3:6 Jesus in Mark 12:26 asserted that Moses was the author by verbal inspiration. He accredited Moses for the law and circumcision (John 7:19, 22, 23). In Mark 7:9, 10 He calls the command of Moses the command of God.

Jesus gave full credence to Old Testament miracles (John 6:49; 3:14, 15; Luke 4:25-27). He regarded the Queen of Sheba an historical character (Matt. 12:42). He made Jonah a sign and seal of His own triumphant death and resurrection (Matt. 12:39-41). He believed in the later Old Testament Books such as Zachariah in the temple (2 Chron. 24:20, 21; Luke 11:51); and Daniel's prophecies (Matt. 24:15). Jesus did not accommodate His teachings to the understanding of the people but sought to correct false notions always (Mark 12:24).

Jesus used Old Testament Scriptures as authority of righteousness against the temptations of Satan (Deut. 6:13, 16; 8:3). Jesus quoted Deuteronomy as the Word of God. Jesus gave the "Golden Rule" as a teaching of the law and the prophets (Matt. 7:12). He verified Hebrews 1:1 that "God . . . spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets."

Jesus accepted Old Testament prophecies concerning John the Baptist (Mal. 4:5; Matt. 17:9-12). He contended that He must fulfill what the prophets had written about Himself (Luke 22:37; 24:44; Matt. 26:54-56; Isa. 62:1, 2; Luke 4:17-21). How could one believe Jesus without believing Moses? (John 5:46, 47). Luke shows the Jews rejected both Moses and the resurrection of Christ. David was inspired to write of Christ (Mark 12:36; Matt. 22:41, 46). Jesus cited His disciples to David and the prophets concerning His coming suffering, death and resurrection (Luke 24:44; Matt. 1:22; 2:15, 17, 23; 8:17; 12:17; 13:25; 21:4; 27:9, 35; Mark 15:28; John 12:38; 19:24-36).

Jesus repeatedly declared that His atoning death was foretold in prophecy (Luke 18:31-34; Matt. 26:23, 24; Mark 14:20, 21). John 15:24, 25 refers to Psalm 69:4. John 13:18 on the Betrayer refers to Psalm 41:9. Other statements on fulfilling of Scripture are John 17:12; Mark 14:49. While on the cross the following verses of Psalm 22 were fulfilled (1, 8, 18). Read John 19:36, 37. After the resurrection Jesus still relied on Old Testament Scripture (Luke 24:13-27). He classes as "foolish" and "slow of heart" all who refuse to believe "all that the prophets have spoken." Read Luke 24:44-46.

Jesus declared the Word of God infallible and eternal (John 5:39; 17:17; Matt. 5:17, 18; Luke 16:17). Jesus did not attempt to correct or improve on the law of Moses, but to contrast it with the traditions of men (Mark 7:1-13; Matt. 15:1-10). Jesus declared that Scripture is the actual Word of God. To scorn the Scripture is to deny the Saviour.

FACING CHALLENGE AND OPPOSITION

Lesson: Mark 2:3-8, 16-17; 3:1-6

AS WE APPROACH this lesson we begin to find that Jesus' failure to do things in the old established way and refusal to be bound by the "traditions" of the fathers, brought Him into ill-repute in the eyes of the scribes and Pharisees. We find these men, who were steeped in the letter, not in the spirit of the law, becoming more and more incensed because Jesus persisted in effecting cures on the sabbath day. But more particularly, as in the lesson today, we find them horrified because He lay claim to the ability to forgive sins, thus making Himself equal to God, if not God Himself, a thing that is implied, even if not directly stated in so many words. This implication comes from the word of Jesus to one borne of four, "Thy sins be forgiven thee," which brings the question in the minds of the scribes and Pharisees, "Why doth this man speak blasphemies? who can forgive sins but God only?" Note the word "only" in this connection.

Moreover, when they saw Him "lowering" (in their estimation) Himself to eat with publicans and sinners, they were all the more sure that He was not what He claimed to be. For to them, no self-respecting Jew would defile himself by association with sinners, let alone with the hated publicans, who by the very fact that they were the medium through which the Roman tax was gathered, became a source of annoyance and hatred.

But Jesus gave the words in Mark 2:17 as His justification: "They that are whole have no need of a physician, but they that are sick: I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." It was true that He ate with sinners, but He did not take on their attitudes. Nevertheless, His activity in this respect caused the breach to widen and opposition to become more determined.

We find an example of this determined opposition in the story of the curing of the man with a withered hand, as told in our second scriptural passage—Mark 3:1-6. In verse 2 we find these significant words, "And they watched him, whether he would heal him on the sabbath day; that they might accuse him." This is further demonstrated, after the healing, in the words in verse 6, "And the Pharisees went forth, and straightway took counsel with the Herodians (strange combination this) against him, how they might destroy him."

Is it not a rather strange thing that these Pharisees, who were so against the Roman government, would team up with the leading political party of their time—a group which always stood at odds with the Pharisaical teachings and who were in complete sympathy with the Roman government? But the desire to accomplish their own ends made for them "strange bedfellows"—and so the opposition grew.

Turning to the practical side of our lesson, we should be caused to look around us and we will find that far too often there is to be found some who never like a thing done in any manner that is opposite to the old established custom. We find them saying, "It was never done like that before—so it should not be done that way now." And, sad to relate, they can see no good in new methods nor in advanced steps, and they become a part of the opposition, when, in reality, they should get behind the effort and help it on to its ultimate conclusion. Often times this is the same kind of opposition Jesus met.

Smithville, Ohio. A Sunday School Institute was scheduled for the Smithville Church on the afternoon and evening of January 23rd. Dr. L. E. Lindower, who is a member of the Ohio District Sunday School Board was in charge of the Institute. A fellowship supper was planned for between the sessions.

Dr. Don Falkenberg of the Bible Meditation League was the Guest Speaker at the evening service of the Smithville church on Sunday, January 9th.

Milledgeville, Illinois. Brother D. C. White says, "Fourteen Junior Christian Endeavorers enjoyed a waffle and sausage breakfast a short time ago and presented the pastor and wife with a surprise Harvest Home Offering, which was done up in a huge box, tied with red crepe paper ribbon. It was filled with good things to eat." Brother White adds, "Who says Juniors can't do things?"

We learn from Brother White that there is progress in the recently established Children's Church, which includes the children from the Cradle Roll to twelve years of age. The program follows the order in the regular church service, except that object lessons, flannel-graph stories dramatization or Bible games are substituted for the sermon. All children are given offering envelopes, thus they are being taught to give of their own free will. These offerings are being used for missions and education.

Ashland, Ohio. When a church can, by dint of hard work and the arranging of a special program, get from 90 to 100 out to a mid-week prayer service, it seems to be something to feel very good about. But when a church consistently for many weeks is able to have that 90 to 100 people out, without any special planning of a special program—well, that is something else, and we are all too apt, after a while, to forget that it is "something to feel very good about." But that is what the Ashland church is enjoying week after week. With these attendants divided into three groups—adults, young people and children—the interest shows no abatement. It seems to be the common thing to have 30 to 40 adults; 40 to 45 young people; and 20 to 25 children in their respective groups. And the strange part of it is that the time of closing comes upon a very reluctant body of people to hear the benediction. For all this we are exceeding glad.

Advances in the work of the Garber Memorial Brethren Church, a new work which is being sponsored by the Park Street church, becomes more noticeable each week. New homes are being reached and new faces at the services are a constant reminder that there always can be found a place for work for the advancement of the work of Christ, wherever we may go.

Udell, Iowa. A card received from Brother Deeter, dated January 17th, bears the following good news: "BIGGEST Revival in Udell for thirty-four years. Average attendance 132; offerings $500.00.

Waterloo, Iowa. An item from the Waterloo, Iowa, bulletin that the young people, under the supervision of Abe Glessner, had a coasting party, with twenty-eight young people in attendance. And here in Ashland we haven't had enough snow to even sweep off of our sidewalks.

Brother Meyer reports that a series of movies, dealing with the life of St. Paul, is being shown each Sunday evening during the month of January, and the first Sunday in February. There are seventy-five in attendance at the first one.

New Pastor at the Sergeantsville-Calvary, New Jersey, Circuit. In a note from Miss V. E. Hackett, Secretary of the Calvary Church, we learn of the arrival of their new pastor, Rev. Joseph J. Margush, who arrived in Sergeantsville on January 3rd; and who, together with his wife and little girl, is now about settled at the parsonage. Brother Margush came to us from the Church of the Brethren at Topeka, Kansas. Place his name and address in your Annual number. Sister Hackett says, "We ask the prayers of the Brotherhood in behalf of our brother as he labors among us, that many souls may be won for the Lord in this part of His vineyard.

Laid to Rest

BACHTEL. (In memoriam by her pastor) Mrs. Martin (Emma) Bachtel departed to be with her Lord whom she loved and served most faithfully for many years. One daughter, Mrs. William Meinke and her husband are left to carry on the rich heritage of faith. They, too, are the same type of faithful members in the church.

The Bachtels came to South Bend in the year 1896 and early in the year placed their membership in this church. Before the close of the year they were called and ordained to the office of deacon and deaconess. This office they honored in gracious and faithful service for many years.

Mr. Bachtel was called home seven years ago and Mrs. Bachtel joined him in the heavenlies on October 22, 1948. Her buoyant and aggressive spirit tabernacled in a frail body which had been seriously ill many times, but her spirit never was subdued. Though for many months the body was weak and suffered greatly, yet she planned and attended a family reunion on Sunday before her death, also planned to attend communion in the evening but was not able, yet was able to partake in a home communion. We had planned to be away for two weeks and did leave Monday feeling that she might be given some time to remain with us, but on Friday morning she was called to her heavenly home.

We were extremely sorry to be away. We loved her so much and certainly would have driven back, as much for our own sakes as to be with the family, but did not get the word in time. Rev. C. A. Stewart, formerly a member of this church and well known to the family, now pastor at New Paris, Indiana, was called to officiate in this church which she loved and to which she and her husband had contributed so very much time, service and sacrificial giving to build and maintain.

We shall miss her greatly. She was of that high type of gracious Christian humility, blended with good sense and understanding in the things of the world and the things of the Spirit, combined with an aggressive and diligent purpose to do her best for God and man. May our dear Lord fit others to fill the ranks as these builders of churches are called to the triumphant church above. Our comfort is in the glorious hope of heaven. May our sympathetic Lord bind up the broken hearts and give us strength to take up life as it is left to us and press on until our call comes, and may it be that welcome from our Saviour, "Come, ye blessed of my Father . . . Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Claud Studebaker, South Bend, Ind.

STRYCKER. Mrs. C. C. (Sophia Kurtz) Strycker departed this life to be with her Lord on December 11, 1948, from the family home in South Bend, Indiana. She had been ill for many months, and seemed to be improving slowly, but her illness was from a weakened heart and the load became too heavy and she was not able to bear the strain.

For many years she and her family have been faithful members of the First Brethren Church of South Bend and have filled various important offices of the church. The son, William, is now moderator of the church and the daughter, Mrs. Helene Hostetter is the president of the Woman's Missionary Society. She was a fine type of mother who maintained an ideal home with her beloved husband and gave to the world a fine family and was also diligent and active in the various good things of life. Her great desire in her sickness was to get well enough to be able to attend church. Though she could not fulfill this longing, there is great comfort in the glorious hope of heaven where there is no pain or death.

LENHART. James C. Lenhart was born December 25, 1871 on a farm near Coleta, Illinois, the son of Philip and Matilda (Fike) Lenhart, and passed away December 11, 1948, at the age of 76 years, 11 months and 16 days. He was one of a family of eleven children.

His entire life was spent in the vicinity of Coleta and Milledgeville. He was united in marriage to Anna May Fike on December 10, 1896. To this union the following children were born: Harold, Beulah, Ila and Lyle. Mr. and Mrs. Lenhart lived on their farm until 1936, after which time they made their home in Milledgeville. He was preceded in death by his wife on November 20, 1943. He had been in good health until two weeks before he passed away, when he suffered a heart attack.

He had been a loyal member of the Brethren Church of Milledgeville over a period of 54 years, being baptized by Rev. Talley. He was a devoted husband, father and grandfather, and an ever-faithful neighbor and friend to all who knew him.

He leaves to sorrow at his passing, two brothers, John of Storm Lake, Iowa, and Otis of Forreston, Illinois; two daughters, Mrs. Beulah Nye and Mrs. Ila Estabrooks of Milledgeville; two sons, Harold of Pole, Illinois and Lyle of Dixon, Illinois. There are also eight grandchildren: Kenneth, Homer, Owen, Dan and Ella Mae Nye; Phyllis Engler; Donald Taylor and Lois Ann Estabrooks; and three great grandchildren, besides other relatives and a host of friends. Four sisters and four brothers preceded him in death.

For the past several years he has found much pleasure and comfort in doing things for and with his family, friends and the church which he served. The pastor, church and community extend their sympathy and consolation to those who remain to mourn his passing.

D. C. White.

LONG. Henry Jacob Long, son of Philip H. Long and Catherine Conrad Long, was born in Milton Township, Wayne County, Ohio, October 28, 1879. He passed away November 21, 1948, at the age of 69 years and 24 days, at his home in Milton Township, near Rittman, Ohio.

He was married to Jessie May Mougey of Milton Township in 1902. To this union were born seven children, three of whom preceded him in death. Those remaining to mourn his passing in addition to his wife, Jessie May, are two sons and two daughters: Wendell Philip Long, Sr., of Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. John Leshner of Wadsworth, Ohio; Peter E. Long of Rittman, and Helen V. Long at home. He is also survived by twelve grandchildren, and by a sister, Mrs. John C. Rohrer, of Rittman, Ohio.

Henry Long served faithfully and continuously as a Rural Mail Carrier out of the Rittman Post-office from September, 1920 until the time of the illness which terminated in his death.

He was a member of the Brethren Church at Smithville, Ohio, where he served diligently in various capacities. Brother Henry Long underwent a long illness of just about one year's duration. During this time he was a magnificent testimony to his Lord in his patience and willing spirit that everything was according to the Lord's will. Many a weaker brother and sister found strength and words of comfort at his bedside.

Services were conducted from the Smithville Brethren Church on November 24th, with his pastor, the undersigned, in charge. His former pastor and very good friend, Rev. J. G. Dodds, brought the sermon of comfort. Rev. Isaiah Royer, a former school teacher of his, had the devotional meditations. Burial was made at the Rittman cemetery.

News From Our Churches

SHERWOOD, MICHIGAN

Dear Brother Vanator:

It seems about time we reported our mission work here in Matteson Township. We have met each Lord's Day for Sunday School and worship—a new work without a pastor or a church home! We have been tempted and tossed about, just as our Lord was after He was baptized by John. It seems that each new work, each new convert, is pounced upon by Satan and his imps and he tries to throw his fiery darts at God through the new and weak, both church and individual.

Here we have a community that has been without a church since about 1916. Prior to World War I, a Methodist Church was here in east Matteson. Division and a church mortgage finally put it out of existence.

Today our efforts to bring the gospel to this generation of folks of this community is indeed a venture in missions. If ever any work was tested by fire, this one has been. Nevertheless God has heard our prayers and the work is continuing on.

Since starting it has been a struggle to get the adults out. The children are responsive and loyal. Our Sunday School now has an enrollment of thirty-one. Our average attendance for the twelve Sundays is twenty-three. Our Sunday School has been self-supporting, having a total offering of $36.22. Mrs. Pippen's children's class started with four and now has twelve enrolled. We hope soon to add a Junior class to our Sunday School.

Our church worship has had an average attendance of twenty, with a total offering of $42.59. The following persons have preached for us: Rev. Walter Gibson, Rev. I. D. Bowman, Clarence Wilhelm, Walter Lichtenberger, Lyle Lichtenberger and myself.

On Sunday evening, December 19th, we had a very nice Christmas program, and it was greatly enjoyed. The young people's and children's classes presented most of the program, and it was greatly enjoyed by our local folks. Treats were given to all present. We had forty-five out for this service, including Keith Miller, student at North Manchester College, and Robert Crowe, student at Ashland College.

On December 26th, Lyle Lichtenberger, Louis Smith, Wayne Kreps, Robert Crowe, Carol Robbins and Jackie Bushong from Elkhart and Nappanee (some are students at Ashland) had charge of the services. This program was greatly enjoyed and we look forward to another program with them. These young people got up at six o'clock, drove nearly two hours through zero weather, and we think that is a real witnessing for the Lord.

We want to thank the many who have helped us along thus far—space would not permit all. We thank the Indiana Mission Board who have pledged us $10.00 weekly. Brother William Meinke of South Bend, Indiana, sent us our first gift—a $20.00 bill. We thank him and trust God's work will be honored. We also thank Rev. I. D. Bowman for his kindness in guiding us in this work. Many times we have counseled, prayed and written each other about this field of work. Words fail me to express all the joy and appreciation that has been ours in serving the Lord in this humble mission field.

Yours in Christ,

Fred Pippen.

CHEYENNE, WYOMING

We are in the grip of one of the most severe blizzards for this area in many years. It is now in progress (January 3) with the temperature standing at six below zero, a wind with a velocity of forty-five miles an hour, and visibility standing at zero. I am not working today as it is impossible to get even a few blocks; no city busses or school. I am sure the stockmen will experience great live stock losses.

We were forced to withdraw our services last evening, January 2nd, it being the first time we have ever withdrawn on account of the weather. I am very happy to report the steady growth of the work here.

Last Sunday we baptized one, and will have another for next Sunday, with prospects of more very soon. We plan our business meeting for next Sunday, at which time we will lay our plans for the coming year, along with holding the election of officers. We feel that we have a very full year ahead of us in that as soon as the weather conditions will permit we hope to resume the work on the building in order that it might be completed by early spring. Here is a wish from the pastor, that it might be completed by Easter, with a two week Evangelistic campaign to follow. Then in June we plan a Vacation Bible School. Then, too, we want to remind you that the Mid-West District Conference will be held in our new church in 1949. It may be that several will avail themselves of a visit to our fair city at that time.

We want to give God the praise for the way the homes of this area in the city have been opened to the work here. Many have signified their intention of attending here when we get into the upper part of the building.

We are experiencing some difficulty in heating the basement in the present open condition of the building, which accounts for our decrease in attendance of late.

We are sponsoring a Community Night on the first Wednesday evening of each month. We believe this is going to be very beneficial in drawing the community together and to help them to become better acquainted with each other and the work which is being done for the advancement of the spiritual welfare of the community.

As the message in music goes out from the spire of our new building each Sunday morning and evening, will each of you join with us in prayer for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit in the year 1949, not in Cheyenne only, but throughout the Brethren Church, to the extent that great advancement may be made through the leading of that same Holy Spirit in the work to be done.

The Cheyenne Brethren Church extends greetings and a wish for great things for the entire Brotherhood during the year 1949.

Frank W. Garber, pastor.

EVANGELISTIC MEETING AT LANARK, ILLINOIS

Although our Corresponding Secretary has already made a report of this excellent two week evangelistic campaign so ably conducted by Brother and Sister Adams, it is my desire to take this opportunity of expressing my personal appreciation as well as that of the Church, for the splendid work accomplished by these faithful servants of our Lord.

Biblically based soul searching sermons were presented each evening in a most forceful and dramatic manner to an interested audience by Brother Adams; and Sister Adams conducted the singing in a manner pleasing to all. Special numbers were presented each evening, including several fine duets by the evangelists. It was a pleasure to work with these fine people, and their presence here will be long remembered.

We feel that the Church has been strengthened and spiritually enriched through the efforts put forth, and much lasting good accomplished. The field here has been gleaned very closely during the past two years, and results as far as additions to the Church would not seem so great; yet we feel that the Lord had His way, and we are confident that the seed so carefully sown will produce a great harvest according to His will.

The Church and its minister covet for Brother and Sister Adams the opportunity of presenting their ministry of evangelism to many churches through the coming years, and it is a pleasure for us to recommend them to any church that can use their services.

L. O. McCartneysmith, Minister,

LOST CREEK, KENTUCKY

Another Holiday season has come and gone. This year we had a two weeks' vacation, when all the workers left for their respective homes. It left just four of us to "keep all the home fires burning." And what, with getting ready for the Christmas program, the home coming of our children, and what not, kept us more than busy. It was really no vacation for us who kept things going through the two weeks.

But the work was much lightened by the many, many expressions of interest in the work, helpful enclosures, etc. It was indeed a most delightful time, though a very busy one. It would not be possible for me in this report to list the things received. But may we say that so far as our experience in the work goes, there was the largest expressions of good will and interest in the work that we have ever known. God make us worthy to have been the custodian recipients of the same. We have tried to write every person making any kind of a gift whatsoever, but it has been a big job as there were so many letters to write, and writing letters is work. If anyone has been missed it is not intentional in any way, just one of those things that happen under the press of work. We have done the best we could under the circumstances.

But the above is not what has led me to write this time. The thing that has called for this article is Stacey. You know a building program was started there last spring when that grand group of Indiana Brethren came and did such a magnificent job there. Developments now have shown that that their labors were not in vain, and that the choice of a location was a most providential one. May I tell you that Stacey is a growing community, really a village now with five stores in it. It is just a short distance from good coal mines, and house sites are very high there now. The Indiana Brethren got most of the cement blocks laid, and some of the roofing material on. Then we here took over, got the rest of the blocks laid, the roofing completed, the inside floor leveled off, and a very good concrete floor down, with mostly local help and little of it costing anything for labor. By late October, though it was not completed, we went into the building for services, after quite a struggle in getting the metal window frames in, the frames having come after the blocks were laid.

The attendance right along has been most gratifying; the interest in the services much more so. When we worshiped at the old school house, the young folks seldom stayed in for church service. Now they are staying in and giving good attention, i. e., many of them. At the old school house we have had practically all the young folks walk out when church service began. That is all different now. They are staying in, and listening. We had our first Christmas tree at Stacey this year. We also had a Christmas program, and gifts were also given out. But better than all this has been the attendance, which for the last month or two has been from around 90 to 120. So many more older folks are taking more interest now than they ever did before. In short Stacey has been a sort of inspiration to us, and we have enjoyed so much going there helping get things in shape for services.

We have just now had the building wired for electricity. A local man there volunteered to do the wiring, and he has done a good job of it. Before you read this we expect to be using the lights for services there. The Sunday School there raised the money to pay for most of the wiring material, the offerings running from $2.80 to $8.00 per Sunday. A concrete approach to the building has recently been put in. This adds much to its appearance and use. We are hoping to have the room ceiled soon now, and then a dedication service. In short here is a real opportunity for Brethren growth with the right kind of a man there as pastor, which is now needed so very, very much.

In this connection, there is a property there right across the road from the church, or nearly so, which the owner is offering for $2,000. He is now holding it for us to see if we can find someone who would like to invest in this property. May I here say that it is certainly a very safe investment at that figure, and then also would be a real help to the work there. Will you join us in prayer that the Lord will soon find a brother who would like this kind of a very safe investment. Of that we are certain.

Now just a word about the school here. The thing that we would like to mention here is that we now have three young men in school who plan or have planned to give their lives to Christian service wherever the Lord leads them. Two of these are here just taking Bible work. This is a thing we have prayed and longed for and now it seems on the way. The opportunities are large, will we meet them and use them for the advancement and upbuilding of the Kingdom of God?

G. E. Drushal.

WEST ALEXANDRIA, OHIO

At Conference time in August the writer was contacted by various churches needing a pastor, (as are many of our churches) but we were led to accept the invitation to become pastor of the West Alexandria congregation, and for which acceptance we are not sorry. Here we find a fine, loyal and interesting group of Brethren, interested in their church in every way. Recently they completed their redecorating program which consists of new paint, both inside and outside; floors sanded and refinished; new rugs throughout the sanctuary; a new oil furnace with blower. The laymen presented a new electric clock; a friend of the church here in town, presented the church with a Sallman picture, based on the Twenty-third Psalm. The church also has new seats (new to the church) purchased from the United Brethren Church in Dayton, at a reasonable price. Then the church here has some good carpenters that did a fine job in making the seats fit the church.

We have been very busy ever since the day of our arrival on December 2nd, getting set up and ready to live again. Then the church had a Christmas play under way which we got into and tried to give what help we could. I was officially installed Sunday afternoon, January 2nd, at 2:30 P. M., with Rev. Floyd Sibert of Pleasant Hill, bringing a challenging message, and Rev. S. M. Whetstone of Dayton, in charge of the installation service.

On New Year's Eve the West Alexandria church had a Watch Night Service which began at 9:00 P. M. with a social time in the basement of the church and concluded with a worship service from 11:15 to 12:00 o'clock. This service was much enjoyed by the forty who attended. The church at the same time had a surprise "pounding" for the pastor and family. Many were the gifts that were brought: many different kinds of canned goods, dried foods, meats, sugar, etc. We indeed thank these Brethren for their fine spirit of giving.

We observed our postponed Fall Communion on Sunday evening, January 9th. The rededication of the newly decorated edifice was held on Sunday, January 16th, with Rev. W. C. Berkshire of New Lebanon, Ohio, bringing the message of the evening and Rev. W. S. Crick of Gratis, Ohio, in charge of the act of dedication. A fuller report will be given later. Brethren, pray for us.

H. R. Garland.

BRYAN, OHIO

Things are going very nicely here at Bryan, every department shows a continual growth, both spiritually and in increased numbers in attendance. Last night (Tuesday, January 12) we held our Boys' Brotherhood monthly meeting with twenty-two in attendance, and several boys who usually attend were not there.

The Child Study Club, organized only a year or so, has a membership of thirty-two. Our morning worship attendance average for the year was 184; Sunday School—171; evening service—71. The morning attendance on January 9th was over 200; Sunday School—198; evening service—77.

The whole church has been completely redecorated, upstairs and down. A project is being sponsored now to install folding doors in the basement to make room for more Sunday School rooms. The Junior Church has an average attendance of between 50 and 60. Nearly all our auxiliary organizations have pledged themselves to visit and invite others to Church and Sunday School. The Senior W. M. S. made over 250 calls last month. Yesterday (January 12) I received a call from a local store, telling me that one of our members had purchased a new Royal De Luxe Portable Typewriter for me, and they were delivering it immediately. The donor's name was withheld by his request.

Berlin, Pennsylvania. We note from Brother Percy Miller's bulletin of January 23rd, that Brethren John Hepler and Frank Meyers were ordained as Deacons at the morning service on Sunday, January 16th.

Masontown, Pennsylvania. We quote from Brother Ankrum's bulletin of January 23: "In the meeting of the Builders Class last Tuesday, at the church, definite steps were taken to aid in the coming redecoration of the main auditorium of the church. This work is to be done before the meeting of the Pennsylvania District Conference next July."

Johnstown, Pennsylvania, Second. Brother N. V. Leatherman, pastor of the Second Church, reports that at their recent business meeting it was decided to appoint a committee to draft a new constitution to be submitted to the church for consideration at a later date.

It was also decided to hold their Spring Communion on Easter Sunday evening, with pre-communion services to be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights previous.

Muncie, Indiana. Brother Chester F. Zimmerman, pastor of the Muncie Church, announces their Spring Communion as scheduled for the first Sunday in May, or May 1st.

We note also that a service of dedication for the ministry was held for Walter McCormack, setting him apart for this service. It was held in the Muncie Church on Sunday morning, January 23, and was conducted by the pastor, Brother Zimmerman, assisted by the Deacons. Brother McCormack has enrolled as a pre-seminary student in Ashland College and Seminary, beginning his work there at the opening of the second semester.

A Laymen's Banquet was held in the Muncie Church on Friday evening, January 28th. It was also a re-organization meeting for election of officers.

Huntington, Indiana. Brother C. Y. Gilmer, Huntington pastor reports as follows:

Rev. Alvin Grumbling preached at the Huntington Church at a recent Sunday morning service. Brother Grumbling graduates from Ashland College at the close of the first semester, and enters at that time as a student of the Seminary. He is at present Youth Director for a church at Albion, Ohio. He is Brother Gilmer's son-in-law.

On Sunday night, January 11th, a delegation of twenty-two persons from the Huntington Church attended the revival at our Roanoke, Indiana, Church. Eleven men of the Huntington Men's Chorus furnished special music. Brother S. C. Henderson, pastor of the Roanoke Church, brought the evening message at the Huntington Church on Sunday, January 23rd.

The parsonage fund at Huntington now amounts to $440.00.

Brother Gilmer was given and has accepted a unanimous call for another year as pastor, beginning April 1st.

An Easter Sunrise Service has been planned and the Laymen are sponsoring an Easter breakfast.

Also a two week Vacation Bible School will be held following the close of the public schools.

Oakville, Indiana. We note from Brother Henry Bates' bulletin of January 23, that three additional Deacons were to be elected on January 30th.

Brother Bates reports a fine increase in attendance at their Sunday evening service.

Mexico, Indiana. Brother Robert Higgins, Mexico pastor, reports a gain in the 1948 yearly average attendance over that of 1947.

Because of conflict in Brother J. M. Bowman's schedule, the Revival at Mexico which was scheduled for February 5th, had to be postponed and will be held at a later date, probably early in March.

Brother Higgins recently spoke at our North Manchester and Flora Churches in behalf of the Indiana Sunday School and Camp Work.

Guest Speaker at Southern Indiana Laymen's Meet. We note that Brother Henry Bates, pastor of our Oakville Church, is to be the Guest Speaker at the Southern Indiana Laymen's meeting which is to be held at our Loree Church on February 12th.

Bryan, Ohio. Brother E. J. Black, Bryan pastor, reports that a gift of seventy-five cups was presented to the Bryan Church by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Johnston.

The redecorating of all the rooms of the basement of the Bryan Church, including the kitchen and wash rooms, has been completed, and the new ceiling in the auditorium adds much to the beauty of the place.

Elkhart, Indiana. Brother L. V. King reports four more baptisms on Sunday, January 9th.

The Elkhart Senior Sisterhood girls were hostess to the Goshen S. M. M. on January 10th.

Louisville, Ohio. Brother John T. Byler, Louisville pastor, reports a joint meeting of the Louisville Berean Class

MUCH MATERIAL ASSISTANCE BEING SENT TO THE KENTUCKY MISSION FIELD

The heart of the Brethren People is really shown when emergencies such as the recent disastrous fire at Lost Creek, Kentucky, are brought to their attention. In a very few hours after the news of the burning of the Wheeler Hall, movements were afoot in Ashland to send down to Lost Creek many different types of articles, such as bedding, clothing, and other needed articles. Brother Charles Munson hurriedly gathered together all that he could load in his car and left on Wednesday morning for Kentucky, returning home on Thursday afternoon. The Kecks were in Ashland for a few days and left this morning (Friday, January 28th) with their car loaded with all they could get in it, but leaving many things which could not be loaded, and which will be later taken to the field by Dean M. A. Stuckey in his station wagon. The two Ashland Woman's Missionary Societies got together and made six comforters on Thursday, and these, together with others donated, will make about one dozen covers which were sent from Ashland. A sizeable amount of cash was raised in Ashland to help with the purchase of clothing for the Kecks, who lost everything they possessed in this fire.

We can only speak for Ashland, but we know that in very many of the other churches in the Brotherhood the same interest and generosity has or is being manifest. We hope to have lists of the things most needed in this field at a later date.

Since writing the above we have learned that sixteen comforters were sent from Ashland to Lost Creek. Brother Munson, who made the initial trip to Kentucky, informs us that the emergency for heavy bed covers is met at the present time. We would suggest that those who desire to make additional contributions to this worthy work, contact either Brother Drushal, or Brother Keck with inquiries as to what is needed most. Blue jeans and T-shirts for the boys who lost everything in the fire will always be acceptable.

The re-building of the structure is now one of the most important things to be reckoned with. A sturdy fireproof building should be erected to take the place of the burned building, in order that another such disaster may not take place. We should never cease to be thankful to God that this did not happen in the middle of the night, when all the boys would have been in grave danger of losing their lives.

Thank God every morning that you have something to do, whether you like it or not. Being forced to work and forced to do your best, will breed in you temperance and self-control, diligence and strength of will, cheerfulness, contentment, and a hundred other virtues the idle never know.—Charles Kingsley.

More 100% Churches

We are always glad to report renewals of our 100% Evangelist subscription lists. We report in this issue the following returns to the list: Smithville, Ohio; Nappanee, Indiana; Loree, Indiana; Mexico, Indiana. We know of others that are remaining on the list, but since their renewal lists are not yet in our hands, we wait to report them until later. Many of our churches are very near to the 100% list, but lacking the entire number they are not reported on this list. Maybe we should list the churches who attain that number as "Near 100% Churches."

Muncie Church Dedication

Special dedicatory services will be conducted February 13th after an eighteen year struggle by the congregation at Muncie, Indiana.

Sharing in the day's dedicatory services will be Reverend Claud Studebaker of South Bend, a member of the Missionary Board; Reverend E. M. Riddle, Ashland, Field Secretary for the Missionary Board; Prof. Delbert Flora, Ashland Seminary, a former pastor at Muncie; Reverend E. D. Burnworth, the recently retired pastor, under whose efforts the congregation was led and inspired to complete the church. Brother Burnworth's ingenuity and advice, with the help of every consecrated leader, will be climaxed in the most eventful occasion in the history of the Brethren Church at Muncie.

Reverend Chester Zimmerman, the new pastor since January 1st, will be in charge of the services of the day.

—E. M. Riddle

Field Secretary of Mission Board.

"That You May Know"

AS IS THE USUAL CUSTOM, the month of February is turned over to the Brethren's Home and Benevolent Board to contact the churches of the Brotherhood in behalf of two very important Interests of the Brethren Church, namely, The Brethren Home at Flora, Indiana, and the Superannuated Ministers' Fund.

We are not going into any elaborate plea for these offerings; neither are we going to make any demands. We are simply going to lay the facts before you and permit you to be the judge of the cause we represent.

THE HOME

WE DO NOT need to tell you that, with rising costs, the need for additional funds to support the Home is causing the Board to expend a great many more dollars each year than was necessary a few years ago. Also, with triple the number of residents in the Home today, compared with just a few years ago, the cost of maintaining the Home has not raised in proportion to the increased number there; yet it has materially increased above former years. Our offerings for this cause, while they have been good, have not increased in a ratio equal to the increased cost.

THE OFFERING

WHEN WE NOTE from our last financial report that the Churches and individuals only gave the sum of $7,384.72, and when we realize that this amount covers both the "Home" and the Ministers' Fund, we can see that the Brethren Church is only giving about 40 cents per member to support our "Home" and to pay our monthly obligation to our retired ministers and the widows of our ministers. Breaking that down in the ratio of our Board's division of these funds, it would mean that only about 30 cents per member is given to the "Home" and 10 cents per member to the Ministers.

REPAIRS AND UPKEEP OF THE HOME

EACH YEAR finds your Board with additional problems in the matter of upkeep of the property. Just now adjustments must be made on our electric wiring, as the present system is overloaded; water is in part of the basement and that must be taken care of. These, on the surface, seem small items, but they require financing. Coal, as most of you know, is another item which has risen in price far above former costs—and it takes just as much high priced coal as it did low priced.

BROTHERHOOD OBLIGATION

THE BRETHREN CHURCH, through its representatives at General Conference, has, by its vote, placed its sanction on these two very important phases of our work. In admitting life members to the "Home" the Brethren Church, through its elected Benevolent Board, assumes the responsibility of taking care of these admitted residents during their remaining years. Thus the Church assumes, not only a moral, but also a legal responsibility for the obligation thus taken. In the matter of retired ministers and widows of ministers, here, too, is a Conference-imposed obligation. We must keep faith with them and we have here, surely, a moral, if not altogether legal, responsibility which we should feel duty bound to fulfill.

THE OFFERING

THE OFFERING to be taken is altogether free-will. You are only asked to give as you see and recognize the need. One way to approach it is to ask yourself how you would like to be treated if the position was reversed, and then give as you find response in your heart to God's call to you.

YOUR BOARD

YOUR BOARD gives freely of its services. No one receives any salary as a Board Member. Sometimes in cases of long trips, necessitated by business for the Board, expenses are paid. But note that in the report of last year, that only $18.80 was reported as spent in this manner. Where can your dollars go as far?

Faithfully yours,

The Brethren's Home and Benevolent Board of the Brethren Church.

"I Give Because"

Fred C. Vanator, President of The Benevolent Board

OVER OUR RADIOS, out from the pages of many of our magazines, staring at us from the counters in our stores, comes a phrase that has caused the sending in of countless box tops and soap wrappers, and the burning of much "midnight oil." It reads something like this, "I use 'Crackling Corn Crisps' or 'Pink Perfumed Powder' because . . ." and then follows the words which are supposed to bring the urge to send in the box top or wrapper, "finish this sentence in twenty-five words or less, enclosing one box top, or a reasonable facsimile, etc." The words that are supposed to follow, which the person writes, are to express his personal satisfaction with the product. But many times the words written are not so written because they show the individual's real attitude toward the product, but because here seems to be an opportunity to get something for nothing. Where one person may write in all sincerity, there are countless hundreds who really never have tried the article, and who are simply putting down the words which they hope may be chosen by the judges, thus sending the prize their way.

The writer has often wondered if we were to send a message out over the entire Brotherhood, asking each one to enter a contest, completing a sentence "in twenty-five words or less," which began with the words, "I will give to the Benevolent Offerings of The Brethren Church BECAUSE . . .," just what sort of completed sentences would come to us? If we are honest with our God and ourselves, just what would we write?

Remembering that the answers should be "in twenty-five words or less," we wonder if some of them would not read like the following:

"I give to the Benevolent Offerings of The Brethren Church because of habit; each year the envelope is given to me and I put whatever is handy into it—a coin or a small bill."

Another might be expressed thus: "I give to the Benevolent Offerings of The Brethren Church because this is one of the regular offerings and I feel duty-bound to contribute and I give a small amount to keep my conscience clear."

Then we might find this one among the contestants: "I give to the Benevolent Offerings of The Brethren Church because I like to see my church get credit for an offering to each interest of the church—it don't make much difference about the amount." (Just the right number of words—25.)

Another could read: "I give to the Benevolent Offerings of The Brethren Church because I like to divide my offerings, but I give my greater offerings to the cause in which I am most interested—sometimes outside our church."

But some would be sure to write like this: "I give to the Benevolent Offerings of The Brethren Church because I feel the urgent need. I am not so much interested in winning a prize as I am in helping to fulfill a need. I am not giving for the sake of my conscience, nor to see my church's name on the list of givers, nor even from a sense of duty, but rather because the seeing of a need and the recognition of the need as such, is a call to support that need. Therefore, in keeping with the plan which the Lord has given us, I am paying a portion of my tithe to this work, and then out of that which remains to me, I am making an 'offering' of thanksgiving, over and above this obligation. I know I am not apt to win a material prize, although sometimes even that comes; but of this I am sure, the spiritual blessings which accumulate with each succeeding offering far outweigh any concrete, material prize which might be allotted to me. For to ultimately hear the Lord say, 'Well done thou good and faithful servant, thou hast been faithful in a few things, lo, I will make thee ruler over many things; Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord,' is far better than an accumulation of material things here on this earth, which things must in the end be left for 'moth and rust to corrupt and for thieves to break in and steal.'"

Now, very frankly, if you were the judge and had to make the decision as to which person was most worthy of the prize, what would you do? stay by the twenty-five words or less, or, having read all the entries carefully and prayerfully, award the highest prize to the one who gave the best reason for giving? Of course there can only be one reasonable answer!

When we remember that the judgment for all our actions comes from the Great Judge, the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, we can have little doubt where HE will place the emphasis. The answer is found in those words of Jesus, "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto Me." He does not hold us so much responsible for what we give, as for what we keep, and that which we "consume on our own selves." He knows what we can do, and He has every right to expect us to do that which we are able.

Before you place your offering in the Benevolent Envelope this year, sit down and state to yourself your reason for giving: "I give to the Benevolent Offerings of The Brethren Church—Brethren's Home and Superannuated Ministers Fund—because . . ." It very likely will surprise you (and maybe your Benevolent Board) what you will find yourself depositing in that envelope—if you will be honest with yourself and your God.

"Spectators -- Or ?"

John C. Eck, First Vice-President Benevolent Board

AS YOU PERUSE the pages of this issue of the official organ of the Brethren Church, we pray that you shall be inspired by the writers to a deeper consideration, consecration and searching of the Scriptures in order that you may not be a spectator, but a participant in this race. What race? This race that tells whether the Life members of the Brethren Home and the retired ministers, as well as the widows of the same, shall be cared for this year in the same way that has been our special duty in past years.

Our offerings have been sufficient to care for our needs to the present, but our expenses have been increasing and therefore our offerings need to be increased.

Many of our Brethren have been "spectators" in years past when it came to the Benevolence Offering; in fact too many of the Brethren do not support our Benevolent offerings as well as some of the other offerings.

In reference to searching the scriptures, let me give you a few verses to read from the Book of Life—St. Matthew 20:20-28, inclusive.

Are you, too, wanting to have seats, in order that you may not need to participate in this race? I am sure there are a few Brethren that are looking for seats, but are also wanting to be participants in this worthy cause of helping others, just as our Master and Lord came, not to be ministered unto—but to minister—to give His time, service and finally His life as a ransom for whosoever will call on His name for salvation.

There is another Book out of the Book of Books, that of Malachi, the entire third chapter of which you should use for meditation before you close your envelope for your share in this race.

This new year is still very young and there is still time for you to make some new resolves, among which is that you will be a better Brethren in 1949 than you have been in the past. In your faithfulness to the services of the church; in your witnessing to the lost, and in your stewardship of what God has entrusted to you to use for the extension of His Gospel and cause among men.

What an opportunity we have of service under the banner of Christianity, an opportunity that is not afforded under any other religion.

Therefore, Brethren, whatsoever you do, do all to the Glory of God, and when we have run our race on this earth and have been faithful to the end in our stewardship of time, talents and substance, we shall be rewarded.

Why not take God at His word this new year of 1949, and give your tithe, plus your offerings, for Benevolences, and the other interests of the Brethren Church, that your life may be happier and your rewards greater?

—New Lebanon, Ohio.

Why Give To Benevolences...?

Fred W. Eccard, Second Vice-President Benevolent Board

AT THIS TIME of the year the members of your Benevolent Board think of what can be done to impress every member of the Brethren Church with the importance of supporting this Benevolent Offering, in order that we may provide food, shelter, medical and nursing care to the aged of our church that wish to take advantage of this opportunity in their declining years to live within the Brethren Home at Flora, Indiana.

In addition to the support within the Home, we give aid in a material way, to a number of our retired ministers and their wives, which is also a very worthy project.

The Brethren Church always has been missionary-minded in thought and action, both in Foreign and Home missions, and this certainly is a Home mission project.

The Benevolent Board is faced with rising costs in the operation of the Home. Therefore it becomes necessary that every member do his best in supporting this worthy institution.

There have been a number of improvements made at the home in the past few years, and your Board has a number of other things in mind to improve the operation of this institution, if the church at large supports this worthy cause as we think it should be supported.

The Superintendent and Matron, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Scott, are doing a fine piece of work in taking care of all the needs of the farm as well as looking after the welfare of the residents of the Home.

Again we are looking forward to a large offering in order that we may do greater things in the future to make life more pleasant for the aged within the Brethren

Church, who wish to take advantage of the opportunity that the church can give toward their support in their declining years.

—Dayton, Ohio.

"Today's Need"

MRS. S. M. WHETSTONE, Member of Benevolent Board
(Representing the National W. M. S.)

THE TIME is again approaching when we have the opportunity to help in a very worthy cause. Perhaps in our hurry of every day life we do not think of those who are not as fortunate as we are. We think, perhaps, of only today. But what of tomorrow? Tomorrow cannot alone mean the day following today; but it can refer to the declining years of our lives. You may say, "O, I am saving for my old age." Perhaps you are. But what about those of our own faith who were never able to do so?

Some, because of low salaries, or because of misfortunes, were not able to do that. If we are Christians, not in name only, it is our duty to help our brother. To meet this need, each year we, of the Brethren Church, make our contribution to this worthy cause. Such contributions are to provide for the Aged Ministers and for the Brethren Home, located at Flora, Indiana.

It is indeed a small return for the many years of toil and sacrifice those ministers have given to our church. As this offering increases, so can the allotment increase to these worthy servants of the church. Everybody knows the cost of maintaining a home is much greater than in former years. So it is with the Brethren Home. It is designed to be commodious to all who live there. It is kept in this condition only as we, as Brethren people, supply the means to do it. Let us all face it as our own personal obligation to help make it as it should be. Will you join us in prayer that the response will be much greater this year than ever?

—Dayton, Ohio.

The Unthinking Layman (A Parable)

BROTHER JIM JONES was a churchman of the old school; always at his place in church, ready to work and sing and pray. He never cheated in a horse trade nor lied about his dogs, and was always honest with his neighbors and his God.

Among his stock was old Bill Crow, a black mule nearly a third of a century old. His faithful service had been almost as long as his years.

One morning Brother Jones hitched Bill Crow to the plow and started across the field.

"Git up!" said Brother Jones.

Bill Crow didn't move. He just turned his head and looked mournful like at his boss and then laid down. His working days were over.

Brother Jones knew that, because it was the first time that Bill Crow had ever refused to move. As he looked into the mule's eyes he knew that he hated to quit. But there was no help for it; and so he turned the old mule out in the woods to die.

That night Joe, Brother Jones' boy said, "Pop, what've you done with old Bill Crow?"

"Why, son, he fell down at the plow this morning and I turned him out to die. Guess his working days are over."

"You turned old Bill Crow out to die!"

"Why, sure; he ain't no good any more."

"But, see here, Pap; ain't he been working for you all his life?"

"He sure has, son, and he worked hard, too."

"And you goin' to church every Sunday and singin' 'I Want to Be an Angel?' Pap, do you reckon an angel would treat Old Bill Crow that way after he'd worked for him all his days?"

This was putting the thing in a new light to the old man, and Brother Jones began to feel that he had been pretty mean to old Bill Crow. He spoke to his wife about it, and she told him that if he didn't go out and get old Bill Crow and bring him to the barn and feed him and treat him well from that time on, she'd leave him. Every person about the place seemed to think that Brother Jones had treated old Bill Crow outrageously mean; and Brother Jones got so ashamed of himself that he sneaked down into the woods and hunted up the old mule and brought him back.

From that time on every day was Sunday for old Bill Crow.

* * * *

Now, Brethren, we are made to wonder if Brother Jones was made to think further and fulfill his duty in the matter of the Superannuated Ministers? The ones that had served him well through many years gone by!

Have we ever thought of the DUTY we owe to those who diligently spent the best years of their lives serving the church—many at a tremendous sacrifice? Do we realize that we really OWE something to these men who have been caused to retire from active service ONLY because they could not continue? It is not their desire to "quit" or "lay down" on the job. The spirit is perfectly willing, but the flesh shouts a bold and defying "No!"

The Brethren Church has never even thought of "turning the retired worker out to die." Hence the need and duty are brought together in the Benevolent Offering which is to be received on Sunday, February 20th.

But we need also to remember that this is really a "Two-Pronged" offering. Only part of it goes to this needed "Interest." So we say, "Not less for the Brethren Home, but more for the Superannuated Ministers' Fund." Let there be a union of DUTY and the JOY OF GIVING to this Offering.

By the way, the parable applies to Active Ministers, also, as well as laymen!

A Prayer For Retired Ministers

O Lord Jesus Christ, Thou gracious Shepherd and Bishop of our souls, we beseech Thee for thy ministering servants, now aged and infirm, and no longer able to work as active laborers in Thy vineyard. Leave them not, neither forsake them in this, their hour of temporal want and distress. Open the hearts and hands of Thy people for their support and comfort, that their pathway to the end of life on earth may be free from all worldly cares and anxieties. Let the fund which Thy Church has established for their relief be increased many fold, that neither they nor their helpless widows and orphans may ever come to want or have cause to complain of our neglect, but, as the members of one family and household of faith, may we rejoice together in Thy love shed abroad in our hearts. Through the Name of Jesus Christ, our most blessed Lord and Saviour. Amen.

BEARS IN THE BOOK

An old couple quarreled so frequently that the whole village knew it. Suddenly they ceased their bickering.

One neighbor approached them to ask what had happened.

"Two bears did it," said the wife.

"Two bears? We thought two bears caused all the trouble."

"Ah," said the husband, "but these are two new bears, which we found in the Bible. 'Bear ye one another's burdens' and 'Forbearing one another in love.'"

"Prayer connects you with the Divine battery of Life and power."

"If you want to be miserable, think about yourself—about what you want, what you like, what respect people ought to pay you, and what people think of you."—Charles Kingsley.

Spiritual Meditations

Rev. Dyoll Belote

DO YOUR CLOUDS WEAR RAINBOWS?

II Cor. 12:1-10

THERE IS A SONG which declares that "Every cloud will wear a rainbow, if your heart keeps right." And there can be no question that all of our lives experience "cloudy" days. But whether the "clouds" shall bring depression and melancholy to our lives, or if we shall be able to see the "rainbows of promise" to be found in connection with these "clouds" will depend upon our keeping our hearts right.

It seems to the writer of this little devotion that the key verse of our Scripture passage is the ninth. Here Paul represents the Almighty as speaking to him and declaring, "My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness." It is the Almighty that paints the rainbow across the blackness of the storm-cloud, and sets it in exquisite beauty against that blackness. And it is God also who can relieve the gloom and darkness of life by bringing the beauty and glory of His love into relief against the evil and darkness of the world, and so enable us to lose count of the storm-clouds in the multitude of "rainbows" which He makes to shine for us.

"Crosses," or "storm-clouds" are not often viewed as dispensations of divine grace. Most of us have never thought of these experiences in our lives as having any present "glory," when God intends them to be "reflectors" of His power and grace. Dr. George Matheson, the blind author of the beloved hymn, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," once offered a prayer of thanks for his affliction, in which he said: "I have been looking forward to a world where I shall get compensation for my cross, but I have never thought of the cross as having a present glory . . . Show me that I have climbed to thee by the path of pain. Show me that my tears have provided the reflection for my rainbow."

Shall we keep our hearts right that we may behold God's rainbows!

Word From Brother Drushal Concerning The Fire At Lost Creek, Kentucky

Wheeler Hall, the Building That Burned

"The Lord gave and the Lord permitted the passing."

The Lord gave the Wheeler Home to the work at Lost Creek. The money for this building was given by John and Sarah Wheeler of Nickerson, Kansas, for the purpose of providing a home for the Mountain Children. In 1941 a very good, substantial building was erected, two stories above the basement story. It was a very well constructed frame building, above the basement.

On Sunday night, January 23rd, this building was completely destroyed by fire. How it started, we do not know. The boys had all gone out to the Christian Endeavor meeting, except one boy who was asleep in the room next to where the fire started. The Kecks were also in the building. This boy was awakened by smoke coming into his room. He at once informed Brother Keck, but the fire had such a start that they could do nothing to check it. They had all they could do to get out through a window, Mrs. Keck being helped out that way.

We are glad that no one was seriously hurt. Brother Keck was slightly burned about the hand and Mrs. Keck suffered the most with shock and some back injury. The building and contents are a complete loss. Personally, the Kecks saved nothing. All that the different boys had was lost, as they only saved that which they had on in the way of clothing—all else they possessed was lost. The Kecks estimate their loss at around $2,500.00. One of the boys in the typewriter class in High School lost his typewriter and some other things. The boarding students, and the Kecks saved only what they were wearing. Brother Maurice Hall also lost much.

We are going along with the work by making some shifts, etc. Things of course, will be very inconvenient therein. But we trust we may be able to get along. We are not discouraged, for our God reigns, and HE IS ABLE.

We must not permit the temporary world to rob us of the Unchanging and Eternal.

THE GRAVE DANGER OF COMPLACENCY

By C. Y. Gilmer, Member of the National Goals Committee

SOMETHING must ever beckon us on. Religion without a great hope would be like an altar without a living fire. The law of life is change. Standardization without provision for change means stagnation. Certain kinds of growth we shudder at because it comes to an end—disaster. But if we go in the right direction there is an everlasting quest. In the right direction we can go as fast and as far as we like. There is no zest in life without growth. Life in essence is growth.

"Let thy work praise Me saith the Lord." We are established by our works. Generally we are praised by our value. Of one the Saviour said, "She hath done what she could." Of most folk it could be said, "They did the best they did—not could." We allow the good to be the enemy of the best. Church workers are seldom inclined to pray this prayer for development—"Lord, send me to the hardest job that will not crush me." We develop by hard assignments of work. Work is first and the fee is second. If the fee is first the lowest of devils is the master. Christian work is a calling and not a profession.

Leaders must stand on something beside dignity. A good leader is a noiseless part of the machinery. He is an artist, quiet and simple, short on promises and long on performances. He is not a tinkling brass, but a spirit moving on the face of the waters. A bluffer is in contempt because he tries to make a lot of lather without any soap when he ought at least use a little. Let All things be done "decently and in order"—but do them. Do the thing and all will be educated by it. The Americans that raised the cry of freedom were few in number, but they were like the pinch of salt in the porridge, they gave their flavor of independence to the whole community. The example of the willing and faithful few tells. The power of suggestion brings results.

Seldom is any progress made through denunciation. Ridicule and unbelief is a hindrance to progress. Lack of faith reduces progress. Go forward. God said unto Moses, "Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward." Keep sweet. Keep moving. Make progress. Do not fret. Do not worry. Create interest and desire. Have everyone doing something. Have committees do things. Liberate the people. Set them going. Do not stop initiative and invention. When responsibility is fastened upon people they are apt to respond. Trust produces self reliance and dependable workers. See clearly what the job is. You cannot do it yourself. But through the cooperation of all, solutions will be worked out. Inclination to pay the price will get results.

The largest room in the world is the room for improvement. The oriental says, "Sit, sit, sit," The occidental says, "Pep, pep, pep." The stronghold of Christianity is no longer in the orient, but in the occident. Growth comes by struggle. Without assuming responsibilities there is no development. Progress has no end except more progress.

The record for broad jumping was once less than 20 feet, and now it is about 26 feet. Life is growth. Let nothing get in the way of growth. In fact, to stay where you are you must run like everything.

Talk Up The Minister

YEARS AGO there was trouble in a certain church over the young pastor. Many members insisted upon his leaving; his few ardent supporters insisted with equal zest upon his remaining. Much bad feeling had been generated; the case was critical.

Finally two prominent officials called the congregation together and gave this counsel: "It is true that our pastor is not a great man. He does not preach learned or eloquent sermons. But we all know that he is a good man and that he is doing all in his power to promote our spiritual interests. Let us all agree to bear with him, instead of talk him down, let us go out from this meeting resolved to talk him up."

The advice was accepted. The result you can guess. The pastor remained in that church nearly half a century, and remarkable success attended his ministry to the close.

A good many people talk the minister down; they discount all his doings; they misunderstand his plainest sayings; they credit him with unworthy motives; they predestinate his failure. An angel could not succeed under such circumstances. That is unwise; it is unfair, and it is wicked.

How much better to "talk up" the minister! The world will accept him at your estimate and respect him according to the measure of your own respect.

Talk up the minister in your home. Help him to win and get the children saved. Lift up the minister along with the young people. Raise not a finger to break the spell of his uplifting influence.

Talk up the minister among your fellow members. Be his solid friend. Suffer no tongue of malice to speak against him in your presence.

Talk up the minister in the social circle, on the street, in the cars, in the factory, store, or office. Magnify his strong points, minify his weak ones. Speak kindly of him, or speak not at all.

Do you know what such loyalty to the minister will mean? In nine cases out of ten it will mean success!—Herald of Holiness. Taken from the Wesleyan Methodist Dec. 1, 1948.

It takes God a long time to get us out of the way of thinking that unless everyone sees as we do, they must be wrong.

"We must impart to little groups and through them to the world a new and burning vision. And, finally, with God's help we must turn back to Christ . . . to the flaming Master-Realist who actually lived and lives in love with life and with humanity. Through living with him and learning of him alone will come understanding and mastery of life." —Francis B. Sayre.

Canton, Ohio. A Sunday School Institute is scheduled in the Canton Church for Sunday, February 6th.

Meyersdale, Pennsylvania. Brother W. S. Benshoff, Meyersdale pastor, continues to report increased interest and attendance at the services. This is very gratifying.

New Paris, Indiana. Brother C. A. Stewart, New Paris pastor, reports that Rev. Austin Gable, pastor of our Denver-Center Chapel Circuit, showed the sound film, "The Journey into Faith," on Sunday evening, January 16th in the New Paris Church, and that on January 30th the sound film, "The God of Creation," produced by the Los Angeles branch of the Moody Bible Institute, was shown by Rev. R. D. Smith.

On Sunday evening, January 9th, Rev. Jesse Hoover, who spent a number of years in the Far East and in Europe, was the guest speaker at New Paris.

Washington, D. C. Brother C. S. Fairbanks, Washington pastor, reports that Cash Day in the new Washington Church has been set for February 6th, with a goal set for $1,250.00. They'll make it—they always do go over the top.

Pleasant Hill, Ohio. We received the following from Brother Floyd Sibert just as we were taking the "Interesting Items" copy from our typewriter. We quote: "The coping stones for our new brick educational unit were laid Tuesday. Save for the absence of the doors the building looks quite completed from the outside. The polished stone window sills were also placed yesterday. We meet Monday to consider bids for wiring. Once the wiring is done 'Our Gang' will start working on the lath and flooring. The original group of men numbered sixteen. If they all converge in the inside work we shall make short work of it. There will be some finish work to be done on the front wall of the church just back of the pulpit after we have done what we can. But still it should not be long before we can do a little rejoicing in our new unit that contains approximately the same floor space as the old building. Everything is paid for as far as we have gone. There has been no solicitation for money. The money has been turned in through our Sunday offerings. Our attendance has been very good, going over the 190 mark twice this month."

Other additions in your Annual. Inadvertently the designation, "Licensed" was omitted following the name of Brother J. D. Hamel, pastor of the Fairhaven, Ohio, Church. Please make this addition.

Warsaw, Indiana. A card from Brother W. B. Brant, pastor of the Warsaw Church, informs us that Evangelistic services will be held beginning on Monday, February 7th and continuing through February 20th, with Brother E. J. Black, pastor of our Bryan, Ohio, Church as evangelist. Brother Brant desires the prayers of the entire Brotherhood for this effort, and invites the surrounding churches to send delegations.

A Nickle For The Lord

Yesterday he wore a rose on the lapel of his coat, but when the plate was passed today he gave a nickel to the Lord. He had several bills in his pocket and sundry change, perhaps a dollar's worth, but he hunted about and finding this poor little nickel, he laid it on the plate to aid the church militant in its fight against the world, the flesh and the devil. His silk hat was beneath the seat, and his gloves and cane were beside it, and the nickel was on the plate—a whole nickel.

On Saturday afternoon he met a friend and together they had some refreshments. The cash register stamped sixty-five cents on the slip the boy presented to him. Peeling off a bill he handed it to the lad and gave him a nickel tip when he brought back the change. A nickel for the Lord and a nickel for the waiter.

And the man had his shoes polished on Saturday afternoon and handed out a dime without a murmur. He had a shave and paid twenty-five cents with equal alacrity. He took a box of candies home to his wife, and paid a dollar and forty cents for it, and the box was tied with a dainty bit of ribbon. Oh, yes, he also gave a nickel to the Lord.

Who is this Lord?

Who is He? Why the man worships Him as the Creator of the universe, the One who puts the stars in order, and by whose immutable decree the heavens stand. Yes, he does, and he dropped a nickel in to support the Church militant.

And what is the Church militant?

The Church militant is the church that represents upon the earth the triumphant Church of the great God.

And the man knew that he was just an atom in space, and he knew that the Almighty was without limitations and knowing this he put his hand in his pocket, and picked out a nickel, and gave it to the Lord.

And the Lord being gracious, and slow to anger, and knowing our frame, did not slay the man for the meanness of his offering, but gives him this day his daily bread!

The nickel hid beneath a quarter that was given by a poor woman that washes for a living. (Toronto Star.)

MAKING AMERICA SAFE FOR DIFFERENCES

Scripture: Matt. 7:1-5

THIS IS A LESSON on social relationships, that science which permits us to live together. When it works in harmony, we live in peace. When it gets out of balance, we have chaos. Things which make for disruption are selfishness, personal prejudices, jealousies, grudges, spites, etc. To counterbalance these evils we have peace, love, understanding, forgiveness and fair play, plus the rules of the game of life. Insofar as we are governed by the principles of our Christian living, are we going to be able to settle differences. That's why it is so important that we become Christians, and strive to live a Christian life always.

DISCUSSION

1. AMERICA, THE MELTING POT. The United States has often been called the melting pot of the races. True, about every race and nationality is represented in our citizenry. Bear in mind that the Christian principles and ethics which were incorporated in our Constitution is what permits this miracle to take place. Through a glass darkly we have seen what a real brotherhood in Christ could be. But, and this is the fly in the ointment, many of those who have entered our nation have not been interested in the rights of their fellowmen. They have entered by immigration and by birth. They have lived here, but are not motivated and controlled by the Christian principles which gives them freedom. This is the danger, then, that in allowing these to exist, we are endangering the freedom we have.

2. IT COULD GET WORSE. If these small groups, guaranteed liberty under the constitution, are to continue to spew their vile philosophies, they will in time gain in power sufficiently that they can control, and then what have you? Liberty will mean nothing. We are in danger when our liberty allows to exist the things which will in time destroy that liberty. We have gone overboard in allowing every ism, foreign thought and fanatic the right of free speech through voice, press and radio. These powers have only one thing in mind. the destruction of free speech in voice, press and radio. Let's get some sense into our reasoning and see where we are headed.

3. ONE EXAMPLE FOR PROTESTANTS. If you value your position as a protestant, be sure to read this article. In the United States we have allowed the Catholics every freedom of speech, and growth. To their advantage they have bought out the movie industry, the control of religious broadcasting, and the editorial position of many newspapers and magazines. Why? Because here they are in the minority. They have used these powers to remould a nation's thinking toward the Catholic. In a movie, or magazine article, or radio play, it is always a Catholic priest who is revered, who wins the struggle, or who is the hero. Protestant ideals of marriage, home and worship are dragged in the mire. We could go on citing examples. But it sums up a gigantic effort on the part of the Catholics to overpower the protestant faith in America.

4. WHAT THIS WILL MEAN. It states in Catholic literature, in essence, that "in a country where we (Catholic) are in a minority, we will grant every religious liberty, seeking cooperation with other faiths. But in a country where we are in the majority, the Catholic Church will control." And we quote you from letters received from our missionaries to South America when we tell you that in those Roman Catholic controlled countries, that the government is controlled by the Catholics. Protestant missionary work is almost an impossibility. Where active, they must give a complete list of members to the Catholic controlled government. See what that means to Christians?

5. CHRISTIANITY THE ANSWER. Finally, bear in mind that the liberty we have, comes from Christianity. If America is to be safe for all men, it must cling to the principles which make for safety. Just to let a man have his own way because the Constitution allows it, is no good if he is intent on destroying that which allows him his freedom. When Christ is honored, revered and upheld by the people, then we have a place that is safe for all. When He is not, then no man is safe. Study the world conditions today, and you will see what we mean. Next week we will make suggestions for the improvement and cure of the conditions presented tonight.

Men of The Cloth

H. A. Gossard

The men of the Cloth
Are supposed to be clean;
Tho millers and moth
In their garb might be seen . . .

They, though seeming meek
Might deceive the astute,
And be but a sneak
In the "wool" of a brute . . .

I gaze at these men
And I measure their stride;
But fail in my ken
To discern the inside . . .

If one I should choose,
Though his vestment be fine
From hat down to shoes,
And he show every sign

Of goodness without,
He must brandish the test
Which proves beyond doubt
That God sees through his vest . . .

THE KEEPER OF THE TEMPLE

By Annie Johnson Flint

"Know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost?" (1 Cor. 6:19)

How have I kept Thy temple, Guest divine—
The house that Thou hast deigned to call Thy shrine,
And bought at such a price, to make it Thine?

How have I watched beside its five-fold gate
Against the crafty foes that lie in wait,
And never let their vigilance abate.

Is there one purpose that Thou canst not bless,
Or one desire that I dare not confess;
One secret thought that Thou dost not possess?

Is there one room in body, spirit, soul,
Shut fast and barred away from Thy control?
Enter Thou in, O Lord! and take the whole.

Scourge from its courts whatever can defile,
Malice and wrath and selfish greed and guile,
Each word and act on which Thou canst not smile;

For Thou Thyself must cleanse Thy dwelling place,
Illumine with the brightness of Thy face,
And furnish with Thine all-sufficient grace.

Enter Thou in and make me all Thine own,
In spirit, soul, and body reign alone,
Without a rival on my being's throne.

KEEPING GOD'S TEMPLES CLEAN

Scripture: Romans 6:1-23

Clean Life Hymns

Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

CHRIST as our Example would not defile His body with evil habits (1 Peter 2:21). We represent Him and are to do His work (John 20:21; 14:12). We are to try to live as Jesus lived (Phil. 2:5). One cannot imagine Jesus using tobacco or imbibing alcoholic drinks! Read your Bible and see if the Holy Spirit leads you to believe that Jesus would do such things. It is a sin for us to do anything that Jesus would not do.

The Holy Spirit indwells the body of every Christian (Rom. 8:9). Read 1 Cor. 3:16, 17. The body of a saved person is the temple of God's Holy Spirit. The body belongs to the Spirit (1 Cor. 6:19, 20). God will destroy any man who will sin against Him by defiling a Christian's body. One cannot serve Christ apart from his body (Rom. 12:1, 2). Bad habits do not glorify God in the body. Rather they offend the Spirit. Anything that harms the body must grieve the Spirit (1 Thess. 5:22, 23).

The misdeeds of the body are bound to hinder a Christian's influence for good (1 Cor. 8:9-13). We dare not mislead others; we must not lose their confidence in our Christianity; we are not to be "stumbling-blocks." A man should not do things that he would despise in women and little children (Matt. 18:6). A double standard is not of God but of this present wicked world.

Anything that enslaves the will and puts one in a yoke of bondage to the lust of the flesh is sin (Rom. 8:12, 13). To be controlled by the unlawful desires of the flesh is sin (Rom. 6:12; John 8:34). Enslavement of habit is always in evil matters. The habits of right matters is always a matter of control. Some boast of self-control, but nothing equals the God-controlled life. The practice of Christians should always show forth the mind of God. We should conscientiously reflect the will of God (1 John 4:17; Titus 2:12). If we have to give an account of every idle word we say (Matt. 5:37), we surely have to give an account for every misspent dollar (2 Cor. 5:10; Luke 16:2) which does not make us rich toward God. We cannot afford expensive habits as long as millions of heathen have not heard the Gospel. If there is any doubt about one's deeds honoring the Christ we should not indulge (Rom. 14:23; 1 Cor. 10:31).

COMMENTS

On The Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for February 20, 1949

MAN POWER FOR KINGDOM WORK

Lesson: Mark 1:16-20; Luke 6:12-16

AS WE APPROACH this lesson which concerns the choice Jesus made of those twelve men who were to be with Him constantly through the three and one-half years of His intensive ministry, we are made to stop and ponder over the incidents that must have led up to such a choice.

It surely must be quite evident to one who thinks, that Jesus did not just go out on a walk along the shores of the Sea of Galilee and, seeing some men who were engaged in fishing, very bluntly accost them and without any previous introduction, utter the words found in the second verse of our lesson, "Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men." Nor would it be reasonable that these men, who made their living by fishing, would "straightway" forsake their nets and "follow" Him, as is recorded in the next verses. But that is the story of the calling of Simon and Andrew and James and John.

That they had previous contact with Jesus and His teachings we know from other scriptures. Had He not taught the multitudes along the shore from their boats; had He not commanded them to lower their nets which encompassed a great multitude of fishes? Had not at least two of them been introduced to Him by John the Baptist with the words, "Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world," and had they not followed Him and remained closeted with Him for almost an entire day? No, theirs was not a blind following, nor an untutored obedience. They believed and thus they followed.

These men, which Jesus chose ever so carefully, were men that represented the different phases of life—from silence to impetuous boasting; from doubting to consistent faith; from absolute trustfulness to avariciousness and devilish cunning; from outstanding boldness to cringing fear; from heroic faithfulness to base denial—every phase of which can be easily traced through this band of men to which Jesus, on His last night with them could say, as recorded in our Golden Text, “You did not choose me, but I chose you and appointed you that you should go and bear fruit.

Did He do it blindly? Certainly not, for we read that He did not have to be told what was in men, for He knew. He could look through the material man into the very center of his spiritual being, and know him for what he really was. Did He not say, “I have chosen you and one of you is a devil!” And when making the choice of Matthew the record is that “He saw the man,” not his business, but the man himself. He knew the weakness of Peter for He said to him, “When thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren,” and when Peter declared that though all other forsake Him that he would never do so, Jesus said, “Before the cock crow, thou shalt deny me thrice.” How did he know? Well, He knows all things!

It was around these disciples or Apostles that the work of the early church grew. They furnished the original “man power.” Trained, as they were in Christ’s own school, they were able to make His message live on. There can be no other good reason for Jesus’ choice of these men to be with Him continually except that, knowing He must become the propitiation for our sins, He needed men in this world who knew Him and “the power of His death and resurrection” to continue the task which He had begun. And He is still calling disciples to “Come follow Me” and to become “Fishers of men.”

The Man With a Consecrated Car

He couldn't speak before a crowd;
He couldn't teach a class;
But when he came to Sunday School
He brought the folks “enmasse.”

He couldn't sing to save his life;
In public, couldn't pray;
But always his “jalopy” was Just crammed on each Lord's Day.

And though he couldn't sing, nor teach,
Nor even lead in prayer—
He listened well; he had a smile—
And he was always there.

With all the others whom he brought
Who lived both near and far—
And God's work was greatly prospered
For he had a consecrated car.

NEWS FROM OUR CHURCHES

UDELL, IOWA

Not since the days of S. H. Bashor, N. W. Jennings, and G. T. Ronk, has there been such a “Lift toward the Lord” in Udell, and that's been thirty some years ago. Our Victory Revival was a VICTORY indeed for His Kingdom.

We had all kinds of weather in this southern Iowa community. Ice, sleet, snow, rain, soft roads and frozen roads, wind and quiet. But the people rolled in for twenty-five miles around—Baptists, Methodists, Nazarines, Brethren, Church of the Brethren, Christian, and what-not. Sixteen first-time confessions, several renewals of faith, some dedications, etc. The average attendance was 132 for two weeks straight. The highs were—233, 232, 101 twice, 166, 148, 146, etc.

Never have we had such a flood of “specials” for a meeting. Some one was ready to respond each evening; solos, duets, quartettes, etc. One night the service was recorded on a “wire recording machine.” The meetings were announced over the air and the daily papers carried accounts of the progress of the services from time to time. It was the talk of the town, community, and over the county.

We have baptized and received 7, and will have three by letter and relation. Some were ill and could not be present for baptism, and we hope to have them later.

It's been a long, hard struggle in the valley during the past years, but now has come the Mountain Top experiences for which we are so happy and rejoiced that we feel like we are walking on AIR. Two new classes have been added to our church school, and there are requests for mid-week prayer, Bible study and singing. This will be carried out. The next move or buy will be new Hymn Books, and we feel the Lord will help us in this.

The Offerings during the meetings were sufficient to care for all the needs and the love gifts to the Singer and Evangelist were far above the average. Praise the Lord. We're Marching to Zion.

If you folks out there who have been praying and helping us in the past want to, you may say a BIG “AMEN!”

W. R. Deeter.

REVIVAL AT FLORA, INDIANA

It was my happy privilege to be with the Flora Brethren for a two weeks meeting in October. This happiness was greatly increased by the fact that their pastor, now Rev. Edgar Berkshire, was one of my ardent helpers in a seven year pastorate at Masontown, Pennsylvania. Our association brought back many pleasant memories. Since the honor and sacred duty of ordaining Brother Edgar to the Christian ministry was conferred upon me I shall always follow, with more than a passing interest, his work among the churches. He and his good wife and family were the best of help all during the campaign. It was a real pleasure and inspiration to work with them. Brother Berkshire took the opening service and conducted the song services in a most efficient manner. He has a fine congregation and is doing a good work in and through it.

The people of the Flora church are real Brethren who are not turned about by every passing breeze that blows.

They have a loyalty to their church that any of our churches might well emulate. This came to light when on the second week of our meeting a formerly prominent evangelist moved in and went to work about a block and a half from our church. Our brethren could have played checkers with the attendance, but they didn't. They had a task to do and they stayed with it. There was a constancy and seriousness on the part of those who came that would gladden the heart of any evangelist. The choir gave us valuable assistance as did also the Sisterhood girls. The special numbers were timely and a real challenge to saint and sinner alike. It seemed that two weeks was too short. The working power of the Spirit seemed to be just blossoming out in the middle of the second week. But with a building program on at home it seemed that I could not stay longer. The vows that were made and the moves that were taken toward a closer walk with the Lord made the revival effort more than worthwhile. A real revival keeps on reviving indefinitely after the revival campaign has stopped. Where this result is missing there may be a meeting but certainly there can be no revival. It is a most uncommon thing in these days to find the unsaved coming to an evangelistic service before a real revival has taken place among the membership. This should not seem to be surprising for it was our Lord who said, "If I be lifted up, (I) will draw all men unto Me."

The graciousness of the Flora Brethren would challenge any section of our brotherhood. There were more places to go and more good things to eat than I could manage. It seemed that every door was open to us, including the pastor and family, and a sign hanging out saying, "Come for all things are ready." We were most comfortably housed for a week and a half in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Jones. While they were right in the midst of remodeling and the erection of a new dairy barn we were nevertheless royally entertained. This does not exclude the two little Jones either—Harry and Fred. If any farmer desires real information on the erection of Quonset steel barns and milking machines let them write to "The Jones Brothers," Flora. Little Harry and Fred know the answers.

The last half of the last week I just had to spend at the Berkshires or the Berkshire Sisters weren't going to like me any more. I really owed it to them and more for they sang beautifully for me in the meeting and even little Loren came in with his share. We didn't have time to really finish our visit until it was all over. Every minutes of the meeting was enjoyable. I never found it easier to preach at any meeting I have held. (Again I want to thank them for the most Generous offering.) Brethren Swihart, Higgins, Carrithers and delegations were present at different times during the meetings. Rev. Males, Humbert, and the Church of the Brethren pastor were also present at the services. I greatly enjoyed the exchange of pulpits with the Peru Brethren on Thursday night.

With a good plant, a gracious and sizeable congregation and a Godly and efficient couple in the parsonage this church should prosper in the Lord. May the blessings of the Almighty attend their ways.

I shall not soon forget our visit with the good people of our Brethren Home. They have a real friend and pastor in Brother Edgar, and they love him.

Rev. Floyd Sibert.

We live in the present, we dream of the future; but we learn eternal truths from the past.

Laid to Rest

COCHRAN. On January 2, 1949, Brother Grover C. Cochran, a member of the Oakville, Indiana, Brethren Church for many years, passed from this life to the life eternal. Born in Henry County, Indiana, on June 9, 1884, he spent his lifetime in this area. Brother Cochran was very well known in these parts for his ingenuity, his desire to work, and his fine personal character.

Although ailing for some time, Brother Cochran could not bear to sit idly by, but chose rather to continue devoting his time and efforts to his hardware business and to his large orchards. He was always ready to help in any new endeavor at the church and continued to support the church, even when unable to attend her services.

Services were conducted at the home on January 6, with the undersigned in charge. Interment at Tomlinson Cemetery.

Henry Bates.

ROSS. On January 13, 1949, the Lord called home one of our faithful attendants and workers in the person of Sister Edith M. Ross. Born fifty-three years ago, the daughter of Andrew and Ella Ross, she spent her years right in this community. Having united with the Methodist Church while quite young, Sister Ross was not a member of the Oakville Church, but one would never have known this, judging from her faithful attendance at all the church's services, and her willingness to help in any way she could. Sister Edith was a member of the W. M. S. here. Although she had been doctoring for some months, her death, the result of a stroke, came as a shock to all who knew her.

Sister Ross leaves a sister, Mrs. Mary Siewert; a niece, Mrs. Jeanette White; and a nephew, Dr. Donald Siewert. Services were conducted in the Oakville Church with the pastor in charge. The ladies of the W. M. S. had a part in the service for their departed member. Interment at the Mt. Summit Cemetery.

Henry Bates, pastor.

MINNIX. Charles Minnix was born December 2, 1877 and departed this life at the family home, near Gratis, Ohio, November 21, 1948, being in his seventy-first year. He was a respected citizen and a successful farmer. More than three years ago he suffered a paralytic stroke. From this he had gradually recovered until he could be out of the house occasionally. During his illness, he accepted Christ as his personal Saviour, under the pastorate of Rev J. Edgar Berkshire. He told this pastor, four days before the end came suddenly, that he hoped to be able to receive baptism next spring.

He is survived by two daughters, one son, six grandchildren, two brothers and three sisters. Funeral services were held from the Gratis Brethren Church with Rev.

Ervan Eikenberry of the Old Order Brethren Church, a lifelong neighbor and this pastor officiating. Interment was in Fairview Cemetery, Gratis.

William S. Crick.

RAUDEBAUGH. Mrs. Mary G. Raudebaugh, a member of the Fair Haven, Ohio, Brethren Church, passed from this life to be with her Lord, on December 4, 1948. Her age was 69 years, 1 month and 6 days.

She was married to Dr. E. C. Raudebaugh on March 15, 1917. The stepchildren are Karl of Cleveland, and True of Columbus. She was preceded in death by her father, mother and four brothers.

Funeral by the undersigned from the Addis Funeral Home at West Salem, Ohio.

J. D. Hamel.

CASSEDAY. John B. Casseday, son of John and Elizabeth (Buckley) Casseday, was born on July 12, 1864, two miles east of Tunnelton, West Virginia, and died December 19, 1948, at Salem, Oregon, in the home of his daughter, Wilma Baker, where he has made his home for the past two and a half years. His age was 84 years, 5 months and 7 days.

Surviving are two sons: E. F. Casseday, who is principal of the High School in Terra Alta, West Virginia, and John F. Casseday, who is a druggist in Elkins, West Virginia; one daughter, Wilma Baker of Salem, Oregon, and seven grandchildren.

He was a member of the Brethren Church for over fifty-five years. Brother Casseday owned and operated the Casseday Hotel in Terra Alta for a number of years.

Funeral services were held at Salem, Oregon and Memorial services were held in the Fike-Watson Funeral Home, in Terra Alta, by Rev. Emra Fike on December 26th.

Mrs. Roy Whitehair.

Travel Flashes

Dr. Charles A. Bame

No Travel

Who ever remembers a time when it was more difficult to travel than now? This very morning, over the radio, we learned that a single man brought to Chicago a fifty-car load of cattle and sheep just to save them from starvation and cold. Incidentally these brought him $170,000.00. Another tells that unless Uncle Sam helps to the tune of $200,000.00, literally millions of sheep and cattle will be starved or frozen to death in the single state of Utah, while 7,000 people are crowded into scant space in small cities of the Rockies, cold, hungry and disappointed at not being in California, their destination, where, it is possible, they would not keep much warmer; and where other millions of dollars are lost in frozen orange and lemon juice, on the trees.

What a world is this! Who can read Matthew 24, 25, or Mark 13, or Luke 21, and remain blind as to what is happening before our eyes? I wonder if we are all ready for the trip through the air? I Thess. 4:15-18. "That will be some trip," as men say today. We'll need no rocket plane nor other method of travel and we'll not be disappointed with the speed or the luxury of the cuisine; (John 6:35; Rev. 7:16; 22:2) nor for the climate of the city to which we have been speeded; (Rev. 22:5) nor of its beauty; (Psalm 48:2; 50:2) nor of the company we shall have en-route; (I Thess. 4:17) nor of the elaborate refinements of the redeemed personnel when we arrive. (Rev. 21:8).

Are We Ready?

The supreme question for this trip is: "Can we go along?" Can it be said that we have been concerned and made the necessary reservations? Matthew 7:13-14. Three brief passwords must be on our lips. The passwords are: "Be ready," Matt. 24:44; 25:10; "Be watching," Matt. 24:42; 25:13; "Be sober," I Peter 1:13; 4:5; 5:8. It will be a "Travel Flash" indeed. Is your path shining "more and more unto the perfect day?" Prov. 4:18. Are you learning at the Tavern? at the Ball Game? at the Prize Fight? or the Bridge Party? Or even at home, lazing around while the pastor's heart bleeds for your disregard of his message and purpose to help you to be readied for the trip?

When Jesus comes to reward His servants,
Whether it be noon or night;
Faithful to Him will He find us watching
With our lamps all trimmed and bright?

—Matthew 25:7-8.

Have you ever come to the station just as the train pulled out, puffing with contemptible pride and disdain of your conviction that you just must catch that train? Well, "Better be safe than sorry!" We'll need to be all dressed and ready for this trip, also. To miss it will be sadness, sorrow, regrets and lamentations for endless time. Just picture "calling for rocks and mountains to fall" on one, and a desire to be hidden from that trip through the air! Luke 23:30; John 16:20; James 4:9; Rev. 6:16. I trust that it will never happen to any of the thousands who have heard the warnings and professed to leave all and follow the Lord under my ministry. Will it be excusable to miss that Travel? I say no! But one cannot be really Brethren and disbelieve the word of our Book.

"Holy Bible, book divine,
Precious treasure, thou art mine.
Mine to tell me whence I came;
Mine to teach me what I am.

Mine to tell of joys to come,
And the rebel sinner's doom:
O thou holy book divine,
Precious treasure, thou art mine.

Fire At Lost Creek, Kentucky

Sunday evening, January 23rd, fire of unknown origin completely destroyed the Wheeler Home for boys. Twenty-five boys and Reverend and Mrs. Keck lived in this building.

The building is a big loss to the mission work, but we should all be so thankful that no life was lost.

The Kecks were heavy losers. The parents and two children lost all their clothing except what they were wearing, besides furniture, personal effects and numerous precious gifts which had been given them by friends and churches.

Within minutes after the word of the fire was received, the president and secretary of the Mission Board agreed that the Executive Committee of the Board be called at once and by doing so, we wired Reverend Drushal the same day that he could draw on the mission funds to the amount of $500 for emergency relief, beds, blankets, clothing, etc., so that no one need suffer.

Brethren Churches came to the rescue also, Ashland people soon provided a load of blankets, comforters, linens, towels, and clothes. It was Wednesday when Mr. and Mrs. Munson delivered it at Lost Creek. Also, while the women were knotting comforters and collecting funds to help Mrs. Keck secure clothing, the ministers and laymen at Ashland were doing the good part for Rev. Keck by buying for him a new suit and other accessories.

Linwood, Maryland Church, the former pastorate of the Reverend Keck, sent word to the Missionary Board that all of their missionary gifts which came through the Sunday School, $359.10, be sent to the Keck family.

Goshen, Indiana, sent a hurried message asking what they could do to help relieve the situation. Glenford and Gretna both responded.

Reverend Drushal writes, "We do hope and trust that the building can be put back. The Devil has tried hard to destroy the work here, and if he succeeds keeping this building down he will have accomplished a lot toward his goal."

REBUILD  REBUILD

Everywhere for a week, I have heard—"We must rebuild." This work has gone on 44 years. It must continue. That is the sentiment of our people.

(The Board holds an insurance policy for $2000 on the building which was consumed.)

So now we say—Everyone who has found joy in this missionary project at Lost Creek and wants to vote for a New Building, just mail your check or pledge with date for payment to the Missionary Board of the Brethren Church, 524 College Ave., Ashland, Ohio. (A report will be made every month.) This will be known as the "Boys' Dormitory Fund."

Some churches carry a sizeable sum in their treasuries; why not vote a gift for such a worthy purpose and thus have the Lord's money in service?

Who will start the Boys' Dormitory Fund?

Man's Task

Does God tap every man on the shoulder and give him a special invitation to do a specific task? No. Some have had special calls; others have not. What constitutes a call to service? Human need and our ability to meet that need. Where men need bread, God is calling those of us who have bread to share it with them. Where men need truth, God is calling those who know the truth to share it with them. Are men oppressed? God is calling to us to do everything in our power to liberate them. Are men stumbling along without Christ? God is calling every Christian to bring them Christ. If we cannot go and preach Christ to them ourselves, we can give our money to send others.

Always A Priority - - Our Church

by D. C. White

This subject impressed me with the fact of the overwhelming responsibility that rests upon every Christian to give to his or her church first place in their life and service. Then and not until then will the church be able to take her place as the power of God unto salvation in the midst of this sin cursed world.

It may be profitable to consider the first church as recorded in John 1:35-50. "Again the next day after John stood, and two of his disciples; and looking upon Jesus as he walked, he saith, "Behold the Lamb of God! And the two disciples heard him speak and they followed Jesus." This first chapter of John gives an account of the first disciples who came to Jesus. They were Andrew, John, Simon, Philip, and Nathanael. If we were organizing a church today we would call them the charter members.

These new members in a new organization were at once zealous for the church's success. They revealed a trait that is essential to the growth of the church by each bringing something into it and thus giving PRIORITY to their zeal, interest, and service.

We read that Andrew brought his brother Simon to Jesus. Who but God can know the loss to the church through all the ages had not Andrew brought Simon. In John, 6th chapter, he brought the boy with the loaves and the fishes. In John, 12th chapter, he brought the Greeks who said, "Sir, we would see Jesus." Andrew revealed a trait with out which every Christian will fail in his responsibility to the church, that of being a personal worker.

The other disciple who heard Jesus speak was the beloved John, who at the last supper leaned on Jesus' breast. Yes, he was always close to the heart of his Master. John had high spiritual insight, a trait which is absolutely essential in giving our church PRIORITY in this materialistic age.

Next we have Simon (Peter) who, if it had been left to man to choose, would have said, "No, you cannot depend on that fellow," but Jesus looked under the human nature and saw the hidden strength of his devotion and service. This trait also must be a part of the Christian life if the church is to have PRIORITY.

Philip, another member of the first church was the only one of the five whom Jesus directly called. This would lead us to think that he would be the most outstanding of them all, but in reality he was just a plain common person and Jesus had to make His sayings plain for him to understand them. Yet he had the knowledge that Christ was King of Kings and Lord of Lords. When the members of the church become filled with the gospel they will give our church PRIORITY.

The last of these five members of the first church was Nathanael, in whom Jesus said, "There was no guile." Here we find one who was upright and righteous in thought and deed. The crying need of the church today is an increase in the number of members like unto Nathanael.

What then were the outstanding talents of the first church? A—Personal Work. B—Spirituality. C—Loyalty. D—Humility in service. E—Righteousness.

The reason then for these men giving the church PRI-ORITY in their lives and service was that they had looked into the face of Christ in whom was love, majesty, and power. When the church at large comes in contact with these magnetic powers of Jesus, then the noble, the pure, and the holy will be revealed and man will yield himself to the touch of the potter's hand and be made over a vessel pleasing unto God.

If the church of Christ is to have PRIORITY in the faithfulness of its members, they must get a fuller vision of the set face. "He set His face to go to Jerusalem." The face of Jesus moved slowly towards all that awaited Him there; betrayal, desertion, false witnesses, the mock trial, the scourge, the thorns, the cross and then, oh then, the darkness of the tomb. Jesus saw it all even in Gethsemane when He cried, "Oh, My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass."

The men who held Jesus mocked Him and smote Him and when they had blindfolded Him, they struck Him on the face, and asked Him, saying, "Prophecy, who is it that smote thee!" This is a sad word picture of the face of Jesus, but one that should move every follower of the Lord Jesus to give His or Her church PRIORITY.

A larger number of church members are like Moses; giving one excuse after another to get out of giving their church first place, but they, like Moses, also lose the blessing. God told Moses that if he refused to obey and go speak to Pharaoh that He would send Aaron as his mouthpiece. Are you giving your church PRIORITY OF YOUR TALENTS AND POSSESSIONS? Some years ago I had an outline on "Consecrated Service" which I feel will be very profitable to use here. This outline is a conversation between some of the faithfuls of long ago. God speaking to Joshua said, "What is in thine hand, Joshua?" Joshua said, "A spear." Then God said, "Stretch out thy spear that is in thy hand toward Ai," and God gave Joshua victory through obedience. The church of today has a mighty spiritual weapon, the Bible. Let us use it and the church will have PRIORITY.

"What is in thine hand, Gideon?" He answered lamps, pitchers, and trumpets. God said, "Use them." God can take little things and make them mighty in the hands of the faithful.

"What is in thine hand, David? A harp?" Music can still the troubled breast and cause the tired heart to rest. Marvelous is the power of music for good. All God's gifts are in harmony. Almost divine are the strains of the organ, and the voice that sings forth His praises are like angelic music. Are you talented with this great power? Then use it for the glory of God and His church.

"What is in thine hand, Mary?" A box of precious ointment to anoint my precious Lord and Master. Some have said, "The perfume of that precious ointment has filled the world." The one that did that seemingly small thing shall not lose her reward.

"What is in thine hand, Dorcas?" Just a little needle going in and out so that the poor and naked can be clothed and warm. By this humble service Dorcas built for herself a monument greater than one of marble.

"What is in thine hand, Christian?" Is it a workman's tool, is it wealth, is it talent, is it love for the sick and sorrowing? Go see them. Is it a warm handshake and a word of cheer to the unfortunate of life? If we consecrate our all to Christ then our church will have PRIORITY.

What is our church to us? It may be a great inspiring structure with its great steeple pointing towards heaven or it may be just a country church in some neglected spot or just a building at some cross road. No matter which, it is our church and it is the bride of Christ. Let us treat His bride well, and ask ourselves the question, "What can I do for my church?" Well, you can love it. I heard of a business man who "Talked Up" his church and his pastor almost as much as he did his business and urged his customers to come hear his minister. You can be more loyal in attendance. You can be more friendly. Always greet those who are around you in the service. Tarry a while and enjoy the fellowship of God's people. Offer visitors your seat. You are no stranger and can easily find another one. Take responsibility and do whatever you are asked. Say to yourself, "I am through declining." Let each one of us resolve to do our best for Christ and His church in this year of 1949 and then I am sure our church will have PRIORITY.

HUNTINGTON, INDIANA

The Huntington Church is prospering in a most interesting way under the leadership of Reverend and Mrs. C. Y. Gilmer. It has been noted that their plans are made with a long distance view. Their summer Bible school is already in the program of planning. The same can be said for the preparation of a summer camp for their children and young people. The Easter Sunrise Service is in charge of their Laymen's Organization. This church has also been working on a parsonage fund which is represented by a thermometer which showed a rise of 100 degrees last Sunday. This church is rapidly being elevated in the eyes of the people of the city of Huntington as well as the denomination. Our readers will be interested to know that this church has given their pastor and his wife a unanimous call to remain in this position for another year beginning April 1, 1949.

The Need for Evangelist Activity

by J. G. Dodds

Text: "O Lord, revive Thy work." Hab. 3:2.

The very fact that the above subject and text were assigned evidences a conviction that evangelistic activity lacks the proper emphasis. Since we are Brethren the question is, "Is there a need for evangelistic activity in the Brethren Church?"

To begin with, without evangelistic activity any church would be a failure. The spirit of evangelism is the spirit of Jesus. The commission of Jesus to the Church is one of evangelism: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature; beginning at home, then in Judea, then in Samaria, then into the uttermost parts of the earth." When the early church settled down in Jerusalem and made no attempt to reach Judea, it was in grave danger of obliteration.

From reports and personal observation, it would appear that many local churches are satisfied only to carry on and maintain services for the few who enjoy good singing and high sounding scholarly platitudes, and are willing to pay the bills. That church is a dying church. It is a church without power and a church that will never make any impression on the world. That church is not evangelistic. Nor does merely holding a meeting once a year make an evangelistic church. "An evangelistic church is a church which, from pulpit to primary, is permeated by a desire to see a constant inflow of people who have come to know Christ as Redeemer and Lord, and who, in turn, are seeking to lead others to the same experience."

What is the condition within the Brethren Church? Is there a need for evangelistic activity? Ought we to be praying, "O Lord, revive Thy Work?"

After the Tunkers settled in America, families moved into new areas. Wherever they went the whole Bible message was preached, converts were added and churches established. During the early years of the Brethren Church, the preachers and the laity were not ashamed of "the Faith once for all delivered to the saints." Ministers were evangelistic and doctrinal in their preaching. Thus the membership increased and Brethren Churches were organized. "O Lord, revive Thy work."

Recent statistics are very revealing. Reports for 1947 compared to 1946 show that of the 100 churches checked, 48% increased in membership while 52% made no gain. Again, reports for 1948 compared to 1947 show that for the same 100 churches, 48% increased in membership while 52% made no gain. Thus for two successive years, 52 out of 100 churches made no gain. Is there need for evangelistic activity? Ought we to pray, "O Lord, revive Thy work?"

What are the results when any pastor and his church engage in evangelistic activity? The same statistic reports quoted above show that the churches which made the largest percentage of increases in membership were churches whose pastors are zealous in evangelistic activity. Their preaching is largely doctrinal and evangelistic. In checking the reports, I find that seven churches made gains ranging from 15.7% to 80%. (National Goals Program asks for 15% annual increase.) Another of our larger churches increased its membership by 10% %. In every one of these churches is a pastor who is actively evangelistic. Consequently the churches are also actively evangelistic, so they grow and go. What victory might be realized in the entire denomination if all were engaged in evangelistic activity? "The people without vision, they will perish."

I am convinced that the paramount issue of the Gospel platform is evangelism. A close study of the life of Christ in the four gospels reveal the fact that Christ sought out, interviewed and brought individuals to a saving knowledge of the truth. For instance: One day He sought out an office-holder sitting at the seat of custom, and after a brief interview with him, Matthew became an ardent follower of Christ. Another day He sought out a lost sheep of the house of Israel and after a most heart-searching interview, the woman at the well hastened back into the village and became a most enthusiastic follower of Christ. On another occasion He invited Himself to the home of a political grafter, and at the close of that private interview, Zacchaeus was not only ready to make restitution, but was willing to give of his time, treasures and talents in the service of the Master.

On invitation, Andrew spent a wonderful day with the Master and became a flaming evangelist for his Lord. "He first findeth his own brother Simon." The very next day Jesus finds Philip, and Philip immediately goes and finds his friend Nathaniel.

If and when the spirit of evangelism be dominant in the life of the pastor, it will reach down into the lives of the people who make up the congregation. And if the pastor has this spirit, I believe it will be reflected in all departments of the church life. Whenever the superintendent has it, it will affect the hearts and lives of the teachers and scholars, and the spirit of evangelism will permeate the school. This spirit of evangelism demands that pastor and people desire to see souls won to Christ.

If we could only get the whole church to realize fully that the paramount issue of the Gospel is evangelism; that the supreme work of the Church is personal evangelism; and that the chief business of every Christian is to seek and find others and to hear a faithful work of testimony to Jesus Christ, how many precious souls could be brought to Jesus and into the church this year.

Is there a need in the Brethren Church for Evangelistic Activity? Let every member of the church give an unbiased answer. Then may we together pray, "O Lord, revive Thy work."

Eighteen Year Struggle For New Church To Be Climaxed Dedication Set For February 13

Muncie Indiana Church

After 18 years of "upward struggle," the First Brethren Church of Muncie will dedicate its new church building at Kirby Ave. and Blaine Sts., Feb. 13. Recently completed, the new structure represents the end-product of a desire which has burned in the hearts of congregations since 1931, when the cornerstone was laid.

It was in May, 1931, under the pastorate of the Reverend M. L. Sands, that plans for the building were formulated. Adequate funds were made available at that time for the building of the foundation; and the basement portion of the church reached completion before the depression intervened to dispell all thoughts of finishing the structure for an indefinite period. The congregation was forced to conduct services in the basement, while committees were formed to start the building fund rolling once more.

THROUGHOUT the pastorates of the Reverend George Jones and Delbert Flora, contributions trickled in to the coffers marked "Building Fund." No matter how small the individual offerings, every penny meant that the ultimate goal was that much nearer realization.

Rev. C. F. Zimmerman

In 1944, with the appointment of the Reverend E. D. Burnworth as minister, the plans drawn up so many years before were discussed with renewed interest. And the Reverend Burnworth devoted much of his time to organizing a campaign which would make the building possible. His efforts became so inspiring to the congregation, in fact, that he was known affectionately as "the sparkplug" of the drive.

Finally, in May of 1948, the Reverend Burnworth saw his dream begin to materialize, as work was started on the structure which was to be built "from the basement up." And it was on December 26 that the first services were held in the new building, completed all but some interior varnishing.

Shortly after the initial services were conducted, the Reverend Burnworth resigned his post; to retire to his farm near Muncie, but not before he had guaranteed a virtually debt-free future for the church. Appointed to replace him was the Reverend C. F. Zimmerman who arrived in Muncie barely 10 days ago, and under whose direction the February dedicatory services will be conducted.

AND NOW the stately structure at the corner of Kirby Ave. and Blaine St. has opened its doors to a proud congregation. Constructed of yellow brick, the building boasts the newest in church architecture and furnishings. All modern building developments were employed to make it a joy for the members who worked so long and hard toward its completion. And perhaps the most significant and rep-

SOURCES OF SPIRITUAL DESTITUTION TODAY

by Clarence Fairbanks

In a previous article on the theme, "Spiritual Destitution Today" I emphasized the point that one of the most hopeful signs of spiritual recovery is the fact that we are beginning to recognize how poor we really are. When a man recognizes and confesses that he is ill and needs the attention of a physician, there is some hope that a solution to his problems will be found. I believe that the world is beginning to awaken to the terrible spiritual poverty of our times. There are indications that in the midst of so many material things, we are conscious of a need higher than these.

I. One of the great sources of our spiritual destitution today is the fact that we have replaced the teachings of God with the teachings of men. Dr. Kenneth Scott Latourette points out in his recent book, "The Christian Outlook" that "The church is always influencing the culture in which it exists and is in turn influenced by it." It is tragic that the church has been molded so much more by the world than it has influenced it. A large segment of the church has been guilty at times of trying to erase man's responsibility for sin by saying that he is the mere product of glands, environment, or fate. When the church preaches that sort of a gospel, it is little wonder that men behave so badly.

World philosophies result in world conditions. It is just as true of nations and of the world as it is of men that, "as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." When the nations teach that we can solve our own problems, there is little room or even need left for God. But the smug complacency of yesterday is beginning to disappear. It has disappeared so much that General MacArthur was led to say, "Our problems are theological rather than military." He is putting the responsibility for directing the world thought where it belongs—with the church.

II. Although the philosophies had much to do with bringing about the present conditions, they do not need to shoulder all of the blame. The rapid advancement in all fields of science led us also to believe that we do not need to rely on God to answer our prayers. Through scientific means we can answer our own prayers.

So the second source of spiritual destitution today is the fact that we have replaced God with a false god of science. There was a time when men prayed for food. Not many people in America feel the need to pray for food any more. Science is our god for it has given us better seed, better soil, better fertilizers, and more and better machinery. We do not have to rely on the God of Israel, we rely on the god of science. We do not feel the need now to pray so much for the physical ills of our bodies for medical science has been able to restore sight to the blind, bring strength to the weakened and crippled limbs, and to cure our other ills. True, it has not gone all the way of replacing God, but it has taken a big step in that direction.

Shall we condemn and stop scientific advancement? No, for the source of our spiritual weakness is not science, but men. The trouble is that men have not been able to recognize the arm of God behind the hand of science.

III. If we were tempted to believe that we were self-sufficient, we received a rude jolt when the atomic age was ushered in. We suddenly found that the material needs were not the only things with which we must be concerned. We can now see that the richest nation on earth could be destroyed because it lacks the moral and spiritual qualities to make it strong. Just at the time that we felt the most self-sufficient, there suddenly arose the awful fact of our sin, our need of divine grace, and our need for a power that science cannot furnish.

Even in the church itself, we have often had a name that we were alive when we were really dead. We have set up a vast and complicated machinery within the church to meet every conceivable need of our people except the spiritual needs. The church has sponsored many economic, social, and recreational projects that have been good and have met a real need, but what has become of our spiritual projects?

Thomas Chalmers was once pondering over why, in spite of all his efforts and enormous popularity, there was not more spiritual outcome to show for it all, and came to this conclusion—that he was trusting to his "own animal heat and activity" rather than to the Holy Ghost. The fault of relying too much upon our "own animal heat and activity" rather than upon the Holy Spirit has all too often been the tragic source of our spiritual destitution.

IV. A fourth source of our spiritual destitution today is the fact that men have become lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God. This has always been a problem. It was so in St. Paul's day and it has been one ever since. It is not a difficult task to find places of amusement crowded and luxuriously furnished while church services are conducted with a meager handful and fortified with a small offering. There always has been a large segment of our population that has confidently asserted that having a good time is the only way to attain a full life.

An outstanding thinker in our day, Walter Lippmann, has written, "What this age of ours requires to understand is that the call on us for self-denial and the assertion that without renunciation of many of the ordinary appetites no man can live fully and well, is not merely the testimony 'of our maiden aunts,' but that of every single expert in this line of things the whole world over; of every single one of those who have given their lives to it in any age or country or religion whatsoever, and who stand out, the men of genius in these matters, to whom every one of sense looks up—without exception they unanimously lay it down as a first rule that the one and only road to know life at its highest, and its most exciting begins as the purgative way."

Psychologists are now recognizing that many people seek to fill their time with pleasure because there is a great void in their lives that they do not know how to fill in any other way. It is a vacuum that has been created by a neglect of the great spiritual values of life as proclaimed by the church. Pleasure seeking, besides being a terrible sin, is a paralyzing disease. It can be cured only

Man - Worker With God

"In the beginning God created." "My Father Worketh and I work."

Our Father's World

For Christians it is natural to say "This is our Father's World." He made it and all that is in it. This basic belief in the reality of God as creator, to many of us a rich heritage, underlies our faith in the teachings of the Church, our individual religious experiences, and our sense of obligation to make Christian principles effective in daily life. The belief is supported by philosophical reflection and more convincingly, by "the testimony of the soul."

"This is our Father's World."

But the Christian's faith in God as revealed in Christ is not established by the prophet's interpretation of history, nor by the philosopher's explanation of nature." It is through experiences of religion which Lyman Abbott defined as "the life of God in man" that we have found strength, joy, hope, security, and abiding satisfaction—as we have bowed in prayer, or as in company with others we have entered into communion with sacred presences. whence comes this mystical awareness? With Sabatier we can say that "before all reflection it is given to us." Call it what we will—many have styled it "the influence of the Holy Spirit exquisitely called the Comforter"—we know that "the heart has reasons which reason does not know."

Many cheerful, wholesome people in our time, looking upon religion as a life and upon God as "closer than breathing and nearer than hands and feet" simply say as one of Pratt's correspondents, "I believe in God because I am aware of Him." Another has said, "I never look up at the stars at night but adoring love and worship fills my soul, the same at early dawn when the beautiful new day comes fresh from the hand of God."

A Steward Is a Supervisor

A steward is more than a custodian, he is also a supervisor. In one sense the function of preserving and protecting might in some instances be performed as did the one talent man who went away and hid his talent in the earth, but we remember that this act revealed an unfaithful steward and he was judged a wicked and slothful servant. There are times when it is all-important to "hold the fort," but man as co-worker with God must use what God has given him or else lose it. The monk who made a vow not to lift a hand from his side for a period of years found at last his arm a withered, helpless thing; for use is life, and neglect is atrophy and death. Wise and proper use calls for careful supervision of activities. Besides protecting and defending, the steward of life and its gifts must be a director of operations. As such he must control his going out and his coming in, his downsitting and his uprising in such a way as to render useful service in the Master's Kingdom.

As supervisor for God, the Christian steward will direct his own activities in such a way as to align himself with worthwhile undertakings, and he will control with great care the influence he exerts, directly or indirectly, over others. How easy it is for the Christian steward to relate himself to plans and programs which are already set up and going—in the Church, in schools and in other institutions related cooperatively in Christian work. Faith in God and confidence in the organized Christian Church are expressed by regular attendance upon the worship services and by systematic, proportionate support of the program of the Church. Indeed, every phase of human experience is involved in the activities the supervisor must direct and inspect; the individual and society, the person and his family, friends and neighbors, home and business, Church and school, nation and world order. The Christian steward will remember that in all of life he has the responsibility of an overseer, and it is his duty to inspect with authority. Operations and procedures in his business of living are his trust. Of them he, as supervisor of God, must give a strict account.

A Steward Is an Administrator

A steward is also an administrator. As such the Christian is an executive, a manager, a general superintendent for God.

While the custodian is charged with the duty of caring for that which is entrusted to him, and a supervisor must give special attention to particular operations and activities, the administrator must assume final responsibility for the whole organization. In this sense the Christian steward is the chief executive of life and all its gifts. It is he who appoints the custodian to be the keeper of things and values. He must devise the plans of action which the supervisor directs. He must manage every phase of life's undertakings.

If a Christian fails as custodian for God, if he is deficient in supervising activities, the difficulty is most often found in faulty administration. Because of a weak purpose, a lack of sense of worthiness, and an absence of Christian zeal, he gives poor management to his time, his talents, his possessions.

What wonderful results could be realized if Christians should administer their time for God. No less is required of the steward. Sometimes we can sympathize with Job who said, "My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle." Some of us can testify regarding experiences "in misery's darkest caverns known." Even so, no man can afford to play fast and loose with the days entrusted to him. He must administer them with care, realizing there are no others to replace those he may lose.

Lord Byron, when only 36 years of age, wrote plaintively:

"My days are in the yellow leaf,
The flowers and fruits of life are gone;
The worm, the canker and the grief
Are mine alone."

What a tragic confession of poor administration of life! Contrast it with Dr. Fosdick's triumphant claim that this is a great time to be alive, and with St. Paul's glorious testimony "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." Wise and faithful stewards hold the days of their years as a sacred trust.

Dedication of the Washington Church, Dec. 12, 1948

by Clarence Fairbanks

Washington, D. C. Church

Dedication services for the first unit of the new Washington Brethren Church were held December 12, 1948. The weather was ideal except for a little rain that fell in the morning. It was perfect weather in comparison to that of the two following Sundays. The attendance and enthusiasm at all three of the services was exceptionally good.

We were very fortunate to secure three outstanding leaders in our church to bring the messages of the day. Rev. E. M. Riddle, our Mission Board Secretary, brought the morning message on the subject "The Glorious Church." Brother J. Garber Drushal, President of the Missionary Board, delivered a very timely dedicatory address on the theme, "In The Year One." Prof. M. A. Stuckey, Dean of the Seminary, spoke in the evening on the great message, "The Essence, Example, and Exercise of Faith." All three speakers brought timely and impressive messages that will long be remembered in our church.

We were honored by the presence of some very distinguished visitors besides the special speakers. Mrs. Louis Clapper and her daughter, Ruth, came down from New York, where Miss Clapper is studying music, to give us a helping hand with the music. Rev. and Mrs. James Ault came down from Hagerstown with a fine delegation from their church to take part in the dedicatory services in the afternoon. Dr. Warren D. Bowman, pastor of the Washington City Church of the Brethren, came to the afternoon service to bring greetings from the Church of the Brethren.

After almost seven years of worshipping at a community center, we are very happy and thankful that God has made it possible for us to have this first unit. We wish to take this opportunity of publicly thanking all of our friends throughout the denomination for their generous gifts of money and words of encouragement. We covet your continued good will and support.

The two Sundays following the dedication service were anything but ideal from the standpoint of weather and as a result attendance slumped badly. January's attendance has shown a remarkable improvement over that of a year ago and enthusiasm is increasing too. The Sunday School attendance will average at least 20 better than last January. One of the most encouraging signs that I have observed is that many of our people are inviting and bringing their friends with them to our services.

Everyone who has attended any of the services in our new church marvel that a basement unit could be so church-like in its appearance and have such fine acoustics. Already we have begun to make improvements on our plant. We have found that there are not enough class rooms and facilities for conducting a full church program. We are, therefore, installing a modern-fold partition to divide the main auditorium into two parts. This will enable us to have separate opening exercises for young people and adults in both Sunday School and Christian Endeavor. It will also cut down confusion resulting from having too many classes in one large room.

We have built this church because our people have had a mind to work for the Lord. Our Brother E. S. Cormany has given us a large amount of valuable time and money saving assistance through his connections with and knowledge of the building trade. Brother T. C. Lyon has been of great help to us because of his acquaintanceship with the workings of the district government. Brother Walter Koontz has given generously of his talents in building a beautiful pulpit. Brethren T. A. Chappell, Artis Fields, and Guy Tamkin spent many hours getting the church ready for the dedication services. Mr. Rockwell Drummond, Building Fund Treasurer, did a fine job of keeping the financial end of the project in good order. Mr. Ray Hali-

Missionary Soon To Sail

Miss June Byler, sister of Robert Byler now in Argentina, is spending a few weeks in Philadelphia with a sister and her family, while waiting for her visa to enter Argentina. She had conferred with the Missionary Secretary about the possibility of going to Lost Creek for a month or two to give whatever assistance she could, but upon arriving in Philadelphia January 1st, an unusual opportunity came to her.

Appearing before the Argentine Counsel in Philadelphia to apply for a visa, she was presented to the wife of the consulate, who had only recently come from S. A. They became friends almost immediately.

When the South American lady learned of Miss Byler's plans, she invited and insisted that she come to their home each afternoon five days a week and study the Spanish language. Miss Byler was quickly advised to accept this fine offer. It is a most valuable contact in these times when it is so difficult to secure an entrance into Argentina. Reservations have been made by this office for Miss June Byler to sail from New York March 16th on the S. S. Argentina. She will join her brother and his family in South America.

June has had several years of teaching experience, also has done personal work in church campaigns, besides being reared in a minister's family.

The Louisville, Ohio Brethren Church will assist with her support. Another group wants to share in this also.

We shall also pray for this fine, young missionary added to the ranks. E. M. R.

day also deserves a vote of thanks for his work as chairman of the board of trustees in getting several legal matters straightened out. But I must not go on to list all those who gave of their time, talents, and money for to do so would be to print the entire church directory. Everybody is happy that we have a place of worship where we can meet as often and as long as we wish and so everybody is doing everything possible to make our church attractive from a physical standpoint and also of worship and friendliness.

We extend to all our friends a hearty welcome to visit with us at any time they are in Washington. Our Church is located at Branch Ave. at Que St., S. E. That is just one short block north of Pennsylvania Ave., S. E. on Branch Ave.

Thank you for your generosity, your loyalty, and your prayers.

by liberal applications of Biblical truth and the saving grace of Jesus Christ.

If Christian men and women will depend more upon God than upon themselves, accept more of the word of God and only the word of men when it corresponds with the teaching of God, accept more of the work of the church of Christ, and spend less time in worldly pleasures; then God will honor his people, and send a great spiritual revival. The responsibility is ours. The yoke is easy. The conditions are simple. Will we return to God and His work or shall we continue down the road of spiritual destitution that leads to eternal ruin? We must choose this day which road we will travel.

The picture is the likeness of the Reverend Joseph J. Margush, the new pastor at the Sergeantsville and Calvary, New Jersey, pastorate. I am delighted to present him to the Brethren Church. In his recent letter he gave some information for which I sought. He says, "I have been in the ministry nine years in the Church of the Brethren. I have been a Christian for 11 years in the same church. My home town is Quakerstown, Pennsylvania, but I spent most of my school years in Philadelphia. After my conversion, I took a general Bible course at Moody. (I do not believe in Eternal Security as taught by many at Moody.) I was ordained to the ministry in 1941 at Quakerstown Church of the Brethren. We have found the Brethren Evangelist to be a fine paper, and have placed our subscription for it."

Brother Margush preached in our conference at McLouth, Kansas, a year ago while living at Topeka. His message was well delivered, thoroughly scriptural, and filled with power. He says further, "We are beginning to realize what a large field this is. We also covet your prayers in our behalf."

Brother Margush has a wife and a daughter about nine or ten years of age.

We welcome these people into the Brethren Church, while the people whom they serve welcome them as their pastor.

E. M. R.

Fort Scott, Kansas

We arrived on this field on our way back from the Midwest District Conference and conducted the Bible Study and prayer service on Wednesday evening, October 13th. The next matter was to find a house to live in before we could move from Falls City, Nebraska. We spent two or three days house-hunting with no results. It seemed that there was but one way to get a place to move into and that was to buy one and so we did. These people had waited long and patiently for a pastor and we were given a hearty welcome. A very fine reception was planned and given in our honor and we received a food shower of great proportions. Someone suggested that we needed a truck to get it home.

We have indeed been busy "setting the house in order" and getting ready for greater things. We had a very fine Christmas program in which all age groups participated and our attendance was gratifying. We have reorganized the Church and Sunday School and have organized a Christian Endeavor. The W. M. S. is well organized and doing a good work. Their last meeting had an attendance of eighteen. We have reached an attendance of forty-three in the Sunday School and our high attendance for the Bible Study was twenty-seven. Our attendance at the worship services have been quite regular and consistent and there are new people coming in at nearly every service.

During the holidays Dr. L. E. Lindower and Brother Spencer Gentle, representing the National Sunday School Association, brought to us a Sunday School Institute which was an inspiration to us all. There was a demonstration of visual aid materials such as flannelgraph, slides, maps, etc. Besides these we were introduced to a great amount of teaching materials and books on Sunday School work. Dr. Lindower brought us a fine message each evening.

We have had our share of bad weather since Christmas which has retarded our progress but the interest continues high. With the coming of spring we hope to renovate the building and make the grounds more attractive. The building is badly in need of repair on the outside, some of which will cost considerable money. The W. M. S. is planning on a new pulpit carpet and aisle runners which will help to improve the inside very much.

We plan to begin our two weeks of Evangelistic meetings the middle of February. We hope to reach several souls for the Master through this effort. We would ask all who read this report to pray for this meeting. This is a fertile field for the Brethren and there is so much to be done that we feel almost helpless in the face of it but the Lord is our strength and He is blessing our effort. Brethren, pray for us.

Cecil Johnson.

NEWS

From the Christian World

Lutherans will stay—The secretary for the National Lutheran Council for orphaned missions came home from China after an extensive tour of inspection last month. Many Lutheran missionaries will stay in China, even though Communists get control of the central government, he reported. "China is the first opportunity the Christian faith has had to meet the Communist faith head on," they say.

Where public worship is forbidden, family worship will be emphasized. Missionaries forbidden to preach will seek to distribute their writings. They will try to keep close contact with Chinese pastors and support them in their work as much as possible.

A bank in Atlanta, Ga., owned and operated entirely by Negroes, has recently been admitted to the Federal Reserve System, after completing all requirements. The capital of the banking firm is more than $200,000 and this bank serves white depositors as well as Negroes.

The growing shortage of nurses is becoming as serious as that of teaching. The same cause seems to be back of this lack of interest in these two professions—the failure to make those in teaching and nursing feel socially worthy. The country now needs 40,000 more nurses and will need that many more in the next three years, Robert E. Goodwin, director of Employment Security, reports.

At the All-China Olympics held in Shanghai last year, athletes came from most of the provinces of China and Manchuria, Mongolia, Sinkiang, and Formosa. Also there was a delegation of Chinese athletes from the Philippines. Each day a quarter of a million people attended. The Shanghai Evangelical Band organized a Gospel team to sell Gospels during the event. On an average, fifty a day took part, and the total sales amounted to 20,000 Gospels.—Sunday School Times.

On June 12, 1948, the Bible Society of Brazil was organized in the beautiful First Baptist Church of Rio de Janeiro by an overflow crowd of three thousand and a larger radio audience. Since 1940 six million copies of Scriptures have been distributed in Brazil by the Bible societies of England and America.—Sunday School Times.

Medical Missions—Mr. Ernest Lin, a prominent Chinese Christian and government official, established, during the war, the Holy Light School with Christian teachers only. The graduate class this year numbered nineteen, every one of whom is a Christian, most of them even planning to enter full-time Christian service. Now he and other influential Chinese Christians are adding to this enterprise a Holy Light Rural Medical Service. These centers will be opened near China Inland Mission hospitals, with motor vehicles to facilitate transportation of patients and supplies. Only Christians will be used for the personnel of the Service.

This is an indigenous Chinese Christian enterprise. It is interesting to learn that the China Relief Mission of the United States government, which has had disillusioning experiences with other agencies, has turned to the Holy Light Medical Service to be one of its channels of relief to the needy.—Sunday School Times.

Over two hundred and thirty pioneer missionaries gathered last summer at Norman, Oklahoma, to study linguistics under the guidance of Messrs. Pike, Nida, and Wonderly of the Wycliffe Translators, in preparation for the translation of Scripture into new dialects and languages the world over.—Sunday School Times.

The Mexican Government is showing itself exceedingly friendly to these Wycliffe translators. Permission to incorporate in Mexico was granted in writing within one hour after the application was handed in. The official who arranged it proved to be a great-grandson of a famous Mexican linguist of the last century. The Wycliffe Translators have title to a fine headquarters building in Mexico City which, in fifteen years, will be theirs unencumbered.—Sunday School Times.

President Arevalo of Guatemala has expressed his sympathy with Protestant missions. At a meeting in the National Palace in Guatemala City, held to present to him recently published translations of Scriptures in the Mam and Quiche languages, he said: "You missionaries have an ally in my government, and you will find us at all times ready to co-operate with you."—Sunday School Times.

Exodus To Paraguay—Recently in western Canada, nearly two thousand Mennonites packed up their belongings to sail to South America in order to maintain conscientiously their particular mode of religious life. Most of them had come from Saskatchewan where, according to business standards, they enjoyed increasing prosperity. So they followed the decision of the old-line Mennonites to seek a new place in virgin territory where they might once more practice the plain and simple way of godly living.—Christian Herald.

FISHERS OF MEN . . . By C. F. Yoder

LESSON XLV—WHAT ABOUT THE THEORY OF EVOLUTION?

Text—Rev. 21:5—"Behold I make all things new."

Evolution is a mixture of wholesome truth with deadly error. It is being injected into the children and youth in school, destroying their faith.

1. From nothing comes nothing. Zeros added together give only zeros. See Gen. 1:1.
2. By the laws of chance no amount of combinations of material elements can ever produce a human spirit. Who is "the Father of spirit?" Heb. 12:9.
3. Is John 3:6 scientifically true? If so, how long will it take for material reproduction to produce a spirit being?
4. A man can make an automobile, but can an automobile ever make a man? If not, how can a being like Jesus Christ be the product of blind forces? It is easier to believe John 3:16.
5. Evolutionists speak of natural laws. Very well, man has discovered them, but he did not make them. Who did? Gen. 1:2, John 1:3.
6. Can a cow understand the Bible? Neither can the natural man understand the things of the Spirit. 1 Cor. 2:6, Rom. 8:5-23.
7. What is the result of leaving God out of life? Read Rom. 1:18-25; 28-32. This materialistic philosophy is the modern apostasy on which the judgments of God are being poured out. Christians must bear its mark.

THE WAY TO PROGRESS

Dr. Coulter was one of the foremost botanists of the day. He was also active in church work. When I asked him his opinion of evolution he replied, "Some forms of life have developed, but the majority have not. The mussel shells of most ancient ages are just like those of today. For a form of life to develop, it must come under the influences which cause development. Christianity is the only influence which enables man to go into a higher life."

LESSON XLVI—MORE ABOUT MODERN APOSTASY

Text—1 Cor. 15:19—"If in this life only we have hope we are of all men the most miserable."

1. What does the antichrist put in the place of God? Dan. 11:37, 38.
2. From whom does the beast of Rev. 13 receive his authority? Rev. 13:4.
3. What is the principal doctrine of this beast? 1 John 2:22.
4. Was materialism the error of the rich fool? Luke 12:16-21.
5. On what false assumption do materialists build? Eccl. 3:19.
6. What will be their end at the coming of the Lord? 2 Thess. 1:9.
7. Who will at last be the heirs of the earth? Matt. 5:5.

HE LEARNED BY EXPERIENCE

Quite a number of years ago there lived a man in a western state who left the religion of his fathers and became a free thinker. In order to enjoy his new liberty he sold his farm and moved to a colony of free-thinkers in Mexico. From there he wrote to old friends saying that he was happy in his new environment with no Christian to bother him for miles around. But within a year he came back to his old neighborhood and started anew. He had been robbed of about all he had in Mexico. There are many who talk their infidelity while enjoying the fruits of Christianity. It would be profitable to them to help them for a time to a country where there are no Christians.

LESSON XLVII—EXCUSES

Text—Phil. 4:13—"I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me."

Soul-winners need a testimony which will overcome the excuses of others.

1. "I do not understand these things." What shall I do? Obey what you do understand and study your duty. John 7:17; 2 Tim. 3:15, 16; Rom. 10:17.
2. "My parents object." Show them Matt. 10:37, 38; Acts 2:38, 39.
3. "My teacher does not believe the Bible." Show him 1 Cor. 4:3; Luke 9:26.
4. "My companions make fun of me." Show them their picture in 2 Peter 3:3, 10-12 and find your duty in vs. 14 with Matthew 10:32.
5. "My work will not permit me." If you will do your part to have better work and trust the Lord for the rest He will do his part. Mark 2:16-18; Matthew 9:9.
6. "I live too far away." Obey Acts 2:38, 39. Find a good example in Rev. 1:10.
7. "I don't have clothes fit to come." Come as you are and the Lord will save you and help in all your needs. Acts 4:34, 35; Mt. 6:33.

GOOD FOR EXCUSES

When a child if any of us children said at the table, "I don't like this," mother would say, "All right, just leave it and you will like it when you get hungry." Excuse makers should ponder the fact that God accepts their decisions. He does not oblige them to come to the feast. Their minds will change when they learn that they are outside and lost by their own refusal to come in.

LESSON XLVIII—MORE EXCUSES

Text—Heb. 3:15—"Today if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts."

1. "I just can't believe." You can if you will obey the text of the lesson. Heb. 3:15. Otherwise you will come to be like those of John 12:37-43.
2. "I do not feel ready." Voice of the flesh, leave it and follow. Rev. 22:17.
3. "I have my religion." Read Acts 19:1-6 and act accordingly.
4. "I will not leave the faith of my fathers." Examine yourself with John 5:30.
5. "I cannot leave my habits." Let Jesus make you a new person with them. 2 Cor. 5:17.
6. "There is time enough yet." So say all the lost. Read Heb. 2:1-4.
7. "I want to know more first." You know enough of sin and never will know another Savior. See Rev. 3:20 and open the door to your heart.

DANGER OF DELAY

Some people are concerned about committing the unpardonable sin. They well may be, but they can be sure that once it is committed they will not worry any more about it. Their power of repentance will be gone. There was once an old man who never failed to come to church and listen to the sermon, but he never showed the slightest inclination to repent and be saved. He told me that once he was caught with his foot in a cattle guard of the railway and a train was coming. It stopped within a yard of him but he did not pray. He died as he lived, indifferent as to the future.

"LET BROTHERHOOD PREVAIL"

Scripture: II Peter 1:5-8; Romans 12:9-21

For The Leader

TONIGHT we want to look into some of the solutions of the problem of brotherhood, race relations and caste systems as are evident in our country and world today. In general, we can say that only as men look to Christ will these problems reach any semblance of solution. If mankind persists in hunting the solution in their own thinking, all reform efforts shall be null and void. The matter of brotherhood should be given some consideration in our thinking, for there is much misunderstanding in the minds of people on this point. There is much good we can do if we are willing to analyze the true situation, and apply the remedy as we find it in the Word of God.

DISCUSSION

1. CHRIST, THE CHIEF CORNERSTONE. In the building of Solomon's temple, all of the stone work was cut to size and shape many miles from the site. All wood was hewn and cut to fit far distant from the temple's location. In the building of the walls of stone there was an odd sized stone that persisted in getting in the way of the builders. They stumbled over it, ignored it, and cast it aside. This peculiar stone had no place, so they thought. But when the building was about completed they discovered there was not enough stone. Then one workman happened to remember the cast off stone. It was the corner stone, and it fit right in place, completing the beautiful temple. The parallel today is that men, nations, councils, are trying to complete a temple of democracy and world brotherhood. Having completed their walls and superstructure, they find themselves short on something to hold it together and make it work. Christ is the answer. Men have stumbled over Him and His teachings, they have cast him aside, and so their work cannot be called finished. Christ, the Son of God, is the Chief Cornerstone of brotherhood. Without Him, there is nothing but chaos in humanity's efforts to live together.

2. EVIDENCE TO PROVE IT. In the world today are two opposing forces and ways of living. One, the philosophy of force and state property as exemplified by Russia and the Communists. Wherever this force has gone it has brought ruin, starvation, and loss of personal right. The other philosophy is that of the democracies, theoretically that of Christ. Choose for yourself. Russia years ago closed all her churches and emitted the theory that there was no God—only the state as supreme. The two systems are impossible of association. It will be either Russian controlled Communism with all its evils, or a Democratic system of God-fearing peoples in the world. Which do you want? Well, stay home from church, refuse to support it, and you'll find out which kind you will have.

3. HOW GREAT IS THE DANGER FROM RUSSIA? We here in America are more or less inclined to consider ourselves immune to the terrible things which are happening in other parts of the world. But are we? We are not, except through Divine intervention. We are no more immune than was Czechoslovakia. Remember that valiant little democracy that withstood the onslaught of pagan Communism until the "Commies" had worked themselves into key positions in her government? It sickened the hearts of all free Americans when the iron curtain dropped between us and the Czechs. Now, what about China? While we bask in the warm sun of freedom, the daggers of the Red army are turning the waters of the Yellow river to a crimson red with the blood of helpless Chinese. Are we immune? And reports come to us from reliable sources that many are the Communists who are rising in power and position in our own beloved nation. Sad to say, in many cases the voice of press and radio is being pressed into silence by threats on life and property.

4. OUR SALVATION. It is our firm conviction that America thus far has been saved the savage destruction by the Communists because of the prayers of Christian people. God hears and answers prayer. The effectual, fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much. The liberties of the press, radio, screen and free speech are being used to full advantage by our enemy. Thus we have little protection there. Don't let anybody fool you. God is answering the prayers of His people. True, millions of people in America never think of petitioning God in this way. But here, there, and everywhere are those who regularly pray to God for their country. There is no other answer to America's escape than the prayers of those who believe in God's power to answer prayer. So, get on your own knees and join these diligent soldiers of the Cross in behalf of your nation. May God have mercy on your soul in the day of judgment if you take all the benefits of our democracy and fail to honor the Giver through prayer of praise and petition, and a consistent Christian life.

5. LET US PRAY. On the day of the President's inauguration many of us witnessed the proceedings by that marvel of the age—television. It was a thrill to begin with, but especially so when during the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, the picture was focused on the Stars and Stripes waving so proudly in the air. Yes, and many Americans in those solemn moments prayed fervently, as we should each day, that His abundant mercy should continue to bless us. If the tide of wickedness and paganism and spiritual darkness in the world is ever to be pushed back it will be through the prayers and the efforts of Christians. Don't shirk your duty. We who are Christians must show to a spiritual-broken world the example of true brotherhood in Christ, as it works in Democracy. In this, we must reach the heart of the individual with the soul saving Gospel of Jesus Christ. It is the world's only hope.

I WILL BELIEVE

By Bessie Pattern Gilmore

I will believe, though all around my way
Dark shadows fall, and wintry winds be chill;
I know that after night shall come the day—
My Father cares, and naught can work me ill.

I will believe, though all my days be spent
In ceaseless toil from morn until the night;
My Father knows, and I can rest content—
His trusting child is precious in His sight.

I will believe—though faith be sorely tried,
God's promises forever shall endure;
All needful thing will surely be supplied—
I will not doubt, but rest in Him secure.

I will believe—when life's last task is done,
I know that I shall see the Christ I love;
And fellowship so sweet on earth begun
Shall evermore endure with Him above.

DISCIPLINE THROUGH DARKNESS

Scripture: 1 Peter 1:3-9

Hymn: "More Love to Thee"

Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

WE HAVE BEEN TOLD, "Never doubt in the dark what God told you in the light." In the light of God's Word, the guidance of the Holy Spirit, and obedience to light received, we may know the will of God (Col. 1:9; Eph. 4:17; Rom. 12:1, 2). Paul discovered that his adversities turned out for the furtherance of the Gospel (Phil. 1:12; Acts 23:11). Paul, the prisoner, suffered shipwreck and was given up for dead before he reached Rome. Joseph was disciplined through envy, hatred and rejection by his brothers, through slavery and imprisonment (Psa. 105:19). But such discipline enabled him to rise from prisoner to premier without becoming haughty and resentful toward his brethren (Gen. 50:20). Jeremiah, when mistreated, received reassurance from God (Jer. 15:11, 20). After this he received reassurance upon facing the dungeon and death (Jer. 39:17, 18).

John the Baptist, a popular preacher (John 5:35), knew that his Lord must increase while he was to decrease (John 3:30). And while in Herod's prison he was perplexed (Matt. 11:3). The Lord's gracious reply is in Matt. 11:6. Thus we learn that we are not to become discouraged or doubt in the dark. God does not think any less of His children because they land in jail or are persecuted for righteousness sake. Let us not be offended by adversity (Isa. 50:10; Psa. 112:4).

The Christian martyrs did not blame God for their sufferings (2 Tim. 4:6-8; Phil. 1:23). We should realize that God is not to blame, and we should rather let Him comfort us in our affliction (2 Cor. 1:4). The martyrs endured persecution and death with Divine courage. To forsake God while under stress is only to make us more miserable. But to remain true to Him under stress will make us supremely happy (Matt. 5:10-12). Our being called upon to suffer is a token that we really belong to the Lord (2 Tim. 3:12). The saints in all generations have been counted as slaughter-sheep (Rom. 8:35, 36). Since Christ partook of death we do not fear (Heb. 2:14, 15). We can die more than conquerors through Him Who loved us (Rom. 8:37, 38, 39).

We have heard the question asked, "Why did God make the Devil?" God did not make the Devil. He is self-made. At first he was Lucifer, an unfallen angel. But the sin of pride and rebellion against God made him what he is. (Isa. 14:12-15). The best saint, by himself, cannot stand against Satan. He should do all to stand (Eph. 6:13, 14). The weakest saint is well able to stand through Christ (2 Cor. 12:9, 10). Read 1 John 4:4; John 10:29.

STANDARDS FOR KINGDOM CITIZENS

Lesson: Matthew 5:1-12; 7:24-27

A COMMON Dictionary definition for a standard is "that which is established by authority as a fixed rule or measure; a criterion." Then we find that a "Criterion" is a "standard rule by which a correct judgment can be formed." Applying these definitions to the topic for today's study, we find that before us in the first passage of our printed text is a series of statements from the lips of Jesus that form the basis of a "standard" for Christian living.

It seems to the writer that a comparison may be made between the Old Testament laws as laid down by God and given to Moses, with these words of our Lord as He taught on the mountain side. Laws are rules of action which are established by those in authority. The Old Testament laws, given thus by God, were to be unquestionably obeyed. In the Ten Commandments we have set forth the relations between God and man and man and his fellow-man. They are rules which are set forth to be obeyed by the force of the executive powers of the rulers. But when we turn to the standard set up by Jesus, a standard which must, in its ultimate, end in spiritual understanding and moral desire, that is something far different.

Note the standard: "Blessed is the man," says Jesus. "who is poor in spirit; who mourns over his shortcomings; who exhibits meekness; who hungers and thirsts after righteousness; who is merciful; who thinks pure thoughts; who desires and works for peace; who endures persecution and reviling for the sake of the Lord Jesus Christ."

May we call your attention to the fact that the law said, "Thou shalt not," while the Beatitudes say, "Thou shalt." The one is negative in its approach; the other positive.

The second portion of our printed text calls our attention to the necessity of the proper foundation being laid upon which to build this kind of a life. The rock can be none other than that "Rock, Christ Jesus."

We are asking every pastor and congregation to plan a special Prayer Service on or near March 2nd. (It may be the usual prayer meeting hour.)

PRAY for—

1. The leaders and missionaries in Kentucky.
2. For a new dormitory to replace the one recently destroyed by fire.
3. For the Keck family who lost so heavily.
4. For the twenty-five boys, most of whom had no other home.

PRAY for—

1. The Easter Foreign Missionary Offering.
2. Miss June Byler's visa to be granted.
3. The Byler family in South America.
4. Dr. Yoder and his people.
5. The native workers on the various fields.
6. All major obstacles to be overcome.
7. Hundreds of souls to be saved at this Easter Time.

INTERESTING ITEMS

Washington, D. C. Brother Fairbanks reports increases in both the Sunday School and Church attendance. He says that even in the face of very bad weather that they had one of their largest attendances at the Wednesday evening prayer service the last Wednesday in January.

The Washington Young People held a Valentine Party on Friday evening, February 11th, each age group having its separate meeting place in the church.

Brother Fairbanks reports two baptisms on Sunday, January 30th. He also reports the gift of a beautiful bookcase for their hymn books, which was made by Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Souser.

Akron, Ohio (Firestone Park). Brother J. G. Dodds reports the arrangement for a Daily Vacation Bible School to be conducted immediately following the closing of the public schools.

Cameron—Quiet Dell, W. Va. Circuit. Brother A. R. Baer's bulletin gives us the following interesting items: A new furnace has been installed in the Quiet Dell Church. The old chimney was torn down and the roof repaired by several of the members. The hard-wood trim is rapidly making a change in the interior appearance of the Cameron Church, and the basement has been given a much needed "face lifting"—the plastering having been repaired and the woodwork painted. Also new class rooms have been provided. The Cameron Church has been given a tower sound system which is to be installed in the near future.

Huntington, Indiana. We note that the receipts of the Huntington Laymen's Organization during the past year was $158.83, with an expenditure of $110.58. A part of this expenditure went into the basement improvement of the church. At present they are working on a project to install a new piano in the church auditorium.

Elkhart, Indiana. Brother L. V. King reports that on January 23 the Elkhart church had an attendance of 345 at the morning service and 376 at Sunday School. Three more were baptized.

Loree-Mexico, Indiana Circuit. Brother Robert Higgins reports that his laymen have been able to purchase 50 school desks for our Kentucky Mission School. This is about half the number needed.

The Boys' Brotherhood of the Loree Church sponsored the showing of the sound film, "Journey Into Faith," on Sunday evening, February 13th, the offering to be used to start a carpet fund. The Southern Indiana District Laymen are to meet at the Loree Church on February 21.

A Birthday Month Fellowship Supper was held at the Mexico Church on Wednesday evening, February 9th. A program followed the supper. Revival services at the Mexico Church have been rescheduled as of March 6 to 13, with Brother J. Milton Bowman of Nappanee, as the evangelist, and Mrs. Loretta Carrithers of Peru as the song director.

Waterloo, Iowa. Brother V. E. Meyer reports the receiving of a fine filing cabinet for his office, the gift of the Homebuilders' Class. The occasion was his birthday, and the class party which he attended was turned into a birthday party.

Lanark, Illinois. Brother McCartneysmith is away from the church on vacation during the month of February, accompanying Sister McCartneysmith on a trip which is hoped will bring her to full recovery from her recent illness. Continued prayer is asked for her complete recovery. In his absence various organizations and supplies will fill the pulpit.

Bryan, Ohio. Beginning on Sunday, February 13, the Bryan Church is sponsoring a series of broadcasts over station WONW—1280 on your dial. Brother Black will be the speaker. The time schedule is not given.

New Lebanon, Ohio. Brother W. C. Berkshire reports that at the Miami Valley Laymen's meeting on Monday evening, January 17 that ninety-one men enjoyed a delicious meal prepared by the Rainbow Class. National Vice President, Oscar Robarge of Bryan, Ohio, and Harold Hummel of Goshen, Indiana, President of the Northern Indiana Laymen, were present.

The New Lebanon Revival services are scheduled for March 7 to 20, with Rev. S. E. Christiansen of Georgetown, Delaware, as evangelist, and H. D. "Bud" Hunter, National Laymen President, as song leader.

We might say right here that Brother Hunter informs us that he is available to churches desiring his services as song leader for Evangelistic meetings. Address him at North Manchester, Indiana, if in need of his services.

Oakville, Indiana. "Parish Paper" No. 2 has arrived at our desk. It is being published by Rev. Henry Bates, pastor of the Oakville Church. He calls it the "Brethren Digest." His opening word to his readers is: "With the printing of this paper a new venture for the Oakville Brethren Church has begun. We trust it will meet with your approval and support." The paper, eight pages and cover, is just full of news and plans of the church. We are sure that

LET'S REVIEW A BOOK

IT SEEMS that those who build programs, especially those committees that form Club programs, have laid much emphasis on "Book Reviews." This is true in Ashland, and we are assuming that this city is not alone in this matter. One can scarcely pick up the evening paper and not find an account of a meeting where a book has been reviewed. Indeed, as I pen these opening lines, I am sitting in one of the larger churches of the city, waiting to hear one of the leading book reviewers of our section of Ohio, review Lloyd Douglas' latest book, "The Big Fisherman." Having recently read the book, I await, with interest, to see what shall be her treatment and approach. At this point the review started.

I now sit in my office the morning after, and ponder her words. She said in part, in her opening statement, "Because the primary purpose of the book is to exalt Jesus Christ, and to show His relation to Simon Peter, the Big Fisherman, I shall pass over the romantic in the book and confine myself largely to these two main characters." And she did that very thing, but held her large audience by the very thought of these two main characters. And as I sit here this morning pondering over the story.

It sets me to thinking!

After all, in this day of so many books "about" the Book of Books, with their "reviewers" and multiplied readers, are we not forgetting to "review" the world's best seller—the Bible, with its many books, so worthy of constant reading and study? Is it possible that we do not realize the value of the "Source Book" of all knowledge of spiritual realities?

The Bible—the library of Christian knowledge—made up of sixty-six books, from the pen of many writers, furnishes the materials for many "reviews." But to properly "review" a book, no matter what its field, requires an intimate knowledge of its contents. I was struck last night, as I have been struck many times during the past five years, as I have listened again and again to this particular "reviewer" (who comes each season to Ashland for from four to five reviews), by her intimate knowledge of the book she brings. Speaking for about an hour and a quarter, she only referred to the book before her about a half dozen times and then only to quote verbatim. She knew what she was talking about.

Do we know the content of the books in our Sacred Library—The Word of God? Are we acquainted with the Author Himself and His corps of writers? Could we, if called upon, tell why these books were written? Can we tell the contents of each book? Are we familiar with the stories and characters in each? In other words, would we make a good "reviewer" of the Books of the Bible? Let's "review" these books, not alone for our own sakes, but for the sake of those who need to hear the story once again.

Think it over!

Thanks—And Please Help Us More

We wish to express our appreciation to those who have recently renewed their Evangelist subscriptions, and especially those who have sent us the label from their paper. We are trying to get our lists all straightened out as to expiration dates, duplicate papers, change of addresses and the many other phases of subscription lists. You will help us very greatly if you will be sure to do the following: Give your name just as it appears on your label; if address is not correct, be sure to give the correct address; give the name of the church to which you belong, especially if you live in a nearby town or are isolated from your church; check your expiration time against our date on your label: if you feel it is wrong do not hesitate to tell us. All this will help us get the list in proper shape. We especially thank those who have been kind enough to enclose $2.00 for a year's subscription.

Sunday School Orders

The Sunday School quarterlies will soon go to press. Won't you get your orders in at the earliest possible moment? It will help us in getting them mailed out. Please note: Orders that come late cost us extra postage, and this extra postage is much more since the increase in postal rates. Each extra shipment takes off from the income (we cannot say profit) on the quarterlies, for, of course you know that they do not pay for themselves. So order early, please.

A Note About 100% Roann

A note from Brother C. C. Grisso, who is acting as supply pastor for our Roann Church until they can get a regular pastor, says: "That 120 Evangelist subscriptions from Roann puts it 'way over the top' as a 100% Evangelist Church, for the membership list is only reported as 179 members all told." Yes sir! Roann truly is to be congratulated.

More Rags Received

A fine sack of rags came from the Mulvane, Kansas W. M. S., being sent by their pastor, Brother W. L. Thomas. Also one from Mrs. Iona Ozias of Dayton, Ohio. Then last week (about Wednesday, February 9) we received another package from Miss Irene Lenhart of Meyersdale, Pennsylvania, and we were shocked beyond measure to receive word of her sudden death which occurred on Thursday night, February 10, following a Woman's Missionary Meeting at which she, as president of the society, had presided. Our sympathy goes out to the relatives and the Meyersdale Church of which she was a faithful member for many years.

The Kind of Sermons Laymen Like

If there is anything of greater importance in a pastor's ministry than preaching, I do not know what it is. Of all his important work, the sermon should be climactic. Many are the duties and responsibilities of the minister. Important most of them are. However, if he allows activities and more than his share of offices and committee work to encroach upon his time for sermon preparation, he is making a definite mistake.

A layman's terms may not be orthodox. But laymen think in their own terms, and this composition should be read with that thought in mind.

To a layman, sermons are simply "good," "poor" or "average." There are specific factors that are present in sermons and sermon delivery that evoke this rating from the layman. It is my humble purpose to attempt to state a few factors that make for better sermon reception.

To the layman, a good sermon must be interwoven with spiritual earnestness. There are many ways to speak the great truths of the gospel. Preachers use the same Bible, and often the same words, but there are striking differences in expression, tone quality and gesture. From some speakers, there shines forth in the eye, the countenance and the voice that something that marks the man of prayer and purpose. One can overlook some lack of language proficiency when he who stands in the pulpit has that "must-ness" in his personality and voice as he delivers his Lord's message. La Rochefoucauld expresses somewhat my meaning when he says: "There is as much eloquence in the tone of the voice, in the eye, and in the air of a speaker as in his choice of words."

It is also true that laymen like to hear a sermon that is properly organized. Most people are lazy in their thinking. When it is difficult to follow a speaker's line of thought, then most listeners' interest wanes and their minds are inclined to wander. It does not take an orator to preach a well organized sermon. Good speakers often depend greatly upon their notes, which is not to their discredit. But no matter how many notes are used, if the ideas and reasoning are not arranged properly, the sermon often does not grip and convince the audience even though great truths and arguments do come from the lips of the preacher. One noted teacher has stated that in preparing a sermon, the "heart" (text) should first be chosen. Then the "body" (the exposition, reasoning, argument or development of the "heart") should be prepared next. After that should come the working out of the conclusion and only then should the introduction portion of the sermon be added, for one cannot introduce a sermon with which he is not well acquainted. A sermon that is delivered from an outline that has been developed through organized thinking, is a sermon destined to have "audience appeal," if I may state it that way.

Most people also like to hear timely sermons, based upon similar situations that are recorded in the Bible. We know that through the centuries, history repeats itself. Men had problems in those days that were very much akin to the perplexing problems of our day. Prophets and preachers in those days proclaimed the solution to these problems. To be able to get the comparison and the solution to the crisis of our day from direct Biblical authority is important. Laymen are interested in news. They like to hear prophecy as well. To preach sermons that are alongside the developments of the present, and to point the way to the troubled members of the flock,—that is preaching that gets a hearing.

Other factors might properly be stated in this article. But it seems best to conclude by mentioning brevity in sermon delivery. The "Great Commoner," William Jennings Bryan, who held the attention of his audience when infirmity compelled him to speak while seated, has said: "Have one idea and a short terminal." In this hurry, scurry machine age, "time control" should be in the minister's mind as he assembles his message and makes it ready for presentation. It is never necessary to preach up to a certain time. Undoubtedly every preacher finds that he can use convincingly thirty minutes of time to develop some message that has gripped him. He should not feel that it is necessary for him to speak over twenty minutes or even fifteen minutes if he has been able to give other messages conclusively and with spirit-filled meaning in that length of time.

Laymen like to hear good sermons. A certain bakery company advertises its bread always as "good bread" and this company proceeds to tell what makes it good. In like manner, there are definite reasons why sermons are rated as good. I have thus attempted to state a few factors that will help make that rating more uniformly applicable to the sermons that are preached in our brotherhood.—Harl Russell, in "The Gospel Messenger."

Church Methods: Music In The Church

Rev. Henry Bates

WHEN ONE THINKS of practical church problems, the matter of music in the church must be included, for certainly this phase of the church's program does present a multitude of problems of one kind or another.

From the very early days of the Israelites music played an important part in their religious services, for it gave the people an opportunity to express their thanks and to offer their praise to Jehovah. The Psalmist himself instructs us to "make a joyful noise unto the Lord," for this is one of the ways in which we show forth our love toward Him.

G. A. Miller, in his book, "The Problems of the Town Church," has this to say regarding music: "It can do more to make or mar the beauty and helpfulness of the service than any other secondary factor." Although this writer would not agree with Miller as to the "secondary nature of music, I would agree with him in regards to its importance in the service.

Whenever one thinks of music in the church he usually thinks of the choir, and when one thinks of the choir the question usually arises, "Who should sing in the choir?" Should men and women or boys and girls, who are not members of the church, or who have never taken a stand for Christ be permitted to sing? Should our desire for beautiful music lead us to invite certain folks to sing in the choir because they have the type of voice which the choir badly needs, regardless of their acceptance or rejection of the church's message? One author has an excellent paragraph on this very point, in which he says: "No congregation would countenance a man in the pulpit who recited the sermon simply as an actor does his part, with no reference to his own personal relation in the case. Why, then, should a singer be allowed to sing a song, the sentiment of which is no part of his own life or experience? In any event, it is disastrous in the town to allow in the choir a person whose morals are known to be at variance with the practice of a Christian life." That is something for all churches to consider when organizing or developing a choir.

Many people are attracted to or repulsed from a church by the singing which they hear therein. Quite frequently we have heard folks remark that they like to attend a certain church because they enjoy the singing so much. If music is such an attraction to people, and since the church is always faced with the problem of attracting folks to her services, the following suggestions might be of value in this respect.

1. Cultivate the spirit and practice of singing on the part of the congregation. Pastors should repeatedly emphasize the importance of everybody joining in the singing.

2. Have some person responsible for the musical part of the service. The pianist, choir director, or the pastor.

3. Take time on Sunday evenings (preferably) to learn new hymns. People soon get tired of singing the same twelve or fourteen hymns over and over again. Yet most churches do it.

4. The worship service is for the people—not merely for the pastor. Therefore, let the men and women in the congregation have a voice in picking out the hymns occasionally. In the less formal evening services the one who leads the singing might ask the people to suggest some of their favorite numbers, and then a stanza or two of a number of these selections might be sung. In order to give everybody an opportunity of expressing their hymn desires, a box might be placed at the rear of the church, or in the church vestibule, and the people urged to drop into the box their hymn requests.

5. Use a little variety. Have the men sing a stanza; ask the boys and girls under sixteen to sing a stanza; have the women hum while the men sing; or have the men whistle while the ladies sing.

6. Keep the hymns up to their proper time. There is often a tendency in churches to let the music drag, and this is fatal to the spirit of joy which we should feel when gathering in the House of God.

7. There are plenty of good worshipful hymnals on the market today, therefore, the church should avoid the money-minded publishers of cheap, flimsy, trashy song-books, "guaranteed all new pieces," which have to be replaced in a couple of years.

8. A children's choir is often very helpful in adding to the beauty of the service, and also brings the younger boys and girls into the work of the church while they are in their formative years.

9. A growing practice is the Sunday night "Singspiration." At these services congregational singing, numbers by the choir, instrumental and vocal solos, and other special musical features are on the program—the pastor bringing a very brief message in the place of the regular sermon. In warm months, and especially in rural churches, this makes a beautiful outdoor service.

10. Whatever plan or program is used in the realm of music, do not overwork it! Use Variety!

In his book, "Country Altars," E. K. Ziegler observes that "some of the finest congregational singing in America may still be heard among the Mennonites and Brethren and Moravians." (p. 29). Brethren, let us strive to hold on to that goodly heritage.

—Oakville, Indiana.

To Correct What Seems to be A Wrong Impression

There seems to be a wrong impression among some of the readers of The Brethren Evangelist concerning the "needs" of our Kentucky mission field. In no way did the Editor mean to express, either by direct word or by implication, that the needs in the matter of losses by fire were all met. In the editorial column of two weeks ago we stated that "the emergency needs with reference to heavy comforters had been met," but in no way did we imply that much more material should not go to this stricken field. We did, however, suggest that it might be wise to contact either Brother Drushal or Brother Keck, to see if certain articles were really needed. Knowing that with the destruction of the one building, that storage space was at a premium, having been so informed by the Kecks, we made the above suggestion.

May we put in just a word for Mr. Hall, one who has labored much and well in this work at Lost Creek. He, also, as well as the Kecks and the boys of the school, lost all his possessions. A little thoughtful giving in his direction will not be amiss.

Truly the heart of the Brethren has been opened, and many are the articles that have been contributed. Let us pray that out of what seems to be a great disaster, may come a new vision of what this work means to both the Brethren Church and Lost Creek and its great field of endeavor. Out of the ashes of great hopes, many times grows up a greater building, with greater prospects and more wonderful fulfillment.

There is still opportunity to help build that building. Why not make a special offering during the month of March—a month that has not been designated as “month of support” for any specific “interest” of the church, and thus share in the blessing of this “rebuilding” of the Wheeler Hall! Brother E. M. Riddle says that ALL money toward the rebuilding of the structure should come to the Missionary Board Office in Ashland, since such rebuilding will be in charge of the Missionary Board.

Latest Word About Ky. Fire From Brother Keck - February 10

All the boys are required to attend the Christian Endeavor service at the church Chapel which begins at 6:30 P. M. For some reason the boys were in no hurry to attend the service, Sunday evening, January 23rd. The writer came out into the hallway and rang the silver handbell. Soon all the boys were out of the dormitory except one, Woodrow Miller, who had a headache and retired to his room. Mrs. Keck was reading a devotional book while the writer was resting on the davenport listening to a sermon from South Bend, Indiana. At 6:40 P. M., Mrs. Keck turned off the radio. There seemed to be such a disturbance that the message could not be understood. At 7:10 P. M. the young man upstairs came down the stairs two or three steps at a time. He never came down like that before. He opened the door without knocking and cried, “The dormitory is on fire in Ralph’s (our boy) room.” (He had opened the door and the flames were coming through the ceiling and going out the open window toward the log high school building.)

The writer got up, slipped on his shoes and started running some water in a pail. It seemed almost impossible to have a fire in the building. All the boys were out. Thinking that a waste basket might be on fire, I opened the door. The smoke had filled the upstairs hall. Seeing that the fire was so great the writer shut the door and dashed down stairs, grabbed the fire extinguisher, turned it upside down which set it off, ran upstairs again and opened the door using it as a shield. The fire was so hot the writer’s hand was burned and the rubber tube was melted off right where it was fastened to the extinguisher and nothing more could be done.

Mrs. Keck went out on the porch and cried for help. She rang the hand bell. We had no telephone. There was plenty of water in the creek. The fire company from Jackson could have come out in ten minutes if we would have a telephone to notify them.

Ralph, our son, had a coughing spell and had come out of C. E. and looking at the boys’ dormitory he saw that it was on fire. He dashed up the stairs and told this to one of the teachers, Mr. Hall. Everyone came rushing up to see if they could get any of their things. It was a frame building, sealed and varnished inside. We had done all we could to save the building. It was burning so fast that we had to get out. Our Hoover sweeper was used to clear the screen wife from the outside of the window, then the sweeper was thrown out as well as some clothing. The electric lights went out. We could hear the crackling and the roaring of the flames. While I was helping Mrs. Keck to get out of the bedroom window, Ralph came in past the burning stairway to us. I thought of having him carry out my file of college and seminary notes. The fire was coming down the stairway by the entrance to our front room. Rather than risk having him fall with the file, I told him to get out and get out quick. I watched him to see that he got safely out the front door. When I turned to help Mrs. Keck get out the window, I found that she had let herself fall out the window (about eight feet from the ground). Some of the men below caught her. Immediately I climbed out of the window to learn if she was hurt by the fall. Some things might have been saved but then some one might have been severely burned. It was an awful experience to realize within a few minutes all your personal possessions would soon be burned. By 8:30 P. M. the building collapsed into the basement.

All twenty-three (23) of the boys lost everything they had in the building. They were fortunate to have had their Sunday clothing on. One boy wanted to go in and get his pretty Indian blanket. One student lost his portable Royal typewriter. Two boys lost their radios. Mr. Hall lost one we had given him a few weeks before. Ralph lost one that Brother J. D. Hamel had given him at Christmas time. We lost a small one and a cabinet model. We were so glad that no one was burned, though we lost all our possessions.

Neighbors and friends took care of the students and Mr. Hall. We stayed at the home of Brother and Sister Drushal. Mrs. Keck could not sleep. Next morning we went to the Doctor at Jackson. We got some immediate personal needs. Like the students, all we had was what we had on.

Since Mrs. Keck was suffering from shock, I urged her to go to her folks at Ashland, Ohio, for a few days. We drove through on Tuesday. We attended the prayer meeting at the Ashland Brethren Church on Wednesday evening and related to them the account of the fire. The response of everyone was beyond words of expression. We learned that Brother Charles Munson and wife had left Wednesday noon with their car filled with clothing and bedding for those that were in need at Riverside. We shall never be able to thank all those who helped us out in such a wonderful way in our hour of need.

It is now necessary for twenty of us to live in “The house of cracks.” We are glad to have this place in which to live, humble as it is. A new boys’ dormitory is sorely needed. In extreme cold weather it would be very difficult to keep the boys warm here. The building must be heated with stoves and only the heat from the stove pipes keeps the boys warm. The boys are praying daily, most earnestly, that the new dormitory which the Mission Board plans to build will be a fireproof structure and that work on it will soon begin. Brethren pray for this work here.

THANKS EXPRESSED BY BROTHER MAURICE HALL

Lost Creek, Kentucky February 7, 1949

A Note of Thanks:

As one of the workers at Riverside Christian Training School, I wish to express my thanks to the many Brethren ren who have sent clothing here. I lost all my personal belongings in the fire except the clothes on my back and one fountain pen. From boxes sent near Christmas time till Mr. Munson's load of clothes arrived, several of us have gotten enough clothing to mainly supply our needs. We can hardly express how much they have helped us. Our sincere thanks to all of you.

Pastorless Church Forges Ahead Roann, Indiana

On October first of last year the church at Roann, Indiana, became pastorless. Since that time they have been on the lookout, together with a dozen or more other churches of our brotherhood, for a pastor. Up to the present time that pastor has not been located. Their situation, along with the others, set us thinking and wondering a bit as to what these pastorless churches are doing, and how they are carrying on, and just how much advance they are making in the mean time. What will the pastor find when he is finally found and has moved onto the field? It would be interesting to know, and possibly these lines will provoke some of our pastorless church correspondents to tell us through the columns of the "Evangelist" just how they are keeping on.

Now as to Roann, let me say that they have not missed a single service since the day they became pastorless. First came a round of national representatives, such men as Brethren Riddle and Munson, each presenting their respective work. Following their visits this reporter was asked to preach for them and care for the work as best we could at a distance of fifteen miles removed, until that pastor could be secured. Accordingly, we accepted the invitation and each Lord's day finds us breaking unto them the Bread of Eternal life. We are happy to report that there have been no losses, but rather a marked gain in interest and attendance. All organizations are functioning properly, such as the W. M. S., the Sisterhood, the Laymen and the Bible School. The last mentioned having an average attendance of around one hundred and thirty, well organized and a veritable bee-hive of interest and activity.

All special offerings relating to our General Church Interests such as, Thanksgiving for Home Missions, Christmas for the National S. S. Association and January for our Publishing Interests, have been given careful presentation from the pulpit and in every case the offerings have been commendable. Then, last Lord's day came the word of the disastrous fire at Lost Creek in our mission, and immediately they decided to send help to the Brethren there and the Bible School offering to the amount of eighty-seven dollars is being sent to Brother Drushal. Now in addition to all this, at the beginning of the year the largest "Evangelist" subscription list ever sent from this church (one hundred and twenty) was mailed to our publishing house.

On January 23rd we presented the pictures of our own Brethren Home at Flora, Indiana, which our son had sent to us recently, which were very graciously received and we are certain will help much in the offering for that work now soon on the calendar.

Holy Week services will be in the nature of Union Evangelistic services held nightly in the various churches of the village throughout the week.

Permit me to add a word of personal appreciation for the fine spirit prevailing and the marked loyalty to that part of the program that relates to the worship services. We have been received very graciously and it is a real thrill and inspiration to preach to such a loyal group. Possibly just one instance here will help us to understand better what I am saying in this article about church loyalty. Recently on a cold, stormy, blustery Lord's day evening, when many of the churches about us were closed, I found myself without any lights on my car when I was to start to my appointment. I immediately telephoned to one of the Brethren and rather suggesting that, since the night was so stormy and the pastor was fifteen miles away and almost time for the service, that it might be advisable to cancel the appointment. But, immediately, he said, "Stay right there, I'll be after you in a few minutes." He came and returned me after the service, driving a distance of sixty miles to get a poor preacher to an evening service on a stormy night! What about the audience? Just fifty-five.

I have written all of the above to help us to appreciate the fact that it is not necessary for things to stop and our churches be closed simply because they find themselves pastorless. Brethren, why not forge right ahead accomplishing things for our Lord? Does the whole success or failure of a church depend upon a certain type of a pastor living in the parsonage? No, rather the power, the blessedness and the victory of the church does not depend upon any one individual or even upon its leadership, but rather upon the faithfulness and devotion and loyalty of every member of the Body of Christ. Praise to the Name of the Great Head of the church for continuous victory all along the line.

"A TRIBUTE TO MR. A. C. BARTLEY"

By Dot Custer

(Mr. Bartley was a member of the Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Brethren Church for fifty-four years. During this time he served on many committees, and on the Board of Trustees, of which he was Chairman Emeritus. I am sure all he has done for his Church and friends will never be forgotten. It is truly a great loss when one so faithful to his family, friends and above all, to his God, passes on. I am sure that this poem I have written expresses the sentiments of all who have ever come in contact with this wonderful gentleman. D. C.)

So much our friend has left behind,
So much to be cherished in heart and mind.
We'll always remember his wonderful smile,
That made for many, life more worth-while.

We'll always remember his dear, kind ways,
That helped us face the dreary days;
We'll always remember the clasp of his hand,
That made us feel so very grand.

We'll always remember his heart of gold,
That won him friends, both young and old;
We'll always remember the path he trod
That led him home to be with God.

Boys' Village

Smithville, Ohio

Article by Rev. Vernon D. Grisso
Pastor Smithville Brethren Church

(It has been suggested by several men of the church that have heard about Boys' Village here at Smithville, that I write a story about it for general information in the Evangelist. I have heard of a number of Brethren that have regularly given to Boys' Town in Nebraska, and that being a Catholic Institution, and this a Protestant, I believe it worthy to inform all who may be concerned. This is obviously not a Brethren work, but since many are already interested in similar projects it will tell a story that is both interesting and definitely show a need that is being filled in this day of extreme juvenile delinquency cases. V. D. G.)

EVERYONE has heard of Father Flannigan and "Boys' Town" in Nebraska. Many Brethren who have been orphans or have a warm spot in their hearts for homeless boys have been touched by the good work done. Many we have known have sent countless dollars to Boys' Town for their recreative work among boys. With all the good work done there, it is still Catholic and there, though boys have been redeemed to society and civilized living, they have been without a doubt claimed for Catholicism! They have been lost to Protestantism and her saving power!

Protestant boys become delinquents too. Protestants too are often delinquent parents.

We want to tell you a story about a Protestant vision for homeless boys. Here is an opportunity for people who believe that "every boy deserves a chance to make good."

Since we are in close contact with Boys' Village, Smithville, Ohio, we want to relate the story to you. Many Brethren have requested that this story be told and we tell it, not reluctantly but enthusiastically. Besides being a personal friend of the founder, Rev. C. E. Kerr, we are proud to announce that H. J. Amstutz, a deacon in the Smithville Brethren church is a trustee of the Village and Donald Hostetler another deacon at Smithville, is farm manager at the Village. The boys and their "Doc" Kerr often attend services at our church here and we can say they are a fine bunch of boys. Brother Frank Clapper of the Canton Brethren Church has done much in the Canton area of Christian people to raise funds and to support the Village. Brethren, as you can see, are already enthusiastically supporting this vital work.

Here it is—a Background sketch of Boys' Village.

Boys' Village, Incorporated, an institution for homeless boys, was founded approximately two years ago. The idea

Rev. C. E. Kerr, Founder of Boys' Village
With some of his "Boys" behind the organization was to create a place with a home-like atmosphere for Ohio's neglected and pre-delinquent boys, regardless of color or creed. The idea of Boys' Village was conceived by the Reverend Clarence E. Kerr, its founder and director.

The Village is located on U. S. Route No. 5, four miles east of Wooster, Ohio, and two miles west of Smithville, Ohio.

At present the Village has twelve young men as its first citizens. Ranging from the ages of 12 to 18, there boys are from Summit, Stark, Lorain, Holmes, Wayne, Richland and Medina Counties. Until cottages are completed, the boys are living in a remodeled farm house.

Reverend Kerr is an ordained Methodist Minister and a member of the Northeastern Ohio Methodist Conference. His last charge was the Smithville Methodist Church. His past experience includes many years of work with the Y. M. C. A. and Boys' clubs in Boston, Mass., and Butler and Pittsburgh, Pa.

Thirty-one years of age, Reverend Kerr has dedicated his entire future to projecting successfully his dream of Boys' Village.

The educational and religious background of Boys' Village is being administered strictly on a non-sectarian basis. Although plans are being prepared for a non-denominational chapel, the religion of each individual boy is handled according to his own belief. At present this is being accomplished by transporting the boys to town churches.

manager, Donald Hostetler, assists the reverend in his organization and direction of the 127 acre which composes Boys' Village land.

Mr. Kerr is assisted in the supervision of the boys by their mother. She is chosen for her ability to demonstrate to the boys a kindness of spirit and sympathetic understanding that they may feel she is truly their "Mom," as they call her.

Boys' Village, incorporated under the laws of the State of Ohio, is subject as such to certain rulings and opinions of the State Welfare Department. This department has given great help and counsel in advising the Boys' Village management as to methods in the development of the Village for its citizen citizens.

Boys' Village receives no subsidy from either municipal, state or government agencies, nor does it get aid from the Community Fund or social agencies. The Village is entirely self-reliant on the general public's pocketbook.

At present, cottages are under construction. They will accommodate 127 boys and their respective housemothers.

At present, three cottages are being built with funds donated by the Akron Beacon Journal fund, a retired Medina businessman who was orphaned when a young boy, and the Federated Men's Bible Class of Stark County. The present timetable on construction at Boys' Village is to have a program that would provide facilities for at least 127 boys by Christmas, 1948, with a probable maximum of 150 boys by the fall of 1950. No stone should be thrown in attaining this goal—helping homeless boys.

Judges throughout the state are besieging Rev. J. M. Smucker to their rescue. Hundreds of young men appear in their courts deserve the chance to become educated and adjusted American citizens.

The total expense funds of the institution to date have been a hard and tuck battle. However, it is the feeling of the Trustees that public support will be forthcoming in sufficient quantities that future needs will be adequately met. Already gifts ranging from one dollar to thousands of dollars have been received, in addition to many contributions.

More than one million Big Brothers and Big Sisters in Ohio to keep this institution intact and to help it grow. A cross-section of comment from the entire state shows that the people of Ohio will continue to back Boys' Village and his boys at Boys' Village.

Boys' Village, fraternal groups, women's clubs, service clubs, auxiliaries, veterans' organizations and labor unions are doing a splendid job in the field of child welfare. They are fast becoming the number one boosters of Boys' Village through monetary contributions and gifts of books, clothing, food, magazines and building supplies.

Boys' Village include Leroy B. Webner, Orrville, Ohio, cashier at Orrville National Bank; Welker, Ohio, J. M. Smucker Company; J. C. Meyer, Ohio, a professor at Western Reserve University; Weilersville, Ohio, Gerstensloger Company; Elkhart, Ohio, Superintendent of Schools; Harold Kropf, Orrville, Ohio, lawyer; Amstutz, Smithville, Ohio, Rutt and Amstutz.

The Plan of The Village (When it is completed)

Located on Route No. 5 between Wooster and Smithville in Wayne county, the Village is a 127 acre farm-site of rich farming land.

To acquaint Ohio citizens more fully with the development plan No. 1 exemplifies the entrance, which takes one into the area where shown above, a breakdown is offered. Reading from the upper left, No. 2 represents the parking space, No. 3, the cottages, and No. 4, the chapel, while No. 5 shows the administration building, No. 6, the school, and No. 7, the gymnasium and boiler room.

Outlying from the heart of the Village is No. 8, showing the stadium, No. 9, the athletic field, No. 10, the lake, and No. 11, the swimming pool. In the far upper right of the 127 acres composing the Village is No. 12, picnic grounds, No. 13, the present farm buildings, and No. 14, the disposal field.

William Boyd Huff, Akron architect, completely planned and designed the layout of the farm-site and the buildings.

Our personal reaction to the work being done at Boys' Village is unreserved praise. Rev. Kerr says, "With God's help and yours, our homeless, bewildered boys can be saved from a life of crime."

He is truly saving them from that and much more!

We know the story back of each boy there. This one was delinquent No. 1 of a certain Ohio village. That one's father is dead, and his mother, a common sinful woman of the street, made him a thief to support her; brought before the juvenile court he was given a chance at Boys' Village. All the boys are of drunken or divorced, or deceased parentage—unwanted, led astray, but being reclaimed.

Each boy has, since arriving, been led to a personal confession of Jesus Christ as Saviour and if ever boys have been born again to live new lives these boys have proven it. Nightly prayers, devotions, and heart to heart talks are included in their program. They are neglected delinquents, but sinners saved by grace and personifications of real Missionary work, right here at home—in Ohio.

Rev. Kerr is consecrated, conscientious, sincere and wholly dedicated to his purpose of making his Christian Ministry live in these boys. He is sound in his Faith and worthy of the support of Brethren people anywhere.

Remember this story. Some time you may want to help the Village—or better yet A Boy!

There are plenty places to send these "bad boys," to lock them up, but where else can you send them to free them and redeem their souls? Even "bad boys" are human beings with souls to be saved. It is wonderful to see boys cleaned up, faces washed and given warm clothes, a happy home and a Christian freedom outlook on life.

"Doc" Kerr had a great vision, he is making it a reality. Hats off to him and many thanks to one who has offered an opportunity for people to serve who believe that every boy deserves a chance to make good.

Ashland College News Letter

By Arthur Petit

MANY THINGS have happened on the Ashland College campus since the last report to the Evangelist readers. Perhaps one of the most important events in recent years occurred on February 9 when the Ashland College radio station, WACC was formally dedicated and presented to the college. This station is unique in its operation among colleges the size of Ashland. A few larger colleges have similar arrangements but, so far as we know, none the size of Ashland. The station, rated as only 5 watts of power, uses the power lines of the city of Ashland as antenna. In that way, the programs can be heard at any point on the campus and for several blocks around.

The radio studio and the station itself was made possible largely through the gift of Miss Florence Cleaver of the Falls City, Nebraska, Church. Several years ago, she gave liberally to this project. Since that time, she has endowed a scholarship on the campus. Religious programs hold their place on this station in keeping with the ideals of Ashland College.

Station WACC broadcasts five hours each day, early morning, at noon and late in the evening. It now completes the opportunity for the young people of the Brethren Church who are pointing toward careers in radio. They are able to first broadcast over the college station and later over WATG. Radio Preaching is one of the courses taught by means of these stations.

The mayor of Ashland, the president and secretary of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce, a program director of the WATG radio station and Wayne Byers, owner of the radio station in Tiffin, Ohio and who also broadcasts daily over WTAM in Cleveland, were also on the program. In the absence of Miss Cleaver, the writer presented the station to Dr. Glenn L. Clayton, president of the college, who accepted it for the board of trustees.

Here again, Ashland is at the head of the parade. Many colleges will have such stations in the next five years, but Ashland can point proudly to this station as one of the first. Gifts such as this from Miss Cleaver will help to continue Ashland as one of the fine small Christian Colleges in the United States. The college can be just what the Brethren Church wants it to be if ALL qualified Brethren young people are encouraged to come here and if the members of the church are willing to help materially in its maintenance.

The new catalog is now printed and ready for distribution. The greatest changes are in the fields of business, psychology and physical education. Some changes in the sciences and in sociology are also found in it. A copy is yours for a penny post card.

A letter to the alumni office from Dr. E. E. Jacobs, president emeritus, tells us that he has had an almost miraculous recovery and that he is feeling much better.

The second semester has started and about 40 new students have enrolled for the first time at Ashland. Brethren students from Muncie, Indiana and West Alexandria, Ohio have entered.

Present indications are that the freshman class next fall will be large again. As many students have been accepted so far this year as last year at this time. This indicates that there should be more than 225 freshman next fall. Unsettled economic conditions may make this vary in either direction. We are looking forward to another large enrollment next year.

Muncie, Indiana. As I write these notes it is the day of the dedication of the Muncie Church. Brother Zimmerman's bulletin is before me. It is quite evident that the Muncie people have spent many hours getting ready for this great event, for we find listed a number of things that were done.

We note that on Sunday evening, January 23, a fine special service of story and pictures was given. Mrs. Zimmerman, who was a charter member of the Johnstown, Pennsylvania, Story League, brought the story and Brother Zimmerman, using four religious pictures, brought the message.

Francis Berkshire delivered a truck load of clothing and supplies to Kentucky from the Masontown Brethren."

DIGGING DEEPER INTO FAITH

Scripture: Gen. 26:17-22; II Tim. 2:15

For The Leader

THE FIRST PART of our scripture this evening tells the story of a young man who was seeking a place to establish a home. After several attempts he finally found the right place. And so he dug deep "into the wells of his father" and there he was assured of a fruitful life. The second part of the scripture depicts the only way for us to gain a fruitful life in a spiritual sense. That is, to "study to show thyself approved unto God." Thus as Isaac dug deep for the wells of water, so must we dig deep into God's word for that spiritual water so necessary to life. Many young people today are making shipwreck of their Christian faith; not so, those who are constantly digging into the precious promises of the eternal God. Do you want to become better grounded in your faith? Then this subject is for you.

DISCUSSION

1. WHAT IS FAITH? We hear this word used so much. Many times people will say, "Well, just have faith, and everything will work out all right." Others say, "Worship according to your faith." These snatch phrases show what we mean. Still the word "faith" remains unexplained. Faith is a dependence on the veracity (truthfulness) of another; a firm belief or trust in a person, thing, doctrine, or statement. Basically, for our purpose tonight, faith is divided into two types. First, Historical faith—a belief in the truthfulness and accuracy of the Scriptural narrative and teachings. Second, Saving faith—the acceptance of the intellect, affection and will of God's favor, extended to man through Jesus Christ. Now, translating all this high sounding language to fit our own lives, it means that we accept through what we hear and read the fact of God's love given through the sacrifice of His Son, Jesus Christ, as a basis for our hope of eternal life.

2. OURS IS A FAITH RELIGION. Do you know that you are basing your whole future, in this life and the next, on what you find written in a Book called the Bible? What our preachers and teachers tell us is just what they find in its pages (or it should be.) So the whole structure of our Christian faith rests squarely on whether or not we accept this Bible as the divine Word of God. That is why, young people, those who would destroy your faith in God, seek first to destroy your faith in the Bible. They ridicule it, seek to deny parts of it, and even try to make us believe that some parts of it are not meant for this present age! But, the Bible is its own defence, and those who would seek to destroy it are as worn out and broken hammers beside the undented anvil. Then too, if we discard the Bible, and along with it, our faith what do we have? Personally, we'll stick by the Word of God, for in it are the ways of life.

3. IGNORANCE IS A CRIME. This topic is so important tonight because its subject implies that the opposite is true. "Digging deeper into faith" implies that we are not, in general, as well grounded as we should be. The ignorance of young people, and adults in relation to things spiritual, is almost discouraging. We have gone overboard on our social, recreational and project sides of Christian living, to the neglect to the vital parts. Who is to blame? The average preacher looks back over his audience of a Sunday. One-third, he will see the next Sunday for they are the faithful. The rest he may not see for two, three, four, six weeks, or more. And he well knows that in that brief hour he cannot give that two-thirds enough spiritual food to carry them through the desert of their absence. And life is too short to wait "until later" to give attention to the things of God. Now is the time. And this terrible thing called "Going Home" after Sunday School is another disgrace leading to ignorance. Young people, that man who stands behind your pulpit in the worship hours is your minister, appointed by God, with a message for your soul. You have no right to slap him in the face and walk out on him, for in a real sense what you do to him you do to God.

4. WHAT TO DO ABOUT SPIRITUAL IGNORANCE. Show this to your preacher. The people of our churches whether they admit it or not, are hungry for the spiritual things of God's Word. The chaff of the world does not satisfy them. So, there is a hunger, acknowledged or not, which will respond to the right kind of food. That food is the eternal Word of God. So dig into the Bible and come up with these wonderful gospel truths about God's love, sin, salvation, the Cross, resurrection, etc. Away with topics, papers, lessons, politics, world conditions. Preach the gospel message, and even you will be surprised at the results. Further, young people, support your minister in prayer and in faithful attendance at the services. Your life will be transformed. The best way to cure spiritual ignorance is to preach and to hear the vital truths of God's Word.

5. WHAT A STRONGER FAITH WILL DO. This is a day when faiths, religions, philosophies, etc., are crumbling in the dust. As the smoke clears away we see millions of people milling around amid the wreckage of their lives and beliefs, knowing not whither to turn. But there, standing amid the ruins is the everlasting Word of God. That can never change. It will carry us through every trial; it will give us hope in every discouragement; it will show us service for every talent; it will guide us safely through life and usher us into the glorious life beyond the grave, when our day is done. It will warn us when temptation comes; it will show us what is right and wrong. It will make us strong in purpose and desire in life. It will help us to pick out the better values in life and shun the sinful. It will keep us true to Him even in this day when many walk no more with Him. So, young people, dig deep into His Word. Study it, pray over it, and drink deep of its refreshing spiritual and eternal waters.

QUESTIONS

1. Who were some great examples of faith in the Bible? Name them, and tell how their faith operates in their lives.
2. Are such great feats of faith possible today for us?
3. Name some people whom you know who are living by faith today. That is, going ahead in their work, relying on their faith in promises of God's Word.

LEADERSHIP

If I would lead another soul
My own must be in full control;
The secret of the teaching art
'Bides in a governed, stable heart.

If some indulgence holds me down,
Be it my appetite or gown,
It limits my intrinsic worth,
And makes me just a thing of earth.

The slightest bondage makes a slave,
Though men suppose us free and brave,
Within our own secretive breast
We know we do not pass the test.

Ours is a mediocre place
Until by force of heav'nly grace
We master self at ev'ry turn,
And thus the might of freedom learn.

—Log of the Good Ship Grace.

OUR LEADERSHIP UNDER THE SPOTLIGHT

Scripture: Col. 1:19-29

Prayer for divine help

Seed Thought Provokers:

UNLESS WE AS LEADERS in church, Sunday school, and the home follow the Lord we cannot well tell others what to do (1 Cor. 11:1). We must have what this world does not have if we expect to fill positions of spiritual leadership (Acts 3:6). It is said that to one viewing the wealth of the papacy the pope boasted, "The church needs no longer to say, 'Silver and gold have I none.'" To this the guest retorted, "And the church can no longer say, 'In the name of Jesus of Nazareth rise up and walk!'" (Rev. 3:17, 18). As leaders we must have something to satisfy spiritual hunger (Matt. 14:16). If we do not have it, we can get it, and get enough for all (Matt. 14:17-19). It takes the right message, method and power in the demonstration of the Spirit and the attractiveness of the Lord Jesus. The convert who said, "I do not know how to follow the Lord Jesus unless you show me," had the right idea. Unless we live an exemplary life as leaders, we assume an honor that does not belong to us.

As leaders we ought to know the mind of God as given in the Bible and be able to show it from the Bible to an inquirer (1 Peter 3:15; Acts 8:30, 31). We ought to know the spiritual interpretation of the Word of God. We need to know what is God's will and how to get divine leading (Acts 16:6-10). We ought to know what is the will of God for our church. We are too sensitive to the will of the people when it does not measure up to the will of the Lord. We ought to bear one another's burdens and be able to tell the burdened what to do (Gal. 6:2; 2 Kings 4:3, 4). God does not intend for the people to wander in darkness, distress and defeat, because He has us in this world as the ones through whom He will help (Matt. 5:14). We are supposed to have the divine answer and help—the Light.

It is amazing how much God wants to give us, and how little we are willing to take. We expect too little, and we attempt too little. This is because we do so little praying and waiting on God (Isa. 45:11). Oftentimes during or following great revivals physical miracles occur. That is because sin has been renounced, and faith and power with God has increased. To have something from God to give to others, the prayer closet is the main thing (Matt. 6:6). Our positions of leadership demand that we speak for God. To speak for God we must have His wisdom and His power.

The most successful Christian leader was Paul. His message was, "Christ in you, the hope of glory." Paul never minimized prophecy, the second coming of the Lord, and the salvation of sinners. God expects success out of us as well as faithfulness (John 15:16; John 12:32). Christ cannot be taught in the demonstration of the Spirit out of an honest and consecrated soul without bringing some to a saving knowledge of the Saviour. For Paul's method read Acts 20:20. Our work is both public and personal. We must be teachers. Our motive should be that of Paul (Col. 1:28). Pray that God will empower His message through us as leaders to the saving of souls and edifying of the saints.

Lesson for March 6, 1949

SOWING AND REAPING

Lesson: Mark 3:1-9; Luke 15:11-14

IF THERE IS ANY one thing in God's Word that should cause a person to stop and think deeply, it is the sentence that is found in the Golden Text of this lesson. It reads: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked, for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Here is stated a truth that shall stand. The farmer who sows wheat will, from that sown wheat, reap wheat and wheat only. Nothing else will grow from a grain of wheat but wheat.

Jesus, teaching by the side of the sea, was a very wise teacher. He began to teach by citing His hearers to something with which they were very familiar—sowing and reaping. All kinds of soil which He mentions are known to them—the pathway through the fields over which they had so recently come; the ground which thinly covered the stony sub-surface; the brambles and thorny hedges, so irksome to the tiller of the soil; and last, but not least, the fine, tillable soil which, when properly planted and tended, brought forth abundant harvest.

As they listened the gracious words He uttered fell upon their ears much in the same way that the seed would fall on the ground. Some heard, but almost instantly forgot; some heard and made high resolves, but on the way home let other thoughts overcome them; still others, as they listened, really desired to take this new way of life upon them, but return to old friends and old associations, soon caused their high resolves to be "choked" and the fruitage brought to naught. But some heard and heeded. The seed went further down than merely the hearing—down into the heart, where it found lodgment in the rich, deep soil of a finely nourished life—and thus brought forth fruit.

It may be that the young man, the younger of the two sons who desired to leave the father's house and go out to seek adventure in the city, was one of those who heard the "word with gladness," but because of bad associates, brought the sowing to a failure in yielded grain. In his life there is the example of "sowing to the wind and reaping the whirlwind." We shudder to think what the final results were in his life. True, he returned to his father's house; true he was received with open arms because he repented and came back; but what of the scars left on his body and even on his very soul? Sin cannot be tampered with. Even a "little sin" may leave a "deep chasm" in the life that remains, even though the sin be confessed and forgiven.

Matthew Henry once said, "Thorns are a good guard to the corn, when they are in the hedge; but a bad inmate when they are in the field." How true! The inference in our lesson is to never permit entrance of the thorns and stony ground in the first place, but to always keep the soil in a fallow condition, ready for the reception and the growing of the seed.

News From Our Churches

CARLETON, NEBRASKA

The Carleton Brethren cannot give as cheering and encouraging news as many others, but we will come forward with a brief statement of our endeavors in this part of the Lord's vineyard, lest our silence be annoying or alarming to those who may be interested in us. Unfavorable conditions and circumstances, which we seem to have been unable to overcome, have disrupted our plans and thwarted our efforts. We know that God is able and willing to help us to overcome our hindrances and that He has promised to richly reward the overcomers. Therefore, trusting in His grace and power, we press on.

A summer vacation Bible school for children, the Methodists co-operating, was held in our church. It was well attended and was considered quite successful. The concluding public service was well attended by a large appreciative audience.

It was the pastor's privilege to assist in the preparation for and the conducting of the Brethren young people's camp in Wyandotte County, Kansas, which has become a very successful project. Our district has a ten acre plot there that is well suited for such a camp. The pastor was also privileged to attend both the General Conference in Ashland, Ohio, and the District Conference in Mulvane, Kansas, the church paying the train and bus fare.

September 19 was our Home Coming Day, a series of delightful fellowship. We had both a forenoon and an afternoon service, with a bountiful carry-in dinner at noon. Dr. Milton P. Puterbaugh, of Kansas City, was our guest speaker. He gave us two very fine messages, which were well received. He was a stranger to most of the membership, but all were happy to become acquainted with him and hear him. Those of us who knew him were very happy to meet him again.

Rally Day was another high day. The newly elected officers of the church school were installed at the morning service and the pastor gave the address. In the evening Dr. Glenn L. Clayton, President of Ashland College, and his family, were with us, which added much to the joy of the day. They, too, were strangers to most of the membership, but they were cordial and all were happy to meet them. Dr. Clayton delighted and inspired us with a very helpful address.

One week of special preparatory services conducted by the pastor, was held prior to our observance of the Love-feast, which was strengthening to the membership, as was evidenced by the increased attendance at the Love-feast.

Our union Thanksgiving Day services were held in the Methodist church, the Brethren pastor preaching the sermon. Christmas was observed with two services. First with the annual Christmas supper for the church school. Each class provided some part of the program, gifts were exchanged and the moving picture film, "God is my Landlord," was shown by the Methodist pastor. Christmas Eve a beautiful candle light service, with a program of carols, songs and Scripture portions related to Christmas, was rendered.

The severity of the winter, with its extreme cold, fierce wind, deep snow-drifts and blocked roads and highways, has seriously disrupted and retarded our efforts. Yet, others farther west have suffered far more than we.

The serious illness of the pastor's wife has been a heavy burden upon him and has cast considerable gloom upon others. Drawing closer to God, we look to Him for sustaining grace, which He has promised will be sufficient.

We have widened the parsonage garage and replaced the former wind-racked hinge-doors with a new roller door. Material is on hand for making a concrete floor as soon as weather permits. Funds are being raised for new carpet for the sanctuary of the church.

Not unmindful of our high calling in Christ Jesus as winners of souls and undaunted in our purpose, we press on in His name. Pray for us.

H. M. Oberholtzer.

REVIVAL AT ROANOKE, INDIANA

It has been a long time since the Brethren church at Roanoke, Indiana, has been heard from through the Brethren Evangelist. We have the problems of one of our smaller churches, in a town located between two larger cities where most of the people work. During the War and post-war years, many strangers located here to remain a short time and then move on to be replaced by others. The shifting population knows little about the Brethren church or her doctrines. In recent years many of our members have died or moved elsewhere. Yet we have a loyal people who have maintained and carried on the work throughout the years. One of our first problems was to make some very urgent repairs on the church building. Some years ago the church was reroofed. Then the Brethren began to think of a more comfortable place of worship, so a movement was launched and a good sum of money raised to re-decorate the walls of the sanctuary and adjoining rooms. The ceiling was insulated, the art glass windows were repaired and reset. The basement kitchen was refurnished and modernized with several other improvements to make our church a more attractive and comfortable place in which to worship. We now have a fund for further improvements in the near future.

For the past years, the Protestant churches of Roanoke have held union Sunday evening services. This has given us a Sunday evening service every third Sunday evening, the pastor doing the preaching. But we felt the need of having a short, special evangelistic service by one of our own ministers. Some of our Brethren went to South Bend and contacted Brother Claud Studebaker, pastor of the First Brethren Church of that city. Rev. Studebaker kindly accepted our invitation, and on Sunday evening, January 9, he opened the revival which lasted over the following Sunday. He remained with us for communion service on the following evening.

We need not mention anything about Brother Studebaker's ability as a preacher, for that is well-known among our Brethren people. His strong sermons and his friendly approach won his way into the hearts of the people of our community and attracted large crowds each evening. The first Sunday evening there were an estimated 200 present, and several other evenings there was a full attendance. We had fine cooperation from the other churches in the town and community. On the first Sunday evening there was a large delegation from the Brethren Church of North Manchester. Brother Hodge dismissed his service, and they attended in a body. Brother H. D. Hunter sang a solo. On Tuesday evening Brother Gilmer brought a delegation from the Huntington Brethren Church. They had their Men's Chorus with them; it gave several fine selections of song. Brother Gilmer was with us several times during the meetings, and also for our communion service. The Beech Christian church near Roanoke had a delegation on Wednesday evening and furnished special music. On Friday evening we had an accordion duet by Mrs. Ned Cartwright and Mrs. Ambroli. Brother Walter Humke kindly donated the services of his car to the ministers for the purpose of making calls.

A lady of another church said, referring to the meetings, "They were needed by our whole town."

On last Sunday evening we baptized three fine boys in the baptistry of the Huntington Brethren Church. There were others who expressed their desire to unite with the church in the near future. We have given many of the unsaved, in whose homes we visited, an opportunity to accept their Lord. The general feeling is that one week of revival was too short to secure the best results. Our folks want Dr. Studebaker to return some time in the future to reap the harvest of the seeds that have been sown.

May God bless him in his work!

S. C. Henderson, pastor.

FIRESTONE PARK BRETHERN CHURCH AKRON, OHIO

Since we are now only well started in the year of 1949, allow me to begin this report by attempting a retrospective view of the work in Akron. We moved into our new building August 1, 1948. It was dedicated August 22, 1948 with Rev. E. M. Riddle, field secretary of the Missionary Board, as the principal speaker of the day. Rev. E. J. Beekley of Canton, Ohio, and Rev. H. H. Rowsey of Ashland, Ohio also assisted in the service of dedication.

Since getting located in the new building, attendance has increased in all of the various services; 26 have been added to the membership roll, seven of whom were added during the month of January, 1949. Others who have made the good confession still await baptism. In November we held a two-week Bible Teaching Evangelistic campaign; as a result 10 new converts were added to the church.

Sunday evening, December 19th, the Choir presented a Christmas Cantata to an appreciative audience. Wednesday evening, December 23rd, the Sunday school gave its annual Christmas program to a packed house. Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Keck and two of their children were present. Rev. and Mrs. Keck both gave interesting talks, packed with information about the mission work, centering around Lost Creek, Kentucky. The White Gift offering was taken by the Sunday school December 19th, and during the worship service a special offering was taken to pay for the front doors. The doors were installed the following week.

Friday night, January 13th, a Bible Training Class was started with an enrollment of 21. Thus during the week we have prayer meeting conducted by the Laymen on Wednesday night; Choir practice on Thursday night; Bible Training Class on Friday. Besides the Laymen meet on the fourth Monday night each month; the W. M. S. meet on the first Thursday night for regular meeting and then one full day for sewing, etc., during each month.

Each member of the Laymen's Organization has adopted one or more boys who is a Sunday school attendant or prospect, and the Layman becomes the spiritual counselor of the boy thus adopted. The women of the W. M. S. are doing similar work with the girls. This is proving to be a very worthwhile project.

Sunday night, January 23rd, the Young People's Class conducted the service. Marilyn Dodds, president of the class, presided. The teacher, Mrs. Howard Joy, described the class—past, present, future—and also gave an interesting talk on the Genesis record of the creation of Man. Bob McGraw, vice-president, delivered the principal message on the subject, "Who Is Christ?" The service was well arranged, impressive and challenging. This class is helping to raise money to purchase curtains to make the choir loft into a class room—they are outgrowing their present class room. Other classes will conduct similar services later.

A few words about the early future. The W. M. S. will hold their public service February 20th. February 28 Brother Floyd Sibert is coming to Akron for a two-week evangelistic campaign. Neighboring churches are invited to attend as often as possible. We will be thankful for special numbers brought. For Palm Sunday and Easter Sunday morning Brother Charles Munson will be the special guest speaker, while the pastor is away holding a Bible Conference at Lanark, Illinois.

We thank the many Brethren and friends who have helped us with their gifts and their prayers. Your gifts and prayers have greatly enhanced the progress of the work of the Firestone Park Brethren Church. We request your continued interest.

New pews are being constructed, and we expect they will be installed during February.

J. G. Dodds, pastor.

SERGEANTSVILLE AND CALVARY, N. J., CIRCUIT

On December 4, 1948 the Sergeantsville and Calvary, New Jersey Churches extended a call to Rev Joseph J. Margush of Topeka, Kansas, to become our pastor. Brother

Margush accepted the call and on January 4, 1949 was on the field ready to begin his work among us.

On Friday evening, January 28, a reception was given to Brother and Sister Margush and their daughter Ruth Anna, at the Sergeantsville Church, by the members of the Sergeantsville and Calvary Churches, together with friends in the community. After a program of music, readings and greetings, a social hour followed.

Brother Margush has entered enthusiastically upon his work in this field and has already made a number of new contacts for both churches and the Sunday Schools. May our church go forward under his ministry, is our earnest desire and prayer.

The Sergeantsville Church was the meeting place for the Hunterdon County Bible Conference on February 4th.

The Christian Endeavor held its annual banquet on the evening of February 12th. A candle light service was held on Sunday evening, February 13th.

Ida S. Leigh, Secretary Sergeantsville Church.

Wedding Announcement

GRIMES-DELOZIER. Ruth Evelyn Grimes and Arthur H. DeLozier were united in marriage at the Snake Spring Valley Church of the Brethren, Everett, Pa., on the evening of November 26, 1948. The ceremony was performed by the Reverend Isaac Wareham of Everett. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Joseph Dibert, and her sister, Mrs. Ralph Kegg served as matron of honor. The groom had as his best man, Mr. Victor Humm, a brother-in-law. The groom's sisters, Jeannette and Mrs. Victor (Dorcas) Humm provided the vocal music for the beautiful open church wedding and Mrs. John Wagoner, a friend of the bride, served as pianist. Relatives of the bride served as bridesmaids, ushers, flower girl and ring-bearer.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Francis Grimes of Bedford, Pa., and is a member of the nursing staff at Samaritan Hospital in Ashland. She graduated from Everett High School and the Memorial School of Nursing. The groom is the son of Mrs. Margaret DeLozier and the late Professor A. L. DeLozier of Ashland. He is a graduate of Ashland High School and Ashland College and is in the United States Postal Service in Ashland.

INTERESTING ITEMS

Pleasant Hill, Ohio. A card from Brother Floyd Sibert, Pleasant Hill pastor, says, "We had 198 present at Sunday School on February 6th, with an offering of $708.42, and on the 13th, 217 were present with an offering of $39.00." He says the building is getting along fine. Brother Sibert begins a meeting of two weeks duration for Brother J. G. Dodds and his Akron Firestone Park Church on Monday evening, February 28th, closing on Sunday, March 13th.

Loree, Indiana. Brother Robert K. Higgins, pastor of the Loree-Mexico Circuit, has been granted the privilege of holding a two-week Revival campaign for our Cumberland, Maryland, Church—March 14 to 27. Brother Harold Hummel of our Goshen, Indiana, Church, is scheduled as speaker at Loree on Sunday morning, March 27th.

Nappanee, Indiana. We note from Brother J. M. Bowman's bulletin of February 13th that a fine gift of $1,000.00 was recently given the Church Building Fund by "a friend."

The Nappanee Father and Son Banquet was held on Tuesday evening, February 15th.

Ashland, Ohio. The Annual Ashland Father and Son Banquet was held in the church on Monday evening, February 14th. It was in the nature of a carry-in meal, with several of the staple dishes, such as meat and potatoes, being apportioned out to the various members of the Laymen's organization, resulting in a very satisfying banquet. Following the supper the men and boys adjourned to the auditorium of the church where several reels of sound film were shown. All in all it was a very fine meeting. Philip Lersch, president of the Laymen's Organization was in charge of the evening.

Bryan, Ohio. On Sunday morning, February 13th, during the absence of Brother E. J. Black, who was holding a revival at our Church in Warsaw, Indiana, the Junior Church had charge of the entire morning service.

Further information concerning the weekly radio broadcast by the Bryan Church over Radio Station WONW of Defiance, Ohio, was found in the Bryan bulletin of February 6th. Broadcasting on a frequency of 1280 KC, the hour is from 8:30 to 9:00 A. M. each Sunday. The church has contracted for a full year of such service, with the privilege of renewing the contract at the end of the period. Our church is the only church in Bryan that is broadcasting.

Masontown, Penna. We learn from Brother Freeman Ankrum's bulletin of February 13th, that two of the three High School Juniors elected to membership in the National Honor Society were from our Masontown Sunday School—Dorothy Boord and Mary Alice Ankrum, the latter the daughter of Brother and Sister Ankrum.

Brother Ankrum reports that the average attendance for January, 1949 for the morning worship service was 143, which was 23 above the average for January, 1948.

Muncie, Indiana. We glean the following from Brother Zimmerman's recent bulletins: "A reception was held for the pastor and wife on Friday evening, February 11th. The C. E. sponsored a party on C. E.'s Birthday, with all invited to attend and help eat the Birthday Cake. Prayer and then work was the order of the evening on Wednesday evening, February 2nd, as the membership labored to complete the church in readiness for the dedication, which was held on February 13th." After all, isn't that a pretty good way of approaching any task? Prayer and then work!

Oakville, Indiana. Brother Henry Bates reports the January average Sunday School and Church attendance as 90 and 74 respectively, as compared to 70 and 67 for January, 1948. He also reports that on the first Sunday their "150 by '50" campaign, which began on February 6th, found 109 in Sunday School and 86 for morning worship.

Smithville, Ohio. Brother Vernon D. Grisso reports the baptism and reception of six new members on Sunday, February 6th.

The Rittman High School Girls' Sextette, of which one of the members of the Smithville Church is a member, brought special music at the morning worship service on Sunday, February 20th.

The announcement of the names of those who had perfect attendance, or "Honor" attendance at Sunday School during 1948 was made in the Smithville bulletin of February 6th. Twenty-eight had attended fifty or more sessions thus making the "Honor" List, and twenty-one were in attendance forty-five or more sessions, thus receiving "Honorable Mention."

Stockton, Calif. We quote from Brother C. E. Johnson's bulletin of February 13th: "The Stockton Church has been made an heir in the estate of Mother Shank, whose funeral was held the past Tuesday. The amount of the legacy is not yet known. She has given much to the church here, both in finances and prayer."

Waterloo, Iowa. The annual Birthday Dinner of the Waterloo Church was held at the church on Tuesday evening, February 22nd. This was a special occasion as it was

HAVE WE?

IN S. D. GORDON'S book, "Quiet Talks With World Winners," there is a little bit of verse that drew my attention as I read the chapter on "The Past Failure." It goes like this:

"The restless millions wait the light,
Whose coming maketh all things new.
Christ also waits; but men are slow and late.
Have we done what we could?
Have I?
Have you?"

As I read these lines—it set me to thinking!

Each one who professes to be a Christian, and who seeks to do the will of the Master, has his or her task laid out and definitely placed in relation to time, place and opportunity. If each one would seek to realize that God has made His plan and stands ready to assist in every way that the plan may be perfected, more and more would dependence be placed on the Plan-Maker, and less and less on the plan-worker. Gordon says, "God cares more for the man than for the plan." This plan is only for the sake of man.

When we go to build a building, we are very foolish to neglect the consulting of an architect, one who has made a study of strains, stresses, proportion and the like, and, having made this consultation and received advice, how much more foolish we would be to be neglectful in following the architect's advice. But that is exactly what far too many professed Christians are doing—consulting the Divine Architect, receiving His advice, and then going about building the life—adding unnecessary things here and leaving out essential things there, until the whole structure is weakened and in danger of utter collapse.

It is not always the doing of "big things" that counts. Remember that it was the woman who simply broke the Alabaster Box of Ointment and anointed Jesus who merited the words of the Master, "She hath done what she could." He did not expect anything more from her than that which she did. Neither does He expect anything more of us than we are capable of and have the opportunity of doing. But He does expect that much of us, and rightly so. It is His due!

Gordon goes on to say, "Let us stop thoughtfully, and remember that God has carefully thought out a plan for every man, for each of us. It is a plan for the life, these human years; not simply for getting us to what we may have thought of as a psalm-singing heaven, when we are worn out down here." It seems to me that the mere fact that we will finally get to heaven should be the least of our thinking. We should be thinking, rather, of what we may do along the way that will help bring to fruition the entire course of God's planning—while "Christ also waits." The final ten words of the above verse should keep beating in upon our minds until they bring definite action in our lives:

"Have we done what we could? Have I? Have you?"
Think it over!

It is Always Encouraging

Words of praise are always a welcome note in the hearts of those who are endeavoring to serve rightly. Consequently when we receive such letters as the one from which we quote below, it is heartening. We quote:

"I am writing a note of thanks and appreciation to you on my part as serving as Secretary for our Sunday School the past eight years. You have made the task a little easier by giving to us promptly all merchandise we order each quarter. I have enjoyed working with you and hope I have not inconvenienced you to a great extent. Signed: Mrs. James McBride, Pleasant Hill, Ohio." The Office Secretary, wishes to express appreciation for those kind words.

What Is It For?

During the past week half a dozen checks have come to the office with nothing in the envelope to tell the Office Secretary what they are for. At this particular time, with Press Fund, Publication Day Offerings, the Payment of bills for invoices sent out, etc., it makes a great deal of work in searching out the proper places to credit these checks. We would ask you kindly to please either mark on your check what it is for, or to just insert a piece of paper stating the purpose of the check. It will help a great deal.

Brethren, Let's Pray

Robert C. Lorenzen

W H Y ?

IF THERE WAS EVER a time when there was a need to cry unto God in the words of the Psalmist, "Wilt Thou not revive us again, that Thy people may rejoice in Thee?" it is this day in which we live. It is surely time for the Lord to work among men. All about is spiritual dearth and desolation. It is not confined to any one denomination. It is manifest in each and every Church throughout the land. We not only hear of the seriousness of it from the pulpit, we hear it in the street. It is the topic of general conversation among those who look to the Church for spiritual guidance and leadership.

Briefly, in some communities, the Church membership have tried to do something about it, and we have had local revivals. The spirit of God has breathed upon both Pastor and people in this Church and that community, but it has not been widespread, neither has it been felt to the extent that it has become a topic of conversation or long enjoyed blessing. More often a professional evangelist has been engaged; usually from some large City Church, where the preaching of a social gospel is a "must," and love for lost souls has long since departed. And so, in these instances we have a little religious excitement. By cunning methods and the flow of beautiful phrases that have influenced men since the beginning of time, a few are brought into the fold.

Frankly, Brethren, this is not the type of revival we need. This type is only an imitation, instituted by the cunning of the devil to cause men to THINK they have accomplished something great for God and man.

How spiritually blind we Christians are in this age. Let us awake to the wisdom of God. If we are to have, and really want a revival, let us get it as our fathers did; on our knees before the Throne of Grace. "Return to Him ye children." Gypsy Smith once said: "If you want a revival, go home, draw a circle a few feet in diameter; get down on your knees in that circle, and pray God in all earnestness that the revival begin within that circle."

Let me cite just a few Bible proofs that we need to pray in addition to preach for a revival.

1. Before Pentecost the Saints of God prayed. "And when they were come in, they went up into an upper room, where abode both Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon Zelotes, and Judas the brother of James. These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication, with the women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with his brethren." Acts 1:13, 14.

After this season of prayer and supplication, the Holy Spirit fell on the disciples, and three thousand people were saved and baptised. This was the first great revival of Christian history. It had its origin in a ten-day prayer meeting. Every true revival has its origin in prayer. But let's look for more proof.

After Pentecost the disciples needed again to be filled with the Holy Spirit, so they prayed again. "And when they had prayed, the place was shaken where they were assembled together; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost and they spake the word of God with boldness!" Acts 4:31.

They prayed before Pentecost, they prayed after Pentecost, with the same glorious results. I am reminded of what Dr. Charles G. Finney said in his autobiography concerning the great revival which broke out at Rochester, N. Y. in 1830. "The spirit of prayer was poured out powerfully, so much so that some persons stayed away from the public service to pray, being unable to restrain their feelings under preaching." How the Angels would rejoice to see men return to the spirit of prayer.

Paul, the apostle, was filled with the Holy Spirit three days after being saved, and that in answer to prayer. Read the beautiful account in Acts 9:3-17.

Again, in Acts 13:1-4, we have the account of a group who met to pray and fast and the Holy Spirit said, "Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them." Then we are told, "And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away." Yes, sent forth by the Holy Ghost. No wonder souls were saved. Men prayed, God acted.

Search the records; any of the great revivals in this country or any other country began with prayer. History tells us that the great revival of 1857 in the United States, not only began in prayer, but was carried on by prayer more than by anything else. Dr. Spencer, in his "Pastor's Sketches," tells us that a remarkable revival in his church sprang from the fervent prayers of a godly old man who was confined to his room by lameness. One of the most powerful revivals in the City of Philadelphia had its beginning with three young men who were willing to humble themselves before God in prayer. Thus we could go on and on sighting instances of mighty answers to prayer.

Believe me, it was a mighty stroke of the devil when he got the Church generally to turn from prayer as its first line of defense. And I can't help but believe that the devil is laughing out loud at the Church today. It is the best organized organization in the world today; with its many societies, associations, unions, schools, camps and what-not's, without the Almighty power of the Living God to breathe life eternal into it.

Let us, therefore, rally to the "ole fashioned" prayer meeting. Let us teach our people HOW, and WHEN, and for WHAT to pray. It may be somewhat difficult to concentrate on such a program, but we have learned that some of the greatest revivals began with only a few praying in the will of God. And instead of the usual revival consisting of special music, and a special preacher, with a special message, let's have a revival the "ole fashioned" way. You won't need to ask anyone to pray—just teach HOW to pray; how God wants His children to pray, and the Holy Spirit will move men to pray.

Someone, however, will say, "Why I do pray." Wonderful, wonderful. It was S. D. Gordon who said: "The greatest thing anyone can do for God or for man is to pray." Even so, there are a great number of Christians who look upon prayer with a peculiar sense of understanding. Not only are there many theories of prayer, that are commonly accepted, but the practice of prayer is scantily enjoyed. Scantily enjoyed for the reason that few of us have really enjoyed the wonderful blessing of answered prayer. WHY? Simply for the reason that many of us have either never learned to pray, or we have forgotten how to pray.

How then shall we pray? For the answer, we turn to Jesus. None could teach like Jesus, none but Jesus. He gives us the conditions of prayer. (I wish we had the time and space to discuss each of these conditions at some length. I am sure, we would all be blessed thereby.)

The first condition is found in the words of Jesus to the woman of Samaria. They give us some wonderful first glimpses into the world of prayer and we gain the understanding of what it is to pray in spirit and in truth—the understanding that there must be harmony between God and the worshipper. Such as God is, must His worship be. The man who would truly worship God, must first find, and know, and possess, and enjoy God. "But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth, for the Father seeketh such to worship him. God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth." John 4:23-24.

2. Forget self. Shut everything but the glory of God out of your life. "But thou when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly." Matthew 6:6.

3. Be businesslike. Be definite in your asking. "And Jesus answered and said unto him. What wilt thou that I should do unto thee? The blind man said unto him, Lord, that I might receive my sight." Mark 11:51.

4. Cast all doubt out of your heart. "Therefore, I say unto you, what thing soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." Mark 11:24.

5. Have faith in God. "And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief; for verily I say unto you, if ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain. Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall be removed; and nothing shall be impossible unto you." Matthew 17:20.

6. Forgive others their trespasses against you. "And when ye stand praying, forgive, if ye have aught against any; that your Father also which is in heaven may forgive you your trespasses." Mark 11:25.

7. Have a heart felt agreement with other Christians on that which is asked in prayer. "Again I say unto you, That if two of you shall agree on earth as touching anything that they shall ask, it shall be done for them of my Father which is in heaven." Matthew 18:19.

8. Pay the price in heart-searching, in long hours, in fasting, in confession and restitution. "And shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he bear long with them?" Luke 18:7.

9. You are a Representative of Jesus Christ. Will He endorse that which you ask? "Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do, shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do; because I go unto the Father." John 14:12.

10. Remember, what He is to be to us depends upon what we are willing to be to Him. "Draw near to God and He will draw near to you." "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you." John 15:7.

11. Remember always, the chief end of prayer is for the glory of the Father. Forget self. "And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son." John 14:13.

12. All Christians have talents; use them and bear fruit. Read John 15:16. "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain; that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you."

13. Study the Holy Word of God. Allow the Spirit to work within you that you may know that which you ask is within His will. "And this is the confidence that we have in him, that, if we ask anything according to His will, he heareth us. And if we know that he hears us, whatsoever we ask, we know that we have a petition that we desire of him." 1 John 5:15-16.

14. Pray without ceasing. "Rejoice evermore. Pray without ceasing. In everything give thanks; for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." 1 Thess. 5:16-17-18.

15. Fast and pray. "Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting." Matthew 17:21.

Some may ask, as others have asked, "What do the conditions of prayer have to do with praying for a revival?" The first good reason for doing anything is that God has commanded it. He has commanded us to pray, pray, pray. Whatever else we do, we must pray. And since we are to pray, why should we not do it in accordance with His teachings? The disciples did not ask Jesus to teach them to preach. They did ask to be taught to pray. "And it came to pass, as He was praying in a certain place, that when He ceased, one of the disciples said unto Him, Lord, teach us to pray," Luke 11:1. None could pray like Him. None can pray like Him. So, Lord, teach us to pray.

We learn to do by doing, but we must be taught the first step. Therefore, I pray you, let's make the prayer meeting the POWER HOUSE of the Church. Let's make it a meeting place of God and Brethren.

"SOME WORTHY WOMEN"

MARY M. STERLING

MARY MALINDA STERLING was born June 18, 1859, in the Sterling homestead near Masontown, Pennsylvania. She was converted during a revival held by Jesse P. Hetric at the Fairview Church, and was baptized on December 30, 1871 by Joseph A. Cover in a specially prepared pool. She was the last and youngest of seventeen converts baptized by trine immersion on this occasion.

In the fall of 1887 Sister Sterling began teaching in the public school, and continued in that profession until 1891. In the meantime she diligently pursued a course of study. In July, 1882 she graduated from Monongahela College, Pennsylvania, receiving the A.B. Degree.

She became a member of the Brethren Church during the organization of the Masontown congregation in 1882. In 1883 and 1884 she served on the faculty of Ashland College and was honored by her Alma Mater with the diploma bearing the title, Master of Arts, dated June 29, 1887.

On April 11, 1889 the trustees of the Sisters Society of Christian Endeavor of the Brethren Church appointed Sister Sterling to preach the gospel, and in the Masontown church, of which she had remained a member since its organization, this appointment was unanimously confirmed on May 5, 1889. She preached her first sermon at Masontown on May 19, 1889, from I Timothy 1:7.

She was regularly ordained to the Christian Ministry by the home church on August 10, 1890. She served as State Evangelist by the appointment of the Pennsylvania Conference during the year 1895. Local troubles, which Sister Sterling could not control, and for which she was in nowise responsible, greatly hindered the success of her work in the home church. During her ministry, dating from 1889 to 1900, Sister Sterling preached one hundred and fifty-seven sermons, and was instrumental in bringing into the Brethren Church seventy-eight persons, forty-eight of whom she baptized.

FOUR RULES FOR THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Psalm 37:3-7

"Trust in the Lord, and do good; so shalt thou dwell in the land, and verily thou shalt be fed.

"Delight thyself also in the Lord; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart.

"Commit thy ways unto the Lord; trust also in him; and he shall bring it to pass.

"And he shall bring forth thy righteousness as the light, and thy judgment as the noonday.

"Rest in the Lord, and wait patiently for him: fret not thyself because of him who prospereth in his way, because of the man who bringeth wicked devices to pass."

THERE ARE FEW PEOPLE who do not sense an innate longing to experience the satisfaction of living an abundant and restful life. In the passage which forms the basis of our study the sacred writer has lighted on some simple directions which, if followed, will insure the answer to our longings for this satisfaction.

The first requirement is set forth in verse 3, "Trust in the Lord and do good." No life can know peace and restfulness that does not possess a faith in the divine. Doing "good" is living rightly and righteously. Living otherwise is to be wicked. "There is no peace, saith my God to the wicked." Trusting in God and doing right are a start for the satisfactory existence.

In verse 4 is found the second suggestion, "Delight thyself also in the Lord." The great Father-heart finds pleasure in giving to those who were joyful in His favour. The joy of the believer is enhanced in the consciousness of the Father's love, and the Father's heart is made glad in the spectacle of the believer's trust, and the believer's longings satisfied out of the Father's all-sufficiency completes the circle surrounding both.

For the third of these simple suggestions for abundant living we go to verse 5, "Commit thy way unto the Lord." There cannot be the fullest understanding between individuals without the most complete reciprocal revelation of the inner self. This revelation must be such as to inspire the utmost confidence on the part of both. Ruth's celebrated committal of her life to the service and companionship of her mother-in-law, Naomi, is typical. And that committal, magnified indefinitely, must be our committal to the Lord.

Our last rule is found in verse 7, "Trust in the Lord, and wait patiently for him." How prone men are to take affairs into their own hands and try to work out their destiny according to their own understanding. And what a "mess" men make by so doing. But if God has a plan for every man's life, how can He work out that plan with man seeking to work out what may be—and is likely to be—a counter plan? Over in Isaiah, 40:15, the prophet in chiding his people quotes the Almighty as declaring, "In returning and rest shall ye be saved; in quietness and in confidence shall be your strength:" and then in the next four words of the quotation we have the explanation for the failure to realize this promised "strength"; "and ye would not." If we would have "the glory" we must follow the rules.

Started and Stopped

I had an engagement; people at the other end of my journey were expecting me and I wanted to see them, help, and be helped. The weather was suspicious and yet there was a good chance of making the journey without too much hazard. It sounded better for Wabash than farther north, but no one could or can predict the weather too surely. It got worse and worse and I returned to home and safety.

If a saint wants to do the will of God, Satan and his angels are ready to hinder, as they have always with greater saints than ourselves. He hindered Job of great happiness. Job, chapters 1 and 2. He hindered Paul "once and again." I Thess. 2:18. He "withstood Daniel twenty days" until Michael, a chief angel—the angel of "power"—came to help. Dan. 10:13. There's more of this, but this is enough—read it!

Satan Sends Storms

He prompts all bad and only bad things. It was not wrong of Jesus to go with Him to the pinnacle of the Temple and all the Devil promised will be His in His own right; but "His time had not yet come" and He "resisted"; and that, together with submitting ourselves to God, is our only Hope of salvation from his tricks, devices and wiles. Prov. 3:24; James 4:7. Job had to learn the hard way, that Satan sent miseries and inhuman devastations to him. Read that classic Book of Job. Once Jesus, in His early ministry, had preached in the forenoon, healed many that were sick and later, was tired. He got His disciples in a boat, started across the lake and there came a great storm. The disciples cried out, "Lord, save or we perish." Jesus said: "Peace! be still," and there was a great calm. Here Satan thought he'd drown the whole group at once. But he was bested in that storm, as he was the one I avoided, "believe it or not." Matthew 8:23-25. Satan sends bad things: storms, sicknesses, losses, temptations, death! Jesus frustrates them all. I John 3:5, 8. Let me repeat: "Submit yourselves, therefore, to God; resist the devil and he will flee from you." James 4:7. Use the Word of God as Jesus did in the desert. Be not surprised if the devil uses it also. He knows it well and how to use it. See Matthew 4:1-11.

Snow for War?

Snow for war and warnings? Snow for the "time of trouble?" Hast thou considered that the God of Heaven is trying to tell the world what we are approaching? Had you ever thought much of the snow as an emblem of danger and trouble? I confess that I am seeing new light on the troublous times through which we are "passing," or doubtless, rather, that are just beginning to come to pass.

Even among the Brethren, some who seek popularity and greatness scorn those who try to warn. So did another generation in the "Days of Noah." Matthew 24:36-39. If the author of the Epistle to the Hebrews needed to say, "and so much the more as ye see the day approaching," and then follow it with one of the most scathing warnings ever written down (Heb. 10:22-31), I shall be unafraid of those of our time who likewise "rail at dignities," (Jude 8)—"their mouth speaketh great swelling words, having men's persons in admirations because of advantage." Jude 16.

Whiter Than Snow

The old revival hymn has another meaning to me now:
"Whiter than snow, yes, whiter than snow:
Now wash me and I shall be whiter than snow."

It is not as white as snow that saints are to be, but whiter. The fifty-first Psalm, acclaimed to be the prayer of David after the exposal by Nathan of his great sin, says, "Purge me with hyssop, and I shall be clean; wash me and I shall be whiter than snow." (Verse 7). When Jesus was transformed before His disciples in the presence of Moses and Elijah, Matthew says, (Chapter 17, verse 2), that His garments became "white as light," and Mark says, they "became glistening, exceeding white so as no fuller on earth can whiten them" or "such whiteness as no bleaching on earth could give." (Weymouth) on Mark 9:3. Snow was no substitute or example of that whiteness, nor of that we shall need when we stand as the saints in Light. Col. 1:12.

White Light, Not Cold Snow

Again, I admit that snow is not as good as I had thought. It is cold, icy, often dirty, ugly, dangerous; it is the Light of the World, and the garments of Light and white—"whiter than any bleaching can make them—" that are the garments of the saints and the heavenly citizens. I have considered the treasures of the snow and they are not all they seem to be. All they who overcome shall be given a "white stone and a new name written, known only to them that receive it." Rev. 2:17. Some shall walk in white "who have not soiled their garments." Rev. 3:4-5, 13; 15:6; 19:8. And, oh, do you know what that whiteness is? It is the "righteousness of the saints." 19:8. Have they been made white in the snow? No! By bleaching? No! "Washed in the blood of the Lamb." Rev. 7:14.

Avoid the Storms?

Nay, verily! Our Lord did not; He faced them. He overcame them. So must we. "He learned obedience by the things which He suffered" (Heb. 5:8), even though He was God's Son. But thus He, going through the storms we must encounter, "become to all who obey Him, the source and giver of eternal salvation," our High Priest forever (Weymouth).

"Lord Jesus, for this I most humbly entreat,
I wait, blessed Lord, at Thy crucified feet;
By faith for my cleansing, I see the blood flow—
Now wash me and I shall be whiter than snow."
—Nicholson.

The Berlin, Pa., Brethren Church and Pastor

BROTHER FRED BRANT of the Berlin, Pennsylvania, Brethren Church was kind enough to send us a mat for the above likeness of the Berlin Church with the inset of the pastor, Brother Percy C. Miller. The Johnstown, Pa., "Tribune" has been running a series of articles concerning the churches of that vicinity and we quote from that which has been reported concerning our Berlin Church:

"The First Brethren Church of Berlin, Somerset County, was founded by Elder Henry B. Holsinger, preacher, scholar and leader in the early history of the denomination in that county.

"Membership in the new church was seventy-five when Elder Holsinger served as pastor. A year prior to the actual founding of the Brethren Church in Berlin, a frame building was constructed on Main Street. It was used until the construction of the present brick edifice on the same site in 1925.

"When plans were drawn for the new building, the old frame structure was moved to the rear of the property where it still stands. It is used as the Berlin Community Building.

"The cost of the present home of the First Brethren Church was $75,000.00. It was dedicated in 1926.

"The membership in the church has climbed to 400, with 300 enrolled in the Sunday School. Charles Cober is General Superintendent. The church is free of debt and owns an eight-room parsonage on Broadway in Berlin.

"Since Elder Holsinger left the pastorate many years ago, eighteen ministers have served the congregation. They are J. H. Knepper, J. D. McFaden, J. L. Kimmel, A. D. Gnagey, M. C. Meyers, L. A. Hazlett, J. L. Bowman, P. M. Swinehart, David Flora, L. O. Hubbard, C. E. Kolb, J. F. Watson, I. B. Trout, W. C. Benshoff, Albert Lantz, N. V.

Leatherman, S. M. Whetstone, and the present pastor, Percy C. Miller (inset).

"Rev. Miller was called into the ministry at Morrellville (the Third Brethren Church of Johnstown) and served the Brush Valley Brethren Church at Ardian, Pennsylvania, and the North Vandergrift Brethren Church, prior to going to Berlin.

"The Church Organist is Thelma Saylor, who is music supervisor in Berlin-Brothers valley Grade School. Organ chimes were given to the church by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Glessner. A loudspeaker system was presented by Mrs. Mary Picking. The organ chimes are played over the loudspeaker system on Wednesday and Sunday evenings."

The Holsinger Monument in The Berlin Cemetery

For some time we have had in our "cut files" a cut of the burying place of Elder Holsinger and his good wife. While it is not as distinct as we might wish, yet it shows the tombstone which marks the last resting place of this pioneer of Brethren Faith. We add it to the above story, thinking it might have a bit of interest for our readers. Editor.

CHILDHOOD FREEDOM

H. A. Gossard

There's much debate in each community
Of what real childhood freedom should consist;
Of how much work, and how much play should be;
On disagreeing, mostly, folk insist . . .
No time, no place, no funds, we still protest;
While children almost die for things we loved;
Which were for us, and are for them, the best . . .
Our conscience speaks; but we are still unmoved . . .

In everything that nature can provide
Is stored a world of blessing for us all:
Fresh air and sunshine, and the flowing tide
Call to us with no invitation, small . . .

Let's pass the boon to children yet unborn
Who follow in the wake of those, our own;
Let's make for them a bright and happy morn,
Ere sets our evening sun, and time has flown.
Let's spend a bit of time, and money, too,
To keep all children from the clutch of fate . . .
Let us enjoy with them this life anew;
Lest soon for us with them it be too late.
—Lanark, Illinois.

I wonder how many modern authors could echo Scott's word just before he died, "It is a comfort to me to think that I have tried to unsettle no man's faith, to corrupt no man's principles, and that I have written nothing which on my death-bed I should wish blotted out."

Ashland College News Letter

By Arthur Petit

ON ANY COLLEGE CAMPUS, things seem to happen very rapidly this time of the year. This seems especially true of Ashland College. The May Queen was elected last week. It is Velma Brownson from the city of Ashland. Miss Brownson is a very fine young lady and will undoubtedly uphold the very fine traditions of the day. Due to the fact that Miss Garnet Miller, May Queen of 1948, dropped from college to teach this year, an election was necessary to pick a substitute. Miss Jean Hess, a senior also from Ashland, was selected by the student body to preside at the coronation of Queen Velma. May Day has been set for May 14 this year. Originally, it was to have been a week later but due to a variety of conflicts, it has been moved to the earlier date. Alumni and friends will find no better time to visit the campus. Mark your calendar now.

Returning to the prewar custom, Ashland College will have a full week spring vacation this year. The faculty last week voted to begin the spring vacation at 10:00 P. M. on April 15 and resume classes on April 26 at 8:00 A. M. A number of factors led the faculty to make this move. Perhaps the greatest was that of general fatigue. The time from Christmas to June is too long for both faculty and students, the latter decided. Another factor is the annual trip of the A cappella Choir, always the week following Easter. Sixty young men and women would have to miss classes for a full week if it were not for the vacation. Commencement will be as scheduled in the catalog, but some of the examinations will be given after the formal commencement. This will also serve the purpose of keeping more of the student body on the campus for the most important event of the year, commencement.

The summer bulletin is now in the hands of the printer. The summer session in 1949 will be only eight weeks in length. It will open June 13 and close August 5. Thus, the maintenance staff will have ample time to prepare the campus for General Conference later in August. Courses are being offered for everyone. More classes are scheduled in education than in any other field, but practically every department except foreign languages will be represented. A fine staff from the regular faculty will meet the classes. It is expected that another large summer session will materialize again this year.

The basketball team, after a prolonged losing streak, won from Findlay last week. Most of their games this year have been won or lost by less than six points. This makes good and interesting basketball, but is not too satisfying when Ashland is on the losing side.

The new radio station, the Florence Cleaver station and studios is on the air every day now. For five hours each day, the young men and women interested in that field actually broadcast to the campus and to people living within a short distance of the campus. It is one of the really great improvements on the campus in recent years. Students will never cease to thank Miss Cleaver for her generosity.

MONTHLY DEVOTIONAL LESSON—MARCH

1. Scriptural Order
2. Praise and Prayer
3. Scripture: 1 Samuel 16:1-13
4. Lesson: "The Right Kind of a Boy"

IN THIS LESSON seven boys, one by one, passed before a man in a chair. Each time the man said, "This is not he." What ailed these seven boys? They were good looking boys, and all attended church. Even the man in the chair was pleased with them. God was looking for a man after His own heart, and these boys were not that kind. They may have been like King Saul who disobeyed the Lord and had forfeited the kingdom.

How surprised Samuel must have been to have discovered that God did not want any of these seven fine boys to be king over Israel. Puzzled, he must have said to Jesse, "Are these all the boys you have?" "No, there is the youngest, who is herding the sheep," said the father. "Send and fetch him," said the aged Samuel.

THE SHEPHERD LAD

"I am glad that David
Was once a shepherd lad;
He learned so much from nature.
While tending sheep he had Long hours to sit and ponder
Upon the things of God,
Or watch the star-lit heavens
As he lay on dew-wet sod.

"I'm glad he was a shepherd;
He made me understand
How God will safely lead me
If I but trust His hand.
So I'll not fear for evil,
For David long since told
How as shepherd God will gather
His sheep into His fold."

—Ruth B. Statler.

David was a submissive and obedient boy. Faithfully he kept his eye on the sheep, and his rod in his hand. Once he even killed a bear, and at another time a lion. David also liked his music. He was skilled on the harp and became a beautiful composer. He also spent much time practicing with the sling shot. Read Phil. 4:8 for six good things to do when in solitude.

"David, you are wanted at once," cries out a breathless man, running toward Him. God is in this matter. David was only seventeen years of age. He could have appropriately sung our hymn entitled, "Where He Leads Me, I Will Follow."

The beautiful hymns that David wrote are called "Psalms." Which one is your favorite? Why?

David had good ancestors, God-fearing, such as Ruth, the gleaner. David became an ancestor of Christ when our Lord was made flesh to dwell among men a thousand years later.

Samuel served the Lord early as a mere lad. He heard a definite call when about 12 years of age. Christ at 12 years said, "Wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?"

Samuel was told to anoint the manly boy, David, as the coming king of Israel. The oil was a symbol of God's Spirit, setting David's life apart for holy service unto God. "The Spirit of the Lord came upon David from that day forward." "God chooses fit men."

Gratis, Ohio. The Re-decorating Committee of the Gratis Church reports that the contract for the entire job of de-decorating has been awarded to a Middletown, Ohio, firm. This redecorating includes the painting of the entire interior, the refinishing of the auditorium woodwork, exclusive of the pews, and the placing of a special design on the West wall to give the effect of a recessed platform and pulpit. The sum of $1,200.00 has been provided for the work and hope is expressed that the entire balance may be received by dedication time. The work is to begin at once, at an estimated cost of $1,600.00.

Dayton, Ohio. Brother S. M. Whetstone, who was in Ashland on the 16th attending a meeting of the Ohio District Executive Board in preparation for the coming District Conference which will be held in Dayton, June 22 to 26, reported that there has been a gradual increase in the Dayton Mid-week service attendance and that on Wednesday, February 9th, there were seventy-five present.

Sunday evening services were begun at Dayton on Sunday, February 20th. The laymen presented the motion picture, "Reaching from Heaven," at this service.

Meyersdale, Penna. The morning service of February 13th was recorded on a wire recorder, loaned to Brother Benshoff by Brother Percy Miller, pastor of the Berlin Church. The full service, about one hour in length, was recorded and can be used over and over again, and can be taken into the homes of the sick and shut-ins, thus giving them opportunity to enjoy the service even though they cannot attend. This is a fine use for this recording system, and should be more largely used in this manner.

Canton, Ohio. Brother E. J. Beekley reports the Sunday morning attendance of February 6th as 125. Canton is showing a fine steady growth. An effort is now being put forth to "promote the Sunday School" through a two page mimeographed "promotion paper," which is being circulated through the membership, with the urge to contact neighbors and friends in the interest of the School.

Recently a payment of $500.00 was made to the Ohio District Board, on the Canton loan, which leaves the Canton Church only owing this Board another $500.00.

Tragic Death of Dr. Haskins. Miss Mildred Furry gave us a newspaper clipping which told of the tragic drowning of Dr. Charles H. Haskins, formerly of Johnstown, Penna., who lost his life while driving across Lower Saranac Lake, New York, the auto breaking through the ice. Dr. Haskins was the son of Rev. E. E. Haskins, formerly a pastor in the Brethren Church. He will be remembered by many. Dr. Haskins, the son, was born in the house now occupied by Brother and Sister A. B. Furry in Johnstown.

Byron suggests the transcendent uniqueness and glory of Washington:

Where may the wearied eye repose,
When gazing on the great,
Where neither guilty glory glows,
Nor despicable state?
Yes—one—the first, the last, the best,
The Cincinnatus of the West,
Whom envy dared not hate,
Bequeathed the name of Washington,
To make man blush, there was but one.

McKay sets forth, enforces, and illuminates the imperishable and perennial inspiration of Lincoln, dead and living:

In all the years since that wild spring of pain?
And so they buried Lincoln? Strange and vain
Has any creature thought of Lincoln hid
In any vault 'neath any coffin lid,
In all the years since that wild spring of pain?
'Tis false—he never in the grave hath lain
You could not bury him although you slid
Upon his clay, the Cheops Pyramid,

Or heaped it with the Rocky Mountain chain.
They slew themselves;—they but set Lincoln free.
In all the earth his great heart beats as strong,
Shall beat while pulses throb to chivalry,
And burn with hate of tyranny and wrong.
Whoever will may find him anywhere
Save in the tomb. Not there—he is not there.

CHRISTIANITY IS CONTAGIOUS

Scripture: Mark 14:20; John 1:35-45

For The Leader

THE CHOSEN scripture passages show the calling of the disciples as Jesus began His ministry. As a spark can kindle a great fire, so the very small beginning of Christianity has produced a world-wide transformation. It will be interesting to note that no one has ever become a Christian of himself; some one has had to tell him. Every Christian who has ever lived was told of Christ by another. It may have been through the printed word, but he had to be told. It does not just dawn on a person that he should be a Christian. In view of this fact, what are you doing to tell others about Him? Is your particular spiritual line going to die with you, or will you, too, have spiritual children? Christianity is contagious, so get to work that others might get it from you.

DISCUSSION

1. ISOLATION WARDS. In our hospitals we have what we call "isolation wards." In these places are placed people who have diseases which are easily given to others. So, they are separated from the rest of the people. That is a good safety measure, but it was never meant that Christians should do that with their religion. Are you an isolationist? Do you have your Christian faith so bottled up that no one has ever received a blessing from you? Well, get out of isolation and spread your faith. Tell others, let others come in contact with your Christian life.

2. ONE GENERATION EVANGELIZATION. Do you know that the world could be completely evangelized in one generation if each Christian would tell just one other person? Suppose your group tonight would decide to win one soul to Christ. That would double your group. Then the whole group would work on the same proposition again. It would not take long. Why hasn't this been done? Yes, it is true that many people we talk to refuse to accept Christ; but it is far more true that we just don't talk to them. Answer this question yourself, and you'll know what we mean: "How long has it been since you talked to an unsaved person about becoming a Christian? There's your answer! You will see that Jesus called His disciples and then they went and told their brethren, and later spread the news unto many others. One generation evangelism is possible, but not if we let the weeks go by without even being concerned.

3. ONE GENERATION BLACK-OUT. Has it occurred to you that unless the church becomes very active in winning new members, that as an organized unit, it could pass out of the picture in one generation? That is the average age of the attendants at your church service? That tells the story of the future of your church. We, who are young people, must learn to accept responsibility of supporting our church—in attendance, prayers, money and work. You have seen a church "black-out!" Sure you have. Drive around the country, anywhere. What do you find? Little country churches no longer being used. Go into your cities and you will find churches converted into stores or garages. What happened to the people who prayed, gave and worked to build those churches? Most of them have died, without having garnered a good supply of members to carry on, so the church just naturally went down hill. And you don't have to hunt very long to find a church in which a group of one church has replaced a group of people from another denomination. Why didn't the first group make the grade? It "black-out" due to lack of evangelization, inward dissension, etc. Yes, unless you and I seek new converts for Christ, the future is dark, for men do not come to Christ, we must take Christ to them!

4. IS ONE PERSON TOO MANY? We have all heard the time worn expression, that if "each member would win just one new member in one year, our membership would be doubled." We've heard it so often, we are almost hardened to it. But let's give attention to it just once again. Is one new member for each member such a difficult task? Surely, each of us should have at least one person we'd like to see become a Christian. (If not, you are a very poor type of Christian.) Surely, in a year, some way would present itself that you could talk to that person. At least, you should be praying for them day after day. That's having just one person. But what Christian, really interested in winning men to Christ would ever have just one person in which they were interested? You should have 10, or a 100, or more! Out of that group, surely one person (or maybe a dozen) will respond to your prayers, your invitation and the urge of the Holy Spirit. (Could it be that you just haven't been interested in any one?)

5. ARE ALL GATHERED IN? "Breathes there a Church with soul so dead, who to herself hath said, There is no future for me?" If that's the attitude of you and your Church, there's something wrong with your attitude and outlook. Tonight, without doubt, you passed a dozen people on your way to C. E. who are not attending church anywhere. (Wouldn't a dozen new members make your church look good?) GO OUT AFTER THEM! Go to their house, but take an ambulance and doctor along, for they're going to faint dead away when you ask them to come to your church. They'll be so shocked. Once there was a member of a church who got the vision of inviting others. He had not gone far in his work until he met a man who said, "Well, this is indeed a surprise; members of your church have been passing by my house for years, and none ever stopped before to ask me to go along." Yes, are all gathered in? Shame! As long as there is one person in your community who is not a Christian, your church has a future. Whether that person ever becomes a Christian or not, depends largely on you.

QUESTIONS

1. Are we in any way responsible for the souls of men to whom we do not speak concerning Christ when we have opportunity?

2. What is the main business of the Church! THEN GET TO WORK ON IT!

He who loses the up-look, soon loses the up-lift.

THE BAPTISM OF CHRIST

To the flowing stream of Jordan
Lo! the King of Zion came;
There the ancient Baptist waited,
To immerse the spotless lamb:
They descended
To the Savior's wat'ry tomb.

Thus baptized, the great Redeemer
Showed the way His saints should tread,
And, when rising from the water,
God approved and blest the deed,
And the Spirit
Rested on His sacred head!

Come, then ye who love the Savior,
Fear not now to own your Lord,
Joyful though the world should scorn you,
Follow Christ, obey His Word:
He'll defend you—
Fear ye not to follow Him.

"HOW GOD ANOINTED JESUS"

Scripture: Matt. 3:13-17; Acts 10:37, 38

Hymns and Prayers

Seed Thought Provokers:

OUR LORD laid aside the garments of glory to take upon Himself the form of a servant (Phil. 2:5-8). All our Lord's works were done in the power of the Spirit. Isaiah foretold this (42:1-4; 61:1, 2). Isaiah also foretold Christ's return to reign in the power of the Spirit (11:1-3). In Luke 4:16-21 we learn of the fulfillment of Isa. 61:1, 2 with the exception of the words, "The day of vengeance of our God," which is yet future.

The lampstand of the tabernacle burned oil, in seven lamps prefiguring the perfect Christ Whose earthly ministry shone with the power of the Holy Spirit. The oil speaks of the Spirit. Unleavened wafers anointed with oil spoke of the bruised Saviour atoning for sin with the anointing of the Holy Spirit (Lev. 2:4-7). The suffering Saviour, needing the anointing oil, is again pictured in Lev. 2:14-16. Israel's high priest, a type of Christ as our High Priest anointed with the Holy Spirit, was anointed with oil (Lev. 8:2). King David was anointed king (1 Sam. 16:13) as a type of the Spirit Who came without measure upon Christ, the greater David (Ezek. 34:23, 24).

Our Lord faced His persecution by the sustaining power of the Spirit (Heb. 9:14). It was through the Holy Spirit that He gave commandments unto the disciples (Acts 1:2). John, the cousin of Jesus, did not identify Him as the Messiah until the day he "saw the Spirit descending from Heaven like a dove, and it abode upon Him" (John 1:29-34). Read the record in Luke 3:21-23. This was the beginning of the Saviour's spirit-filled ministry (Luke 4:1, 14, 18, 19).

In many ways the saved are commanded to be like their Saviour (Eph. 5:2; 1 John 4:17). The first duty of the penitent is to acclaim Jesus openly and be baptized (Matt. 28:19; 3:15). For Jesus' baptism foretold His death, burial, and resurrection. Following His example we by baptism indicate our desire to come into all the benefits of His death, burial, and resurrection for us. Following baptism comes the "laying on of hands" to indicate the outpouring of the Spirit upon us (Acts 8:14-17). Jesus did His miracles through the power of the Spirit. As our pattern He expected us to be endued with the power of the Spirit (John 14:12; 17:18; 20:21, 22). Jesus did not need to talk in tongues as an evidence of the Spirit, and neither do we. He was endued with the power of the Spirit for the winning of souls (1 Tim. 1:15; Luke 19:10). He wants us to have the same power (Acts 1:8). If He needed to be filled with the Spirit, how much more must we need be! First, He was baptized, and then He prayed. We are to do the same (Acts 5:32; Luke 11:13).

On The Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for March 13, 1949

DIVINE RESOURCES FOR HUMAN NEEDS

Lesson: Mark 5:22-23, 35-42; Luke 7:20-23

THE THEME of this lesson might be stated in the words of Jesus as found in John 10:10, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." In this lesson we find Jesus restoring the physical life of the daughter of Jairus, one of the rulers of the synagogue.

The story is quite familiar, but usually we are so interested in the little girl that we pass over the main consideration that should be brought out in the meeting of Jairus and Jesus.

There are several interesting phases that we should note:

1. In verse 22 are the words (related to Jairus) "he fell at His feet." Evidently Jairus recognized the fact that Jesus was more than human. Remember that he was "one of the rulers of the synagogue"—a Jew. It goes without saying that Jairus would not thus bow in worship before any one but God; so, by inference at least, we may safely say that he is here recognizing Jesus for what He is—God in the flesh.

2. Note Jairus' faith. "... lay thy hands on her ... and she shall live." We note that he besought "him greatly." But we must remember that he would not have "besought" Him at all if he had not had faith in Him. We often quote that "Man's extremity is God's opportunity." But there must be some cooperation on the part of man before God can take advantage of the opportunity. Jairus' extremity proved God's opportunity because of Jairus' faith.

The printed text passes over the interruption of the journey by the healing of the woman, an interruption which must have irked the anxious soul of Jairus. How it must have tried his faith. Consequently the words of the messenger of death came as a shock to his faith.

3. Note how his faith was renewed—"Be not afraid, only believe," says Jesus. It is heartening to have one's faith vindicated. Jesus speaks quite calmly—and calmness begets calmness. No doubt Jairus' thoughts surged between his doubts and his assurance as he approached the house and heard the cries of the mourners, who "knew" that the little girl was dead. But his faith prevailed, and it was vindicated. He placed his need in Jesus' hands and it was met.

Contrasted with Jairus' faith is the doubt of John the Baptist, as exhibited in the second passage of the lesson. To the question, "Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?" Jesus might have given the same assurance, in the same words, that He gave Jairus, "Only believe." But He met the doubts of John with a different approach. The messengers from John saw Jesus in action, meeting the needs of the people. This message which Jesus sent back to John surely met John's immediate need, answered his question in a manner that must have satisfied him, and prepared him for the ordeal through which he was about to pass.

Jesus meets each need of His children as it comes to them. There is no set pattern for the meeting of human needs—all He asks is utter dependence on Him. Then He works it out.

A CORRECTION

In the Missionary Number last week, while announcing the drive for funds for a new building at Lost Creek, Kentucky, I personally and unthoughtedly named the fund, "The Boys Dormitory Fund," simply because it has so often been designated as such. However, since this was the Wheeler Orphanage, it should hereafter be known as the Wheeler Orphanage Fund. We have faith to keep with those who made possible this building and in rebuilding, this we want to keep in mind. I regret the mistake and trust that this explanation will suffice.

News From Our Churches

NAPPANEE, INDIANA, REVIVAL

We received an invitation from the Brethren Church in Nappanee, Indiana, to help them in a meeting which began on January 31 and continued through two weeks, closing on February 13. I was indeed happy to accept the invitation from my own home church. This was one of the few churches in Indiana I had not helped in a meeting. It was in the old church (which burned just four years ago on February 13th) that we accepted the Lord. But it was strange at first in their new church. This church is one among the best and most modern up-to-date churches of our denomination. It is a beautiful and modern edifice and will meet their needs for many years to come.

We were greeted by a very good audience the very first service and they were very consistent throughout the entire two weeks in attendance. We had counter attractions almost every evening, but in spite of them all, all the people came to the services. They are to be commended for their loyalty.

The pastor and I made many calls and many were made by the pastor himself and the congregation. Everything was done by them to make this a successful meeting. Many were not in attendance because of sickness, but they remembered the meetings in prayer. God heard and honored the prayers and efforts that were put forth. We preached the gospel message in our weak way, and to the best of our ability and depended on the Lord for the results. It was a great time of rejoicing and renewing of old friendships and the making of new. The Lord abundantly blessed and many accepted the Lord and were added unto the church. We praise His name for victories won, and trust that the spirit of revival will continue.

We want to thank the church and their pastor for the many nice things they did for us in supplying our every need and for the nice offering. Our prayer is that the Lord will continue to bless them abundantly.

C. A. Stewart.

THE LOREE, INDIANA, REVIVAL

Rev. J. Edgar Berkshire, pastor of our Flora, Indiana, Church, was our evangelist for two weeks of special effort, December 26, 1948 to January 9, 1949. Rev. Austin Gable, pastor of the Denver-Center Chapel Circuit, served as our very capable song director. The average attendance was one hundred, with a capacity audience on the closing Sunday evening.

In the midst of bad weather and much illness, the Loree people again demonstrated their steadfast loyalty to their Church. Many special numbers in song were given by the Loree quartet, the choir and others. A complete schedule of noon-time entertainment was worked out by the Woman's Missionary Society, and the pastor and evangelist thoroughly enjoyed the bountiful meals set forth in every home.

More than seventy calls were made on homes in the immediate community. Brother Berkshire preached fine Gospel sermons which were received with conviction. The seed that was sown during this effort has resulted in two first time confessions, and several others are seriously considering this step now. A number of families attended these meetings who had not attended church services for years. It was truly a time of Spiritual awakening in the community. Our attendance has increased in a fine way as a result of these meetings.

We heartily recommend both Brother Berkshire and Brother Gable to anyone seeking to plan such services. We enjoyed greatly the fellowship of Brother Berkshire in our home for the entire two weeks. May God bless both of these men in their work as they strive to build His kingdom.

Robert K. Higgins, pastor.

Laid to Rest

SAYLOR. Mrs. Katie Saylor departed this life in Carleton, Nebraska, January 17, 1949, at the age of 75 years, 8 months and 9 days. She was born in Berlin, Pennsylvania, and in her childhood came to Carleton with her parents, where at an early age she accepted Christ as her Savior and united with the Brethren Church. After her marriage she went with her husband to Meyersdale, Pennsylvania, where she lived until after the death of her husband. A few years ago she came back to Carleton to care for her aged mother, who departed this life last February. Sister Saylor intended to return to Meyersdale, but was overtaken with an illness from which she could not recover. She is survived by a brother in Minnesota, another in Hastings, Nebraska, another in Los Angeles, California, and a sister in Glendale, California, besides other relatives in this vicinity.

Funeral services, conducted by the undersigned, were held in the Carleton Brethren church and burial was made in the Carleton cemetery. Hers was a long life of faithful service to her Master. May the comforting grace of God be given all who mourn.

H. M. Oberholtzer.

GEISON. George Geison, son of John and Kaska Geison, was born January 5, 1887 at Chadwick, Illinois, and passed out of this life at the Wisconsin General Hospital, Madison, Wisconsin, January 12, 1949, at the age of 72 years and 7 days.

On February 9, 1900 he was united in marriage with Miss Anna Rister, of Lanark, Illinois, and resided in this city until the time of his death.

On April 14, 1934 he was received by confession and baptism into the membership of the First Brethren Church at Lanark, where he remained a faithful member until death. He served as town Marshal of Lanark for fourteen years.

Surviving are, his wife, Anna; two sisters—Mrs. Anna Sucher of Chadwick, Illinois, and Mrs. Oscar Weddell of Sac City, Iowa. Five brothers and his parents preceded him in death.

Funeral services were from the First Brethren Church of Lanark, in charge of the minister, Rev. L. O. McCarneysmith.

MILLER. Gaynell Heppard Miller was born September 23, 1903 in Elkhart, Indiana, and passed to the life beyond December 26, 1948 at her home in Columbus, Ohio. She was the wife of Professor John A. Miller of Ohio State University. (He is a son of Mrs. Clara Worst Miller and the late Dean J. Allen Miller of Ashland.) Mrs. Miller was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Heppard of Ashland. She is survived by her husband, her parents and one daughter, Martha Jane. Dr. and Mrs. Miller were united in marriage September 19, 1929.

Prior to her marriage Mrs. Miller was a history teacher in Ashland High School. She graduated from Ashland College in 1926. During college days she was nicknamed "Gay." That was a fitting name for it characterized her spirit in those days and in the days of her last suffering.

In childhood she united with the Methodist Church but in later years her interests were in the Park Street Brethren Church where her husband and daughter hold their membership. In accordance with her wishes final rites were conducted in the Ashland Brethren Church by the undersigned.

H. H. Rowsey.

LOWERY. Francis Elwood Lowery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lowery of Williamsport, Maryland, was born August 14, 1925. He confessed Christ at the age of eight years. He was baptized by Rev. W. S. Baker on December 3, 1933. Elwood attended the St. James Sunday School regularly, and on January 1, 1944 received his award for eleven years of perfect attendance.

On February 22, 1944, he was inducted into the U. S. Army. While in camp in Georgia he received his High School diploma from the Williamsport High School. In less than a year, after basic training, he sailed for Italy with the 10th Mountain Division as Field Radio Operator for Company B, 87th Mt. Regiment. After about one month abroad he was killed in action on February 20, at Mt. Balvedere. On February 22, 1945—just one year from the time he entered service—he was buried with Military Honors in the U. S. Cemetery at Caltelfiorentino, Italy. Services were conducted by his Chaplain, Edward C. Yomke. There his body rested until it was disinterred in November, 1948 and brought home. Christian funeral services were held November 28, 1948, by Rev. Walter Lepp. He was buried in Green Lawn Cemetery, Williamsport, Maryland. Now he awaits the return of his Lord.

Elwood was a fine Christian boy, and a good example for his associates to emulate. His death was mourned by his many friends and acquaintances. His life, though short in years, was lived for the Master whom he loved and served.

GROFF. William H. Groff of Tilghmanton, Maryland, was born January 15, 1871. He died January 1, 1949. He was a member of the St. James Brethren Church for more than fifty years. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Estella Groff, and a daughter, Mrs. Clarence Summers of Hagerstown, Maryland. Rev. H. Nowag conducted the funeral services from the home, assisted by Rev. James Ault and Rev. Rowland Reichard.

AN EXPLANATION

If you will turn to page 46 of your last Conference Annual you will note that there is no report of the Northern California District Organization, only the words, "District Organization not reported to Secretary." I am sorry to say that the material from the hands of Brother Virgil Ingraham was sent to me, but mislaid and not sent in to the Editor of Publications, who correlated the material and prepared it for publication, at the time the other material was sent. Upon reception of a letter from Brother Ingraham, relative to the omission, diligent search was made for the missing paper, which resulted in finding same with other papers. Consequently I have asked the Editor to place same in an early issue of the Evangelist that it may be clipped and added to the Annual on one of the blank pages in the back. I trust that the Northern California District will accept my apology, and I pledge that their report will appear in proper place in the next Annual of 1950.

Stockton, Calif. Word from Brother C. E. Johnson as of February 21st, says: "Eighty-six in Sunday School yesterday; baptized another mother and a young girl at the close of the service. Have others ready as soon as arrangements can be made. Our young people are preparing an Easter Pageant. Things are looking fine." Then Brother Johnson, seeking to cheer the editor up, enclosed some California flowers and adding, "I know it is a mean thing to do to you poor easterners, but I just must enclose a flower to cheer you up." Thanks, Brother Johnson, but we are having sunshine, spring weather and I just looked at the thermometer and it stands at 62. Our flowers are up too, in this part of the country, and maybe we can soon send some pressed flowers to California in return. But we appreciate the thought behind the deed.

Louisville, Ohio. We note that the Louisville Church is planning a time of fellowship on Sunday, March 6th, beginning at 4:00 P. M. and continuing through the evening service hour. The church is providing the supper. The occasion is the time of consecration for Miss June Byler, sister of the Louisville pastor, Brother John T. Byler, in preparation for her sailing for the South American Mission field where she will serve, along with her brother, Robert and family, in our work there. We will expect to hear more of this service through the columns of the EVANGELIST when the next missionary number comes out.

Milledgeville, Illinois. The Milledgeville church held a "Family Night Supper" in the church basement on Monday evening, February 21. Following the supper a program was rendered by the Jubilee Singers in the auditorium of the church.

Lost Creek, Kentucky. A few quotes from letters from Brother and Sister Elmer Keck. Brother Keck says: "The work is going along nicely. Our 'House of Cracks' is about a half mile from the girls' dormitory. It has been raining most of the time since the fire and we have been going through considerable mud to get to and from our meals. However, as soon as the sun shines the mud will leave us. The boys are getting along well in this overcrowded condition. It is difficult for them to keep their rooms cleaned and their clothes and bedding in a neat way. All of them are praying for a new dormitory. We are trusting that the new dormitory will be built in view of the future—for more boys will wish to come here if there would be room."

Sister Keck says, "Right now we have to borrow typewriters from the school each evening to do our writing and return them next day. We are praying that we will get a typewriter soon. Best price we have had was $72.00 and that was for an old machine. Since January 31 we have written sixty letters and we have many more to write."

And so it goes; the need is great, but the prayers of so many are sure to be answered.

Berlin, Penna. We note from Brother Percy Miller's bulletin that the Woman's Missionary Society sponsored a "World Day of Prayer" to be held on Friday, March 4th. It was held at the Lutheran Church in Berlin.

Brother Miller says, "There was truly great rejoicing in our midst last Sunday evening (Feb. 6). The attendance was the second highest since coming on the field." We are always glad to report increases, especially in evening attendance.

Johnstown, Penna., Second Church. Brother Leatherman says, "A Boys' Brotherhood is in the making. There was a nice group of boys and a group of nice boys present at the first gathering on Friday evening, February 18th. The boys are to fully organize at their next meeting. Brother Leroy Boyer was present and agreed to be the Director of the Brotherhood when it is formed."

Louisville, Ohio, Christian Youth Fellowship. That Young People can do about anything they set their heads and hearts to is evident in the report of the Louisville young people—the fellowship numbering but fifteen—who just five months ago launched a project to purchase Visual Aid equipment for the Louisville church. This equipment consists of a 16mm Sound Kodascope projector FS-10 N and a 57x70 screen and carrying case. The cost was $550.00. They hold monthly meetings for social life and often have fun-nights in the church basement. The group is affiliated with the National C. E. work and is sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clapper.

Akron, Ohio, Firestone Park. We note that the local Woman's Missionary Society had charge of the evening service on February 20th, presenting their Public Service. The service was closed with a play, "How the Story Grew."

Gratis, Ohio. Brother Crick reports that the redecorating "experts" are making fine progress in the work of bringing "new beauty and atmosphere" to the church auditorium.

We note that Brother Crick is holding an evangelistic meeting for the Greenbush E. U. B. Church beginning on Monday, March 13 and carrying through Sunday, March 20th.

DECORATING THE CHURCH

ONE OF THE DUTIES, or maybe it would be better to say "privileges," of the editor each week is to read through the various church bulletins that come to his desk. Some of which come in practically every mail. Often there appears a little "filler" in these bulletins which catches both the eye and the mind. Some time ago one of these "fillers" (maybe we should not call them that, but rather "thought provokers") appeared in Brother Ankrum's Masontown bulletin, and I jotted it down for further meditation. I came upon it this morning and as I read it again it set me to thinking!

It reads like this: "The Best way to decorate a church is to decorate it with your presence each time there is a service, if you can possibly do so."

There has been a great deal of decorating and redecorating of church buildings in these past several years. That is commendable, for no one cares to worship in a church building that is run down, devoid of paint, and so dark and dreary inside that it reminds one more of a tomb than of a temple. Nothing contributes so much to the worshipful atmosphere of a church auditorium as a clean, refreshing appearance, which makes the one entering such a place for the first time realize that here is a congregation that really "cares" how it serves and worships the Lord.

But even brightly lighted and newly painted church buildings are but empty vessels if they are not decorated with the presence of devoted and loving worshippers. I once heard a preacher speak of his church as "The Church of the Empty Pew." The writer of Hebrews admonishes his readers not to "forsake the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is," but to be more diligent "as we see the day approaching."

We would not for one moment minimize the necessity of making the church building attractive to the eye, but if the same time and effort would be put forth to "decorate" the interior of the church with the souls of men and there would be an abiding desire to be present at all the services of the church, there might and in all probability would, arise a need to do more than re-decorate the old—it would in all likelihood necessitate the enlarging of the building to accommodate those who would find the desire in their hearts to join themselves, not only with the congregation, but to the Master of their souls.

Away back in I Samuel 16:7 we find these words which are so appropriate to our thought: "For the Lord seeth not as man seeth; for man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." It takes money and energy to "decorate" the building; but it takes life and faithfulness to "decorate" the sanctuary.

Think it over!

In the Spirit of holiness we are quickened for effective service for all the best relationships of life.

SUNDAY SCHOOL QUARTERLIES ABOUT TO GO TO PRESS

In the course of the next week the Sunday School Quarterlies will be going to press. This reminds us that it might be well to urge again those who are responsible for ordering their Sunday School materials for the Second Quarter of 1949 to get their order sheets into the hands of the Office Secretary, Mrs. Jean Gilbert, as soon as possible. It will help us to establish the proper number of each of the quarterlies to be printed without printing too many, thus wasting paper, or too few, thus running out before your order can be filled.

Then, too, your order for literature and helps which we do not publish can be sent in to these supply houses at an early date and they, in turn, will be able to get your materials to you in plenty of time. Won't you please help us in this way?

Oakville, Indiana. Brother Henry Bates reports the ordination of the three newly elected deacons and deaconesses on Sunday evening, February 20th. He also reports the organization of a Personal Workers' Training Class which meets on Wednesday evening following the mid-week service.

A Day of Prayer was held on the afternoon of Tuesday, February 22 in which both missionary societies participated.

Brother Bates says, "We are happy to see the continued increase in attendance at Sunday School each week, the highest attendance (with the exception of Easter Sunday) since July, 1947, was reported for February 20th.

The Helpful Church

Is Your Church One?

IT IS THE BUSINESS of the church to be helpful. To this end it has been established in the earth. The Church should not call men to come into its fellowship that it may rob or hinder them, but that it may do them good. "We will do thee good," said Moses to Hobab. So says the Church to all men.

The Church may help people financially. It gives money to the poor. It helps poor men to become prosperous. We have often heard the complaint that the Church is made up of prosperous people. If this were true it would be no disparagement of the Church. There are many prosperous people in the Church who were not prosperous when the Church found them. They were poor boys, and many of them were prodigals and outcasts. But when they entered the church and began to follow Jesus Christ, they began to be sober, industrious, frugal, honest men, and then they began to prosper in the things of this world. Religion helped them financially.

By sharing its treasures with men the Church helps them. Moses said unto Hobab, "It shall be, if thou go with us, yea, it shall be that what goodness the Lord shall do unto us, the same will we do unto thee." Moses was the first to teach and practice the principle of profit-sharing. Our blessings are not bestowed on us for selfish enjoyment. God does not comfort His people that they may be comfortable, but that they may be comforted. He does not enrich them that they may selfishly enjoy riches, but that they may enrich others.

A lady who had a trying experience in the hospital for many weeks was greatly helped by an invalid neighbor who could not visit her in her affliction, but could and did send her messages of encouragement and tokens of sympathy and love every day. When the lady recovered she called on her invalid friend and said, "I do not know how I can ever repay you for the help you gave me in my affliction." The reply she received was, "Pass it on." This reply was inspiring that it proved a benediction scarcely less helpful than all the messages she had received from the same source, during her severe ordeal. We can never compensate our parents and teachers for what they have done for us. We can never repay our heavenly Father for the multitudes of His mercies. All He requires is that we shall help others. Someone has put this thought in song:

Have you had a kindness shown? Pass it on?
 'Twas not meant for thee alone; pass it on.
 Let it travel down the years,
 Let it dry another's tears,
 Till in heaven the deed appears:
 Pass it on.

Did you hear a loving word? Pass it on.
 Like the singing of a bird; pass it on.
 Let its music live and grow;
 Let it cheer another's woe;
 You have reaped what others sow:
 Pass it on.

This is not the way of the world. The world does not pass things on, but corners them. Worldly men do not propose to share their blessings, but monopolize them and hinder others from enjoying the same good. The rich man in the parable proposed to lay up all his goods in store for his own enjoyment. Grasping men have tried to corner almost every good gift of Providence. Corn, wheat, cotton, sugar, wool, eggs, coffee, medicines, all have been cornered; and if there be any good thing which greedy men have not tried to monopolize, it is because the good providence of God has made it impossible. They would monopolize the sunshine if they could, and make the whole world shiver in the cold while they stored up riches and heat for themselves. The Church is not selfish and greedy. If there be a Church that is greedy, it is doomed. If anyone who calls himself a Christian is a grasping, greedy man, his doom is sealed. Share your blessings.

The Church helps men by making them helpful. Hobab, at first, refused to accept the invitation of Moses, and said, "I will not go." Then Moses tried another argument saying, "Thou mayest be to us instead of eyes." Hobab was familiar with the wilderness through which the Hebrews were about to take their journey, and he could guide them. This appeal must have made a profound impression on him.

In one of Ralph Connor's stories there is a character whom he calls "Sandy." Sandy was not a church member, but somewhat given to drink. The minister greatly feared for him one day because the races were at hand, and Sandy would be almost sure to fall. A temperance lecture would do him no good, and it was useless to tell him how religion would help him. But a bright thought occurred to the minister. He said to Sandy, "I greatly fear for Donald today. If he falls into the company of those wild fellows they will rob him of his money; and think of his poor family. Could you not keep an eye on him today and keep him sober?" Sandy straightened up and felt several inches taller. The idea that he could help save a weak brother had never occurred to him and he said, "I will be doing my best, sir." And he did. He kept an eye on Donald and kept in touch with him all day, and brought him home at night safe and sober. It was a great victory. Then minister was trying to help Sandy, and he helped too. The Church can help others by making them helpful.

Helping others we shall strengthen our own life. The strongest man is not the man who has received the most but the man who has done most for others. The Church that has the largest membership, the finest music, the most eloquent preacher, and the richest people in its pews, may not be a strong Church. The Church that does most for other people is the strongest Church. One minister, in writing of his Church, was very careful to tell how many lawyers, judges, senators, ex-governors, college presidents, and money-kings were enrolled in the list of members, or, at least, sat in the pews. This all sounds fine, but it would be far more interesting and significant to tell some of the particular enterprises of helpfulness in which the Church is engaged. The man who has been exalted to heaven shall surely be cast down to hell if he shall fail to help others who are less fortunate than himself. The same is true of the family, the Church, or the nation which is highly exalted, but lives a selfish life.

Brother minister, be not over-anxious to serve a rich Church. Do not break your heart because your Church is small and poor. But watch and fight and pray and work and preach to make your Church eminent for helpfulness, and great will be your reward.

Church Methods: The Weekday Church School

Rev. Henry Bates

SEVERAL months ago there was handed down by the Supreme Court the United States a decision which has caused much comment and criticism on the part of many church people and church bodies. I refer to the now famous "Battle of Champaign (Illinois)" in which the constitutionality of the practice of teaching the Bible in public schools was questioned. The highest court of the country ruled, in a split decision, that such teaching was not in keeping with the spirit of the Constitution in that it tended toward breaking down the wall of separation between church and state. Immediately there arose among the ranks of Christian people a strong feeling against this action of the court, and many of these people even saw a decisive victory for the forces of Satan in the Supreme Court's ruling. But quite frequently we receive blessings in disguise—and this writer, for one, is of the opinion that this decision might be such a blessing.

I say that this might be a blessing in disguise because I feel that it might awaken the Christian bodies in this land to the realization that if the youth of America are to receive any Bible training at all it will have to be through the channels of the church. Why should we expect the public school systems to endeavor to include in their programs the subjects which belong in the realm of the church any more than the public school systems expect us to include such studies as algebra, history, Latin or any of the other secular studies in our church programs? It is time for the church to recognize and to accept her own tasks and responsibilities and to cease putting them upon the shoulders of schools, clubs, and other organizations. If the individual churches or church bodies would put into their own educational programs as much time, effort and money as many of them put into the effort to promote Bible study in the public schools they would, in the great majority of cases, accomplish much more, and would not have to "water down" nor "hedge" on some of their own beliefs.

Is this possible or practical? Why not? Some say that the school monopolizes the children's time—but are there not several hours every evening that the church could utilize? Are there not two or three hours immediately following the school day during which most youngsters are outside running free? Is there not all day Saturday in which the church could present its program if it so desired? Others will say that once the child is out of school that it is almost impossible to get him to give up any of his free time for Bible school. If the program is made interesting the youngsters will be there regardless of when it is held. The stories of David and Goliath, Samson, Gideon, the Good Samaritan, the Prodigal Son and countless others are still able to compete with Superman, Dick Tracy, Popeye and Blondie for the interest of the children if told and perhaps illustrated by one who is able to hold their attention.

One of the most successful plans is that of a Family Bible School. On a certain evening each week every member of the family comes to the church for Bible study. The beginners and primary groups meet in one part of the church for their own program and study. These youngsters enjoy singing the well known choruses; they sit wide-eyed through a flannelgraph story; with a little training they are able—and are anxious—to take part in a season of sentence prayers. Then perhaps some form of simple Bible-centered handwork can be included in the evening's activities for the group. A similar program is also arranged for the Juniors and Intermediates with variations to suit their age range; and likewise with the seniors. The parents also have a part in this type of Bible school. The pastor or some other trained member of the congregation may conduct a book-by-book study of the Word of God. Or perhaps a class in Christian living, or a study of some of the great doctrines of the Christian faith with a special emphasis placed upon the particular beliefs of their own denomination. Why limit our teaching of the Bible to grade school and perhaps high school boys and girls? Give everybody a chance!

Of course such a program requires much thought and preparation—as does any undertaking for the Lord. Teachers must be procured; teaching materials must be gathered together; and a planned, graded, long-range curriculum must be worked out. Usually the majority of the regular Sunday School teachers will be willing to help with the teaching and where a number of these folks are trained teachers this is the ideal arrangement—and, if the church does not have trained teachers, then they ought to get busy and promote a teacher training program. The pastor and teachers should sit down together and, after studying what other churches have done and what some of the authorities in the field suggest, make out their curriculum. There are various work-books and suggested lesson plans available from the publishing houses of some of the larger denominations, and if these do not meet the needs of the school then the pastor might undertake to develop and print a series of studies suited to his own church.

Rome was not built in a day, nor will a successful weekday church school be developed overnight. But if the builders of Rome had not started it never would have been built; and if Christian people, interested in religious instruction do not take the initial step then a worthwhile program will never be forthcoming. There is only one limitation to the extent to which the church and church school can make themselves felt, and that is the limitation which we as church leaders put upon them. Attempt great things FOR God—Expect great things FROM God!

—Oakville, Indiana.

Spiritual Meditations

Rev. Dyoll Belote

DOES RELIGION PAY?

"Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise.

"For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written, He taketh the wise in their own craftiness.

"And again, The Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain.

"Therefore let no man glory in men. For all things are your's;

"Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are your's;

"And ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's."—1 Cor. 3: 18-23.

* * * * *

THE STORY GOES of a young merchant who had a rival who sold sweatshop goods at cut prices. The young man's friends told him he would have to do the same or fail. "I have God as my partner," he replied, "and if I work as hard to sell honest goods as my rival does to sell dishonest goods, God will not let our firm fail." And He didn't. His success was almost phenomenal, while his rival cleared barely enough to live on. In this account we have the illustration of the profitableness of having God as a partner in our business ventures, and also suggest the amount of real religion some folks possess.

But you are insisting that I shall answer my own question—"Does religion pay?" It seems to me that the Bible is a sort of illustrated manual of promises to pay. But if we follow its teachings for pay, or expect to be paid in earth's currency, then religion is a dismal failure. I am well aware that the Bible says that "the laborer is worthy of his hire," but a faithful laborer will think of his work first, his pay second.

With every Christian there should be a consecration to his work as well as to his pay. We cannot estimate the pay we shall receive by heaven's weights and measures. We can invest in heaven's stock, but not being there ourselves we must leave to the Head of the firm the amount and kind of dividends we are to receive. And we must remember that there are no time limits with God. "Pay me what is best" should be stamped upon every investment which we make for Christ's sake.

The religion of Jesus Christ is not something that can be distributed by the penny's worth. We must make our investment in one transaction. And ours must be a TOTAL investment, the putting of our all into the agreement. Life itself must not be counted dear unto ourselves in this purchase. But what a glorious aftermath follows such an investment! The Master's own statement in Luke 14:33 makes the matter mandatory: "So, likewise, whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple." Do you know of anything like that in all earth's transactions? We receive everything in heaven for just our poor, sinful selves. We receive everything on earth for just our faulty service. It is a wonderful transaction, the most wonderful thing about it is that we can all make an investment, and make it pay wherever our lot is cast, and with whatever we have to do with.

Our biggest and best investment in the kingdom, and the one promising largest returns, is the investment of self. A celebrated philosopher of antiquity, who was accustomed to receive large sums from his pupils for the privilege of sitting under his teaching, was one day approached by a poor youth, who asked to be admitted to the great one's classes. "And what will you give me in return," asked the wise man. "I will give you myself," answered the youth. "I accept the gift," said the philosopher, "and I engage to restore you to yourself at some future period, much more valuable than you are at present." Those who make the great committal of their all to God will become day by day better fitted for service in Christ's kingdom on earth, and more worthy of entrance into the wonder, and joys, and beauties of His kingdom on high.

View with me, in closing, a little incident in the earthly career of the Master. Comes one running and kneels to the Lord, "Good Master, what must I do to inherit eternal life?" Hear the Master's requirement, "Go sell what thou hast and give to the poor, and come follow me; and thou shalt have treasure in heaven." And you remember the sequel of the occasion: "And he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions." He wants the crown, but he will not pay the price. Christ made the supreme sacrifice for that cross, and he who esteems it lightly, flouts Him who so dearly bought it. Men want the crown without the cross, but they are inseparably and eternally connected, and we may not have one without the other. And bearing the cross now will but make us to value the crown all the more dearly when we receive it from the hand of the Judge.

Listen to St. Paul. "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness; which the Lord, the righteous judge shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but to all those that love His appearing." IT IS OURS! IT IS OURS! IF WE ARE WILLING TO MAKE THE INVESTMENT!

—Linwood, Maryland.

"We rise by the things that are under our feet,
By what we have mastered of good and gain,
By the pride deposed and the passions slain
And the vanquished ills that we hourly meet."

With Thy calling and shouting my deafness was broken; with Thy glittering and shining my blindness was put to flight. At the scent of Thee I drew in my breath, and I pant for Thee. I have tasted, and I hunger and thirst; Thou hast touched me, and I am on fire for Thy peace.—St. Augustine.

Brother Wolfe was set apart for the ministry from the South Bend, Indiana, Brethren Church and began his preparation for the ministry by entering Ashland College in 1943, graduating from the Arts College with the Bachelor of Arts degree in 1946. He continued his studies in the Seminary and in 1948 was graduated with the degree of Master of Religious Education.

Shortly after entering Ashland College he became pastor of the Greenwich, Ohio, Congregational Church, which is situated about fifteen miles from Ashland, and continued to serve this congregation during the entire time he was a student in the College and Seminary, preaching his first sermon there in 1943 and his closing message on the Sunday of his ordination, February 20th, ending what had been a fine service to another denomination, which gave him considerable experience in the work of the pastorate. He also was employed for the past several years by the Ohio Public Service Company in Ashland, which with his studies, his church and work, gave him little time for much else.

Brother Wolfe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Omer J. Wolfe of South Bend, Indiana.

He has accepted the pastorate of the Third Brethren Church of Johnstown and will have entered upon his duties at this church when this issue comes to you, since he is taking charge of the work in Johnstown on March 1st.

We bespeak for him a fine ministry in the church and pray God's richest blessings upon him.

Ten Commandments For Church Members

1. Do not substitute radio or some similar services for the regular church service. Such does not satisfy the command for public assembly. See Hebrews 10:25.
2. Do not live to please other people or the minister, but strive to please God.
3. Do not look at the faults of other people without first looking at your own. We always find what we are looking for in life.
4. Do not criticize other members for not being sociable; that is a sure sign that you are the one at fault. A sociable person is never in want of friends.
5. Do not be a knocker or a parasite. If you cannot be a booster, stay on the side track.
6. Do not wear your feelings on your sleeve; if you do some one will surely hurt them.
7. Do not criticize the leaders unless you are sure you can do better yourself.
8. Do not be a church tramp. Tramps contribute very little toward progress. They live off of society, and have no definite purposes or aims in life.
9. Do not criticize a program before you understand all about it, or because it is new. If there were nothing new, progress in the world would cease.
10. Do not pretend to be better than you really are; practice what you preach, or else quit preaching. Barking dogs never bite, but sometimes they scare people and do injury.

Abraham believed God and went "OUT," Noah believed God and went "IN," Enoch believed God and went HOME.

The oppressed poor in seeking justice often find "just ice."

Dr. Martin J. Shively Receives Honor Award

ON SATURDAY evening, February 19th, Dr. Martin J. Shively was signally honored at McDowell Auditorium in Ashland, Ohio, by being cited as February's Golden Rule Honor Citizen of the Community. The presentation was made at a function of the Ashland Booster Club. Considerable space was given in the Ashland Newspaper, "The Times Gazette," which carried the story and gave a great deal of information concerning his life and work. That the bestowing of the fine jeweled pin which will remind him of the honor, was a worthy choice is not denied by any one who knows him or has known him in past years.

Dr. Shively has reached the age of eighty-five and has preached for sixty-two years in the Brethren Church. Among his records can be found the fact that he has founded four churches, delivered 9,000 sermons, performed 192 marriages and conducted 457 funerals. His ministry has been spent in three states—California, Pennsylvania and Ohio. He preached his first seventeen years in Ohio; the next ten in California, and the next six years in Pennsylvania. For the past twenty-eight years he has again been a resident of Ohio, this time coming to Ashland College in 1920 to become the College bursar and Endowment Secretary, a position which he held for twenty years, and from which he retired in 1940. He was awarded the degree of Doctor of Divinity from Ashland College in 1906 for the outstanding work which he had done in the work of the ministry.

Dr. Shively has been a member of the Lions Club of Ashland for the past twenty-seven years and for the past twenty years has delivered an Easter address before this group each year.

Last October Dr. and Mrs. Shively celebrated their sixty-third wedding anniversary. They have two sons, E. O. Shively of Dayton, Ohio, and L. L. Shively of Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Dr. Shively began his ministry when salaries were almost unheard of and received but $150.00 a year for preaching and $37.50 a month for teaching, often supplementing this small income by serving as a farm hand. We are told that during the first three years and nine months of his ministry he preached one hundred and forty-three times. Out of Bryan, Ohio, where he had an early pastorate he held six preaching appointments and preached two hundred and fifty-six times the first year on that circuit.

"Mother" Shively, as very many of the College students of the past call her, has been a great aid to Dr. Shively in the work of the ministry. He has told the writer many times that she was perhaps his most severe critic, yet she was his most beloved helper. Many are the students of the College that were helped over lonely times and invited to share the bounties of the Shively table and the marvelous cooking of "Mother" Shively. It is only of late years, since health no longer permits, that Sundays rarely passed that some student or students did not find himself or herself invited to the home for the Sunday dinner.

Truly this marvelous couple are deserving of all the honor that can be bestowed upon them in this world, and the world to come.

Congratulations, Dr. Shively, and you too, Mother Shively, for the citation which has so justly come to your household.

National Goals Program

Rev. J. G. Dodds, Chairman

A FEW CHOICE GLEANINGS

By The Goals Chairman

DID YOU READ the four Goals Program Emphasis articles from the pen of Brother C. Y. Gilmer? They were well-written, and challenging to every member of the Brethren Church. Since reviewing Brother Gilmer's articles, your Goals Program Chairman is constrained to make a report on some representative letters received during the last year.

We made a similar report about two years ago. The criticisms, both favorable and adverse, are interesting reading—sometimes amusing. It seems that the denomination should be given an insight to the many reactions that come to the chairman of the Goals Committee.

There is a quotation from a letter postmarked in Pennsylvania: "Send me one hundred fifty copies of the Goals Program. I want every Official Board member, every Sunday School Cabinet member and every family of the church to have a copy. We plan to push the Goals to the limit."

From Indiana we quote this paragraph: "The Goals program is influencing the work in our local church, and from reports, I am certain that the entire Brotherhood is being influenced for good. Only as the work and task of our own Brethren Church is promoted and effectively administered, by those who seek to take leadership, can we hope to make proper progress."

The two quotations above reflect an optimistic outlook for the Brethren denomination. However, not all letters received are so optimistic. For instance note the following: "Why are you always trying to promote the Goals program? Don't you know that solid foundations should first be laid? But it seems that you are always boosting the idea of forever advancing with set goals. And what is more, I don't see any future for the Brethren Church."

To me this was one of the amusing letters. Why does a manufacturer advertise? Why does he promote and boost the products of his factory? Suppose he were to spend all his time and energy simply laying foundations; suppose he should not produce and extend his products—his end would certainly be "finis."

It is proper and fitting to lay foundations, but we must not forget that foundations are laid for the purpose of building the superstructure thereon. In checking the statistical reports for 1947 and 1948, it is revealed that the church from which the above quotation came made no progress during the last two years. In the words of Editor Vanator, "this set me to thinking."

Another adverse criticism shows a lack of having read the Brethren Evangelist. Here is one paragraph from that letter: "You are boosting for the Brethren Evangelist to be in every Brethren home. We can't make much use of the Brethren Evangelist in our local church. It is published one week and we get it on Monday or Tuesday of the following week. The C. E. Topics, Prayer Meeting Topics and the Sunday School Lesson Comments are dated for the week of publication, and hence we get the paper too late to be of any use to us."

This adverse criticism would never have been made had the writer examined the Brethren Evangelist issues for the several years of the immediate past. The C. E. Topics and the Sunday School Lesson comments are published two weeks in advance of the dates for which they are to be used. For example see the issue of February 19, 1949. Both lesson and topic comments are for the date of March 6, 1949. That ought to be ample time for the paper to reach the entire Brotherhood from coast to coast. The Prayer Meeting Topics are not dated, hence they may be used at any time.

Here is a quotation which speaks out of experience. "The Brethren Literature goal—(1) Brethren Evangelist in every Brethren home; (2) all available Brethren Sunday School literature in every Brethren Sunday School—will inspire to attain all other goals of the National Goals Program. Since our local church has reached the Literature Goals, increased attendance, more zeal, and greater activity on the part of church members is clearly seen. We are now on the way to reach the other goals."

In the event that you failed to read the four articles from the pen of Brother Gilmer and published since 1948 General Conference, it will be worthwhile to you and your church to get those issues of the Brethren Evangelist and to study the articles. Brother Gilmer is a member of the Goals Committee. Other members are Brethren W. S. Ben-shoff and C. A. Stewart.

The 1948 General Conference authorized the preparation of a Seven Year Anniversary Program to culminate in 1957-1958. In anticipation of this Advancement Program, the Goals Committee is preparing some definite recommendations to be made to the 1949 General Conference. It is our hope that this will be the greatest General Conference in the history of the Brethren Church. It is also our hope that each succeeding General Conference will increase in efficiency and accomplishment. Our desire is that the Brotherhood shall be a united effort to go forward in Christian Growth within, and in Christian Advancement beyond her present horizons. Other denominations are going forward in rapid strides of growth and advancement—so can we. And as a church, we must never forget that "people without vision shall perish."

THE BRETHREN CHURCH has a great future. "Who knows but what you may have come into the Brethren Church for such a time as this?" Study the NATIONAL GOALS PROGRAM, promote it, boost it at every opportunity.

Brother Benshoff sent us an introductory statement which was to have been placed with Brother Robert Lorenzen's article, "Brethren, Let's Pray," which appeared in last issue of the EVANGELIST, but it arrived too late for that issue. He has this to say of Brother Lorenzen: "Robert C. Lorenzen is a layman in the Main Street Brethren Church, Meyersdale, Pa. He has spent many years in research and reading on the general subject of prayer. He is the teacher of the Ladies' Bible Class. The article is a resume of a new book by Brother Lorenzen on the same subject, which is now in the process of being published. He may be addressed at 400 Lincoln Ave., Meyersdale, Penna." Our apologies to both Brother Lorenzen and Brother Benshoff.

Still at the Bottom of the List

ACCORDING TO THE National Stewardship Institute of the Golden Rule Foundation, which is seeking to raise the level of giving to charitable organizations, recently released government figures covering income and expenditures for 1947 reveal that only about 85 cents out of every one hundred dollars was expended for church and welfare work or 1% of the national income.

Dr. Robert M. Hopkins, director of the Institute, pointed out that "while the American citizen was crying about the 'high cost of living,' he found enough loose change to up his recreational pastimes, including movies, baseball, football, horse and dog racing, from $8.6 Billion in 1946 to $9.4 Billion in 1947."

Although essential costs for food, clothing, housing, household operation and transportation have risen between 15% and 17% the national income rose to $202.5 Billion in 1947, and an estimated $215 Billion is predicted for 1948.

"Welfare on the other hand," Dr. Hopkins reports, "does not show this same increase but instead exists in a fluctuating stage as noted by the fact that expenditures in 1947 for religious and welfare activities were, according to the Government, $1,615 Million dollars. This is only five million dollars above these expenditures in 1946, and is actually four million dollars below the $1,619 Million dollars reported in 1945. The present government report is even sadder when we take into consideration that in 1947 charitable contributions were less than one-third what they were in the depression years of the thirties. This is the more regrettable when it is remembered that all dollars are depreciated in value."

"These annual reports, which are released by the Department of Commerce are criticized by some church statisticians," Dr. Hopkins stated, "and one reason for such criticism," he said, "is undoubtedly due to the fact that many churches and benevolent institutions do not report their income and expenditures. Therefore, these critics feel that, since they have not reported, the Government statistics can do little more than indicate trends."

"In opposition to this theory," Dr. Hopkins pointed out, "are the annual reports issued by the United Stewardship Council which includes some 21 Protestant church groups with some 30 Million members. If the more than 76 Million church members are giving on an equal par with this group then the amount given annually by all church members would be about $1,614 Million. It is of interest to note that this projection would be almost identical with the $1,615 million reported by the Government.

"It is evident from the total amount given for church and related charity at the present time that American citizens are giving just about four times the amount which is given in tips with meals, and it is less than half the amount which is being spent on tobacco." Dr. Hopkins stated.

"Church and charity giving," he concluded, "is therefore continuing to occupy a place in expenditures comparable with tips and non-essentials. This ratio between benevolent giving and total expenditures grows less and less as the total income rises and benevolent giving makes but comparatively slight increases. There is undoubtedly an urgent need for a concerted effort to challenge all citizens to mount to higher levels of intelligent and generous stewardship expression for the proper balancing of our country's security."—From the "National Stewardship Institute."

CHAPELS FOR JAPAN'S LEPROSY COLONIES ASKED

AMERICAN CHRISTIANS have been asked to help in the construction of five Christian chapels for the government leprosy colonies of Japan, the American Mission to Lepers has reported through Raymond P. Currier, its executive secretary.

The request was transmitted to the American Mission to Lepers recently by Dr. Howard D. Hannaford of the staff of Meiji Gakuin, Tokyo, from the Kozensha (Christian Committee for Leprosy Work in Japan). This organization, founded in 1894 with the help of American missionaries was in prewar years in close communication with the American Mission to Lepers in providing a Christian ministry to Japan's leprosy victims.

According to word received from the Kozensha, there are approximately 1250 Christians in Japan's ten government-supported leprosaria—which before the war had an aggregate population of about 6000 persons. Of the ten organized Christian congregations in these colonies, it was further learned, five are in urgent need of church buildings as a center for their Christian life.

The American Mission to Lepers, according to Mr. Currier, has voted acceptance of the Kozensha's request for aid and has set aside the sum of $3,000 for the immediate construction at the earliest possible date of the first of these five proposed chapels—that asked for the Zensei En Leprosy Hospital near Tokyo. The chapel will serve the vigorous 200 member congregation at Zensei En, among whose members are the former residents of the deeply Christian-spirited Ihaien Home, "Garden of Comfort for the Outcast." This Ihaien Home, owned and operated by the Kozensha with the aid of American Christians through the American Mission to Lepers, was closed during the war, together with other private Christian leprosaria, and its patients transferred to Zensei En. In the bombing of Tokyo the beautiful Ihaien chapel, gift of American Christians in 1930, was destroyed.

Wilbur J. Chapman of "Wilbur and Pete" Fame to Visit Chiengmai Leprosy Colony Home of Ai Sam

CARRYING IN HIS POCKET a picture of the little Siamese boy, Ai Sam, whom, some 35 years ago, he tried to save from leprosy—Wilbur J. Chapman set out from New York City on the Queen Mary today, on the first leg of a pilgrimage to the Chiengmai Leprosy Colony in Northern Siam.

To most folk, Wilbur is a forty-ish moderately successful engineer in Minneapolis, Minnesota, but to thousands of children in schools and Sunday schools throughout the country—and in far-off lands, like Japan and Paraguay—Wilbur is a legendary figure, like Dick Whittington and his cat—or the brave Dutch boy who held the dyke. And they know him from pictures as a ten year old boy in knee breeches standing beside a well-fattened porker who had achieved fame—together with Wilbur—as "Pete."

For some 36 years ago, Wilbur "stuffed" Pete and sold him to save a little boy with leprosy—even as today some 200,000 other Petes are being stuffed by other little girls and boys to save other Ai Sams in Christian leprosy colonies throughout the world. Wilbur and Pete have together been responsible for raising somewhere between one and two million dollars in the past quarter century.

It all began in White Cloud, Kansas, where Wilbur lived, the son of a missionary father and a mission-minded mother. To their home came William A. Danner of the American Mission to Lepers, who, during his visit, told the family of the efforts of the missionary Dr. Hugh McKean to care for patients in his Chiengmai Leprosy Colony in Northern Siam—today one of the finest in the world.

Wilbur's mother set out to raise $250 for the Chiengmai patients, and Wilbur, hearing about one little boy his own age named Ai Sam, wanted to help too. But how? An opportunity came when Mr. Danner, departing, pressed three silver dollars into the boy's hand—and Wilbur bought a pig.

The piglet ate and ate—and Wilbur, thinking of Ai Sam, doggedly carried buckets and buckets of swill to satisfy Pete's endless appetite. Scraps from the Chapman's table did not begin to fill Pete's bottomless pit, and soon Wilbur was trudging from neighbor to neighbor for donations. Before long the whole town knew about Wilbur's project, and Pete and Wilbur were unknowingly started down the long, long road to immortality.

In time Pete was sold and $25.00 was despatched to Dr. McKean for Ai Sam's care. Travelling about the country on behalf of Christian leprosy missions, Mr. Danner told and retold the story for Wilbur and Pete. The staff of the SUNDAY SCHOOL TIMES in Philadelphia, heard the story and decided that they, too, wanted to feed a pig as Wilbur had—but lacking facilities in that venerable publication's office, they bought a clay version with a slit between his ears at Wanamaker's. And so "Pete No. 2" began to be fattened—and in the pages of the SUNDAY SCHOOL TIMES the Wilbur and Pete story achieved a written form.

For more than a quarter of a century now, Petes have been distributed through the American Mission to Lepers for the support of leprosy victims. The first manufactured Petes were of cast iron—and they became a casualty of wartime priorities early in the war years. Today "Plastic Petes" in a rainbow of colors are being filled with pennies, nickels, and dimes in every part of the United States. The Wilbur and Pete story has gone with missionaries into far countries of the world. Before the war even Japanese children were stuffing Petes with sens and yens for the care of children with leprosy in their own country. Petes have likewise traveled to Paraguay, India, China, and several parts of Africa.

In White Cloud, Kansas, there is a bronze plaque—unveiled in 1938—commemorating the 25th anniversary of the slaughtering of Pete. But Wilbur, the man, lives at 1847 Buchanan St. N. E. in Minneapolis, and is an engineer with the gravel, quarry, and mining equipment firm of the Pioneer Engineering Works, also in Minneapolis. He is an active participant in the affairs of the American Mission to Lepers, designated agency of 40 Protestant denominations for carrying on a spiritual and physical ministry among leprosy victims throughout the world. It aids some 125 colonies, hospitals, clinics, and preventoria, in 27 countries, and in these projects Wilbur has had a long and intimate concern.

In setting off on his journey to Chiengmai, Wilbur Chapman is carrying out a life-long ambition to visit the home of Ai Sam. It has taken a long time to save enough money for the long journey, but today, in sailing on the Queen Mary, he is fulfilling that life-long dream.

He will visit other places too, during his eight months tour of leprosy colonies of the Middle East and Africa; India, Tanganyika, Portuguese East Africa, the Congo, and the Camerouns are also on his itinerary. But his primary object in going on his leprosy pilgrimage, is to visit Chiengmai, where Ai Sam lived and died, and with Ai Sam's picture to jog memories, to talk to folk who knew and loved the little Siamese boy that won his boyhood heart.

That day, in Siam, will be a great day for Wilbur Chapman.

LAUNCH THE OFFENSIVE!

Scripture: Matt. 28:19, 20; Acts 1:8, 9

For The Leader

LAST WEEK we called to your attention the fact that unless we went out and won the coming generation there were many dangers awaiting the Christian Church. We emphasize that thought again. The Christian Church must constantly gain new members to survive. How to do it is a problem which should engage our thought and interest until it is solved. There are many obstacles, but none which cannot be overcome through prayer and hard work. After all, this is God's work and He will surely help us, as servants, if we are willing to do it His way. So, let us analyze the problems, face the issue squarely, and win them to our Church and our Christ!

DISCUSSION

1. THE SOURCE OF NEW MEMBERS. On the surface things look discouraging. There are several sources of new members, all of which appear to be slow to win and hard to get. First, the Sunday School. The average Church would be amazed if the record of the years would be shown concerning the number of children who attended their Sunday School, yet who never became members of the Church. What happens to them when they become about 12 years of age? Perhaps their parents go to other churches, or don't go at all, and the kids "catch on." One by one they drop away. At that age, too, they are conscious of the jeering of their companions who ridicule them for going to Sunday School. If they are lost at that age, blame the parents and the Sunday School teacher. It is amazing the number of Sunday School teachers who have these boys and girls each week yet NEVER speak a word to them about giving their heart to the Lord, becoming baptized and joining the church. What is the purpose of a Junior age Sunday School Teacher?

2. ANOTHER SOURCE, OR SO. New families are constantly moving into your community. If they went to church elsewhere they will want to go now. If they didn't go elsewhere, we may interest them in starting. At least they should be approached with an invitation. A third and final source of new members is that group of people in your community who never darken a church door. There are some who will never be won to Christ and His Church. We once had a piano tuner who was engaged to tune our church piano. As he walked in the church he looked around and said, "This is the first I've been in church for 30 years." Last reports indicate that that was the last time he ever was, for when he died he was buried from a funeral home. It's people like that that do discourage us when we try to win them to Christ. They seem immovable. Yet by constant effort and prayer some of them will be brought to the throne of mercy and grace of our Lord.

3. THE SAD, SAD TRUTH. We are never one to cast a gloom, but we do face facts. Our churches are not reaching by any stretch of the imagination the people of our community. If you are inclined to disagree, then check on your churches and total the number of people who attended each service last Sunday. Then check it against the population of your community. You're in a fortunate community if the total was 25% to 50% of your population. What about the rest! Surely we must do something to reach them, for the situation is serious. A democracy cannot long exist among a people that knows not the principles of Christianity.

4. WE MUST GO TO THEM. All the advertising, neon signs, quartets, choruses, special speakers, etc., will never bring them to church. Show me a church where attendance is on the increase and I will show you a church that knows the value of the personal visit. That is the only way. The bulk of the people are not church minded and the first thing we must do for them is to interest them in the Church by a personal visit. This is becoming even more so as the world becomes more embittered toward the church and seeks to influence people away from the church. That is now going on. Yes, 999 times out of a 1,000, when you see a new face in your church, it will be because some one called in their home and personally invited them to come. The days of smugness on the part of church members must be over if we are to survive. We cannot sit back and sing "Bring Them In" and still stay "sot." We must get out and bring them in.

5. THE PSYCHOLOGY OF THE CALL. What about this calling on prospects? It is not the preacher's job entirely. Each lay member is responsible, along with the preacher. Many people are scared of a preacher. (We don't know why.) But they are. First calls in a prospect's home are bound to be formal and stiff. So, what do we do? We ask our lay members to "break the ice." There are several reasons for this. First, the lay members know the people, for they live in the same neighborhood. Second, they can get in on the ground floor and can prepare the people for a visit from their preacher. Again it is not by any means possible for the present day preacher to keep in touch with every prospect in the community. So, here is the successful system that is bringing results today wherever it is being tried: The pastor encourages his people to make calls on non-church goers, new families, etc. The purpose is to find out what church they might be interested in, and get from them an indication of willingness to come. If the call appears encouraging, then the lay member is requested to give the name and information gained to the pastor, who then makes the first follow-up call.

6. FROM THEN ON. From then on it is usually an easy matter to make additional calls, both by the lay members and the pastor. This system could be enlarged to include community surveys and mass visitation campaigns. We prefer the quiet, week in and week out, type of visitation, for experience has proven that fan-fare big-time campaigns usually lose the greater percentage of results. It is entirely a matter of salesmanship in which we sell our church, and our Christ to those who are outside of the fellowship. Yes, if you and your church want to survive, better launch the offensive in your community and win the unchurched to Christ. He has promised to help. Call upon Him, and then go to work today. Tomorrow will be too late!

CHRIST AND HIS CHURCH—PSA. 45

At His right hand our eyes behold
The queen arrayed in purest gold;
The world admires her heav'nly dress,
Her robe of joy and righteousness.

So shall the King the more rejoice
In thee, the fav'rite of His choice;
Let Him be loved and yet adored,
For He's thy Maker and thy Lord.

O happy hour, when thou shalt rise
To His fair palace in the skies,
And all thy sons (a num'rous train)
Each like a prince in glory reign!

ISAAC AND REBEKAH AS TYPES OF CHRIST AND THE CHURCH

Scripture: Genesis 24

Hymns on the Church

Prayers

Seed Thought Provokers:

THE OLD TESTAMENT is preparatory for the New Testament. The Old Testament is the New concealed, and the New is the Old revealed. The things of Christ and the Church are foreshadowed in the courtship of Isaac and Rebekah. The principal characters of the story are a father, his son, a servant, and a bride.

Abraham as father is a type of God, our heavenly Father (Rom. 4:17). Abraham was called the "father of many nations," and he has a spiritual family, too (Gal. 3:7). God as Creator has a family, and as Redeemer He has a spiritual family. Abraham desired a suitable bride for his son, Isaac. The heart of the gospel is God's desire to secure a bride for His Son (Matt. 22:2).

Isaac, a type of Christ, was a son of long promise (Gen. 3:15; Gal. 4:4). Both had an unusual birth (Gen. 21:1, 2; Luke 1:35). Both were offered as a sacrifice (Gen. 22:1-13; Heb. 10:10). Both were willing to be sacrificed (Heb. 10:7). Isaac carried the wood; the Saviour carried the cross (John 19:17). Abraham walked with Isaac; "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself." Abraham willingly offered Isaac (Heb. 11:17-19; Rom. 8:32). Isaac's sacrifice was a divine preintimation of the death and resurrection of Christ.

After the sacrifice of Isaac, the servant, a type of the Holy Spirit, commissioned by the father, went forth in the name of the son to get a bride for the son (John 14:26; 15:26). The servant did not exalt himself (John 16:13). He gave the bride a foretaste of the riches of the son (1 Cor. 2:9, 10).

Rebekah, a type of the Church as the Bride of Christ, was a chaste virgin (2 Cor. 11:2). She was chosen before she was aware of it (Eph. 1:4). She believed the servant, and loved, not at first sight, but without sight (1 Peter 1:8, 9). She consented to go and was conducted safely over a long journey (1 Peter 1:5). As they neared the end of the journey she saw him approaching (Titus 2:13). They met in the open field at the close of day (1 Thess. 4:17). "Blessed are they which are called unto the marriage supper of the Lamb" (Rev. 19:9).

Lesson for March 20, 1949

GROWING IN DISCIPLESHIP

Lesson: Mark 6:30-32; Luke 11:1-4, 9-13

ST. PETER ends his second letter with the following words, which might form a theme for the lesson today: "But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. To him be glory both now and forever. Amen."

As we look at this lesson we can readily find six things that have to do with growth in discipleship, 1. Prayer; 2. Activity; 3. Persistence; 4. Forgiveness; 5. Caring for others; and 6. Caring for self. You will be able to find many others.

1. Prayer—"Every one who asks, receives." If we really desire anything enough, we have no hesitation in asking for it. Note that the burden of the proof of our sincerity of desire is cast right back upon us. God expects His disciples to "ask" Him for what they need. Notice that we did not say, "Want," for He never promised to fill all our "wants"—only our "needs." We grow by asking, for through asking comes dependence on God.

2. Activity—"He who seeks finds." There is no room for a "loafer" in the path upward. We have no right to ask God to do something for us that we can do for ourselves. The writer of Hebrews says that "He is a rewarder of them that diligently seek Him." He must first be found before He can be asked for anything. We grow by activity.

3. Persistence—"To him who knocks, it will be opened." Not a timid tapping, but a resounding, persistent "pounding." We, today, depend on door bells, and sweet sounding chimes to arouse us to answer the door. But in the days when the scriptures were written it took a loud rapping to arouse the inmates of the home. Recall, if you will, the persistent knocking on the door by the "importuning neighbor" who wanted to borrow bread for his guest. Jesus teaches us in that parable that we should be persistent in prayer. Have you been praying for a long time for some certain soul to accept Christ? Don't stop—pray on! And even should that soul not respond—you have grown in discipleship; you have done your part.

4. Forgiveness—Christ taught that if we would grow in discipleship we must learn the lesson of forgiveness.

How can we expect God to forgive us if we are not willing to forgive others? No one can grow if the canker of hate and an unforgiving spirit is eating at the very roots of the seat of Christian faith and love. Stephen, the first Christian martyr, was a growing disciple, for he had learned the necessity of a forgiving spirit, and "Lord lay not this sin to their charge" were the closing words of his earthly life. We grow by learning to forgive.

5. Sharing with others—The fact that the hearts of Christians everywhere have been opened to a suffering humanity, in these last few years, is proof that there is a feeling abroad that there is a necessity for caring for the needs of others if one would be a real disciple of the Lord. It was Jesus who said, "I came not to be ministered unto, but to minister," thus leaving us an example that, if followed, will help us grow into loving disciples of the Master.

6. Caring for ourselves—Jesus is not inconsiderate of our personal needs—of the frailty of the human flesh. He knows we become weary physically, and He says to us today, even as He said to the disciples of old, "Come ye yourselves apart . . . and rest a while." It is true that it is far better to "wear out" than to "rust out," but even at that the "wearing out" will not be so rapid if a little care is taken to "stop" the machinery at times and "oil it up" in the necessary places. Pausing occasionally in the rush of activity will not stop the "growth in discipleship"—if that pausing is spent in "repair." Yes, we grow in discipleship in taking care of our bodies, as well as our souls.

Ashland College News Letter

By Arthur Petit

Ashland College in cooperation with the County Ministers will sponsor a religious emphasis week with special programs on the dates of March 8, 9, 10, and 11. The purpose of this week is to make everyday religion more vital.

Dr. W. H. Leach, Editor of Church Management Magazine, will be the special speaker of the week. He will address the student body at the Park Street Brethren Church in chapel exercises each morning at 10:30 A. M. The Ministers of the county will sponsor a public service one evening during the week at which Dr. Leach will also speak.

Four afternoon workshops for discussion and work in special interests will be scheduled. Rev. Kenneth Hulit, pastor of one of Akron's E. U. B. churches and a graduate of Ashland College and Seminary, has been secured to assist in these discussions.

General themes of these workshops will be: How does a Christian behave with emphasis on personal, social, community, national and international angles; Denominational comparisons to find a common cooperative basis for differing denominations to work together; Practical helps for church work emphasizing effective programs, teaching, etc.; and Summer church projects, for any interested in crusaders, caravans or similar projects of the various churches.

Let us praise in all the ways in all our days—of 1949.

A Church Needs a Pastor

WOULD YOU LIKE TO LIVE AND SERVE THE LORD IN MARYLAND?

If so, there is a nice parsonage with eight rooms and bath and warm air heating system, situated in the Village of St. James, about six miles from Hagerstown, Maryland, and about seventy-five miles from our Nation's Capitol. There is also a nice church, all newly decorated and refinished on the interior, with all new floor coverings and new memorial windows installed during the past year.

There will be found here about two hundred Loyal Brethren, praying for a Shepherd. The membership is composed mostly of young and middle aged people. The following are in Ashland preparing themselves for greater work as the Lord may lead them: Glenn Shank, who is student pastor at Glenford, Ohio; Miss Margaret Lowery, who is National Christian Endeavor President; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mills; Joyce Bloom; George Schamel; Helen Shank and Josephine Lowery; our Mr. M. L. Bloom is a Trustee of Ashland College; Mr. James Norris, a Trustee of the National Laymen's Organization, which bespeaks for St. James' loyalty to Ashland and the institutions thereof.

The church is well organized, with a splendid Sunday School being blessed with a number of well trained teachers and loyal lay members who have been faithful over the years. We have a very active Missionary Society, Sisterhood and Signal Lights; a fine Laymen's Organization which meets monthly; also a fine Boys' Brotherhood, and, being a farming community, we sponsor Boys' and Girls' 4-H Clubs, which meet in our Sunday School room under the supervision of one of our Deacons or Deaconesses.

As for pastors of the past years: the late Rev. W. S. Baker served the church faithfully for fourteen years till he was forced to retire because of disability; D. C. White served five years, and Rev. Henry Bates for two years. Since November 1st, Mr. Donald Warrenfeltz, a Lutheran student of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, Seminary, fifty-five miles away, has been acting as supply pastor, each Sunday morning, with the Christian Endeavor Society conducting the evening service.

Our prayer is that some wise man of God may see our "star" shining here, and may follow it to the "Heart of Maryland," and who may lead us in the Master's name.

If you are interested in serving this needy church, please write to:

Roy H. Lowery, Chairman Pulpit Committee,
118 West Potomac Street,
Williamsport, Maryland.

I sometimes mourn in my heart because people remain away from the Lord's Table on Communion Sunday . . . and yet never miss being a fourth at a Bridge table. Irrelevant you say? Think about it, and see for yourself what I mean. Being loyal to which host?

Many a pious fraud's religion is just the wrapping paper around his deviltry.

We don't read "O criticize and see" but "O TASTE and see that the Lord is good."

Revival at Roanoke, Indiana

It was a pleasant experience to spend a few days in the very congenial little city of Roanoke, Indiana. Enhancing that pleasure was the privilege of fellowshiping with an esteemed friend and fellow pastor of many years, Rev. S. C. Henderson and his lovely family. He and I had served in two of the same churches. He preceded me at Hamlin, Kansas, by a few years and succeeded me at Leon, Iowa, by a few years. Of course that gave us a common denominator of friends and experiences about which there is great joy in reminiscent conversation. Hamlin was our first pastorate and I remember it as a jewel in my pastoral life and the dear people who were so kind to me. With an insistent unanimous call and an offer of a few hundred dollars increase in salary to stay, we moved to Leon, Iowa, where, in a county seat town of 2000 people we had our most far reaching pastoral experience, baptizing 65 people our first meeting, most of them adults, receiving more than 100 members into the church in the first 12 months, holding 6 revival meetings myself in 5 years with overflow crowds every Sunday night. President of the school board, chautauqua, chamber of commerce member and called all over the county for commencement addresses, baccalaureate sermons, memorial addresses, etc. funerals and weddings very many, issuing a 36 page art cover parish paper that we placed everywhere. Receiving an urgent call to Pittsburgh, Pa., we directed the church to secure the Rev. Miles Taber as pastor. This is no part of the report of the Roanoke meeting, but when I know that Hamlin, Kansas, wrote to me not so long ago about selling their church and that the Leon, Iowa, church was captured by the Graceite leadership, I cannot but think seriously and feel deeply about building and growth of churches. It is impossible to build churches and increase their strength without pastoral leadership that loves men and serves them and wins them and who will preach the gospel with becoming power.

Well, Brother Henderson and I talked these fields over quite thoroughly. His wife had a sister who lived at Leon during our time there. She was one of the most devoted Christians I have known. Pardon this interlude.

Now about Roanoke. It is about 20 miles from Ft. Wayne and 10 miles from Huntington. Rev. Henderson has reported the meeting in the Evangelist and my public thanks to him for his kind words about the evangelist. They could not have been more gracious and appreciative of their guest. They provided a lovely room in the Eddington home near the church, their homes were opened most hospitably and we were treated in the most cordial manner everywhere we went. The attendance was above our expectation. The fraternal feeling among the churches of the town and the attendance of their members and pastors was very gratifying. The Rev. Hodge of North Manchester, and Rev. Gilmer, of Huntington, each brought delegations which we appreciated.

Rev. Henderson has served the Roanoke church for more than 15 years and has done good substantial work. He has his own home there. His daughter, now Mrs. Virgil Williams and grandson, Stephen who was the first to come forward for confession of faith during the meetings. Mr. Williams is an enterprising business man. The youngest son, Myron, a most capable teacher in the public schools. The oldest son is married and lives at Hartford City, Indiana. He is also a prominent teacher. This family makes quite a contribution to the work of the church. There are other families of the finest type of people you can find in any church. The Humke family furnished us an automobile to do visitation. I hesitate to name the individual families and their kindness for fear of slighting some, but certainly the fine type of people that constitute this church is a splendid group to attract other worthy members.

The church building is in good repair and commodious. It is my good wish and expectation for them that they shall increase greatly in numbers and in spiritual service to this attractive community. Our most hearty thanks to Rev. Henderson and his good people for the joy of serving and fellowshiping with them. May every good blessing of life and the abundance of grace be their portion.

The Gospel of Mark in Zoque (New Language)

NOW FOR THE FIRST TIME the Zoque Indians, who live around the town of Copainala in Chiapas, southern Mexico, can read the story of Jesus, as told by St. Mark, in their own language. The Gospels, bound in bright colored paper and printed with the Spanish text in a parallel column, were published by the American Bible Society.

The translation has been prepared by William Wonderly, P.h.D. working with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Harrison, all of the Wycliffe Bible Translators, with several native informants. Dr. Wonderly has been studying the language for eight years. It is not always easy to find a qualified native informant who is also a devout Christian but Dr. Wonderly persisted in that principle. A Christian community is growing up through the work of native evangelists working under the direction of the Rev. J. R. Kempers of the Dutch Reformed Church for the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. There is also a very active work by nationals of the Seventh Day Adventists.

About eight years ago a Spanish-speaking native bought a Spanish Bible, read it and was converted. His enthusiasm spread until there grew up three communities numbering about 200 or 300 members, who regularly hold services in three prayer houses and eagerly seek for further guidance. Dr. Wonderly visited one of these groups and was more than ever convinced of the need for bringing the Gospel to them in their own tongue. He writes:

"It has been my privilege to visit three native congregations which have sprung up simply through the reading and hearing of God's Word. For the first time in my life. I was able to stand before a group of believers in their own bamboo-and-thatch 'house of prayer' and read and explain the Word to them in Zoque! Some 200 or more believers gathered together on the occasion of our visit and our cups were filled to overflowing at their hospitality and at the hunger they showed for the Word."

There are approximately 10,000 Indians who speak this dialect with perhaps an additional 10,000 who speak a somewhat different form of the language. Literacy campaigns are underway and the arrival of the brightly-bound Gospels will undoubtedly stimulate them.

PROPOSED CLERGY FARE ON UNITED AIR LINES WITHDRAWN

United Air Lines has filed notice with the Civil Aeronautics Board of its desire to withdraw its 25% clergy discount plan which has been before the Economic Section of the CAB for review since Jan. 28.

Company officials said United's withdrawal of the proposed discount for licensed and ordained clergymen devoting their full time to that calling was due to legal questions being raised as to possible discriminatory features; also because it was apparent that the plan, to be effective, should be an industry undertaking, participated in by airlines generally, as in the case of the railroads.

United's filing, if it had been approved, would have been effective March 1.

News From Our Churches

CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND

Greetings from the First Brethren Church of Cumberland, Maryland to all the Brethren.

We are still an active group, going along nicely with Rev. Bruce Shanholtz, a Church of the Brethren minister from Levels, West Virginia, as a part-time minister in our pulpit. This arrangement was begun on November 7, 1948.

The average attendance at our services is as follows: Sunday School—63; Morning worship—45; Evening service—25; Prayer service—8.

We are planning a two week Evangelistic effort during the month of March and we covet an interest in your prayers, as there is great need in this city.

Mrs. J. F. Beachley, Cor. Sec.

WEST ALEXANDRIA, OHIO

Just a word to say that things here in the West Alexandria congregation look very good for the future. Even though our Sunday School average is only ninety and the morning worship service seventy-two, we are happy to report that since beginning our Sunday evening service on January 23rd, our attendance has averaged forty-six; the highest being on Sunday evening, February 20th when the attendance was fifty-three.

We have a very fine Woman's Missionary Society in our church here—wide awake and ready for every opportunity that comes their way.

We also have a Laymen's Organization, not functioning as it ought, but we prayerfully hope to be able to give a more favorable report from their corner at a later writing.

We do not have any organized youth group as yet, but plans are under way to take care of our youth through an organization in the near future.

The Young Adult Class of the church sponsored a fish supper for all the youth of the church on Tuesday evening, February 22nd. There were sixty-one present for the occasion, including the Young Adult Class which sponsored it. We are indeed glad for these young people, and ask an interest in your prayers that the Lord may direct our action and thinking as we seek to encourage them in church work. We realize that a church without young people and youth "is dead while it liveth."

H. R. Garland, pastor.

Laid to Rest

POLK. Mrs. Eliza Annis Polk, daughter of Zedock and Mary Hendrix, was born March 24, 1863 and departed this life December 21, 1948, at the age of 86 years. She had been failing in health for three years of a heart ailment and complications.

On July 15, 1882 she was united in marriage to Willis V. Polk. They made their home in Carrol County, Indiana and resided there until the latter passed away in 1940

They were both life-long members of the Brethren Church, joining the Old Salem Church in 1896, and in 1910 transferring their membership to the New Burlington Brethren Church. They have been Deacon and Deaconess of both churches, having been members for sixty-three years, and from the time of their conversions have been subscribers of the Brethren Evangelist, the Official Organ of the Brethren Church, and have kept well informed concerning the activities of the entire Brotherhood.

Sister Polk was a charter member of the Woman's Missionary Society, and an active servant until her health failed, but she kept her dues paid and was interested in the work until the end.

Of the immediate family who remain to mourn their loss are three children: Orvel Polk of Lakeland, Florida; Mrs. Mable Stout of Burlington, at whose home she lived and passed away, and Edna Bock of Indianapolis, Indiana. Also four grandchildren, and three great grandchildren. She will be greatly missed by the church and a host of relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted on December 21 at the Burlington Brethren Church, by Rev. C. Y. Gilmer and the undersigned.

Travels

My January report was set aside to give such space to the story of the disaster at Lost Creek, Kentucky. May I just add in passing, that it has been most gratifying to note the very wonderful response by our people and a number of friends to the folks in Lost Creek who lost so heavily.

January—The Executive Committee of the Missionary Board met for urgent business at the Indiana Hotel in Ft. Wayne. Two arrived by train, three by autos, and one became air-minded, arriving via plane. This gentleman from Dayton calculated this way. He saved eight hours of time over the bus route; saved wear and responsibility for his own car, had he used it; also, it was 50c cheaper to travel by plane than to drive his car both ways at the usual allowance for mileage. (I believe he said something about a second breakfast or a brief lunch enroute.)

On the following Sunday morning, I preached in Ashland at the Mission Church on Sherman Avenue. Progress is being realized. Seminary students have charge of this project, with the Park Street Brethren Church responsible. The committee chosen by the church has shown a very exceptional interest, as well as a good response from the church.

A number of trips during the month were made between Sundays for the College.

Early in February, several days were spent in and about Johnstown for both the College and Missionary Board. The morning of February 6th, I spoke in the Vinco Church. Even without a pastor, this church showed fine interest and excellent training. It was a beautiful service, well attended. Here is an excellent field. The evening hours were spent at the Third Church in Johnstown. It was the closing service of Youth Week. After a carefully prepared and well presented C. E. program, the young people also served as the choir for the evening worship. The attendance was very good. The day closed with a social hour in the basement for the young people and their leaders.

Their new pastor, Reverend Richard Wolfe of Ashland, formerly of South Bend, arrives on the field March 1st.

A brief account of the Muncie dedication with the new cut appears in another column.

Monday evening, accompanied by the Zimmermans, was spent at Oakville in a joint W. M. S. and S. M. M. meeting where Reverend Bates is pastor.

After the Muncie dedication my planned trip took me to Wabash to see the Bames, to Peru to see the Carrithers, to Mexico to see the Grissos and to Twelve Mile to see the Mauses, who were away for a funeral, then Rochester to see my aged mother. The following day calls were made at Warsaw, Leesburg High School, Winona Lake, and Williamstown, Ohio enroute home.

In connection with all of our office duties, we are preparing publicity for the Easter offering, and helping with plans and crating of freight for Miss June Byler's sailing to South America on March 16, 1949.

Great opportunities for services in the Master's name—awaits us.

E. M. Riddle, Field Secretary.

Letter from Robert Byler—Argentina to Secretary says, "We have been extremely fortunate in the last two weeks to locate a house. It is a very nice one, in a good section where there is no Evangelical work. It is complete with garage, living room, dinette, study, bedroom, kitchen and bath downstairs and two small bedrooms and bath upstairs. It has a few fruit trees and lawn."

The new address is:

Reverend and Mrs. Robert Byler
Avda. Gral. Richieri 1716
Barrio Jardin
Cordoba, Argentina.

Note—Miss June Byler will live with them and hold the same address when she arrives in Argentina.

Important News!!!

It has just been discovered that we had two policies on the Wheeler Orphanage Home which recently burned at Lost Creek, Kentucky. The total is $4,000 instead of $2,000, as first announced.

The Genius Of The Brethren Church

By Dr. Claud Studebaker

Is there an essential principle for which the Brethren Church contends and teaches? Does this justify her separate organizational life among the various organizations known as denominations? Our answer would be in the affirmative. We have an essential principle, which was the motivating conviction of our founding fathers and which has been the urgent force which has compelled our leaders to reject more spectacular and remunerative opportunities, that they might be true to their own convictions. You will pardon my presumption in even hinting to be a leader, but I have had personal solicitations to consider the ministry in a large denomination, a pastorate comparable to one in the Brethren church, and would offer double the salary and multiply the field many times as far as churches go. Why should I not consider it? Could I not preach the gospel in that church? Yes, I could. Do I not consider them Christians? Yes, I do. Why, then, should I be content to labor under certain limitations when there are greater fields of service open? There is just one compelling reason; it is the genius of the Brethren Church.

The essential principle of our church is obedience to all the commands of our Lord. "To obey is better than sacrifice . . . Because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, he hath also rejected thee from being kind." (1 Sam. 15:22, 23) "If ye love me keep my commandments. He that hath my commandments and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him." (John 14:15, 21) "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. Therefore, whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock." (Matt. 7:21, 24) Scriptural quotations might be multiplied many times which would teach that vital truth; obedience to the word of God is the evidence of your faith. "Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone. Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: show me thy faith without thy works, and I will show thee my faith by my works. But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?" (James 2:17, 18, 20)

Why should the Brethren church require baptism by Triune Immersion of those desiring to become members in her fellowship, even though they have been members of another church and have been baptized by the other modes of baptism? Is it because we do not believe they are Christians? No, that is not our attitude. We are setting ourselves forth as an epitome of Christian faith, ordinances and life. We are keenly aware that many may observe every form and ritual of the church and still be far from obedience to all the commands of Christ. It is much easier to observe the forms of godliness than to manifest the life that is godly. However, when we come to the place in life and thought and conviction of the soul, by our knowledge of the gospel of Jesus Christ, that before God we are sinners, lost and condemned to death, unless we are saved by the grace and power of God, and that God has ordained, even before the foundation of the world, that all men must be saved by faith in Jesus Christ; the one and only Saviour of men, whom to know aright is life eternal. If we believe in him (faith), the evidence of that faith is whether or not we will do what he says. If we refuse to do what he says, to keep his commandments, it is evidence that we do not love him, or have not faith that he is the eternal God manifest in the flesh, whose words are spirit and life, shall never pass away, but judge us in the last day. Therefore, if Christ tells us, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved," how could any one confessing their faith in Christ reject his plain word to them, telling them how to obtain salvation.

Of course salvation is of the Lord, but he who gives pardon and salvation surely has the right and power to determine to whom he shall give his salvation. Forgiveness takes place in the mind of God and man's own assertion that God has forgiven him is no conclusive evidence that such action has taken place in the mind of God.

CHRIST TEACHES OBEDIENCE

Christ said in the greatest of sermons. "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven . . . " Many shall say to me in that day. Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name and in thy name have cast out devils and in thy name done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them. I never knew you; depart from me, ye that work iniquity. I would not presume to identify this large class of people which the Lord says are many. But they call Jesus Christ, Lord; they think their work in the name of Christ the Lord is quite wonderful, and to men would be a convincing personal testimony of the power of God in their lives and their work for Christ. However, Jesus plainly declares them to be workers of iniquity and pronounces his judgment upon them. This large group of people undoubtedly thought they were possessors of the Holy Ghost and were doing the work of God in the name of Jesus Christ. "Not everyone that saith, Lord, Lord,—but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." When Christ our Lord, by whom all things were created and who inherits all things, plainly says, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved"; then who shall have the power and authority or spiritual understanding to say, "Baptism is not essential to salvation," and by means of explanation would comment thus: if baptism were essential to salvation, then no one could be saved without it, and we would be working for our salvation; therefore, salvation would be by works and not by grace. Now, Christ thoroughly understands salvation by grace, and he is the Master of language and use of words. If he had purposed to teach us, "He that believeth and is saved shall be baptized," beyond a reasonable doubt, he would have thus spoke and caused it to be written as his eternal word. The evidence of faith is works, not superiority of knowledge, not shouting, but doing the word of God. When Christ says, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved," he means exactly that, and no amount of boasting your knowledge of salvation can be substituted for the humble act of obedience by baptism in water, "In the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

MEN MAY BE WRONG

People who boastingly say, "They know they are saved," may be victims of their own deception, for it is not convincing evidence that man is saved because he says so. The fruit of the Spirit is defined in rather quiet terms: love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance. It will be a sad and tragic end for a life that boasted of their great work in the name of the Lord and called him Lord, Lord, and professed quite loudly that they knew they were saved and doing the Lord's work, to have him say, "I never knew you, depart from me, ye that work iniquity." If we obey the word of God we may rest in implicit confidence that he will fulfill his promise. When he tells us to believe and be baptized in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost, and that his promise to us is our salvation, we may rest assured that our sins are forgiven and we become children of God, born anew in Christ Jesus. "As many as received him, to them gave he the power to become the sons of God,—Which were born, not of blood,———, but of God." (John 1:12, 13) "Verily, verily, I say unto you, except a man be born of the water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." (John 3:5) In this quotation, Christ is preaching the cross and redemption by the blood of the cross to Nicodemus, but is teaching the great significance of water baptism.

THE GOSPEL WRITERS SPEAK THE SAME TRUTH

The apostle Peter, taught the same truth on the day of Pentecost. The Holy Spirit spoke by the mouth of Peter and it has come to us as the infallible word of God, when he spoke to those men of the Christ whom they had slain and God had raised from the dead. In their conviction they said unto Peter and the rest of the apostles, "What must we do?" Then Peter said unto them, "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." Thus began the organizational life of the church of God, the pillar and ground of the truth. Philip and Paul experienced and taught the same great truth. In fact, the word of God from beginning to end teaches this basic truth—"But whoso looketh unto the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed." (Jas. 1:25)

There is no substitute for obedience to the plain word of God. Saul sought to sacrifice and praise for obedience. God rejected his offerings saying, "To obey is better than sacrifice." The Brethren Church has historically committed herself to literal obedience to all the commands of Christ, in church ordinances and daily life. This is the essential principle of the Brethren Church. We believe it the most fundamental of all fundamentalism. It will never be spectacular or popular, but a thoroughly safe foundation and plea for our church. The field is as great as we make it. The world greatly needs the simplicity of this glorious faith. Without this essential principle there is little need of the Brethren Church.

Stewardship In Vocation

What makes a job sacred? Every man who is doing something to add to the world's store of necessary goods, or truth or faith, is engaged in sacred work. By this test, of course, some kinds of work are ruled out. The man who produces alcoholic beverages is certainly not adding to human welfare but detracting from it. The man who runs a gambling house is certainly not doing anything that adds to the happiness or welfare of the world. But the man who runs an honest grocery or a farm or a law office is contributing something to the world's happiness and well being and has a right to regard his work as sacred.

Here is a man, for instance, who operates a factory that makes shoes. He pays a just wage. He makes good shoes. He takes an interest in the welfare of his employees. He treats them as men and not as "hands." He puts spiritual values first. He supports his church by his presence and his gifts. He looks upon his business not as a game but as a ministry. Surely such a man is doing a sacred task in the community! Surely his work is just as sacred as that of the preacher! For while he is not preaching the gospel with words, he is certainly preaching it with work. He is adding much to the world's store of goods and hope and love. God may not have called him in a dream to make shoes. But surely God is saying to him, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

If a man's work blesses the world and makes it a better home for his brothers, that man's work is sacred.

How Has The Brethren Church Contributed To The Needs Of A Devastated World.

By C. F. Yoder

Trees are known by their fruits, and by their fruits shall they be judged. There are trees that are evil and vines that are barren and the evil tree shall be rooted up, and the barren vine shall be burned.

Both trees and vines are used by Jesus to illustrate people and churches, and the messages to the seven typical churches of Rev. 2 and 3 reveal that they too can lose their light and life and disappear.

But by fruit we must understand whatever service a plant or a Christian or a church can render. The wood of a tree or the quinine of its bark or the shade of its leaves are legitimate credits or discredits or the ruin of the world, and by its contributions prepares for its own preservation or destruction.

The theme of this article is, therefore, very appropriate and very important. The Brethren Church is one of the many churches and the proportion of these that are on their way to lose their candlestick and disappear is as great or greater today than in the days of the seven typical apostolic churches.

It behooves us, therefore, to examine ourselves to see whether our faith is that faith "once for all delivered unto the saints"—the only faith capable of being a blessing to a war-torn world. Do we, in fact, continue as did the first disciples in the doctrine of the apostles? Acts 2:42.

THE FAITH THAT SAVES

Is it the faith that is proven by works? James 2:17.

Is it the faith that worketh by love? Gal. 5:6.

Is it the faith that purifies the heart? Acts 5:9.

Is it the faith that makes the sinner whole? Lk. 18:48.

Is it the faith which under persecution endures? Thes. 1:4.

Is it the faith that produces harmony and unity among the believers? 2 Thes. 1:4.

Is it the faith that overcomes the world? 1 John 5:4.

If it is then it is "the faith of Jesus." Rev. 14:12.

The apostolic church in Philadelphia was a small church, yet it had an open door and a permanent mission. Rev. 3:8, 11. Its faithfulness has been the inspiration of countless other churches.

The Brethren Church cannot say that all its members have shown this perfect faith, or that the church as a whole has already been perfected, but after a wide experience among many denominations, the writer is convinced that none other comes nearer to this Gospel ideal than the Brethren Church. Its example in striving to maintain the apostolic faith has been of infinite value, not only to a devastated world, but to a world driven to doubt and despair by the preaching of false teaching against which it has been expressly warned.

THE NAME "BRETHREN"

This foundation of true faith in the Brethren Church has had a constant witness and support in the name "Brethren." Mt. 23:8. It is the name which best expresses brotherly love and unity among believers. It is a constant witness against the deadly heresy that all men are children of God because He is the Creator of all. Are vipers and rats the children of God because He created them also? Were those wilfully unbelieving Jews the children of God although Jesus called them the children of the devil? With such people in heaven, how would it be any better than "this desolated world?" The Brethren Church stands for the truth that human beings may become children by being born of God through faith in Jesus Christ, the only Savior. The children of God constitute a new and higher kingdom, with new life and new laws and new power and new possibilities. The unbrotherly things sometimes seen among them are due to their not as yet having attained to the perfection which will be possible only when they receive their spiritual bodies. 1 John 2:3.

THE BRETHREN MOTTO

The unifying influence of the name "Brethren" is strengthened and multiplied by the motto adopted by the church: "In essentials, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; and in all things, charity." In this motto are involved two essential Gospel principles; loyalty and liberty. Loyalty comes first. The Brethren Church firmly places emphasis upon loyalty to all that the Gospel requires. We may question the doctrines of man, but not the Word of God. Nor can we have any real fellowship with those who do take the liberty of taking from or adding to or changing the Word of God. This contribution of unquestioning loyalty is a mighty bulwark of defense for all those who have this shield of faith.

But liberty of conscience in minor matters is also precious. Jesus would not allow the disciples to forbid others from casting out devils just because they did so independently of them. Mk. 9:38. Paul denounces the judging of others because of minor matters or customs. Rom. 14. The Brethren Church offers the opportunity to obey all the teachings of Jesus, but at the same time admits to the Lord's table sincere believers who are not fully instructed in the Word. This is really a notable contribution to the one Lord and one faith and one spiritual baptism. The church does not seem to see the importance of this position, for it does not offer it with passionate zeal to a confused world as a remedy for its confusion. Consequently, it remains a small church instead of a world-wide power.

A fourth and still greater contribution is that of Christian character. The Brethren type of Christian character shows the influence of its type of obedience. "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." (John 13:17. Loving obedience and humble devotion are characteristics of the Lord and are seen also in his true disciples. Many people, not Brethren, have noted these characteristics and the possession of them is an example which becomes a blessing to the world. But we have failed as a church in sowing the good seed (which are the children of the kingdom) in all parts of the world. Mt. 13:38.

LOVING SERVICE

This follows loving obedience. If our faith does not bear that kind of fruit we are not true Brethren. The Gospel distinguishes between the letter and the spirit of the law, but it does not separate faith and works. As God so loved the world that he gave his son, so we must so love the world as to give our loving service wherever possible to do so. It is natural fruit of abiding in Christ, and lack of the fruit is proof of lack of abiding. John 15:1-6.

SPECIAL SERVICE

Aside from the general expression of the spirit of Christ in loving service, the Brethren Church has contributed outstanding service in several important ways. One of these is the championship of the Gospel ideal of peace. Not peace to the wicked or the peace of compromise with the wicked, but the peace of victory over evil, the peace which comes from the consciousness of power, the peace which Jesus gives and which we preach to the world.

A second special form of service is the support of the long campaign against the use of intoxicants, whether beverages or drugs. We are taught that our bodies are temples of the Holy Spirit and he who defiles this temple, him will God destroy. 1 Cor. 3:17. More than that, "No man liveth unto himself and no man dieth unto himself. Therefore, it is good neither to eat meat (as a sacrifice to idols) or to drink wine or anything whereby thy brother is made to offend." Rom. 14:21.

This desolated world would soon turn again to be a garden of Eden if it would only follow this ideal taught by the Gospel and emphasized by the Brethren.

The third special contribution is the spirit of the Brethren Church in the direct help to the needy. It has been a special characteristic from the beginning among the members to help the needy, but more and more this help has been extended to the world. The relief centers, initiated by the Church of the Brethren, in which many denominations now cooperate, are exerting a world wide influence for peace and good will.

ISOLATED MEMBERS

In closing it is only right to mention a contribution of no small importance. It is the contribution of Brethren who, being isolated from their own church, are working with other bodies of Christians where they are usually active, and often leading members. Many examples might be given. Informed readers know that this service well deserves mention.

While deploring the fact that there is still a long way to go to the perfection of manhood in Christ, the Brethren Church can be happy on the way and it is for us to use this marvelous age of invention and opportunity to multiply our efforts to give the whole Gospel to the entire world.

Muncie Church Dedication

Eighteen years ago a new church building was started at Muncie, Indiana. Many obstacles, too many to refer to, interfered with completion. Fortunately the old church had been turned to the rear of the lot, so the congregation continued in it, with the basement unit of the new building. They were not to be defeated. The Reverend E. D. Burnworth wisely and tactfully, with the building committee, led this effort to complete the church.

Sunday, February 13th, the dedication services were conducted. At every service of the day the church was crowded, even with rainy weather. The afternoon dedicatory service was impressive and well planned. People were seated in every space possible where a chair could be added, then nearly a hundred could not gain entrance.

The dedicatory sermon was delivered by Dr.

Claud Studebaker of South Bend. The retiring pastor, E. D. Burnworth, read the service of dedication, with E. M. Riddle offering the dedicatory prayer. The Field Secretary was the morning speaker while Prof. D. B. Flora, Ashland Seminary, was the speaker for the evening service. It was a real red-letter day in the history of the Muncie Church.

Reverend and Mrs. Chester Zimmerman have been in charge of the church since January 1st. A report only yesterday says the Sunday School attendance is still going up, three choirs are now in training, and over $300 was raised last Sunday on cash day.

The Muncie congregation has made a real contribution to the Brethren Church.

The picture of the new church accompanies this short report.

Helps and Hints

You can tell how young people will turn out by the time they turn in.

Don't see how little religion you can do with; see how much you can get.

If you don't want the fruits of sin, stay out of the orchard.

Teach law and order at home; do not wait for children to learn it in a law court.

The best remedy for a sick church is to put it on a missionary diet.

Reach up as far as you can and God will reach down all the rest of the way.

A church exists for the double purpose of gathering in and sending out.

He who provides for this life, but takes no care for eternity, is wise for a moment but a fool forever.

The fullness of the HOLY GHOST is the heritage of every Christian.

Letter From The Superintendant In Argentina

Reverend E. M. Riddle
Our dear Gral. Secretary
Ashland, Ohio, U. S. A.

Dear Brother Riddle:

We thank you very much for your kind letter December 17, 1948 containing your wishes and feelings toward us in Argentina. I want to say that of all the many greetings at New Year time, I appreciate none of them as much as the one from you, dear Brother Riddle.

Your sincere expression of love has been of great stimulus to us. And indeed it gave us new enthusiasm to continue with the realization of our plans of work. We feel very anxious to do always something more in our work, as we believe that you are all fervently praying for us each day, which helps us greatly to develop our good plans.

Our Gral. Conference during October and the first days of November were very efficient and of great blessings to all, mostly as we had the Brother Bylers representing the Brethren Churches from U. S.. We feel sure that you were also accompanying us with your good wishes for our future plans. So after these blessed Conferences, strengthened by the power of the Holy Spirit, we have already had many new activities in our church here and we have also helped the other churches and workers.

Some of our youth, Seminarists, who help in our work in Rosario went to Gerli during the month of November and December to help with the building of our annex there. That is to say in a small town called Florencio Varela, which stands on the outskirts of Gerli, B. A. This Hall and parsonage has been nearly all built by our dear Brother Jose Varela who was helped by Brother Jose Anton and Fiorenza, a young student of the Seminary.

From Rosario we had the good luck of being able to send them a great amount of building materials, such as bricks, wood or timber for building, wire net for the fence, and so on, which were very useful to them and which are very expensive in Buenos Aires.

This building in Florencio Varela will be used for the time being by Mr. & Mrs. Jose Anton until we are able to build a new building in Gerli, which is most necessary, as we are not able to carry on public meetings without a proper hall. The ones which take place now are in small and private houses, which means that if we do not look for a better place we shall soon see the collapse of our work in Gerli. There are not houses for rent actually in Gerli.

The rest of our gral. work continues with great enthusiasm, developing even greater in the evangelization work during the summer season, when one can reach greater number of people by means of open air meetings and also with the tent.

Besides, our youth, among them Brother Fiorenza, went to Colon, B. A. with the tent to give a hand with the work of our Brother Pablo Espinosa and during the month of January and part of February they had a special campaign for about 20 days. They wrote to us telling us about their splendid success and that many new souls have been reached with the Message of Salvation, and many of them have accepted the Lord as their Savior.

I am also thinking to go myself for a few days and collaborate with them and to prepare the date when we may celebrate Baptism and the Lord's Supper.

Brother and Sister Pablo F. Espinosa are very satisfied with the Missionary work they are realizing in that place, and they understand that the splendid youth there is a wonderful hope for the future of their church.

Dear Brother Riddle, there is a splendid opportunity to buy a nice Hall and parsonage in Colon, which will cost about $2500 American dollars, it would be about 12,500 pesos, and it is necessary to do it now because later on it will cost much more. The building is in a very good place.

As always with much love and greetings in Jesus Christ.

I remain sincerely yours in His service,
Adolfo Zeche.

Letter From Louisa Kugler

Sarimente 396
Villa Constitucion (S. Fe)
Rep. Argentina, S. A.

To all my dear friends and Brethren in the States,

This is my first letter to you after my return to my work in Argentina and first I want to express to you my thankfulness for remembering me in your prayers. It has been often very windy during our voyage and the sea rough, many people were sick for a few days and some were afraid. I knew and could feel that many were praying for me and trusting in the Lord I could be confident and calm and test my faith in a living God. On the 21st day of December we arrived safe in Buenos Aires. Reverend A. Zeche and some friends came to the port to meet me. On the next day I arrived in Villa Constitucion where I could find many members and friends awaiting my arrival. It was a real joy for us to see each other again. I found everything in good condition and each one from our members cooperating in the Mission work. I was happy and thanked the Lord for His guidance and blessing.

On 24th of December we had our Christmas program. Miss Noemi Herrera prepared it, taking part all of our young people and our Sunday School children. We had a good attendance and the program was very good. Certainly the Lord blessed their efforts.

During my absence the members and friends from our congregation here were obliged to do more in the church work and I discovered that they are able to do more than we would have expected. I am sure in the future I will have more helpers in the Mission work.

All are anxious to hear about my visit in the States and I am happy to tell them about the precious experiences I had in our churches there, remembering with deep gratitude your personal sympathy and kind consideration, the lovely programs you prepared concerning my visit, your interest for my mission work in Argentina, your offerings

by Rev. E. M. Riddle

On the occasion of the dedication of this church building it is well that we assemble in this morning service in this delightful place and think together concerning the true Church.

THE ORIGIN OF THE CHURCH

The church had its origin in the mind of God, before the "foundation of the world," yet it did not truly exist until after Christ's Ascension. It was when Jesus was in Caesarea Philippi that He asked of his disciples "whom do men say that I, the Son of man am?" After different replies it was Peter who said, "Thou art the Christ, the son of the living God." It was upon this confession of Peter that Jesus said, "Upon this rock I will build my church." Jesus was here referring to the "called out body," "the ecclesia." In Paul's and Peter's writings the Christ is spoken of as a stone, even as the chief corner stone. At the time of Christ's death, resurrection and ascension the church was given its true FOUNDATION. Upon this foundation the first layer was 3000 living stones on the day of Pentecost and shortly after 5000 more and so on down through the centuries. The keys to the Kingdom of Heaven were given to Peter by which he opened the way to the Kingdom to the Jews at Pentecost, Acts 2:14-40; later to the Gentiles in the House of Cornelius at Caesarea Acts 10:34-48.

WHO BELONGS TO THE CHURCH?

The scriptural answer is the only reply: those who are SAVED between Pentecost and the coming of the Lord for His saints at the Rapture. The Old Testament saints could not literally belong to the church since it was not yet instituted, but they were kept in the power and love of God because of their FAITH. (This thought alone is sufficient for much study.)

ORGANIZATION IN GERMANY

For the benefit of all, I want to refer to the facts which gave rise to the founding of our faith in Germany years ago. Eight precious souls in the early day organized themselves as a little group to take a stand against sinful practices, persecutions, etc., and to uphold the commandments and the ordinances of Jesus Christ. These people were full of zeal, love and great courage. They decided upon baptism as they understood Biblical teaching. They went to the Eider River, perhaps near Alexander Mack's mill. There they baptized by Triune Immersion. This body constituted five men and three women. They possessed the missionary spirit and within seven years a large church was organized at Schwarzenau. Further attempts at organization of churches brought added persecution until a group set sail for this country to worship God as they believed. Time will not permit reference to the feeble beginnings, the distress, the hardships, and losses in the attempt to establish the Tunker faith in this country.

WHY CALL THE CHURCH "The Body of Christ?"

What is a body for? It is for the manifestation of a personality. Christ is now manifesting Himself to the world through His body—"The Church." The only way the world can see Christ today is in the life of Christian believers. In the Corinthians, Paul speaks of the church, under the figure of a Building or Temple, of which Christ is the chief corner stone, "In whom all the building fitly framed together groweth into a Holy Temple in the Lord; in whom ye also are built together for a habitation of God through the Spirit." Eph. 2:21, 22.

In the days of the Tabernacle, God's presence was revealed in the "Shekinah Glory," so now in this dispensation the CHURCH, since Pentecost is the visible HABITATION OF GOD, on earth is where He manifests Himself through the Holy Spirit.

THE CHURCH IS TO BE THE BRIDE OF CHRIST

At present the Church is a virgin espoused. In Christ's day an espousal was as sacred as a marriage. The first Adam had his Bride, so must the second or last Adam have his Bride. Genesis 2:18, 21-24. So with Jesus out of His wounded side, as a result of the Atonement, there came that from which the CHURCH was formed, and to which the Holy Spirit gave life on the day of Pentecost; so that as Adam said of Eve, "This is now bone of my bone and flesh of my flesh," so we can say of the CHURCH: "We are members of His body, of His flesh, and of His bones." Eph. 5:29-33.

The church is a called out body, an assembly or congregation of "called ones." Note that Israel is called a church in Acts 7:38—"The Church in the Wilderness." Some writers point out a striking contrast with the New Testament ecclesia. The divine program for this period of scriptural history plainly declares that God has visited the Gentiles to call A PEOPLE for His name. We believe that the purpose of this present church age is not a conversion of the entire world but the GATHERING OUT of the church. I have always presented the church as a Body made up of living members who reveal to me that the church is an organism, an institution, not merely an organization or society.

THE CHURCH HAS A MISSION

Since we believe it is more than an organization, we therefore present it not as a social club, not as a place of amusement, not as a house of merchandise, not as a reform bureau; it is, however, the institution of Christ in the world, commissioned to carry the Gospel to the whole world. Mark 16:15. The Gospel is the proclamation of salvation, thus we see a very solemn and high responsibility rests upon the body of believers for the promotion of the mission of the church.

THE DESTINY OF THE CHURCH

The church, according to Holy Writ, is to be caught out, and the event is to be two-fold: first, of the Dead in Christ; second, of the Living Saints. 1 Thes. 4:16, 17.

We have a type of this in the taking of Enoch and Elijah. The appearance of Moses and Elijah on the Mount of Transfiguration with Christ is a type of the Rapture of the Church. Mt. 17:2. When Jesus comes He will be the Resurrection to the "Dead in Christ" and "the Life" to the LIVING, who believe in Him.

We, therefore, today should dedicate ourselves anew to the task awaiting the church; knowing that the Christian forces are on trial before the world every minute. We should draw closer to our Lord since some in the world are already fighting for their faith.

made possible that I could get so many useful things for the work. Thanks for all this and thank you for the fine and generous hospitality in your homes and for taking me in your cars from one church to another. And at this time I want to express my thankfulness to Mrs. Milton Bowman, National Patroness of S. M. M. and Reverend E. M. Riddle for taking care about my visit in the churches. Thanks to Mrs. C. Y. Gilmer for her fellowship through Pennsylvania and Southeast district and thanks to Miss Ruth Clapper and her mother for all their help in New York.

I only regret that I had to reject invitations to some churches and in some others I could not become better acquainted with the people, all this because the time was too short.

Lovingly your sister in Christ,

His Sure Coming

Acts 1:11—"Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? The same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven."

It is now two thousand years since He died for us on Calvary, hanging between two thieves. But earth has not seen the last of Him. He is to return in power and great glory, having received the Kingdom. There is nothing that meets us more distinctly and largely in the New Testament than this. We cannot "spiritualize it." We may as well "spiritualize" His resurrection and ascension. The date of His coming is not revealed and cannot be found out by the most cunning process of arithmetic. The felicity and glory involved in it we cannot at present understand. But the event itself is assured as that He died and rose again from the dead.—Dr. James Culross, M. F. Christian Evangelical.

Growing In Prayer

WHAT DOES GOD THINK OF ME?

WHAT DOES GOD THINK OF MY WORK?

Does he find me genuine and sincere, free from all deception and a stranger to hypocrisy? Never mind how much I blunder. The question is—Am I earnest, sincere, right? Am I loyal to Him? Do I work from my heart? Am I selfish? Has money any influence in my decisions or plans? Is my work counting for God or the people? Does my LIFE tell for Jesus? Am I able to lead others into a life of power and victory? Have I spoken to anyone about his soul in private effort during the past year, six months, week? Have I a message or is my experience too shallow to mean anything to other people? Do my unsaved friends know that I am a real Christian?

WHAT DOES GOD THINK OF MY SOCIAL RELATIONSHIP?

Have I obeyed His summons, "Come out from among them and be ye separate," and, "Be not unequally yoked together with unbelievers." Are the things I am doing pleasing to Him? Is there pleasure that is driving Him from my heart and shutting out His power and presence? Is my conscience at rest, or does it trouble me when I do certain things or go to certain places? Am I willing to give up all for THE LORD JESUS CHRIST? Do I waste time that belongs to Him? Do I make excuses for my actions?

WHAT DOES GOD THINK OF MY DEVOTIONAL LIFE?

Do I spend enough time with Him in private? Do I get alone with God? Do I love to meet Him in the inner chamber? Is communion with Him sweet to me? Is Jesus real? Am I a student of His Word? Is my study in private or all in public? Is my life saturated with prayer? Do I pray and get answers? Is prayer a real, vital thing to me?

WHAT DOES GOD THINK OF MY CHRISTIAN PROGRESS?

Am I making progress in Spiritual things? Does my Spiritual gain match or exceed my material gain? Am I better this year than last? Can my friends see any difference in me? Are the old weaknesses and secret sins disappearing? Is the fruit of the Spirit becoming increasingly mine? Is there still some cherished idol shutting out His peace and power? Have I learned full surrender? Do I love other Christians even when we are not agreed? Do I love lost souls? Do I desire the mind of Christ and the fellowship of His sufferings?

Read these questions and then pray over them one at a time and ask the Holy Spirit to reveal where you are short and how to overcome. Do this daily until you have the assurance that you have obeyed in every particular. Then at least once a week go back over them. You will be surprised at the results in your life.

WE MUST HAVE A REVIVAL. IT MUST BEGIN IN US, THEN WE CAN REACH OTHERS.

A MEDITATION

This interesting meditation will call to the attention of our readers some characteristics about our "blessed Lord Jesus" which we seldom think of. These twelve statements reveal Him to be so different than mortal man, even though He was born of a virgin, lived and died among men, yet He was different. He was the perfect One. We revere Him for what He was and what He is, also for what He did and as well for what He did not do.

1. Jesus NEVER sought advice.
Because He was "the power of God and the wisdom of God." I Cor. 1:24.
Others do, and always have.
2. Jesus NEVER changed His Mind.
Perfect in body, mind and spirit, the God-man. John 1:1-4.
"For I am the Lord, I change not" . . . Mal. 3:6 A.
"Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever." Heb. 13:8.
3. Jesus NEVER got in a hurry.
Not in leaving the tomb.
Not in choosing the twelve.
4. Jesus NEVER showed any personal fear.
Not in the temple, in the wilderness, while on trial, nor at the crucifixion.
5. Jesus NEVER made a mistake.
We read that Ingersoll wrote on the mistakes of Moses but not on the mistakes of Jesus.
6. Jesus NEVER showed surprise.

The disciples were often amazed. Jesus was not surprised even when betrayed. See John 6:70, 71.
Neither was He surprised when Peter denied Him. John 2:24, 25.

7. Jesus was NEVER defeated in a controversy.
The Pharisees, the Scribes and hypocrites all tried it. Some of the world's finest wisdom and logic is found in Jesus' writings. See Matt. 22.
8. Jesus NEVER performed a selfish miracle.
Not even when He was hungry at the time of the temptation.
9. Jesus NEVER distrusted the Father.
"And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice. He said, 'Father into thy hands I now commend my spirit', and having said thus, He gave up the ghost." Luke 23:46.
10. Jesus NEVER denied a good request.
God holds nothing from his own, which we would not know for our own good.
11. Jesus NEVER confessed a sin. He had none.
"Which of you convinceth me of sin?" John 8:46 a.
"For such an high priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners and made higher than the heavens." Heb. 7:26.
12. Jesus NEVER apologized for anything He ever did, for anything He ever said, or for anything He did not do.

In 1946 she took both the Western Amateur and Open, and again in 1947. She won the Women's National at Franklin Hills in 1947, and in 1948 took the North-South at Pinehurst. She was a member of the Custis Cup team which went to Britain and won the British Women's Championship at St. Anne's.—S. S. Times.

One hundred years ago on January 23 Elizabeth Blackwell was awarded the degree of doctor of medicine, the first in the United States. Today there are 7,500 women doctors in this country. At a celebration of the awarding of the first degree to a woman, citations were presented to twelve of the world's outstanding women doctors from the United States, England, Canada and France.

A consultant service to assist industry with the problems of alcoholism has been set up under the Yale Plan clinic. The clinic aims to aid an industry in determining the extent of alcoholism among its employees, especially in the early stage. The work will be confined to the Eastern states for the first year.

Japanese co-ops, which were government controlled and compulsory, have been reformed by the occupation authorities. Now that membership is voluntary more than seven million farmers have joined twenty-eight thousand co-ops and ten thousand mutual relief associations in the first year of the new plan.

Only .85 per cent of the national income goes to religious and social welfare. On the other hand, 10.5 per cent goes for income taxes, 4.9 per cent is spent for alcoholic beverages, 3.4 per cent is used to bet on horse races, and 1.9 per cent is spent for tobacco and cigarettes.

Eight hundred mothers of all faiths in the United States, Japan, Brazil, India, Lebanon, Germany, England, Iraq and the Philippines have banded themselves together to promote peace among all peoples and all races. Founded by Mrs. Victoria Booth Demarest, granddaughter of William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army, the organization has been named Mother for Peace. The program urges mothers to develop the spiritual life of their children through family worship and instruction and study the causes and effects of war, the teachings of the Bible and ways of achieving peace.

For a good many years now, Arthur Martin Hiller, now residing in Wheaton, Illinois, was known as 22604. Although only twenty-nine years of age, Hiller has spent 17 years of those years behind bars. Three times he was imprisoned at the famed Stateville Penitentiary near Joliet, Illinois. During his last term, however, Hiller was led to Christ by Rev. Peter Tanis, prison gate missionary. Genuinely born again, Hiller began studying the Bible and witnessing to inmates. Before his release last November, he had won some 20 inmates to Christ, and has completed several correspondence courses. In fact, he petitioned Statesville's Warden Ragen for a six month extension to his term. It wasn't that he liked prison life, but he felt he needed six months in which to further ground himself in the Word of God. Regan denied the plea, but the newspapers picked it up and gave it nation-wide publicity. Magazines also publicized the unusual prisoner, and within a week of his release, Hiller, together with Tanis appeared on "We the People" broadcast. Currently Hiller is doing personal work at Pacific Garden Mission. He expects to pursue further Bible studies, preparing himself for full-time Christian service.

"OPERATION YOUTH"

Scripture: 1 Timothy 4:12-16

For The Leader

WELL, WHAT have you done since last week? You may recall that we gave you a real warning of the danger we face in our churches if we did not get out and win others to our number. If you responded in the right way to the appeal, you have spoken to at least one person, or possibly a dozen or more. At any rate, you should have something to show for the week. And what if you did nothing? If such be the case, is it not logical to assume that given fifty-two weeks, you will not do any more than you did the week past? If that's going to be your attitude, then don't growl because crowds are poor, interest is falling off, etc. You are to blame. So much for you people who did nothing, and possibly will never do anything to help bring others into your church. There are many things we could call you but we will be nice and label you a parasite. Now, to go on into this greatest of all endeavors, that of winning others to Christ and the Church. Give ear, eager young people.

DISCUSSION

1. HOW TO GET OTHERS TO RESPOND. People go to something in which they are interested. Thus the first thing we must do is to arouse their interest in our Church. When they come, what do they see? A poorly lighted, dirty, unkept church, with dirty windows, torn hymn books and dusty pews? It does take money and energy to keep a church looking nice, but, young people, that is something we dare not overlook. It is no crime to be poor, but it is unpardonable to be dirty. So, check up on your church. Start some projects to get new equipment and to tidy up the old. Keep your church clean from top to bottom. Endeavorers can lend a helping hand in this way. Also, in order to interest others we must show ourselves interested in our church. If they come with us, see us refuse to sing or greet people, and complain about everything, they won't gain much confidence in our church.

2. EAGER WORSHIPPERS. We assume that by the time you are ready to put this point into action you have visited in the home of the prospect (and perhaps the pastor has gotten around in his busy schedule to seeing them, too.) But now you are ready to bring them to church with you. (Remember, this is perhaps the first time they've been in your church.) The doors, pews, people, choir and orders of service are familiar to you, but to them it is all new. Keep them under your wing. See that they meet your Sunday School Superintendent, teacher, pastor, and others. Your visitors will forget names, and will become bewildered, but the impression they'll get will set well with them. Then see to it that they have a hymn book, and you join in the singing. Show an enthusiasm of worship the whole way through. After it is over, your visitors may not say much, but the impression of friendliness and sincere worship will ever remain with them.

3. A POINT TO BEAR IN MIND. Young people, if you are going to win others to Christ and the Church you must memorize and put into practice 1 Timothy 4:12. Here is a picture of a life that rings true to God, profession, and mankind. No person can long serve the Lord who is not a true, pure, clean example of Christian virtue. If we are intending to serve Christ, we must be an example of the things we want others to believe. Often a lost Christian testimony results from sins which we have tried to hide. This is the day when young people need others of moral, and spiritual strength to help them up the road of life. We, who are Christians, can help them, but we must be strong ourselves. We must overcome the temptations which confront us. Trust in Christ and this is possible.

4. DON'T DO IT. So many times today we note Christians who do come to church on Sundays, and who do devote a measure of time to their church. But then their alliances with clubs, groups, etc., indicates a "split personality." In other words, their religious profession doesn't bother them when it comes to other activities. Listen, young people, if you belong to groups, or run around with other young people where it would be embarrassing to speak of your Christ, or if in these groups you would be embarrassed to be known as a Christian, you're in the wrong association. Listen, dear Christian young person, if you are going to be what people who are praying for you want you to be, remember the words of Paul to young Timothy when he said, "Keep Thyself pure." Only three little words, but a mighty message. You might spend your whole life doing things in His church and apparently be successful in them, but unless you keep yourself pure in your heart and body, you'll never see heaven when you die. The scriptures are full of admonitions of purity, separation, abstaining from fleshly lusts, because those writers knew the dangers and the pitfalls, so heed them.

5. TAKE HEED UNTO THYSELF. Thousands of people can be won to Christ in a short time, by any person or group of persons, not so much through sermons, but by what we do and say day by day. Thus if our operations for Christ are to be crowned with victory we must keep our daily lives in good health. We must eat the proper spiritual diet. There are so many, many young people who are adrift on the sea of life today without chart or anchor. You have the chart and the anchor in Christ and in your saving faith. Be strength unto them, and you will surely win them to Christ. Young people, that's why God has you here today, to win others to His saving grace. Are you going to be active, or not. Let's hope and pray that you will be diligent in the things God wants you to be.

QUESTIONS

1. Discuss problems you have run into in your efforts to invite non-church-goers to come to your services. List them, discuss the reasonableness of the problem, whether or not the person was justified. Then suggest ways of overcoming the opposition.

2. Suggest ways whereby we can make the church more attractive to outsiders.

"BRING YE THE TITHES"

God from His Heaven is calling today,
Bring ye the tithes into the storehouse!
Hasten, believer, to lighten life's way;
Bring ye the tithes into the storehouse!
Nations are groping 'mid darkness and night;
Peoples are dying for lack of the light;
Heed ye, oh, heed ye, whose lives are made bright,
Bring ye the tithes into the storehouse!

Spread ye the gospel, give light to the world;
Bring ye the tithes into the storehouse!
Banners of truth, let them wide be unfurled;
Bring ye the tithes into the storehouse!
Christ and His kingdom can only be known,
Blessings of righteousness only be shown,
When men are loyal, heed God on the throne,
Bring ye the tithes into the storehouse!

—Bishop C. J. Kephart, D.D.

"BRING YE THE TITHES"

Scripture: Mal. 3:8-10.

Hymn: "Take My Life and Let It Be" (Do not omit the third stanza!)

Prayers

Seed Thought Provokers:

WE KNOW that the sinner robs God because we own no life we can call our own. But God says that His own people sometimes rob Him! As thieves and crooks they are under the curse of God: "Ye are cursed with a curse." It has a bearing on business and the welfare of a whole nation. God has put a curse upon His people who are dishonest with Him. By faith let them forsake their dishonesty and claim God's blessing.

"All the tithe . . . is the Lord's (Lev. 27:30). The tithe existed before the Law, and still exists. Before the Mosaic Law Abraham gave tithes to Melchizedek (Gen. 14:18-20), and Hebrews 5:20; 7:1-4 informs us that Melchizedek was a type of Christ. Rom. 4:3 tells us that Abraham was justified by faith, and he brought tithes to the type of Christ. Why should not we bring tithes to Christ Himself?"

God blesses us according to the way we give and the way we withhold (Luke 6:38; 2 Cor. 9:6). The promise in these New Testament verses is as definite as Malachi 3:10. God would not expect more of a Jew under the Law than He would of a Christian who under grace professes to live ABOVE the Law! Nor would we expect the people under the Law to treat God better than those under Grace. God is still the Owner, and we have nothing but what we have received. The token of which he is deserving is used for the furtherance of the gospel and hence for our own good. Christian systematic giving is explained in I Cor. 16:2.

JESUS AMONG OTHER RACES

Lesson: Mark 7:24-37

THE WORD OF GOD is quite definite on our theme today. In Acts 10:34-35, Peter speaks the key words: "Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted of him." The Jewish leaders of Jesus' day, who felt that Jehovah was their God alone, were highly incensed at Jesus' attitude toward the Gentiles. But let us see just what the Bible has to say.

Space forbids more than a mere reference to a few texts. Let's try to make it logical. We give you only "cheerful" phrases; you look them up to complete them.

Paul, writing to the Galatians (Gal. 3:8), tells them that God told Abraham, their acknowledged forefather, that "in thee shall all nations be blessed,"—not just the Jews.

Luke in Acts 17:24-26 (from Paul's sermon on Mars Hill) "God hath made the world . . . and hath made of one blood all nations of men . . ."—thus showing that as far as humanity in general is concerned, each has an equal opportunity to accept Him, as they are given occasion.

When Jesus was ready to ascend, He did not leave a commission that could be applied to just a few; He said, "Go ye and teach all nations . . ."—(Matt. 28:19), and when He cleansed the Temple, His reference to God's House was, "My House shall be called an House of Prayer for all nations." (Mark 11:17 A.S.V.).

Then, when men are called into judgment before God, it is all nations, not just a few. (Matt. 25:32; Rev. 7:9). And in the final analysis it is all nations, that shall "come and worship before him." (Rev. 15:4).

Therefore, to fail to realize that the whole wide world needs to receive an equal opportunity to know about the salvation Christ can give, surely would violate every command He gave to spread His Gospel—for He said, "to the uttermost part of the earth."

We cannot let any man command our consciences, because God alone must command them. In the spiritual life no man can serve two masters.—Frank C. Laubach.

Entire renunciation of the world and self prepares us for the entire and perfect salvation of God.

Sensual pleasures form a fatal feast for fools. W R O N G spells RUIN.

A consecrated missionary church is not a cistern but a bubbling fountain.

God permitted your peculiar trials to rid you of your peculiar weaknesses.

INTERESTING ITEMS

Peru, Indiana. We quote from a card from Brother Elmer Carrithers: "Rev. Charles Munson was with us last Sunday (Feb. 27) for both services. He also spoke at C. E. He spoke concerning Youth Work, and we want to say that Brother Munson is doing a fine job of inspiring youth. On Monday evening we went over to College Corner to the Indiana Southern District Youth Rally, and Brother Munson spoke to the youth there."

We also received this announcement concerning Brother Carrithers: "Rev. Elmer Carrithers has resigned as pastor of the First Brethren Church of Peru, Indiana, and will return to Ashland Theological Seminary, Ashland, Ohio, to continue his studies there this fall. He is a graduate of Ashland Theological Seminary, and plans to work on his Master's degree."

Bryan, Ohio. Brother E. J. Black reports that the Bryan weekly broadcast over the Defiance Radio WONW (1280 kc) has been heard as far east as Cleveland, as far west as Chicago and as far south as Dayton. The station says that our program is 'tops' as far as they are concerned. The program may be heard at 8:30 EST. each Sunday.

Five car loads of people from the Bryan Church attended the revival which Brother Black was conducting at Warsaw, Indiana, where a number of them gave help in the services. These people believe in revivals.

Approximately 98% of the Bryan congregation heard the morning broadcast in their homes as shown by actual count on Sunday, February 13th.

Meyersdale, Penna. Brother W. S. Benshoff, pastor of the Meyersdale church, says that "according to records Sunday, March 13th, was the Thirty-ninth anniversary of the dedication of the Meyersdale Church. Services were held with this fact in mind."

Stockton, California. Brother Johnson reports that a gift of a beautiful table was made to the Johnsons at their "house warming surprise" which was given them recently.

We note that Brother Johnson began a meeting of several weeks duration on Sunday, March 6th. This meeting has been planned for some time, only waiting for the completion of the redecorating of the auditorium of the church. This he reports as having been finished, but that no rededication services will be held at present, but that appreciation can be shown by the congregation by faithful attendance at the revival meetings. Brother Johnson reports two additional reconsecrations as of February 27th, and one confession on March 6th.

Berlin, Penna. We quote from Brother Percy Miller's bulletin of March 6th: "New Records Made; Old Records Broken. Last Sunday we experienced the largest audience for an evening service since your pastor came—102 were in attendance. The average attendance for January was 61; for February 90. The morning attendance was: January—143; February—153."

During the time Brother Miller is to be in Masontown holding a revival—March 21 through April 3—the following auxiliaries of the church are to have charge of the services in Berlin: March 27—morning: W. M. S.; evening: C. E.; April 3—morning: Laymen; evening: Brotherhood. Pre-Easter services will be conducted April 10th through April 17th.

South Bend, Indiana. We note that a week of services were conducted in our South Bend Church with Dr. Grover Swoyer, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran Church of Pittsburgh, Penna., as the Guest Speaker. Dr. Swoyer is well known to many of our pastors as a repeat speaker at the Pastor's Retreat which has been held in Ashland for the past several years. He formerly was pastor of one of the Mansfield Churches. The meeting was held February 21 to 27.

Brother Studebaker reports a recent Church Family Night with a pot-luck dinner at 6:30, followed by a get acquainted hour, a time of fellowship and an interesting program. He also reports that Brother and Sister Charles Webb, who for some time were workers at Dunkerque, France, were guest speakers in the South Bend Church.

Huntington, Indiana. Brother C. Y. Gilmer reports a recent unusual service on a Sunday evening at which time Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lehman and H. D. Hunter furnished special music; Rev. Roy Gilmer, brother of Brother C. Y. Gilmer, furnished and operated the film projector, while talks were given on our Kentucky missions by Mr. and Mrs. Vern Stoffer who served in Lost Creek some years ago, and by Mr. Hunter.

The Junior S. M. M. is to sponsor an Easter Sunrise service and the Laymen's organization will serve the Easter Breakfast.

Milledgeville, Illinois. The Milledgeville Brethren Choir has been asked to lend their services to supplement the choir of the Church of the Brethren during the evangelistic services which will be held at the Dutchtown Church of the Brethren.

TROUBLES—REAL OR IMAGINARY

IN THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON of March 13th I were found the words of Jesus, words which should reach the heart and mind of each Christian with increased force every time they are read or heard, "Be not afraid, only believe." They were spoken to a worried father, who, weighed down by the heavy burden of a daughter sick unto death, came to the Master for the help he felt he could reasonably expect to receive. And he was not disappointed. He had "real trouble."

One cannot expect to go through life without encountering at one time or another, trials and troubles that are sure to come. Concerning this thought F. W. Robertson once said, "I have had many troubles in my life, most of which were imaginary." Each one of us, no doubt, could make a similar statement, and testify that more of our worry was over troubles that were imaginary, than over those that were real. But do we add, as did Robertson, "And the Lord delivered me out of them all?"

As I read Robertson's words in connection with this thought

It set me to thinking!

In this world far too many of us are like Old Aunt Dinah, who, when she was lamenting over the trials and tribulations of life, was asked why she so loudly proclaimed her troubles before all people and why she did not try to overcome the desire to make so much noise about it. She replied rather indignantly, "When de good Lor' done sen' me tribulations, He done spect's me to tribulate." But when the root of her so-called tribulation was finally reached, it was found that it was all imaginary and did not even merit any part of her effort to "tribulate."

How easy it is to "imagine" things—usually those things that never happened nor never will happen. How easy it is to begin to "worry" over little things until they have become big, overpowering obstacles to living calm and peaceful lives. How easy it is to imagine that people are talking about you, just because the conversation in which they are engaged, ceased suddenly when you appeared, only later for you to find out that they were talking over some private personal matters that had nothing at all to do with you, but which, in the meantime (before you found out the truth), you took as a trial and trouble all your own. How absolutely foolish!

The dictionary defines "imaginary" as "that which exists only in the imagination; not real; fancied," and "imagination" means the making of a picture in your own mind as you yourself see it. How many of your troubles are merely pictures your own mind has painted for you without having the real scene before you from which to paint?

But the thing that interested me most was that we are reminded that "the Lord is able to deliver us out of ALL our troubles, regardless of whether they are real or imaginary."

Far too often we go out hunting trouble, but there is an old saying that we should remember and follow. "Never trouble trouble, till trouble troubles you." And then, when real troubles do come, we only need remember that Our Lord is ready to deliver us from them. Imaginary troubles flee swiftly before Him; and real ones succumb to His mighty power.

Think it over!

About the Sunday School Golden Texts

Quite some complaint has come to the Editor concerning the printing of the Golden Text from the Revised Version in the Fourth Quarter "Adult" and "Youth" Brethren Quarterlies. This is not repeated in the forthcoming quarterlies which are now about off the press, and from now on the Golden Text, as well as the scripture text of each lesson (which lesson text has always appeared from the Authorized Version) will be found printed as it comes in the King James (A. V.), the version most familiar to us all.

In explanation of the Revised Version translation of the Golden Text which appeared in the October, November, December Quarterlies, we can only say that the preparation of the materials came about the time of Brother Baer's passing, and in making the copy to be sent to our Intertype operator we did not stop to check the version which the International Lesson Committee had used, but copied the text from their lesson booklet. This guide, by the way, we must use to get the Uniform Lesson Texts, paying the International Council of Religious Education for the privilege, since they own the copyright on lesson subject, choice of lesson text, Golden Text, Devotional Reading, and the Daily Bible Readings. This fact is not in all probability, generally known by our readers. But we assure you that the Golden Texts will appear henceforth from the King James Authorized Version.

A Correction

In the issue of the Evangelist of February 19th, on page 11, in the Publication Day Offering report, the Oakville, Indiana, Church was credited with $50.00. This should have read:

The Oakville, Indiana, Offering is to be found in the issue of March 5th. Our error was called to our attention by Brother Henry Bates, pastor of the Oakville Church. If there should appear other errors in the report of offerings, we would be glad to have them called to our attention.

The Spirit of Successful Evangelism

THE ONLY SPIRIT of Evangelism which can bring the lost to Christ is found in His words, "The Son of man came to seek and to save that which was lost" (Luke 19:10, R.S.V.). His divine mission was to lead men to the eternal truths He personified. Only as we see His ministry in this light do we see its true meaning.

First of all, let us look at the methods Christ used to win men unto Himself. We will find that Jesus, in various ways, always turned men's conversation into spiritual channels. His method was so sincere, tactful and whole-hearted that a definite response was continually forthcoming from His hearers. If we are to generate the true spirit of evangelism we, like Jesus, must seek and save the lost.

On many occasions Jesus sought them one at a time. He avoided the crowds so that he might do intensive work with the individual. He thereby gave His best to Nicodemus and to Zaccheus, to the Samaritan woman and to Mary Macdalene. That was His consistent policy. Can the minister convey to his people Christ's practices of personally "winning men to Himself."

The spirit of evangelism can best be manifested when preacher and people realize that "the field is the world." The entire church must feel that its responsibility reaches beyond its own community to the ends of the earth. We may never forget that "we are our brothers' keepers."

Again we find Jesus' passion for souls demonstrated when He called Andrew and John on that memorable evening. The qualities of a soul winner are clearly seen in this episode. Jesus was tactful and yet profound; He was casual and yet sincere. From that time on their lives were changed and we can truly say they were "born again." Andrew then brought Peter, his brother, to Jesus; John brought his brother James; and Peter later led Philip to Him; Philip in turn guided Nathaniel. Since that time the gospel has spread through personal efforts. Who can know what harvest will come from the seed—if it is faithfully sown? It is the personal touch that transmits the power of the evangel.

We must be sure of our direction in life before we can point out the way to others. Our efforts must be whole-hearted before we can reach other hearts. Dr. W. E. Hocking says, "We know religion when we meet it in persons. The minister does well in his church who shares with his people a sincere love of Christ and shows a Christian love toward His people." These qualities of the good life are necessary to engender in people an evangelistic fervor.

My personal observation has taught me that where there is unity found in the church, there the spirit of Christ dwells. In unity there is strength. Disunity in a church is quickly felt by an evangelist. To paraphrase the words of Lincoln: A church divided against itself cannot stand.

We cannot finish this discussion of successful evangelism without mentioning its cornerstone—prayer. Prayer is being overlooked in our program of evangelism in many places. Prayer is the voice of faith. One who carefully studies the subject of prayer will soon discover its primacy in the Christian's life. Prayer, then, is the fundamental element in vital evangelism and genders the spirit which will prepare the hearts of people for a revival meeting. Was not this the basis of Pentecost?

When Robert Morrison was on his way to China to become the first missionary to that country, the captain of the vessel chided him. "Do you think you can convert the millions in China?" "No," replied Morrison, "but I believe God will." The redemptive power of Christ can only be transmitted through souls that are dedicated to him.

They Have The Habit of Carrying Their Bibles at Stockton

Brother Charles Johnson, pastor of our church at Stockton, California, has a congregation that has learned to take their Bibles to church with them. This is attested by the picture here shown of the attendants at Sunday School who are to be seen holding up their Bibles as the picture was taken. This picture was taken on Sunday, February 13th, and there was an attendance of 85, with over 50 Bibles present. Brother Johnson says there had been no notification that he was going to take such a picture and that the service was not a "special one."

The following poem was sent in by Brother Johnson. It was written by a young man from Manteca, California, who is attending the Stockton Brethren Christian Endeavor meetings. It is entitled:

MY SAVIOR

Let me tell you of my Savior:
He means so much to me;
He will take away your burdens
For He died on Calvary.

Let me tell you of my Savior:
I know you'll love Him too;
For He comforts me in sorrow
And He'll do the same for you.

Let me tell you of my Savior:
When you know that you've done wrong—
Let me tell you of my Savior
And sing His blessed song.

And when I get to glory
How happy I will be—
For I have loved my Savior,
And I know that He loves me.

Be Worth Knowing

THE FOLLOWING incident, and what it led to, is related by a Southern man of national reputation. He said:

"It was years ago at a depot in a Southern city that a young man of about twenty-two years of age was strolling up and down the platform awaiting the arrival of a train. Self-assurance and aggressiveness showed themselves in his every movement. In a word, he was thoroughly satisfied with himself in particular, and with the world in general.

"Presently an elderly gentleman, a gentleman of the old school, passed near where the young man was walking. The latter at once recognized the distinguished looking ex-Senator, and briskly stepped forward to greet him. As he approached the older man, the young man thrust forward his hand in a confident sort of way, and said in an easy, unrestrained voice:

"Why, Senator, how are you?"

"The man addressed lifted his eyes and fastened them in a searching gaze upon the speaker's face. He mentally noted the familiar tone, the patronizing air, the half-burned cigarette in the side of his mouth, the hat perched jauntily upon the back of the head. But he did not respond to the greeting. Still smiling familiarly, the young man said:

"O, I see, you do not know me."

"Quick as a flash, in a soft even voice, the elderly man replied:

"Why should I know you, sir?"

"Completely taken aback, his self-assurance deserting him, the young man drew away in embarrassment and said, 'O.'

"At first the enigmatical question, 'Why should I know you?' reached only the pride of the young man, and aroused his indignation. He felt that he had been mortified and humiliated unnecessarily. But that night, and for many days thereafter, that question, spoken as it was, in perfect politeness, recurred to the young man, and caused him to think. Over and over he asked himself such questions as these:

"Why should any man of affairs know me?" "What have I ever done to focus the attention of a busy man on me?" "Just why should I have expected Senator Blank to know me?"

"Instead of embittering him, the question of the elderly man so affected the young man that one day he made the following solemn compact with himself:

"I will make myself worth knowing!"

"And he has."

"Faith that is the 'proving of things not seen,' demands direct communication with God."

STOP TIPPING AND START TITHING

There are two ways of giving to God: one is by tipping and the other is by tithing. A tip means to bestow a small favor as a meager expression of an infinitesimal appreciation. It carries with it the idea of a condescending remembrance to a servant who has done something nice for us. Too many people are tippers when it comes to the work of the Lord.

Tithing, however, means the TENTH of anything. It is a custom as old as the devotion of the human heart, as laudable as the highest graces. If all our church members would tithe (and bring in their tithe to their church), we could double our missionary work in all its phases and do wonders for God. Besides, all would be better materially, mentally and spiritually. Let God bless.

"MY SILVER HAired PAL"

Dot Custer

We would always smile, he and I—
As over the fence we'd yell, "Hi."
If my pal would not be in sight,
The day would never seem just right,

What people were thinkin' we didn't care,
As we'd keep on a yellin' for fare.
We had lots in common, he and I,
As over the fence we'd yell, "Hi!"

We didn't finish what we had to say,
For my silver haired pal has passed away.
Though I easily could, I know I shan't cry,
For over the fence he'd yell, "Don't sigh."

Perhaps in Heaven a fence there'll be,
Then when my pal again I see—
There we shall smile, he and I,
As over the fence we yell, "Hi!"

WITH THE LAYMEN

SOUTHERN INDIANA DISTRICT LAYMEN MEET

THE SOUTHERN INDIANA District Laymen met at the Loree Brethren Church on Monday evening, February 21st, for their regular quarterly meeting. The ladies of the church served a very delicious meal in keeping with Washington's Birthday.

Wayne Betzner, Jr., acted as program chairman. Paul LeMaster led us in song and presented the church Choir which was accompanied by Mrs. Edward Lippold. Our first number in song was, "We Have An Anchor." We were then led in prayer by Andrew York and Lyman Resler. This was followed by the singing of "The Old Rugged Cross." Elden York read the scripture from the seventh chapter of Matthew.

We were favored with two numbers by the Loree Choir: "He is Mine," and "He is My Song." These numbers were very much appreciated.

The program chairman then turned the meeting over to Kenneth Stout, our new District Chairman, who had charge of the business session. Following the reading of the Secretary's and Treasurer's reports, which were accepted, the roll call of churches resulted in a count of 116 being present. We decided to hold our next meeting in joint session with the Northern District at the Warsaw, Indiana, Brethren Church on the evening of June 6th. After some discussion we decided to give our evening offering to go through the Missionary Board of the Brethren Church for whatever purpose most needed on our Kentucky Mission Field. This offering amounted to $111.34.

Rev. Robert Higgins gave us a welcome and introduced Rev. Henry Bates, pastor of the Oakville Brethren Church, as speaker of the evening. Brother Bates said that when they were in the Seminary they were given three rules to go by, "Stand up to be seen; speak up to be heard, and sit down to be appreciated." He entitled his message, "I'm Only a Layman." He said, "So often when you ask someone in the church to do something their answer is 'I'm only a layman.' Some of the greatest leaders of the work of Jesus Christ were laymen." Then he said, "Abraham was a cattle raiser, just a layman, but one of God's chosen; Moses a shepherd, also a layman, but one who led the Israelites out of Egyptian bondage. He named several other men of the Bible such as Joshua and Gideon. Jesus did not go to the professional leaders of His time, but went out and called fishermen to become 'fishers of men.' All of the disciples were laymen who did a good job. Saul of Tarsus was a tent maker by trade and he heard the voice of Christ speak unto him and asked what Jesus would have him to do. He became Paul and is recognized as one of the greatest missionaries this world has ever known. 'Paul was just a layman.'"

"Jesus Christ needs Christian Laymen as well as Christian ministers. Every layman should be able to say that their business is living for Christ, but we earn our bread by our different vocations. Whenever laymen get on fire for Christ, our churches will begin to prosper. Do not use the excuse, 'I am just a layman,' but rather accept the responsibility which becomes a Christian."

Brother Bates gave the closing prayer.

Boys' Brotherhood News

THE BERLIN, PENNA., BROTHERHOOD GIVES $100.00 FOR KENTUCKY

MONDAY EVENING, February 21st, the Berlin Brotherhood met in the Church parlors. The subject under discussion was "How and Where You Can Serve Best." The pastor, Rev. Percy C. Miller and the Brotherhood Adviser, Fred W. Brant explained the need to rebuild the Boys' Dormitory at Lost Creek, Kentucky. Our young Brotherhood boys were eager to give—yes, plenty more than we had in the treasury, for we only had $37.00 as a balance.

You will note that I said "our young Boys" for most of our older Brotherhood boys are away from home, also several have been married. We have, therefore, only three or four that are earning or have any income. How did we raise the money—that $100.00? O, that was easy! If you help the Lord to answer your prayers. We just all dug down in our pockets.

God has blessed us with a pastor who is a real help with our Brotherhood work. Yes, in all of our church activities, I would like to add that on Wednesday evening, February 23, we had a number of our Brotherhood and Sisterhood at our Bible Study. I would like for every one to know that there were eight of our Official Board present—a total of fifty-three. This should prove that we have a live-wire, as well as a spiritual pastor.

In closing I would like to "provoke one another unto good works." Don't tell me that I left the word "love" out—I don't care how you do it, just so we get the money to rebuild at Lost Creek. God bless you all, is our sincere prayer.

Fred W. Brant, News Editor.

David L. Benshoff Passes To His Reward

David F. Benshoff, senior deacon of the Third Brethren Church, Johnstown, Pennsylvania, passed away on March 3, 1949, to be with Lord and interment was on March 7. Brother Benshoff had been active in the work of the church until the day of his demise. Sister Benshoff (deceased) had been his co-laborer in the work of deaconess and Brother Benshoff was an outstandingly conscientious servant of the Lord in this spiritual work. He had been honored by the church for over 50 years of service as an officer or teacher in the Sunday School. He has also served as choir director and chorister, in addition to faithfully serving on many committees. For many years he was the Financial Secretary of the church and recently was also the Building Fund Secretary, which added to his many hours of church service.

He was interested also in community projects and for quite a few years was president of the Tenth District Sunday School Association of Cambria County. These were outstanding years in the history of the association. In business he was recognized as a fine Christian gentleman and served as president of the Coal Dealers Association of the Johnstown, Pennsylvania area.

Brother Benshoff was also interested in district and denominational matters of the church. He was a former treasurer of the General Conference of Brethren churches.

One of his outstanding services has been the teaching of the Lookout class of the church which is also the Laymen's organization of the church. This class had the largest attendance of any in the Sunday School.

He gave unstintingly of his time and talent in liberally supporting the program of the church. His faithfulness in attendance at church and prayer meeting was an inspiration to the church. As chairman of the building committee of the church in 1916 his efforts were carried through until he was recently enabled to be the active chairman of the 25th Anniversary services for the dedication of the church. He was a member of the Rosedale church and then came into the Morrellville, Third Brethren church.

Brother D. F. Benshoff was the brother of the Rev. Mr. W. C. Benshoff, who was ordained to the ministry in the Rosedale church and served the church faithfully over the entire period of his ministry.

A Tribute

To Mr. A. C. Bartley

Pittsburgh, Pa.,—A Brother Beloved

Mr. A. C. Bartley who has recently been called to his heavenly home was one of the very loyal members of the Pittsburgh church during my ten years of pastoral service. A man of unswerving integrity and great diligence. His work as contractor in excavation and similar work related to building he made lucrative by his good judgment and his flare for hard work and long hours. He was one of the truest of friends and had a great heart to help people.

A member of the trustee board of the Pittsburgh church, where with other members of that board during my residence there took care of the business of the church as carefully and wisely as any business corporation. Sometimes church business is carried on in quite a loose way, but not Pittsburgh under men like Mr. Bartley, and his associates, such as I. C. Wilcox, Frank McMaster, S. N. Wilcox, J. A. Rishel, all of whom have departed to be with the Lord but Mr. Rishel who is of the younger generation.

It is my opinion that churches do not fully appreciate such members as Mr. Bartley until they are gone. Not wanting the platform, not wanting any special recognition, but willing to faithfully worship, always in their accustomed pew, ready to pay and serve in many ways and use their good business judgment to keep the church moving along and on an even keel following the leadership of the pastor and encouraging him. His beloved wife passed on to glory some years ago, and their only child, Marie, had to give up her husband, Mr. Paul Halpine, who was a deacon in the First Brethren church, and a very strong man physically and spiritually, but taken by an attack of scarlet fever. They have two boys who are now married and have children.

Such is the history of families and this is the life of the church. May our dear Lord comfort these sorrowing hearts and raise up strong men of faith and wisdom to give strength to his church and righteousness to the nation. Mr. Bartley was small of stature but large of heart and kind and sympathetic in his life. The Pittsburgh church will greatly miss these noble men who have faithfully carried on for many years.

Spiritual Meditations

Rev. Dyoll Belote

A FAITH WITHOUT AN APOLOGY

"For I am not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ." Rom. 1:16a.

WHEN ONE THINKS of St. Paul, the author of our text, and remembers that he was a man reared in all the ritual and form of the Hebrew faith, it wonders him that a man like Paul should be so emphatic in his declaration of allegiance to the Gospel. We must not forget that Christianity was a new faith, and the number of followers were few.

Besides the above fact of the scarcity of its adherents, there were some other elements in the gospel which he had espoused that would have made a weaker man than Paul shrivel in embarrassment. In our day we lift our voices heartily in acclaim of the cross. "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," "Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone," "The Old Rugged Cross, are all used by the church again and again to voice our allegiance to Him who hung upon that instrument of torture and ignominy. To us the cross has become a beautiful symbol and a challenge to sacrificial living. But to the Jew of Paul's day it was an unthinkable object, the insignia of the fellowship of crime—for were not criminals, brigands, robbers, murderers, executed on this rude instrument of torture and retribution?

But Paul was not ashamed of the Gospel of Christ, which gospel included the teaching of the vicarious suffering of the Christ upon the cross, for the remission of sins. And Paul declared that the Gospel (including the cross) was "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," both in his day and ours. Paul knew his confession to express the truth, for this same Gospel had been like dynamite beneath him—it had turned him upside down. It had taken a vindictive persecutor of the Church and the followers of the Christ, and made of him a loving apostle who could pen the treatise on love which he included in his first letter to the Corinthian Church.

The Apostle Paul was not one to "soft-pedal" his declarations concerning his faith. In his day to espouse the cause of the despised "Nazarene" could mean death. And with his background of lineage, training, and accomplishments, life was not unattractive to this intrepid exponent of the Faith. In our day there are as many or more reasons for weak-kneed Christians to be tempted to "soft-pedal" their faith. Yes, I know that Christianity is no longer new, nor yet are its adherents few; but while it is true there are no Neros to light their palace gardens with human torches mad by burning oil-soaked human fagots, yet there are ways that those who despise the Christian faith have of causing heart-ache and chagrin and questioning among Christians. And while it is still true that "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork," materialism has posed questions and challenges that try weak faith mightily.

Our text assures us that this Gospel of Christ is the "power of God unto salvation to all such as believe." The word translated "power" in this connection is the Greek word, "dunamis"—"dynamite"—and dynamite is certainly powerful, and so is the Word which is the Gospel, as the writer of the Hebrew epistle declares in 4:1: "For the word of God is quick and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart." And why shall we be ashamed of that which transforms thieves and robbers into honest men; which changes liars and tale-bearers into truthful, helpful individuals? Why shall we blush to own belief in that which, if believed and accepted, will make "the vilest sinner clean?"

Perhaps one of the greatest tests of the Christian's faith is the prevalence of the numerous perversions of the Gospel which are extant in the world today, and which are making their impact against simple, old-fashioned orthodoxy. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage once sounded a warning against being swept about "by every wind of doctrine" in these words: "Do not jump overboard from the staunch ship of old-fashioned orthodoxy until there is something stronger to pick up than the fantastic yawl which has painted on its side, 'Advanced Thought,' and which leaks at the prow, and leaks at the stern, and has a steel pen for one oar, and a glib tongue for the other oar, and now tips over this way, and then over that way, until you do not know whether the passengers will land in the breakers of despair, or in the sinking sand of infidelity and atheism."

—Linwood, Maryland.

Master of Old Age

There is something very beautiful in growing old if life is lived naturally. Old age is a divine condition because providence has decreed it. Shade trees and forests are never more attractive than when autumnal frosts tinge their leaves with ruddy glow and bring out the gold within them. The most charming picture of the sun which was ever painted does not represent the brightness of its rising, nor its luster at resplendent noon, but its golden setting.

And so in human life—the sweetest, the tenderest, the divinest picture of motherhood is not seen at the age when she gives the world her first-born, but rather when her hair is silvered and her face furrowed with age. It is then that she becomes truly sweet-featured, and her presence in the home a benediction. And we can hardly consider that a man reaches his best estate at forty, or even at fifty. The true test of his manhood, of his power to do things, comes when the years begin to weigh upon him.

An unnamed Italian moralist says: "A man grows old most gracefully when his hand still rests lightly, but with the touch of the master, upon the work which has stood to him for his ripest years." It is a great thing to live so that the richest part of life shall be its evening.—Colonel Nicholas Smith.

Oh! how poor are they that have no patience.

Ashland College News Letter

By Arthur Petit

Ashland College has completed one of those very successful undertakings by which Ashland has been characterized. During the week of March 11, the first annual Religious Emphasis Week was celebrated on the campus. For the special week, the Religious Interests Committee brought Dr. Wm. H. Leach and Rev. Kenneth Hulit to the campus for addresses, conferences and workshops.

Dr. Leach of Cleveland is the editor of "Church Management," a monthly magazine which for 25 years has been an inspiration to thousands of ministers and church executives of all denominations. Dr. Leach who is a Presbyterian minister and a successful pastor before taking up his present work, knows protestant church life from one end of the country to the other. He is a frequent speaker at church conferences and a lecturer on successful methods of church work in several of the large theological seminaries.

Rev. Hulit is a graduate of Ashland College and of the Ashland Theological Seminary. He is a successful pastor in the Evangelical United Brethren Church. He holds a charge in one of the finer E. U. B. Churches near Akron.

Dr. Leach addressed the assembly of the college each morning, as well as several of the evening sessions. Rev. Hulit assisted in the workshops. He led the discussion in the panel entitled, "How Do Christians Behave?" Dr. Helen Garber, Ashland Alumna in Ashland this winter on leave of absence from her teaching assignment in New York City, led the panel on "Practical Helps for Church Work." Charles Munson, director of Brethren Youth, was the leader of a discussion group on "Summer Church Projects."

A number of students were included in the panels. Among these were: Spencer Gentle, Fort Scott, Kansas; Robert Hoffman, Berlin, Pa.; Rae Musser, Berlin, Pa.; Carol Snyder, Louisville, Ohio; Harley Himes, Bryan, Ohio, and Lois Coleman, Milledgeville, Ill. At least ten students from other denominations than the Brethren Church took part. This was particularly true in the panel on "Denominational Comparisons."

Good attendance marked the various meetings of the conference. Dr. Clayton, president of the college, has pronounced the effort a success and has expressed a desire to attempt an expanded conference next year or before.

The Eagles' Nest, student union on the campus is now as much a part of the life on the campus as any class or department. Under the management of Glenn (Doc) Shank of Hagerstown, Maryland, the patronage at the "Nest" is increasing weekly. The Women's Faculty Club has attempted to assist the union as one of their projects for the year and has helped materially in making it a more attractive place in which to meet and eat. Students find it an ideal place to have their morning cup of coffee, their "coke," sandwich, doughnut or bar of candy. Many Brethren students are helping by waiting on trade at various hours of the day.

The last number on the Lecture Concert Series was held on Monday, March 14. Bessie Noack gave a brilliant piano performance. The highlights of the series this year was the appearance of the Columbus Philharmonic Orchestra.

The College Band was scheduled to give its annual concert on March 17. Mr. Silliman has been rehearsing this fine organization diligently and the concert was very much anticipated on the campus.

The Ashland College A Cappella Choir which is about to tour Indiana and Illinois is scheduled to perform in a music festival on March 27. The choirs of Hiram College and Findlay College, along with the Ashland High School A Cappella Choir, have accepted invitations to sing the St. Cecilia Mass from Gounod in the McDowell Auditorium in the city of Ashland. This should be one of the fine affairs of the year.

Just a reminder that May Day is May 14 and not one week later as reported in the catalog. Without seeming to repeat uselessly, may we urge you to visit the campus at that time. It is one of the beautiful times of the year at Ashland College.

LONG RANGE STRATEGY

Scripture: II Timothy 3:14, 15; Luke 9:57-62

For the Leader

THE BATTLE is not over. A few weeks of intensive personal work and soul winning are not enough. We must keep on throughout the year, and the years. Far too often in our churches we look forward to a special two weeks' evangelistic campaign. We work real hard, win five to a dozen or more into the church, and then we all sit back and relax until prodded a year later. When we, as Christians, reach the place in our thinking and practice that we conduct soul-winning efforts the year around, we will have gotten somewhere in our efforts to win the lost. Tonight it is our desire to depict some ways in which we can make soul winning a projected, constant work in our church.

DISCUSSION

1. IT TAKES A VISION. The psychology here is if we cannot get them today, try tomorrow. A card system should be set up which records every possible prospect, including children down to the cradle roll. None should be allowed to escape our interest nor attention. Notes on each card should be made from time to time, as to interest manifested, attendance at services, etc. It may be that a prospect considered "no possibility" might later on become a first class candidate through a change of circumstance or mind. Only after there is definite proof that the prospect has joined another church, joined your church, or died, should be taken from your prospect list. Until that time, "patiently seek to win them."

2. IN CHARGE OF SOME RELIABLE PERSON. Don't push this job over on your pastor. Goodness knows he has plenty to do in keeping his sermonizing, pastoral visiting, etc., up to date. In your long-range strategy you need a "general." He or she can keep the cards up to date, add new ones, plan new ways of reaching those who seem unreachable. When a child is born in a church family, put a card in the file with his name, date of birth, parents, and address. That child is a potential member of your church, a potential Christian (perhaps a "pillar" in your church some day). Never lose sight of him. Through the years keep a check on his attendance, home training, etc. At the proper age check to see that he is brought face to face with his need of Christ as his Saviour. You'll be surprised how soon you can build up a great reserve of potential members. This is true of new families in the community, also. But above all, put it in charge of someone with a good ear and a tight mouth.

3. OUT-OF-TOWN MEMBERS. When our members move away, we feel we have lost them to the services of our church. They may not attend, but they should be kept in touch with the church by bulletins, announcements, etc., sent out over a prepared church mailing list. You know, the same urge which caused them to move out of your community may sooner or later move them back again. If you've kept after them, you'll have them right back in your church again. The motto is never forget an absent member and never let them forget you.

4. NEW PROSPECT TIME. At least once each month, at the close of a Sunday evening service, or Mid-Week service, or any other convenient time, call a meeting of the interested members and get from them a report on those whom they have contacted as previously outlined in this series of topics. Conduct a clearing house on prospects, noting interest and progress. Outline the next steps in each case. If you have sufficient interest manifested (and you will have after a few meetings), then each month you will have new names, yes names which the minister could not have discovered. We must always bear in mind that lining up prospects and getting new members is every member's job. Be on the alert! If you're not, churches around you will grow on the new members you should have had. We can't get them all, but we can get a goodly portion of them.

5. LET'S BE CHRISTIAN WORKERS. In our 'teen years, few of us know what we really want to do in life. But, bear in mind that to a large degree you will be what some one else had influenced you to be. So let's let Christ have a chance in our lives. There is no higher calling in life than that of Christian service, be it in the ministry, minister's wives, missionaries, local Christian workers. It should be our desire in life to bear our Christian witness as effectively as possible. The doors to serving Christ are open. Perhaps you don't know as yet what you want to do for sure, but now, using the "long range" you will prepare yourself, keep yourself fit for His service, and will then be ready. And when you see the long range results of your labors there will be no question as to the course you will pursue through life.

QUESTIONS

1. Is there a definite prospect file in your church? If so, who has it? Is it up to date?

2. Does your pastor bear the full load of the prospect file?

3. Do you have anyone in your church with the attitude that "we're paying the preacher to get us new members"; "get 'em in" as one old boy put it! How would you go about explaining to that person that it is every member's business to get new members?

What successful systems have you used which have won new members to your church? Write up the details and send them to your Topic Editor, and we will pass them on to others. What are our soul winning problems? Send them in, maybe we can get some help for you on them.

Self flattery is the fool falling in love with his own shadow.

There is no safety for us outside the blood sprinkled way.

It lightens the stroke to draw near to Him who handles the rod.

BAPTISMAL WATERS

Luke 3:22

Come, Holy Spirit, Dove divine,
On these baptismal waters shine,
And teach our hearts, in higher strain,
To praise the Lamb for sinners slain.

We plunge beneath thy mystic flood,
Oh, plunge us in thy cleansing blood,
We die to sin, and seek a grave
With Thee, beneath the yielding wave.

And as we rise, with Thee to live,
Oh, let the Holy Spirit give
The sealing unction from above,
The breath of life, the fire of love!

CHRISTIAN BAPTISM

Scripture: Note the seven great spiritual unities of Ephesians 4:3-6.

Hymns and Prayers

Seed Thought Provokers:

TO MINIMIZE Christian baptism is a sin. Baptism is mentioned in our Scripture lesson as one of seven greater centers of Christian doctrine. Bible baptism safeguards true Bible doctrine and New Testament practice. Those who observe the proper form and meaning of baptism are usually correct on all other great doctrines.

Bible preachers refuse to baptize the unrepentant (Matt. 3:7, 8). Baptism portrays Christ's death, burial, and resurrection, and the believer's identification with Christ in the good of His death, burial, and resurrection for us (Rom. 6:3-5). It teaches the resurrection of the righteous (Rom. 6:5), and the separated life (Rom. 6:4b, 6, 7).

Christ was baptized as the example for every Christian. He had His disciples to baptize converts (John 4:1, 2). Baptism is very prominent in The Acts of the Apostles (Acts 2:41, etc.). Baptism, which means "dippings in water" is commanded in the great commission for "all nations," "all the world," for "every creature," "even unto the end of the world" (Matt. 28:19, 20). Baptism is the physical immersion of a candidate in water (Acts 8:38, 39).

An incorrect form of baptism does not preach Christ as baptism should. To change the form is to change the meaning. It is, therefore, right for one to be baptized again if he were not baptized correctly the first time (Acts 19:1-6). The form of baptism should tell that the sinner is dead to his sins and is raised to walk in newness of life. Baptism is in water (Matt. 3:16). It is a burial (Rom. 6:4; Col. 2:3); a planting (Rom. 6:5). It is immersion of a believer upon his profession of faith in Christ as his Saviour.

Literal baptism is a burial in triple dipping or immersion in the three names of the Holy Trinity according to the great commission. Baptism in water is an outward rite, sealing the union of a convert to the visible church on earth. "By one Spirit we are all baptized into one body" (1 Cor. 12:12, 13). The baptism of the Holy Ghost (Acts 1:4, 5, 8) means to be completely covered, buried, filled, overwhelmed with the Spirit of God for witnessing for Christ and the winning of the lost. There is a real connection between baptism in water and being baptized with the Holy Spirit. Jesus was baptized with the Holy Spirit immediately after His baptism in Jordan (Luke 3:21, 22). Peter promised a like order to the penitents at Pentecost (Acts 2:38, 39). Obedience in baptism is a condition for receiving the Holy Spirit (Acts 5:32). If people understood the deep spiritual meaning of water baptism there would be more Christians filled with the Holy Spirit. It would mean the surrender of self, the burial of one's will, dying to one's own pleasure, pledging to the soul winning work and will of Christ (Matt. 20:22; Rom. 6:11-13). After baptism should come the "laying on of hands" (Heb. 16:2) as practiced by the apostles (Acts 8:14-17) for the endowment of the Spirit (2 Tim. 1:6b).

On The Sunday School Lesson

Lesson for April 13, 1949

TURNING TOWARD THE CROSS

Lesson: Mark 8:27-34; Luke 9:28-35, 51

THE VOLUME OF EMOTIONS that fill the heart when this lesson is really studied should cause a real child of God to drop to his knees and thank the Heavenly Father for the revelation that is contained therein.

When Jesus came into the world, He came because the "time" calendar of God marked the "fullness of time." When He began His ministry the "time" had arrived for the Father to put His stamp of approval upon the Son with the words which were spoken at Jesus' baptism, "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased." As the time nears when Jesus is to pay our debt by His sacrifice on the cross, He knows that it is the proper instant for Him to find out the attitude of His followers. Hence the questioning as found in Mark 8:27 and 29. While Jesus had not directly told His disciples that He was the Christ, He had done many things and spoken many words that could have no other interpretation.

So it should not be too much of a surprise to any one that Peter, spokesman for the group of disciples, should not only speak his own mind, but that of the others as well. "Thou art the Christ" are words which boldly proclaim what many believed, but feared to utter in public. We might call Him, under these circumstances, "The Recognized Christ."

But almost immediately, as Jesus begins to teach them the true meaning of His Messiahship, He becomes "The Misunderstood Christ." For no sooner did He speak of his sacrificial death than the same Peter, impulsive as ever, began to "rebuke" Him. Why his Christ was to be a "ruler" not "sacrifice!" Did not his Christ represent life and not death? That this misunderstanding persisted is evidenced by the question of the disciples even following the resurrection, "Wilt Thou at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?"

Jesus tried in every way possible to make His followers understand why He had come to earth. To those most closely drawn to Him—Peter, James and John—He even gave opportunity to see His glory and to hear the discussion concerning "His decease which He should accomplish at Jerusalem." Here, on the mountain, He became in truth "The Revealed Christ." Surely man could ask for no more perfect self-revelation of the Christ than to be a witness to the Transfiguration scene; note the conversation there, and to hear the voice of God "out of the cloud" that overshadowed them. But again it is Peter, the impulsive, who shows the misunderstanding of Jesus that still persists—for he recognized the need to worship Jesus the Christ, but not the purpose of His sacrifice; he recognizes Jesus as the Christ of God, but not as the "Lamb which taketh away the sin of the world."

The key to it all may be found in John 12:16: "These things understood not his disciples at the first: but when Jesus was glorified, then remembered they that these things were written of him."

Even though we today, who "know" the Lord, and have every evidence of the necessity of Christ "steadfastly setting his face to go to Jerusalem" and the cross; we who "recognize" Him for what He was and is, far too often misunderstand both His plans and purposes for us. Therefore, it behooves us to seek a better and closer union with Him, that we might permit the Spirit to more fully "reveal" the Christ to us, in order that we may more fully heed the word of the Father, even as those He spoke to the three disciples on the Mount of Transfiguration—"This is my beloved Son: hear him!"

Hopelessness is a dark graveyard to the soul, but faithfulness ushers in a bright Easter.

Intercession leaves you neither time nor inclination to pray for your own "sad sweet self."

WEIGHING

H. A. Gossard

It matters not how gemmed or drab your vest;
It matters not how large or small your gift;
It matters tho what lies within your breast,
If what you give will be a righteous lift . . .

After the wealthy threw their portions in,
And proudly passed beyond the Temple door,
A widow, poor, with two mites—less of sin—
Cast them both in; tho little, they were more.

Laid to Rest

LENHART. Irene J. Lenhart, a member of the Meyersdale, Pennsylvania, Main Street Brethren Church, passed to her heavenly reward early in the morning of Tuesday, February 8, 1949. She was born near Meyersdale, Pa., on October 1, 1882, the daughter of Alexander S. and Mary Ann (Bender) Lenhart. The evening before her death she was conducting the program of the Public Service of the Woman's Missionary Society in her Church when she was suddenly stricken ill. She was removed to the local hospital where death released her spirit in the early morning hours.

Sister Lenhart's entire life was devoted to her church and Christ whom she loved. At the time of her passing she was President of the W. M. S. of the Church, which office she had held for the past ten years. Previously she had served her church as Financial Secretary for 28 years. For 13 years she had been a teacher in the primary department of the church. Her assistance in the trying days of her church is a testimony to her fortitude and Christian grace. Her's was a beautiful life, lived gloriously unto the end, for she was active in the work she loved when her affliction overtook her. Death was due to cerebral apoplexy.

Her standing in the community is well attested, for upwards of 500 people signed the register at the funeral home, and several hundred attended her last rites. Services for her were conducted in her church, by her Pastor, on Thursday following her death, and she was laid peacefully to rest in Union Cemetery.

Her wisdom, judgment, help and presence are missed by her family and church. Our loss is heaven's gain, and we shall meet in the bright and cloudless morning when earth's night is passed,

Sister Lenhart is survived by four sisters, Miss Naomi Lenhart, Miss Sidney Lenhart, which two made their home with the departed sister on the home farm near town; Mrs. Margaret Ingram, and Mrs. Edith Lee, both of Monongahela, Pa., and one brother, Charles Lenhart, of Johnstown, Pa. her own life is her own eulogy.

News From Our Churches

REVIVAL AT ELKHART, INDIANA

It was the happy privilege of the Elkhart Church to have Rev. and Mrs. Clayton Berkshire and their two older children, six and four and a half years of age, with us in our two weeks' revival which was held from February 7 to 20. Brother Berkshire did the preaching and led the congregational singing. He and Mrs. Berkshire sang solos and she played the violin, and the two children sang choruses each evening. These were two weeks of spiritual feasting and the time went by much too rapidly. We were also happy to have them in our home. Since both of us have served the New Lebanon, Ohio, Brethren Church for about the same length of time, we spent quite a few happy hours recalling experiences of interest to both of us.

The attendance was splendid throughout the meetings, with 407 present the last Sunday in the Bible School. The average at all the preaching services was 171. The few offerings, lifted on Tuesday and Friday evenings each week, were good. On Friday evening the Junior Choir of thirty-five voices sang. They were attired in their new robes, and the offering lifted that evening was applied on the payment of the robes, and amounted to $50.00 above the cost. This will be used to purchase music and for activities of this group. There were 231 present that Friday evening in spite of basketball. On March 6th the Sunday School attendance was 400.

Seven were baptized the last Sunday evening of the meeting, one being a woman in her seventies. One was baptized the following Sunday, and eight on Sunday, March 6th. On that Sunday a total of thirteen were received into membership, the rest coming by letter. Three more will be received soon. Two more made the good confession and will be baptized at Easter time, with the promise of several more by that time. We believe these meetings were of such a nature that folks will be coming each Sunday. Seven were received into membership before the meetings began. This makes a total of thirty since the thirty-first of December—twelve of junior age, four young people and fourteen adults.

The offering to the Berkshires indicated the interest created by their presence. Before long we will have a picture of those who have united with the church during our ministry here and we hope the picture will appear in the Evan-gelist along with a more detailed report of our activities. For the present we say again, "Thanks, Berkshires, and come again."

REVIVAL SERVICES AT MANTECA, CALIFORNIA

The First Brethren Church at Manteca, California, has just concluded a four week's series of evangelistic services, with the writer serving as evangelist. The meetings began on January 23 and continued through Sunday, February 20. The way was already prepared for these services, for a revival had begun among the people several weeks before the campaign was actually begun.

The meetings were quite well attended, and many of those present were drawn closer to their Lord. Two adults received Christ as their Savior, and several others who had been walking at some distance from the Lord were brought back close to Him. It was wonderful to witness the Holy Spirit working in the midst of the people and gaining victory in their lives. God, through the preaching of His Word and through His Holy Spirit, showered down many rich blessings upon us during these meetings, and we count it a privilege to have had a part in His great work of reclaiming lives for Himself.

A wonderful spirit of Christian love was manifested by the brethren throughout the meetings, and the fellowship which resulted was a real delight to the writer. A large choir, under the direction of the pastor, Brother J. Wesley Platt, contributed much to the song services, and there was a great wealth of special music from the singers. Likewise, the spirit of prayer which prevailed throughout the meetings, both in the pre-prayer service preceding each meeting and prayer during and after the services contributed much toward making the revival a living reality.

Th Manteca Brethren Church and its people are dear to the writer, for it was there that he found Christ as his Savior some 23 years ago. He grew up there under the ministry and teaching of Brother Platt and others who have labored there with him. It was like coming home again, and it is a source of real joy to see them all laboring together in a spirit of unity for the cause of Christ, and to see the fruit of consecrated lives. We pray that this revival will continue in their midst without abatement, and that it may be the means of many precious souls being won to the Lord Jesus Christ in the days which are left before He comes again.

Virgil Ingraham, Stockton, California.

REVIVAL AT WARSAW, INDIANA

The writer had the pleasurable and profitable experience of fellowshiping with the Brethren of Warsaw, Indiana, for two weeks as their evangelist. The services began Monday evening, February 7th, and closed February 20th. The attendance and response was very encouraging to all who had a part in making this meeting possible.

I cannot say too much about the hospitality of the fine people of Warsaw. It was my privilege to stay the first week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hile. This was one of the most "homelike" homes I have been entertained in for a long time. The whole house was placed at our disposal, and the Hiles made me to feel like one of the family before I had been there a day. Thank you, Brother and Sister Hile, so very much.

The second week we stayed at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Woodrow Brant, and there too, as in the Hile home we were "adopted" into the family. I never had the opportunity to know Brother Brant very well before, but through our fellowship in the services and in the home we were soon known to each other as "Doc" Brant and Black. Mrs. Brant and little Mary Ann did everything possible to make our stay with them a pleasant one and it surely was. Thanks again a whole lot to the Brants.

The people of our congregation at Warsaw should be, and are very proud of their fine, young, energetic pastor. He is evangelistic in his preaching, a good mixer, and unusually effective in personal work. The fine response at the special meetings and in the homes was due, not so much to the preaching during our revival, but to the work that had been done by the pastor before we reached the field. Pray for this pastor and his splendid congregation.

"Bud" Hunter who assisted us at Bryan, was our song leader for the first week, and then Mr. Albert Hartman, the regular Chorister, took over and certainly did a very good job of it. Every night was a special night for the different departments of the Church, at which time they filled the choir loft and rendered special numbers. In fact everybody in every way cooperated to make the meetings a success.

Several delegations came from the surrounding communities, North Manchester, Peru, Dutchtown and other places we cannot recall as we write. The folk from our Bryan Church drove eighty-seven miles one way, several times during the two weeks; one group of twenty-seven sang several special selections and gave a Scene-O-Felt Story.

Mrs. Black joined us on Wednesday of the second week and helped in the visitation work and conducted the Children's Service each evening assisted by Mrs. Jay Corwin, Miss Fae Ridenour, and our daughter Naomi, all of Bryan.

More families extended invitations to us to eat with them than we were able to accept, but everywhere we went the food and hospitality can never be forgotten. I cannot close without saying a word about Brother John Gross, the faithful Janitor, singer, "jitney driver" (for anyone who needed a lift). John wrapped himself about our hearts so much that we never had a dull moment when he was present, and will not forget him. In fact the whole congregation endeared themselves to us so much, that we look forward to going back some time just to visit and talk, without having to watch the time.

May the Lord richly bless you all, and prosper you in all your work in Warsaw is our sincere prayer.

E. J. Black, Bryan, Ohio.

MANSFIELD — HOME — FALLS CITY

Our household goods were loaded in Mansfield early in August and started immediately for our little home in Winona Lake, Indiana. In a matter of hours the goods as well as ourselves were safely in our little domicile. How good it was to be home and, as we supposed, to stay. However, it was not long until correspondence and wires began to fly thick and fast. Result? Plans being made to leave home for an unknown land—to us.

Travel

By arrangement I went to the home of Gil Dodds and met his father, J. G. Dodds, and we drove into Falls City together. Sunday, October 3rd, was to be a big day in the Church here. It was Home Coming and at the afternoon service the writer was formally installed as the Pastor of the Church, Brother Dodds presiding.

Conference

That week the Mid-West conference convened at Mulvane, Kansas, and I soon found myself there. We returned to Falls City on Sunday, October 10th. This conference took some forward steps, among them being the recommendation that each church conduct a week of meetings stressing the doctrines and ordinances of the Church.

More Travel

On Sunday evening, October 31, I left by train for home arriving Monday in time for dinner. Thursday next found Mrs. Eppler and I on the road headed toward Falls City. We arrived here on Saturday just as Brother and Sister C. H. Johnson were ready to leave.

Surprise

By agreement our goods were not moved. The parsonage was to be furnished. It was anything but that, when I left for home to bring here its future "First Lady." When we walked into it, IT WAS. Papering done; painting done; furniture in place; fire in the furnace; and in the kitchen EATS of all kinds so that we could get a meal without even going to the grocery. What a reward must await folks who treat the least of God's children like that.

Revival

The writer was asked by the Church to conduct a two-weeks' meeting. The attendance was good, the interest keen, and as a result eight were baptized and added to the Church.

Lonsome

The breaking of Christmas morn brought to us a totally new experience. It was the first Christmas to be separated from our daughter; the second Christmas to have a grandson; and the first one to be separated from him. But we were not forgotten. During the week preceding Christmas we were "POUNDED." The Editor would probably throw this out if I tried to tell all this pounding meant from soup to ducks. This certainly helped drive part of the lonesomeness away.

Plans

On March 21st I plan to journey over to Carleton, Nebraska, to help the good people there in a meeting. Hope to return here April 4th. On April 10th we plan to begin in this Church the week of Doctrinal meetings recommended by the Conference, closing Easter Day. Friday, April 22, we are expecting a Gospel Team from the College. Other plans are in the making and will be reported later.

Appreciation

The people of the Falls City Church have outdone themselves in their efforts to give us a welcome and make us feel at home. May their present enthusiasm increase and not suffer a cooling-off. Too many things have transpired to make any attempt at naming all of them. Mrs. Eppler and I wish to express our sincere appreciation of every kindness shown and can only hope to be found worthy.

H. E. Eppler, 2303 Lane Street, Falls City Nebr.

MISSIONARY DELAYED IN SAILING

Miss June Byler who had every plan made to sail from New York to Argentina on the 16th of March has been delayed. Her visa has not yet arrived. Every effort has been made to secure it. This was not all; when the missionary secretary called the express office to handle the boxes of equipment, etc., he was informed about the Express Company strike in New York and the embargo placed on all express to that city. Within a few minutes by phone, he also learned that Miss Byler's reservation for sailing had been transferred to the next date, which will be the 29th of March.

Pray that every obstacle may be removed, so that this fine, talented, and consecrated worker may fulfill her desires.

What Is a Church Program?

It is a dream, a bit of heaven come to earth,
 It is people talking, praying "Not my will, but thine be done."
 It is a Church house testifying, "God is alive."
 It is flowers, planting, watering, pruning, sprouting,
 It is making beautiful the sanctuary of our God.
 It is men rushing here and there, doing endless detail.
 It is teachers sweating blood to answer living questions.
 It is eager minds leaning out to comprehend "The Word."
 It is women laden with festive boards for the family of our God.
 It is keeping alive the eternal fellowship of Christians.
 It is people giving of their time, talents and money in utter devotion.
 It is growing Christians stretching to the "measure of the fulness of Christ."
 It is redemption, cleansing warped lives, making wholeness real.
 It is the Holy Spirit declaring judgment of things present and to come.
 It is loving arms reaching around the world with divine comfort.
 It is men, women and children on a mission of world commission.
 It is stillness and quiet, where God breaks through in sublime recognition,
 It is music, meaningful harmonies, declaring "our great redeemer's praise,"
 It is our declaration and faith that God's will can be and must be done,
 It is the preacher and his people sharing mutual dreams.
 Yea, it is all this and more, much more,
 It is the pathway of life for all who would share the friendship of Christ.

INTERESTING ITEMS

Canton, Ohio. Brother E. J. Beekley reports a gradual drawing nearer to the goal of 125 in attendance in the Canton Church, there being 105 reported in the February average. The goal for Easter has been set for 125, with a working toward that average through the time preceding Easter.

Stockton, California. We quote from a letter received from Brother Charles Johnson, under the date of March 14th: "Had a fine day yesterday. The largest crowd since I have been here. Had 90 out to Sunday School with 63 Bibles. We have set a goal for 100 next Sunday. Would have met it today except for sickness—colds, flu, measles, etc. Baptized three—a man, a boy and a girl. Took two confessions, a father and son. We are beginning to reach the older folks that are needed to give us balance. A much greater interest all around since we have cleaned up the building and done some decorating." The meetings are to continue for several weeks, we understand.

Lost Creek, Kentucky. Sister Drushal says in a note to the editor, "Things are going nicely here. We are pleased over the new baptistry recently installed in the chapel. We will use it for the first time next Saturday afternoon." We are glad for the return of Sister Drushal's "Leaves from My Diary."

New Lebanon, Ohio. Brother Berkshire reports that the first week of their revival with Brother Christiansen as evangelist, has passed into history, with a fine interest and an average attendance of 105. We will hear more of this.

Johnstown, Penna. (Third). Brother D. Richard Wolfe, recently installed pastor of the Third Church, reports that he is having a wonderful time getting acquainted with the members of the church and learning his way around the city, but that he is beginning to feel very much at home and hopes to get his program in full swing in a short time.

Loree, Indiana. Brother Higgins says, "Our Birthday Fellowship Supper and Program was fine. More than 125 present. We noted that just about everyone went home smiling."

Masontown, Penna. Brother Ankrum reports that the Masontown Laymen had an interesting and well attended meeting recently. He says that among the refreshments were "Mooseburgers." Brother Francis Berkshire is to be in charge of the next meeting which will be held on April 4th.

Pleasant Hill, Ohio. Brother Floyd Sibert's bulletin tells us that their recent offering for the Lepers amounted to $100.00. Also that the attendance for the past several Sundays have been: 195, 217 and 203. Sunday, April 3 is designated as 100% Day. The work on the new addition is going forward as rapidly as possible.

Muncie, Indiana. Brother Chester Zimmerman announces Brother Charles Munson as guest speaker for Sunday, April 3rd. He also is calling his mid-week service by a very appropriate name—"The Hour of Power."

He reports the sum of $2,177.33 given on Dedication Day—February 13th, which he says, "was substantially above what we had expected."

Gratis, Ohio. Brother Crick reports the adding of further improvements above the redecorating already in progress—the refinishing of the church pews at an additional cost of $220.00. Also that the purchase of new carpet is under consideration.

Milledgeville, Illinois. Brother D. C. White tells of the presence of some students from Moody Bible Institute, who had a part in the services of March 13th.

Lanark, Illinois. The Winter Camp of Young People was opened at Lanark on Friday evening, March 18th. The "Camp" continued until after the Sunday dinner hour. The banquet was held on Saturday evening. Lois Coleman, Betty Martin, Rev. V. E. Meyer, Rev. Spencer Gentle, Nellie Eller Commisso and Rev. Charles Munson were among the speakers.

Waterloo, Iowa. Brother Virgil Meyer says, "Our Youth Banquet was a fine success, with fifty-one in attendance."

Oakville, Indiana. Brother Bates reports that a special offering was taken at the closing service of their revival, same to be sent to the Missionary Board toward the rebuilding of the Boys' Dormitory in Kentucky. He says that during the first week of the meeting one young lady made the good confession and that others were thinking of so doing.

Do you think it smart to mar your today's and mortgage your tomorrow's by grieving over your yesterday's?

When Jesus brings a thing home by His Word, don't shirk it. If you do, you will become a religious humbug.

THE SWING OF THE PENDULUM

IN MY READING last night I came across a sentence from the pen of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow which caught my eye with more than ordinary interest. It read like this:

"The everyday cares and duties which man calls drudgery, are the weights and counterpoises of the clock of time; giving its pendulum a true vibration and its hands a regular motion; and when they cease to hang upon its wheels, the pendulum no longer swings, the hands no longer move, the clock stands still."

This set me to thinking!

We talk about "meeting our problems in stride." In other words, "meeting our problems without destroying the forward progress of our endeavors." I once had a very wise teacher. She knew more about "mathematics" and "students" than any other teacher I ever had. I say "students" because she first found out the possibilities and capabilities of her entire class at the beginning of the year, not as individuals, but as a whole. It might be that those of keener perception did not advance as rapidly as they could have advanced; but the less apt were more able to grasp the fundamental principles of the subject. Consequently there were no absolute failures in any of her classes. She often said, "Learn to solve the lesser equations and the greater will come more easily. Learn the names and the extremes will take care of themselves."

She was seeking to take the "drudgery" out of everyday learning and trying to show her pupils that life is more than mere sums, fractions, algebraic equations and parallelograms—that it was the grasping of fundamental principles upon which to build a solid foundation. She was teaching her pupils to use their known abilities to counteract their known inabilities, with the result that she was building confidence into lives that would otherwise have developed, what we know now as, an "inferiority complex."

Take that thought over into the realm of the spiritual. Isn't that just what our Lord is seeking to do with His followers each day? They sit at His feet; they hear His voice; they appropriate unto themselves that which they are able to comprehend. Some are of ten talent capabilities; others of five talent ability; and yet others there are who only possess a one talent capacity. But as each accepts his opportunity and grasps the full significance of his personal possibilities—putting into his effort all of the ability he possesses—he is able, in the final analysis of things, to hear the "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful in a few things, lo, I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Thus we become the "weights and counterpoises" of the clock of time; by our activities the hands of the clock move forward; the pendulum continues to swing at its accustomed rate, and the clock ticks off the hours and days and months, never stopping, never varying in counting the minutes, but making each moment worth while in the labor of love each one must perform.

Are we all using, each our "several ability" as He would desire that such abilities be used?

Think it over!

Office Gleanings

By The Editor

No Report

Due to the illness of our Office Secretary, Mrs. Jean Gilbert, there will be no report of the additions to the Press Fund, nor a listing of additional Publication Day Offerings. Quite a number of such offerings have been received, but have not as yet been transferred to the books. Hence we cannot make this report in this issue. Since our next issue will be dated April 9th, (next week's issue being the Missionary Number) we ought to have many additions to make to each of the above funds. It will give those who are in charge of sending in the offerings an opportunity to "get in under the wire" and also help us to make a complete listing of such offerings.

Our New Set-Up

At a recent meeting of the Prudential Committee of the Publishing Company, it was decided that the work of the Business Manager be turned over to the foreman of our Shop, Mr. Donald Burns. He does such purchasing as is necessary, takes in and figures all jobs, and has general oversight of the entire plant. Mr. Burns has been with the Publishing Company for a period of about twenty years and knows the printing business through and through. He also has always had the general interest of the Publishing House at heart and is doing everything within his power to make the business thrive. We feel that this is a very wise move. The Editor will still continue his regular duties as Editor of Publications, and will be in charge of the subscription Department of the Evangelist. The work of the business is correlated through Mr. Burns and the Editor, under the supervision of the Company President, Mr. J. E. Stookey. Mrs. Gilbert remains as the bookkeeper and manager of the Book Store, as in the past. We trust that this arrangement will work out to the best interests of both the Company and to the Church in general.

Rags

A sizeable amount of wiping rags were delivered to the Publishing House from the Altruist Class of the Nappanee, Indiana, Sunday School by the hand of Mrs. Mary Maust. We thank you so much.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICE AT FAIRHAVEN CHURCH

A week of evangelistic services will be held at the Fairhaven, Ohio, Brethren Church—Sunday evening, March 27, continuing through Sunday, April 3rd, with Rev. Vernon D. Grisso as evangelist.

"O God, Teach Us To Pray"

Teach us to pray—'Tis dark over all the world,
And over land and sea the mists close down;
Out in the darkness hopelessly we stray,
And search, and cannot find again Thy way—
O God, teach us to pray!

Teach us to pray—we are not worthy, Lord;
For we have dwelt long years in sin and shame;
We closed our eyes and would not see the way;
And now 'tis night, and helplessly we stray—
O God, teach us to pray!

Teach us to pray—For ev'rywhere is gloom,
And sudden terror seizes on our hearts;
A bitter message comes to us today;
The world's at war, and brothers bend to slay—
O God, teach us to pray!

Teach us to pray—For this cannot be pray'r,
That comes but as the cry of hearts of fear;
We are poor, trembling mortals far astray;
If it be not too late find Thy way—
O God, teach us to pray!

Help us to pray—We would but speak with Thee;
Our hearts are full of what but Thou canst see
And we are tired wanderers on life's way,
Yearning to see the light of Thy new day—
O God, teach us to pray!

Teach us to pray—Yet this itself is pray'r,
From hearts of troubled pilgrims learning peace,
Grant us Thy grace to walk faith's shining way,
We are Thy little children who did stray—
O God, teach us to pray!

—Leinbach.

NO ONE is independent, everyone needs help. We have nothing that was gained and not given. Isaiah gave a perfect description of human inadequacy, when he said of one whose faith was in himself, "For the bed is shorter than that a man can stretch himself on it; and the covering narrower than that he can wrap himself in it." We are absolutely dependent.

How wonderful is the divine answer to our need. Listen! "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty." Think what it means to abide "under the shadow of the Almighty." First, it means the certainty of God's reality; for just as there is no effect without cause, there is no shadow without substance. This was the Psalmist's beautiful way of saying that while we cannot see God we can be sure of His reality.

Again it means comfort in the heat and burden of the day. The man who wrote these words lived in a desert country where, in scorching heat, the comfort of a shadow is wonderful beyond our ability to understand. So, when Isaiah wanted to describe God's man, he likened him unto "The shadow of a mighty rock in a weary land." It means comfort and rich relief.

In the third place, "To abide under the shadow of the Almighty" is to feel safe and secure, to know that He who daily bears the burden of life will take our burdens upon himself or give us strength to bear them. He is our sufficiency. So, age after age, from the deep places of human experience comes the testimony that God is our "strength and Redeemer," our "guide and stay; strong tower; hiding place; rock, rescue, refuge; a very present help in trouble." God is everything that means security.

"Mother, will you be here when I come home?" asks a little child as he goes to school. He feels safe and secure in the knowledge that his mother will greet him when he comes home. So with man who knows that he will never be forsaken or left alone by Him whose promises are tried and true.

The foregoing is from an article entitled "Prayer is the Answer," by John Paul Pack, in "The Christian-Evangelist" of a few years ago. It is quite evident that if we are to be "taught to pray" that we must have two things: A teacher who knows how to pray; and a God who is real and who is able to answer our prayers. We need only to diligently search the Scriptures to find that our Lord Jesus Christ is the one who is completely able to teach us both the meaning of prayer and the manner of prayer. Faith and sincerity are the two requisites which we must possess if we would learn to pray aright. "But," you say, "can one really learn to pray?" Recall, if you will, that the disciples, when they came to Jesus for instruction in prayer, did not say, "Lord, teach us how to pray," but rather they said, "Lord, teach us to pray."

Consider, if you will, how Jesus Prayed. Therein can we find the key of being "taught to pray."

We find it is not the length of a prayer that counts for most. Jesus said that we should not pray like those who thought they were heard for "their much speaking." The longest recorded prayer of Jesus is found in John 17. Here, at the very close of His earth life, He had much to pray for, for He was praying for His close followers. But note His prayer before the tomb of Lazarus, "Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the people which stand by I said it, that they might believe that thou hast sent me." A few words, but what a weight of power they carried, a power that could even raise the dead to life.

But follow Him to the Garden of Gethsemane. Much speaking? No! Simply a few words, but straight from the heart; so urgent that it caused Him to sweat, as it were, great drops of blood: "Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless not my will but thine, be done." Do we need more to teach us what it takes to really pray?

A second thing we need to recognize in the school of prayer is that it is not the posture of body that counts, but the condition of the heart. Jesus prostrated Himself on the ground in Gethsemane; He stood before the tomb of Lazarus; He reclined at the supper table when He made His great intercessory prayer, as recorded in John 17. Standing, reclining, kneeling, prostrated before God, all amounts to the same thing in the sight of God, for He sees the "intents of the heart"—He hears the voice of the soul. Of course it is fitting and proper that we kneel in the presence of our King; but to merit the hearing of our plea the King must know that His subjects are loyal to His cause and willing to die, if need be, for Him.

A third thing should be remembered. Prayer is not "telling God" what He should do for us; it is laying our problem at His feet and depending on Him to provide the answer in His own good way. If we would just remember that "His ways are not our ways," and that whatever He provides is better than that which we ask, we will have gone a long way in learning "to Pray."

And last, but by no means least, we must learn that prayers for others are more important than prayers for ourselves. Of course we can include ourselves in the desire we have for others, but no prayer should ever be made exclusively for ourselves. When the Lord told His disciples the Way of Prayer, in the "Our Father" (which, by the way, should not really be called "The Lord's Prayer" for it was not His prayer, but that which he taught His disciples) that which He taught was an "all-inclusive" prayer: "Our" and "Us" are the words which we should note closely. Someone has written:

Thou canst not pray the Lord's prayer
And make a selfish plea,
Thou canst not pray the Lord's prayer
And ever once say, "ME."
For it's "Our," "Our," "Our,"
And it's "Us," "Us," "Us,"
Three times it says "Our"
And a fourth time it says "Us."

After all, if we would be taught to pray, we must first of all be teachable. We must be willing to go to the teacher empty, and then we can come away full. We must be willing to submerge self, and be ready and willing to take Him at His word. We must be willing to "enter the closet; shut the door"; and pray from the heart. Then and then only will we have learned the real secret of communion with the Father, through His Son, our Redeemer and our Advocate.

Will God Punish With Severity?

Raymond Stoffer

There are people who say, "God is too good to punish with severity." But would God be a just God if, after giving us commands and warnings as to our method of living, and if we violate His commands, He would fail to keep His word as to punishment, no matter how severe, for the violation on our part?

Suppose we, as parents, should say to our children, "I don't want you to do this or that, and, if you do, I will punish you." Then the children go and violate the wishes or the admonitions of the parents. What kind of children would these children become? If the parents failed to carry out their promises, soon the children would ignore the word of their parents, and their admonitions would be meaningless.

God must mete out His justice to the violator in order to be a just God. The way to escape God's punishment is to be obedient children. As God says in His Word, "Thus saith the Lord," learn to obey. This is always the only policy of safety.

SATIRE HUMOROUSLY DEDUCED FROM SCRIPTURE

H. A. Gossard

(Revelation 8:1)

Though Woman rates with Man in the Creation,
And stands a grade above in degradation,
She in her aim to prove him dissident,
Erring in judgment, showed him diligent . . .
Her speech, incessant, barred her from the sky:
The PATMOS VISION tells in veiled despair
Of silence:—and that means "no woman" there.

(Genesis 3rd Chapter)

When men and women meet to make decisions
On vital issues, then arise divisions . . .
Since always there's an imp of subtle thinking
Who offers artful plans (the while he's winking)

To one more tutored, but too weak to grapple,
And says "Buy off your husband with an apple;
For he who set this lure before your eyes
To create hunger while he food denies,
Lacks wisdom in his counsel; for he knows
All hunger tempted in proportion grows."
Thus did the subtle Vender, with a grin,
Propose that Eve do that which God called sin . . .
His pert allusions were that God had lied:—
Then MAN partook, and from that moment died . . .
The Vender hissed as in the dust he reeled,
Elaat to see that God-taught Man would yield.

Leaves From My Diary

Mrs. G. E. Drushal, Lost Creek, Kentucky

(We are glad to again present more "Leaves from the Diary of Sister Drushal," although this seems to be just "one leaf." The disasterious fire, the multiplied added duties of the work, in addition to which Sister Drushal reports the loss of two of her diary books and one record book from her table in the past few months—all these have militated against her sending the weekly notes as she had so much intended to do. However, she now writes that she will endeavor to send these daily notes along from week to week. We are glad for the resumption of what we considered fine news from our Kentucky field.—Editor)

March 7. Sat down to write my diary and discovered the book was not to be found. This happened before in December—the disappearance of two diary books and one record book where we listed the clothing receipts: puzzles us. Our house is many times full of children and maybe one of them liked the looks of the backs of the books. I don't think they would be interested in the contents. Or I might even find them down behind a book case some time.

I had wanted to copy my notes I had written about the lovely guests we have had since we last wrote, but will go to our guest book instead. There were the Three Bairs bringing a lovely new Frigidaire for the dormitory, from Canton, Ohio, the gift of the Ohio District W. M. S. Then Mr. and Mrs. Kraning of Mexico, Indiana, and Rev. and Mrs. Robert Higgins of Bunker Hill, Indiana, came with a load clothing. Clarence H. Benson, Secretary of the Evangelical Teacher Training Association of America came to consult with us about our Bible department, since Riverside is a member of this Association.

Then came Mr. Knidley of North Manchester and Ira Swihart of Wabash, bringing clothing, dishes, a lovely Mixmaster, oil stove, skillet and other things. Then at Christmas time, who should come but Miss Bessie Hooks of Pennsylvania, who worked here with us for so long. It seemed like old times. On January 18th folks from Goshen, Indiana, gave a surprise visit: Mrs. Harley Stuckman, Mrs. Willis Ronk, Mrs. Adeline Miller and Mrs. Rollie Roth.

Then came the fire. You know the story, but unless you have gone through with it, you do not know the "feelings." All we could do was stand by and watch and pray. Our neighbors were wonderful. Places were offered for all the boys to stay all night, and in two days the women had nine comforts made for us. Folks in other places have also been good neighbors, but ours here have been especially good, too. In every crisis they have risen up and helped pull things through. Taking the doctor's advice, the Kecks left the next day for Ashland for a week. We sent the boys home who had homes to go to, and closed school for a week to give us time to catch our breath and get things ready to go on. Folks asked, "What will you do?" There was just one answer—"Go right on." We had put our hand to the plow nearly forty-three years ago and there must be no turning back now.

But now to come back to our guests. The third day after the fire who should come but Mr. and Mrs. Charles Munson, bringing a load of bedding and clothing from the Fair-haven and Ashland churches and the College. Was anything more welcome? Then the next day Mr. Deihl and Mr. Musser of Bryan, Ohio, arrived with a load of food and clothing and other needed things. This was quick work by the Bryan and Ashland folks, who surely sensed the urgency of the need. It all seemed like manna sent down from heaven.

Mr. Zeigler from New Castle, Penna., was the next to arrive with clothing. On February 9th Mr. and Mrs. Francis Berkshire from Masontown, Penna., came. They, too, had a splendid assortment of things: clothing, blankets, soap, books, etc. And to keep the ball rolling, next came Harry Baugher and Truman Dayhoff of the Linwood, Maryland, church with their car full of groceries, soap and clothing. But the Lord's hand was not slackened and on February 10th Mr. and Mrs. Paul Witmer came bringing clothing and pillows from the Ashland Church.

So we were glad we had determined to carry on, although at the time we did not know whom the Lord was going to use to help. But help came and the boys and teachers are more comfortably situated than we had thought would be possible for such temporary arrangements. The Old House of Cracks has once again proven a friend in need.

I have only mentioned what folks have brought in, but must add that many faithful friends have sent by mail and express, clothing, bedding, towels, delicious cookies. We cannot tell it all, but have written personal letters telling all how thankful we are.

Next week I may be able to send my Diary Notes again.

Travel Flashes

Dr. Charles A. Bame

With Friends

"Hello! is this you, Charlie?" "Yes, who's talking?" "It's Hugh." "O yes, I'm glad to talk with you. What's cooking?" "Oh, I was thinking of taking a trip . . . to see our friend . . . Would you care to go along?" "Sure! I'm anxious to go and shall make it possible." So we went.

Friends

We three had been friends—all of us preachers—for many years. In youth, separated by a few miles; in active life separated many years at times, and by multiplied hundreds of miles; but now, all three no more than 50 miles apart and one, sick—in fact by a "stroke," almost speechless, and yet, not "sick abed," nor too sick to enjoy company. We "visitors" active and strong; he, leaning like Jacob, "on the top of his staff" (cane). Heb. 11:21. Our conversation was meagre because of his limitations. But his apparent pleasure, his alertness expressed in his smile, and our joy that he was still able to care for himself, was satisfaction enough to pay for the journey.

"Good Friends"

We tried to be good friends—not the kind Job had, who came to "mourn and comfort him," expressing their "comfort" as they "lifted up their voices and wept . . . rent every one his mantle, and sprinkled dust upon their heads" and then, when they came into his presence, "sat down with him seven days and nights and none spake a word unto him." Job. 2:12, 13.

I am not boasting of our modern good method, nor of our sacrifices; but I do feel that the way of people of our oldest record (Job) is poor compared to the ways now made possible by psychiatry and the best of all friends: "One that sticketh closer than a brother" Prov. 18:24. And in that same verse it is advised that "a man that hath friends must show himself friendly." Not first necessarily, but certainly, assuredly, and regardless, even reckless, of the cost and sacrifice.

The Cost

The price of friendship is great not because it is prepaid, for if it is obtained because it "might come handy some time," it is not friendship; that is a bargain with the added suspicion of gambling. If it is "paid for" or because of a hope of gain, it is short of the meaning of the word.

A young lady of much experience with the public recently said, "If it's for present or future gain, it is not friendship at all." And I agree.

The depth of the meaning of this word "friend" was given on the last night of our Lord's life when He told His disciples "Henceforth I call you not servants, but FRIENDS." John 15:15. And what a friendship it was to be! He was soon to die for them; one was soon to deny Him with curses; one had already bargained His life away for thirty pieces of silver; two, He had called Sons of Thunder (Mark 3:17); some of them had never shown great activity or sacrifice or consecration, so far as the Sacred Record shows. Yet He raised His spoken esteem of them to the highest level—"friends." That must have been prepaid as it is for each and all who will receive His "well done" just as we enter into the "joy of our Lord." Matt. 21:23, 25. Prepaid! "While we were yet sinners." Romans 5:8.

"Jesus paid it all,
All to Him I owe,
Sin had left a crimson stain,
He washed it white as snow."

See I Corinthians 6:11.

Even though His friends dealt "treacherously" with Him (Lam. 1:2), and though He was "wounded in the house of my friends" (Zech. 13:6), yet these had "followed Him in the regeneration" and He had promised them that they would "sit upon the twelve thrones and judge the twelve tribes of Israel" Matt. 19:28. Indeed it must have been prepaid for them and it is for all who believe and "keep in memory" the gospel, else belief "is in vain." I Cor. 15:1-4; Isa. 53:5, 6; Rom. 3:25; 5:6. His word was "out" and He must make good, and He did, and He will. It is forever settled. Psalm 119:89.

Recompense

We did get some pay the very next day, in the mail. His lovely and faithful daughter said, among other things, "So glad you could come and see Dad, and hope to see you again before long." But that is not all the recompense, for while the "hireling looketh for a reward" (Job 7:2), "great is your reward in heaven" if "ye remember my commandments to do them." "Pure religion" is to visit in time of trouble, and "to keep one's self unspotted from the world." James 1:27. And who would want any religion that is not pure? "He who loveth God, loves his brother also." I John 4:5. There is great recompense in doing lovely things. There is too infrequent visitation of friends. Better to try than to fail to try.

A Wreck

On another evening wife and I were returning from "calls" and approached the intersection of two main roads and there, flat on its side, was a 1948 car, dented, broken and wrecked beyond appreciable remaking. Each passing motorist stopped and asked the cause. Someone was careless? Surely, someone was! It was the one arrested, now in one of the hospitals, while the lady in his car was in another hospital in another city. Financial loss, insurance considerations, hospitalizations, cripples, perhaps deaths. That's the price of speed.

Wrecked cars! Wrecked fortunes! Wrecked Ideals! Wrecked families! Wrecked associations! Wrecked truthfulness as each blames the other. That is the story of modern speed, a price too terrible to contemplate, but only one of so many different kinds of speed that meditation, contemplation and consideration of God and holiness are being forever lost and so irretrievable, that there is hope only through another source and that Source, our Lord and Master who will return with a speed unimaginable and "as a snare" to the proud promoters of the supersonic ideas of speed, change and agnosticism. Luke 21:35; Mark 13:35, 36.

Desperation

But the wreck of all the above is but small compared with the wrecking of a good conscience in the heart of the sinner. Even the selfless Paul found terrible conflict of his desires with the victory he coveted. Romans 7. To derive such a conflict is to shame the confessions he makes often—a confession more Christians should make and a victory our Savior guarantees each of us. As Weymouth translates I Cor. 10:13, "God will not allow you to be tempted beyond your strength . . . he will also provide a way out." Paul found a "way out" and shouted unashamed that the victory was due only to throwing his burden of sins entirely on the Lord. Listen to him. "In my inmost self all my sympathy is with the Law of God; but I discover in my faculties a different law, at war with the law of my understanding, and leading me captive to the law which is in my faculties—the law of sin." (Weymouth). "O wretched man that I am! (Wrecked?) Who shall deliver me?" Romans 7:22-25.

Deliverance!

"I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord." He was not unlike the living person pinned beneath the wrecked car waiting, praying, crying for help until a savior come; now he lives as does our Lord. There is relief. "No condemnation" to the delivered ones. He is a "new creature in Christ Jesus." Remade! II Corinthians 5:17; Romans 8:-8, 27.

1948-49 Ashland College A Cappella Choir

PICTURED on this page is the Ashland College A Cappella Choir which is about to embark on its annual tour of the churches of the Brethren denomination. Since the beginning of the choir some twelve years ago, this trip has always been the highlight of the school year for choir members. Each year an effort is made to visit as many churches as possible. This year's itinerary is the most ambitious ever attempted by an Ashland group of this size.

Leaving Ashland on the day following Easter, the choir will visit nine Brethren communities in eight days, returning to Ashland on April 25. Farthermost communities to be reached this year are Lanark and Milledgeville in Illinois. This will be the first time that the choir has ventured into that state. While plans are always subject to revision, it is hoped that conditions will permit the choir trip next year to be through southern Ohio and Indiana. In 1951, the schedule calls for the trip to be east again into Maryland or even farther.

Leaving Ashland early on the morning of April 18, the schedule follows:

- April 18—Goshen, Indiana Brethren Church
- April 19—(Morning) Goshen High School
- April 19—(Evening) North Liberty Brethren Church
- April 20—Milledgeville Brethren Church
- April 21—(Afternoon) Lanark High School
- April 21—(Evening) Lanark Brethren Church
- April 22—Elgin, Ill. Church of the Brethren
- April 23—Open in Chicago.
- April 24—(Morning) Nappanee Brethren Church
- April 24—(Afternoon) South Bend Brethren Church

April 24—(Evening) Elkhart Brethren Church

April 25—(Morning) Elkhart High School

April 25—(Evening) Bryan Brethren Church

The choir will proceed home yet that evening.

Dr. Louis E. Pete, a name always linked with the Cappella Choir, since it was through his efforts that the idea materialized, will lead the group again this year. Also accompanying the singers will be Miss Mildred Fry, Dean of Women and Art Petit, Director of Public Relations. The group travels by Greyhound Bus and their own cars. Since the personnel of the traveling group is about 60, feeding and housing it is frequently a great problem. Restaurants suitable for such a group are relatively scarce along the highways. Congregations have always found it possible to house the choir over night.

When Dr. Pete assumed the directorship of the choir in the prewar days, he changed it from the old concept of glee clubs to that of singing without accompaniment. In turning his choirs after the famous choirs of St. Olaf College, Dr. Pete has brought his organizations to the point of perfecting perfection in "making music" as he prefers to call it. Many who have "graduated" from the choir look back on it as one of the finest experiences ever. At a recent concert in which the choir sang the St. Cecilia Mass by Gounod, one of the members said it was one of the finest religious experiences of his life. This number will come to be identified with the Ashland Choir. Parts of it will be used on the tour.

Dr. Pete fits the music to the type of choir which reported to him in the fall. A great mass of music literature is available to the choir and from it he selects those numbers which best fits his choir. Many of the numbers which

Choir

The choir sang last year have been discarded this year and many new ones added. Negro spirituals and numbers from the Greek Orthodox Church are popular with the choir.

Only two churches which were visited two years ago on the trip through Indiana will be visited this time. They are Elkhart and Bryan. The choir policy is to visit as many different churches as possible in the three year span. This is in line with the Ashland College policy of being of greatest service to the greatest number in the Brethren Churches.

The choir has already sung four concerts in and around Ashland. One of the concerts was in the First Presbyterian Church in Canton. This concert was jointly sponsored by the Canton Brethren Church and a number of Canton business men interested in Ashland. Several hundred people attended this concert on a week night in this large and strange church. The choir responded with a concert which can be ranked among its best.

An undertaking of great proportions is in the making as this is being written, Musicaglia, the Ashland College musical organization has scheduled, on March 27, the choirs of Findlay College, Hiram College and Ashland High School to join with the college choir in individual numbers and a massed singing of the St. Cecilia Mass in the McDowell Auditorium. As this is written, great things are expected from this undertaking.

Members of the Brethren Church, Alumni and friends of the college are urged to make a special effort to hear this choir this year if it is within driving distance. It is one of the fine choirs among colleges and well worth an extra effort to hear.

Can You Beat This Record?

During the past year we have noticed several church schools reporting attendance records at different times, and at this particular time we have a new one, we think.

Last Sunday morning at the First Brethren Church here in New Paris, Indiana, little Linda DeBoer was awarded an honor pin in which the numeral 5 was centered. These award pins are given to Sunday School members any time they have completed a year of perfect attendance. Linda's has been a record of five consecutive years of perfect attendance without a miss, and she is the youngest member to accomplish this record here. This is very unusual, due to the fact that Linda just turned five years old on February 27th.

Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben DeBoer New Paris, who have seen to it that Linda was in services ever since she was two weeks old. Their faithfulness made this possible, along with her being blest with very good childhood health. She is the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. Miller of New Paris, the former also having eighteen consecutive years attendance record. Her great grandfather, Mr. John Smoker, also of New Paris, who is now 83 years old, has missed only one Sunday in the memory of his family, that Sunday being eleven years ago, when he figured in an auto accident in which Mrs. Smoker lost her life.

These individual records have been kept only the past eighteen years at our church school, so some members would have even more years than our records show.

Up to the present time we have awarded 84 pins. Six of these were for records of from 15 to 20 years, seven for between 10 and 15 years and the remaining 47 pins are numbers from 1 to 5 years. We feel this is a very good average considering our membership is less than a hundred.

Mr. Stanford Smoker is the School superintendent, and Rev. C. A. Stewart is in his third year as minister, succeeding the Rev. G. W. Rensch, who served a long pastorate of more than sixteen years and who, with Mrs. Rensch, ever yet cheer us with their regular attendance at the services of the church.

Yours for better records in His Name,

Mrs. Woodrow Immel, Cor. Sec.

WITH THE LAYMEN

NORTHERN INDIANA LAYMEN MEET

THE FORTY-NINTH Quarterly meeting of the Northern Indiana Laymen's Brotherhood of the Brethren Church was held in the Milford Brethren Church on Monday evening, March 7th. The largest crowd in the twelve year history of the organization was on hand for the fish supper, and were those fish ever good. This type of supper was made possible through an arrangement with the Jonah Club of Akron, Indiana, a worthy group of men who delight in serving fish suppers.

Harold Gawthrop, president of the Milford Laymen, was in charge of the meeting, and extended a cordial welcome to all. The personnel of the Jonah Club was introduced, and received a great hand for a fine supper. The group was led in prayer by Floyd Schuder. Rev. E. M. Riddle, Field Secretary for Ashland College and Seminary, was introduced. He in turn, introduced the Ashland College Quartet, which consisted of Dorman Ronk of California; Louis Smith of Elkhart, Indiana; Ivan Ronk of Goshen, Indiana; and John Lindower of Ashland, Ohio. These young men then presented a group of quartet numbers. John Lindower was at his best in presenting "Polonaise," by Chopin, and an encore by Henderson, on the piano. A tenor solo, "Danny Boy" was sung by Dorman Ronk. Because the hour was late, Rev. Riddle took just a few minutes for his remarks. He observed that the laymen are now beginning to take their rightful places along side the other auxiliary organizations of the church, and noted that it was indeed gratifying to see advancement in all branches of the work. He cautioned, however, to be aware of the evils of the world today, and that we should appreciate the privilege of fellowship and the strength we gain from it, to continue in His service.

The quartet presented two more groups of delightful songs, and John Lindower rendered another piano solo, after which the Ashland group was excused and started on their return trip to Ashland.

President Harold Hummel of Goshen took charge of the business session. A total of 276 men answered to roll call from the various churches. The offering, in support of our Shishewana project, amounted to $128.51.

Fred Pippen of Sherwood, Michigan (formerly of Napanee) was introduced and gave a very interesting report of the mission church at Sherwood, the existence of which is due to his untiring effort, loyalty and faith in God. He humbly covets an interest in the prayers of everyone in the Brotherhood.

The next meeting was announced as a joint meeting of the Northern and Southern Districts to be held in the First Brethren Church of Warsaw, Indiana, in June.

Raymond Purcell, reporting for the project committee, suggested that response could be better in behalf of the appeal made for talent to assist in the services at Sherwood, naming this, along with the recent tragedy at Lost Creek, as two very worthy mission projects.

Warsaw reported the illness of Rev. W. B. Brant, and requested that he be remembered in prayer. President Hummel responded immediately by having the group stand in silent meditation, and he concluded with a special prayer.

Charles Smith, State President, voiced a word of commendation for the Indiana District in behalf of the fine response in support of the station wagon. In round numbers approximately $1,500.00 has been given. He, too, mentioned the need of much prayer, that this equipment might be delivered, so it can be used.

The South Bend laymen announced that they were promoting the ceiling of the bedrooms at the Hotel at Shishewana, and March 19th was set aside for this. They invited everyone interested to come and help.

A well deserved vote of thanks was extended to the Milford Church for the promotion of one of our finest meetings.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. Claud Studebaker.

GRAPES, GIANTS, GARRISONS, GRASSHOPPERS —OR GOD!

Scripture: Numbers 13:21-33

WHAT WAS THE MATTER with those ten spies who saw the land upon which they had been sent to make a report, and then came back with this report: "... we came unto the land whither thou sentest us, and surely it floweth with milk and honey; and this (a bunch of grapes so large that they bore it upon a pole between two men) is the fruit of it. Nevertheless the people be strong that dwell in the land, and the cities are walled, and very great: and moreover we saw the children of Anak there . . ."

And then there intervenes the record of the report of Caleb, the spokesman for the minority report, who counselled immediate action looking to the conquest of the land, a feat which he declared they were well able to accomplish.

But the majority continued their doleful report with the insistence that "... the land through which we have gone to search it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and all the people that we saw in it were men of great stature. And there we saw the giants, the sons of Anak, which come of the giants: and we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight."

These first spies sent out by the Israelites to look over the land of Canaan saw it through the eyes of fear, and they got a distorted view, and it kept them out of the land for forty years. Shall we examine that experience of these men a bit?

Grapes. Well, they found grapes—great, luscious, refreshing grapes. Grapes so large that two men found it a fair burden to bear one bunch upon a pole borne between them. And it was, according to that same report, "a land flowing with milk and honey," an expression suggesting the height of temporal, physical sustenance, a land where there was no scarceness and where none would need to want.

Giants. They had seen—and brought proof of the same—wonderful grapes; but they had seen Giants, and the grapes were not large enough to take their gaze from the giants, so they saw more to fear than to fill.

Grasshoppers. "And we were in our own sight as grasshoppers, and so we were in their sight." David saw a giant, too, and yet he quailed not nor forsook the conflict. Goliath "huffed and puffed" at David, and I imagine his roar would have scared the "daylights" out of many a seasoned soldier of Saul's army. In fact he must have already done so, for none took his dare to fight with him.

God. And so it is today. Men see garrisons and giants (walled places impossible of conquest) and men of great stature (intimidation in human form) but fail to see God and to reckon on Him. For that "majority-group" God dwarfed and dwindled and Giants and Garrisons loomed large. But what are walled cities, and Giant garrisons to our God? What are walls to our God? for our God goes through walls when He starts! The walls of Jericho fell down, and faith brought them down. The Israelites did nothing toward breaking down those walls, they just marched and blew trumpets: God destroyed the walls. The Psalmist said, "For by Thee, I have run through a troop, and by my God have I leaped over a wall." It was God who led them and He was enough for any garrison. The God in whose name David came against the Giant was equal to the conquest of the enemy. If you do not believe it, just glance at the headless carcass of the roaring, taunting braggart left lying on the field.

What are Giants to God? Why should we let the human intimidate us anyway? Why not let the divine stimulate us? WHY NOT RECKON ON GOD? He is, and He does. WE FAIL TO POSSESS BECAUSE WE FEAR TO POSSESS. Fear keeps us from the victories of faith, for there is NO FAITH IN FEAR, and there is NO FEAR IN FAITH. "FAITH IS THE VICTORY."

"God, lift our eyes to behold Thyself!
God, culture our faith to see Thyself!
God, mature our trust in Thyself!
God, teach us to know Thyself!"

Lord, do this for us! We cannot do it ourselves. We will ever be seeing Giants and Garrisons and ourselves as Grasshoppers, until we see Thee as God. Amen.

Laid to Rest

GRIFFIN. Mollie Rebecca Gans was born near Uniontown, Pennsylvania, May 15, 1859, a daughter of Elder William Gans, pioneer Brethren minister. She passed away at a Rest Home in Uniontown, March 5, 1949, in the 89th year of her age. Sister Griffin had been an invalid for a number of years but bore her affliction patiently, and held herself in readiness for her Master's call. She had been a life-long member of the Brethren church, and at the time of her passing was a member of the Second Brethren congregation at Uniontown. The writer had served as her pastor during his three pastorates at Uniontown, and had given his promise to conduct the obsequies for her, in case she was first to be called home. Word came on March 5th of her passing, and on March 7th the promise was fulfilled and her body was laid to rest beside that of her husband in God's acre:

Sister Griffin was a loyal supporter of the Brethren church, a lifelong reader of the Brethren Evangelist, and always interested in news from her local church and the brotherhood as well. She was a no mean defender of Brethren faith and practices, and generous supporter of the enterprises of her local church and the general brotherhood.

Her husband preceded her in death by some three years, and Sister Griffin looked forward to a joyous reunion with her beloved companion. She leaves one brother, three stepsons, besides a number of nephews and nieces, and a large circle of more distant relatives. Brethren ministers who have served either the Masontown or the Uniontown, Pennsylvania, churches will remember Sister Griffin and the hospitality of her home. She has gone to her eternal reward, and we who called her friend and fellow Christian are left to emulate her loyalty and faithfulness.

Dyoll Belote.

BENSHOFF. David F. Benshoff was born February 24, 1877 at Rosedale, in Johnstown, Pa. He was one of 13 children of Benjamin and Catherine (Snyder) Benshoff. His wife, Lucinda St. Clair Benshoff preceded him in death December 22, 1943. Their children are: Mrs. Charles F. (Myra) Dysert, Jr., Miss Catherine Benshoff and Floyd S. Benshoff who survive. Other members of the immediate family include a sister, Mrs. Martha Lewis, and two brothers, John W. and Lewis M.; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Mr. Benshoff was a life-long member of the Rosedale and Third Brethren Church of Johnstown. At the time of his death he was senior deacon, teacher of the Men's Bible Class and financial secretary of the Third Church. He served as treasurer of National Conference for a number of years. He was also active in civic and community affairs until ill health forced his retirement last November.

His life was an inspiration to all who knew him; and all who knew him admired and loved him. He answered the call of his God March 3, 1949, having lived among us for 72 years.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. N. V. Leatherman and Rev. D. Richard Wolfe, from the Wagner Funeral Home. Internment was at the Beautiful Grandview Cemetery.

D. Richard Wolfe, Pastor Johnstown Third Church.

I BELIEVE IN CHRIST'S CHURCH

Scripture: Matt. 16:13-19; Acts 2:1-12

For The Leader

AT THIS SEASON of the year, in many denominations, many young people are looking forward to being received into the Church. We, of the Brethren, make it more or less of a year around activity. But regardless of when we are received into the Church we should be sure that we have a clear conception of the Church, its Founder, purpose, privileges and obligations. If such were understood by the membership of a church, there would be far less "dead-wood, inactive, and part-time" members. Let it it never be said of us as young people that we took lightly our responsibilities to our Church.

DISCUSSION

1. CHRIST, THE FOUNDER OF THE CHURCH. Even the youngest of us can understand that "Christ loved the church, and gave Himself for it." Christ was truly the Founder of the Church. His work of redemption needed an instrument through which its message could be propagated. And so this great church, of which we are a part had Christ, the Eternal Son of God, as its Founder. The church we see as a building, and where we worship, is but a small part of that great eternal Church. The term, church, as we use it, does not necessarily mean those who were Christ's, for often people get into the church who are not His. The great, invisible church is composed of all believers of all ages, many gone on to their reward, others yet with us. Let us be sure that in joining the church that our names, through faith in Christ, repentance and obedience, are also included in the membership of Christ's eternal Church.

2. THE PURPOSE OF THE CHURCH. The Church has a three-fold purpose. That is, the Church which we call our own church. This includes the building, organization, pastor and members and services. First of all, the Church has the purpose of worship, of giving praise, of bringing our gifts. We are taught in the scriptures to "not forsake the assembling of ourselves together." As we come together, sing our songs of praise, offer our prayers, give our gifts, and listen to the sermon, we are fulfilling one of the purposes of the Church. Second, the Church has as its purpose the edifying, or the teaching of the things of God. We who are His, should always be diligent in learning more about Him. Thus, when services are announced, we should be present to learn of things eternal. In the third place, the Church has the purpose of spreading the saving gospel of Christ. A church that does not do this is destined to foreclosure. Thus, in review, the Church worships, learns, and witnesses. Are we doing all that in our Church?

3. PRIVILEGES WE HAVE IN THE CHURCH. We cannot evaluate the worth of the church as a testimony and symbol of right, virtue, and decent living in a community. Suffice it to say that far too many people receive the benefits of the church without as much as turning an eye toward it. In your community it stands for all that is decent and right. You would not want to live in a town without a church. Peace and security are but several of the privileges of the Church. But also, in your Church you can find satisfaction for your hungry soul. You can find relief from sorrow and remorse. Its pastor will come and advise, comfort and encourage when you need him. You can settle the problem of the destiny of your soul in your church. You can be married in your church, and when life's days are completed, a respectable, Christian burial is assured for you from your Church and its ministry. And for how much? Just attendance at Sunday School, plus a nickel or a dime in the collection? Maybe that's all you do, but you aren't supporting your church, either. Suppose everybody attended and paid like you do? Make church attendance at all services, and a liberal offering a part of the church you call "your Church."

4. RESPONSIBILITIES OF YOUR CHURCH. Almost we dealt with this in the last topic. But, you see, Privilege and Responsibility are so interlocked that we cannot talk about the one without mentioning the other. What do you get for your offering? The services of a man who is specially trained as a Doctor of your soul. He knows your spiritual needs, and seeks to give you help in each message, or in each personal visit. You get his services when you are ill and when all else in life fails to count, he is there to comfort and assure you in the eternal promises of God. You get a place to fellowship and meet other people. You get a place in which you can learn more about God. And so, you have some very definite responsibilities. Who are the officers of your church, rather, what age are they? Answer that with an examination of your life and ask how many times you have turned your back on the church services, prayer meetings and business meetings of your church. Don't get the idea that that can go on forever. It is time we help to shoulder the load, but to do that, we must be dependable. Your Pastor never asks an undependable person, or a person who shirks duty, more than once. Your church needs more than your nickles and dimes. The heart of the Lord is grieved when people who are earning $40.00, $50.00 and more a week slip through their church envelope with a thin dime within. And that's supposed to keep a church going! The Lord says, give of your substance as the Lord hath blessed you. Let us, young people, think in terms of dollars and five dollars and tens, when we give to the church. Other responsibilities include taking and doing a job when asked; praying for your church and pastor and officers. Are you doing your part?

QUESTIONS

1. A young person is baptized, becomes a member of the church, and then attends only Sunday School, saying that the church services makes too long to sit at a time. Do you think that person has truly given their heart to the Lord?

2. A mother cannot stay for church services because she is getting company. Do you think she is doing the right thing by going home after Sunday School?

THE CONQUERORS

By Charles Ross Weed

Jesus and Alexander died at thirty-three;

One lived and died for self,

One died for you and me.

The Greek died on the throne,

The Jew died on a cross.

One's life a triumph seemed,

The other but a loss.

One led vast armies forth,

The other walked alone.

One shed the whole world's blood,

The other gave His own.

One won the world in life and lost it all in death,

The other lost His life to win a whole world's faith.

Jesus and Alexander died at thirty-three.

One died in Babylon,

And One on Calvary.

One gained all for himself,

And One, Himself He gave.

One conquered every throne,

The Other every grave.

The one made himself god,

And God made Himself less.

The one lived but to blast,

The Other but to bless.

When died the Greek, forever fell his throne of swords,

But Jesus died to live forever, King of kings and Lord of lords.

Jesus and Alexander died at thirty-three.

The Greek made all men slaves,

The Jew made all men free.

One built a throne on blood,

The Other built on love.

The one was born of earth,

The Other from above.

One conquered all the earth,

To lose all earth and Heaven;

The Other gave up all,

That all to Him be given.

The Greek forever died,

The Jew forever lives.

He loses all who gets, and wins all who gives.

Opening Prayer

Seed Thought Provokers:

UNFORTUNATELY Christ has been covered with a mass of error which is religious, ceremonial and philosophic (John 20:13; 12:21). The virgin-born Immanuel was prophesied seven and one-half centuries in advance of His coming (Isa. 7:14). Of His coming Moses foretold (Deut. 18:15, 17, 19). When Jesus came He spoke what Moses said He would speak (John 7:16; 8:28, 24). The purpose of His death was foretold by Isaiah (Isa. 53:6). And thus Christ came and died (1 Peter 2:24, 25; 1 Peter 3:18). In 480 B. C. Zechariah foretold Christ's triumphal entry into Jerusalem (Zech. 9:9). David foretold the details of Christ's crucifixion (Psa. 22:16, 18, 19). Let the unbeliever explain fulfilled prophecy if he can.

Never man spoke like Jesus (John 7:46; 8:10, 11). His works were matchless (Mark 7:37). Observe His peerless poise (John 8:46; 18:4-6). Clearly He foresaw the cross from the first (John 2:19-21). Later He saw its approach at hand (Matt. 20:18, 19). He was certain of success (Matt. 16:18). Close to Calvary His confidence remained (John 16:33). No other conqueror possessed such merited confidence. He was certain of His resurrection (John 16:33).

Demons acknowledged His deity (Mark 5:7); Judas and Pilate acknowledged His innocence (Matt. 27:4, 24). While on the cross He convinced men (Luke 23:42; Matt. 27:54). Dying He dealt with sin (1 John 3:5-8; John 1:29). He dealt with our sin (Isa. 53:6; 1 Peter 3:18). After His resurrection He appeared unto His followers eleven recorded times. His ascension into Heaven showed that His work in our behalf had the Divine approval (Psa. 24:7, 8; Heb. 9:24).

Ancient prophecy foretold the Lord's second return (Isa. 40:9, 10). Jesus promised to come again (John 14:3; Matt. 16:27). Angels prophesied His return (Acts 1:9-11). Our hope is in His return (1 Thes. 4:13-18; Phil. 3:20, 21). Terrible judgment awaits the unsaved (2 Thes. 1:7-9). Are you ready for His coming? Rev. 11:15; 20:6).

JESUS' MINISTRY IN PEREA

Lesson: Mark 10:13-16, 35-40

THE SHORT MINISTRY of Jesus in the province of Perea (commentators say it was not more than six months in duration, and then probably at two different times, so caused by Jesus' return to Jerusalem at the time of the Feast of Dedication,) was just an example of the few times He went beyond the confines of Judea and Galilee. Perea was the seat of Herod's government, and in order to show His fearlessness of any action which Herod might take toward Him, and such action might well be expected, for it was he who had caused the death of John the Baptist, Jesus entered this territory and taught and wrought miracles.

From the lesson text we would have little with which to tie to the topic stated above. There are, however, two lessons which may be deduced from the verses quoted, three in fact if we take the golden text into account as found in Mark 10:46.

Let us take them in order.

1. The scene of the blessing of little children is surely familiar to us, even from childhood. For among the first verses that are taught the little ones is one from the lips of Jesus as He took the little children upon his knees, and looking about Him, almost defiantly, upon those who had rebuked Him for the act, said, "Suffer the little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

We get the full significance of His teaching here when we remember how simple and trustingly the little children took Jesus for what He was and is. It is only as we accept Him and take Him to ourselves in this simple, child-like faith, that we can become fit subjects for His kingdom. We must become as little children again, for at our "new birth" in Christ we are only "babes in Christ," as Paul says, accepting on faith the things which we cannot fully understand.

2. We turn from children to full grown men, men who had become followers of Jesus, but even, as men, did not fully understand Him. So familiar had they become with Jesus that they did not hesitate to ask that they might be rewarded (for their seeming sacrifices), with the highest honors in what they thought was to be a new temporal kingdom. They seemed to think that they surely deserved such honor.

But again let us seek the spiritual significance of the scene. Had not Jesus said in their presence, "He that would be greatest in the kingdom, let him be the servant of all," and had they not understood Him to mean spiritual attainment? Could they have looked ahead just a few short days, do you think they would have stated so surely that they "were able" to "drink" of His cup, and be "baptized" with His baptism?

Our lesson here is surely that God is to be the rewarder. The Word says that God "is the rewarder of them that diligently seek Him."

3. Our third lesson is found in the golden text: "For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many." It has been said that "Christianity without a dying Christ is a dying Christianity." Going, as He was in so short a time, to the cross, He wants His immediate followers to grasp the full significance of His sacrifice. That is what He wants us to do today—to realize that He had put one purpose, and that was "to give His life a ransom" for us. What Jesus taught in those days is still in effect—from childhood to old age, He wants our love, our service, our sacrifices, but not merely for the reward which is to come in the end.

The present condition of the church is one of warfare and pilgrimage.

Self is one of the most dangerous of all the seducing spirits.

Prayer and fasting forms the two-edged sword that gets the victory.

LOYALTY TO CHRIST

(A word of explanation is in order. Brother Gilmer, who has so ably directed the work of Brotherhood in the past, has asked the writer, beginning with this issue, to be responsible for the articles which appear monthly in the "Evangelist." You have been enjoying a study on Biblical characters—particularly Old Testament characters, recently, and now, as your studies begin with a new writer, a new series of studies will also begin, which we trust will also be helpful and interesting. This series will be a "Loyalty" series, with an emphasis for the first while on "Loyalty to Christ" in a variety of ways—as a Person, Leader, Teacher, Saviour, Lord and King. The series will also include studies dealing with such ideas as Loyalty to Christ's Church, to His Kingdom, to His Teachings, His Ideals, etc. Of course, in such a series, too, we should consider our loyalties to our own denomination and the work it represents. So, from time to time, you will find some emphasis placed on these ideas. Meanwhile, let us begin with a brief study relative to our loyalty to Christ.—Rev. John T. Byler, Pastor Louisville, Ohio, Brethren Church.)

THERE IS NO HIGHER LOYALTY in all of the world than loyalty to Christ. There is no higher name among names; no greater power among powers; and no nobler service can anyone perform, than to bow in humility at the feet of Jesus Christ. The Gospels give us a portrait of Christ, and the Epistles of the New Testament give us an interpretation of the life that He lived and the teachings for which He stood.

As we consider the term "loyalty" we find this definition sometimes given: "a willing, practical, and thoroughgoing devotion to a cause." But Christian loyalty is broader than this definition, for Christian loyalty is first of all, loyalty to a person. After that, it is loyalty to a cause. A Christian can be loyal to Christ's cause, only when he is loyal to Christ. That means full surrender to Him—it means that one's interests become Christ's interests.

And herein do we find one of the great differences between Christianity and other religions. Christianity is completely centered in a Personality; many other religions have their emphasis based upon ideals, standards, requirements, and customs. Christianity is based upon a Living Presence—not only One who lived, but upon One who lives.

A story is told of a Christian missionary who entered an African village, where he found a Mohammedan teaching. In the course of the conversation, the Mohammedan with contempt, turned and pointed to the missionary, saying: "This man has no proof of his religion. We turn to our Mecca and find the tomb of the prophet. He turns to Jerusalem and finds nothing." To this the missionary replied: "That is the truth. You worship a dead leader; we worship a risen, living Christ."

It is natural that a response is expected on our parts when Christ demands our loyalty. We ask ourselves: "Shall I unite myself to Christ?" As we answer the latter question, the first one will automatically be worked out by itself.

A story comes to us out of ancient history dealing with Socrates and his followers. It is reported that when Socrates' disciples brought him their presents, one young man hung back because he had nothing which he might offer his teacher. Suddenly, he got an urge which prompted him to throw himself at his teacher's feet. As he did so he exclaimed: "Oh, Socrates, I give thee myself." To which the master answered, as he spoke to all of his students, "He has given more than all of you."

And in this little illustration we have the secret of Loyalty to Christ. As we present ourselves "a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God," we will be doing only that which is our reasonable service, for life's highest loyalty is loyalty to Jesus Christ.

News From Our Churches

REVIVAL AT ELKHART, INDIANA

It was a joyful experience to spend two weeks with the Brethren and friends of the Elkhart, Indiana, Brethren Church, in an effort to win the lost to Christ and edify the saints.

On February 7th the campaign began. From the very first night there was a splendid revival spirit. It was an inspiration to meet with the several prayer groups night after night. It was an inspiration to have the support of such an outstanding choir, an accomplished organist and accomplished pianists. It was a delight to speak to such attentive audiences. This is one of the finest of Brethren Churches, in every way. The consecration and efficiency of the pastoral and lay leadership is worthy of commen-ation. This Church stands in the front rank with the leading evangelical churches of the country.

Mrs. Berkshire and the two girls, Sharon and Phyllis, joined us the second week and helped with the music.

We made our home with the "Kings." This was the first time we had ever lived in the "King's palace" and it was a delight to fellowship with Reverend and Mrs. King and Janet, and to feel at home with every desired comfort provided. It was, also, our first time to be privileged to work with Brother King and his family. I say, family, because of the contribution Mrs. King and Janet, also, make to the work of the Lord in the church. It was indeed a joy to share the united interest of this family for two weeks.

Many friendships were renewed during the two weeks and many new friendships were established. Several of the young people we had learned to know through the Summer Camp work. Others in the church we had learned to know through other denominational channels. It was a time of rejoicing in spiritual things and a time of praising the Lord for His work in our midst.

Again, we would like to thank the church and pastor and his family, for the many fine things which they did for all of us. The offering was a splendid one and, though we felt unworthy of it, we received it with the deepest appreciation.

May the Lord of Glory abundantly bless these people and their pastor as they labor together.

W. Clayton Berkshire.

OAKVILLE, INDIANA

Four months have elapsed since we moved onto this field to work with the brethren in this small but progressive community, and they have been months filled with activity. As soon as the usual Christmas rush was over we began to make plans for a Spring revival meeting—the first for several years. As you read these lines the meeting will be underway and we ask your prayers that the Gospel of Jesus Christ might make itself felt in this community. Since a report of this meeting will probably appear on the pages of a later issue of the Evangelist, we will say nothing further about it except to mention that the enthusiasm for such a period of preaching and fellowship is running high.

In recent months several new features have been added to the church's growing program. For some time the need for a separate Sunday School program for the children has been felt, but no definite steps taken. Early in the year, after much planning, preparation, and publicity, such a program was introduced in this church. Although it is still too early to give any report on this work, we are happy to find a noticeable increase in the children's classes of the school. Parents tell us that their youngsters now come home from Sunday School singing the choruses which they have learned there, and, and anxious to go the next week to see and hear the flannelgraph stories and object lessons.

This enthusiasm and growth is not limited to the Junior Department, however. At the beginning of February a campaign was inaugurated, having as its slogan "150 by '50." The idea of the campaign is to endeavor to increase the attendance in our Sunday School to the extent that by 1950, that is by the end of this year, we will have an average attendance of 150. The slogan and the apparent audacity of the plan immediately caught fire among the people. Every class in the school has taken on new life. The average attendance for the month of February showed an increase of 31% over that of January, and the increase likewise felt at the worship service.

A Personal Workers' Training Class is one of the newest additions to the church's program, and is proving very valuable in contacting unchurched and unsaved men and women in the community. Another recent innovation is our parish paper, "The Guidepost." Printed each month in the pastor's study, this eight or ten page magazine is distributed, not only to the member of the church, but is also placed in every home in the community. The paper is filled with church news, articles of general public interest taken from the Evangelist and other religious publications, and plans for the future. It has been received with much interest and enthusiasm and is receiving financial support from various individuals and organizations of the church.

At this writing we are making plans for pre-Easter services; for a Sunrise service and Easter morning breakfast; for a special Easter program on Sunday evening; a Daily Vacation Bible School, and other activities.

The Gospel is being well received in the hearts of the brethren here and we look for a real spiritual awakening to make itself felt both in the church and in the community through the working of the Holy Spirit in the lives of men and women.

We solicit the prayers of the Brotherhood for this fine rural church.

Henry Bates, pastor.

REVIVAL AT MANTECA, CALIFORNIA

On January 23rd we began our revival meeting with our young brother in the Lord, M. Virgil Ingraham, of Stockton as the evangelist. For some time the Manteca Brethren have been praying that the church might be revived by His Holy Spirit, for after all, revival comes from Him who is the indwelling God in each believer, by faith in Jesus Christ, and in the Church which is His body. Attendance and a fine spirit of Christian love increased, and all who came to the services noticed and testified of the desire to be revived.

The evangelist was at home among his closest friends who grew up with him in school and in church, for since he was eight years old he was responsive to the various activities of the church. The Lord had evidently laid His hand on him, and the Word of God in its simplicity was presented night after night. There were responses from the first service, sometimes two, sometimes one, but regardless of the number, it was very obvious that God was really giving folks an opportunity to draw near to Him that He could draw near to them, and challenging everyone to walk more closely to Him that He might use them as witnesses for Him.

The evangelist spoke so directly, clearly and plainly that every one was "on the spot" in every service, so at no time was anyone in doubt about the reality of the Holy Spirit's presence and convicting power. There was no way of anticipating who would come to Christ next; for even promises to come which had been previously made went unfulfilled, while someone of whom you never thought, would present himself and say, "I came because I felt the need of victory and a closer walk with God." During and since the meetings many are proving that they meant business and God is leading them in His work.

Before we got into this last war, Virgil, with several others, was called to the ministry of the Gospel of Jesus Christ in the Manteca Brethren Church. Came the war, and after a while he was in the navy. There, minus the "theory" of preaching the Gospel, but where sin raised its monstrous head all around and men were in desperate need of a Saviour, he came to grips with the powers of Satan, knowing that Christ alone could save and make the vilest sinner clean. At close range, looking lost men squarely in the eyeballs, he read the Word of God, conducted prayer meetings and pointed men to The Lamb of God who bears the sin of the world. Thus he learned not so much to "divide" the word of truth, but to "handle" it, and let the Spirit drive home its soul-saving and keeping power.

Our testimony is that God graciously has taken this young man and is using him to stir human hearts for His own Glory.

For four weeks our meetings continued and a goodly number of the church members were really revived and some unsaved ones came to know Him. We do praise God for victories won, for the growth in prayer and witnessing to the lost, and I do mean it, for in almost unbelievable ways some, who always seemed to be too timid to say anything for the Lord, do no hesitate to put their heads into the mouths of lions. If this last phrase isn't exactly clear to you who read this, you take your Christ and try to present Him to some avowed atheist or any other dyed-in-the-wool man of the world. You will understand what a transformation revival works in many lukewarm, disinterested church members.

We rejoice that the spirit of the revival continues, that though the meetings have had to close, no one wants the revival to come to an end, and so we pray and labor that revival may go on till Jesus comes again. "Revive thy work, Oh God."

It was a pleasure indeed for pastor and evangelist to labor together in this relation; so with the church and one of her young chosen of God. We recommend him to any church. God will richly bless both church and evangelist. We pray that our brotherhood may experience a real Spirit of God revival. Then shall sinners be converted unto Him.

Travels

The first Sunday in March we were called to Louisville, Ohio, the home church of Miss June Byler, for a most unusual evening of missionary activity that it has ever been my experience to witness. The afternoon service opened at 4:00 P. M. in the basement of the church with Paul Clapper and Charles Munson of Ashland in charge. It was conducted as if being a broadcast. Special numbers, interspersed by greetings from every auxiliary leader of the church, beautiful decorations and a large crowd made a most unusual program.

Canton, Smithville, Ashland, North Georgetown churches were represented, besides a number of friends from other churches. Best of all was the presence of June's parents from Illinois.

The women of the church served a delectable luncheon, after which two films were shown.

The evening service was well planned and most appropriate. Prof. J. Garber Drushal, president of the Mission Board, addressed the audience; devotions were conducted by Reverend Byler, June's father; the consecration service was in charge of Reverend E. M. Riddle, assisted by Reverend Vernon Grisso.

The moderator for this church handed to the Missionary Secretary a check for $500 to be used towards Miss Byler's support for the first year. It was a very impressive "going away service" for a missionary.

The following day it was my privilege to drive for the college male quartet, delivering them to Milford, Indiana, for the Northern Indiana Laymen's meeting. The quartet provided the program with a few remarks or greetings by the Secretary. They offered a fine program and were well received. It was a beautiful night, so we returned to Ashland, arriving home at 3:45 A. M. This was done so that no classes would be missed. No little amount of praise is due these young men and others who travel such distances to represent our college. It requires both strength and time.

The following week-end J. Garber Drushal and myself travelled to Nappanee, Indiana, to meet with Mr. Hossler, who had volunteered a set of plans for buildings at Lost Creek, Kentucky.

We shared in the services at Nappanee that morning. A supply minister delivered a very acceptable message in the absence of the pastor. Brother Drushal returned to Wooster, while I contacted prospective students in South Bend, Elkhart, Goshen, New Paris, and Warsaw.

In New Paris, it was a pleasant experience to attend the Chamber of Commerce dinner, held in our church, as a guest of Everett Miller. Also, I visited my esteemed friends, Dr. and Mrs. Rench. At Warsaw I went to see the young pastor, Woodrow Brant, who had been ill. We pray for his speedy recovery.

My last major trip took me eastward to Hagerstown, Linwood, St. James, and Williamsport, Maryland. It is always a joy to return and speak at Linwood, my first pastorate. We were greeted by a very good audience. Reverend and Mrs. Belote are well settled and are making progress in the work. The same can be said of Hagerstown where the Aults' have charge. They like the new field and have made very fine contacts in the city. The greatest need at St. James is a pastor. They are becoming anxious about it. This field, too, represents a most challenging opportunity.

The Lord willing, our next report will be written from California.

Pray for our greatest missionary offering at this Easter time.

E. M. Riddle, Field Secretary.

Preparing Leaders to Serve the Brethren Church in Mission Fields

By Dean M. A. Stuckey

It is becoming increasingly evident to Brethren people that the training of our youth in Biblical and other related Christian subjects is of supreme importance today.

Prior to the inauguration of the Brethren Summer Camp movement in 1927, systematic youth education was limited largely to Ashland College, to teacher training courses in the Sunday School, and to expert Christian Endeavor courses. These efforts were worthwhile and gained considerable support.

But, with the really serious effort of the National Sunday School Association to launch an effective church wide program of summer instruction for our young people, we faced forward with real energy and zeal. We accomplished major work for Christ and the church.

It is not idle twaddle for me to say that the movement was opposed with vigor by some Brethren leaders of that day. They did not believe in the new innovation. To them it was non-Brethren and, besides, it was alleged, we have no money to aid and abet such a cause. But how sadly were they mistaken, and it took at least a decade of real Christian achievement to silence that opposition. Truly God permitted it, but He never directed it; hence it failed ignominiously.

Today the Brethren Church boasts a Summer Camp Program second to none in any denomination. The Christian education program is Biblical, spiritual, evangelistic, devotional, practical, and helpful. It has become a real Summer Youth Training School for the church.

As a result of these splendid efforts of many Brethren of other days, we have today on the Ashland College campus life-work recruits from these camps in encouraging figures. What is vitally important is the fact that we have missionary recruits preparing themselves for home and foreign missionary service. Some desire to be doctors, some preachers, some mission station leaders and helpers, and some desire to teach Bible in elementary and secondary education classes in mission schools.

What a truly wonderful prospect it is to behold our Brethren home and foreign missionary recruits growing in numbers and in Christian usefulness right here on the campus. The Seminary and pre-seminary enrollment was 56 for the autumn semester; today it stands at 58 for the second semester. Barring unforeseen circumstances, this group should be increased considerably next September.

Today these recruits have daily chapel services in the college and in the Seminary; Gospel teams for boys and girls; "Y" services for laymen; the Park Street Church for Sunday and weekday prayer meeting; the Garber Memorial Brethren Church for a mission project; the supplying of local Brethren churches; the carrying on of local religious work in all the churches; the Bible classes in the college; and the whole Seminary curriculum. Some will secure a M.R.E. degree (2 yrs.); some a B.D. degree (3 yrs.); others a Th.M. degree (4 yrs.). These degrees are granted to college graduates.

For Christian laymen and laywomen who desire two years of special training in the Bible and Christian subjects, we grant a B.C.E. Such training, while elementary is none-the-less helpful for lay leaders who desire to teach in Sunday School or serve in any of the allied organizations of the church.

For young men who desire to preach without formal college or theological education, and there are always such men and women who are called into the Lord's service, we have the Home Study Correspondence Course.

So, let it be known to Brethren far and wide, that the Brethren Church has courses of various types for all kinds of Christian workers. A Brethren Christian education can be received at Ashland College and Seminary twelve months out of every year.

Steps are being taken now to enlarge the offerings in missionary education for the home and foreign fields. The coming of new recruits to our campus for special types of training makes it obligatory upon us all here in Ashland to do this immediately. President Clayton is studying the problem with the cooperation of the Missionary Board leaders of the Church.

It is an axiom as old as Brethrenism itself to

A Serious Question

By Dr. C. F. Yoder

The Brethren Church has in Argentina a great field, greater than it will ever be able to cover. It includes millions of people who do not know the Gospel, and never will know it unless the number of missionaries is greatly increased. They are good, intelligent people who would be welcomed in any of our home churches.

It is also a good field, for the people have responded in an encouraging way. None of our workers are discouraged with the field. Nor is there a lack of workers or, at least, potential workers, either home or abroad, who would be willing to labor if sent and sustained.

The great question, therefore, is the question of support. How can it be answered? One way is to do as the Mormons do—oblige all young men to give two years of service at their own expense. If friends and relatives can help them, all right. But often one gets a job and supports himself and his companion; or both get part time work and use their free time for their propaganda. Going two by two is scriptural and facts show that it gives good results.

Another solution is that of faith. Hundreds of missionaries to other fields have gone out on faith, and the Lord has raised up friends who have sent the needed help. The "Plymouth Brethren" go out on their own responsibility, but usually have the promise of their friends to help them. A central committee forwards the money and may add to it if necessary.

We might do as our forefathers did, as they cared for their farms and also preached, and their work extended by colonization of new places.

All these methods have their good points but none of them is fully satisfactory, because the population of the world is still increasing faster than the number of converts. Since the problem involved is that of money we must frankly face the matter of our giving and compare it with the Gospel way.

Some people leave their fortunes to their children, and they proceed to scatter them on their pleasures. Many church members make no study of the Gospel of giving, and think they can get by if they put in the missionary offering any small coin they may happen to have. Many churches seem to think that an offering for missions on Easter fulfills their duty for a whole year. But the offering they give, if measured by the measure of their prosperity, would only be as much as they should lay by for missions every week, or at least every month.

Is the pastor to blame for all this defective giving? Sometimes he is, for he neither gives the example nor hammers home the precept of Gospel giving. Then too, his own salary may not permit him to give as much as they should give whose incomes are several times larger. Sometimes these delinquent givers are not present when the sermon on giving is preached and they must be reached in other ways.

We are justly proud of our whole-Gospel platform, but I fear that many members have only one foot on it. They need a helping hand, or a push or a goad. A course of studies on the grace of giving should be given every year as a part of the preparation of children for baptism, and of older people too, and if the rest of the members get it also, it will do them good. From the pulpit, in the Sunday School, vacation Bible school and summer camp, the fundamental Christian duties should be clearly taught. The churches that are prospering most are those who are giving most for missions, and it is no coincidence that they are also those who most faithfully practice tithing. Do not say that the tithe was an institution of the law, while we are under grace.

What does Paul mean when in 1 Cor. 9:21 he says, "Not without law, but under the law to Christ?" And in vss. 13, 14, "Do ye not know that they who minister about holy things live of the things of the temple? and ye who wait at the altar are partakers of the altar? EVEN SO HATH GOD ORDAINED THAT THEY WHO PREACH THE GOSPEL SHOULD LIVE OF THE GOSPEL." EVEN SO means in like manner, which means that the church should pay tithes for the support of its ministers. The only change is from the letter to the spirit of the law (2 Cor. 3:6) and thus the tithes become offerings given, not by compulsion but cheerfully. Grace instead of law should increase our giving rather than diminish it.

In a sense even love is a matter of law, for it is clearly and repeatedly commanded. It was love that brought Christ to the cross. What then can we say if for us it brings so little of even our money to the cross? How can we pretend to be in the grace of God when it leaves us, in the matter of giving, so far below the standard of tithes and offerings of the law? The Mormons, with all their absurd beliefs, pay faithfully their tithes and offerings. They have great store houses filled with provisions and a thoroughly organized system of relief which is an effective insurance against any loss by their members. Some churches with no more wealth than we have are yet giving ten times as much for missions. How can we be faithful in that which is much if we cannot be faithful even in that which is little?

What a rejoicing there would be if, at this Easter time, we should see an offering for foreign missions, not of ten thousand but of a hundred thousand dollars! Why not? Others are doing it; why can't we? Perhaps ten days of prayer would bring the answer.

—Cordoba, Argentina.

The Power Of The Resurrection

by Dr. Charles A. Bame

"Have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord?" 1 Cor. 9:1. These are the words of the most enigmatical character, save the Lord Himself, that the historian must contemplate and explain; and it is my intent to explain only so much as to present the only solution to that surprising and astonishing life.

Jesus Christ had been dead now, long enough to make sure that his teachings had taken unshakable hold on the disciples, making them ready to die (as many of them did), but also to convince thinking folk that they must be crushed or their old religion and their very incomes and livelihood be forfeited because of the eclipse the new "sect" was forcing on the older and less vivid example and doctrines.

In embryo, Jesus had presented the whole truth of the new revelation; but another must fulfill the prediction that "when He, the spirit of truth has come, he will show you things to come, bring things to remembrance and guide" into the full realization of it all. John 16:13-15.

That person now appears and being only slightly younger than the one he now persecuted who, aside from the real reason for the new adventures, is a dead hero. Paul, a deluded and misguided fanatic; even though his preparation was more for persecution than for the worship and devotion which he forever proclaims at all hazards and for which he enlists more followers than any other, and inspires them to similar ardor and abandon.

Of each of these courses, he is as willing to tell and confess as he is of either. He did not hide his past; and it was "woe to me if I preach not the gospel of Christ (1 Cor. 9:16) forever afterward. Hear his transgressions: "he made havoc of the church entering every house and hailing men and women, committed them to prison." Acts 8:3. He scattered the church and the preachers and "many of the saints did I shut up in prison—and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them" and even "I punished them in every synagogue and compelled them to blaspheme." (Acts 26:10, 11).

With the details of his conversion recorded in Acts 9, I shall not now ask concern. With that which can thus completely reverse a life of such determination and drive, such fealty and fervor, to become the exact opposite and compel such exhaustless, such limitless endeavor, even unto death, that is our concern for this Eastertide and of all who need inspiration and consecration for the enterprise of the church—the only Christian institution of our time and worthy of our consecration and sacrifice.

His own argument is devoid of all demand or necessity of education, training or human effort: "I have seen Jesus Christ our Lord." Fearless of any real proof to the contrary, I believe that all else pales into sufferable insignificance to this explanation. There is nothing so important as a consciousness of the reality of the spiritual, the sureness of the resurrection of Jesus from the dead, and an assurance that he is the "Lord," all of which is contained in this reason Paul gives for his Apostleship and all that followed of sacrifice and achievement in its wake.

Paul did believe in visions because he had them; the realities were his defenses. He saw Jesus, the Lord. Acts 9:17. He was caught up into the third heaven. 2 Cor. 12:2. He believed in the sensational gift of tongues and delineated a "tongues meeting" that is as orderly as any service given in the whole New Testament; but the seeing of the Lord was climactic and beyond all apocalypse. All else was "refuse" and "dung" and "loss," "that I may know him and the power of his resurrection—if by any means I might attain unto the resurrection of the dead." Phil. 3:11.

Once I asked a doctor for his reaction to the experiences of dying people. "What is the last wish of people who know that the end is at hand?" He answered, "The desire to live on." And then he added that he believed that most people wished rather to "go to hell for a time, rather than to cease to exist. Not a churchman, he had put into words the very aspirations of Paul, our preacher: "If I may attain, unto the resurrection of the dead." Yea, Lord, "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable." 1 Cor. 15:19.

Indeed, if Christ is not risen (to be seen and made real) then, Paul writes:

1. Our preaching is vain.
2. Your faith is vain.
3. Ye are found false witnesses.
4. Ye are yet in your sins.

And even "they that have fallen asleep in Christ are perished." Death has ended all faith, hope, assurance, reality and "dust thou art and to dust shall thou return" is more real than all else.

The man of our text was changed as all others should strive to be changed, if not to the heroic magnificence of his life, then by as much of it as is possible for each of us. He saw Stephen die and perhaps many others; but he had never before seen one die with a smile of faith in his eyes, and the face of an angel. He sees a light from heaven; he hears a voice; he is blinded by its heavenly intensity; he falls helpless and is led to a source of new vision; one that opens his eyes to the spiritual. He IS changed—forever changed. And when challenged afterwards if in court, aface with Kings and emperors, he has but one answer. "I have seen Jesus Christ our Lord." He has but one answer and that is enough and it is all.

It was that truth on which the church was built. It was that which changed the disheartened disciples to heroes. Luke 24. All the forty days until his Ascension, Christ was making this sight possible to the eleven and did not "go away" until the last one "saw and believed." John 20:8.

If the story of this sight is untrue, then where is the God of heaven who for four thousand years "spake unto us by the prophets" and then "in these latter days hath spoken unto us by his Son?" Heb. 1:1, 2. Did he quit forever speaking? Did he bow forever out? Who would want such a God? Who could worship such a one? He still Speaks!

Can Israel Be Restored?

by Dr. E. J. Rogers

By "Israel," we mean the lineal descendants of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. We refer not only to the Jews (Judah), but to the entire Twelve Tribes of Israel. Of course, there is a "Spiritual Israel," the descendants of Abraham by faith in the Lord Jesus Christ, whether Jew or Gentile; but we must not allow the conception of a Spiritual Israel to obscure the reality of a national Israel, the Israel represented by the Jews of the world today.

When God chose Abram to be the father of a new and favored race, He promised him an everlasting possession in the Land of Canaan; but because of their sins they have been disinherited three times, but always with the assurance that they would be given a chance to repent and return to their land.

For four hundred years Israel was in Egyptian bondage but God with a mighty hand through Moses delivered them, thus ushering in a period of some eight hundred years of kingdom prosperity, before she was again ruthlessly carried away captive into Assyria and Babylonia for a period of seventy years after which she was partially restored for some five hundred years until in A. D. 70, the mighty hand of Rome completely destroyed her possessions and scattered her people to all parts of the world, where for nearly nineteen centuries, with a national home-land, the Jews have lived as a distinct and "a peculiar people."

The question arises anew today, "Can Israel Be Restored?" Can she again claim her own land and possessions? For a sure answer, we have only God's Word and history to prove to us the certainty of her restoration to the Land of Promise.

Let us look again at the period of Assyrian and Babylonian Captivity. Samaria and Jerusalem had been destroyed. The people had either been killed or taken captive. The situation indeed seemed a hopeless one. The captives hung their harps in willow trees and refused to sing or be comforted.

The only ray of hope in such a dark hour was found in the messages of the prophets. As the Prophet Jeremiah observed the potter making over a marred vessel into one of perfection and beauty, he heard the voice of the Lord saying: "O House of Israel, cannot I do with you as this potter? Behold, as the clay is in the potter's hand, so are ye in mine hand." The Prophet Ezekiel, a few years later, had a similar message of hope in his vision of the Valley of Dry Bones. As he prophesied (preached) to the bones, he saw them come together, with flesh and sinew upon them and become a mighty army. Then the voice of the Lord came to Ezekiel and said: "These bones are the whole house of Israel. Behold, O my people, I will open your graves, and bring you into the Land of Israel."

Yes, Israel today is a "Marred Vessel," and a "Valley of Dry Bones." But she is not hopelessly marred or dead. Hear the Great Apostle Paul, in the eleventh chapter of Romans: "Hath God cast away His people? God forbid! For I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the Tribe of Benjamin. God hath not cast away his people whom he foreknew." And again: "All Israel shall be saved. As it is written, There shall come out of Zion the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob."

Friends, if we are wise enough to believe the Scriptures and to observe the signs of our times, we will plainly see prophecy being fulfilled before our eyes, and Israel making preparation for her restoration at the glorious return of our Savior.

Toward such an end God's people are hopefully praying and working.—Palestine Pictorial News.

Garkida, Nigeria
March 6, 1949

To the Missionary Board:

Herewith is a letter or report of the work here at Garkida in Nigeria, with the Church of the Brethren. I have no special title for it and I hope you will feel free to title it and to use it in any way that you think best for your appeal for the annual Easter offering for our church. I do hope it reaches you in time for your special Easter number.

Since I've not written or given a recent report since I arrived in Garkida in August, it is a bit difficult to know just where to begin. By now it seems that I've been here for many years. I was so graciously received and made to feel so much at home by the mission family, and before I hardly knew it, I was active in the work here. It was indeed inspiring to have arrived on the day of the weekly prayer meeting of the missionaries, and so I was soon introduced to the group. I was made to feel at home from the very beginning.

The very next day I began language study—a most fascinating and interesting part of the missionary's life. It is still being pursued.

I am not working at the Leper Colony as reported, but have been assigned to do part-time work in the hospital at Garkida. However, I do hope to have the privilege of working with Dr. Bosler at the Leper Colony at some future time. The Colony is only two miles away and I have visited it a number of times. I plan to tell you about the work there at a later time. It is a marvelous work and deserves a report all its own.

My work consists of care of the hospital patients under the supervision of Miss Mary Dadisman, who is Superintendent of Nurses. I also assist in surgery. Our day begins at 6:15, with morning prayers for all the workers and nurses. Most of our mornings are spent at the hospital and then wherever we are needed in the evenings or night.

The Garkida Mission Compound or plot consists of some sixty acres along the Hawal River. It is a fertile and picturesque spot with its tall palms silhouetting the western sky. Thirty of these acres form the mission proper where we live; ten acres comprise the hospital compound, and twenty acres the mission fruit orchard and vegetable garden—a place comparable to an oasis during the dry season, for it is irrigated from wells which gain their water from the bordering river. It is indeed a treat to visit it with its freshness and greenery during the dry season when all around is tall, crackling, dry grass. While you sit before your fireplaces and enjoy food that has been prepared for winter, we enjoy our fresh vegetables and fruits, from our prolific gardens. Such is wonderful Africa.

The mission family here consists of five families, two single teachers and two nurses, a total of fourteen adults and six children. Each adult has an assigned work, be it teaching, medical, building or mechanical, besides expected evangelistic or personal work among the people. One never lacks for work to do, for the needs of the people are great. This accounts for the fact that we have "boys" or helpers in our homes. They care for our homes, cook the food, do the laundry, thus giving us much more time for the work we have been called to do. Without all the time-saving appliances, all of our time would be consumed with household activities, leaving no time for mission work. We are indeed grateful for the assistance of our helpers. It gives us much peace of mind to be able to give to them much of the responsibility for the maintenance of our homes. They, too, are benefitted, not only financially, but they come to learn of the Christian life because of the close contact with and influence of the missionary himself.

It is surprising how many people one does contact and influence through one's helpers. Their joys are our joys; their troubles are our troubles; their problems are our problems. It is most sobering to think of our great responsibility for the development of Christian character in them.

Letters From The Bylers And

March 1st, 1949
Avda. Gral. Richieri 1716
Barrio Jardin
Cordoba, Argentina, S. A.

Greetings to all our readers in the name of a triumphant and risen Lord:

There are many reasons for rejoicing and praise at this blessed season, and here in the Argentine as well as at home. the Lord continued to show that He is able to triumph over all the evil intents of the Wicked One.

Our summer camp held during three weeks in January proved to be larger than any previous year. During this period there were 62 different persons enrolled—with an average of about 26 each week. This is actually the capacity of our camp at present. We can scarcely provide board and room for more. Everyone appreciated greatly the additional equipment that was made possible by an allotment from the Mission Board. The boys slept in a large tent, the girls in a room that was built during the year, with several others furnishing their own small tents or beaver board 'cottages.' The kitchen is a small space with a canvas roof supported by poles. The cooking was all done over an open fire place. The dining room is another space shaded from the sun by a canvas strip. All drinking water needs to be ferried across the river in a boat and other supplies are limited. But despite the limitations, all expressed a real appreciation of the Camp. The staff realizes the inadequacies and already many suggestions and plans for an improved camp are under way for next year. You will be interested to know that Miss Kugler was present for a week and gave a wonderful testimony concerning her trip to the States.

We especially rejoice in the conversion of a fine young man from Cordoba and the expressed desire of others to fuller consecration. As you who have worked in Camps at home know, the results are often more far-reaching than staff members realize.

There is much that can be done for the "Brethren Youth" here, in extending help for a greater Camp. This project is still a "baby" and needs much care and nurture.

Provisory building in Florencio Varela, Gerli.

In the past month it has been necessary for me to make two trips to Buenos Aires and other points nearby. We are greatly relieved to have our passport and visa in our possession once again. It was necessary some time ago to turn them over to immigration authorities here. They insisted that some mistake had been made in granting a "permanent" visa, and after several months of anxious waiting and much deliberation on their part, the difficulties were finally erased and for the present, at least, we can consider ourselves permanent residents. We are grateful for this; another indication that God is able to overcome seemingly impossible situations.

All has been done that is possible on our part in regard to making recommendations for the granting of a visa for my sister June Byler. Authorities promised favorable action and we trust that soon her help can be added to the staff of workers here.

Since so many have inquired about the station wagon, we can only report that permission is still being sought in every way possible. There have been some recent political shake-ups in the offices which have to do with the importation of automobiles, (the Central Bank of Argentina), so much time and patience is needed. Each month we recognize more the wonderful asset it will be to our work.

The Lord has answered prayers in regard to a home for us and now we are getting settled in a very nice location, a suburb of Cordoba. We hope to report the beginning of new meetings and services here before too long. The house is large enough to care for quite a good crowd if we can get some folding chairs or benches and a bit of other equipment in order to accommodate a nice meeting. Pray that this home may serve as an Evangelical Witness here in this Barrio.

Expansion and purchase of permanent locations is greatly needed in several areas. The Board has a complete report and we trust that Brethren everywhere will respond to their recommendations. Certainly if we wish to maintain strong congregations and a growing Brethren witness in this country, it is necessary to provide adequate meeting places. We feel certain that your investments here will bear large dividends—if at the same time there is a sincere and constant prayer back of every gift. Pray especially for the following:

That the Lord will strengthen and give wisdom to each worker here; that He will especially direct the superintendent of the field, Brother Zeche; that He will lead in the opening of some special training institute or school to lead capable young people into full-time work here among their own people; and that soon the way may be clearly opened for the entrance of more helpers from the States.

The need is tremendous, but the workers are too few. We appreciate the assurance of your constant and loyal support. Let us expect some great things of the Lord! Let's renew our interest and prayers for the souls of thousands in the Argentine who need Him. Christ is a triumphant Lord, abundantly able to supply all our needs and to lead man from death even unto Life Eternal!

Yours in His service,

Robert & Jane Byler.

Superintendent Zeche In Argentina

Rosario, Argentina

Dear Gral. Secretary of the Missionary Board,

The Lord has been very near to us in this New Year, and we surely are very thankful to the Lord for all the nice blessings we have received during the year that we left behind.

Our churches in Argentina have experienced continual growth in all their fields with true blessings.

These have been my experiences during my regular visits made during this year. As you know, the work and the different needs of the field need constant encouragement, and above all, we recognize that the Lord has been with us.

The new work in Colon, where the young couple Espinosa is working, is showing good progress. We have seen a fine movement among the youth who are the promise of the future of this nice District. The recent tent campaign and open-air meetings, which were held with real success and much prayer and sacrifice, gave real good results. There are now ten or twelve new persons, who with much interest, continue attending the service and studying their Bibles.

The enemy of the precious Gospel Message put on an intense campaign against us, but the Lord has not allowed this to impede the success of the whole of our evangelistic campaign.

There was one notable fact in the work in Colon; the daughter of the Treasurer of the Catholic Crusade and private secretary of the priest, attended our tent meetings secretly, anxious to know what we preach and teach.

The Holy Spirit convicted her and she, accepting the Gospel of Grace, was converted. When the family and the priest got to know they tried, by all possible means, to turn her aside and make her renounce the gospel, but she remained firm, unmoved. Her faith is in the Lord Jesus.

She is 18 years old, lovely and has nice manners. A young Christ believer of the Brethren Church fell in love with her, that is a great help to her, so now is less likelihood of her abandoning or leaving her faith.

This has made the priest even more violent that he almost dismissed his secretary because he has not sufficient influence to convince his own daughter. But as the father has a living example of his daughter's conversion he can not do anything against such testimony of faithfulness to the Lord.

We would ask your prayers in favor of the new work in Colon and its outskirt.

Besides this, with the plan of the work of Colon there is an annex not far from there called Maria Theresa, where there is no Gospel work of any denomination, and between these two towns there are several small ones that have never been evangelized.

Brother and Sister Espinosa wrote to us saying: "We are glad to report a wonderful and blessed year in revival meetings, where we have seen marvelous manifestations of the Holy Spirit's power in convicting and saving souls."

Also, our Annual Conference during the last days of October and the first of November was held in Rosario Brethren Church, with great blessings and a very efficient spirit of power on each one of the attendances. This was due to the fact that Reverend and Mrs. Robert Byler were among us, representing the Brethren Church from the United States. They are splendid workers and with an enthusiastic spirit of evangelization.

In their messages they showed us the great enthusiasm and love that the Brethren in the States have toward the lost souls of our country and the great satisfaction they feel in cooperating in the message of salvation for these souls, also the necessary means to make it possible.

We feel sure that you were also accompanying us with good wishes and constant prayers for our development in the future plans.

Our helper, Brother Jose Varela, and our young seminary student, Francisco Fiorenza, went to Gerli District during the month of November and December to help with the building of our annex there. There they built a temporary hall and parsonage from pre-edificated material, as there was an urgent need for a hall and a house as living quarters for Brother Anton.

You will see that the workers in South America need to know how to do any kind of work from preaching the Gospel to that of masons, carpenter, mechanic, etc., all these are very necessary owing to the demand of the work.

The great scarcity of the different raw materials and the high cost of living obliged us to find out the best way possible to do things, otherwise we would never have anything or would have to wait a long time to get it.

The greatest need at the present time is to have our own building in Gerli, where the Brethren can meet, as at present it is impossible to rent a house and a hall.

Besides the Gral. Conference in Rosario, the W. M. S. celebrated its seventh anniversary on January 16th, with a revival of thanksgiving and testimonies of how much the Lord has done for us during the past seven years.

We must add that whenever we have anything special and thanksgiving, our thoughts and sincere love go out toward the beloved Brethren of the United States, who have done so much for us. We always remember you with great gratitude and cordial love.

We thank God for each one of you praying that the Lord bless and keep you in good health, and ask you to continue praying for us here in South America.

Sincerely yours,
Adolfo Zeche, Superintendent.

To illustrate this point and to be a bit personal, I have four boys working for me. My house boy who does my cooking and the greater part of my house work, is not a Christian, but is now attending a class in preparation for baptism this Easter. Another boy who is a school boy and does small jobs, chops wood and runs errands, is not a Christian, but has pledged himself as desiring to follow the Christian way. My gardener is uneducated—cannot read or write and has little interest in the church or the Christian life. My laundry boy, too, is not a Christian, but can read and write and shows some interest. Here are four individuals at four different levels and their families for which I feel responsible. And not only these, but there are many others that are outside the fold. Is it not a sobering thought?

The hospital compound consists of the hospital, a five building unit, the doctor's residence and the nurses' residence. There are quite a few huts for out-patients, for we have a large dispensary work. Between 150 and 200 people may come to the dispensary for medicine and treatment in one day. We are able to care for some 35 to 45 hospital patients in our two wards. Time and space do not permit me to give you a detailed report of the medical work. I will say that it is almost unbelievable the conditions and sights one sees here. You need not go to Europe to see starving children, or bodies wasted by disease. Nigeria grows with pain and dies for lack of food or medical care. Just today there was brought to me a newborn baby whose mother had died last Monday and had no food at all. There was no milk for it so they brought it to the hospital. Since we have no nursery, we will furnish milk or formula for it and some women in a nearby village or compound will care for it and come twice daily to the hospital for milk for it. This will be done until the child will be old enough to take native food. This is just one of the many cases of desperate need that we see daily among the people here.

This little report would not be complete without something about the school and church. Not being in educational work I cannot give an extensive report, but do hasten to say that with recent governmental aid, the schools are indeed growing and fast developing institutions. In the primary school this term (January, 1949) there are 50 girls and 225 boys enrolled. Each year finds more and more girls coming in—a most gratifying fact. There is also in Garkida a Training school for prospective hospital workers, teachers and evangelists. It is taught by missionaries while the primary school is taught by native teachers.

There is also a school for women or wives of our training school men. These women are taught to read and write as well as crafts, household arts, child care, hygiene and sanitation. These women, along with their trained husbands, will make fine Christian homes and be of great service in the Kingdom as they go out to the various villages to teach, preach and do a certain amount of medical work. Such native Christians are the hope of an indigenous and growing church in Nigeria.

Church services are well attended. There are two services each Sunday, with prayer meeting each Friday night. Today there were 504 present for the morning service. There is a native pastor with several lay workers, who do some preaching. Like the church in America, there are special services during the year with Communion, Pre-Easter services, baptism, and Sunday School, comprising the church activities.

At this Easter season when again we celebrate the resurrection of our Savior, you will again be given opportunity to show in a material way your gratitude for the salvation you know through Christ and to aid in the extension of His kingdom in the world. What will you do? Why, oh, why must you be pressed and begged to give to Christ and His work? It seems almost unbelievable that Christians, knowing the joy of the Christian life, having His commission, and knowing his duty to God, should have to be asked to pray, to give, to go. Does the Word not say that the Lord loves a cheerful giver? Whether that giving be of prayer, of money or of self, it should be given cheerfully, willingly, gratefully and lovingly. Christ would have us give it in no other way than for Him.

I feel confident that you shall not fail Him or us in the Easter offering as you give to support the work here and in South America.

May you be guided by His spirit and richly blessed as may give to bring light to the benighted souls for whom Christ died. May He bless each of you this Easter season with His Presence. This is my prayer.

In His Service,
Veda C. Liskey.

To Jesus--Life Was A Divine Gift

• by Clayton Berkshire

Recently I was impressed with the story about Sammy Wazinsky. Sammy was a Polish boy who lived in the mining section of western Pennsylvania. He attended the Mission Sunday School near his home. One Sunday the Superintendent talked about "Stewardship." Sammy had heard about a lot of ships but he had never heard of "Stewardship." He wondered what kind of a ship this could be. He listened very carefully while the superintendent explained stewardship to them.

On the way home, Sammy pondered over the things the superintendent had said. "Why, he said that I didn't own anything, that God was the owner of all that I had. He said that even my own body did not belong to me. It, too, belongs to God."

Then Sammy continued, "If this body isn't mine and it belongs to God, I must keep it clean." Now Sammyl looked at his hands. They were not clean, for Sammy was not too careful about the matter of cleanliness.

When Sammy arrived home, he began immediately to wash his hands and his face because now he realized that his body belonged to God and he should keep it clean.

The message of the superintendent had captured Sammy and he went on talking to himself. "The superintendent said that my time did not belong to me, that it, also, belonged to God. If God owns my time then I must use some of it for Him." So he went to his mother and offered to help take care of his baby brother for the afternoon. Now he began to be a steward of his time.

The clock in the kitchen was out of working order and Sammy begged his father to let him try his hand at fixing it. A neighbor who came in watched Sammy trying to make the clock run and exclaimed to his father, "That boy has talent." Sammy remembered when he heard those words, that the superintendent had said our talents were not our own but they, too, belonged to God and should be used for Him. He hadn't known that he possessed any talents but now he understood.

The superintendent had said a good deal about money. But he didn't have any money so he didn't have to think much about that. Things change quickly, though, and they did for Sammy.

The next morning as he was walking along the street, an automobile went by, and as it was passing him a piece of paper flew out the window. Sammy ran to pick up the paper and return it to the man who, by that time, had stopped the car. The man thanked Sammy and gave him a dime for his good deed.

Now Sammy had some money and he remembered that he could be a good steward of his money by setting aside a tenth of it for God, in recognition of his ownership of all things. He went quickly to have the dime changed into pennies and then took one penny in one hand and the other nine in the other hand. He looked at the one penny and then at the nine pennies. "That is a measly amount to give to God," said Sammy. "I'm going to go fifty-fifty with Him." So he took four more pennies and added them to the one, giving God half and keeping half for himself.

This is a simple portrayal of stewardship truth. The application of this truth is the critical need of a selfish, careless world. For real Christian living, its application is essential. Who is responsible for our being? Whose are we? What is our responsibility? These and other related questions need to be answered in the light of stewardship truth.

God is the giver of life. The account of creation in the book of Genesis is reliable. It is a reliable guide to accurate thinking on the matter of man's origin. We read there, "So God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him; male and female created he them." (Gen. 1:7). "And the Lord formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." (Gen. 2:7). Here is an unalterable truth. God is responsible for the creation of man. He is responsible, also, for the biological laws which operate for the continuation of the human race. God is the giver of life and by virtue of that fact he is also the sovereign owner of life. "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof; the world and they that dwell therein." (Psalm 24:1). "The silver is mine and the gold is mine, saith the Lord of hosts." (Haggai 2:8). He is the owner of all life and the owner of all things, as well. The Old Testament glows with this truth. It is inescapable!

God's ownership of life and all things was recognized by the early Church. You notice that God writes in Acts 4:32, "Neither said any of them that ought of the things which he possessed was his own." The whole of life was a gift of God. He was the Creator and the owner. They believed this truth and lived it as well.

The parables of Jesus, and much that he taught, reflected perfect agreement with what the Father had written concerning His sovereign ownership. To Jesus—Life Was A Divine Gift.

The sequel to the ownership of God, is—the stewardship of man. Since man is the recipient of God's gifts, he becomes a steward. He holds in trust the things which are God's. He is given full charge of using them. The trust may be large, it may be small; but always it is sacred.

We observe the Apostle Paul's conviction when he cried out, "For if I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of; for necessity is laid upon me; for woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel. For if I do this of mine own will, I have a reward; but if not of mine own will, I have a stewardship entrusted to me." (1 Cor. 9:16-17 R. V.). Reading between the lines we can hear him saying, "I have a stewardship. I cannot get away from this ever-present trust. In my waking hours it presses me; when I am asleep it stirs me in my dreams. I have something to do. I have something to be. It is my task, and no one else can do my work. God help me, I have a stewardship. It is God-given, and some day 'I will have to answer to my Maker.'"

Since God is the owner of life and man is the steward of life, Jesus exhorts all men to use wisely the things entrusted to them.

To Jesus—Life was a Divine Gift

The parable of the unjust steward in Luke 16 is a lesson to this end. Here we see the rich man accusing his steward of wasting his goods. He had been careless and neglectful with that which belonged to his master. As a result, his master asked him to "give an account of his stewardship." It is truly what each of us must do. We are held responsible for the use of our time, our talents, our earthly possessions, and our lives. Jesus implied that, as stewards of these things belonging to God, we should be faithful.

In the parable of the steward and his servants in Luke 12, the question is asked, "Who then is that faithful and wise steward?" (vs. 42). The answer is given in the following verse. "Blessed is that servant whom his Lord when he cometh shall find so doing." So doing what? So doing his Lord's will. It is as the verses immediately preceding suggest; waiting, watching, occupying, and making ready the house for the return of their Lord from the wedding.

This lesson from Jesus, truly, is a simple one. In I Cor. 4:2 it is given in these words, "It is required in stewards that a man be found faithful." To Jesus—Life Was A Divine Gift. It was sacred trust. It was to be guarded diligently, and used wisely, according to the will of the Father.

one Larevellair-Lepeaux tried to found a new system of religion and it is said, went to the brilliant Talleyrand and complained that it was so difficult that he despaired of its success. The ex-Bishop politely condoled his friend and agreed. Then, a silence broken with these words: "Still there is one plan you might at least try; I should recommend that you get yourself crucified, and rise again the third day."

That is what Christ said he would suffer and he did. That was the inspiration and the regeneration of all God's children from that time to this. It will not change or be changed. "For with the heart men believe and obtain righteousness, and with the mouth they make confession and obtain salvation." What? "That Jesus is Christ and that God raised him from the dead." In a three-year-old effort of American Protestantism to assist sister European churches in the training of their future ministry, there are today 106 theological students from evangelical churches of fourteen European nations enrolled in thirty-nine seminaries of various denominations in the United States. Most of them are in scholarships from America. In the group of students are sixteen future ministers of the Greek Orthodox Church.—World Outlook.

Y. W. Organizes in Siam.—A unit of the Y. W. C. A. has recently been organized in Bangkok, Siam. It has a membership of 550 women and a permanent secretary. Future plans include the addition of a wing to the "Y" hostel and for the building of an assembly hall.—World Outlook.

Australian Lutherans License Lay Preachers—To help meet the acute shortage of trained clergy, the United Evangelical Lutheran Church of Australia has approved a plan to license qualified laymen as "lay preachers" and to provide them a special course of training. They will work especially in evangelism and work with youth in scattered rural parishes and as assistant ministers in the cities.—World Outlook.

Adventists Enter French Guiana—What is described as "the first series of Protestant evangelistic meetings ever held in French Guiana" were recently conducted in Cayenne, the capital city, by the Seventh Day Adventists. The colonial governor welcomed them and assured them there was complete guarantee of religious liberty.—World Outlook.

I SERVE A RISEN SAVIOR

Scripture: Mark 16:1-8

For The Leader

A GAIN it is Easter! Somehow or other, most of us look forward to the Easter Day each year. After the day is past, we meditate on its message and inspiration. What it means to us keeps us going throughout the summer months and into the winter. "We serve a risen Savior" is truly a message which keeps His disciples lifted up and active. Then as the winter draws to a close and spring approaches, we feel the urge of new life all around us, climaxed in the Easter Day with His resurrection and new life story. So, on this another Easter Day, let us draw near to Him anew, for He is our salvation, our hope, our assurance of eternal life.

DISCUSSION

1. I SERVE. Note that the first words of our topic tonight are the words, "I Serve." Christ was always seeking out men to serve Him. Through His active ministry He was calling upon people to forsake all and follow Him. And it was worth while. For in serving Him, the disciples were performing an eternal work. The fish of the sea of Galilee which they caught would be eaten, or would spoil. But the souls of men would live on in everlasting bliss, a token of their service to Christ. So we, in the present generation, are confronted with the call of Christ to serve. What are we doing about it this Easter Day? Does this year find us closer to Him in service than last Easter did? It should. Each year's experience should make us more useful to Him.

2. A RISEN SAVIOUR. Christ is truly risen, and it is He whom we serve. We could, if necessary, serve in the memory of our religious leader had there been no resurrection. But how much better to be serving a Leader who lives! That One is our Christ; He is risen from the grave, He goeth before us into the highways and by ways of life. It is often said that Christ does not expect His disciples to go any place in service where He does not accompany them and give them strength. When we sing, "I'll go where you want me to go, dear Lord," it means that the living Saviour will be our constant companion.

3. FROM HOPELESSNESS TO REALIZATION. Picture yourself in the position of these women who came to the tomb on that early morning. They were not celebrating Easter. They could have no forewarning that their act that day was to hold a world shaking event. All was dreary, hopeless and sad. Picture then their amazement when they reached the tomb and found the stone rolled away. Even yet they would not know what had happened. But, woman's curiosity, or whatever, got the best of them, and they entered into the open tomb to see if their Lord's body was still there. We believe they entered the sepulcher because of their concern over the precious body of their deceased Lord. Instead of a dead body, they found no body, and a living angel. The angel broke to them the world shaking fact of the resurrection of their Lord. Later when the angel's words were confirmed by the appearance of Christ Himself to the women, their hopelessness became realization. And so it can be for us today. Even though the outlook on life, sooner or later, brings each of us to the tomb of death, we shall see the living angel assuring us that Christ, our eternal hope is not in the grave. But that He is risen, and '(E'en through death) goeth before us, and shall usher us into the everlasting life beyond the grave. Jesus said, "I am the resurrection and the life. Because I live, ye too shall live!"

4. THE NECESSITY OF THE RESURRECTION. "If Christ be not risen," according to Paul, we are without hope, and we are of all men most miserable. And he's right! Had there been no resurrection, there would have been no eternal life, for the scriptures say of Jesus, that He is the Life. And we know that Christ died to save us from sin and to present us faultless unto our heavenly Father. Would there be joy in heaven had there been no Christ to go before us? It is the sacrifice of Christ, and His glorious resurrection that sets the Christian religion apart as the only soul-saving religion in the world. The resurrection is essential to our hope of eternal life.

5. DOING THE VERY BEST SERVICE. Surely, in the face of the great hope of Easter Day, we should ask ourselves, "What can I best do to serve this risen Lord who gave His all for me?" In a few words, we can serve Him. We need a dual vision for success in this work. First of all, one eye on Christ through prayer, meditation and the study of His Word. This is so we can keep in tune with Him, and can be sure that we are operating within His will and according to His purpose for our lives. In this way we can be open to the leadings of the Spirit, as He moulds and makes us in the will of Christ. With the other eye, we are to keep our work in mind, seeing the spiritual needs of the people, see their terrific hunger for the things of God. With this eye we can plan our work, using our dedicated talents and substance for His glory. Thus, a two-fold vision: seeing Christ, as the One who goes before us into a Galilee, and seeing the work in which we are to be busy. Easter brought a terrific impact to the world. Its message can transform hearts even today. Is yours in the center of His will on this Easter day? It should be.

QUESTIONS

1. Why was the stone "rolled away?" Could not the Christ who could walk in the sea, bring the dead back to life, and walk through closed doors, come out through a few feet of rock? Then why was the stone pushed back? It had a purpose.

2. What is the best evidence today that Christ is risen from the dead?

If we felt more the majesty of life, we should be more careful of its mornings.

Let us build a monument to the man who can keep his head despite his success.

Man's place is outside when God comes in. Self must stand back when the Holy Ghost fills.

Prayer Meeting Topic

"GOD HELP THEM NOW"

Above all and beyond all, prayer—fervent, faithful, unceasing—is needed, for all who will dare to limit the power of intercession?

"The weary ones had rest, the sick had joy
That day and wondered 'how'—
A ploughman, singing at his work had prayed
'God help them now.'

Alone in foreign lands they wondered 'how'
Their feeble words had power—
At home the Christians, two or three, had met
To pray an hour.

"So we are always wondering, wondering 'how'
Because we do not see
Some one, unknown perhaps, and far away,
On bended knee."

SPIRIT-FILLED BECAUSE OF OTHERS' PRAYERS

Scripture: Acts 1:8, 13, 14; 2:1

Hymns: "God Be With You"; "Blest Be the Tie"

Prayers for Christian Workers

Seed Thought Provokers:

THE 120 in the Upper Room were united in prayer for one another and God poured out the fullness of His Spirit. As the result of such united praying in 1727 the Moravian Church led out in foreign missions.

Peter and John prayed that Deacon Philip's Samaritan converts might be filled with the Holy Spirit (Acts 8:14-17). No doubt the converts prayed for themselves, but God answered the united praying and honored the prayers of others, also. We should pray to be filled and should also pray that others be filled with the Holy Spirit.

The parents of John the Baptist prayed that he be filled with the Holy Spirit (Luke 1:13-17). Like Hannah, the parents of John had prayed for a son who would be useful and great in the sight of God. The angel said, "Thy prayer is heard," and specified in detail what the child would turn out to be according to their prayers. Let parents of today pray for spirit-filled children, and give them to God for the ministry!

Paul prayed that the Ephesian Brethren be filled with the Spirit (Eph. 1:15-19). He wanted them to have the fullness of God's power and the Spirit of wisdom and revelation. This earnest petition is mentioned again in Eph. 3:16-19. Let pastors pray for the power of God upon their people (Num. 11:29). Let churches learn united prayer for the pouring out of God's Spirit upon pastor and members.

Albert Helser, African missionary, testified that he could feel added power at a certain time every day because his mother in Ohio was kneeling at her rocking chair in his behalf, at a daily scheduled hour. Others pray for us. Do we thank God for them? Do we pray for them? Our own missionaries have asked with earnestness that we pray for them every day. "Ere you left your room this morning did you think to pray?" Others may be given added power if you yearn for them to be filled with God's might.

Pray for others! Prayer is a condition of Holy Spirit power.

Lesson for April 17, 1949

THE REALITY OF ETERNAL LIFE

Lesson: John 5:25; I Cor. 15:20-26; II Cor. 4:16—5:1

IN ALL PROBABILITY among the greatest seven words that were ever uttered are, "Now is Christ risen from the dead." In them we find the fulfilling of all the needs of the entire world. For a living Christ means an eternal life of joy to all who will believe and accept and practice the life He came to show to a sin-ridden world. Much as we esteem the cross of Christ and all that it means to the world, that cross would become meaningless and just another instrument of torture, if the tomb had not been emptied on that first glad resurrection morning.

It is wonderful to be able to say, "He died for my sins." But it is even more wonderful to be able to say, "He arose for my justification"; that He became "the first fruits of them that slept"; that He now "liveth forevermore to make intercession for us"; and that "all power" is in His hands. We can live calmly before men, certain in our knowledge that when "our earthly house of this tabernacle be dissolved, we have a building of God, eternal in the heavens."

This lesson gives us a fine opportunity to meditate on all that the coming of Christ into the world means to us as individuals. That Paul had grasped the full significance of the Resurrection is fully realized when we read the entire lesson. There are no new lessons in the Easter story, but there is an old lesson that is always new in inspiration. Katherine Hankey had it right when she wrote, "I love to tell the story, for those who know it best seem hungering and thirsting to hear it like the rest."

There are a number of words that can be associated with the Easter time, among which we find, "assurance"; "hope"; "joy"; "peace"; "life" and many others. See how many you can add to the list. It is that which is embodied in these "facts of Easter" that gives us the urge to go forward in our tasks for the Master. They are the "urge" that keeps "faith sure and strong and helps us triumph over wrong."

How well Paul expresses it all in his second letter to Timothy—1:10. Get your Bible and read it.

If the Lord is not with us, "Ichabod" may be written on all that we do.

MISSIONARY STILL DELAYED

Miss June Byler is still in Philadelphia with her sister. Her visa has not yet arrived. However, an embargo on express to New York has also made it impossible to move her boxes of equipment and supplies.

With all the delay there is also encouraging word that the permission will be granted.

Miss Byler is having a period of time, where not much can be done except exercise great patience.

Williamstown, Ohio. A note from Brother Joe Shultz, student pastor of the Williamstown Church, says, "I am indeed happy to report in behalf of the church here, considering it a high honor to minister the Lord's Gospel among these good people. The work is progressing, with several new families in attendance. We are also anticipating a glorious Easter day with Dr. W. D. Furry of Ashland College and Seminary as speaker, with a part of the program being the ordination of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rodabaugh to the office of Deacon and Deaconess."

New Lebanon, Ohio. Brother W. C. Berkshire reports a fine attendance throughout their revival which recently closed. The average for all services up to the final Sunday was 152. We will be looking for a full report of the meeting.

One hundred and eight young people and guests shared in the Youth Banquet in the New Lebanon church basement on Thursday evening, March 17th. This was held during the meetings referred to above.

Huntington, Indiana. Brother C. Y. Gilmer reports that the "Spring Rally" which was held in the Huntington Church on Sunday, March 20th, was a success, with 91 in Sunday School and 117 at the 10:30 service. The Monument City High School chorus furnished five sacred selections.

A "kitchen Shower" was scheduled for Saturday evening, April 2nd, with a miscellaneous program and refreshments.

Brother Gilmer reports that the Parsonage Fund is gradually climbing, having gone beyond the $700.00 mark.

The pageant, "And There Was Light," will be presented on Palm Sunday evening by the young people of the church. The Communion will be held on Easter Sunday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

Smithville, Ohio. Brother Vernon Grisso reports that an offering of $115.00 was recently lifted for the Kentucky emergency fund. Also that the Sunday School has purchased a grand piano for the sanctuary.

Stockton, Calif. Brother Johnson reports that the Stockton Endeavorers cooperated in a C. E. Convention which was held on March 25th at the Lathrop Church.

He also reports the baptism of another young man at the morning service on March 20th.

Johnstown, Penna., Second. We learn from Brother Leatherman's Bulletin that the recently organized Boys' Brotherhood elected the following officers: President—Arthur Boyer; Vice President—Ronald Hostetler; Secretary—Larry Dietz; Treasurer—Eugene Hostetler.

Washington, D. C. Brother Fairbanks says that the Laymen had a fine banquet on Friday evening, March 18th. The ladies of the church prepared the meal and the girls served. He also says that they came within one of making their goal of 25 in attendance at prayer meeting on March 16th.

West Alexandria, Ohio. The young adult class of the church entertained forty-four children and young people at the church on Friday evening, March 18th. The result of this meeting was the organization of a Signal Lights society, with Edna Spitler as their patroness; a Junior Sisterhood with Ethel Holsinger as patroness; a Senior Sisterhood with Leona Unger as patroness; a Junior Brotherhood with Rev. H. A. Garland as patron, and a Senior Brotherhood with Lewis Davidson as patron. This was quite an evening's progress and speaks well for the program of activity in the West Alexandria Church.

Berlin, Penna. We learn that the following had charge of the services at Berlin while Brother Miller was holding the revival at Masontown: March 27—Morning: W. M. S. Public Service; evening: C. E. Public Service. April 3—Morning: Laymen Public Service; evening: Roofgarden Male Chorus, sponsored by the Boys' and Young Men's Brotherhood.

Pre-Easter services are being held each evening except Saturday, the week prior to Easter Sunday. The Spring Communion will be held on Easter Sunday evening.

We learn that the Ashland College Alumni Association for Pennsylvania will hold its spring banquet in the Berlin Church on May 20th, with Dr. Glenn L. Clayton, President of Ashland College, as the guest speaker.

Flora, Indiana. We note that a series of Lenten services are being held in the Flora Church, being scheduled for each Wednesday evening during Lent.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

WE ARE CONSTANTLY watching for little sayings that can be used for "fillers" at the bottom of pages in the Evangelist when material is a little short of column length and a small space is to be filled. Every once in a while we come across one that makes us look a second time and pause to mull it over. Such is the one that we quote here: "What a terrific din there'd be if we made as much noise when things go right as we do when they go wrong."

As usual this sentence set me to thinking.

Isn't it strange how we are constituted? Isn't it queer that we can always see the thing that is wrong and make a great noise about it, but it is so hard to see that which is good and right and make comment on that part of what we see and hear. In reading proof the editor tries desperately not to miss anything that should be corrected. But usually after the entire paper is off the press and folded, stitched and trimmed, and ready for the mailer, then he picks it up to look over it and about the first thing his eyes fall upon is a misspelled word or a wrong punctuation, or some such thing (if they are there) and that is usually what he hears about first.

When we get a good dinner, cooked especially well, we consume it with relish, but say little about it. But let the cook burn the potatoes, or bake a "soggy" cake or any number of other things that may go wrong in the kitchen—well that's what is apt to be talked about all through the meal.

Let a person go through life, leading an exemplary existence, and hardly anyone thinks to say much about it; but let there be just one little slip, one little mistake in judgment, and the whole community is set to wagging their tongues at a great rate.

Turn to the pages of your daily paper, especially the front pages. Note the great "Scare" head lines. What someone has done that is good? Well, hardly, or at least very seldom. But they are full of murder, robbery, and like material—placed there largely because it is that kind of news that people seem to like. The "Cleveland Plain Dealer" (and perhaps other large city papers as well) has been running the story of the life of Christ under the caption of "The Greatest Story Ever Told" and giving it "first page" prominence. It is the story of Jesus from birth to resurrection. It seemed strange to see such material on front page, and the running of it has caused much favorable comment in this section of Ohio.

What we are getting at is, why not make a little more noise over the good things of life, and in this way counteract the great hubbub that goes on when things go wrong? I have a little motto which has hung above my desk at home for lo, these many years. It reads like this:

"It is easy enough to be pleasant
When things go along like a song;
But the man that's worth while,

Is the man with a smile,
When everything goes dead wrong."

Does your face carry a smile in the face of things going wrong? It ought to!

Think it over!

Qualifications

For Elders

Rev. Delbert B. Flora

"A parish priest of austerity climbed up into the church steeple,
In order to be nearer God, and hand His Word down to the people.
In sermon script he daily wrote what he thought was sent from heaven,
And dropped it down on the people's heads, two times one day in seven.
In his age God said, 'Come down and die.' And he cried out from the steeple:
'Where art Thou, Lord?' And the Lord replied: 'Down here, among My people.'"

* * * * *

MANY INDEED are those who have taken upon themselves the duties, privileges, and prerogatives of the office of elder with as little understanding of their responsibility as had the parish priest who climbed up into the church steeple so that he might not be disturbed in his meditation and writing. Therefore, I approach the subject of Qualifications of Elders with some sense of its weightiness, some trepidation, the while asking guidance in the discussion of Him who is the Teacher, even the Lord Jesus in Whose Church the Elders serve.

Acknowledgments are due to various sources of assistance and materials, such as J. H. Jowett, George Barlow, Joseph Henry Thayer, Dean Henry Alford, etc., and to seminary and theological teachers and professors of days gone by.

"If a man desire the office of a bishop, he desireth a good work." Before a man selects the Christian ministry as his vocation he must have the assurance that the selection has been imperatively constrained by the eternal God. "The call of the Eternal must ring through the rooms of his soul as clearly as the sound of the morning bell rings through the valleys of Switzerland, calling the peasants to early prayer and praise." The candidate for the ministry must move like a man in secret bonds. "Necessity is laid" upon him. His choice is not a preference among alternatives. Ultimately he has no alternative: all other possibilities become dumb: there is only one clear call sounding forth as the imperative summons of the eternal God.

When the call is real, a man's "feeling" will stand the test of the facts by which God more commonly voices His call to men. These facts may be classified generally under three heads—personal qualifications, right motives, and providential circumstances. Since right motives and providential circumstances are seemingly outside the limits of this discussion, they shall receive no present consideration.

The personal qualifications for the eldership are physical and mental, as well as moral and spiritual. As to physical qualifications, if a candidate be blind or deaf, or has an impediment in speech, or has an incurable weakness, he should seriously question his call. God instructed Moses, "Speak unto Aaron saying, Whosoever he be of thy seed in their generations that hath any blemish, let him not approach to offer the bread of his God" (Lev. 21:17). Freedom from physical blemishes will tend to make service for Christ more efficient. Every physical, mental, and spiritual excellence is necessary for the work of the ministry. Persons may serve God well who are encumbered with various deficiencies, but they can serve Him better who have few, and could serve Him best if they had none. It is true that marked bodily defects have been overcome, and men have succeeded in spite of them, but soundness of body is the common requisite.

But now let our attention be turned upon St. Paul's catalogue of personal qualifications for eldership in 1 Timothy 3:1-7 and Titus 1:5-9. It would be well if you would turn to your Bible and read these passages before going farther with this article.

Paul's use of the term "bishop" and "elder" in connection with these two lists need cause us no alarm for they refer to the same office. In Acts 20:17, 28 we read, "And from Miletus he sent to Ephesus, and called the elders of the Church . . . Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over the which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which He hath purchased with His own blood." The translators of the King James version were hardly consistent when they placed the word "overseers" in verse twenty-eight, for the Greek word is the same as that translated elsewhere by the word "bishop." Paul called the elders of Ephesus "bishops."

We note 1 Peter 5:1, 2 which reads, "The elders which are among you I exhort who am also an elder, and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, and also a partaker of the glory that shall be revealed: feed the flock of God which is among you, taking the oversight thereof." Note the use of the phrase "taking the oversight," which in the literal would be "bishops" if the word "bishop" would be carried through to logical sequence.

And now hear what Paul says to Titus in chapter one, verses five to seven. "For this cause left I thee in Crete, that thou shouldest set in order the things that are wanting, and ordain elders in every city, as I had appointed thee: if any be blameless, the husband of one wife, having faithful children not accused of riot or unruly. For a bishop must be blameless, as the steward of God." "For" at the beginning of verse seven is almost a conjunction and so the "elder" of verse five is the "bishop" of verse seven. Therefore, "elder" is the name of the office, while "bishop" refers to the function of the same office.

St. Paul lists the qualifications for the eldership according to everyday life, temperament, disposition, family relations, reputation, faith, judgment, ability, experience, and sex. These classifications let us consider one by one.

1. The elder's qualifications as to life.

He must live a life blameless and without reproach. In no way must he lay himself open to censure. In a city where I once held a pastorate, a minister was acquitted by the jury of a charge of attack brought against him by a high school girl. He probable was guiltless of the specific charge, but he was indiscreet in laying himself open to censure in taking this girl into his automobile and giving her a chance to institute proceedings.

His life is to be one of good behavior, i. e. well arranged, seemly, and modest.

Also, he is to live righteously, or justly, and holily. There must be a just relation among the powers of the soul within, and towards men and duties without. "Holy" betokens the integrity of the spiritual life, and the piety toward God of which that is the condition. Hence both expressions together complete the idea of moral perfection.

2. The elder's qualifications as to temperament.

He is not to be a striker or a brawler. In the original a "striker" is a "bruiser," or one who is always ready with a blow; and a brawler is one who is always quarrelsome or contentious. Neither is he to be self-willed nor soon angry. How can an arrogant irascible man be a good elder? It is difficult to see.

These negatives of the temperament are offset with a pair of positives. The elder is to be patient, i. e. forbearing and gentle; and again temperate, i. e. continent in reference to sexual and all other indulgences.

3. The qualifications for eldership as to disposition.

No elder is to be "given to wine," for "one in his cups," as Dean Alford interprets, is rendered petulant by much wine and becomes a striker and contentious. But let him be "given to hospitality," loving and entertaining strangers "for thereby some have entertained angels unawares" (Heb. 13:2). John, the loved disciple, said, "Beloved, thou doest a faithful work in whatsoever thou doest toward them, that are brethren and strangers withal" (3 John 5, A R V).

St. Paul did not forget the money question and instructed that the elder should not be greedy of, nor given to "filthy lucre." Perhaps we have no elders of that sort in our Brotherhood, but hear what one of our prominent pastors, says, in a private communication, there are "some . . . men in the Brotherhood who have the erroneous idea that the less they (their churches) give to missions, the more they will get in salary . . . it is utterly true that the pastors who are anti-missionary are the pastors who are usually on starvation diet."

Also he must be "a lover of good men," or rather, perhaps, as the American Revised Version puts it, "a lover of good." One may wonder why such an injunction in reference to a minister of the Gospel. But when we see ministers of such a quarrelsome and contentious spirit that churches are torn to pieces, how can one say of such that they are "lovers of good," and why wonder about Paul's injunction?

4. The elder's qualifications as to family relations.

He is to be "the husband of one wife." Now, what does this phrase mean? Some will answer, "Just what it says." True, very true, but just what does it say? Does it say that to be an elder a man must have a wife, or only one at a time and no concubine, or on the loss, even by death, of his wife must never have a second? These interpretations have all been advanced. But it would seem to a large number of scholars that the proper interpretation is that the elder should have only one wife, as opposed to polygamy, which I hold to be correct.

Again, he is to be "one that ruleth well his own house, having his children in subjection to gravity." He is so to preside over his house that his children are known for their reverent modesty. The gravity of his children is the result of his presiding and proves that he knows how to act in such capacity. Want of success at home would disqualify him for ruling the church, "For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?"

Likewise, his children should be "faithful children not accused of riot or unruly." That is, his children are to be "believing children who are not involved in accusation of profligacy or insubordinate." Again, lack of such would disqualify the candidate for the eldership. But what is the reputation which is all too often true, attached to preacher's children?

5. The elder's qualification as to reputation.

"He must have a good report of them which are without; lest he fall into reproach and the snare of the devil." He should be blameless not only in the eyes of the church, but be esteemed for his moral worth and uprightness by the world. Not even the former life of an elder should be open to reproach. The reproach continually surrounding him for former sins might lead him into the snare of becoming as bad as his reputation. Despair of recovering reputation might, in a weak moment, lead some into recklessness of living.

6. Qualifications for eldership as to faith.

The minister of the Gospel of Jesus Christ is to be one "holding fast the faithful word as he hath been taught." He is to hold fast the true or trustworthy word. It seems to be that above all else Christ's representative should himself have a firm grasp of the truth. Whoever else may be on the quicksand of doubt and error, the minister must know and keep his ground. Hesitation in the pulpit means confusion in the pew. And He must be able to present the truth with convincing power so "that he may be able by sound doctrine (or healthy teaching) both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers." Not only must the church be edified and encouraged, but unbelievers must be reproved, and convinced of the error of their ways and brought to Christ. The great function of preaching is to persuade men, and to do this effectively the preacher must himself be sound in doctrine, and fully persuaded of the supreme claims of the Gospel of Christ.

7. We must consider the minister's qualifications as to judgment.

First, he should be "vigilant," as the American Revised Version translates, "temperate." The word in the original means sober in the sense of abstaining from the evil effects of wine. It comes from a word which means in the New Testament to be calm and collected in spirit, or to be dispassionate. Certainly a man of good judgment will not allow himself to be thrown open to the passionate distempers resulting from the use of alcoholic drink.

Second, the elder is one who is supposed to be "sober" or "sober-minded." This means to be of sound mind, to be in one's right mind, to exercise self-control, to put a moderate estimate on one's self, to think of one's self soberly, to curb one's passions.

8. As to Ability.

The elder should be "apt to teach." Not merely given to teaching, but able and skilled in it. All might teach, to whom the Spirit imparted the gift; but skill in teaching was the especial office of the minister, on whom would fall the ordinary duty of instruction of believers and refutation of gainsayers. This aptness may be natural or it may be developed through training. But no matter of what high degree the aptness may be, there must be along with it a knowledge of God's Word.

9. Experience becoming an elder has also a place in this catalogue of qualifications

One elected to the eldership should not be a "novice," or neo-phyte. A neo-phyte is one newly planted, therefore, a new convert. To ordain such a person to the ministry, would be most inadvisable and should never be done, lest being lifted up with pride, being beclouded, darkened, befooled, inflated with self-conceit and exaggerated ideas of his own importance, he fall into the same condemnation as that into which Satan fell, who was condemned for his pride. The minister is emphatically the spiritual man, and should be deeply and experimentally acquainted with the mind of the Spirit and with spiritual things.

10. What should be the sex of the elder?

The answer is, the elder must be a man; no woman is eligible to the eldership. Proof? No woman elder appears in the New Testament. The nature of the office excludes the woman because it is a ruling office, as witness 1 Timothy 2:11, 12, A. R. V. "Let a woman learn in quietness with all, subjection. But I permit not a woman to teach, nor to have dominion over man, but to be in quietness." Woman is not to have dominion over man. It is not a question of superiority or inferiority, but of authority according to God's order of things based upon the fact that man was created before woman and that woman transgressed before man.

11. Is there any basis in Scripture for demanding educational preparation for the eldership?

These requirements are worthy of note in this connection: "holding fast the faithful word as he hath been taught," "apt to teach," and "not a novice." These imply that training is good and necessary. There are those who claim that education is not necessary and cite such passages as Luke 12:11, 12, "And when they bring you unto the synagogues, and unto the magistrates, and powers, take ye no thought how or what thing ye shall answer, or what ye shall say: for the Holy Ghost shall teach you in the same hour what ye ought to say." They desire to lay claim to the promise that "the Holy Ghost shall teach you in the same hour what ye ought to say," forgetting that the promise was given in reference to persecutions and not the teaching of the Word, with the result that, as Dr. J. Allen Miller says, when they open their mouths it is discovered that they were only filled with wind.

The New Testament leaves the question open. It is to be cared for according to needs that arise. However, we must never forget that the Twelve had three years special training under the Master Teacher, and St. Paul retired into Arabia for a like period for special instruction at the feet of the same Teacher.

"If a man desire the office of a bishop, what saith the Word of God that he desireth?—a large income?—a palace?—to be called Lord?—No—he desireth a good work. Work for Christ is the true honor of the bishop." Such a man should possess both gifts and grace, and both in a high degree.

It is a matter of deep concern that right conceptions should prevail as to the real character of the qualifications for eldership. False notions of these qualifications have deprived the church of the services of well qualified and consecrated men: while, for the same reason, some have undertaken the work of the elder who could have been far more useful in other walks of life.

Vouchsafe, O Lord, The presence now,
Direct us in Thy fear;
Before Thy throne we humbly bow,
And offer fervent prayer.

Give us the men whom Thou shalt choose,
Thy house on earth to guide;
Those who shall ne'er their power abuse,
Or rule with haughty pride.

Inspired with wisdom from above,
And with discretion bless'd;
Displaying meekness, temp'rance, love,
Of every grace possess'd;

These are the men we seek of Thee,
O God of right'ousness:
Such may thy servants ever be,
With such thy people bless.

Brother C. A. Stewart announces that beginning Easter Sunday, Rev. Gypsy Smith will conduct a week of meetings in New Paris.

Masontown, Penna. Brother Freeman Ankrum reports that there were eighty-six registered for the "Fellowship Supper" which was held in their church dining room during their recent meetings.

We learn from Brother Ankrum's bulletin that Brother George H. Jones was rather seriously injured in an auto-bus accident on March 13th. He is recovering in the Sarasota, Florida, Hospital. Numerous stitches were required to care for the multiple injuries of the face. He was the only one of his family injured. Brother Jones and family have been wintering in Florida. He will be in the hospital for some time. You can address him there.

Mansfield, Ohio. Brother Delbert Flora, who has been acting as temporary pastor of the Mansfield church tells us that there has been a fine increase in attendance since he took over last fall. On March 27th there were 118 in attendance, which is an increase from about 65 when he began to serve them. They have set a goal of 150 in attendance for Easter Sunday.

On February 20th they brought the sum of $150.00 for their parsonage offering, and on March 20th the sum of $418.00. This brings the amount of their Parsonage Fund to $2,200.03 (the 3 cents is seed). They hope to soon be able to purchase the parsonage.

We learn that Brother Elmer Carrithers, who has resigned as pastor of the Peru, Indiana, Church, in order to return for more work at the College, has accepted a call to the Mansfield Church, same to take effect about August 1st, or sooner, if possible.

Canton, Ohio. Brother Beekley says that the Board of Trustees has made plans to endeavor to have the Sunday School Room, Hall and Study redecorated before Easter.

The film was secured by the "I Will" Sunday School Class of the Bethlehem Church, which class is taught by Mrs. H. E. Dedication Of The New Basement Of The Fair Haven Church

by J. D. Hamel, Pastor

"When we build, let us think that we build forever. Let it not be for present delight nor for present use alone. Let it be such work as our descendants will thank us for, and let us think as we lay stone upon stone, that a time is to come when those stones will be held sacred because our hands have touched them, and that men will say as they look upon the labor and wrought substance of them, 'See! This our fathers did for us.'"

—John Ruskin.

DEDICATION services for the newly refinished basement of the Fair Haven Church, at Lattasburg, Ohio, were held Sunday, March 17, 1949. The dedicatory service took place on Sunday afternoon following the regular morning service, and the day was climaxed in the evening with the first of a series of revival meetings. The attendance and enthusiasm at all three of the services was exceptionally good and very gratifying. Except for a high wind, the weather was ideal.

The morning service was in charge of the regular pastor, J. D. Hamel. The sermon theme was "Christ's Prayer for the Church."

Now, just a word about the new basement itself. It all comes as the realization of a project which was begun during the ministry of Rev. Woodrow Brant at the Fair Haven Church. An initial offering was received at that time and since then has steadily grown, making it possible to fulfill the need for a basement under the entire church building. The construction is of cement block walls painted white, and a concrete floor. It is equipped with a completely modern kitchen, fluorescent lighting throughout, and a reconditioned furnace.

We were very fortunate in securing five outstanding leaders of the Brethren Church to be with us throughout the day of the dedication. Dr. Glenn L. Clayton, president of Ashland College, delivered a very timely dedicatory address at the afternoon meeting on the theme, "Three Great Words." Dr. Clayton advanced the idea that many people view life much as do animals and fail to achieve the perspective capable of human beings. He urged us to continue from this point of progress in the history of our church and to do other noble things for our Master, so that we, too, may be able to say with confidence "Now I see!"

Rev. E. M. Riddle, Field Secretary for the Mission Board, had charge of the Dedication Offering Appeal. The afternoon offering received totaled $337.00 which will be used for the basement debt. Rev. H. H. Rowsey, pastor of the Park Street Brethren Church of Ashland, read the scripture and led the Dedication Prayer. We were also honored by the presence of Dr. L. E. Lindower, professor at Ashland College, who delivered a short talk. Dr. Lindower was the pastor at the Fair Haven Church during the war years.

Special music for the Dedication Service included a vocal duet by Mrs. Hamilton and Betty Imhoff, both of the Fair Haven Church, and a violin solo by Miss Jean Rowsey, of Ashland.

The open meeting of a week-long revival campaign was held on Sunday evening with Rev. Vernon D. Grisso, of the Smithville Brethren Church, as the speaker. Attendance for that service and throughout the week thus far has been unusually good. To date there have been four confessions, two reconsecrations, and three new members by letter as a result of these revival services. We are grateful to Rev. Grisso for his stirring messages on the gospel of Jesus Christ.

The Fair Haven church has stood for many years in the little community at Lattasburg, and has long been a faithful source of spiritual enlightenment and Christian leadership. We are very happy and thankful that God has made it possible for us to expand our resources and to progress in both material and spiritual ways. We wish to thank all of the friends throughout the community for their generous gifts of money and words of encouragement. We covet your continued good will and support that we may ever render more effective service to our Lord.

I think God loves new temples built to Him
And watches as each stone is laid on stone,
And smiles to see them laid so straight and true,
Lifting the strong wide walls to heaven's blue,
And when the carpenters have done with them,
And each new church stands finished and alone,
When dusk sifts violet shadows through the glass
Of painted windows. I think that God must pass Between the new dim aisles, and stopping where
The last light falls across His shining hair,
He kneels and holds the first communion there.

Leaves From My Diary

Mrs. G. E. Drushal, Lost Creek, Kentucky

March 9. Two run-away girls from the Dessie Scott Children's Home had to be taken care of. A F. B. I. man called to get some information about a man up in another County. He got the information he wanted.

March 10. One of the school boys helped Father fix the steps to the baptistry. It is now ready for use. Miss Lee from the Dessie Scott Home came, looking for the run-away girls. We had sent her word about them. The Senior girls went to Hazard for "ads" for the Year Book. Quite successful. Miss Stevenson spanked some of her lower grade boys for calling each other names. In place of a teacher giving a chapel talk this morning, students were asked to volunteer to give Bible verses. Nearly all responded.

March 12. We used the baptistry for the first time. Eight students were baptized. Had thought three electric heaters placed in the water would make it warm, but were disappointed. Have to make some other arrangements another time. Those baptized were: Eline, Marshall and Paul Baker of Cincinnati, Ohio; Betty Dunn of Lebanon, Ohio; Mollie Mullins of Typo, Kentucky; Jackie Owens of Fiste, Kentucky, and Betty Jean Potter of Burdine, Kentucky.

March 13. Those baptized were received into the fellowship of the church by the laying on of hands. Brother Jackson assisted in the service. The question was discussed at the Stacy Sunday School this afternoon, if the chapel there should be called the Stacy or the Rowdy Chapel, since the Post Office has been changed to Rowdy. More seemed to favor Rowdy, although it was not definitely settled.

March 14. Mr. Grigsby from Hazard, a fire-prevention specialist, came today at Father's request, to check up on our buildings. He was pleased with our arrangements and saw no need for extra fire escapes and advised that fire alarms be placed in the buildings, which would ring for fifteen minutes at a given temperature. Three of these, he suggested, were ordered at once.

March 16. Miss Anderson took three of the children to the dentist. Father began teaching the after-school class in the Bible Department. Two clothing record books were taken from our work table today. It has been a mystery why children would want to "swipe" these note books, but the mystery is solved. They are "Blue Horse" books, and by saving so many horse heads they can get a bicycle. We are now changing our type of note book. But these books, now lost (these last two make five now taken), have valuable information. Two were Diary books and in the last two were names and addresses of people who have sent clothing and other things, and to whom we have not as yet had time to write. These names and addresses are now lost. This does not include the record of money receipts. These are kept in the office, but I have my work shop in the dining room where is also the circulating library. The room was full of children this evening. Will change our library system also. Put a mustard plaster on Father's chest tonight.

March 17. Father's cold better. He went to Haddix today to discuss the mail situation with the Postmaster there. Since two trains have been taken off, the depot at Haddix is closed and this slows up our mail. No more telegrams or freight may now be sent to Haddix, these must be sent to Jackson. (Please note this carefully—Editor).

March 18. Paused during chapel service for special prayer for "Woodie" Brant of Warsaw, Indiana, having gotten word that he was sick. Brother Brant has been our camp director. Children are much concerned about him. Students gave good literary program tonight. At the close Ralph Smith showed his colored slides of pictures taken while on duty in Japan. Ralph was a member of the 1940 Class.

Ashland College News Letter

By Arthur Petit

Lewis Smith of the Elkhart, Indiana, Church has been elected to the presidency of the Student Council on the Ashland College campus. This is the most important post on the campus. The election of Lewis is a fitting climax to the college career of this fine young man from the state of Indiana.

All efforts on the Ashland College campus are beginning to point toward May Day on May 14, when Queen Velma Brownson will be crowned—another in the long list of beautiful May Queens. Miss Brownson has chosen her court. Included will be Joanne Selby and Bonita Bowman of Dayton, Wesley Peterman of Smithville, and John Lindower of Ashland, all of whom are known to readers of the Evangelist.

The Alumni Office is making a special effort to have alumni and friends return this year. The pageant will deal largely with some of the historical facts about Ashland. The dinner at 5:30 P. M., will be by reservation. These reservations should be sent in as soon as possible.

A change in the itinerary of the choir has been necessary. The North Liberty concert has been changed from Tuesday to Saturday, April 23. The choir is now working toward this trip, one of the most ambitious in the history of the college.

The community of Ashland thrilled to one of the finest musical treats ever on Sunday, March 27, when the first annual Ashland College Musical Festival was held in the McDowell Auditorium. In addition to the Ashland College A Capella Choir, the choirs of Findlay and Hiram Colleges and Ashland High School combined to sing the St. Cecilia Mass, by Gounod. More than 200 voices were lifted together in one of the most beautiful Lenten services ever witnessed in Ashland. It is hoped that this will become an annual affair. Dr. Pete, who directs the college choir, directed the combined choir. Ruth and Paul Clapper, graduates of Ashland College, sang solo parts in the production.

MONEY—MASTER OR SERVANT

Scripture: Isaiah 55:2; I Timothy 6:6-10

For The Leader

SOON SCHOOL will be drawing to a close, and many of us will be "getting a job" for the summer. The reasons for this are many. Perhaps it is necessary to help with a limited parental income. Perhaps you see a chance to get some money for some things you want real badly. Regardless of the reason, you work because you want money. Your reason for wanting it tells much about your heart condition. So let's be sure that you possess the proper motives for seeking money, or you will find yourself with a stranglehold obsession of greed around your heart. The Bible tells us much about the value of money and its proper use. Let us study carefully.

DISCUSSION

1. A RICH YOUNG RULER'S MISTAKE. In Matthew 19:16-22 we have one of the saddest pictures ever given in Holy Writ. It is the picture of a young man who had come into inheritance of great possessions, to which he clung with all his heart. He came to Jesus and asked the way to eternal life. Jesus told him to go and sell that which he had, and to come and follow Him. Jesus did not mean for the man to go and throw away his great wealth. But Jesus did ask the young ruler to forsake his worship of the wealth he possessed. Wealth is no crime, but worship of it is, and that is where this man failed. Sad it is, but the young man did not possess his wealth; his wealth possessed him. That is why he turned away sorrowfully. He chose to keep his love for his possessions rather than to dedicate all to God. In so doing, he lost his way to eternal life, and at the hour of death, lost his wealth. That is why it is such a sad picture.

2. WE ARE NOT SO DIFFERENT. Most of us would censure the rich young ruler for his decision. But wait a minute. How are we with our own little dollars? Is money our master as it was in the young ruler's life, or is it our servant? Do we sacrifice our church attendance to get that extra money for working overtime on Sunday? Do we count our wages as our own without giving the Lord His share? When all there is in life is work to get more and more money, to the exclusion of worship of God, and the sharing of it with Him, we are possessed with a greediness for the filthy lucre. Look not upon money as wealth; rather look on it as a servant, or something useful, through which you can provide for your needs and help the work of God.

3. RATIO. What percentage of our money should we give to the Church? The Bible states that a tithe belongs to Him. But even a tithe, or less, or more, given reluctantly is worthless before God. The best answer we can give in reply to how much we should give to the Church is not stated in dollars and cents. But rather, How much do we love the Lord? We cannot say to you that you should give so many dollars and cents to this offering and that. But if you have found a real love for Christ and His work, giving will become as natural a process as breathing.

4. SOME FACTS ABOUT MONEY. It is a convenience, brought about by the works of men to make things easier in trading. There is no value in money itself; only as it is used, or wisely invested, can it have value. Its value can vanish overnight. We cannot take it with us when we leave. It will, if not squelched, create in the possessor a greediness which, in time, will possess the whole soul and life of the individual. It can be used to build up God's work, and heap up for ourselves an eternal reward. So, consider the facts, and make good use of your money.

5. THE RIGHT USE OF OUR MONEY. Some have more than others, some have less. Naturally, we have the obligations of home, food, clothing, etc. But we first have the duty toward God. Tithing is the Christian's secret of financial security. God works in mysterious ways, His wonders to perform. And making nine-tenths of an income go further than ten-tenths, is one of those grand miracles. But it is true. Ask any one who conscientiously tithes, and they will bear you out. Almost consistently when you hear objections to tithing, it comes from people who have never tried it! If people tithed, the church would never have to do anything but pass the plate to get an offering. The Church would never need to make a special appeal for money. Yes, Never! The Lord says, "Try me and know that I am God." Blessings, heaped up, pressed down and overflowing will come to those who are in good financial shape towards God. Yes, the right use of our money will make it a servant, and not a master.

6. SOME FINAL ADMONITIONS. How much is tithing? If I make $30.00 a week does that mean I must give $3.00 to the Lord? No, you don't have to give; no one can make you give it. But your love for the Lord will prompt you to give it, and more besides. Well then, if I am later able to earn $50.00 a week, should I give $5.00? The ratio is the same, you decide. If I farm, or am in business, do I give 10% of all I take in? Foolish question. One farmer once told us that they couldn't tell how much they were making because of the expenses which had to be taken out of income. Well, don't try to get by with that question. The government knows each March 15th how much you make, or you land in the jug. Naturally, each year you know your profit after expenses of your business have been taken out. It's easy then to figure 10% and add some more for real giving unto the Lord. Lastly, it doesn't all have to be given in your weekly church envelope, while that should receive a real percentage of it. For you receive many blessings from your church. The rest you should give to missions, benevolences, education, etc. The main thing to remember is, are you doling it out, or are you giving?

QUESTIONS

1. Because the tithe was mentioned in the Old Testament law, is it binding on us today?

2. Do you think our reward in heaven will be in proportion to our giving unto the Lord?

WHAT DOES EASTER MEAN TO YOU?

What does Easter mean to you?
Stately church with cushioned pew,
Where, Lenten season gone at last
And days of self-denial past,
Richly-clad, devoted throngs
Of worshippers unite in songs
Of praise in lily-scented air?
Is that what makes your Easter fair?

Does it mean the winter's reign,
Bright skies and welcome warmth again,
Singing of birds, budding of trees,
Sweet spring odors on the breeze
From daffodil and crocus bed
And balsam branches overhead?
Sad is the world and cold and gray
If this is all to Easter Day.

But if this blessed season brings;
Assurance of a living Lord;
A strengthening of the tender cord
Of love that binds us to the life to come
Where loved ones 'wait us in the heavenly Home,
No pain or loss can e'er efface the bliss,
Dear Friend of Easter, when it means all this.

SINCE JESUS LIVES!

Scripture: Col. 3:1

Resurrection Hymns

Prayers

Seed Thought Provokers:

SINCE JESUS LIVES the salvation He offers is life's only issue (John 14:19; Isa. 45:22). Today while men of science are saying such frightfully solemn things about the present world situation, we who believe in God have something better (2 Peter 1:19). As great men point out that we are facing the events preceding the inevitable end of the world, what shall we talk about today? God's answer to this question walked out of Joseph's tomb on resurrection morning (Matt. 28:2-7). Then came the challenge of the biggest undertaking on earth (Mark 16:15, 16).

Since Jesus lives His pierced hands holds the final answer to sin and death (Acts 2:24; Rev. 1:13-18). Christ is the only way out (John 8:34-36; Matt. 11:29, 30). As the Sunday school lad reported the Easter lesson of Christ's resurrection and victory over sin and death—"You needn't be afraid of dying any more for Jesus went through the grave and left a light behind Him."

Since Jesus lives judgment is sure (Acts 17:30, 31; Dan. 7:9, 10; Rev. 20:11-15). And what will the living, great and small, do in that hour? Read Rev. 6:15-17. If any man wants to do God's will let him read and obey John 7:17; Jer. 29:13, and claim the promise of John 6:37.

Lesson for April 24, 1949

THE DISCIPLINE OF DISCIPLESHIP

Lesson: Luke 12:16-21; 14:27-33

IT SEEMS THAT most folks hate to live disciplined lives. Especially is this true of the inhabitants of the more civilized countries. To far too many people "liberty" is merely a "license" to do as they please at any given moment. They are irked at the thought of having to come under any sort of authority. The fact that so much freedom is permitted often leads to overstepping the mark. Some people say, "The world owes me a living and I'm out to collect it, no matter how I have to act to get it." These people have, as Brother Locke says in his notes on the lesson, a bad case of "personal-pronoun-itis." It is "I" and "my" to the exclusion of all else.

I once had a friend who had a little girl. He loved that child with all his heart. He also liked to play with her, but some way he had never been taught to play "properly" himself. So one day, as we were visiting in the home, he kept "teasing" that little girl by grabbing some of her toys away from her and saying, "Mine! mine!" I said to my friend, "I am afraid you are teaching little Miss . . . some bad tricks, and along with that, to become selfish." He replied, "Aw, no! she'll soon forget it." But not so. For she grew up to be a rather self-centered, selfish young lady who thinks only of "my" and "mine" to the exclusion of all who enter her life. She came to hate sharing with others.

Jesus made it plain that a disciplined life was an essential to all who would follow Him. The sentence that forms our golden text tells its own story—"And whosoever does not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple." Luke 14:27. Jesus said these words to a great multitude of people who were following after Him, some out of curiosity, some to hear more of His gracious words, and some just to be with the crowd. He is impressing on them the fact that merely going along the road with Him does not cover the teachings which He has been giving out. There are crosses to bear; there is work to do; there are others to think about. In another place He says, "Take up your cross daily" and "come follow me."

Years ago we used to play "Follow the leader." This meant we had to do, or attempt to do, everything the leader did, or suffer the penalty. Isn't that just what becoming a "follower of Jesus" implies? Such following entails obedience and discipline. No soldier is worth much who refuses to come under discipline.

Now that's what was the matter with the rich man in our parable today. It was "MY fruits; MY barns; MY goods; MY soul." That there was such a thing as disciplinary measures never entered his head. He was an example of the one about whom the poet wrote when he said,

"Living for self and self alone,
For self and none beside—

Just as if Jesus had never lived
And as if He had never died.”

There is nothing said to intimate that this man was not a good, honest man, or that he had come by his “fruits” in a manner that need make him feel ashamed. His one lack was not permitting God to enter the picture with him; to come under the discipline of the Holy Spirit; to be led in other than paths of selfishness.

The weaving of thoughts concerning “temperance” into this lesson (for this is our quarterly temperance lesson) ought to be rather easy, for temperance demands a rigid discipline of the body. The Great Physician has promised and provided the remedy—it is our duty to follow His instructions to the letter.

News From Our Churches

FOST SCOTT, KANSAS

Brother Johnson has asked me to report our revival meeting to the readers of the Evangelist and I am glad to comply with his request.

The meetings continued for two weeks, closing March 6th. This was our first revival effort in thirteen years, as we have been so long without a pastor. The meetings were good; the gospel messages were splendid; the attendance fair throughout the entire time, considering the weather and sickness which is typical of “Sunny Kansas” at this time of year. The members were greatly strengthened and the visible results were three confessions, and one rededication, all grown people: one a young mother, the second a young bride, and the third a young man. We feel sure that there are others who will follow. Of course we desired more decisions for Christ, but are we ever satisfied with the visible results as long as there are so many unsaved?

It is a well known fact that few unsaved people attend church today, and are thinking of everything except the salvation of their own souls. Pray for us when you pray.

Mrs. L. G. Wood.

TIOSA, INDIANA

We are again approaching the Easter season—a grand and victorious time for the Christian church. In fact, the past year, looking back to last Easter, has been a fruitful and victorious one for our church here at Tiosa.

At Easter time last year we launched our two week evangelistic meeting with our annual Easter supper—biscuits and maple syrup. On Easter Sunday we had 132 in Sunday School and our church was well filled at all the services. Under the leadership of our pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Gilbert Maus, every department of our church, had, for weeks, been praying that the Holy Spirit might be with us in these meetings and our prayers were wonderfully answered. Fourteen were added to our church—thirteen being baptized.

At the close of the meeting the Young Married People's Class of the church felt led to ask for an extensive remodeling program. This was granted and we have been working in harmony toward that end. We have added a new heating unit, two additional class rooms, new lighting, redecorating throughout, carpeting, new cooking facilities in the kitchen and are now awaiting the filling of our order for new pews. This will take time, perhaps till fall, but we are looking forward to a dedication service and Homecoming at that time.

BELATED NEWS FROM LINWOOD, MARYLAND

On several occasions the lady of the Manse has reminded the writer that he owed it to the work and the workers here to give some report of the progress of the work in this section of the Lord's Vineyard. And almost as often he has promised himself that he would make a report, but never put his good intentions into action. But conscience is a troublesome thing—and often it is a good thing that it is—so to rid myself of its persistent reminders I am inditing this news letter.

Our work here opened on Independence Day, 1948, or Sunday, July 4. A fine audience met the new pastor, and an enjoyable service was had. After that came a reception for the new occupants of the commodious parsonage which the good people provide for their dominie. An eight-roomed house, with electricity for both light and cooking, water pumped through the house, providing toilet facilities, hot water heat, and some furniture for the parson's comfort and convenience. Then, too, there is a large truck patch beside a place for "garden sass," a chicken house, a large barn for use as a garage, and two well houses, from one of which the water is pumped by electricity into the house for all purposes. A more pleasant home and surroundings for a preacher could scarce be imagined.

And then the good people of the congregation do not let their minister go without tangible expression of their appreciation of his labors. With a splendid array of good things to eat, given at the reception, and followed by another such "pounding" at the Harvest Home meeting in October, beside a nice purse at Christmas time, this preacher has fared well during his stay among these people.

The special Days of the Church Calendar have been duly observed, with offerings for the various auxiliaries as the dates arrive for their recognition. And we are looking forward to the observances which lie ahead, with full intent of continuing to give them their notice also. Participated in a Community Vacation Bible School immediately following our arrival in the parish, then accepted a part in a Christmas Play put on by the Christian people of Union Bridge; and for five nights during the last of February and the first of March taught in a Leadership Training School, presented jointly by the Church of the Brethren and the Brethren Church. Have had most pleasant relations with the local congregations of the Church of the Brethren (of which there are a number in close proximity of our work). Our work here is located in that Historic section of Maryland which is so ably described in Rev. Freeman Ankrum's latest book, "Maryland and Pennsylvania Historical Sketches." It is our pleasure to have as our next-door neighbor, the Rev. Samuel A. Harley, pastor of the historic old Pipe Creek Church of the Brethren, with whom we enjoy most amicable relations.

At this writing we are planning on a week of evangelistic services, to be conducted from Palm Sunday to the following Easter Sunday. This meeting the pastor will conduct. Then not long after will come the Daily Vacation Bible School, and immediately after that the South Eastern District Conference will meet with this congregation—June 14, 15 and 16. We are looking forward to a season of refreshing with the brethren of the District in the District gathering.

And so time passes and the work moves on. We are endeavoring to keep the plans and objectives of the Brotherhood before the congregation here, and aim to show no partiality in presenting the claims of the various causes which our denomination sponsors. We believe that the Brethren who are carrying the burden of promoting the various projects of the Church deserve our hearty co-operation, and we aim to present those claims as consistently as our knowledge will permit. Our interest encompasses the whole program of the denomination, and our prayers petition the Almighty for His continued and abundant blessings upon all His saints. We salute the brotherhood and ask an interest in your prayers.

Fraternally,

Dyoll Belote.

REVIVAL AT OAKVILLE, INDIANA

On Monday evening, February 28th, the Oakville Brethren Church entered into its first revival meeting in several years. Much enthusiasm for such a series of meetings was prevalent amongst the brethren. The writer prepared the church for these services by preaching on some phase of evangelism each Sunday for the month preceding the meeting. A personal workers' training class was organized, conducted by the pastor, which included a program of visitation among the unsaved and the unchurched. Much credit is due to the lay folks for the success of this meeting.

In keeping with the custom of the church, whereby a new pastor conducts his own revival in his first year on the field, the writer was privileged to present the truths of the Word of God during these two weeks. Each evening a different auxiliary or class of the church or Sunday School was the "guest" of the church, sitting in reserved pews (marked with large white bows) conducting the devotions of the evening, and furnishing the special music. The cooperation of all of these groups was everything that could be desired. The largest single representation was that of the closing Sunday night—the men of the church. The Junior Department of the Sunday School had the second largest delegation, and also the worst night as far as the weather was concerned. We were very fortunate in that we had fine weather until the end of the second week, when we had a little snow which did not last long. Some twenty folks were present for every service, including one family which traveled about thirty miles each evening in order to be here. There were a number of others who missed just one evening.

The brethren here delight in hearing the glorious truths of the Gospel of Salvation, and were unstinted in their expressions of appreciation to the one who brought these messages. Two young women and one young man gave their lives to the Lord during the meeting. On the closing night they were baptized and received into the church through the laying on of hands. Several others were very definitely under conviction and we are praying that they will take the final step during our pre-Easter services, if not before.

In keeping with their ever-present spirit of generosity and their love for their pastors, the brethren presented us with a fine cash offering which was greatly appreciated. The closing night also saw a special offering lifted for the dormitory fund at Lost Creek, that offering being approximately one hundred dollars.

We covet the prayers of the brotherhood, that the results of this meeting might continue to make themselves felt for some months or years to come. Brethren, ours is a goodly heritage.

Henry Bates, pastor.

REVIVAL AT LOREE, INDIANA

It was with pleasure that a call was accepted to conduct a revival service with the Brethren at Loree, Indiana. Although we entered into fellowship and worship among them almost a stranger in the flesh, we found that we were far from strangers in spirit. It was the first occasion to speak to this group of Brethren, having visited that place but once before.

Here, too, we found those who have come to know their Lord as was evidenced by their attendance unto His Word, in spite of the heavy downpour of rain on several evenings. Each evening found an average of 100 people attending unto spiritual things. Their newly organized choir with their newly purchased robes, aided in a fine manner with musical renditions, along with the male quartet and some individual selections. With Brother Austin Gable leading the music, each evening found a special number present. Brother Gable, we feel, was a real asset to our efforts for the Lord. His timely solos and efforts in this regard were much appreciated.

In addition to their newly decorated sanctuary for this post-Christmas series, it was Mrs. Mrs. Emerson Strebins who saw to having an array of flowers on the rostrum for each service. These Brethren, we feel, have a vision and are now ready to accomplish much for the Lord. With their capable leader, Brother Robert Higgins, I am sure that we may well expect to see them "go forward" in the Lord's work.

We were privileged to appreciate the hospitality of the parsonage family for the duration of these two weeks. These three are a fine family and love the work of their Master. Moreover, we appreciated the fine fellowship of the homes in which we were found at the noon hour. Here, too, Brethren hospitality cannot be regarded amiss.

There were no decisions for the Lord at this time, but we were led to believe that some who were touched by the Spirit would soon yield to the Master's will for their lives. When folks of the community attend, who have been in the community for some twenty years, and never have attended before, we can realize that the Spirit is at His work. It was gratifying to note that of those on whom we called in the homes, better than 75% responded by attending a part of the meetings. Several delegations also graced our gatherings with their presence. These were not all of our own churches alone but also from other denominations.

We appreciate the privilege of serving these fine people in the capacity of evangelist and pray that the blessings of the Master may rest and abide with them mightily.

J. Edgar Berkshire, Flora, Indiana.

NORTH LIBERTY, INDIANA

We feel the past year has been one of great spiritual uplift for our church here in North Liberty and that we have been abundantly blessed.

In February we started the holding of a unified service on Sunday mornings. While Rev. Geo. Pontius, our pastor, brings the message to the adults in the auditorium, Mrs. Pontius conducts a Junior Church in the basement. She uses the flannelgraph to illustrate the stories she presents to the children. This service is very much enjoyed by the children. Immediately following the church service we go to our classes for the half hour lesson period and are ready for dismissal at eleven o'clock.

We are looking forward to our coming evangelistic meeting which will begin with a sunrise service on Easter morning. Breakfast will be served in the church dining room following the morning devotions.

Rev. John T. Byler, pastor of the Louisville, Ohio, Brethren Church, will be with us for two weeks to bring us the message in word and song. We are glad for his coming and feel sure we will receive a great blessing.

On Saturday evening, April 23rd, the Ashland College A Capella Choir will present a program in the church at eight o'clock. Brethren from surrounding churches are cordially invited to come and hear them. We also urge them to come and worship with us during our revival meetings. Come and receive a blessing.

Mrs. Ernest Schrader, Cor. Sec.

Laid to Rest

SHANK. Lois Broadhurst was born June 20, 1859 in Napa, California and died on February 6, 1949 in Sacramento, California. She was just about four months away from her ninetieth birthday anniversary. She was the daughter of Elder Stephen Broadhurst, an early preacher in the Brethren Church in California, and one of the first to be ordained to its ministry in the state. Her husband, Elder Jacob Shank, preceded her in death by nearly eighteen years. For many years "Mother" and "Daddy" Shank lived on their farm at Stone Coral near the town of Jenny Lind and from that center, participated in the work of the Lord, in the Northern California District.

It was the pleasure of the writer to take many missionaries and visiting ministers to their home for visits. Prayer lists of the servants of our Lord were constantly being held before the Throne of Grace in her home. The Lord and His work came first in her planning; the records of heaven will doubtless reveal an abundance of intercession for missions and missionaries, churches and pastors, young people and children—in fact her interests were world wide.

Mother Shank was also very liberal and generous in her financial support of every phase of His work. In the day of the Lord Jesus when He rewards His children, what a time of rejoicing there will be for her devotion to His cause. Three of her children attended Ashland College. Her daughter, Ida, taught at Lost Creek, Kentucky at one time. Her grandson, Curtis Morrill spent some time in Africa as a missionary.

Up to the last few years she always attended District Conferences and camp meetings. Failing health only, kept her from her cherished work at the end. The Brethren church has lost a consistent champion of all her interests. She was also a loyal member of the W. C. T. U. and the Brethren Berean Bands.

Three daughters, Mary Lundy, Ocy Morrill, Ida Kane and two sons Ira Clinton and Homer survive; also a number of grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Goodbye, Mother Shank, and by His grace we will meet you in the morning. What will it be when we see Him?

Funeral services were conducted in Lodi, California, by Rev. Benjamin Smith and Rev. Delbert Daniels of the Lodi Christian Church and burial was made at East Union Cemetery near Lathrop and Manteca. Final words were spoken by J. Wesley Platt, pastor of the Manteca Brethren Church.

J. Wesley Platt.

MILLER. William R. Miller was born June 12, 1879 and died February 22, 1949, being 69 years, 8 months and 10 days in his earthly sojourn. Brother Miller had been a member of the Mt. Olive Brethren Church for over forty years. Being a sincere and devout believer he was anointed at his request. His illness was long and difficult to bear. His fine family did every loving thing to make him as comfortable in his suffering as possible. He is survived by his wife, two sons and four daughters in the immediate family.

The deceased was held in high esteem in the community. The funeral services were conducted in the Mt. Olive Church by his pastor, the undersigned. The body was interred in the family lot in the church cemetery.

John F. Locke.

RONK. Goldie A. Ronk, wife of Rev. Kenneth Ronk, passed on to her heavenly home at Santa Cruz, California, on December 24, 1948, after a lingering illness. She was born on October 6, 1897. After leaving Merrill, Oregon, Mrs. Ronk made her home in Manteca, California, where she served faithfully for twenty years as church pianist of the First Brethren Church of that city. In recent years she and Rev. Ronk have made their home in Santa Cruz. Her suffering during the weeks of hospitalization was almost unbearable and only her hold upon the Lord and His grace to her sustained her in the dark hour. Her life throughout her entire illness was a real testimony to the Lord Jesus Christ, whom she longed to see.

Mrs. Ronk is survived by her husband; one son, Rev. Virgil Ingraham of Stockton, California; three grandchildren; four brothers, one of whom is Rev. Cecil H. Johnson of Fort Scott, Kansas; three sisters; a large number of nephews and nieces, and a host of friends.

Don't Stop It, Printer

Don't stop my paper, printer, don't take my name off yet,
You know that times are stringent, and dollars hard to get;

But tug a little harder is what I mean to do,
And scrape the dimes together, enough for me and you.

I can't afford to drop it; I find it does not pay
To do without a paper, however others may.
I hate to ask the neighbors to give me theirs on loan;
They don't just say, but mean it, "Why don't you have one of your own?"

You can't tell how I miss it, if it by any fate
Should happen not to reach us, or comes a little late:
Then all is in a hubbub, and things all go awry,
And, printer, if you're married, you'll know the reason why.

I cannot do without it, it is no use to try;
For other people take it, and, printer, so must I.
I, too, must keep posted and know what's going on,
Or feel, or be accounted, a foggy simpleton.

Then, take it kindly, printer, if pay be somewhat slow,
For cash is not so plenty, and wants not few, you know.
But I must have my paper, cost what it may to me,
I'd rather dock my sugar, and do without my tea.

Now I've stopped and thought it over, and this is how I feel—

I've got to have that paper, even if I have to miss a meal.
I've got the cash laid back I know; it's in a little drawer.
So I guess I'd better send it, and not wait any more.

So, printer, don't you stop it, unless you want my frown,
For here's the year's subscription, and credit it right down,
And send the paper promptly, and regularly on,
And let it bring us every week its welcome benison.

Addendum

Now if your paper's in arrears, just take a tip from this,
And send to us your money—money that you'll never miss;
For Uncle Sam won't let us send your paper without "pay";
So renew your subscription—and do it right away.

Holy Communion will be observed by the Columbus, Ohio, Cooperative Brethren Church on Sunday evening, April 24th at 7:30 o'clock. All of like faith are cordially invited to participate.

D. R. Murray, pastor.

West Alexandria, Ohio. Brother H. R. Garland, pastor of the West Alexandria Brethren Church announces their Spring Revival for April 24th through May 8th. Brother Garland will act as his own evangelist.

The Miami Youth Rally which was held at West Alexandria on March 20th, is reported as a great success. There were 110 for the afternoon business meeting and the evening meal, which was served by the host church. There were 150 present for the evening service. The ladies of the church donated and served the evening meal.

Pleasant Hill, Ohio. Brother Floyd Sibert reports the attendance for the past five Sundays as 217, 195, 203, 202 and 204.

On March 27th Mrs. Sidney Correll of "Wings Over Dayton" spoke at both morning and evening services.

Pleasant Hill's 100% attendance day was observed on April 3rd. We trust that they made it.

"While the cats are away, the mice will play" is an old proverb; but Brother Sibert tells us that "While the minister was away (holding a meeting at the Firestone Park Church at Akron, Ohio) that the members worked loyally at the church building." Lack of some materials has held back the completion of the building.

Columbus, Ohio, Cooperative Brethren Church. We have before us the program for the two weeks of evangelistic effort which are being conducted prior to Easter in the Columbus church. Rev. Galen G. Gerdes of Pearl City, Illinois, is the evangelist. The second week the pastor, Brother D. R. Murray will do the preaching.

Cerro Gordo, Illinois. Brother Arthur J. Tinkel, who was recently installed as pastor of the Cerro Gordo Church, says in his bulletin of last week, "We certainly did appreciate everything that was done to the parsonage when we came. The living and bed rooms were both papered and painted, and a new rug was laid on the dining room floor. A reception was held on Friday night—and what a reception it was! We will never be able to thank this congregation for the wonderful and bountiful gifts of canned goods and food stuff that were brought in.

Milford, Indiana. We have received word from Brother W. I. Duker that he has again received a unanimous call for another year of service with the Milford Church. This call came for his eighteenth year of service with this fine church. Brother Duker is the contributor of our "Verse by verse" notes in our Adult Sunday School quarterly.

Stockton, California. From Brother Johnson's bulletin we learn that a team from "The Crusaders" from Ashland College plan to be with the Stockton church for one week in August. They will do visitation work and conduct services in the evening.

In the same bulletin we find that Brother Johnson pens on the bottom of the page—"Baptized a father and son this morning. One hundred and two in Sunday School."

Washington, D. C. Brother C. S. Fairbanks announces that their Spring Communion was scheduled for Wednesday evening, April 13th at 8:00 o'clock.

Our Washington Church joined with the Church of the Brethren in the Good Friday service in our church, the services carrying from 12:00 to 3:00 o'clock.

Brother Fairbanks says that the men of the men of the church gave of their time in the installatoin of the new Modern-fold doors in the church. This meant a big savings in the outlay of cash, and is a great help to the church.

North Manchester, Indiana. Brother Bert Hodge is conducting a special service of consecration for little children on Easter Sunday. Decision Day will also be stressed as a climax of the Pre-Easter week of services.

Milledgeville, Illinois. The Milledgeville Church joined with the other churches of the town in the Good Friday services, which were held from 12:00 noon till 3:00 P. M. The services were held in the Lutheran Church. The seven sayings of the cross was the theme used.

The Milledgeville Church will observe Holy Communion on Easter Sunday evening.

"THERE THEY CRUCIFIED JESUS"

IN THESE DAYS preceding Easter we are always brought face to face with the scriptures relating to the events of Passion Week. We read these accounts of Jesus' actions and are reminded again of the gracious words which proceeded from His lips, each time seeking to relate them to our own individual lives. We are again seeking to picture the events in order, so that we can catch the full significance of all that was there accomplished.

Peculiarly was the entire scene brought to memory as I listened again to the words as recorded in John 19:18, where it says, "There they crucified him . . ." In the front of our church is an illuminated cross which was shining forth as these words were read. It seemed to me that I could almost see the wounded, bleeding form of our Master as He hung there as "The Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world." Sitting there, in meditation, It set me to thinking!

How wonderful it would be if we could say that this entirely completed the crucifixion story, for, knowing the sequel of that scene was to be completed at the mouth of the empty tomb, we could well forget the horrors of that bleak afternoon and say, "Verily, it IS finished—the crucifixion done forever. But this we cannot say, and still be truthful. For day after day that scene is repeated in the ranks of humanity.

My thoughts carried me to the words of one of the writers of the New Testament letters—"they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh . . ." But somehow I could not seem to remember the remainder of that verse at the moment. Yet it kept repeating itself in my mind and when I got home I at once looked it up in the concordance. I found it was in the Hebrew letter—Chapter 6, verse 6, and the remaining words of the verse were, ". . . and put him to an open shame."

Now what did it all mean? How can the One who has already died on the cross be crucified again? That is not so hard to understand. Denial of Christ, either by word or by action (such as the act that led up to the crucifixion) is equivalent to again placing Him on the cross and holding Him up to ridicule—or "putting him to an open shame." We then become like those who shouted "Away with Him!" Or as Jesus Himself puts it in the Parable of the Pounds (Luke 19:14) "We will not have this man to reign over us." We have forgotten that "He was wounded for our transgressions, bruised for our iniquities" and that the "chastisement of our peace was upon Him, and with His stripes we are healed."

Paul said, "I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me . . ." Far too often we leave our part out of that scene and view the cross from afar off—a thing of shame. It is then we begin the process of sending Him back to the cross which has been set up in every heart and upon which cross must be crucified one or the other—either Jesus Christ or self. If self hangs on that cross, then there will be no room for Jesus to hang there also. It is then that we can sing with the writer of that great song, "Living For Jesus,"

"O Jesus, Lord and Saviour,
I give myself to Thee;
For Thou, in Thy atonement
Didst give Thyself for me;
I own no other Master,
My heart shall be Thy throne,
My life I give, henceforth to live,
O Christ, for Thee alone."

May we truly be able to say, "There on Calvary's brow, they crucified Jesus," and not, "Here in my heart I am crucifying the Son of God afresh."

Think it over!

We Hope We Don't Bore You!

We hope that repeating some things over and over, and adding a new thought once in a while, will not become boresome to you. But we still have a few suggestions to make that will help those who order Sunday School literature and, at the same time, be of assistance to us here at the Publishing House.

This time we want to talk a little about our mailing of Quarterlies and what we have to say here is very important. It will not have so much to do with the churches which have most of their officials living right in the city where the church is located, but it is important where official members live in other localities than the church and have a different mailing address. Let's take a concrete example:

Your church is located at A, but a Mr. B orders your literature, at the same time telling us that the bill for same is to be sent to Mrs. C, who is the treasurer. But somehow Mr. B neglects telling us that the literature is to be sent to Mr. D, who gets his mail from a different town address, or even forgets to tell us to send it to Mr. D at all. Now what are we to do? How are we to know to whom to send it? We have to take a chance and in all probability it will be sent either to the treasurer or to the one sending in the order. But suppose he does tell us to send it to Mr.

Remember, The Morning Cometh

By The Late Dr. George Stanley Baer

THE EASTER SEASON tells us to be of good courage, for though the night be dark, yet "the morning cometh."

"The morning light is breaking;
The darkness disappears."

That is the message for these times. After the night of gloom and sorrow and suffering and defeat, there comes the day bringing gladness and joy and hope and victory. It is the promise of life after death, of day after night, of meeting after parting. It gives assurance of the ultimate triumph of righteousness and spirituality and godliness over the world, the flesh and the devil.

That is the message we are needing in the midst of distress, discouragement, failure and fear that everywhere abounds. We are needing something to lift us out of the slough of despond and to place our feet upon solid ground, something that will cause us to press with fresh vigor forward upon the King's highway, and to look away from the gloom of the present to the eternal city whose builder and maker is God.

Our eyes are so glued to the earth, so blinded by this material world with its passing show, its ephemeral values, its superficial attachments, its increasing vice, its growing corruption, its decadent morals—all of which are losing sight completely of the things of eternal worth and no longer give allegiance to the higher and finer purposes and aims. While others, continuing in the high road of life personally, have lost hope and zeal, and are filled with a gloomy outlook as black as night.

During the days of our Master's week of passion there seemed to be everything to make for sadness and discouragement and nothing to give brightness of prospect. Then came the morning of the resurrection and the light of hope broke over the eastern sky and spread and increased to the brightness of noonday's reality.

In the days of acknowledged discouragement, when black night has settled over many hearts and resistance is gone, we need to have flashed before the eyes of our minds afresh the glories of that first Easter Day when life and power began to be manifest anew. It will hearten us to give thought to the resurrection and to the glorified life of our Lord. It will inspire and reassure us to contemplate the realities of heaven and the Power that guarantees them. It will be a tonic to our souls to remember the promise of a day when death shall be no more, when there shall be no more sorrow and sighing, when God shall wipe away all tears from our eyes and when we shall be forever with the Lord and shall take part in the eternal chorus of praise unto our God. When discouraged just remember that the morning cometh and it will help much in every way, especially by bringing into prominence two of the most important sentiments of life: first the desire for home, and second, the craving for fellowship with Christ.

Nothing is more comforting in times of sorrow than thoughts of the heavenly home as set forth in the Word of God. Jesus comforted His disciples by telling them of the many mansions in the Father's house and of his purpose to prepare a place for each one of them. To have a home—that is the deep desire of every heart. Heaven is the true home of the soul, and every faithful disciple of Christ is promised such a home, when the morning dawns.

And more than having a place set apart for us, we are assured that our blessed Lord will dwell with us, and that, after all, is what is going to make heaven home. He said, "I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also." Surpassing joy of entering into that intimate and precious fellowship with the Lord Jesus in heaven. We may look forward to such fellowship in the morning.

"I look across the sea;
Where mansions are prepared for me."

If you will turn your eyes toward home,
And cease the world's rough ways to roam;
You too may have the heavenly view,
And have your dull, drab life made new.

Advancing With Christ In Brazil

Lewis M. Bratcher, Jr.

IN BRAZIL, as one looks back from the threshold of 1949 at the age-old problems of transportation, medical facilities, education and production that had plagued the country during 1948, his spirit is nevertheless strengthened by the marked impression Protestantism is making on the life of the country.

The statement of one of the Brazilian Congressmen cannot be overlooked when he declared that though there were less than 2% of the Brazilian people who were Protestants, their influence was 20%!

In spite of growing opposition, fed by persecution, the attacking of several Evangelical Church buildings and the burning of Bibles in public squares, the development of the Evangelical Movement continued unabated. Its influence was being felt in large cities as well as in the countryside. Thousands and thousands were being educated in the Evangelical schools. Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist were filled to capacity and indeed overflowing. The Methodist School in Porto Alegre offered its students, especially those in the girls' department, equipment rarely seen in either Brazil or the United States. Over and over again the plea came from all Evangelical supported schools for more buildings and equipment, for there was no space for those desiring an education. Though many thousands left these schools without becoming members of Evangelical Churches, their influence for the future could not be discounted. As Dr. Edgar Soren, President of the Baptist College in Rio, so well states: "While the majority of our students are not changed in their religious beliefs, they do leave the School with a new respect for the Evangelical Movement, and with a new sense of moral values."

At the same time the social welfare work, administered by the Evangelical Churches, continued to touch the lives of thousands of Brazilians. In one of the worst slums of Rio, the Methodist supported "Peoples Institute" continued to expand, inaugurating the new Tucker Building, named after the grand old man of the Evangelical cause in Brazil, Dr. Hugh C. Tucker, for forty-seven years secretary of the American Bible Society's Brazil Agency and leader in the Methodist work.

In the far interior, the work supported by the Brazilian Baptist Convention, gave hope to thousands through its distribution of life saving medicines. In the upper Amazon Valley, and in other far away places, the medical supplies of the Seventh Day Adventists touched other thousands. Well can it be said that many thousand Brazilians are alive today because of the work being done by the Evangelical Churches.

The outstanding growth, however, was to be found in the thousands of new converts joining Evangelical Churches. A real spiritual awakening could be felt among the Churches, and everywhere the multitudes flocked to hear the message of the Bible. The First Baptist Church of Rio closed the year with over 1,500 members, and other local congregations reached toward the 1,000 mark. New buildings were being erected, local congregations were becoming self-supporting, new work was being opened, plans were being made to reach many more thousands in 1949. Well could Rev. Mattathias Gomes dos Santos, veteran Presbyterian minister and vice-president of the Confederation of the Evangelical Churches, say, "If through some terrible catastrophe not another cent, or not another missionary, should be sent from the other America to help the Evangelical work, this movement could not be destroyed in Brazil, but rather would keep on growing and developing." The Evangelical Movement in Brazil was no longer a child or even a youth. It was coming into full manhood!

In Bible distribution, once again it was sad to note that the copies made available were not keeping pace with the growth of the Evangelical Movement. All through the year, requests for many thousands of Bibles could not be met, and over and over again the message had to go forth, "We regret that we cannot supply your request," or "We regret that only a small part of your order can be filled." And yet the Bible Society was proving its interest by supplying the largest number of Bibles in any similar period in its history.

While its goal of 100,000 Bibles had not been reached in 1948, 82,000 were made available, this number being nearly twice the number of the record year in which 45,000 had been distributed. At the same time New Testaments distributed went over the 100,000 mark and once again the Portions distributed passed the 1,000,000 mark. As 1949 approached, each person connected with Bible distribution in this great land, understanding something of the hunger that existed for the Word, earnestly prayed that the New Year would see the great problem of Bible supply solved, and that within a short time they might once again, as before the war, supply all the Scripture needs of Brazil.

BECAUSE OF EASTER

Annabelle Merrifield

Anthems sing out from happy lips.
Earth's garmented in green grass tips.

Let us wear shining clothes today
(New hope should not be hid in gray.)

And flowers, brightening lapels—
Gay rosebuds; valley-lily bells.

Why shouldn't we be gladly gowned?
The Christ rose radiantly crowned.

Travel Flashes

Dr. Charles A. Bame

In a Whirl or Whorl

The definitions may differ slightly and that is the reason I use both words, for unless I mistake, we are going about in every direction possible. The more godless we become, the more we whorl and whirl; for Christianity is sanity, stabiltiy, strength, health, vigor, poise, balance, rest.

Ungodliness is all that is opposite. I remember the story of two youngsters calling names. Of course the larger and older used many and ugly ones. The other lithe and swift waited until the other had unwound his reel of profanity and scandal replied: "All them things you called me, you is," and ran away. But it can be well said that the direction of our going these days is so circumambient that whorl is about the best name for it and our reply could be, in relevancy to the youngster: "All them things you is, I ain't."

With Antabus

Did you ever ride in one? No? Well, I didn't either. It is not anti-bus or any other wheeled vehicle. It is a drug. It is to take one back after traveling too far the wrong way. It is retractive and promises what many are anxious to travel and some, are too heavy to haul back already.

Did you know that we are having a new drug that will do a lot of things for the booze crowd? Originated in Denmark, the Chicago Committee on Alcoholism has secured, according to a story in a recent issue of the Chicago "Herald-American," Dr. Anton J. Carlson, emeritus professor in the field of Physiology in Chicago University, also head of the above committee, to study the drug and its effects, highly praised from that country.

My great interest in the item was in the claims and contradictions as well as the confessions or acknowledgments made by the doctor as well as by the writer of the article, Effie Alley. Note some of them:

Investigations of the new drug may pay dividends of millions, Dr. Carlson said, adding:

"Alcoholism is the nation's billion dollar headache. That's the bill we pay every year for drunkenness.

"According to reports in European medical journals, antabus should have tremendous possibilities for reducing this toll. If it lives up to its promise, it may well be the means of reclaiming thousands of chronic alcoholics.

"Through them it will cut millions from the financial loss alcoholism yearly causes business and industry."

Antabus works, Dr. Carlson explained, by creating a loathing for alcohol. Reports on the first 450 cases treated in Denmark where the drug was discovered about a year ago, show that small daily doses taken by mouth cause even hardened drinkers to give up alcohol within six weeks to two months.

Known as "Chicago's grand old man of medicine," 75-year-old Dr. Carlson has devoted himself in recent years to the cause of the nation's 3,750,000 excessive drinkers, doing more, perhaps, than any other one man to convince both the public and the medical profession that alcoholism is not a sin. but an illness, reports Effie Alley.

Dr. Carlson is insistent in his warning that it should never be taken without consulting a physician. He said, "Before antabus is given there must be a complete physical check-up, including an examination of heart, lungs, blood and kidneys. It might be dangerous for anyone with a heart or lung diseases. Apparently antabus fits the punishment to the crime very neatly, for unless followed by alcohol it causes no discomfort."

Interesting Admissions

Lose 22 days yearly. "We estimate there are nearly a million and a half excessive drinkers employed in business and industry. Each of these annually loses an average of 22 working days because of drunkenness. Add to this the period of inefficiency which follows every spree, and you have a check for $500,000.00 which must be picked up by the nation's employers."

"The same people," Dr. Carlson went on, "account for another $120,000,000.00 lost in preventable accidents. Relief agencies pay out an additional $22,000,000 for the support of families they leave stranded. These are the men and women antabus promises to straighten out. Countless homes now broken by drunkenness will be saved. One of the most prolific causes of divorce would be curbed. But good as it is, antabus will not alone solve the problem of alcoholism. It gives no understanding of basic causes and thus does nothing to make prevention possible. For this, research is needed.

No Cure for Disease. It will not cure diseases which result from years of drinking. It will not aid those whose drinking is only a symptom of serious mental and emo-

A "Modern Church Method" In Action

SEVERAL WEEKS AGO, to be explicit in the issue of March 5th, Brother Henry Bates (who is our "Contributing Editor" on "Church Methods" this year) had an article on the "Week-Day Church School." In that article Brother Bates made a number of suggestions relative to the teaching of the Bible to youngsters who are now deprived of such opportunity in the Public Schools, due to the ruling that the Bible may not be taught in such schools, which was rendered by the United States Supreme Court some months ago. That the knowledge of God's Word is a vital element in the life of man, no real thinking person will deny. Contact with pupils in schools where the Bible was conscientiously taught, not as to creed or denominationally, but as God's Revelation to man, will bring out many surprising things—such as: an impulse to a deeper Bible reading; attendance at Sunday School; an impression made upon the minds of parents, causing them to take a hitherto unknown interest in the Bible. All these made a contribution to better living and a greater understanding of moral and ethical obligations and problems in their respective communities.

But since such ruling has been made by the highest tribunal of our country, and though many feel that the ruling is not just, the problem of a substitute for this way of presenting the Bible teachings to our children and youth must be met by other means. This, Brother Bates suggests, should be done through a more intensive effort on the part of the individual churches. Just how this is to be done, of course, must depend on the location, time and equipment that the local churches have at their command. What is given below is one way the problem is being met here in the Ashland Brethren Church.

In the above topic, "A Modern Church Method in Action," we did not mean to leave the impression that in any way the church is modern as to its thinking and teaching; but rather that a method of action, that might be called "modern" as to type and activity, is being used to touch, not only children, but also the youth, young adults and older ones, as well. In fact, it is what could be called a well rounded out program of instruction and inspiration in Bible Study.

In the Ashland Church, on each Wednesday evening, three separate groups meet simultaneously for the evening service. The adults, the young people and the children, each have their own program, thought out well in advance, each tending to one set purpose—a greater knowledge of God's Word and an urge to greater Christian activity.

We will begin with the Adult Division.

Various speakers are used in the adult division, with emphasis being given to several phases of Bible Study, such as exposition of chapters or books, inspirational addresses and the like, with time given in the early part of the hour for much prayer. Taken as a whole, this service is not much different from the average church mid-week sessions, but it is well planned and executed by the pastor, Brother H. H. Rowsey, for it is Bible Study with a purpose.

Turning to the youth group we find that for the past two years this group has met as a separate unit or class, having received its original impulse from the Christian Endeavor Society. This group grew as time went on and became an organized unit with a definite program before them. They now meet for an opening session of song and prayer; listen to the chosen speaker of the evening; after which they divide into small discussion groups for further insight into Bible truths and individual problems. The attendance and interest has grown with each succeeding month. The college students, together with the youth of the local church, form this body.

Below is an example of the planned program which was scheduled for them for the closing weeks of the school year. Miss Margery Long of the Smithville, Ohio, Church, a student in the college, is President of the group and is in direct charge of the program. The program from March 9th to May 25th is here presented:

March 9th—Speaker, Dean M. A. Stuckey; Devotions, Delores Thomas.

March 16—Speaker, Prof. Harry Weidenhamer; Devotions, Jerry Flora.

March 23—Topic: "Trial"; Loris Hibbs, Chairwoman; Lois Coleman, Jeanne Lindower.

March 30—Topic: "Crucifixion"; Clarence Stogsdill, Chairman; Esther Grumbling, Earl Hostetler.

April 6—Topic: "Resurrection"; Joe Shultz, Chairman; Ivan Ronk, Glen Coates.

April 13—Speaker, Dr. W. D. Furry; Devotions, Lyle Lichtenberger.

April 20—Discussion: "Risen Christ," Bob Bischof; Devotions, Betty Rowsey.

April 27—Discussion: "Ascension," Dorman Ronk, Chairman; David Ramsel, John Rowsey.

May 4—Speaker, Dr. Alice Furguson; Devotions, Margaret Neighbors.

May 11—Speaker, Rev. E. M. Riddle; Devotions, Jean Rowsey.

May 18—"God and Outdoors": Vespers and picnic; Charles Munson, Chairman; Pat Bame, John Daniels.

May 25—Speaker, Dr. L. E. Lindower; Devotions, Bob Holsinger.

This program is being carried out and is being found to be of great value to the young people.

We now turn to the children, the ones who are primarily being denied the privilege of Bible Study in the public schools.

Shortly after General Conference last year (to be more specific, the last week in September) Brother Rowsey conceived the idea of a "Children's Bible Study Class" which was to meet at the same hour that the adults and youth meet each Wednesday evening. This would not only serve to give the children an opportunity for definite Bible study, but also would release some parents to attend the adult sessions. Therefore Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mohler were contacted to organize and conduct the class. Mr. Mohler is the Youth Director of the Ashland Church, and his good wife is a Sunday School teacher and the writer of our Brethren Youth Sunday School Quarterly material. The announcements went out and at the opening session eight children responded, with ages ranging from five to twelve years.

The course chosen was "Through the Bible in a Year," which takes up each book of the Bible and gives the child a working knowledge of the various books. Key verses of each book are committed to memory, and it was soon found, as time went on, it would be impossible to cover the entire Bible in a year, so great was the interest of these children in the study. A "Circle of Prayer" was instituted and the children are learning the value of prayer, for they are bringing definite requests for prayer to the class and are remembering them before the Lord in their childish way, being very careful to check on answered prayer.

The group grew, even by leaps and bounds. Starting as it did with but eight present, the enrollment has now grown to 36 and the ratio of regular attendance is so high that it is scarcely believable, averaging at the present time nearly thirty. There are seventeen who have not missed a single session since January 1, 1949; five that have only missed once; and four that have only missed twice. Then there is one, James Rowsey, son of Rev. and Mrs. Rowsey, that has not missed a single class since it began in September, and there are fifteen that have only missed once or twice.

That children can be interested in real Bible study is shown by the rapt attention and interest shown by these rather widely separated ages in the group. No attempt is made to raise the teaching level to the minds of the older ones, nor lower it to the level of the little ones. Just a simple examination of God's Word. Three of the original older members of this class have advanced to the youth group.

This is the picture of activities that can be accomplished with just a little effort and planning. Whereas the attendance at mid-week services two years ago averaged about forty, in this three-pronged service the attendance will average above the one hundred mark each night. It pays not alone for the fact of increased attendance, but in an increased knowledge of the scriptures, which Paul says, "are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus."

BURNING TRUTH

By Charles Emory Byers

We take pleasure in presenting a new column to the readers of the Evangelist from the pen of Prof. Charles Emory Byers of Mount Dora, Florida and McMillan, Michigan. Brother Byers may not be so well known to the younger generation of our readers, but he will be remembered by many of the older ones as having contributed to the Evangelist in years past.

He graduated from a Normal Course in Ashland College in 1906 and following that attended Defiance College and Chicago University, receiving his Masters Degree from the latter institution. He became principal of the Huntington, Indiana, High School in which capacity he served for twenty-one years, after which he became Superintendent of the Huntington schools, serving for five years, or until he retired from active work.

He now spends his winters in Florida and his summers in Michigan, giving his time to writing and study. He contributes to a number of publications, and has generously given us permission to publish his articles in our paper.

While these articles are not strictly religious in the sense of the word, yet they carry a high moral and spiritual tone, and will give us much food for thought. We appreciate the opportunity of presenting this column to our readers.—Editor.

"He is the freeman whom the truth makes free,
And all are slaves beside."—Lord Byron.

"Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free."—Jesus Christ.

IGNORANCE is the most abject slavery. No other slavery hampers the progress of mankind to the same crippling degree. In fact only the man who is ignorant of truth is really a slave. With truth at his command neither prison bars no darkest dungeons can make him a prisoner. Every man is free in the exact proportion in which he knows truth and can apply to his situation the truth he knows. When he bears ghosts or gods he becomes a slave to them. This slavery disappears when he becomes more enlightened.

Man has a great and throbbing universe to know and accept. And this universe contains the truth that men must discover in order to be free. Since it is impossible to discover all the truth the universe contains man cannot be wholly free. His acceptance of it is a life-long task. Of necessity he must accept it slowly.

Down through the centuries he has made slow but sure progress in discovering truth and applying it to his tasks. He was a slave to distance and weight. It took him a long time to discover that wheels can move heavy weight great distances. When he discovered this truth he made wheels by the thousands do his work and thanked his lucky stars for so much freedom. Then traveling on in seven league boots he developed them for trains and factories. He further enlarged his freedom by discovering more and more truth found in his universe. He used it to conquer distances by telephone, radio, airplane.

All these principles of the universe are truth which makes man free. This knowledge is a heritage which we must use in order to progress to still greater achievements. Gradually the great world unfolds itself to the child. He must learn the laws, or the truths that govern it, one by one. They lead him out of his narrow slavery to a broader understanding of the world in which he finds himself. Thus he becomes as free as his industry and initiative can make him.

We were abject slaves to disease that carried us away by the thousands until we discovered the truth that many diseases are carried by germs. By finding the law by which to kill these invisible germs we won another victory for truth and freedom.

Likewise we have won immense victories over much of the drudgery of labor, over diseases through scientific discovery, over superstition, over distance, over toil, over gravity by discovering and using truth that makes us free.

tional disorders. Nor will it help a man to adjust himself to conditions which drove him to drink in the first place, but it will give him a chance to remake his life if he gets the other kind of help he needs.

Too Many and Too Much!

Uncle Sam has 3,700,000 "excessive drinkers!"

Uncle Sam has a "$1,000,000,000 headache!"

Uncle Sam loses $120,000,000 in preventable accidents through liquors!

Uncle Sam pays $12,000,000 for relief caused by drink!

Uncle Sam licenses liquors and loses morals.

Drinkers may overcome the habit but not be cured of the diseases it causes.

It Is a Sin

Facts I shall not contradict. I must consent to them. But the folderol of whorligig thinking which says "alcoholism is not a sin" is too contrary to fact to let go undisputed. If it is not a sin, what did the Wise Man mean? Prov. 31:1-5. Or Paul? Gal. 5:21. Or Jesus? John 15:2. There is one disease that drugs can never cure; it is sin. It requires the blood of the Son of God to be rid of that. Heb. 9:14; 1 John 1:7, Rev. 1:5.

D. and neglects telling us that Mr. D. receives his mail at E. instead of A So we send it to Mr. D. at A and the Post Office finds no Mr. D. in their territory Consequently the bundle of literature is returned to us, costing us for the return just what it cost to send it in the first place.

Now we receive a letter from Mr. B. which says that they have not received their literature. Of course not, for it has been returned to us for lack of proper address. Then we have to send it out again, but by this time the Quarter has already started and the literature arrives late.

There is a moral in this story. Give us the correct address of the one to which the literature is to be sent, as well as which church it goes to, and the one who is to receive the bill. For example give us the information something like this: Mr. B. is sending the letter or order. He says—"Send the following order to Mr. D. whose address is E ; but send the bill for same to Mrs. C , whose address is A , who is our treasurer. Our church is located at A " If you will do this it will help both of us. Thank you.

More Rags

Two bundles of rags were left at the Publishing House last week from Mrs. Mary Denlinger and Mrs. Fred Ecard of Dayton, Ohio. Thanks, so much.

Brother Bowman, pastor of the Nappanee Church, says, "Quarterly Cash Day was a great success. The sum of $2,757.70 was laid upon the offering plates for the day. In addition to this amount sufficient to bring the quarterly total to $5,757.70 came in. This in addition to the regular current expense offerings.

St. James, Maryland. Plans are being laid for a Laymen's Rally of the organizations of the Southeastern District some time in the near future. This rally is planned for the St. James Church.

We may be able to report a new pastor for the St. James Church in the near future.

Meyersdale, Penna. Brother W. S. Benshoff reports that the re-decorating of the main and Sunday School auditorium walls and ceilings and the vestibule and main floor class rooms is in progress at the close of March and should be completed by the time you read this. The contract price was $2,000.00. The basement received its "transformation" from the hands of the members of the church who took paint brushes and mopbrushes and thoroughly renovated the place.

We note that Mrs. W. S. Benshoff was the guest speaker at the W. M. S. Public Service at the Berlin Church on Sunday morning, March 27th.

Ordination services were conducted for Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Lorenzen at Meyersdale on Sunday, April 3 at the evening service. These two, together with John H. Blocher, already ordained as Deacon, were elected at the January business meeting of the church.

Oakville, Indiana. The following was received from Oakville: "The men of the Oakville Church gathered together on Tuesday evening, April 5th, for the purpose of organizing a Laymen's Organization. This organization was effected and the following men were elected as officers:

- Vice PresidentJohn Holsinger

The Oakville Church is blessed with a fine group of devoted and loyal men and we look for them to be a real asset to the work here, now that their efforts are united. The men will meet on the third Thursday of each month.

Elkhart, Indiana. Brother King reports that during March there were nine received by baptism; six by letter and one by reclamation, which brings the Elkhart church membership to 884.

We note that Brother Walter Lichtenberger of the Elkhart Church has been preaching at our Brighton, Indiana, church.

Mexico, Indiana. Brother Higgins reports that the two weeks of revival which he held recently at Cumberland, Maryland, resulted in five first time confessions; one received by letter and one reconsecration.

Mexico plans to have a Gospel Team from Ashland College for their Easter Sunrise service. A breakfast follows.

Brother Higgins showed Shippshewana Camp pictures as a part of the Corinth W. M. S. Public Service on Wednesday evening, March 30th.

Masontown, Penna. Brother Ankrum reports that delegations from Berlin, Cameron and Meyersdale were in attendance at their recent revival meeting. Brother Percy C. Miller, pastor of the Berlin Church, conducted the revival. Brother Ankrum reports good attendance, with the first week's average attendance at 104.

News concerning Brother George H. Jones. We quote from Brother N. V. Leatherman's bulletins that Brother Jones, whose accident had been reported in these columns, had a fractured jaw, the roof of his mouth pierced and his lower lip cut, to say nothing of the shock to his nerves. He has been released from the Saracota Hospital and is back in St. Petersburg again. A card will reach him at the following address: 1000 Granville Court, St. Petersburg, Florida.

Brother Leatherman reports that the evening attendance at the Johnstown Second Church keeps well all through the year.

We are sorry. It seems that for some reason the name of Brother Dean Benshoff was omitted in the printing of the obituary of Brother David Benshoff recently. Brother Dean Benshoff is one of the sons. He lives at Magadore, Ohio.

Our share of God is measured by our capacity to receive. He fills all the room we give HIM.

Announcing Brethren Youth Week

The week of May 8-15 has been set aside by the National Youth Board as Brethren Youth Week. We are asking every Brethren Church throughout the nation to sponsor this week for its youth.

We want to make it a week of:

YOUTH VISITATION—Young people visiting, calling, and writing to friends of the church not members, members of the church not attending, and, those not associated with the church at all.

YOUTH PARTICIPATION—Young people serving in the church in jobs and offices not held by them regularly. Sunday School work and church offices filled by youth for the week.

YOUTH FELLOWSHIP—Young people honored by a youth banquet, or fun night sponsored by the church. High School graduates, and college graduates given special recognition. A fun night or special party could be given in honor of the youth.

VOCATIONS OF CHRISTIAN SIGNIFICANCE

Scripture: Eph. 4:1-3; Phil. 3:8-14

For The Leader

CHRISTIAN YOUNG PEOPLE are constantly being called upon to make distinctions. In the matter of conduct, they must choose the better way. The same with amusements. Our Bible definitely makes a decision between Christ's way, and the way that is of evil. In this age of materialism we Christian young people are confronted with another distinction. It is that connected with our life's work. It should always be uppermost in our minds that our whole life should be pleasing unto God. This will include that occupation which we choose for our life's work. Many of us will be making up our minds in the next few years what this will be. Be very sure to pray to God about it or you're likely to find yourself unhappy. Some of the things to guide us in choosing a life's work are mentioned tonight.

DISCUSSION

1. NOT ALL VOCATIONS OF SPECIFIC CHRISTIANS.

There are some vocations which positively are not for the Christian. Running dance halls, taverns, roadhouses, or working in them would not encourage us in our Christian faith. Nor could our Christ be honored by our lives. Other work could well be avoided in which we would be associating with working companions whose atmosphere reeks with sin. Then, too, there are jobs which to some individuals are quite all right, but to certain Christians, would not be in God's calling. For instance, a young man who is a good speaker and is able to influence people, could better serve his Lord as a Minister than he could as congressman or senator. A young Christian who could sell would be better doing personal work for Christ. A young woman, capable as an artist would be better drawing Biblical pictures than working for an advertising firm.

2. THE POINT. The point we're trying to make is, that when we have talents in particular ways, we will be doing better by serving the Lord than in any other capacity. Of course, to do this, a young person must be wholly yielded to His will. We must want to serve Christ with all our heart.

3. THE AGE OF MATERIALISM. Due to a lack of teaching in our homes, many young people are growing to the later teen years with no thought in mind but getting a job in which they can get money to get the things money can buy. The thought that Christ might have a claim on their lives is foreign to them. That sin must be laid at the feet of the parents. Only in pitifully few instances does the call of Christ permeate the calloused heart with its Message. But materialism will perish and those who have sold themselves to it, will likewise perish. Standing bright through all the endless ages will be the life and works of those who have heard, and answered the call of Christ. Will you be one of them, or will you be lost with that which claimed your life—materialism?

4. FROM SWEETNESS TO SHAME. In our greed to get a job and get money, we often are not too particular in choosing the place we work. Any kind of a job, just so there's money in it. But, no amount of money will compensate for the loss of Christian sweetness and purity which some jobs will surely cause. We have seen it happen. Most of us are capable of judging the atmosphere of a place. We go to a certain restaurant because the place is clean, wholesome. Other places we avoid because they do not look good. Why not be as careful in choosing our working conditions? Take a look at the people with whom you will be working; ask yourself the question, "Do I want to become as they are?" If you don't, then don't take the job. True, it is possible for Christian young people to stay pure and clean amidst unclean working companions, but the risk is too great. For every one that stays clean, a hundred succumb to the crowd.

5. WALK WORTHY. Paul, that matchless Christian of the New Testament Church, says, "Remember, you are on a pedestal, don't fall off!" He insists that the higher your nose, the greater your chance of falling off. Read the first several verses of the 4th chapter of Ephesians. We do have a Christian calling. We are living a life that is a different life. Standard which suits others cannot be accepted by the Christian. We cannot engage in their activities. We must walk worthy of our high calling as a Christian. And, if you are tempted to argue, or tempted to indulge, remember that you are going to have a God to answer to face to face some day. "For we must all appear before the judgment seat . . ." What are you going to say then? Better be sure you're doing all right here (in walking worthy) for we must all give an account of the deeds done in the flesh.

6. COUNT ALL THINGS BUT LOSS. One fact stands out. If we walk in His way, He will lead us aright. Only as we seek our own way and desires, do we get into trouble. Paul knew that nothing in life was worth while unless Christ was at the center of it. Do we feel that way today? We must make the distinction between things which have self at the center, and that which has Christ at the center. Success in life is assured if we determine to choose a work in which Christ can be our constant companion. His power through the years will draw us closer to Him. He will make us a blessing unto others, and a power for good wherever we go. Let us look above the "things which perish" in this life, and center our work in the things which are eternal. Only a few years are given unto us. Make them count for Christ. It is well that we walk in His way, for we know not when we shall be walking our last mile; when our opportunities to serve Him shall ever more be gone.

QUESTIONS

1. Why do we work? (This isn't as dumb a question as it sounds.) To what end do we labor? Is it just to keep body and soul together? The answer can be found in our scripture from Philippians).

2. How much claim do you think Christ has on your life? Do we not have the right to go into a good paying job, providing we attend church and pay our dues?

3. For what will the rewards be given to us in heaven?

RESURRECTION

The tomb was sealed that burial day
Against imagined threat of theft;
But when the stone was rolled away
Only the linen clothes were left.

Between the darkness and the dawn
(The sentries' eyes were blind to see)
Their Prisoner of death had gone:
Lord of Eternal Life was He!

The earth to her foundations shook,
And sundered were the gates of hell;
The soldiers looked as dead men look,
Such awful fear upon them fell.

Some women came, for love and care;
"Ah, who will roll us back the stone?"
A strange, unearthly light was there—
The sepulcher with glory shone!

The women stood and held their breath
To see an angel looking on
The place where Christ awoke from death—
Was ever such a sight at dawn?

"Why seek ye here the Living One?"
The messenger of Heaven said;
"Go, tell that God's almighty Son Hath newly risen from the dead!"

As forth they fled without a word,
Silent in wonder, trembling, pale—
Lo! Jesus met them, and they heard
With throbbing joy His calm "All hail!"

THE MESSAGE OF THE NAPKIN

Scripture: John 20:6, 7

Resurrection Hymns

Prayers for our foreign mission workers and work

Seed Thought Provokers:

NO DEATH has ever witnessed like the death of our Lord (Matt. 27:50-54). Joseph and Nicodemus took the body of Jesus, prepared it for burial, and laid the body in a new tomb (John 19:38-42). Various portions of Scripture describe the Jewish method of burial (Acts 5:6; John 12:7; Luke 24:1). It was customary for the nearest relative to close the eyes of the deceased, to shut the mouth and to hold the jaws in place by a napkin tied about the head. Thus the napkin was tied about the head of Jesus. The tomb was securely fastened by a government seal and a guard of soldiers was stationed about (Matt. 27:62-66).

When the women came on Sunday morning to finish the anointing of the body, which could not be completed on the day of crucifixion because of the approaching Sabbath, they discovered that the huge stone had been rolled away (Matt. 28:1-4). This was not to let Christ out but to let His followers look in and believe (John 20:3-10). The napkin testifies to the death of Jesus for only the dead were bound with grave clothes. Satan has continued to fight the reality of Christ's death unto this day. But the Scriptures state forty-nine times that He died. Nothing less than the death of Jesus could pay for our sins (Rom. 5:10; Heb. 2:9, 14, 15; 9:15). The napkin or grave cloth reminds us that Christ died for us according to the Scriptures (Rom. 5:6, 8). The napkin "wrapped together in a place by itself" bears testimony that Jesus had come to life. The Lord Himself had folded that napkin. Thieves would not have done so. It was neatly folded and properly placed—a deed characteristic of our Lord's orderliness. John saw this and believed. Jesus, Who could not be bound by physical law, slipped out of the grave clothes and left them like a chrysalis. Our Lord's resurrection was physical (Psa. 16:10; John 2:18-22). Christ did not have to be released from His grave clothes as did Lazarus. Only the power of God could cope with the power of death and the grave (Rom. 1:4; Psa. 62:11; Rev. 1:18). The folded napkin testifies to an empty grave, which is the beginning of the Christian faith and hope (1 Cor. 15:14, 17). The resurrection of Christ is not only a mighty historical fact but a supreme necessity. No wonder that the resurrection was the theme of apostolic preaching (Acts 4:32, 33).

JESUS DECLARES HIS AUTHORITY

Lesson: Mark 11:1-11, 15-18

IN OUR LESSON TODAY we find ourselves facing again the stories of what he have known as "The Triumphal Entry" and "The Cleansing of the Temple." In the former story we find the populace seemingly recognizing the entrance of Jesus into Jerusalem as the expected Messiah or King. In the latter story we see the beginning of doubt that they have been correct in their assumption. But be that as it may, the main object of the present lesson is to note the fact of the authority Jesus shows and the acceptance of that authority without question.

Let's look at the Triumphal Entry first. In our first lesson of the present quarter the closing verse (Luke 9:51) says, "And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he stedfastly set His face to go to Jerusalem." He knew His destination; He recognized that His time or hour "was at hand." No hand could withhold from Him that which He had come into the world to accomplish. He knew that "All authority" was in His hand. Therefore He had no hesitancy in pursuing the course before Him. The time of "announcement" was at hand, and He must come into Jerusalem in a manner befitting the King of kings that he was.

Consequently proper provision must be made. Here we see His foreknowledge brought to light. How else would it be possible for Him to give orders to His disciples to obtain the colt upon which He was to ride into Jerusalem? Location of the tethered animal, together with the entire conversation that was to take place is here recorded. And it happened just as He said—His authority was undisputed.

We might draw another lesson in authority from the fact that the colt, "whereon never man sat," was docile under Him as He rode, and shows His authority over His creation. But that phase of His authority had been demonstrated many times before, as is evidenced in the stilling of the storm and many others.

Then, too, to recognize a person as king is to admit authority as a ruler. In that day of despotic rulers, who had had the power to demand the carrying out of their orders, be they to save life or to condemn to death, makes the acceptance of Jesus as "The Son of David" doubly significant.

How disappointed must have been those who followed Him even unto the Temple, only to have Him to look "round about upon all things," and then simply go "out unto Bethlehem with the twelve." No pomp and display! No declaring the setting up of a new kingdom! No summoning of His followers to take up arms against their oppressors! What kind of authority was this?

But on the morrow, if they were there, they witnessed a new note of authority in Him. Single-handed He "threw" out the desecraters of the Holy Place without encountering any resistance on the part of these "sellers" that had turned the "House of Prayer" in to a "den of thieves."

If we accept the fact that Jesus twice cleansed the Temple, and we see no reason for not doing so, since the first cleansing as recorded by John in John 2:13-16, and comes at the very beginning of Jesus' public ministry, and the present cleansing is recorded as happening just preceding His crucifixion, we can see that He did it largely by the power of His personality—for, as recorded by John, the whip which He made was of "small cords," not of sufficient strength to administer severe punishment. After all, authority does not so much rest in ability to punish, but in ability to command and have the commands obeyed implicitly. It was such authority that we ascribe rightly to Jesus, for He was and is The Son of God.

IS NOT, AND IS

A Church is not a hospital, though it ministers to the spiritual sick and moral anemics.

A Church is not a gymnasium, primarily to develop ethical muscle.

A Church is not a cold storage plant, to keep a few saints from spoiling.

A Church is not an institution to outrival neighboring plants in appointments, members on the roll, choirs and blowing of whistles.

A Church is not a club, to give a little religious polish to its complacent members.

A Church IS an inspiration point to workers—to parents, teachers, business men, mechanics.

A Church exists to help people LIVE! It must have a clear, straight, vital message. It must not live for itself, but must lose its life in service. It must place the "child in the midst," and serve the community. It must be friendly, democratic, hospitable, missionary, enthusiastic. Above all, it must represent the spirit of the Master, who went about doing good.—Dr. Kloss.—Quoted from the Berlin, Pennsylvania, Bulletin.

News From Our Churches

HAGERSTOWN, MARYLAND

Seven months have passed since we arrived in Hagerstown, Maryland, a community noted both for its history and scenic beauty. Happy months they have been, too, as these people, both in the Church and city-at-large, know how to make a pastor and wife feel at home. Of course, we were sorry to leave Oakville and our many friends there. We also miss the association with Rev. E. D. Burnworth, former pastor at Muncie.

The opportunity to build on the foundation laid by men of the Brethren ministry in cooperation with this fine people could not be turned down. They had just recently remodeled and redecorated their sanctuary and purchased a robe for their pastor. (They have had a robed choir for many years). We have had a fine response with Worship and Church School attendance showing a very nice increase. The support of the Church has been very substantial, with the money for denomination activities, showing a willingness to assume these responsibilities, also.

At Christmas the "Gift for your Church" project brought money for the purchase of an illuminated bulletin board and March 20th money was raised for a new movie projector. All of these things add to the attractiveness of the Church program.

In addition to the local Church program we have helped in the religious programs of the city. On Thanksgiving Day we were the speaker at the Union Thanksgiving Service, held in the Church of the Brethren, which was broadcast over one of the local radio stations. The first week of January we assisted in the Universal Week of Prayer program. In February we acted as moderator of a Community Forum at which the candidates for Mayor and Council were guests. We have broadcast Morning devotions and Vesper Thought over the local Stations. All of these and other activities have given us opportunity to become acquainted so that it seems we have been here a much longer time.

One of our highlights was Youth Sunday, February 6th. Rev. Charles Munson and the Ashland College Quartet featured the program. They were enthusiastically received and given a large offering which was a commendation of their services. The kind of work done by this group adds to the local interest in both Brethren Youth and Ashland College and Seminary.

Our Easter season each year is high lighted by three Holy Week Services, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings. On Easter we have a Sunrise Service and breakfast and two communion services in the afternoon and evening, plus the regular Church School and Morning Worship. With the assistance of our talented Senior Choir which averages twenty voices each Sunday, directed by John L. Carnochan, Jr., we know that our Services will be a blessing to all who attend.

When we say that we feel at home, here, we are putting it very mildly. The Lord has a work for us to do and we are determined to do our best to fulfill His purposes. Later reports will reveal our progress toward that goal.

James E. Ault, pastor.

ST. JAMES, MARYLAND

Early in the year the St. James Brethren asked us if we would lead them in a series of services. After getting the consent of my official board, I accepted the invitation. On Sunday evening, February 27, we had our first service and continued through the evening of March 4th. Assisting in these services were the Boys' Brotherhood, W. M. S., and the Laymen.

The interest was fine and attendance was remarkable with visiting delegations from Hagerstown Brethren, Downsville Christian, Manor Church of Brethren, and Sharpsburg Church of God.

There were no public confessions but we know that spiritual ties were made closer and friendships established which will be a benefit to both them and us in the future.

These people are looking for a Brethren pastor while worshipping under the ministry of Rev. Don Warrenfeltz, Gettysburg Seminary. He is a sincere young man and deserves commendation for his consistent efforts in serving this people.

A love offering which was very much appreciated was given to yours truly for our services. May God's blessing be upon you, St. James Brethren.

James E. Ault, Hagerstown, Maryland.

CERRO GORDO, ILLINOIS

Since last writing we have acquired a pastor. Brother and Sister Arthur J. Tinkel came the week of March 14th to take over the work here. Due to the fact that the Winter Camp was held from March 18th to 20th, we did not have a service until March 27th. This service was very well attended and enjoyed by all.

The members of the church held a reception for our new pastor and wife on Friday evening, March 25th, each one taking a gift of food.

We are trusting that we may have an interest in all your prayers that our church will go forward now with the help of our minister.

Mrs. Loretta Metzger.

NORTH MANCHESTER, INDIANA

The North Manchester Church has not been publicized this year, but we are still active as usual. We are planning a week of Pre-Easter services to which all our friends have been invited and will find a welcome. Rev. Bert Hodge, our pastor, is to be in charge of all services.

Our two Sisterhoods of Mary and Martha, both Junior and Senior, besides our two circles of the Woman's Missionary Society, the Day and Hadassah Evening circles, are very active and are trying to be 100% banner societies this year. Along with the ladies' organizations, the Boys' and Laymen's work is progressing and cooperate with the Indiana Laymen's work with regular meetings.

The Sunday School has an average attendance of over 200 each Sunday and the Youth Groups are cooperating in every way with the Sunday School and church projects.

All of the churches in North Manchester have a united effort campaign to get all the families of the town contacted so that this Easter will find more people in the services and uniting with the church of their choice.

Let us all pray that this will be a bountiful season for Him .

Miss Beulah Hippensteel, Cor. Sec.

STOCKTON, CALIFORNIA

Just a few lines from our Mission work in Stockton, California. It is marvelous, considering the handicaps, the way the Lord has blessed this work during the past year. Yesterday (March 27th) we reached the high mark in our Sunday School attendance with 102 present, and 62 Bibles counted. When we take into consideration that three other churches are working the same field, and each of them with a bus to pick up the people, it means much. We may have our aim set too high, but we feel that with a bus at work we could double our attendance in a short time. Many of the adults and young people cannot walk the distance necessary to attend. This is largely a young people's work and we cannot look to them for much support financially at the present time.

Since our coming on the field several things have been accomplished. There have been added to the church: two by letter, thirteen by confession of faith and baptism, and three reconsecrations. We have lost one by letter. Of those received there were three mothers, one father and one adult man. The others were young people. It would do your heart good if you could be in a service and hear these young people pray and testify for their Lord. Some of the larger churches of the city are taking notice and asking questions.

We have completed the decorating of the main auditorium and have made it more attractive. During our Evangelistic service which was held from the 6th to the 20th of March, several made their confession of Christ and were baptized. On the evening of the 18th the Berean Band held their regular Institute in connection with our service. The largest crowd ever in attendance during the history of the church was present. At the recent County Christian Endeavor Convention, held at Lathrop, our society won the young people's banner for attendance. One of our young men, Don Walters, and Rev. Virgil Ingraham, who is also a member, were the speakers of the evening.

All about us here in Stockton are untouched fields waiting and ready for the Gospel. Keep your eye on Northern California. She is like a giant bear which has been slumbering and is suddenly awakened, and beginning to stretch herself. We have ministerial students at Ashland. We have others who will soon be ready for preparation, and two men now ready to take over some definite work. With the field, the workers, and the blessing of the Lord, we shall go forward.

We covet an interest in the prayers of the Brotherhood.
C. E. Johnson, pastor.

Funeral services were conducted December 27th at the Suter Funeral Home with the undersigned in charge.
James E. Ault.

SHEELY. Miss Anna M. Sheely, aged 82, died at her home on South Locust Street on January 10, 1949, the result of repeated heart attacks and pleurisy. She transferred her membership from the St. James Brethren to the Hagerstown Church several years ago. Health has not permitted her to take an active part for some time. Funeral services were conducted January 12, at the Kauffman Funeral Home with her pastor, the undersigned, in charge.
James E. Ault.

FAHRNEY. Theodore W. Fahrney, charter member of First Brethren Church, Hagerstown, Md., died January 19, 1949, after an illness of several days, at the age of 87.

Mr. Fahrney, while health permitted, was a very active member of First Brethren Church. He was a deacon, and had been recording secretary for fifty-two years. He had also sung with the choir for an equal length of time. His interest and activity enabled him to make a very real and lasting contribution to the life of the Hagerstown Brethren Church. Our acquaintance with him was of short duration, but in that time we learned to know each other intimately.

The only survivor is the wife, Grace Fridinger Fahrney. Funeral Services were conducted at the home on South Potomac Street by the undersigned, assisted by Rev. Fredrick Eyster, Christ's Evangelical and Reformed Church.
James E. Ault.

GRIPLE. Mrs. Emma A. Gripe, wife of Arley Gripe, was called away on September 9, 1948, after a long-lasting heart ailment. Her funeral was held in the North Manchester, Indiana, First Brethren Church on September 12th.

She was married on October 25, 1902, to Arley Gripe. To this union were born three children: Frank of Ft. Wayne, Indiana; Glen, at home; and Mrs. Homer Vance of South Whately, Indiana.

She is survived by her family and her father, James Waggoner of Sidney, Indiana. There were three grandchildren. Born on March 1, 1883, she had attained the age of sixty-five years. Bible reading and prayer were her chief interests as death drew near.

Bert Hodge, pastor North Manchester Church.

THE DECISION OF THE JUDGES WILL BE FINAL

TIME AFTER TIME we hear this expression over the radio, "The decision of the judges shall be final and none shall be returned." Hearing it again the other day, it seemed to bear a new note, for the announcer had added another thought. He said, "Let me remind you that the decision of the judges shall be final." It was the words "Let me remind you—"

That set me to thinking!

Of course this announcer was talking of the current contest that was being waged to obtain an opportunity to compete with others for the "grand prize" which was being offered. Certain rules had to be followed to be eligible for entry into the contest. Either the proper entry blank was to be used, or sufficient box tops were to be enclosed, or some other such prerequisite required, but always a "string attached to it." Then in order that no one could possibly have an opportunity to argue the matter, just in case the entry was identical or so similar that the loser would feel that he or she had been grossly dealt with, the announcer adds, "the entry bearing the earliest postmark will be considered." No loop holes; no come back; no chance for argument.

Well the story is as old as time itself. It has always been thus. The decision of the Eternal Judge, the God who made heaven and earth and all that is therein, shall be final.

In the parable of the wedding guest which tells of the urgent invitation that went out to those in the "highways and hedges" to come to the feast, Jesus gives us the clew to what will happen to each one of us under similar circumstances. Remember that when an oriental wedding was arranged and the feast prepared, the guests, on arrival, found that a wedding garment had been provided in order that they might be properly attired. But one came into the presence of the ruler of the feast who had not taken the trouble to don the garment thus provided. Do you remember the conversation which took place? It was all onesided, the ruler of the feast, (the King in this case) said, "Friend, how camest thou in hither not having a wedding garment?" The four words that follow (Matt. 22:12) carry the thought we are dealing with—"And he was speechless."

One more thing before we come to our conclusion. In Romans 1:20, 21 we read, "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse: because that, when they knew God they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish hearts were darkened." (Read carefully all of the rest of the chapter.)

The time will come when everyone must stand before the judgment seat to receive rewards for the deeds done in the body. And when we recall that rewards are not always commendatory, but are sometimes condemnatory, we have the full story, which, when summed up can be put down in the words of the head of the column—the decision of The Judge shall be final!"

Think it over!

The Failure of Success

A MAN WOULD BE A FOOL to minimize the value of money. On the other hand, a man who thinks that life consists in the abundance of the things which he possesses is a fool. In Luke 12:13-21, Jesus tells the story of a man who, in his own eyes was a success, but who, in God's sight, was a failure. He failed because he did not take into account God, man, time.

He Did Not Take Man Into Account

The parable reminds one of the words of the Negro poet, Joseph Seaman Cotter, Jr., who invites his white brother to the altar saying:

Brother, come!
And let us go unto our God.
And when we stand before Him
I shall say—
"Lord, I do not hate,
I am hated.
I scourge no one,
I am scourged.
I covet no lands,
My lands are coveted.
I mock no peoples,
My peoples are mocked."
And, brother, what shall you say?

Jesus, in the parable, invites a man to the altar and the man is weighed in the balances and found wanting.

He Lacked Reverence For Personality

How different it might have been had he realized that God, our Father, was and is the Creator and preserver of man and that man, who is created in the image of God is a potential child of God; and that man's highest good is not self-indulgence, fame-seeking and wealth-amassing, but God's will. God wills that a man shall love his neighbor as himself. Jesus described a neighbor as a man of any race in need of aid—aid that he may develop physically, mentally, socially, and spiritually as a child of God.

God is no respecter of persons. He hath made "of one blood all nations of men to dwell on the face of the earth." Jesus not only placed supreme value on every religious Jew, but on every publican and sinner who, as a Jew, was an outcast from the synagogue. The Master knew, though Samaritans were hated and despised by Jews, that a Samaritan was of infinite value. He broke across racial, social, and religious barriers in order to walk through Samaria and, at a well to talk to a sinful woman until, in her soul, she possessed a well of water "springing up into eternal life."

We are Gentiles. In Jesus' day, Gentiles were considered "dogs" by the Jews. Had the man in our parable known that the Gentile also was created in the image of God—a potential child of God; that there were sixty million slaves at that time in the Roman Empire, and that a slave did not count, for, at the slightest offense, his master might feed him to the fish, or his mistress might have him crucified; or if he had known what Paul knew, that a slave is a brother beloved and that, as Paul wrote in Galatians 3:28, "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female: for ye are all one in Christ Jesus"—what a difference it might have made.

But he didn't know that the secret of life is reverence for personality. So he failed because he did not take man into account!

He Did Not Take Time Into Account

The writer of the ninetieth Psalm did take time into account. He discussed the idea of the eternity of God, in contrast with the brevity of man's life; to this he added the solution to the problem of time—"So teach us to number our days that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom."

However the man of our parable was not interested in these truths. Life, to him, consisted in the abundance of things which he possessed. He failed at his own game! About the time he thought he was prepared to take it easy—to eat, and drink, and be merry (since he had much goods laid up for many years)—God said, "Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be, which thou hast provided?" He failed because he did not take time into account.

He Did Not Take God Into Account

He did not recognize God as owner. Almighty God, infinite in wisdom, supreme in power, perfect in goodness, the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, is Creator of the heaven and the earth, Creator and Preserver of all mankind, Savior of the sinful, Giver of every spiritual gift, Author of everlasting life! Man lives in Him, but what difference did this make? The man took for granted that the ground, earth, sunshine, atmosphere, soul, was his! He failed to recognize God as owner.

He did not consider Man as God's Steward—Trustee of all entrusted to him by God. The fruits and goods were not his! God gave him power to accumulate wealth. Slaves and others aided him. In order that the ground yield plentifully in seed, soil and environment, God had contributed approximately 99% of the essential elements. He should have been God's steward. Instead, he claimed everything! Should the reader care to count the number of "I's" and "MY's" in the brief parable he would not wonder why God called this man a fool.

He did not consider that Man's Greatest Joy is derived as the result of man's recognition of God as Owner and Man as Steward. To him, life—joy—consisted in the abundance of the things which he possessed! He failed because he did not take God into account!

It is the story of the failure of success. That man, in his own estimation was a success, but in God's sight he was a failure. Life does not consist in the abundance of the things which one possesses. Had the man taken God into account, he would have taken Man and Time into account. He would have found life to the full. But he didn't do this. So God called him a fool.

Practical Church Methods: Pastoral Visitation

Rev. Henry Bates

THE MATTER OF VISITATION has been a subject of much debate and discussion in recent years between those men who believe that the influence once held by the ministry of visitation is a thing of the past, and those who still feel that a tremendous influence can be exerted, even in our day, by such a ministry. In recent months there has come to this study requests from several pastorless churches asking if we could suggest the name of some "good man" to fill these churches. In almost every instance the present salary is stated and is then followed by the thought that "this figure could be raised by some active man who would be willing to go out among the people." Evidently the ministry of visitation is still influential in the Brethren Church at least.

Leslie Lewis in his "Notes From Leslie Lewis" has this to say: "I doubt if there is any more effective way of evangelizing the people than the friendly, understanding, pastoral visitation. It is only through this method that the minister can know his people and can bring them to an appreciation of the love of Christ. After all, this is the crowning glory of the privilege of rural work, (and the same is true of urban work) an opportunity to come to know each and every man, woman and child in the parish, to know their problems, their hopes, their aspirations, their disappointments, and thus to be able to minister to their needs."

Who should be included in this program of visitation? Everybody! If a man hopes to be successful for Christ in the church then he must see to it that his ministry of visitation includes everybody on the church roll and others besides. The pastor who limits his calling to those who are regular attendants at the services of the church is neglecting a great field which might bring forth a great harvest for the Lord. There are men and women in every congregation who have just become a little indifferent concerning their church attendance, and without a call from the pastor this indifference will probably continue and will grow stronger. Then too, there are those who have stopped coming to church because "their feelings have been hurt" by somebody else in the congregation. It is the pastor's responsibility to see these people and to strive to bring them back into the fold. And there might be some who have given up the church because they have learned that it is the "smart" thing today to doubt the Church and Christianity. Unless these people are visited by the parish pastor they might be lost forever to the church, and worse yet, might be lost to the Kingdom.

On the other hand, a pastor cannot spend all of his time visiting the inactive members to the neglect of the active members. In the great majority of cases all church people appreciate an occasional visit from their pastor. Even though they may be regular attendants at the church services men and women usually enjoy having an opportunity to spend a few minutes with their pastor in their own homes, perhaps to talk over some matter which they do not have a chance to discuss in the few minutes following the worship services.

But this matter of visitation should not be a haphazard jumping about from one home to another—it should be systematic and well prepared. In the rural community, where the church members might live anywhere from five to ten miles from the church, it is especially important that the pastor have a systematic method arranged whereby he is able to contact all of his people with the least amount of wasted time and effort. Immediately upon moving into a community or parish the pastor should secure a list of all of the members of the church. Then let him buy a good supply of small lined index cards and a sturdy cabinet or box in which to keep them. Now, going through the church roll, a card should be made out for each family in the church. Included on this card will be the names of all the members of the family, the address, a notation of any offices which they might hold in the church, how active they have been in church activities during the past year, and any other pertinent information. On the back of the card should be kept a record of the dates upon which the pastor visited that particular home.

It might also be well for the pastor to make a spot map, locating as nearly as possible the members' homes. This map is then divided into a number of smaller portions endeavoring to break up areas which are thickly populated, while extending the boundaries of the areas which are not so thickly populated by church people. One week the pastor will concentrate his efforts in one of these areas, the next week in another, the third in another, until each of the sections has been covered—always leaving enough flexibility of course, to visit the sick, the aged, and the bereaved in all areas.

Work? Yes. But the results produced in increased attendances, increased enthusiasms, increased loyalty and devotion to the Lord's House, and increased desire on the part of all to see others won unto Christ and His Church will more than justify the efforts put forth.

"The Secret of Success"

When your way is hard and the path is long
And you're buried in grief and sorrow;
When your heart is heavy and weighted down
And there is no hope for the morrow;
When the day looks grey and the future dark:
Then there's nothing to do but pray;
Not a thing will help as much as that;—
Won't you talk to Jesus today?

Even now, won't you talk to the Friend above friends,
Simply asking that His will be done?
Even now, won't you fully commit yourself
To the care of the loving Son?
If you seek His face and dwell with Him,
He'll hear you when you pray;
Then He'll guide you and and show you His own divine will;—
Why not talk to Him today? (Riccitelli).

The Sins of One's Youth

THERE IS SOMETHING very sad, as well as instructive in David's prayer, "Remember not the sins of my youth." Zophar, in the Book of Job, says, "His bones are full of the sins of his youth." Not only can bodily diseases be traced to the indiscretions and disobedience of youth, but also confirmed habits and overmastering sins and hardened guilt.

It is a fateful truth that "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Sow a thought and reap a desire; sow a desire and reap an act; sow an act and reap a habit; sow a habit and reap a life; sow a life and reap an eternity. The reaping must be the same in kind, and manifold in degree.

These sins of youth will have their revenge in bodily ailments and mental associations and spiritual temptations. Grace does not affect them, nor can one grow out of them. The stains and sears and crooks remain through all the growth. God may have forgiven them, but one cannot forget them, nor cease to blush at their remembrance. Most of the sins of age are but the outbursts of the pent-up sins of youth. It is found that the large majority of criminals become such before the age of twenty-one. At that age one becomes cautious and takes fewer risks. So, also do the large majority of those who become Christians follow Christ in youth.

The only explanation of the sudden fall of some Christians is that they were overcome by the accumulated force of the hidden sins of youth. The Psalmist made God his portion from his youth and became a "man after God's own heart." Yet the sins of youth overcame him at times of great temptation and brought forth such bitter fruit in his sons, that the heart-broken cry was forced from him concerning Absalom: "Is the young man safe?"

Nothing is more blessed than to be able to say of a young man, "He is safe," and sound in growth. One does not so much care to ask, "Does he inherit wealth? Is he well educated? Is he smart?" but rather, "Is he safe and can he be trusted?"—trusted with himself and his future, as well as with property and confidence. A merchant, searching for a helper, could find any number of boys who were said to be smart, but only one who was faithful.

To be able to say that a young man is safe, he must have formed a character for manliness and godliness, which promises a fixed course of right thought and action, with corresponding growth.

And nothing except the regenerating grace of God can so change and fix the character and life. No young man can save himself, nor can it be said of him that he is safe, until he is saved in Jesus Christ. The sins of youth will bring forth a harvest of sins in after life, unless the Grace of God intervenes.

Faith and Hope are the crutches holding us upright while walking in The Way.

BURNING TRUTH

By Charles Emory Byers

"Were half the power that fills the world with terror,
Were half the wealth bestowed on camps and courts,
Given to redeem the human mind from error
There were no need of arsenals and forts."

—Longfellow.

PERSISTENT and intensive teaching of the youth of a land can change them into whatever those teachers desire them to become. It can change the ideals of a nation from what they traditionally were to something unrecognizably different. That teaching can make them bigots, egotists, bloodthirsty monsters, or it can make them peace-loving, cultured men and women. It can teach them trades and professions or it can teach them to glory in every art of war.

A nation can be taught how to trade with neighbor nations to the advantage of both. It can be taught tolerance and respect for those of other lands, or it can be taught to hate them. And in these attitudes lies the difference between war and peace.

Longfellow thinks that if half the wealth we spend for military preparedness were spent in educating the youth of all nations the arts of peace and tolerance we would have no need to spend the other half at all. He thinks, and rightly, that it should be spent on teachers, schools, churches and churches and such things as make for real ideals and character.

Getting right attitudes and ideals into the brains of people when they are young often changes the course of history. If we spent as much energy and money for the education of the human mind and heart as we spend on armies, airplanes and battleships the world would be safe for democracy and any other form of government to live side by side in peace and amity.

As it is at present the proportion of spending is about eleven billions for war in our own U. S. A. to less than two billions for all educational purposes. Thus Longfellow's thought carries its weight in gold. If the spending were reversed how different it could be made!

The policy would have to be pursued throughout the world to make it work. Each nation would have to teach its youth ideas of peace, of tolerance, of understanding. Of right social relationships, of love of neighbor, of nobility of character, of truth, of honor.

All this could be done if the wealth and energy used for war were expended to teach all mankind the ways of peace. Then indeed there would be no arsenals and forts. The whole secret is the vital matter of teaching.

Sooner or later everyone sits down at the banquet of consequences.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Short prayers are jewels mounted in the hours of time, precious and valuable.

Ashland College News Letter

By Arthur Petit

Four faculty promotions on the Ashland College campus have been announced by Dr. Glenn L. Clayton, president of the hilltop institution. Two members of the English department and two from the field of science were promoted. Dr. A. N. Stunz was elevated to the rank of department head in English. Dr. Stunz came to Ashland College in 1939. He holds degrees from the University of Missouri, the University of Chicago and the University of Iowa. He was granted the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from the last institution. While at Missouri, he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, oldest honorary fraternity in the United States. He has traveled in Europe, especially in England. He has had articles accepted by The Journal of English Literary History, Men's Garden Clubs of America Year Book, London Times Literary Supplement and the Saturday Review of Literature. Mr. and Mrs. Stunz, the latter a native of England, live at 525 Center Street.

The second promotion in the department of English was that of May Pyle Andrews to Professor. For several years her rank has been Associate Professor. Mrs. Andrews who has lived in Ashland for many years first came to the college faculty in 1926. Since that time she has been a member of the faculty continuously. With but few exceptions, the tenure of the new professor has been the longest on the campus. She holds degrees from Huron (South Dakota) College and the University of Chicago. She had also studied at Columbia University. Mr. and Mrs. Andrews, the former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, live at 230 Claremont Ave.

The two promotions in the field of science were of part time teachers. Dr. N. M. Ferguson was elevated to Head of the Department of Chemistry and Dr. Jessie Harwood is now Associate Professor of Biology. Mr. Ferguson is Chemist at the Dr. Hess and Clark Company. Mrs. Harwood is the wife of Dr. Paul Harwood, biologist for the Dr. Hess and Clark Company. Both Ferguson and Mrs. Harwood hold the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

WHAT OF YOUTH?

Or,
(The Oft-misunderstood)

H. A. Gossard

(Advance Apology)

I'm not a prophet nor a sage:
I'm bore a boulder shaped by age . . .
I answer not from Wisdom's lore:
Or that I have not stock in store . . .
Ofttimes when I would voice a fact,
The basic tone shows little tact . . .

My answers follow:—Tho I own
That I from Youth to Age have flown—
Thru Memory's eyes I now behold
The trend of Youth when I am old . . .
Those days to me are yet as green
As I was—acting on the scene.

Youths' stumbling isn't that they're blind;
Nor rudeness that they'd be unkind:
The "Virile Urge" drives them so fast
They see the present when it's past . . .
The leaps they take—as by a guess—
Repenting later, they confess
Were all because they had to learn—
As Humans must—just where to turn . . .
For, after all, they see thru eyes
Made keen by Knowledge; not Disguise!

Comparing Age with Age, I learn:
That Man evolves as cycles turn;
That when his will is set he goes
To challenge fate and win by foes;
That if he struggles on he'll find
The tools he needs are in his mind;
That for achievement he depends
Less on beginnings than on ends;
That if he fears not to commence,
He'll gain much thru experience;
That blindest blindness of his Sight
Is due to shutting out the Light;
That human progress will advance
Where Intellect accepts the chance . . .

Before we "outward youth" deride,
We should first note the trend "inside":
With wisdom, sound, and judgment fair,
We must regard the "IMAGE" there!

This acrid answer shows my rage:
"Youth's Always Modern" In Its Age!!
(That's why Youths' antics oft provoke
The tempered mind of older folk). . .

Brother Charles Munson, National Youth Director, was the guest speaker at the Muncie Church on Sunday, April 3. He spoke in behalf of the National Youth Program.

A Gospel Team from Ashland College participated in the Easter Services at Muncie. An Easter Breakfast was served following a 5:00 A. M. service.

Loree, Indiana. We note from Brother Robert Higgins' bulletin that three churches in three adjoining communities—McGrawsville, Santa Fe, and Loree—joined in three Pre-Easter services, one being held at each of the above places, with Brother Higgins speaking at the Santa Fe Church. This shows a fine spirit of cooperation.

Brother Higgins announces the Loree Re-dedication Day as of Sunday, May 22. Included in the all day program is: a basket dinner at the noon hour; the dedicatory services, and the opening of the "Seven-year Memory Box." Brother E. M. Riddle, Field Secretary of the Brethren Missionary Board, will be the guest speaker of the day.

We also note from the bulletin of April 10th: "The average attendance in Sunday School for the first quarter of 1949 was 130, which is a gain of 36 over one year ago."

Cumberland, Maryland. Report comes to us that in the recent meeting which was held in Cumberland, with Brother Robert Higgins of our Loree-Mexico circuit as the evangelist, that there were five first time confessions and one reconsecration, with another being added to the membership by letter.

Scanning Past Revivals. While the editor was nursing a week of indisposition, caused as a result of the after-effects of a case of "flu," he took time to hastily run through the files of the Evangelist since the first of the year to glean out some of the results of the evangelistic efforts which have been conducted since January 1st. In so doing he noted that there were several reported revivals which gave no specific number of accessions, which, of course, do not appear in the below accounting. But here are the ones which gave definite numbers:

|----------------------------------------------------|----|
| Brush Valley, Penna. ....                          | 12 |
| Vinco, Penna. ....                                 | 11 |
| Ashland, Ohio (regular services) ....              | 8  |
| Fremont, Ohio ....                                 | 10 |
| Elkhart, Indiana (part from regular services) .... | 30 |
| Udell, Iowa ....                                   | 10 |
| Nappanee, Indiana ....                             | 10 |
| Ft. Scott, Kansas ....                             | 3  |
| Oakville, Indiana ....                             | 3  |
| Dutchtown, Indiana ....                            | 18 |
| Masontown, Penna. ....                             | 12 |
| Cumberland, Maryland ....                          | 6  |

Which makes a total reported of .....133

Since this covers only twelve churches, it would appear that there has been a fine ingathering throughout our brotherhood, if the others had been equally successful in their efforts. Since there usually is a special effort set forth by the churches at Easter time to gather in precious souls, many should be added to this total.

CHRISTIAN HOMES IN A PAGAN WORLD

Scripture: Prov. 3:1-7; Eph. 6:1-4

For The Leader

THE COMMITTEE in picking the subject of the evening could hardly have done a better job. They have picked a subject which in itself points out the true picture of American life today. Continuing a situation which has existed since the time of Christ, we find homes that are Christian, and homes that are Pagan. The difference is not hard to see. A Christian home is one in which God is revered and Christ is worshipped and followed. A pagan home is one in which there is no love for God, nor respect for His laws or ideals. The question we raise on this Mother's Day is, What kind of a home is yours? And further, what kind of a home do you plan to establish?

DISCUSSION

1. CHRISTIANITY, THE FOUNDATION OF DEMOCRACY. We have asserted before, but we emphasize it again that outside of Christian principles in operation, there can be no true Democracy. Where in the world are the principles of Christianity going to be taught, if not in the home? Certainly not in our schools if the courts of the land continue their present course of action. Certainly not in the Churches, because the Church does not have the youth enough to make much of an impression. It must be done in the home. Once was the day when the school, the church, and the home taught the Bible, and the Christian principles. And look how America prospered and grew. But now, we're too big for our pants, so out goes the Bible, law, restraint, and admonitions of God. We're to the place where we have plenty, we don't need God. Pleasure and lust have replaced God. History has yet to show any case where any nation of people took such a course and escaped the punishment of God.

2. THE CHRISTIAN HOME ESSENTIAL. The survival of American Democracy is dependent upon the revival of the Christian home. Each of us on this Mother's Day have our own thoughts of our own home. What are they? Of a place where prayer was often made, where children were gathered together and read to from the Word of God? Do we think of home as a place where all prepared for the church services and all attended, rejoicing in the Lord for the blessings received? Was trust and dependency on God taught? Or do your thoughts of home include parents who "slept in" on Sundays, planned picnics for all day on Sunday, encouraged the vices of the world, etc? When we think of home do memories of the church and pastors come back to us as having ridiculed, scoffed at and made light of? Your mould in life is hardening, depending on the attitude of your home toward God and the Church. If it was a negative attitude, better change yourself before it is too late.

3. LUKEWARM HOMES. In dealing with the Christian home versus the pagan home we find our problem of distinction very easy. An extremely difficult problem presents itself, though, when we start in on homes that profess to be Christian and yet are steeped with sinful and pagan practices. It is the home where the members make some pretense to attending church and taking part, but when then take in all the sins of the world, neglecting Bible reading and prayer, etc. Each succeeding generation of such a family will grow worse and worse. Instruction about one's relationship to God cannot be let slide. When parents ignore their responsibility, children do not learn about God. It must weigh heavy on the hearts of parents to see children, whom they've neglected to teach about God, go out and live godless lives in sin.

4. COMING GENERATION TROUBLE. The experience of pastors all over the country is about the same in the following matters. All too often, young people reared in church attending families, appear to fall away when they marry. What takes place in the lives of a young married couple to change their attitude toward church when they get married is one of the present day mysteries. True, a child coming into a home does give an excuse for not coming to church, but it surely doesn't take two parents to keep a child at home. And a generation ago if a mother forsook the church every time there was a new child in the family she wouldn't have gotten to church very much. The writer started to Church when less than three weeks old and is still going strong. But how often today young parents use their child as an excuse to remain away from the church for 6 months to a year, or forever? Do you think when God has blessed you with the happiness of a home that you should slap Him in the face by ignoring Him? Think about it on this Mother's Day.

5. THE SURE-FIRE ANSWER TO THE PROBLEM. This is bitter medicine, especially if you don't want to take it. But if you are really interested in restoring your home, and making it a really Christian home, here's what you must do. First of all, get your family together and talk the matter over with them. Tell them there must be no compromise with the things of the world. Tell them that as Christian Church members, your home must be the finest of examples. Uppermost on the list of things to do is to establish the Family Altar. This is a period of time when all members of the family gather together and read the Bible and pray together. Mutual and individual problems find their answers quickly in such a daily gathering. If you really want a family altar, the problems of finding a time will iron itself out. In this, mother and father should take the lead. Then you must resolve to forsake the amusements of the world, for they are the breeders of physical and spiritual ruin. Then you must resolve to attend Church regularly, not by force, but because you want to. Then you must set aside the ten percent of your income for the Lord's work. When you have done these, you will be well on the way to being a Christian home in a pagan world. Remember, make no compromise with evil.

QUESTIONS

1. Does not the standard of a Christian home place one in the position of being a radical?
2. What is the penalty for compromise with evil?

THE LORD'S PRAYER

Thou canst not say the Lord's Prayer
And make one selfish plea;
Thou canst not pray the Lord's Prayer
And even once say ME.
For it's OUR, OUR, OUR,
And it's US, US, US;
And the fourth time it is OUR,
And the fourth time it is US.

Thou canst not pray the Lord's Prayer
And even once say I;
Thou canst not say the Lord's Prayer
And even once say MY.
Nor canst thou pray the Lord's Prayer
And pray not for another,
For when thou asketh DAILY BREAD
Thou must include thy brother.

And it's US, US, US,
And it's OUR, OUR, OUR;
As free from selfish motive
As the fragrance of a flower.
For others are included
In each and every plea,
For from beginning through the end
It does not once say ME.

—Selected.

"LORD, TEACH US TO PRAY"

Scripture: Luke 11:1-13

Hymns: "Prayer Is the Soul's Sincere Desire"; "Dear Lord and Father of Mankind"

Prayers

Seed Thought Provokers:

THE ONLY RECORDED PRAYER petitions of the disciples are "Lord, teach us to pray," and "Lord, increase our faith" (Mark 17:5). Our Scripture lesson is in answer to the first request. A certain group of ultradispen-sational teachers have contended that "The Lord's Prayer" is not for us. But it is a "model prayer" for all who can honestly say "Our Father." Do not earnest Christians want God's name hallowed? Do they not desire that His kingdom come? that His will be done on earth as it is now done in Heaven? Do not Christians have a right to pray for daily bread, forgiveness of sins, and that God will lead them away from temptation and deliver them from the evil one?

Verses 5-13 speak of getting power to carry the saving bread of life to sinners. It is a prayer asking God to enable us by His Spirit. But there are those who would take verse 13 away from us by saying that it was uttered before Pentecost and does not apply after Pentecost. That is ridiculous because the book of Luke was written 30 years after Pentecost, about the same time as the book of Acts. Would the Holy Spirit write promises 30 years too late to do anybody any good? To this day God fills with His Spirit only those who seek to be filled.

Again we have heard that the Sermon on the Mount is for Jews only. But it shows the same kind of Christian living that the Epistles expect. Compare Matthew 6:12, 14, 15 with Ephesians 4:32. The words of Jesus to the Syrophenician woman (Matt. 15:24) showed the absurdity of thinking that Jesus was sent exclusively to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. This Gentile woman asked for a "crumb" and received a whole loaf. Read Luke 2:10. The Sermon on the Mount is the Christian conduct expected of us in Romans 8:4. It could not be "the constitution of the millennial kingdom" because it does not fit into a golden age wherein the Devil is bound and Christ is supreme Sovereign.

Let us fervently and intelligently pray the Lord's Prayer. Let us re-read the Sermon on the Mount. Let us beware of any who would take away from us all of the New Testament except four Pauline Epistles! Spurious teachings should help us to renew our appreciation for the "whole gospel."

Earnestly PRAY—not just "say"—the Lord's Prayer.

Lesson for May 8th, 1949

JESUS ANSWERS HIS CRITICS

Lesson: Mark 11:27-33; 12:28-34

A CRITIC is one who, being competent, passes judgment on the words or actions of another person with the purpose of changing such words or activity to the critics point of view. Such action can be called "justified" criticism if (and a great deal depends on that little word "if") the one who sets himself up as a critic is "competent" to suggest that such critical changes be made.

There are two kinds of criticism—we would call them "destructive" and "constructive." In the case of the former it is usually the desire of the self-imposed critic to tear down the structure without substituting something tangible to take the place of the criticised word or action. In the latter case, that of constructive criticism, the effort is being made, through wider knowledge or a deeper understanding, to replace that which is false or outmoded, by that which is true and of present value.

There is real value in "constructive" criticism. It is through such study and research that our Bible has been preserved intact to the present day. The discovery of new evidence through archeological research and cross-examination that has been made in the past one hundred years has done much to strengthen the entire structure of the entire Word of God. Nothing has ever been found that would in any way destroy it.

In the study of this lesson we must remember first of all that Jesus said, "I am the Truth!" Truth can never be error. Therefore no act or word of Jesus can, under any circumstances, be regarded as erroneous or worthy of criticism, for nothing that He does can be replaced by that which arises in the mind of mere man. Consequently it was the height of folly for the "chief priests and scribes and the elders" to even dare to question Him as to His ability or authority to do the things which He was doing.

As we hinted before, criticism always springs from a desire to substitute the words or acts of the critic for those of the one criticised. A conclusion which is built upon a false premise, no matter how logically argued, can never be a true conclusion. These priests and scribes were arguing from a false premise every time they attempted to trap Jesus by their questions and fine-spun theories. These men, who were supposed to be the best-read and most deeply religious scholars of their day, had failed to plant their thinking on a spiritual basis and were rejecting the fundamental principles of God's plan, namely, the redemption of the world from sin through the sacrifice of His Only Begotten Son—the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world.

Test every encounter between Jesus and the religious leaders of the day and you will find that the above truth is borne out. And after all, isn't that just where we find the division line in our world today between sin and salvation—between those who are being saved and those who are being lost? Critical attitudes, brought about by a desire to substitute man's will for God's will. It seems so hard to say, "Thy will, not mine, be done!" and mean it. Yet if one would not become one of the Lord's "critics" that is exactly what he must do.

Laid to Rest

MERRITT. Mrs. Frank Merritt was born April 4, 1861 and died February 28, 1949, being 87 years of age. Her husband had preceded her in death in 1934.

She was a member of the College Corner Brethren Church of Wabash County, Indiana, near which she lived for several years. A devoted mother and grandmother, she called all of her family to her bedside during the last few days of her earthly life to give them her blessing.

This undersigned had been called to her bedside several weeks before her death, when prayer and anointing were requested. Among her last words was the testimony, "I am ready."

The funeral services were conducted from the Wise Funeral Home in Peru, Indiana, and burial was made in the Pleasant Grove Cemetery of Wabash County, with the undersigned in charge.

May she enjoy a mansion and fellowship with the Lord throughout all eternity.

News From Our Churches

WEST ALEXANDRIA, OHIO

As we approach the Easter season and we meditate on the death of our blessed Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ on Calvary's cross we are made to realize more and more the significance of Easter and what it should mean to each and every one of us.

Three churches of our town are cooperating in Union Lenten Services and are enjoying good crowds and inspiring sermons by three pastors. Rev. Caldwell of the Evangelical Reformed church, Rev. Good of the Church of the Brethren and Rev. Garland of our church.

Last summer we regretted very much the loss of Rev. Whitted's health and his services, but the church kept going nicely under Rev. Engle, a Church of the Brethren Pastor until December when Rev. Garland and family came to us from Jones Mills, Pennsylvania. Under his leadership both church and Sunday School are growing both in interest and attendance. Since the first of January we have been having services both morning and evening on Sunday, also we are having mid-week prayer services. We have viewed religious films for several weeks at this service.

We have a live W. M. S. and recently the young married people's class entertained all the older children and young people and organized a Signal Lights; a Junior and Senior Sisterhood, also a Junior and Senior Brotherhood.

The church body recently redecorated the church both inside and out. Also within the past three years the basement has been enlarged to make more Sunday School rooms and a kitchen and a new oil furnace was installed. Our women took over the expense of sanding and refinishing the floors and the young married people's class purchased carpet for the pulpit and aisles; old seats were replaced by pews.

Our budget has been increased and combined to cover all expenses as they come along.

The Miami Valley Rally of Brethren Young people was held on Sunday evening March the twentieth and 110 young people partook of a covered dish supper prepared by ladies of our church which was served in the basement of Town Hall.

After supper they went to our church where a good program and the picture "Thy Will Be Done," was enjoyed by a full house.

Our W. M. S. recently served a banquet to an organization and cleared a nice sum. They will serve a banquet to the Miami Valley Laymen on April 18th.

Our spring revival will be held April 24 to May 8th with Rev. Garland in charge.

All in all we are working together for the advancement of His kingdom here below and the saving of souls.

We must work while it is yet day for the night cometh when no man can work.

Mrs. Edith Henderson, Church Secretary.

REVIVAL AT CUMBERLAND, MARYLAND

We closed a two weeks meeting which began on the 14th of March and continued through the 27th, with Brother Robert K. Higgins of the Mexico and Loree, Indiana, Churches, as our Evangelist. Attendance was good, and the interest high.

Brother Higgins won his way into the hearts of the Brethren as well as visiting ministers and others who attended the meetings.

Our Junior Choir under the direction of Sister Delma Schriver, as well as our church pianist, Mrs. William Baldwin, were in their respective places each night and added much to the success of the meeting.

Our Pastor, Brother Bruce C. Shanholtz and other Brethren of the church, together with the Evangelist, made quite a few calls with some visible results. Only eternity will reveal the total result of this special effort.

Brother Higgins was called on to perform the anointing service for one of our sisters who was very ill in Hospital, namely, Mrs. Cora Grove. She is home again and getting along fine for which we are thankful to our Heavenly Father.

Four persons were received into the church by baptism; one by letter, and one by reconsecration.

One boy was ill and could not be baptized but will come later. Also the promise of three others. May the Lord strengthen them that they will take this final step.

Mrs. F. J. Beachley, Cor. Sec.

NEW LEBANON, OHIO, REVIVAL

I counted it a happy privilege and blessing from the Lord when I was invited to assist in a series of meetings with this people and their pastor and his family, together with God's messenger for the occasion, Rev. S. E. Christiansen.

Truly it was a pleasure and a joy to sit in on the messages given in the style and technique of Brother Christiansen. They were on the line and hit the spot. I am sure the Word is more precious to those who accepted the Lord Jesus as their Savior. May they keep their hands in His and follow His leading.

To the many homes that were opened to us: Really we do appreciate your hospitality and cherish your friendship and acquaintance more than our words can express. If any over-anxiety was displayed on our part in the enjoyment of your bountiful meals, we beg your most humble pardon. We won't do it again (unless we have occasion).

May the Lord continue to bless the harvest of the seed sown in His name. Our sincere appreciation goes out for the privilege of serving as your song-evangelist.

"Bud" Hunter, North Manchester, Indiana.

LOST CREEK, KENTUCKY

It is with deep satisfaction that we report the Dedication Day at what is now Rowdy, Kentucky. It was formerly known as Stacey. The name of the post office has been changed and thus the name of the community. It was a splendid day in every way, their being no discordant notes whatsoever.

There were five speakers for the all-day program. These included Reverends Taylor, Heykoop, Kinzie, Williams, Jackson and fine brief messages from some of Riverside's workers, Rev. Keck, Mr. Robb and Mr. Hall. The messages were all on the work of the church, and there was not a dull one given. The house was well filled for the day. The unanimous expression of the visiting brethren was that we had a very fine location and a good building. The building was erected at a cost of $106.00 for labor. There is some painting yet to be done, but that will be taken care of without financial outlay for the same.

One of the pleasing things was a community dinner, the first one for the Rowdy community. It was held in the church. Boards were placed on top of the seats and what a dinner we did have, furnished by the women of Rowdy. Their first intent was to invite the visitors to their homes, but that was changed and we did have a fine time of fellowship and all had a great sufficiency to eat. As one person remarked afterwards, "That dinner would be hard to beat anywhere."

The people there wanted a piano for the services. We set about to raise the money, and dedication day put it over the top by about ten dollars, we having paid fifty-five dollars for the used piano. All are well pleased with the instrument. The money over will be used to pay for the paint which we hope to have on before you read this. No indebtedness whatever on anything in connection with this project.

Now if the work here had that building that stands just across the highway, for use for social events for the many, many young people of the community, and also a place for a pastor to live there, things would be all set for great things at Rowdy, we believe. Let us pray that it may be so.

G. E. Drushal.

CHEYENNE, WYOMING

Here in Cheyenne we are looking forward to Palm Sunday. We have the promise of Brother E. M. Riddle filling the pulpit both morning and evening, and plan for a basket dinner and plenty of good old fashioned fellowship.

We are thrilled with the progress of God's work here. Have baptized three adults recently, which makes two complete Christian homes.

The building is coming along grand. The plasterer is ready to start the second coat. Our men are doing the many other jobs and it is wonderful what just a few men who love the Lord can do in two or three hours each evening after work.

Keep praying for Cheyenne. God is waiting to answer your prayer.

Mrs. J. K. White, Cor. Sec.

THE NEW LEBANON, OHIO, REVIVAL

The time of a Revival is always a joyful time in the church. We miss so much in the way of blessings because we do not keep in the "Revival spirit" twelve months of the year.

The two weeks, from March 7th to the 20th, went all too quickly, with those untiring brethren, Christiansen and Hunter, laboring with us. Brother Christiansen's dispensational chart lectures and Biblical messages were well received. Brother Bud Hunter's song directing and singing paved the way for the preaching of the Word and the reception of the Gospel.

During the two weeks many homes were visited. It was a delight to make these visits with Brother Christiansen, so ably assisting in the personal approach, and Brother Bud, with a fine layman approach. Since we had 250 prospects, we were not able to cover the field in so short a time. Many of the prospects had been contacted previously and some by the members of the Church during the meetings.

Two pre-prayer services were maintained during the two weeks. Dorothy Kincaid, a junior in High School, conducted the youth prayer group, and Robert Bisset, deacon-elect, conducted the adult group.

Our conjunctive efforts, during these weeks of revival and evangelism, were well rewarded in many ways. There were prospects and unsaved people in every service from the very first night. They did not come in the large numbers as in years gone by, but if they are sought and prayed for, we know it is still possible to get them to Revivals and into the kingdom of God.

During the two weeks twenty-three came forward. Two more came the Sunday following. Thirteen of these were baptized and received into the fellowship of the Church. Three remain to be baptized, and the other nine came for reconsecration and dedication for fuller service. Some who promised did not come to profess publicly, but we feel certain they will come before long. Many of our own people have given testimony to the personal benefit of these meetings.

We have been working more to a year around program of evangelism. It has been bearing fruit. Early in February six were baptized, and with others being received into the Church since last Easter ('48), not including the nineteen baptized on that Sunday, our total reaches the figure of 31 added up to the time of this report. Our total membership now stands at 555. You may see that the progress here is not rapid, but is steady.

On Thursday night of the last week of the Revival, 108 youth of the Church and community, and youth workers and teachers, enjoyed a 6:00 o'clock banquet and fellowship. The High School basketball team, superintendent and several teachers, were guests. The High School girls' ensemble sang beautifully for the program, and at the close of a good time of fellowship all adjourned to the sanctuary for the evening evangelistic service.

Our attendance was unusually good this year. The average for all the services was 184. Twenty-four attended every service and 13 missed only once. Our Sunday School reached 284 on the closing Sunday, just 16 short of our winter goal of 300.

We are most grateful for the blessings of these meetings, the support of our people, the help of nearby Brethren, and the fine work of Brethren, Christiansen and Hunter.

W. Clayton Berkshire, pastor.

REVIVAL AT AKRON, OHIO Firestone Park Brethren

The Firestone Park Brethren church is little short of a miracle church. Not much over a year ago I turned aside on my way home from district conference to have a look at the new church in Akron. The workmen were then nailing on the rock lath. It was a nice little church but still not completed. Early this spring the good Brethren and their capable pastor extended me an invitation to be with them for a two-week meeting, and I accepted with a great deal of pleasure since this was the city of my first pastorate. We left Ellet soon after the new church was built there in 1928, for a pastorate with the Masontown, Pa. Brethren.

What I found upon arrival at Firestone Park was a real surprise. The membership was about ninety and the attendance hovered around the hundred mark and above it. The attendance on the two Sundays during the meeting was 106 and 111. The brotherhood can well be proud of this new church. With such a fine new plant surrounded by several hundred new homes this church should experience a rapid growth. The pastor, Rev. J. G. Dodds, and the people are to be congratulated on their fine accomplishment in so short a time.

Most churches count themselves rich if they have one dependable song leader. But this little new church has both a song leader and a choir director of the first order. They took care of the music in a most efficient way, even supplying from the church a splendid male quartet. They had so many special numbers, all well chosen and good, that I do not remember where they all came from. There were at least three good pianists in evidence including the pastor's daughter, Marilyn. It was most inspiring to see the membership diligently at work in behalf of the meeting. It seemed to be the common practice of the men of the church to lead in prayer whenever called upon. What surprised me most was that some of them had been in the church but a short time. The women were active in personal work. It was also gratifying to find some of the young people, whom I knew so well while in Ellet, active in the Lord's work. Needless to say, I enjoyed my stay with the Firestone Brethren immensely. Their love gift was most generous and free hearted.

My home was with Rev. and Mrs. Dodds. I shall not try to describe their hospitality for they outdid themselves in ministering to my comfort. More homes were opened to us for meals than we could accept. Any preacher accepting a call to hold a meeting for these good Brethren had better take along a good appetite if he is to do justice to all the good things these ladies will set before him. The fellowship in these homes was most pleasant.

Rev. Beekley and family brought a nice delegation over from the Canton church. They also brought us a lovely trio who sang most beautifully. Others who came from a distance were, Mr. and Mrs. Atlee Hostettler and daughter Betty of Rittman; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Frank of Rittman and Mr. Hartzler of Smithville; Mr. and Mrs. John Weigley of Smithville; Mrs. Braucher and daughter and sister from Cuyahoga Falls who sang for us; Mr. Vernard Holsinger also of Cuyahoga Falls who sang several well chosen numbers for us; a ladies' trio from a neighboring church in the city, and a young quartet from a Church of the Brethren some distance from Firestone Park.

The audience was attentive and responsive and sang in such a manner that one was challenged to preach his best. Brother Dodds and his wife and daughter are doing a splendid work and deserve the prayers of the brotherhood. May the Lord bless pastor and people with good success.

Floyd Sibert.

By Benjamin F. Paist

*Good friend Philemon, master of my fate,
Against thee I have sinned. Canst thou forgive
The wrong I did? Too well do I recall
The day I ran away. Like every lad,
I craved to see the mistress of the world;
But never did I think that Rome would be
A holy place where I would find my Lord,
And hear Him preached by such a wondrous man.*

*In old Colossae I had heard thee tell
How, while in Ephesus, thy heart had felt
The Spirit's power, as the saintly Paul
Proclaimed through Christ the saving love of God.
And then in Rome I heard him for myself.
I cannot tell thee all he said to me:
With earnest words he sent me back to thee
Along with Tychicus, who also bears
Two letters for the churches thou dost love.
Besides these two I bear a sacred script
He bade me bring in person unto thee.*

*But for this word I scarce could see thy face.
He only asks that thou wilt take me back,
A brother in the household of our faith.
And this thou doest out of love to him.
He loves thee so. He was so kind to me.
I never can forget his burning words:
"A faithful and beloved brother,"—and I thought I was a slave deserving ill
Of all mankind, especially of thee.*

*Paul haunts me yet. Wherever I may roam,
In him I see the Love that sends me Home.*

INTERESTING ITEMS

Warsaw, Indiana. During the recent illness of Brother Woodrow B. Brant, pastor of the Warsaw Church, we note that Rev. Lee Lantz has been very capably filling the pulpit in his stead. Organizations of the church have also filled in, especially in the evening services, The Senior Sisterhood having had charge of the Easter Evening service, at which time a play, "The Breaking of the Bread" was given.

A Note from Brother Brant to the editor tells us that he is feeling much better and that he expected to preach his first sermon since becoming ill on Sunday evening, April 24th. Continue your prayers in his behalf.

Meyersdale, Penna. Brother W. S. Benshoff writes: "We had a great Easter Service. Will be sending you a report of it very soon." We will be looking for it.

From Brother Benshoff's bulletin of April 17th we note that nine were received by baptism and one by relation on Easter Sunday morning, with two added on April 10th and more yet to come. We rejoice in the fine work that is being done in Meyersdale.

Berlin, Penna. Brother Percy C. Miller, pastor of our Berlin Church, says that there were fifty-six present at their prayer services on Wednesday, April 7th, and he adds that the average attendance for the first three months of the year was forty-eight. Attendance at prayer meeting, tells more about a church than any other one thing.

The Berlin Laymen are up and doing. We note that recently they had an evening of discussion on such topics as, "How has the church rendered service to the world?"—"How is the church an asset to the community?"—How has the church made contributions to your life?"—"What is the most serious mistake the church is making?"—"What kind of preaching would grip and help men?" and many other very interesting questions. The answer to such questions and kindred ones, can be of great assistance in the understanding of what the Church means to men.

Gratis, Ohio. Brother Crick says that the plans for the Mother and Daughter Banquet are shaping up in a fine way. The banquet will be held on the evening of May 4th at 7:00 o'clock. Mrs. Crick, wife of the pastor, is to be the speaker of the evening. The men of the church "will don aprons and do the serving."

The time of the Gratis Spring Communion has been set as Sunday evening, May 15th. Surrounding Brethren invited.

Ashland, Ohio. One of the finest, even though it was by no means the largest, communions was observed in the Ashland Church on Good Friday evening. One hundred and fourteen partook of the ordinances.

The Young people of the church presented a very fine play on Easter Sunday evening, under the direction of Mr. Phil Nolte. Those taking part were Phil Lersch, John Lindower, Dick Gorham, Jeanne Lindower, Betty Rowsey, Jeannette DeLozier and Jean Rowsey. It was one of the finest plays that have been given in the Ashland Church. There was a very fine audience.

West Alexandria, Ohio. Brother H. R. Garland, pastor, reports that there is a fine growth in attendance at the Sunday evening services, there being fifty-one present on a recent Sunday evening. Brother Garland makes much of the "Visual" messages in his evening services.

The West Alexandria church is in the midst of their spring revival services. The services will conclude on May 8th.

Masontown, Penna. Brother Freeman Ankrum reports the addition of sixteen to the Masontown church roll, in his bulletin of April 17th. He also says, "In looking over the records, we find that since coming to Masontown we have baptized one hundred and twenty-two, and received one hundred and thirty-one into church membership. It has been our sad lot to officiate at one hundred and seventeen funerals."

We learn that Brother Ankrum is scheduled for five chapel talks and five vesper talks at the Young People's Camp at Camp Juniata, which will convene July 3 to 10 for the young people, and July 10 to 16 for the Juniors.

Canton, Ohio. The Mother and Daughter Banquet of the Canton Church is scheduled for May 10th. It will be held at the Calvary Presbyterian Church in Canton.

We learn that on Easter Sunday the goal of 150 was topped by about 25, there being 175 at the Sunday School. One hundred and thirty-seven were in attendance on April 10th, and one hundred and nine for the Good Friday service.

Mansfield, Ohio. We have received the following from Brother Delbert Flora, who is acting pastor of the Mansfield Church. Here is what he says: "Easter Sunday. Goal in Sunday School attendance—150; attendance, 172 were counted. Many more came in for Sunday School program during church worship hour, estimated by the ushers and

TO LITTLE, TOO SELDOM

I CAME ACROSS two little sentences in my reading that bear repeating and a great deal of meditation. No doubt many of our readers also read them, for they are from the current issue of the "Reader's Digest." But just in case you missed them, here they are: "The Well of Providence is deep. It's the buckets that we bring to it that are small." So much truth is to be found in these two little sentences that we need read them over several times to catch the full significance stated. That very thing I did, and

It set me to thinking!

Where have I heard or read of a story that would illustrate the point? Almost immediately there came to my mind the story of Elisha and the Shunammite widow and her sons, as recorded in the fourth chapter of Second Kings. Elisha, who had become the successor of Elijah, was approached by this widow, who, in her faith that God would honor the belief and trust which the family had in Him, came to seek help from His representative, the prophet. Asked what she desired, she simply stated her case in a few words: "Thine handmaid hath not any thing in the house, save a pot of oil." Simple, yet direct. She was on the verge of starvation. But it is to the words of Elisha that we want to draw attention. He said, "Go, borrow thee vessels abroad of all thy neighbors, even empty vessels; borrow not a few. And when thou art come in, thou shalt shut the door upon thee and upon thy sons, and shalt pour out into all those vessels, and thou shalt set aside that which is full . . . ; and she poured out. And when the vessels were full, she said unto her son, Bring me yet a vessel. And he said unto her, There is not a vessel more. And the oil stayed."

Just how long she might have poured, or just how much oil might have accumulated for her good, could never be known. What we do know is that the limit was found only in that which she had set by her own faith—the number of vessels that were borrowed.

Just suppose she had said to herself, "What is the use of carrying in a lot of vessels? I'll only have to carry them back. I will try it out by borrowing just a few." That would have set the limits of her receiving, and also the limits of her faith. How we mis-judge God's ability and His willingness to help us! How often we are the deciding factor in what God can do for us! If we would just remember that with God "all things are possible," our trips to the altar of prayer would be more frequent. But how often we go before Him, not with empty vessels, but with vessels full or partly full of odds and ends, which we "dump" in a heap before Him, and tell Him all of our troubles; but before He even has time or opportunity to fill the empty vessel, we begin putting the things back into the vessel which we have emptied out before Him, and thus so re-fill the vessel that with the same old things, the old troubles, that God can find little or no room to pour in the pure, clean oil of His Spirit, which He has stood so ready to give to us.

Why not try going to the "Well of Providence" more often with "large empty vessels" and a hungry heart? He can satisfy your every desire for good.

Think it over!

WE ARE GLAD

We are glad to present again our 100% Evangelist Honor Roll List. We are sure that there are other churches that could, with just a little effort, be added to the list. Some new names appear this time. We welcome them to our Honor Roll Family. This list appears below. If, by any chance, the name of your church has been omitted it is because we were not sure that your church had attained the number of subscriptions necessary to make it so. But, of course, we are ready to add your name if you have reached the standard.

There has been considerable discussion as to what constitutes a 100% Church. That matter has been left largely up to the congregation itself. No one knows better than the official family of the church just when the entire congregation is being covered with the subscription list. We have always said that surely the active list should be covered. But would it not be a fine piece of missionary

The Greatest Letters Ever Written

Francis C. Stiffler, D.D.

MOST PEOPLE, I have discovered, do not like to write letters but everybody likes to read them. Personal letters, not written for publication, are the clearest reflection of the writer's mind and heart and are the most trustworthy kind of historical evidence. There is something peculiarly precious about a personal letter from one you love. And when, as it happens now and then, some one becomes famous and his biography is being written, his letters prove invaluable for they let us into the very inner chambers of the great man's soul.

The New Testament is rich in original letters—letters that were, for the most part, written with not the slightest idea of their ever being published. Letters comprising almost one-fourth of the New Testament came from the pen of one man, the Apostle Paul. A recent writer has described him as a human tornado. He wrote with veritable gusts of argument and passion; he traveled with a feverish zeal that brought upon him enough calamity to have killed a dozen men; he challenged the current religious cults of his time with a courage that seemed foolhardy. He was a frail man with some chronic physical limitation but he drove on to accomplish maybe more than any other man who ever gave himself in complete surrender to the Lordship of Christ.

This vivid spirit left us thirteen of his personal letters, long for letters but for the most part constituting the shorter books of the Bible. It is not an exaggeration to say that these spontaneous, informal writings have had more to do with the shaping of human history than any other writings, except the four Gospels, that have ever been penned. Paul's are not light reading, but they are so important that an honest man ought to make a special effort to master them as he does the technical books he studies to gain his livelihood.

Here are two suggestions that will help anyone. First read at one sitting the Book of Acts, especially from the beginning of the eighth chapter. This much of the book comprises only about 50 pages of ordinary size and gives you the picture of the beginnings of the Christian movement with Paul as the chief actor. You can read these chapters in about an hour.

My other suggestion is that you invest in what is called the Parallel New Testament. There are two books with this title, alike in that they present on each page in one column the familiar King James text, and in the other, one of the modern English versions. My point is this—that not a few of the difficulties you have with Paul lie in the archaic English of the King James version—and by looking across the column the modern translation may clear up your difficulty.

But whether you read Paul's letters in modern English or not, you will find yourself reading them to immense profit if you will be on the lookout for his great thoughts which keep recurring again and again.

Look for Paul's confident affirmations of faith. Paul was sure of himself because he was sure of Christ. He did not just drift into his surrender to Christ. For him it came only after a major battle. You cannot read anywhere in Paul's letters for half an hour without feeling that Jesus Christ was to him really alive—the same yesterday, today and forever; that nothing has ever touched or altered, or can touch or alter the person of Christ.

Paul keeps saying in one way or another that in Christ we are more than conquerors. To him the overpowering idea is that Christ lives. The inexhaustible source of such conviction is Paul's experience on the Damascus road. Luke tells the story in his ninth chapter and reports Paul's telling it twice more, once in Jerusalem where he spoke in Hebrew, and again before the Roman King Agrippa at Caesarea, where he spoke in Greek.

For us the conversion of Paul is one of the greatest facts in history. Let the psychologist call it whatever he wants to. We must judge it by its results. From that moment on one of the most brilliant well-balanced scholars in history drove himself back and forth over the Roman Empire, determined to know nothing but Christ crucified as his emancipator. If Paul had been some deranged neurotic that would have been the end of the story—but see what has come of it. Out of this liberation of Paul's spirit came the Book of Galatians, which has rightly been called the Charter of Freedom and the basis of real democracy. Out of Paul's conversion came the Book of Romans which gave us both the Reformation under Luther and the Great Revival under Wesley. The day Paul met Christ on the Damascus road was Emancipation Day for every Christian. So I say read Paul looking for his great affirmations.

Then, read him for one other thing. Look for this toward the close of most of his letters.

In these concluding exhortations he invariably exhorts his readers to lead good lives. He out-does himself in this, not only in the matchless 13th of First Corinthians, but in the 12th to the 15th chapters of Romans. Get out your Bible and read the 12th chapter of Romans and as you read it, remember that these few words have had more to do with making your world a better one than Paul's was than possibly any words ever written. As you read them, too, just consider their timeliness, and do one more thing—check your own life against them and resolve that beginning today, you will not be overcome with evil but will overcome evil with good.

"Ages are rolled by; nations are to die, and nations are to rise and to take their places; laws are to grow old, and from new germ laws are to unfold; old civilizations are to crumble, and new eras are to dawn with higher culture; but to the end of time it will be seen that this figure stands high above every other in the history of man! "A name which is above every name" was given to Him—not for the sake of fame, but in a wholly different sense a name of power; a name of moral influence; a name that shall teach men how to live, and what it is to be men in Christ Jesus."—Henry Ward Beecher.

A Pastor Should Have A Personal Purse

IN THIS DAY of "free money" and "rapid spending" it would seem that there should be something said concerning the "Pastor's Purse." In a manner of speaking, the purse of the pastor is no different from that of the laymen in the pew. He has his bills to meet; his offerings to make; something set aside for a rainy day, and a right to "inherit a bit of the earth." But far too often the opening and shutting of the pastor's purse is controlled by the congregation which he serves. If he uses his money freely, he is a spendthrift; and if he is meager in his spending, at once he becomes a miser.

But the following article from a few years ago, printed in "The Christian Index," gives not only the pastor something to ponder over, but the members of his congregation as well. Written by Dr. Thomas J. Watts, it is food for thought. He says:

My first point is that the pastor must have a personal purse. An attempted financial program by the pastor without the means with which to implement it, must end in failure! Besides, a personal purse is clearly connoted by the pastor's office and function. He is called in the New Testament, "Minister," "Servant," "Laborer." Jesus said, "The laborer is worthy of his hire." True, He told the seventy disciples whom He sent forth on a purely temporary mission, to "Carry neither purse nor script." But He later revised such instruction, saying, "But now he that hath a purse let him take it, and likewise his script." (See Luke 10:4 and 22:36)

A personal purse for the pastor is also in complete harmony with the evangelical conception of the ministry as set forth in the New Testament. The evangelical conception is ever more the opposite of the sacerdotal or priestly conception. Such priestly conception of the minister led to both celibacy and madiancy! The evangelical conception of the minister makes him a man among men. Such minister is usually the husband of a wife and the head of a family. He is, ideally speaking, a citizen who commands great respect in his city, his town or his county. He is never a beggar nor a parasite. His credit is good in store and bank and that in his own right.

A personal purse is a generator of self-respect and "He that respects himself is safe from others. He wears a coat of mail that none can pierce."

In the second place: The pastor's personal purse is a church provided purse. He should "live of the Gospel." He has neither time nor opportunity to provide his own purse. The pastor's purse should also be an adequately provided purse. Here so many churches have sinned against the pastor, against themselves and against their Lord. The church finances are too often in the hands of "banker minded" deacons. The story is told that a banker-deacon retired from his banking and upon becoming restless because of his inactivity, proceeded to operate a filling station. His first customer happened to be his pastor.

"Give me fifteen," said the pastor. To which the deacon responded, "Couldn't you make it on five?"

The pastor's personal purse should never represent a niggardly provision on the part of his church. It should always be sufficient at least for his needs. Only by such provision can the pastor sustain himself honorably in the sight of the people as a "good minister of Jesus Christ." Certainly every pastor should be above reproach in the matter of meeting his pecuniary obligations.

Dr. Jeff D. Ray urges his students at the seminary where he is located, to give attention to three virtues which are necessary in the lives of successful preachers: first, pay your debts; second, return borrowed books; and third, tell the truth.

Then, the pastor's personal purse should be a dedicated purse. The call to the ministry should never be other than a "purse-and-all call" as well as a "personal call." General Sam Houston exclaimed to Dr. Rufus Burleson as he was retiring from the baptismal waters, "Brother Burleson, you have baptized my purse." Whether seriously said or not in the case of General Houston, every converted and baptized believer should be able to say, "Mine was a purse-and-all conversion." And surely no preacher should think of his personal purse as other than that which he is to use first of all for the advancement of Christ's Cause. The preacher should incline always to the altruistic in the use of his personal purse. A self-seeking pastor, particularly a money-gathering and money-hoarding pastor is not the sort of a leader who can lift his people out of their sordid way of using their God-entrusted means.

And finally, the pastor's personal purse is a budgeted purse. The oft-repeated phrase "business in religion and religion in business" should be a motto for every preacher of the gospel as well as for our laymen. Why should any preacher ever be indifferent to the matter of giving business attention to the administration of his personal purse?

The first entry on the preacher's budget should be the tithe for the Lord. Can the preacher who is not blessed with a good salary do this? Yes, verily, he can and more than that he must if he would lead his people aright.

We preachers need to be afraid not to put God first. We need never fear that we shall lack the things we need if we do. Jesus said, "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these things shall be added unto you." Then, and perhaps in the following order, other items will be listed in the pastor's budget, viz.: family necessities, food, clothing, heat, lights, and rent if no pastor's home is provided; books, magazines, papers (the pastor's tools); taxes, pension dues if there is a retirement plan in effect; life and accident insurance for family protection; emergency expenses on account of sickness, fire insurance; and vacation and recreation. Certainly the pastor will do his "bit" in the matter of benevolences and community enterprise. From the formidable list of budget items one must be impressed with the fact that the pastor must have an adequate personal purse or else . . . ! We will not attempt to draw a picture of his dire condition if his personal purse is stingily provided—or prodigally expended.

The churches are doing far better by their pastors than they did in yester-years; however, many churches have not yet worthily supported their pastors. The thoughtful attention of our churches generally needs to be given to the pointed and profoundly significant words of Dr. W. O. Carver, who said, "The work of the minister is set in the context of eternity and it is to give every church the sense of its relation to things eternal and to the Eternal God, its eternal, infinite significance."

To the pastors who are "the moral and spiritual burden bearers of the human race" should be given freely, ungrudgingly the full measure of material as well as spiritual support by the churches they serve with such willing, self-sacrificing devotion and zeal. See I Corinthians 9:7-11.

Bits of Brethren History Information of Interest

By H. C. Funderburg

(These articles are printed just as they come from the pen of Brother Funderburg.)

"THE MORAVIANS"

HERNHUT, A SMALL TOWN in the Saxon Province, was the original and principal seat of the Moravian Brethren. It was founded in 1722 by Count Zinzendorf. It was a neat, modern-looking town of about one thousand inhabitants. It was like most German towns, built with streets crossing at right angles, and clustered with white houses. In a spacious square stood the little inn; the meeting house; the single Brethren's house and other buildings belonging to the community. The single Sister's house stood near also, facing the lower end, or rather, the front, of the church. Many private families had their own separate houses.

All was extremely neat, clean and profoundly quiet. Few people were at any time seen going to and fro, and such a thing as a child playing in the street was not to be seen. In respect to their education, they were very strict in their notions, and children, like John Wesley, were probably taught to "fear the rod, and cry softly." At all events they were not allowed to play in the streets, and you would hear so little of them playing anywhere that you would be inclined, if you did not meet some, under the care of nurses in the walks and gardens, to believe that there were none, or, as had actually been the case here once, only one child was born in a year. A profound silence hovered over the whole place, and it was amazing that so many active persons should go forth to all parts of the world from a center which seemed the very center of "The realms of Sleep." They called themselves "Life in stillness."

We went through the Brethren's and Sisters' houses and were much interested and pleased with the quietude and neatness of everything. It was really interesting to see in both houses, persons who had been into distant and very different parts of the world—into the hottest and also the coldest regions in the missionary cause, they having been with the Kaffirs or the Esquimaux.

Each community had its common dining room, where all dined, but at three different tables, each at a different rate of charge, in order to accommodate all persons. Poverty among them was no disgrace, except as a result of ignorance or imprudence. Each community had its prayer-room. Music was much cultivated among them. We observed in every room appropriated to public or private worship, an organ or piano, and in every sitting room that we entered was a violin, guitar or a flute.

It was amazing to see the sleeping-rooms of the women, which, like the dining rooms were for general use and stocked with a host of little German beds, each for one person. The women, in their little white muslin caps, had a certain resemblance to Friends, but were distinguished into married and unmarried by ribbons (by which means the caps were tied) of different colors. The young girls had deep red; the unmarried women, pink, the married women blue, and the widows, white or gray.

In the Brethren's house there was a very excellent collection of stuffed birds and other objects of natural history, which missionaries from different countries had enriched by bringing these home with them.

Their churches very much resembled a Friends' Meeting-house. There were no pews, but plain benches. The men and women, like the Friends, sat apart. They had a chair and a desk for the preacher, and an organ, distinguishing the place from a meeting-house of the Friends, indeed, very different to the Friends. They had an intense love for music, and preached, prayed and sang at stated times. The person who presided gave out the hymn, while sitting, and the whole company sang in the same position.

They, too, have their love-feasts, in imitation of the "agape" of the early Christians, at which tea and buns are handed around. Those who entertain any enmity against each other were earnestly warned to absent themselves from the meetings till they have rooted the offense from their hearts. At the close of the communion, each brother renewed his pledge of faithfulness to the Lord, and gave his hand upon it to his fellows. The Brethren kissed one another, and the sisters also did the same thing among themselves.

They could contract marriages by mutual agreement, under the approbation of the Elder, but they also frequently resorted to the lot to determine them, and nothing as more common than for a missionary to send home, requesting them to choose a wife for him, who was thus selected. The damsel upon whom the lot fell had the privilege of declining the match, if she pleased, but, as it was regarded a clear indication of the Will of Providence, it was generally cheerfully acquiesced to, and the young woman would prepare herself, being chosen to go north or south, either to the snowy fields of Labrador or to the burning deserts of Africa. These people declared that scarcely an incident had been known in which the marriage had not been a completely happy one.

—New Carlisle, Ohio.

ABLE TO GIVE PROOF

A great artist was once wandering in the mountains of Switzerland when some officials demanded his passport. "I do not have it with me," he replied, "but my name is Dore."

"Prove it, if you are," replied the officers, knowing of Dore, but not believing that this was he.

Taking a piece of paper, the artist hastily sketched a group of peasants standing near—with such skill and grace that the officials exclaimed, "Enough! You are Dore."

The world about us cares little about what we say we are but it is certainly interested in seeing us prove it. If we are truly Christ's we ought to be able to manifest it by our lives. Our love, grace, beauty and holiness of life ought to prove our affection—not just on Sundays, but every day, at home, at work, anywhere.—Gospel Banner.

Jesus Travels With Me

H. G. Orner

I have a friend who is always nearby,
A Guide and a Keeper is He;
He leads through the troubled pathway of life—
'Tis Jesus who's walking with me.

Tho' the pathway of life may be rugged,
And troubled my journey may be,
I know I shall never once falter—
For Jesus is walking with me.

Tho' the seaway of life be as torrents,
And my sorrows as deep as the sea;
I know that my ship will sail safely—
For Jesus is sailing with me.

And when I shall cross Jordan's river,
'Twill not be a dark voyage for me,
And I will land safe in the Harbor—
For Jesus is sailing with me.

When we enter that golden bright city,
There to dwell through eternity;
We shall meet the dear ones waiting for us—
And see Jesus smiling on me.

Friend, choose the path we have traveled,
Make Jesus your Keeper and Guide;
He will lead you, too, safely to Heaven—
No matter what troubles betide.

—Johnstown Third Church, Johnstown, Pa.

Was It Worth While?

Dot Custer

God gave His only Son we know,
To a world so very full of woe;
He gave His Son that we might live,
What more to us could He give?

With Christ we know we can't go wrong,
He never fails to help us along.
Christ gives us strength to endure all strife,
He also offers eternal life.

Though we have all this from a God so fair,
There are those who do not believe in prayer.
Who shun Christ as they do their tasks,
So was it worth-while for them, I ask?

Was it worth-while God gave His Son,
To a world sin had over-run?
Was it worth-while for Christ to die,
To suffer agony for you and I?

If God were asked, what would He say?
Since there's so much sin on the earth today.

Through His eyes in heaven so bright,
The world must be an awful sight.

If only we would try to prove worthy,
By living for Christ, and not things earthly,
Then God's face would wear a smile,
For giving His Son, will have proved worth-while.
Pittsburgh, Penna.

Happy State of Believers

Mrs. Dale Heeter

Once I was lonely and weary and sad,
Not noting God's beauty about—
'Till Jesus said He would come into my heart,
And then all the gloom was cast out.

With His joy and peace now filling my life
Old things passed away; all was new—
The hills, trees and fields all united in praise,
And told of the Father they knew.

With all of this beauty 'longside of this path
(Being dead to the things of the past)
I would not at all change the walk Heavenward
Where it all forever will last.

—North Manchester, Indiana.

We Live Today

"Those good old days of yesteryear!"
How bright they shine in retrospect—
But "Oh, so dumb," when here.

Those fine old times of grandpa's bliss
Nor "turn the trick" in this,
Can never meet the present need
When big bad wolves are everywhere.
They frighten with a ghastly grin,
Till we no longer dare
To face dark times, and now confess
We're needing grit and sturdy hearts
For tackling modern mess.

We need stout hearts for modern days,
That dare to meet our groggy world
And struggle 'gainst its ways,
Till men turn back to God and truth
With loyal, glad acclaim, in all
The vim of vibrant youth
Who run their race with noble zeal
And falter not for lack of praise
From silent lips aseal.

No "good old times of yesteryear"
Can solve the squeeze of modern days;
We live in time that's here!

—Rev. John Nickerson.

BURNING TRUTH

By Charles Emory Byers

"Be noble; and the nobleness that lies
In other men, sleeping but never dead,
Will rise in majesty to meet thine own."

—James Russell Lowell.

Words and inspirations are contagious. Courage in one inspires it in others. An example of nobility in one person prompts a thousand to follow in his path. Humanity is often better than we think, its better traits being deeply hidden beneath an exterior that looks barren of any trace of greatness or generosity. Then when some noble deed is done, some noble quality exhibited, that same quality is resurrected from a lonely spot in the hearts of hundreds of people in which no nobility was even suspected.

Our good qualities need bracers. Just as a pack of wolves are held at bay by a desperate stag until one, braver than the rest, comes out from the pack and attacks then all the others spring on the helpless deer, so men follow the same pattern. They balk at a proposition that is tough until one plunges in, then the rest follow. His bravery was contagious and it awakened that bravery in others.

When some noble cause waits for a champion we usually find at least one person brave enough to attempt it. When the abolition of slavery was unpopular even in New England—there was such a time—one man had the courage to espouse it. His name was William Lloyd Garrison of Boston. So fierce was the opposition that a mob took him from his printing office by force, smashed his printing press and dragged him through the streets of his native city by the hair, and left him for dead. Many others took courage from his example and the cause grew until the sentiment of all New England was swayed to the cause that Garrison had espoused. It awoke the sleeping nobility in others and they responded with alerted courage. Right or wrong it turned out to be a matter of conviction.

Associates have a marked influence on one, hence it is most important to ally oneself with those who are noble in character. We catch courage from the brave, ambition from those who are ambitious, patience from those who possess that quality, and so on through the whole gamut of human characteristics.

It has been said that the presence of Napoleon on the field of battle was worth as much as a hundred thousand soldiers. The qualities of his magnetic personality were contagious.

The opposite is also true. Fear and panic starting with one person can start a stampede of frightful proportions doing untold damage to life and property. Anger and jealousy beget anger and jealousy.

A noble man is a perpetual sermon. Thousands are prompted to nobleness by pondering on his traits of character. The world's great personalities are its saviors. They evoke nobleness in wavering minds which come in range of their influence.

THE CROSS AND PEACE

"Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee." Isaiah 26:3.

AT FIRST THOUGHT the idea of linking the cross with the establishment of peace seems utterly incongruous. The cross is spoken of as dividing the world. It is an instrument of torture, and it would seem impossible to link it with the establishment or maintenance of peace and harmony among men.

But a second sober thought will remind us that through the death of Christ upon the cross God was reconciling the world unto himself, making arrangements for establishing peace between Himself and men. On the cross God's Son was slain for man's sin, and when men gaze upon the cross with that fact in mind the cross becomes not an instrument of revulsion and horror, but the proof of God's forgiving love.

During the second World War, Quincy Atchison, a well known Englishman received word that his son had been killed in action. The father was stunned by the message, and left his home and walked the city streets almost utterly unaware of the movements and sounds about him. He was numb with grief. After awhile he found himself in a small London Chapel, where he sat staring into space. Eventually he became aware that he was looking at the Cross in the chancel—an empty Cross. And then he remembered—God gave the life of His only begotten Son for others.

And as Mr. Atchison leaned back in the pew he became aware of another fact in connection with the cross. It was an empty Cross at which he had been gazing. And an empty Cross was the prophecy of a resurrection. "This same Jesus whom ye see going up into heaven shall in like manner come again." Would his son live again? Almost as if it had been a personal message to him came the assurance of the resurrection. The angel at the tomb had said, "He is not here, He is risen," and as Quincy Atchison looked at the empty Cross the message of resurrection came to him, and he took new courage. "Because I live, ye, too, shall live," said Jesus, and doubt and despair flee away when we see the cross in its true light, and we find peace and quiteness in our contemplation of the empty Cross.

—Linwood, Maryland.

God hath not promised skies always blue, flower-strewn pathways all our lives through. God hath not promised sun without rain, joy without sorrow, peace without pain. But God hath promised strength for the day, rest for the laborer, light on the way; grace for the trial, help from above, unfailing sympathy, undying love.—Annie Johnson Flint.

Prayer and fasting form the two edged sword that gets the victory.

Oakville, Indiana. Brother Henry Bates comment on the Easter Sunday School attendance is short and to the point: "Had the largest Sunday School and morning attendance in recent years."

Already the newly organized Laymen's Organization at Oakville have made and published their yearly program. That speaks well for the men of Oakville. They are right on the job and getting ready to do real things for the kingdom.

Miami Valley Laymen. The Miami Valley Laymen held their meeting in the Town Hall at West Alexandria, Ohio, on Monday evening, April 18th. Mr. C. R. Coblenz, Superintendent of the Public Schools of Preble County was the guest speaker.

Nappanee, Indiana. We note that the Nappanee church had a Family Get-together and Fellowship meeting on Friday evening, April 22nd. It was a "Fish Fry" and they expected an attendance of 300.

Mexico, Indiana. We note that Brother Robert Higgins, pastor of the Mexico church, was the speaker at the Baccalaureate services at Chili, Indiana on Sunday, April 24th, at the 2:00 o'clock hour and at the Denver Baptist Church at 8:00 P. M.

Mexico's Spring Communion date is set as of May 29th. Surrounding churches are invited to take part.

Plans are being made to erect an out-door furnace on the Mexico Church Lawn, to be used for picnics and parties.

Lanark, Illinois. An Easter breakfast was served in the Lanark church following the Sunrise service. At the service a play, "Mine Eyes Have Seen Him," was given.

Huntington, Indiana. Brother C. Y. Gilmer reports 68 present for their Easter Sunrise service; 65 for the breakfast; 105 for Sunday School, and 120 for the morning worship service. The Men's Chorus sang for the morning service. Thirty-seven were present for the communion service.

Brother Gilmer reports the reception of three, all heads of families at Easter time.

The church has decided to carpet the aisles and platform at a cost of nearly $500.00.

For Addition to your Annual. The following information has been received from Brother Ed Miller: "The name and present address of the newly placed pastor at Cumberland, Maryland, is Rev. Bruce C. Shanholtz, Levels, West Virginia. Some time in the near future he will be moving closer to his Cumberland Charge. He has purchased a home in Ridgeley, just across the river from Cumberland. They are really nice folks and we bespeak a good work by this brother in the Cumberland Church. Already he has them on the way to redecoration work and some $600.00 are in hand now for that program."

Let's Talk About Offering Returns

This week we have received in the Publishing Office, offerings which were ear-marked for "Benevolences," "Foreign Missions," "The College," and others. This causes a great deal of confusion. The editor just had to endorse a check which was made out to "The Editor of the Brethren Evangelist" but which was sent to the Missionary Board for Foreign Missions. May we again list the ones to whom offerings are to be sent:

Publication Day Offerings—Make check payable to The Brethren Publishing Company and send to the Brethren Publishing Co., 524 College Avenue, Ashland, Ohio.

Press Fund—make checks as above and send as above. Be sure to say it is for "The Press Fund."

Benevolent Offering—Make checks payable to L. V. King, Treasurer, and send to L. V. King, 1101 Middlebury St., Elkhart, Indiana.

Foreign Missions (Easter Offering)—Make checks payable to The Missionary Board of The Brethren Church, and send to The Brethren Missionary Board, 524 College Avenue, Ashland, Ohio.

White Gift Offering—Make checks payable to M. A. Stuckey, Treasurer, and send to him, Ashland College, Ashland, Ohio.

Youth Offering—Coming up May 15th—Make checks payable to "Brethren Youth" and send to L. E. Lindower, Treasurer, 520 Samaritan Avenue., Ashland, Ohio.

If the above is adhered to there will be little or no confusion in the crediting of these accounts.

The Church is the great family; converts are given her, as children to their parents. These babes in Christ must be appropriately cared for. They are not to be left to starve or chill and die under neglect. Converts leave their old companions and pleasures in sin, and must find others in the Church. The Church must be a kind, sympathizing, devoted and faithful parent to all her children. She, as well as the Christian parent, should be able to present herself before the Judge of all in the reckoning day, saying, "Here am I and the children Thou hast given me. Not one of them is lost."—Selected.

WE MUST BE THE WORLD WE WANT

Scripture: Ephesians 6:10-17

For The Leader

THIS SUBJECT tonight is the answer to people who do a lot of complaining about the way things are in the world, but do nothing about it. If we don't like the way things are going, then we ourselves must set out to change the course. In other words, if we Christian young people are dissatisfied with the bad conditions in the world, we must work by example and deed to improve them. Paul gives to us the system in our scripture. We must be well equipped, trained and in good condition to battle against the forces of evil. Battle, did you say? Yes, if you are going to amount to anything in your Christian life, it will be the result of a constant battle against the evil which confronts you. As a field soon returns to weeds and briars when left to itself, so a people, society, or an individual returns to evil if the good is not continually cultivated.

DISCUSSION

1. POOR SOLDIERS OF THE LORD. We have in mind a young man whom we have not known too long, but long enough to know that he is not measuring up. This young man has a good job, a car; and there you have said it all. As we see him in action, we cannot help but wonder at the way he is wasting his life, for he does have talent if it were dedicated to the Lord. He never attends church, although he is a member of a church. He is more interested in spending his money to drive the car, and keeping company with girls until the early hours of the morning. That is his life. Yet he will be one of the first to kick if his way of life should destroy all that is right and decent and law abiding in the country. Far better if he were to mend his ways, reconsecrate his life to Christ and devote his extra time and money to helping the cause of Christ. Then life would be better for all.

2. FREEDOM. Freedom comes only as we exercise it. We want a life in which we can come and go as we desire, have enough of this world's goods to keep body and soul in one unit, and be able to worship as we desire. But if that is to be the case, we must do the things which work for freedom, and overcome the things which would destroy it. We cannot shout freedom and then forsake the church which maintains and preaches freedom. There is a responsibility there for each of us. We must break the shackles of sin's power over hearts if we are to have a continuance of spiritual freedom. There is no freedom outside of Jesus Christ. Following the Christ guarantees perfect freedom to love God and our fellowmen.

3. THE IDEAL MUST BE NOURISHED. All of us know what we want in this land. We are not always willing to pay the cost. It is not possible for us to pray for the things we desire, and then drop to a lower level of conduct and thought. If we want all the joys of Christian liberty and protection, we must live that kind of a life. Don't think for a moment that God is forgetting the evil in which He finds many of His professed children. God's just being merciful to us. There is no reference in our scriptures to the effect that we can acclaim His way of life and then go out and indulge in the sinful way of life. We are to be constantly striving to become better. "Grow in grace" as Paul says.

4. SOCIETY WILL BE WHAT WE ARE. We are helping the world to become whatever we are doing. That is no double talk statement. But every influence we exert is being impressed upon others. So, study your course in life. Is it your desire that everybody do the things you are doing? Your parents, your brothers and sisters, your pastor and family, your neighbors? Would you want your future children to act like you are doing? They will, unless you mend your ways. Then, turn it around; would you not rather that everybody live better, overcoming the evil things of life? Then be that kind of a person yourself. One for the Lord is one less for the Devil. It is God's blessing upon those who are striving to live decently that is holding this old world together. But, society rocks and reeks with sin (and it may be closer to your own life than you'd admit) and unless we reconvert to decency, the fate is evident.

5. TAKE THIS YOUNG MAN. For instance, take the young man we mentioned earlier. Let him continue his present course, what will he have? If the Lord lets him live, he will soon have a broken, dissipated body. His job will be gone, so will his money and car. Then his girl friends will leave him, and he will possess nothing but ruin. Thus to eke out a painful, godless life, going to that kind of a Hell. God is no respecter of persons, and the same holds true for all who live in sin. Even though a member of your church; that won't mean a snap of the finger when you are called to accounting before God. Somewhere, there has been foisted upon people the heresy that we can live like we please and all will enter into havn at th last. The word of God says, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." It does not differentiate between the soul which is a church member or one that is not. "Be not deceived, God is not mocked; whatsoever you sow, that's what you're going to reap." Yes, if you want to gain heaven when you die, you must live that kind of a life on earth. We must be the Life we want. Let's strive to always uphold the Christian ideals, virtue, decency, godliness with power, and love for God and mankind.

QUESTIONS

1. What is your definition of a "Christain nation?" How would you go about making such a nation? Is such a nation possible, theoretically or actually?

2. Actually, what makes a society a better society? Is it better laws, better living conditions, more work, or what? Think carefully on this one, and then put your conclusion into practice!

Every seed that sprouts, every flower that unfolds, every plant that matures, is a miracle of God, designed to help mankind.

OUR PART IN PRAYER

Some go to God in prayer
As though they would be heard
By merit of their earnestness
Or power of their word;
As though God did not want to bless
Or to their crying heed,
But might be influenced to hear
If they could prove their need.

Some go to God in prayer
With broken, bleeding hearts,
Craving the peace and victory
Which He alone imparts.
They lay their burdens down
On shoulders that are strong,
Then take them back upon their own
And carry them along.

Some humbly talk to God;
Confess their helplessness,
And, having laid their burdens down
Trust Him to do the rest.
Such go away in peace
And with the victor's shout,
To watch with interest and see
How He will work things out.

ENLARGING OUR PRAYERS TO THE ALMIGHTY GOD

Scriptures: Psalm 81:10; Mark 11:22-25

Hymns on "Prayer"

Prayers of Faith for Definite Things

Seed Thought Provokers:

GOD INVITES US to make large prayers—not necessarily long prayers (Psa. 81:10). We pray as though we do not want to impose on God, and we fail to give Him a chance to show what He can do. It is great prayers that interest the Almighty God. "Open your mouth wide" means to make a BIG request. He is not talking about filling the mouth for speaking. He commands that we ask for something worthy of His magnanimous willingness to give. Our unbelieving, infidel praying is displeasing unto God. We ought to be loaded with plenty of prayer burdens. We need not be sorry to bother the Lord—as though it were hard for Him to supply our needs. He has all resources, and plenty of everything (Jer. 32:27, 17; 33:3).

It is a wicked sin of infidelity to complain because we do not have, and at the same time refuse to ask (Jas. 4:2). We should ask enough to honor God's promises and His great name. God has so much to give, and we ask for so little! (Rom. 8:32). How much of all Heaven's wealth have you ever drawn? God is not stingy, nor poor, nor His arm shortened that He cannot help. "O ye of little faith!" "Open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it." The little bird in the nest that opens his mouth the widest gets nearly all the food. You can open your mouth as wide as any. God has plenty for all. May the Lord forgive us for not asking for more! "HAVE faith in God" That is a command. Ask God for faith (Mark 9:24). Find out what God has promised (Rom. 10:17). Get close to God. Try Him (Mal. 3:10). Step out on faith and He will not let you down (Heb. 4:16). Pray for whatever you want (Mark 11:24; Phil. 4:6; Psa. 37:4; John 14:13, 14). God wants our confidence (1 John 5:14, 15). Take God into every secret of your heart (1 John 3:21, 22).

Take everything to Him in prayer.

JESUS' TEACHING ON THE JUDGMENT

Lesson: Mark 13:1-2, 28-37

NO ONE likes to think of "The Judgment Day," for it is a day of finality—at that time nothing can be changed either for good or for ill. Moreover it is a day that each and every individual soul must face—and face alone—before God, the Great Judge. Paul says, in II Corinthians 5:10, "For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that everyone may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad." (A.V.) Goodspeed translates that verse this way, "For we must all appear in our true characters before the tribunal of Christ, each to be repaid with good or evil for the life he has lived in the body." And Weymouth puts it thus, "For we must all of us appear before Christ's judgment seat in our true light, in order that each may receive an award for his actions in this life, in accordance with what he has done, whether it be good or bad."

It is this judgment that Jesus is talking about in our lesson today. For between verses 2 and 28 (those which intervene between the two parts of our printed text) we will find His discourse on the signs of His coming again and the end of the world.

The Christian should not fear, in any way, the judgment to come. For if he keeps his faith in Christ as the Son of God; backs up his belief with his life—in attitudes, living and activities—at all times; is continually obedient to the will of the Master: in other words, becomes and remains a genuine Christian (and too much emphasis cannot be laid on that word "remains")—then he need have no fear when he arrives at the "judgment seat of Christ." In the words of Jesus as found recorded in John 5:24, "... he that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life."

But we must remember: To believe on God and in Jesus the Christ, means much more than merely giving assent to the fact. "To believe" really means in its original, "to trust implicitly," or "to take hold on by faith." One must not only believe on, but grasp and hold to with all tenacity, never letting go. That is why Jesus tells the little parable in verse 34 of our lesson. Note it.

A careful reading of this verse draws our attention to one specific word—"Watch." A Christian should ever be on his guard. Paul covers it in Ephesians 5:15, 16, where he writes, "See that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise, redeeming the time, because the days are evil." "Circumspectly"—that is, looking all around you on every side; around the whole circle that encompasses you; being on your guard at all times.

Therefore, we can safely assume that the teaching of Jesus on the judgment is given that He might inspire trust and confidence in His disciples concerning Himself, and at the same time warn them to be constantly on their guard lest they be led into paths of error which, in the end, could lead them to an adverse decree as they stand before His judgment seat.

The importance of the Coming of Christ the second time is not so much found in the "when" or the "how"—but as to whether His followers are "watching" and "waiting" for His appearance. We become our own judges by our words and deeds. For before the judgment seat we will have no "excuse" to offer. But we will have there an Advocate to make intercession for us—if we are His.

SCRIPTURE LESSON: ACTS 9:1-9

PRAISE AND PRAYER

DEVOTIONAL STUDY: "RESPONDING TO VISIONS"

ONE OF THE WISEST MEN of all time, Solomon, once said (Proverbs 29:16) "Where there is no vision, the people perish." And that is why it is a wise thing to respond to Christ early in life. As we get acquainted with Him, we get acquainted with God the Father. Christ's purpose in coming to earth was to give us a vision of God and of heavenly things.

Life has very little meaning for us when we think of God as something far removed, as something intangible, as something unable to be reached, or as someone who has no interest in us as persons. But Jesus Christ, the Son of God, came to give us a close acquaintance with God. In Christ we learn that God is all-powerful, all-knowing, all-seeing, and that His love is such that it extends to all who will receive it. It is this knowledge of God in our lives, through the vision that we have received in Jesus Christ, that makes us willing to commit our lives to Him. It is this vision of Him that causes us to want to please Him in all things. It is this knowledge that we possess that makes us trust God to such an extent that life has no purpose for us except as it has that purpose in Him.

This knowledge of God is what caused the early Christians to be so enthusiastic in their Christian lives. Peter and Paul and James and others were willing to go anywhere and to do anything in order that the Gospel might be preached. Paul wrote in 2 Corinthians 5:14 "The love of Christ constraineth us"—in other words—there was nothing else that they could do; they had learned to love Christ so much that there was just no other possible response to Him but to do as he required.

We might find a very limited picture of this love if we can imagine a young man who is shiftless and lazy and not to be depended on, offering his love to a young woman of highest character and noblest ideals. Because of his love for her, and because of her high standards of life, he makes effort to overcome his shiftless, lazy ways, and seeks in every possible way to be thought of as dependable. If we can take this simple illustration and multiply it many times—we still will have only a very poor comparison of the great love that Christ offers us. When His love is offered to us, we feel that we want to grow more like Him, and the transforming power of that love makes us want to commit our lives completely to Him.

Saul of Tarsus gives us a good picture of this transforming love. He had opposed bitterly the spreading of the Gospel—even standing by with satisfaction when Stephen was stoned. But on the road to Damascus he got a vision of Christ and that incident in his life changed him completely not only for the rest of his life, but through all of eternity. And think of the powerful influence that incident had on others—thousands of millions of others—and upon you and me. What was his response? (And don't think that you can have a vision of the Lord and not respond. That vision will change your life as nothing else can.) He immediately asked: "Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?"

His vision—a heavenly vision—bound him fast to a life of suffering—he had to do without many things—he was often lonely and friendless—yet he did have a Friend—the Lord of Life was more to him than anything else that he might have been asked to give up. When he was finally led out of his place of captivity by Roman soldiers, to a Roman execution, he was led forth, but not alone, for Christ, the Friend who stands by closer than a brother, went with him to the place where his head was cut off. The Romans thought they were punishing him for disobedience to their customs—but actually they were liberating him for eternity from a life of loneliness and suffering and earthly troubles—and opening up to him new visions of glory and blessing which heaven alone offers to man.

Paul received these blessings because he had a vision to which he responded. This response made the love of Christ available to him in such a way that he could never otherwise have known it. And still more, he got an intimate, personal acquaintance with God the Father.

There is no more manly act that an individual can do than to yield himself completely to the love of One who loved each one of us so much that He was willing to die on Calvary for us. Have your eyes been opened to the heavenly vision?

Has the love of Christ begun its transforming work in you? Have you committed your way to Him in all things?

—Rev. John T. Byler, Louisville, Ohio.

New Pastor Installed

On Tuesday, April fifth, the members of the Southeastern District Ministerial Board: C. S. Fairbanks, J. F. Locke and E. L. Miller, journeyed to Cumberland, Maryland, for the purpose of approving and installing the Rev. Bruce Shanholtz into the pastorate of the Cumberland church. Brother Shanholtz had been an ordained minister of the Church of the Brethren and had held a pastorate near Levels, West Virginia. He and his good wife were moving their membership to the Cumberland Brethren church and they were both so received that same evening. Brother Shanholtz had been serving the Cumberland church on a part time basis for about five months prior to his reception into the ministry of the Brethren Church. He made a fine impression on the Board, as he already had on the church at Cumberland. The Shanholtzes have two children, a son of twelve and a daughter of eight.

The installation and reception proper was in charge of E. L. Miller, chairman of the Board. First the brother and sister were received into membership in the church, and then brother Shanholtz' credentials were approved and hands were laid on and the prayer of installation was offered by pastor Miller. Immediately thereafter Pastor Locke gave the charge to the new pastor. Then a song and after that pastor Fairbanks delivered the charge to the congregation. Both these messages were able presentments of the obligations of pastor and church.

The members of the Board along with Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Locke and the Shanholtz family were entertained at supper in the Beachley home. And it was indeed some entertainment. Thanks to Brother and Sister Beachley for their gracious hospitality. Then after the evening services the Board members started for home and got only four or five miles on the way when they ran into the heaviest and stickiest snow fall they had ever experienced. It was a last shot of winter and a bad one. But after some delay and slow driving, all arrived home safely. Our prayers now go out for the work at Cumberland and for the new brother in our midst. May God bless and prosper them.

News From Our Churches

REVIVAL AT NEW LEBANON, OHIO

It was a great joy for me to serve with the New Lebanon Brethren Church in a two weeks revival service. The desire and prayer of the pastor and members was that souls might be brought to Christ and that the church be built up in the Holy Faith. The song leader and the evangelist joined the pastor and his people in this request for souls.

On March the 7th our revival started. The attendance was good from the first night; the spirit of fellowship prevailed, and I felt that God was there working with us from the opening of the service. In preparation for the revival several of the members met for prayer several times before the revival started. They prayed with definiteness, reading the names of about 100 persons whom they presented before the Lord and praying for their salvation. Though I was a stranger to most of the people there, yet I felt at home in the atmosphere of prayer and unity. It was easy to preach in an assembly where the pastor and people were pulling on the oars of life with you, and holding-up your weak hands before the Lord in prayer.

The congregational singing led by Brother "Bud" Hunter of North Manchester, Indiana; the good Choir, and Brother "Bud's" Solos were wonderful stepping-stones for the entering into the Gospel message. I can say that Brother "Bud" was a good helper to me in the services, and I enjoyed working with him. Brother Hunter and John Eck also went among the people of New Lebanon and vicinity visiting and inviting the people to come to church; while Brother Berkshire and I went to others, such visitation brought us several more in attendance.

I had my home with Brother and Sister Frank Burd, members of the Church. These kind folks did everything for my pleasure and comfort. I was made as one of the family, their home was as my own, and anything they had in food, room and comfort was given me. It was a real joy to me to stay with them. They were old home folks, with confidence in prayer, knowing that their Father would hear and answer them. Both Brother and Sister Burd are very fine folks and my stay with them will be long in my memory.

In my visit among the Brethren there I can say of them that they were real old fashioned home folks. Their cooking was of the finest, and I found it very hard to push away from the table as early as I ought to do. All I met were very kind and loving and ready to share their very best.

Their organist, pianist and choir did a splendid work in our Revival, and Sister Berkshire's violin added much to the music.

It was a pleasure to me to have Brother Wm. S. Crick and several of his members from Gratis visit with us and they repeated the visit which was very kind of them.

I was glad to see Brother H. R. Garland and several of his folks from West Alexandria visit with us. The Garlands sang us a duet. We enjoyed it. I thank these kind folks for coming to hear me with all the other good things put in for good measure.

I had the sweetest of fellowship with the pastor, Rev. W. Clayton Berkshire, whose record as a pastor and preacher is above the average. He is highly esteemed among the members and also among the people in the vicinity. I heard the best record of the whole family. The people all around there think a great deal of Brother and Sister Berkshire and their sweet little children. Everybody seems to love the children. May I say Brethren, that the requirements of St. Paul in First Timothy Chapter 3, verses 1-8, seems to be to be truly observed in Clayton Berkshire's family. I can truly say that. It was a great joy to me to learn to know Brother Clayton Berkshire intimately—he is a brother indeed.

The remuneration for services rendered was far more than I expected and more than I thought deserving. My appreciation for this kindness is the fullest of "Thank you Brethren."

I again wish to thank the kind members and pastor for all the kind deeds done to and for me, and may say that the memory of these two weeks of services with the New Lebanon Brethren and their pastor will remain in my mind as a sweet omen of good things on the way of life.

My prayer is that, God's choice blessings may rest upon each of you day by day and that you may stand before the Master in that Day with His favours upon you, and to an endless joy with Him.

My wish and prayer for the New Lebanon Brethren Church and its pastor is that they may grow in favor with God and man, and to the fullest growth of the Brethren Church in New Lebanon, Ohio. May the Great God and Saviour Jesus Christ grant you "that peace which passeth all understanding" Now, and in Eternity, that you may reign with Him.

Lovingly in the Master's service, your servant,

S. E. Christiansen,

So. Bedford Street Ext., Georgetown Delaware.

DUTCHTOWN, INDIANA

It is rather difficult to know just what should be said in a church report. It is said, "No news, is good news." Perhaps "No news" wouldn't be information to the group of churches that make up the Brotherhood. So perhaps jotting down some happenings is the general order of the writer.

Off hand I think most Brethren Churches are urban. That makes for a larger field, if not in extent, then in content. However, country churches are usually limited in extent as well as content. We are no exception to the rule as far as rural churches are concerned.

I think the objective of all churches generally is—Take the Gospel to their own communities and then on and out to the world. We know that method was used by primitive Christians and therefore a good pattern to have.

Dutchtown is really very active in evangelizing the vicinity of the Church. The geographical boundaries are not extensive. Baptist, Methodist, and the Church of the Brethren Houses of Worship are within three miles of our Church.

Since the Rededication last October the Church has added services making all departments full time. Many workers are required to do overtime duty which may be good for all of us. Is it not true we may be hankering after too many vacations?

The basement is swarming with youngsters, a bright prospect for the future of our church. The young married people's class is overcrowded. What more would you want?

Beginning February 28 and until March 4, we had a week of Bible Institute work. Rev. Willis Ronk drove over from Goshen each evening to be the instructor. Two sessions were held at each meeting. This institute was very profitable for the Church, especially to those who so recently united with the Church and were without Brethren background. We need to emphasize the special teachings of the Church, if we want the Brethren Church to stand. If we have an over and beyond message, let's emphasize it. During the past year, we have received into the Church 18 new members by baptism and have at least six that are coming by transfer of membership. We are arranging now for our vacation Bible School. We are expecting a team of "Crusaders" to assist us.

W. E. Overholtser.

AKRON, INDIANA, CO-OPERATIVE BRETHREN

In May, 1947 we accepted a call from this church to be their pastor. We only accepted after much hesitation. We had resigned our leadership with the Loree Brethren in March, and our work with our home church at College Corner was to terminate the following October first. The load had been extremely heavy. We attempted to care for, as best we could, two rather large country churches and also to serve as a teacher-principal in the grade school work. This was during and immediately following war and ration days. God gave us several souls and many true friends. We thank Him for strength and courage to carry on. Sometimes the human heart is so heavy that it must be quiet and be proved. Those who have labored in this kind of a situation will understand.

On Sunday, June 15, 1947, we were installed as pastor of this Co-operative Work. We shared time until October 1st with the College Corner Church, then began full time work here. These brethren desired a minister who could devote as much time as possible, who still had another income to supplement that of the church. On September 1st we moved into the newly purchased parsonage, located next door north of the church. Our school work is located five miles south.

God had providentially opened the opportunity and way for the purchase of this house. Very reluctantly a building fund was used with which to purchase this property. A very much interested brother—a deacon of the church—offered to loan $2,500.00 for five years without interest, to complete the price of the parsonage. Immediately after possession was secured, work was begun by the brethren themselves in a remodeling program. Several outside doors were closed; windows changed; kitchen completely made over with built-in cabinets, kitchen sink and lavatory; new paper in several rooms; paint, new electric wiring, a new electric water heater, an electric furnace control and many other additions and changes made. Surely it was a mess, but good things come that way. We look forward to other improvements as time and money permits.

Attendance in the Sunday School and church services were not too good. The building was in great need of remodeling and additions. Immediately, or as soon as possible, plans were made to re-build up a fund for building. Our policy has been to keep out of debt if possible and practical. Early in the spring of 1948, we started to dig a basement. Only a space just large enough for a furnace and coal bin existed. We now have a full basement with our furnace converted into an oil burner. While the basement needs a ceiling, we use it for classes in our growing Sunday School work.

Plans call for a new roof and redecorating of the interior this summer, if possible. Later, the Lord willing, a new entrance and other improvements will be built.

This church is located in a challenging field. Akron is a town of one thousand people, with two other strong churches. Our Sunday School has nearly doubled in members.

From February 28th through March 13th, Rev. Leonard Custer, a farmer-pastor of the Church of the Brethren, held a revival meeting for us. Our son, Arthur, Jr., and his wife had charge of the music. Their work was much appreciated. God gave us fine Gospel messages. A harvest field was waiting, ripe, and as a result twenty-six decisions were made for Christ and the church. Fifteen adults, including thirteen heads of families; seven high school students, and four children. Seventeen have been received into church membership. Eleven were baptized on March 20th. Others await baptism and reception into the church. We believe only a beginning has been made. Oh, for the grace of God, patience and strength to carry on! The problems are sky-high. Victory belongs to the faithful.

We have had to give all our time and strength to the local work. Not even Jesus in the flesh could be everywhere and do everything. Sometimes I wonder if our work isn't so scattered that God really gets very little but the "leavings."

Last summer we spent a week with Brother Woodrow Brant and others at Lost Creek, Kentucky. All we can do for Lost Creek and those faithful workers there will not be nearly enough. Surely there is a worthy people and field. Also we taught for another week in a local community Bible School. Space and time will not permit me to tell of the many other activities, opportunities and needs. Brethren, we covet only an interest in your prayers and good will.

Arthur H. Tinkel, pastor.

REVIVAL AT MASONTOWN, PENNA.

It was my happy privilege to be with the Masontown Brethren for a two weeks' meeting from March 21st to April 3rd. This happiness is greatly increased by the fact that their pastor, Rev. Freeman Ankrum, held a two week revival at my former pastorate in Vandergrift, Penna., just one year ago, just prior to my coming to Berlin, Penna. Masontown now means more to me than just a spot on the map. I shall always follow, with more than passing interest, the work in Masontown. Rev. Ankrum and his good wife and daughter were the best of help all during the campaign. It was a REAL pleasure and inspiration to work with them.

We found here a very enthusiastic group ready for the revival. Many went two by two into various homes urging their attendance at the services and their acceptance of Christ as their Lord and Savior. There were sixteen services held during the two weeks and on the last evening we found that sixteen had attended every service, and six had missed only one service. The constancy and seriousness on the part of those who came would gladden the heart of any evangelist. The choir gave us valuable assistance and certainly here is a place where they are not in want for pianists. There were several pianists on hand to render their services.

It seems that two weeks was all too short. The working power of the Holy Spirit seemed to blossom out in the middle of the second week. The confessions that were made and the moves that were taken toward a closer walk with the Lord made the revival effort more than worthwhile.

The graciousness of the Masontown Brethren would challenge any section of our brotherhood. There were more places to go and more good things to eat than we could manage. The writer was most comfortably housed during the two weeks in the parsonage with Rev. Ankrum and his family. Here is a parsonage that the Masontown brethren are proud of, and rightly so, for it is possibly one of the most modern parsonages in the denomination, having been just recently dedicated.

We were honored during the two weeks with several delegations: two from Berlin, and one each from Meyersdale, and Uniontown, Penna., and Cameron, W. Va. I want to take this opportunity to thank these good brethren for their most generous offering. It certainly showed that the humble efforts of the evangelist were greatly appreciated.

With a good plant, church and parsonage, and a godly and efficient family in the parsonage, this church should prosper in the Lord. May the blessing of God rest upon them.

I shall not soon forget the visit with the people of Masontown and await the week of District Conference in Masontown to see them again.

Percy C. Miller, Berlin, Penna.

INTERESTING ITEMS

Oakville, Indiana. We quote from Brother Henry Bates' bulletin of April 24: "We really went 'over the top' last Sunday with the largest attendance in recent years. There were comparatively few visitors or 'strangers'—which means that the great majority were the more active members." They are still working for that 150 by '50.

North Manchester, Indiana. We note from the North Manchester bulletins that there was a splendid attendance and interest in the Pre-Easter services. During that time some came by confession and some by letter. There were also reconsecrations.

We note that on Sunday, April 24 that six were received by letter and that twenty-three were received by baptism and the laying on of hands. There were also seven reconsecrations. A service of consecration of children was also held at which time seven little ones were presented to the Lord by their parents.

We note also that our National Woman's Missionary Society President, Mrs. U. J. Shively, was the guest speaker on Friday evening, May 6th, at the May Fellowship of the Council of Church Women in North Manchester.

We are informed that there were 335 in attendance at the North Manchester services on Easter Sunday and 244 on Sunday, April 24th.

Stockton, Calif. Brother C. E. Johnson, pastor at Stockton, reports that they had a wonderful day on Easter Sunday, with Brother E. M. Riddle, General Missionary Secretary, as the speaker. Brother Riddle also spoke at Stockton on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, April 20-22, and at both services, morning and evening on Sunday, April 24th. We note from Brother Johnson's bulletin that Brother Riddle also spoke at our Lathrop church on Monday and Tuesday evenings, April 18 and 19. They are keeping him busy out there in California.

Milledgeville, Illinois. Brother D. C. White reports that on Easter Sunday they had a wonderful day. Beginning at the rising of the sun for the early morning service, the day was well begun. Brother White reports that the Sunday School attendance was the largest of the year and that the morning worship service will long linger in their memories. Dr. Eshleman, guest speaker, brought a message on "The Upper Room." At a service of consecration for children, eleven were presented by their parents. In the afternoon four were led into the baptismal waters. A fine C. E. Service, followed by their Spring Communion ended a wonderful day of inspiration.

Gratis, Ohio. Brother Crick tells us that the Laymen of the church were in charge of the morning service on March 27th. The guest speaker was the Hon. Lloyd Bennett, a former Probate Court Judge of Preble County. W. E. Andrews, president of the Laymen's Organization, was in charge of the service. The offering of the morning was to go toward the purchase of a Station Wagon for the Lost Creek, Kentucky, Mission.

Meyersdale, Penna. Brother W. S. Benshoff, Meyersdale pastor, says, that the progress of redecoration has been going along in fine shape. The membership is joining in the "clean up" process and we expect that by the time you read this the church will be all bright and shining.

Our church at Meyersdale joined with the other churches of the city in their Good Friday services. Seven of the ministers of the city spoke and much special music was rendered. Our church observed the Communion Service in the evening of that day.

We note that two more were received into membership at the Meyersdale Church on Palm Sunday, which made a total of twelve for the month.

Johnstown, Penna. Third. We note from Brother D. Richard Wolfe's bulletin, that a fine cantata was rendered by the young people on Sunday evening, April 17. It was in charge of Mrs. Mariam Stutzman and Mrs. Rita Golby. It was a musical presentation.

Concerning Brother George H. Jones. Word came to the editor a few days ago that Brother Jones is back in Johnstown at his old address—671 Cypress Avenue, Johnstown, Pa. He says he is gradually recovering from his accident.

West Alexandria, Ohio. We note that the West Alexandria Brethren had a host of talent for their evangelistic meetings. Brother W. C. Berkshire, pastor of our New Lebanon, Ohio, church, helped with their singing a part of the time. Their Evangelist was Rev. W. E. Thomas, brother of our pastor at Mulvane, Kansas, Brother Wilbur Thomas. They also had Nolan Golden and Arthur Flick, of Hamilton, Ohio, with them to be in charge of the music a part of the time. We will be looking for a report of this meeting.

Masontown, Penna. We quote from Brother Ankrum's bulletin of April 24: "It certainly was a surprise when the writer was inveigled into the Annex last Monday night,

SELECTING YOUR DAILY FOOD

MOST OF US like to eat. Indeed, eating is a part of our daily life. We hear a great deal about eating "three square meals" each day. I read the other day that there are at least four types of meals that are eaten: Cafeteria style; the Quick Lunch variety; a Diet fare; and our regular three square meals a day. As I read this, some way or other

It set me to thinking!

Very few of us really know what it means to be hungry, for very few of us have been forced to miss meals because they were not provided for us. True, some, because of illness, have had to suffer the pangs of physical hunger; some, because of a feeling that they need miss a meal once in a while have said, "I am hungry"; and some, but all too few, have felt the gnawing of a hunger because they observed a time of "fasting and prayer." But how many of us can truly say, "I have faced starvation for the lack of material food?"

But when we sit calmly down and question ourselves, what can we say about our spiritual diet? In this, too, we can eat in the same four different ways that are mentioned above. Let's look at them.

1. Cafeteria Style. When we go to a cafeteria we pick and choose the things we want to eat. We choose this and reject that and usually find that we have either too much or too little to satisfy. That's the way some people take spiritual food. They pick and choose the parts of God's Word that they are familiar with and that do not take much thought to digest, and feel that they have fed their souls. But were they really hungry? And were they really "fed?" The Lord said, "Blessed are they that do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled."

2. Then there is the "Quick Lunch." Just a "fill in" till a better meal can be provided. So hurried is the eating that the food is not properly "chewed" and therefore does the body little or no good. And that's the way far too many read God's Word. They open the Bible to any old place; read a few verses (and immediately forget what they have read); and they have had their "quick lunch." It does not satisfy and does not amount to much.

3. And now comes the "Diet Fare." In this eating the menu is limited. It is full of "don'ts." We must not eat this or that because it "does not agree with us." So it is with God's Word, but usually we don't read certain portions "because WE do not agree with them." So we limit our diet to just that portion of the Word which "agrees with our thinking."

4. "Three Square Meals a Day." This fare speaks of a healthy, alert and busy individual. He works well; he rests well; he eats well. Nothing ever disagrees with him. True, he knows when to stop eating and just how well the food will digest. But he eats a well-rounded out meal, well balanced, and he thrives upon it. He has his hunger satisfied at each meal, but at the same time he is ready for the next one.

How well this obtains in spiritual life. How it fits into the words of Jesus in John 6:35: "I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst." How satisfying the Word; how filling are His precepts; how appetizing His menu—for He says, "As the Living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father: so he that eateth me, even he shall live by me." John 6:57.

Think it over!

Office Gleanings

By The Editor

The Publication Day Offering

We would like to be able to say that the Publication Day Offering came in to the Publication Office from 100% of our churches. If your church has not as yet sent in its Publication Offering, won't you see that it is done at once? We know of several that have not arrived, but we are sure that this has just been an oversight on the part of the ones who have this matter in hand. Several things are contingent on the offering arriving in our treasury. Won't you send in your offering right away, if you have not done so?

Then That Press Fund

Every so often we get a payment on a pledge that has been made to this fund. We received a letter just the other day which said that the name of the donor had appeared at the time of the giving of the pledge, and again when a payment was sent in. This person did not think he should have a double credit. Maybe we should have stated in more than one instance that the money received was on a pledge, but we have only been carrying the totals of our press fund to date as it was credited in cash, so there was no discrepancy in the total cash. We feel that a double mention of the name won't be taken too seriously. Anyway, we got the money.

More Rags

We received a sizeable package of rags from the ladies of the Johnstown, Pennsylvania, First Church, by the hand of Mrs. A. B. Furry. Thanks so much.

BRETHREN YOUTH

This issue of The Brethren Evangelist has been turned, for the most part to the work of "The Brethren Youth." The materials which have to do with this important phase of the work of The Brethren Church have been furnished and laid out by Brother Charles Munson, Our National Youth Director. The Small Church Is Also Important

Rev. W. R. Deeter

I HAVE THOUGHT much of how individual lives have been enriched and the small church strengthened by pastors and teachers who have given of their time and talent as they give forth the marvelous truths of the Gospel. More pearls could not be found in any sea, nor more flowers in any field, than are the treasures of truth which await our searching in the precious Word of God—the Book which is above and beyond all books as a river is beyond a rill in reach; as the sun is beyond the tallow dip in brightness.

We have in mind some small churches in Kansas, Iowa, Indiana, and no doubt there are other localities, too, where if it were not for someone laboring faithfully down through the years, these groups would finally cease for want of help. We know of a few places where we owned properties, and were quite well equipped to carry on, but somewhere along the line there were no “laborers to be sent to sow and to reap.” Maybe the small group could have been helped by some larger group, or Mission Board, and the day saved for them.

Churches won’t die if they have the proper nourishment; someone must work; someone must teach; someone must sacrifice and give.

Recently we witnessed a man who dedicated himself unto the Lord for the ministry. He was baptized one bitter cold day—they chopped through the ice to get to the water. God laid His hand on this man—calling him from the plow handles, and I am told he preaches marvelous sermons. He came from a small church.

We know of another young man who used to be my parishioner. God called him from a small church, and as a lay-preacher he has been serving another small church with good results for some few years.

Many workers for God—missionaries, ministers, teachers—have come from small churches. If a membership is too small to support a pastor, it is the height of real missionary spirit to give them help from some source.

The proportionment cost may be higher, but souls also have a high value in God’s sight. Mission support is not wasted, though there may not be much visible results for months. But faithful consistent sowing will bring a harvest.

One time a pastor “sowed” for eight years. Another man came on the field and reaped a harvest for the Lord, from that which the other man had sowed.

Some fields are waiting for someone to come and help them; to enlarge and strengthen them. If we are content with some present situations as they now exist, flocks without a shepherd—it may mean that we have stopped caring.

Some of these small churches may be off in the woods; off the beaten path; at the cross roads; on a mountain side; in the valley, or on the main highway. They may be quarter-time, half-time, or full-time churches. Someone is sowing, someone is faithful—and someone will reap a few sheaves and lay them at the feet of Jesus.

Many churches are waiting for someone to come and help them.

As an illustration: the experience of a lad growing up in central Kansas. His parents were poor, and necessity compelled them to “farm out” the children for the winter months. Most every one in the settlement was poor. Some lived in dugouts, and there was little food. Six months the lad lived with neighbors on a diet of cornmeal mush—insufficient nourishment for a growing boy. Springtime came and the boy saw his father coming after him to live at home again. He ran to meet his father, but soon tired and had to walk—then was soon exhausted. Father took him up and carried him three miles to the old home. The insufficient diet had begun to tell—he was weak and emaciated. What were the NEEDS? He needed proper food, good care, love and help.

You see the parallel? Some churches need help. Let us not penalize a church because it is small. Rather let us seek to give it the nourishment—spiritual and otherwise, that is provided for members of full-grown, healthy, progressive churches. Small churches may collapse on the way. We need to help them and provide for them till they are able to go it alone.

Every small church ought to have a minister. Many small churches need the help from others. Anything less than a sufficient diet may cause them to fall by the way. When churches become wrapped up in themselves—it makes a very small package. An unwilling or indifferent attitude in sharing with the needy is opposition to the example of Jesus.

Personally, and as a little church, we are doubly grateful to our Mission Boards who have helped us “keep our boat rowing” here at Udell. For five years the doors of the church were “closed.” Then came a minister who stayed three years and did a fine work. Then the church was without a minister for two years. The C. E. Young folks carried on. Then the Lord called us to the field. At that time the “birds almost had taken over the church property,” which necessitated a “clean up” every Saturday and Sunday morning. No birds stay close to the church now. The church building has had near $2,000.00 of repairs inside and out; several articles of equipment; a Manse worth $2,500.00—almost modern—ALL PAID FOR and not a dollar of indebtedness anywhere. The little old church has become a “light house” in the community. Little by little we are gaining ground, both in favor with God and with man. Ten new members have been added since January. We have a live C. E. now. The W. M. S. is worthy. The Church school averages higher than for moons. From this little church has come some talented people—preachers, teachers, singers and officers that no one need be ashamed, and are second to none.

Small churches should not be neglected; it’s the best missionary field in the world.
—Udell, Iowa.

Humble heart-cries are what count most with God.

Ashland College News Letter

By Arthur Petit

May Day, the most anticipated event on the Ashland College campus is "just around the corner." This traditional festival, the oldest on the hilltop has undergone many changes in the past 35 years but still remains essentially the same with the coronation of the queen, the pageant and the winding of the May pole in her honor.

The coronation of the queen will take place at one in the afternoon. The prevailing time in Ashland is Eastern Standard Time better known as "slow time." A large crowd is anticipated this year. There has been much interest shown and the alumni luncheon at 5:30 will be a large one since about 60 students will graduate in June. Many alumni have indicated that they will be here, many for the first time in years.

The traditional Footlighters dramatic production will conclude May Day, May 14. This year the biblical play, "Family Portrait" will be given.

The May Day week end has been expanded, however. On Friday evening, May 13, the Ashland College Band will be presented in "The Festival of the Lanterns," now becoming traditional. The front campus is beautifully lighted and the band plays popular marches and other music.

Sunday, May 15, is another important day. At the morning service at the First Brethren Church, Dr. Glen L. Clayton will deliver the message. Special music for the occasion is being prepared. In the afternoon, the Ashland College A Capella Choir which has just returned from a very successful trip will present its home concert in the McDowell Auditorium. They will be assisted by an interpretative group from Ohio State University. Those who have heard the choir recently will be surprised to find them singing an entirely new concert.

Alumni and friends of the college who can, should plan to be at Ashland College for all of these events but if not for all, then for part. High School students can obtain passes for the coronation and the play by contacting the writer or the Publicity Office upon arrival in Ashland.

As mentioned above, the a capella choir has returned from a very successful trip through northern Indiana and Illinois. This opportunity for young people to meet the Brethren congregations is invaluable. It is also good for the congregations to see how the Ashland College students love to sing the sacred music which makes up most of their repertoire. In the more than 1000 miles which they traveled, they sang 12 concerts in nine towns. In addition to the churches at Goshen, Elkhart, South Bend, North Liberty, Nappanee, Bryan, Milledgeville, Lanark and Elgin (Church of the Brethren), they sang in the high schools at Goshen, Elkhart and Lanark.

Undoubtedly some concerts were better than others due to the travel and fatigue elements, but in all cases, they sang splendidly and were a credit to the college. Of the 57 members of the choir, almost half were Brethren. This is fine since not nearly half of the students on the campus are from our own congregations.

Enrollment for the freshman class for next fall is falling behind a year ago as expected but not alarmingly so. It is never safe to predict in the matter of young people coming to college but the indications are that about 200 young men and women will make up the freshman class next year. Brethren young people are urged to contact the college immediately if they are interested in enrolling. While housing is not nearly so much of a problem as in the last few years, it is still well to have your name in.

Again, May we look for you May Day?

Sad News From Lost Creek, Kentucky

We received the following from Brother G. E. Drushal just in time to catch the second run of the Evangelist. It contains some very sad and disconcerting news. Brother Drushal writes: Our Seniors were on a trip to Washington, D. C. Enroute they had an accident. After consultation we feel that the Evangelist readers should know the truth about it. Hence the following for publication:

"On Tuesday the 26th our Senior Class, sponsored by my daughter, Ada, were on a trip to Washington, D. C. Near Washington, Virginia, they had an accident which resulted in the death of one of the Seniors, and the serious injury of my daughter Ada. The other six in the party were practically uninjured.

"The accident was just one of those things that happen. Miss Anderson, an assistant at Riverside, a licensed driver with experience, was driving. A truck at one side and an approaching car over the white line coming on, and in trying to dodge, the car got out of control, the pick-up turning over two times. Strangely the pick-up was not much damaged.

"My daughter Ada, is now at the Front Royal, Virginia, Hospital. Without the help of the Lord, her condition would be hopeless. I am very certain that the Lord has saved her life, but she will have to remain at the hospital some time. I know you will join with us in prayer for her complete recovery."

G. E. Drushal.

We are sure that the sympathy and the prayers of the entire brotherhood will go out to those who are thus bereft and to the Lord for the complete recovery of Sister Ada.

Jesus Christ never relieved physical diseases without pointing out that they were the result of moral causes. He saw more than the leprosy of the body. He saw the deadly ulcer on the soul. Not only so, He had readier access to the body than to the spirit and so He began at the most accessible point and worked into the deeper nature.—Ecce Deus.

It takes God a long time to get us out of the way of thinking that unless every one sees as we do they must be wrong.

It would have taken you about two minutes to read this column of print. Now you didn't have to read it—so take those two minutes, add three more, and spend that time planning your sacrificial gift for Brethren Youth.

You can be sure of a good investment when you support the National Youth Program. May 15th is the date for this offering. Sincerely plan your gift, and then add one more "Sacrificial" Dollar. The extra dollar will bring the blessing on May 15th.

CRUSADERS AND AMBASSADORS

Crusader and Ambassador Teams will serve in over twenty Brethren Churches this summer. They need your money to support the program. They will receive the sum of $15.00 per week (each Crusader or Ambassador) which amount will be applied to their Ashland College tuition. Their traveling expenses will also be paid. They will hold services in churches from Virginia to California. They, therefore, will need ALL the help you can give them.

"BRETHREN YOUTH" MAGAZINE

We are printing a Youth Magazine that needs your support. Subscribe to "The Brethren Youth" and give your gifts and it will become self-supporting.

OTHER MATERIALS

We are planning to print other material for our youth which will need your support. Any printing and publicity costs money, but whatever we do for our youth will pay rich dividends.

Many plans of Brethren Youth depend upon your support to make them a reality. We trust that you will sacrifice your dimes and dollars to support a real youth program. GIVE ON MAY 15th.

ON THE MOVE

There is no doubt about it—our Brethren Church is on the move. All you need to do is visit the different Brethren Churches to find that out. Now is the important time to continue our Youth Program and we will have such a program with your help of "Dollars and Dimes" on May 15th.

This is a work of the Lord that we dare not shirk. If you can't give a "Lot," give a "Little," so we can challenge our youth with a great program.

Plan your gift—then add one more "dollar" for a real blessing. Don't let May 15th pass without making some contribution, however small, to the Brethren Youth Offering.

HERE'S HOW

Plan a $1.00 Gift—GIVE $2.00; Plan a $20.00 Gift—GIVE $21.00. If you only plan to give a "Dime—THEN GIVE TWO DIMES. Make it a Gift of Sacrifice.

We are only asking for $7,500.00 from 18,000 people. Now that isn't much—IS IT? What part will you play in helping Brethren Youth in their Program? Will you give a little if you can't give a lot, or will you neglect to give anything on May 15th?

OBSERVE NATIONAL BRETHREN YOUTH WEEK—

Leaves From My Diary

Mrs. G. E. Drushal, Lost Creek, Kentucky

Saturday, March 19. Had school this Saturday to make up time lost by the fire. Miss Hartford and I unable to teach Saturday, so Miss Ann Anderson helped out. (Miss Ann, a young friend of Adah's from Brooklyn, New York, with time hanging heavy on her hands, had begged permission to come to Riverside and help Adah with her 101 jobs for the last semester.)

Sunday, March 20. Extra good attendance at all services. Old Brother Jack Barnett came forward and renewed his covenant with the Lord. Kecks and Miss Hartford to the two Leatherwoods; Adah to Fugate's work; Harold Barnett to Dry Bread Branch (Mrs. Kessinger who goes there was sick); Hobart Mullins to Tom's Branch; Father and I to Stacy (Rowdy, as it is now called.) Mrs. Allen reported $20.00 in piano Fund. No bell for chapel in sight. On returning from afternoon Sunday School, found nephew, David Akins, here for a brief visit.

Tuesday to Friday, March 21-25. Between these dates, made a trip to Columbus and Wooster, Ohio, then with son, Garber, on to Cleveland, back to Columbus and on home. Purpose of trip have to have eyes and ears tested. On this trip finished reading New Testament for this year, reading on train and bus—Hebrews, James I and II Peter, I, II and III John, Jude, and the last half of Acts. Got four people to join Bible Reading Band.

At Riverside Mr. Keck went to St. James, Maryland, at their request to conduct a communion service for them.

Sunday, March 27. Rained most of the day, but good attendance here, even though this was home-going week for most of the students. Adah, Kenneth Richie and Marshal Baker (two of our grade boys) trekked through the rain up Fugate's Fork. She had an interesting visit at the home of an old Hardshell preacher up there, which showed that he was a close observer of nature and knew things, even though he had never seen inside a science book. He knew where there would be frost under a rock when there was frost on the ground, even though the rock was covered; also that there would be frost in the middle of a tree trunk. He knew if a cleavage was made in a tree trunk, enough gas will escape to make a blaze several feet long if a match is struck. His wife has a wealth of information on medicinal herbs. The old preacher also was an enquirer. What makes day and night? Where in the Bible does it speak of denominations? Can any one KNOW they will go to heaven? Does not the one who "hopes" he is saved, stand on the same ground as one who "believes" he is saved?

While there is no school house up Fugate's Fork wherein to hold Sunday School, yet these Sunday visits in the homes where the Word of God is discussed and prayer offered with the families, may bring forth fruit and reach as many people as a Sunday School.

Tuesday, March 29. Got piano for Stacy chapel. Cost—$55.00. They had raised $60.00. Balance will be used for paint for ceiling. Young folks went to Jackson tonight to a "Youth Sing."

Friday, April 1. April Fool Day at school. We let the children carry out their "foolish" plans for chapel, by the girls taking the boys' seats and the boys over where the girls belong; seniors up where beginners usually sit, etc. Students also took charge of chapel, and when it came to that, there was nothing foolish about it. One took Father's place, another led the singing, another gave the chapel message, and a fine message it was on Jonah. Everything orderly, quiet and reverent. But teachers, on entering class rooms, found chairs all turned around backward. Eighth grade pupils occupied some of the high school rooms and other grade pupils put on a stunt. We all had our laugh, then got to work in earnest. Good thing about it all, they knew when it was all right to be foolish, and when to be serious. Nothing ever bordered on the sacreligious.

Mr. and Mrs. Heykoop from Ezel, Kentucky, arrived in time for supper. They came for the Annual meeting of the Riverside Board of Trustees. Board met in our office after supper. Old officers re-elected: Father, President; Mrs. Louetta Landrum, Vice President; Maurice Hall, Secretary; myself, Treasurer. Some matters discussed where the way to solve them was not quite clear. It was moved and carried that the Executive Committee deal with these later as matters cleared up.

Saturday, April 2. Young folks went to Youth Rally at Pine Ridge. At close of Bible Class at Will Landrum's a woman was there to stage a "party" so called, which was some sort of racket to induce us all to buy her wares. Not impressed. She wanted permission to have such a "party" at Riverside, but was not given permission.

Just Suppose

Just suppose the Lord should begin tomorrow to make people as sick as they say they are on Sunday.

Just suppose the Lord should take away the child whom parents use as an excuse for staying away from church.

Just suppose the Lord should make some people as poor as they say they are when asked to help finance His program.

Just suppose the Lord should have every one stoned for covetousness as He did Achan.

Just suppose the Lord should strike dead all who lie about giving or paying their tithe, as He did Ananias and Sapphira for lying about money matters.

Just suppose the Lord should let some parents look into the future and see what their example and lax control did for their children.

Just suppose all Christians should really live consistently and prove by their lives that they really love the Lord.

Yes, just suppose, and then, by the help of the Lord, go forth and live and serve as if eternity were coming right soon!

The Christian religion is unique in its teaching as to the atonement, the conditions of salvation, the believer's union with a personal Redeemer and the whole contents of the saving Gospel of Christ.—Selected.

Johnstown, Penna. Second. The Laymen of the Second Church have planned a Father and Son banquet which is to be held on Friday night, May 13th. Brother Richard Wolfe, pastor of the Third Church, is to be the guest speaker.

We note that at the recent business meeting of the church the following was voted: To loan the pastor to the Brush Valley Brethren for a meeting in June; to adopt a new constitution and by-laws and have them printed; to purchase new Hymn Books, the one being decided on was the "Service Hymnal."

Dayton, Ohio. Dayton will observe another of those "Family Nights" on Wednesday evening, May 11th.

Bryan, Ohio. Brother E. J. Black says, "Our revival services with Brother and Sister Geren have exceeded our fondest expectations, both in numbers attending and new confessions of faith, and reconsecrations. The average attendance has been 225 with a High of 269."

This revival service closed on Friday, April 15th. Twenty-six were baptized and twenty-four entered into fellowship with the church. This brings the total membership of the Bryan church to 398. Admissions through baptism and letter—45; lost through death and letter—7; total gain—38. Brother Black begins his second year of service with the Bryan congregation.

We note that Mr. Charles Leidigh presented the Bryan church with a new Electro-Lux Vacuum Cleaner recently.

Waterloo, Iowa. Brother Meyer says, "To date our mission offering has come to just $1,001.21." That tops their goal of $1,000.00.

The Loree Spring Communion date has been set as of June 6th.

Brother Higgins has received a unanimous call to remain for another year of service with the Loree Church.

Nappanee, Indiana. Brother Milton Bowman says, "Records are broken—for we had the largest Sunday School attendance during our ministry here. The count was 528." He also says that the Easter sunrise service had an attendance of approximately 200.

Nappanee is sending another truck load of food to our Kentucky Mission on May 8th.

Sherwood, Michigan. We learn from Brother Bowman's bulletin that on Easter Sunday there was an attendance of 65 at our newest point in Michigan. We will have a fine growing church there before we know it.

St. Luke, Near Woodstock, Virginia. Brother John Locke, who has been engaged in a meeting for Brother John Dodson, and the St. Luke Brethren, writes: "Not a single vacant seat in church last night (April 27)—some on the outside could not get in. Have had a good attendance every night. The special attraction last night was the Scott Chorus, Colored Singers from Woodstock, Virginia. Three to be baptized so far; hoping for more in our closing days." The meetings closed on April 30th.

BURNING TRUTH

By Charles Emory Byers

BURNING TRUTH

"Heaven is not gained at a single bound,
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit round by round."

—J. G. Holland.

Great and good things grow slowly. They are produced at great sacrifice of time and energy. Since their price is so high their value is great and much to be desired. The richest treasure man can possess is heaven. He must begin to earn it in early childhood and labor to attain more and more of it through the years. By diligence and sincere labor he is often able to acquire an appreciable amount before he crosses the dark river.

But what is heaven? Is it so far away in distance that we cannot reach it at a single bound? Hardly. What follows may not be the answer of a theologian but it is an answer of common sense.

Heaven is not so far away in distance as one may be led to believe. But it is so far away in character, in knowledge, in achievement that it is reached only after a long and arduous journey. It is gained by a kind of soul evolution. It is attained by the growth of the soul by absorbing within itself the good things of the earth, its beauty and its goodness, the principles that govern its workings. He must appreciate the tender yearnings of a mother's heart, a baby's prattle. He must learn to assist a suffering neighbor and understand his friends and make due allowances for the misunderstanding of his enemies.

Thus heaven grows in one as he enlarges his life. It grows, like every living thing, on what it feeds. Each noble need offers some food on the road upward toward heaven. We must climb these steps one at a time. The higher we climb the farther into heaven we see.

What then are some of the things on which we must feed? The soft shadows of an evening twilight, the transforming glory of a sunrise, the music of the cricket and the katydid in autumn, the cool scene of summer woods after rain, the melodious notes of a church organ, the mighty truths of an eloquent book, the towering sublimity of a noble cathedral—these take you step by step toward heaven. In fact heaven is man's supreme achievement and must be earned from the cradle to the grave.

THE CHURCH IN HAWAII AND ALASKA

Scripture: Luke 4:16-21

(Topic Editor's note: Our guest writer for tonight's topic is the wife of your Topic Editor who has prepared a review of the book, "Forty-Eight Plus," which deals with these countries. She shares with Brethren Christian Endeavorers a portion of the wealth of information gained in her study.)

For The Leader

THE PURPOSE of this topic is to set forth some of the main principles in the life of every church in which appeals are made in work abroad. Especially in Hawaii and Alaska. Sometimes we lose sight of other peoples in need of Christ by looking at ourselves and our achievements on our own. Have you stopped to think lately that perhaps God could use you in helping to spread the wonderful words of salvation to another part of the world? I am choosing the book, "Forty-Eight Plus," written by Constance M. Hallock, for my information on this subject tonight, and our wish is that what the various topics have in store for you, will inspire each one to a greater earnestness in the mission work of the Church. God has always used willing and devoted Christians to carry out His plan and program, and He will continue to do so if we but give Him a Chance.

TOPICS

1. WHAT THE CHURCH HAS DONE. Since Alaska and Hawaii are our possessions, we, as a nation, have accepted a great responsibility; but we as Christians have the wonderful opportunity, if we claim it, to put into action our Christian ideals and Christ's way of life. Many superstitions had so gripped the natives of these territories that it was very difficult for the missionaries to go to these lands and preach the true gospel. They underwent terrible hardships in order that they might gain the faith of a few natives to help carry on the work among their people. The Church has had a vision in sending forth reapers into the harvest and the peoples of these territories today can sing the grand old Christian Hymns along with us, as well as quote from the Word the precious promises which are held out to every believing child. Yes the Church has done much to make Christian all peoples of the earth, but don't forget, young people, there is still much to do, and you and I are the messengers of today.

2. ALASKA. Alaska will never be a land for those who want a conventional, easy life. It is a land for those who can try strength against odds and win. Her population rates about 91,000. Of that number 40,000 are Indians and Eskimos (including those of mixed blood) and 51,000 whites. Its largest town is Anchorage, and its capital Juneau, (Pronounced You-No). The white men are the moving population of Alaska. The chief occupation is fishing, but this occupation has its problems too. The offices of the canneries are in outside cities like Seattle, etc. Their population is continually shifting and the fishing occupation is only seasonal, therefore the Alaskans have to "lay up" for long periods of time when the money won't be coming. Also a tragedy occurred when the Whites began migrating to Alaska. With them they took many diseases and the people today are dying in Alaska from new diseases brought in. They suffer anyway from Tuberculosis. But they are a hard-drinking nation, maybe that gives some account for their ill health. Let us beware of the conditions existing in our own country! Alaska has been evangelized in the sense that most of the country has had contact with the Christian religion through the work of sixteen or eighteen denominations. They do ask that others share their vision and come some day to lift a little more of the burden. They need doctors, nurses, teachers, pastors, in fact specialists in every field.

3. HAWAII. James Cook, an English Sea Captain, discovered the Islands back in 1778. He found 200,000 inhabitants, but today there are about half a million. There are twenty islands in the group, but Hawaii is the largest. Behavior of white residents made it difficult to propagate the gospel in the Islands. Isn't that a sad commentary? One of the things that held back Christ was fear of the fire goddess Pele. A native girl had accepted Christ, but her island friends only made fun of her. She would say, "Jehovah, my God is greater than Pele." The people shuddered and watched the great crater glow as Kapiolani would witness for her Lord. "I myself shall prove it to you," she said. "On such and such a day I shall climb that Mt. and eat the ohelo berries sacred to Pele, and shall defy her in her own abode. If Pele destroys me with her fires, believe in her. If not, believe in God who is all powerful." The people followed the native girl up the mountain and watched her eat the sacred berries and she even walked to the edge of the crater and looked in. The people could scarcely believe their eyes. Pele had not harmed her at all. As she descended the great mountain she told the islanders of Jesus. Many believed. What a witness she was for Him! How do you and I stack up tonight? Did we witness to anyone this week? Let us be true witnesses at home, if we care not to go abroad. Let us find God's will and then DO it!

QUESTIONS

1. Do you believe one has to go abroad to be a true missionary?
2. What command did Jesus give to those who want to be a true witness?
3. Have all the nations of the earth heard about Jesus? If not, why not? What about America?

"To own and to possess are not the same thing," said a man of affairs. "I used to both own and possess a certain umbrella. I still own it—but somebody else possesses it."—Christian Observed.

Before becoming mighty in deed, you must be mighty in the WORD.

In the Christ of the Bible we find a voice that speaks and a hand that lifts.

"YE HAVE NOT, BECAUSE"

"If you had been living when Christ was on earth,
And had met the Saviour kind,
What would you have asked Him to do for you,
Supposing you were blind?"

The child considered and then replied,

"I expect that without a doubt
I'd have asked for a dog, and a collar and chain,
To lead me safely about."

And how often thus in our faithless prayers

We acknowledge with shamed surprise
We have only asked for a dog and chain,
When we might have had our eyes.

Hymns on asking in prayer

Prayers expecting answers to definite petitions

Seed Thought Provokers:

GOD TEACHES us to expect to get things by asking of Him (Matt. 6:11). All our planning and hard work without His blessing would avail us nothing (Heb. 11:6). In his disease Asa "sought not to the Lord, but to the physicians" (2 Chron. 16:12). It was not wrong for Asa to have physicians, but he erred in not seeking the Lord first. Hezekiah by prayer had his life lengthened (Isa. 38:4, 5). It pleased God to use means for the healing of Hezekiah (v. 21). The way for us to get what we need is to ask for it. God does not always use means as He sometimes delights to heal the sick when medicine fails. Prayer is God's appointed way for us to have what we need.

The Christian is to have joy through answered prayer (John 16:24). Prayer is the Christian's way out of trouble and anxious care (Phil. 4:6, 7; 1 Peter 5:7; Psalms 34:6). The power of the Holy Spirit for God's work can be obtained by us only through prayer (Luke 11:13). "Importunity" is the way to get bread (salvation) for our sinner friends (Luke 11:8). Revivals come in answer to prayer (2 Chron. 7:14; Hab. 2:1). Salvation is obtained through prayer (Rom. 10:3).

The Lord's Prayer contains six petitions. Bible prayers are essentially petitions (Luke 18:14; 23:42; Matt. 14:30; Mark 10:47, 51; Matt. 15:22, 25). So-called praying that asks for nothing is hypocrisy (Luke 18:10-14). God will supply all our needs (Rom. 8:32; Phil. 4:18, 19; James 1:17; Psalms 34:10). We are to ask for healing (James 5:13-15). It is right to ask for anything that it is not wrong to want (John 15:7; Psalms 37:4). We are to be definite in our asking (Matt. 6:11; Judges 6:35, 37, 39; Isa. 45:11; Joshua 10:12). Let us not be content to have our lost loved ones saved some time before they die. If it is a sin for them to go on in sin, it is a sin for us to be content for them to go on in sin. BE DEFINITE or there is no urgency!

On The Sunday School Lesson

by The Editor

Lesson for May 22, 1949

WITH JESUS IN THE UPPER ROOM

Lesson: Mark 14:12-25

THIS IS A LESSON which should mean much to every member of the Brethren Church, but not to us only, but to every Christian throughout all Christendom. For it was in that Upper Room that Christ spoke the words that were to send a "remembrance" of Him down through the ages.

In the study of this lesson, Brethren will not dare confine themselves to the "Bread and the Cup" as set forth in verses 22-25. There is more to this Upper Room scene than the giving of the emblems that tell of the "broken body" and the "shed blood" of Jesus on the cross. He gave other parts of that ordinance in the course of the evening which carried a great significance to all of His disciples throughout all the ages to follow. True, one of the most important things for us to "keep in memory" is the "fact" of the sacrifice which He made on Calvary's hill. But far too often the mere eating of "the bread" (symbolic of His broken body) and the partaking of "the cup" (testifying of His shed blood) becomes a mere act, without taking any time to meditate on all that went on before, which led up to such sacrifice.

Therefore, we need a time of meditation, when we can turn our thoughts to the meaning of the entire activity in that "Upper Room." This time of meditation can be found in the time of the Feet Washing and the Supper.

Nothing is said by Mark about the Feet Washing, but he does speak of the "Supper" which the disciples were eating together, during which Jesus established the ordinance of the "Bread and Cup." But let us remember that no one of the Gospel writers tells everything that happened that night. It is only when we consult all of the writings of the New Testament that have anything to do with this part of Jesus' life that we get the entire story. John says nothing about the "Bread and Cup," yet he places great emphasis on the "Feet Washing" scene, and his emphatic reference to the "ought" of Jesus gives it great meaning. John 13:1-17. Paul, in his letters, has much to say about the Eucharist—"This Bread—This Cup," but also in writing to Timothy, he says, "if she have washed the saints' feet." I Timothy 5:10. Paul also refers to "The Lord's Supper," in I Corinthians 11:20.

In fact, if we would learn all that is embodied in the teachings of Jesus in the "Upper Room" that night, we have a very large assignment. Take your "Harmony of the Gospels" (which you will find in the back of many of your Bibles) or any copy of the "Interwoven Gospels" and you will be amazed at the mass of teaching which Jesus left with His disciples that night. Among these teachings we find the facts concerning His sacrifice; the foreshadowing of the Resurrection; the promise of the coming of the Holy Spirit in His stead; the assurance of Christ's presence; the care He will have for His children; the giving of the emblems that are to constantly remind His followers of His vicarious sacrifice, and many, many others. Search them out and see how interesting and comprehensive they are.

Lest we might be confused and think that the supper which Jesus ate with His disciples that night in the Upper Room was the regular Passover Feast, we ask you to turn to the following scriptures: John 13:1; 18:28; 19:14, 31 and 42; Mark 15:42; Luke 23:52-54. "Not so important," you say? Yet it shows plainly that at the hour when Jesus hung on the cross and cried, "It is finished," at that same hour the Paschal Lamb of the Passover was being slain by the Jews for their Passover Feast—and He, in His death, became the "Lamb slain from the foundation of the world."

What great meaning for us in that great "Upper Room" scene, with all its attendant teachings!

The Garber Memorial Brethren Mission

SHERMAN AVENUE, ASHLAND, OHIO

While not as yet organized into a regular church body, it is hoped and expected that what is designated as "The Garber Memorial Brethren Church" will, in the course of time, form a second organized work in the City of Ashland. Operating at the present time under a Committee established by the First Brethren Church (Park Street) of Ashland, that has the oversight of the work, and under the direction of Brother Robert Holsinger, a student in the Seminary at Ashland, as Class Leader, and Brother William Fells, student in the Seminary in the capacity as "preaching minister," the work is going forward in a very fine manner. The Sunday School Superintendent is Brother Robert Hoffman, also a pre-seminary student. We have asked Brother Fells to give our readers a report of the work since he has been in charge of the services. The report follows:

"We were called to help in the work in this mission point, and Sunday, November 14, 1948, was our first Sunday there; but much has been accomplished in these few short months.

"This church is located in east Ashland, with the closest church about one-half mile away, and it is in a community where there are quite a few children. Mr. A. L. Garber, whom I am sure many Brethren will remember, was the builder of this church building. It has been used by several groups, but about a year ago the First Brethren Church on Park Street, was asked to sponsor the work in that community with the help of the Seminary and pre-seminary students of Ashland College and Seminary. We have a fine corps of workers with Brother Robert Holsinger, a seminary student, whose home is in Oakville, Indiana, as our Class Leader. The writer was called to do the preaching and to work with Brother "Bob" in a visitation program.

"It seems, as is often the case, that the Lord was working in 'mysterious ways, His wonders to perform,' because the undersigned had had the privilege of working with many of the parents of the homes surrounding the church, while he was working in the factories in Ashland, and these parents were the ones that were visited first. You see the Lord made us acquainted in the community even before the work was there, and we certainly appreciate this opportunity to help in the work, and also the fine practical experience that is being afforded us through this work.

"With a regular visitation program and regular pastoral work and a fine Sunday School service, carried on by a willing group, we have seen the attendance gradually increase. We had been there just a few weeks when a Christmas program was planned and many of the parents came to see their children take part in that service. We had forty-four for that service. Then we started the program of bringing these children up to the Park Street Church for those services that were not being held in our Sherman Avenue church—that is, the Sunday evening and the mid-week prayer services. You see, both the Class Leader and the Preacher are going to school and working on the outside. But we have had twelve of the children in these services. One of our girls received an award for being present and taking part in the "Children's Mid-Week Bible Study Class" that is held each Wednesday evening at the Park Street Church.

We visited those who were sick, and any who requested, besides making other calls. Then we started planning for our pre-Easter services. We held meetings on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights before Easter; then had a special program on Easter Sunday, with the children taking part, and a dedication service for two small children, and that wonderful story of the RESURRECTION MORNING for our message. Brethren, you cannot realize the joy that comes from an experience like this unless you are there. We have had seven children come to the altar; six of these were first time confessions and one was a reconsecration. Also one mother has made a first time confession. It is a privilege to see these folks grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. But it is not only a privilege, it is a duty, because our Lord said, "Go ye into all the world . . ."

Maybe there is a place in your town or community that is not being given the privilege of hearing the gospel. Maybe the Lord will give you something more to do. Look around and see the opportunity. Maybe by next Easter your church can sponsor a mission point that will have fifty-one for church and forty-seven for Sunday School, even as we did this Easter.

William Fells.

Boys' Brotherhood News

The Young Men's and Boys' Brotherhood of the Berlin, Pennsylvania, Brethren Church, met on Monday evening, April 18th. We had a fine program and there were twenty-five present. Our usual fifteen minute Bible study was given by our pastor, Rev. Percy C. Miller. Brother Miller has a rare talent in teaching. He knows how to make it interesting and how to hold the attention of his listeners. We had two of our Ashland students present: Joe Glessner and Rev. Robert Hoffman. Brother Joe is our Brotherhood president and he knows how to preside. I want to say for Joe and Robert that they sure "plug" for Ashland College. They also gave the boys some good advice on how to prepare for College. They asked the boys to show hands on how many would like to go to college. Eight hands went up. If all of the Ashland students work like that, Ashland will never want for students.

After a boy attends our brotherhood meetings for three months he becomes a regular Brotherhood Boy. We installed four new boys at this meeting. Rev. Robert Hoffman read the Brothers' Ideal. The four boys stood up in front in the church parlor. Then the Adviser presented each boy with a Brotherhood pin—a triple gold pin with the word Brotherhood on it. Would like to say more about this, but space won't permit.

We also decided to pay $25.00 for our South American student fund for Miss Azucena Martin and wrote the check to be forwarded to our Missionary Board in Ashland. I do wish our Brethren Laymen had the spirit of giving like the Brotherhood boys. Our boys here in the Berlin Brotherhood are mostly young and have no personal income; yet they are so eager to give that the few that are able cannot refuse when these little missionaries want to do mission work. Our prayer is that all over the brotherhood that we encourage our youth to give to the Lord's work.

"REACHING FROM HEAVEN"

(sound motion picture)

"A Christian film with a challenge—Christ-centered, romantic, inspiring, dramatic." That is the way it is advertised and truly it is all of that.

"In the most profitable hour and a half that you will ever spend this full length sound motion picture will impress you in a compelling manner with the grace of personal evangelism in action.

"You'll see how a loving God reaches down from heaven to comfort and help everyone on this earth.

"You'll admire the little lonely man whose problems are solved one by one through his contacts with Christians.

"You'll be impressed with the great lesson that each must learn: God uses ordinary people to accomplish His purpose in the lives of others."

You may shed a few tears and you will laugh because of the sincerity and the reality displayed.

This 90 minute film can be rented for $25.00. See your local dealer or write: Visual Education Service Department, 3558 S. Jefferson Ave., St. Louis 18, Missouri.

Laid to Rest

HENSHAW. Jackie Henshaw, young son of Harold and Merna Henshaw, went home to be with Jesus—too sweet to bloom very long on earth, but to blossom in heaven forever.

Jackie's parents recently came into the church at Udell, Iowa, as members, as did also a sister. He has two brothers and two sisters. Burial was made in the Moulton, Iowa, Cemetery.

News From Our Churches

MASONTOWN, PENNSYLVANIA

Reports from Masontown have been few by the writer owing to the Editor, Brother Fred Vanator's gleanings from the Bulletin issued here of items for his "Interesting Items Column." To many who have expressed themselves to us, this column is the first one read in the Evangelist. We have no desire to tire the reader, assuming that there is one, with repetitions. The intent of this report is to give information relative to our recent Evangelistic meeting.

Rev. Percy Miller, of Berlin, Pennsylvania, had been engaged to conduct the yearly effort. It had been the good pleasure of the writer to close a meeting with him at Vandergrift, Pennsylvania, just one year to the day when he began the meeting at Masontown. The meeting here began on Monday night, March 21, and closed with the Sunday night service, April 3. Brother Miller, though not a stranger to many of the membership made numerous friends in the two weeks spent in the community. We are glad that we chose him to hold that which was his first evangelistic meeting. A statement made by one who heard him from night to night is self explanatory. "It does not seem as though this is his first meeting." Of some of the varied experiences to be met with in Masontown, which are not likely to be met with in other localities, he may or not relate them. Suffice it to state that anything can happen here," and it usually does.

The average attendance for the entire meeting was 109 plus. Naturally we feel that it could have been higher, had some of the local residents who have their names on the membership roll of the church been as "loyal Brethren," in health as they are in times of sickness or even death.

The total visible results were thirty-two. There were nineteen reconsecrations and thirteen confessions. Of the thirteen twelve have been baptized at this writing and eleven have been received into the membership of the church. Seven have come forward and made first confessions since the close of the meeting. All have been baptized and received into the church. Thus a total of eighteen have been added to the membership roll within the past few weeks. Considerable interest has been manifested by a number who are looking our way for membership. It may be enlightening to state that some of them are from the various local Catholic churches.

Our attendance for the Easter morning preaching services was the largest it has been for eight years. This is the ninth year of our pastorate in this congregation. We are now planning our Daily Vacation Bible School which is scheduled to begin June 13, closing June 24. Already the youngsters are asking about the colored chalk sketches we make for them daily. The writer expects to be at the Young People's Camp at Juniata from July 3 to 9. The District Conference is to be entertained by the Masontown Church from July 18 to 21.

Yours in His service.

Freeman Ankrum.

SMITHVILLE, OHIO

Although the work of the Smithville Church has not been much publicized during the past year excellent growth has been shown. Since Rev. Grisso's coming many improvements have been made. Class rooms and a fine stage have been added in the basement and a Nursery is being equipped. The stage is being lighted and a curtain installed to facilitate the presentation of plays. A grand piano has been placed in the Sanctuary.

As a result of much visitation on the part of our pastor and Rev. John Locke during the meetings in November, seven were later added to the church by baptism and two by letter. They reported visiting families within five miles of the church where no pastor had ever called. Surely there is much work to be done.

Our Sunday evening services are well attended and the Cathedral films shown several times were much enjoyed. The Young People's groups are very active—both the Christian Endeavor and the Sisterhood of Mary and Martha. Plans are now underway for the spring Brethren Youth Rally to be held in our church. There was a fine interest shown at the Community Pre-Easter services. Rev. M. A. Stuckey was the speaker at the service held in our church. Our Choir presented several beautiful numbers during the Lenten season.

There was a record attendance for the Palm Sunday evening Candlelight Communion Service. Four babies were dedicated on Easter Sunday. One mother made her Confession and is awaiting Baptism.

The Mother-Daughter Banquet was held May 5 and plans are underway for the Daily Vacation Bible School sponsored by the four churches in our community.

Our attendance is showing a decided gain even over last year. Twenty-eight of our members attended services at least fifty Sundays and several of these have perfect attendance records for five or more years. Surely we can thank the Lord for our many blessings.

Mrs. R. W. Klingel, Cor. Sec.

CHEYENNE, WYOMING

We are glad to report a steady growth of the work here. We have added three new names to our church roll since the first of the year and our attendance has more than doubled in that time.

On Sunday, April 10th, Brother E. M. Riddle spoke both morning and evening for us. His visit was greatly appreciated and the messages were thoroughly enjoyed by all. We will be looking forward to another visit from him in the near future.

On Easter Sunday we were permitted to enjoy the use of the main floor auditorium. The weather was ideal and our attendance the largest yet. Thirty-eight attended the six o'clock breakfast; eighty-three at the morning worship service and thirty-two for the evening service. It was a day that will long be remembered as one of the milestones in the history of the Cheyenne Brethren Church.

The work on the building proper is progressing satisfactorily. The steps for the front entrance are being run this week, and the plasterers will soon be working on the exterior. The yard has been graded ready for seeding, and with good weather this year's program on our building will soon be completed. We hope to be able to dedicate on October 2nd, the probable Sunday before District Conference is to be held here. However, this date might need to be changed from unavoidable happenings.

The spiritual growth in the past six months has been one of great advancements attained and is highly gratifying to the pastor. With a consecrated group, such as Cheyenne has, we are looking for great things to happen in the next year. Continue to pray for the work here.

Frank W. Garber, pastor.

PERU, INDIANA

The people of Peru enjoyed a Gospel Team from Ashland College on Easter Sunday. The members of the team were: Miss Phyllis Deeter, Dayton, Ohio; Miss Margaret Neighbors, Oak Hill, West Virginia; Lewis Smith, Lyle Lichtenberger, and their friends, Miss Jackie Bushong, Miss Carol Robbins and Wayne Kreps, all of Elkhart.

For the Sunrise Service, Miss Margaret Neighbors gave the message; Miss Jackie Bushong was the pianist; Wayne Kreps led the devotions and Lyle Lichtenberger was the soloist.

For the morning service Lyle Lichtenberger brought the message; Miss Phyllis Deeter led the devotions; Miss Margaret Neighbors led the singing; Miss Carol Robbins sang a solo, and Jackie Bushong was again the pianist.

During the Christian Endeavor service each member of the team gave a personal testimony for their Lord.

At the evening hour Lewis Smith brought the message, and the other members of the team gave messages in song. Miss Dorcas Carrithers was the evening pianist.

Elmer R. Carrithers, pastor.

Travels

A special trip to North Eastern Indiana to confer with a student who will enter college within a few weeks, gave an excellent opportunity to visit our new mission church in Michigan. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pippen most graciously received me. These folks are doing all in their power to give to their community a Christian worship program. Their township with about three hundred families in a prosperous farming community had no church. They worship now in a hall in the very center of the township. The boys and girls who came with a few adults for church school were as fine and challenging as could be found anywhere. Thirty-two people attended the services of the morning. Some of the best people of the community are very sympathetic with the work and are loyal helpers. It was a most interesting weekend.

The Indiana Laymen have been giving time, money, and service toward this missionary project. A special committee will make further study and report at General Conference. Cheyenne, Wyoming:

Enroute to California, accompanied by my wife, we stopped with brother Frank Garber and his family for a Sunday. We arrived via San Francisco Limited and just on time. We were gladly received. Brethren visitors are not too frequent out here. Cheyenne is on a high plateau at 6032 feet above sea level. The mountains can be seen on a clear day. Cheyenne is a modern city with a thriving business. Soon after our arrival, a snow and sleet storm was turned on and by morning there were two or three inches. It seemed quite chilly to us but our bedroom was equipped with an electric blanket, so no more need be said. A warm wind on Sunday and by noon the snow was gone.

We were just one week too early to use the auditorium of their new church. They expect to be in it for Easter Sunday services. The church is doing well. Reverend Garber is loved and revered by his people. Here is an example of real missionary business for the Lord. Brother Garber had a family of three boys and two girls at Leon, Iowa. They all won a companion in Iowa and every couple went with the parents to Cheyenne. After several years, a fine number of grandchildren are in the picture. They all make a great nucleus for a church. Fifty-two gathered for Sunday School and sixty-five for the worship hour. A fellowship dinner was served at the church, so as to give more opportunity for acquaintanceship. A good evening service was enjoyed also. They were a fine group to preach to. A former Johnstown family was present. They are planning for the dedication of their new church this coming fall in connection with district conference.

From snow and sleet in Cheyenne, we arrived in Sacramento, California, Tuesday afternoon, where the temperature was just 85 degrees. However, strange to say, I suppose, while going through the mountains in eastern California, there was plenty of snow yet. I concluded it must have been a most unusual winter. We were met by Kenneth Ronk who took us to Manteca for the conference. The sixty mile run was beautiful indeed, with trees in leaf and blossoms everywhere. They say we haven't seen anything yet so this story will terminate here until the sojourn in California ends. At least one more week of preaching will be done in these parts before going on to Los Angeles for a short stay, then it will be via Santa Fe to Kansas for another Sunday stopover.

Brethren are great folks everywhere. Let us win more of them.

Our prayers for all—

E. M. Riddle, Field Secretary.

LEAVING US AN EXAMPLE

The Bible is a book of examples. We should try to become familiar with all of them so as to use them in winning souls. They are inspired examples which cannot fail to bring results. Moody's sermons were made up mostly of examples, anecdotes which he related with wonderful results. If workers will record their examples in a notebook, they can soon have a valuable book.

We Can Advance In Missions

by C. Y. Gilmer

"And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. But when He saw the multitudes, He was moved with compassion on them, because they fainted, and were scattered abroad, as sheep having no shepherd. Then saith He unto His disciples, 'The harvest truly is plenteous, but the labourers are few; Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He will send forth labourers into His harvest.'" (Mt. 9:35-38)

"... As My Father hath sent Me, even so send I you. And when He had said this He breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost; Whosoever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whosoever sins ye retain, they are retained" (Jn. 20:21-23).

Our great task is to advance in missions. To do this we must have "compassion" for every creature regardless of race, creed, climate, circumstance or condition. It was "compassion" that brought Jesus from Heaven. It is this same "compassion" that has "commissioned" us. "I MUST preach the kingdom of God to other cities also: for therefore am I sent." (Luke 4:43) The "commission" is lagging for lack of "compassion." We need hearts akin to His great heart: "For the love of Christ constraineth us." "And He MUST NEEDS GO through Samaria." (John 4:4) Our Lord could have gone to Galilee by the easy Jordan valley route. But the Spirit led Him to walk over the hills and mountains through Samaria into Galilee in order that the village of Sychar might be converted. Any one who shows his concern for sinners may win souls! What if Jesus had shown no concern for the woman at the well? Missions is the winning of the lost. But dry eyes and cold hearts is our curse! "He that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him." (Psa. 126:6) There cannot be missions without passion for God and the lost. "He maketh . . . His ministers a flame of fire." (Heb. 1:7) We must burn or we will rot.

We are going to ADVANCE in missions by having "compassion" for the multitudes who are destined to Hell. A brief excursion to Hell would be of benefit to all preachers and church members in order for them to have more than just a mind belief in Hell as the destiny of the lost. We need a heart belief concerning the horrors of Hell's realities. In fact, nothing will happen until that belief, conviction, certainty, concern and confession reaches our hearts. Then we shall be changed; our hearts and minds will be impassioned. We must keep in view the goal, which is the lost multitudes.

Above this distress of the multitudes we must see Christ bearing the sins of an entire world on Calvary's cross, the Saviour lifted up between Heaven and Earth as a magnet in the hands of the Holy Spirit and the children of God to draw sinners out of darkness into His marvelous light. We must see our Lord's sovereign right to our every minute, mite and might for the carrying out of this great task. We are redeemed to render saving service.

"Rise, let us be going" to the sixty-six million in the United States who are not members of any church! We MUST GO or forfeit our existence—the foes of the Church are seeking to tear her down. Our civil liberties are threatened. Our youth are threatened with unchastity, intemperance, and infidelity. Class hatred and revolution are staring us in the face. If we do not arise the scourge of Hell will level our churches to the ground, destroy our homes, make our women common property, make our children wards of the state, and reduce America to a nation of miserable slaves. Let the judgment of God upon unbelieving Europe today suffice to let you know "it can happen here!"

"And, as ye go, preach . . ." We dare not give ourselves to anything in Christian activity except to tell of Christ and Him crucified. When the church is determined to educate the multitudes to anything and everything "save Jesus Christ and Him crucified," she has lost her mission. Nobody in all the world except the children of God is telling the message of salvation. In the parable of the Great Supper, God had only one servant, and he represents the soul winner. The only true service unto God is to get some one to sit down to the heavenly banquet!

Again, it is not enough to be fundamental, premillennial—it is not enough to preach the unadulterated gospel. It must be preached in the power and demonstration of the Holy Spirit. Enough gospel has been preached to win more worlds than our own to Christ and yet the multitudes are lost. The reason that multifarious activities, money raising and spending, revivals and radio work is bringing such small results is that there is not enough of the Holy Spirit in the work of the church. The Holy Spirit can invigorate the message.

"We can advance in missions" by following the directions blue-printed in the book of Acts. There men "turned the world upside down" because they had a vision of the Lord Jesus renewed afresh on their souls every day. They prayed in their praying, and spent much time in prayer. Real Heaven-shaking prayer, earth-revolutionizing prayer, sinner convicting and converting prayer is now well nigh unknown. In Acts they knew the source of their strength, so they prayed. "... They . . . went everywhere preaching the word." (Acts 8:4) Preaching to them was not just a man occupying a pulpit. They all witnessed for their Lord. Every child of God is an appointed, anointed, sent-forth and established preacher of the gospel. They sowed the seed and God brought forth the increase. They saw to it that souls were saved. May God help us to do as well as they by the souls of men! —Huntington, Indiana.

Easter In Argentina

by Rita Gooseman Nolte

The Easter season in Catholic Argentina is a time of great festivity. The season is inaugurated forty days prior to Easter Sunday. This is the time of the joyous "Carnival," a celebration which resembles mostly the traditional Hallowe'en of the United States. In the morning and afternoon certain hours are set aside during which the people hilariously douse each other with water. At night a colorful parade moves through the principal streets and avenues. It is quite an elaborate affair boasting of beautiful floats and richly costumed paraders. The annual Mardi Gras parade held in New Orleans would probably most nearly approximate this display in my country. Later in the night and early morning the private clubs are crowded with dancers. Carnival is celebrated for four days—Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and the following Sunday.

When Easter week arrives, the gaiety is left behind and a cloak of religion is assumed. Churches are crowded during this week. The confession of sins becomes popular. Undoubtedly, many of the people taking part in these religious activities are sincere, but they are not possessors of the knowledge of truth. Religion is and remains to them an outward expression lacking in the qualities of soul satisfaction. A recent issue of Life magazine (May 2, 1949) gives an account of religious festivities in Spain. Those happenings are a good example of what occurs in Argentina, but not to such great lengths of display as the Spaniards apparently choose to follow.

During the week before Easter the Catholics must visit seven churches. This is called "via crucis." In the performance of this, they remember the steps Christ took to Calvary. The churches remain open until late in the night and one can see hundreds of people going from one church to another.

On the evening of the day commemorating Christ's crucifixion, they take a large statue resembling Christ in a casket from the Cathedral to another church. It is carried by several men on their shoulders. Following these men winds a long silent procession.

During these times, people are not supposed to make noise or do anything that might offend the Lord. No meat is eaten unless a price is paid to a priest.

As you can understand by these few remarks, the religion of Argentina is largely outward expression, a satisfaction of traditional forms. The nation cries out for a release from superstition. You who read this article hold the key to its release. You can be an instrument in the accomplishment of great things. Do not, then, exist in lethargy.

Let Us Dig Deeper

Dr. C. F. Yoder

There is a story of an enterprising man who bought an old worn-out farm that was lying idle because no one wanted it. He cleaned out the ditches, plowed under the weeds and fertilized the whole farm. In a few years he was reaping rich dividends in large crops.

Not content with this, he explored the rocky hills on one side of the place and by digging in a wet spot he found a large spring of good water which he conducted to the house and garden.

Finding some shale by the creek, he dug into the hill and found a rich vein of coal which was worth a fortune. But digging still deeper he found a vein of quartz and in that a vein of gold ore which made him immensely rich.

As a church we are working in a world which has been badly ruined by sin. It needs to be cleaned up and stirred deep. It needs the water of life and the enriching grace of God. There is still fire in the hills and gold in the depths. What we need is a conviction of its worth and of our duty to find its hidden riches and bring them to the owner. We are not owners, but stewards, and our reward is not in gold or in diamonds, black or white, but in the heavenly riches of human souls. Some church members are content to gather a little fruit from an old orchard. Some are willing to dig a little for greater gains, but only those who are earnest enough to dig down deep will find the gold.

One man went through a sickness which nearly cost his life before he learned to go to the bottom of his pocket-book and get the gold for the Lord. Doing that he found the upspringing stream of joy in his Christian experience. Brethren, let us not wait for the chastening rod. Let us dig up the gold for God. You may have given your Easter offering of copper or nickel or silver or paper, but you can do better. Pray God for strength and dig, dig, dig. Dig down to gold. Whether you know it or not you have it, and it belongs to God. The field or labor needs the gold of the Gospel. It needs double and treble what you are giving. Dig deep, Brethren, dig deep.

In His Will Is My Place

Rev. Loretta Carrithers

"And the Lord said, 'Behold, there is a Place by Me.'" Exodus 33:21.

What the Lord's people "might be" and what "they are," are two different things. Unbelief has fixed a great gulf between. There are so many privileges to enjoy, but few who accept and practice them to the full.

Moses found a place by God, but Peter followed afar off. Most of the Lord's people nowadays know the latter place best.

We have a rich heritage of knowledge of God's will for our lives, in His precious Word. In it, we may learn how many men, through pain and suffering, learned God's will for their lives. As we prayerfully study this Book, we see, very plainly, that God has a place in His will for each of us today. Yes, we find, indeed, He has not even excluded WOMEN from the precious privilege of a Place in His Will, by His side.

Many interpretations have been given to 1 Cor. 14:34 "Let your women keep silence in the churches." Some would take this verse out of its context and exclude womanhood from singing, praying, teaching, preaching, or even a friendly conversation in the church. For surely silence means SILENCE and not partial silence in some particular phase of work in the church. If we accept this one verse literally, then we must accept it entirely.

May we consider, for a moment, to whom this statement was written and under what circumstances? Paul wrote it to the Corinthians, just as he also wrote in 1 Tim. 2:9 in regard to modest apparel, gold and costly array. Does this verse permit a wife to wear a wedding ring?

Concerning marriage, Paul, in 1 Cor. 7, speaks plainly. I wonder why the ones who advocated that women keep silent in the church, did not remain single, if they took Paul literally as their authority? Dare we accept Paul as authority on women and not on men? I have never heard a Brethren minister preach and teach that people should not marry. If we are sticking to the "letter of the law" we dare not exclude what applies to us.

Paul says in 2 Cor. 3:6 "The letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life." So we must get the spirit of the Word in 1 Cor. 14:34. How could Paul command women to be silent in church in one place and tell them to pray and prophesy (preach, exhort, or comfort) in church in another place? Do we find a CONTRADICTION in 1 Cor. 11:5, where Paul gives women these very instructions? Certainly there is NO CONTRADICTION in God's Word!

If we study the customs of those days, we find slaves and prostitutes went without veils, and their hair was cut as a punishment. We note, also, that history verifies that part of the temple worship was prostitution. Sin had crept in and caused the worship to become far from what God wanted it to be. Paul explained how a woman was to dress when she took part in public services, so she would be distinguished from the dishonorable women in the temple.

In 1 Cor. 14:35, Paul teaches that women should ask their husbands at home concerning the doctrine—etc. Let us bear in mind that many of the women of that day were unlearned and therefore unfitted to contend in the church. Again, may we keep in mind the corrupt, immoral conditions of the church to whom Paul was speaking. For that reason, I believe we may be so bold as to say NO woman, guided by the Holy Spirit, then or now, would want to dictate to the church heads or usurp authority over them in any way. I am certain I do not!

There is a definite place for women in the work of the Lord, as given in the Scripture. Peter refers to Joel's prophecy in Acts 2:17 "I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh. And your sons and daughters shall prophesy." Notice it says that DAUGHTERS shall prophesy as well as the sons. Prophecy means not only to foretell, but to expound truth. I am certain that Christ did not intend that women should not preach for Him, for the first Gospel message was entrusted to a woman on that first Easter morning when He said, "Go and tell my brethren." Matt. 28:10 and also John 20:17.

I do praise the Lord that He gave us women the privilege of a definite work for Him. Also, I praise Him that He, personally, gave woman the command to "go tell." What our Lord, Himself, commanded us to do, we need have no fear in doing. Who is better qualified to ordain man or WOMAN to preach than our risen Lord JESUS CHRIST? If Jesus had not intended women to be preachers, He would never have sent any women preachers out! He would have waited for a man to come along first. If it were not His will for women to preach, He would not have given them the talent! In His parable of the talents, each servant was accountable for the talent given to them. If God had given us talents, then certainly He expects us to use them.

Since there will be neither male or female in heaven, perhaps it is more important for us, while here on earth, to seek the place He has for us, as individuals, to serve Him while it is yet day, rather than to dispute WHO shall serve Him. Perhaps we may please Him better, if we prayerfully, faithfully find that place of service close to the Lord, in fully surrendering our lives to Him, in using our talents for His glory, in diligently winning souls for Him, while we have the opportunity.

God grant that each of us, as His servants, may not seek a place of pleasure, position, authority or honor, but may we choose a humble place of service, "IN HIS WILL, IS MY PLACE."

WHAT HAST THOU GIVEN?

by June Byler

There are portraits in the Bible of many personalities. Some are more familiar than others, some more detailed; but all, having been placed by the Master hand, are worthy of our attention. Let us consider a few of those character studies; perhaps in comparison our own attitudes toward our responsibility to the Lord will be strengthened.

The episode in Matthew 7:36-50 takes place in the home of a Pharisee who has invited Jesus to a meal, but has not shown Him the courtesy of providing water for His weary feet. Into this set-up walks one, a sinner whose heart has been moved by the compassion of Christ. To Him she brings not only her most costly possession, but a repentant soul and a yearning to show her gratitude. She washes His feet with her tears, anoints them with her precious ointment, and dries them with her hair. Such devotion thrills us but puts us to shame.

We look again and in John 6:1-14 we are shown the multitude of 15,000 or more people—tired and hungry people, looking to Jesus and his disciples for consolation. Among the crowd one lad stands out; he is not a boy of unusual ability or possessions, but one with a great faith in his Lord as well as a willingness to give that which he has. What a combination! If we could be made to realize that nothing is small if we put it to use for the Lord, what wonders He could work through us!

As we turn to Luke 21:1-4, we find ourselves standing with the Lord and His disciples in the temple observing those who are casting their gifts into the treasury. We see the rich, amid the blowing of trumpets, and with much pomp and show, making their donations. While one of these awaits the recognition and applause that he feels is his due, a shabby dressed widow approaches the counter and, unnoticed by the crowd, drops in her mite. Jesus points her out to those who stand with Him and proclaims her gift to be of more value than all the others, for in humility and love, she has given of her living. What a lesson for those of us who have learned only to give of our abundance!

As we take one more look, we find in Acts 9:36 a man on his way to Damascus; a conscientious, well-meaning man whose honest intentions are to serve God, but he is one who has not taken God's will into consideration. As he journeys, he is brought face to face with Jesus. He is made to realize his error and immediately asks, "Lord, what will you have me to do?" How often we, too, make decisions or plans that are not made according to His will, but according to our selfish purposes!

If our own characters were to be presented as these have in words inspired by God, would we be satisfied with the pictures as they should appear, or would they fall short of God's plan for our lives?

FIVE LEVELS OF GIVING

1. The Tip Level

There are those who give a small coin to the Lord, the same way that they tip the waitress or the porter. It is just a little matter of appreciation for the Lord.

2. The Entertainment Level

There are those who refuse to pledge and give only when they come to church. They give just as they give to a theater, or the ball game, They give when they go.

3. The Emotional Level

There are those who give only when they are emotionally stirred. They refuse to give when their feelings are hurt. They may give once a year or twice a year, according to feelings.

4. The Promise Level

There are those who pledge but neglect the promise. They say they have pledged, but they expect the church to prosper on promises. They never or seldom pay up.

5. The Bible Level

There are those who give their tithes and offerings as the Lord teaches in the Bible. The stewards of this level are the ones who carry the burden of the Church's financial program. What is implied here is cheerful, joyous proportionate giving week by week.

The Night Is Far Spent, But The Day Is At Hand

by Rev. E. L. Miller

This subject assigned to us is a direct quotation from Romans 13:12. Paul was no calamity howler, but he did face the facts and tell the truth as revealed by God. Paul looked and longed for the consummation of the church age. He urged preparedness to meet it. The coming of his Lord was a most precious doctrine to him. He full well knew what was to happen in this old world just prior to that advent. Paul would not have been surprised had it happened during his lifetime. The mystery of iniquity was already working in his day. No specious doctrine of the world getting better and better until the millennium would cause us to think so. In writing to Timothy he pictured the conditions of things at the end time. Some of these things existed already in his day, but the worst was yet to come, and the best too. In Romans thirteen he speaks somewhat about all of this, and surely time has shown him to be a real prophet.

The terrible wickedness of the people of this world threw some folks off the track and caused them to expect an immediate catastrophe, and they began setting dates for the consummation of it all. These narrow ists and isms failed, as indeed they should, for going contrary to the teachings of both Jesus and Paul. Signs there should be, but no date set, "No man knoweth the day nor the hour." So why set themselves against such clear statements? But man has always thought that he knew better than the declared Word of God, hence all our troubles. Years before John received the Revelation, Paul already saw the Sardis condition of the church, the little life of the Philadelphia faithful and also the awful worldliness and indifference of the Laodicean period. The latter is your period and mine, the end period, with the Philadelphia group among us still fighting hard to hold on to religion pure and undefiled.

It was about 1912 that I heard a preacher more earnest than correct shouting that the world was getting better and with all the progress being made we would have the millennium and lasting peace and world brotherhood inside a few years. How wrong that rather sincere brother was remained to be shown almost immediately. For in just a few years World War I blew up right in our faces and the so-called calamity howlers were vindicated. They cried that we who believed Jesus and Paul were dispensers of gloom. Not so. We were merely accepting the prophetic proclamations of God's agents.

What is the upshot of all this? Just this—things have gone rather badly in this old world morally and spiritually speaking. Inventions of another kind have worked havoc with our world of humans. Jesus came as the Light of the World, but the workers of evil preferred darkness because of their deeds. So they pushed the switch and spiritual and moral darkness came upon the world. That ~~and night and~~ darkness have been terrific. It has lasted long. But thanks to God it is nearing its end. At least it is 1900 years nearer than when Paul wrote the words of our text.

It is a common saying among us that the darkest hours are just before dawn. And as this is being typed, April 25, 1949, what with the godless communists overrunning China, the red menace in Korea, the cold war in Europe and a dozen other powder keg spots in our world, who can say that the night is not terribly dark? In like manner the darkness of spiritual indifference, negligence and self-sufficiency, so intensified in recent years, may be but the precursor of the really NEW DAY, the day that false prophets declared so emphatically was about to break during different times during our church age. We do not so declare, but accumulating signs would have us warned and waiting. Indeed, the night is far spent, some nineteen centuries have come and gone. And the promise of Paul, and Jesus too, is that the day should break bright and fair on God's faithful and expecting souls. For only the expecting, watching and waiting loyalists shall see the birth of that new dawn and the King in all His Glory. Only they shall see that dawn brighten more and more into the perfect day with God's eternal love and fellowship. But remember, there shall be hordes who shall not see the break of that new dawn. Darkness, eternal darkness, shall be their portion. The outer darkness and all its sorrows await the disobedient, the scoffers, mockers, and all those enumerated in Rev. 21:8. So as the signs multiply, the night wears on and the glamorous NEW DAY approaches—let us be up and doing. Let us set ourselves to the task of soul saving and soul building. Let us really see that the fields are white unto the harvest. And let us remember too, the awful harvest being gathered by the enemy of the race. Let us take most seriously the task laid upon us by our Lord and Master. Work while it is yet day, temporal day, for the night cometh, eternal night, when no longer can we carry on as gleaners for the Captain of our salvation. The world's night is all about us, but God's day is approaching fast and it is laden with glorious benedictions for all who love Him and expectantly await His glorious appearing. Missionaries of all kinds in the Master's vineyard, and missionary-minded folks on the home base should take great courage from Paul's words of promise. THE DAY IS AT HAND.

GETTING READY—There is only one way to get ready for immortality, and that is to love this life and live it as bravely and as faithfully, and cheerfully as we can—

Activities In Colon

"Jesus said, I must work the works of him that sent me while it is day." St. John 9:4.

On the December 1st, 1948, we celebrated the first anniversary of the work in Colon, Buenos Aires, and as we make spiritual balance we can see with great joy how the Lord has blest us and precious souls have been won by His Grace.

There is a great activity in this missionary field. We began by distributing literature or tracts, personal work from house to house, speaking about our dear Saviour Jesus Christ, and so on. We have held preaching services, tent evangelization, and special campaigns in the outskirts of the town.

These activities have hurt the enemy of the Lord. Many who were living in spiritual ignorance and without a Saviour are waking up from their unbelief and so the enemy is busy trying to hinder the spreading of the Gospel.

The priest used his influence in the public schools, in the mass and also through literature, to go against the preacher and the members of the church. We praise the Lord for this, for we are seeing that in this way the gospel is getting to the hearts of the people.

This year we began with a tent campaign and open air meetings, whose influence has been felt all over the town. As a result, ten new persons accepted Christ as their Saviour and are now attending the church. On March 5, it was our great privilege to see three of our youth follow the Lord Jesus, through the water of Baptism. That same day three nice children were dedicated to the Lord.

The next day was Sunday and we celebrated the Lord's Supper and had a special program which lasted five hours.

The Sunday School now has an attendance of 25, and adult meetings with an attendance of 40 in the church. There is also the W. M. S. and the young people's meetings every month. There is also a nice choir of young people for special meetings.

Dear Brethren, we have still a lot to do in our mission field, but if we live near to Jesus we shall hear, in that day, the great Shepherd say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter into the joy of thy Lord." Matt. 25:21.

Russia Needs You

by Margery Long
Ashland College

The Russian children have lost their God. To Russia, religion is nothing more than an enemy of the people. It is a vicious drug fed to the poor and ignorant to keep them blind to the light of knowledge. God is not worshipped—the supreme Lenin is their ideal.

This in a nutshell is the status of religion in Russia at the present. Nearly everyone thinks of Russia as being Communistic, which is quite true. The Communistic party is the political party which controls the Soviet Union. Out of Russia's estimated 211,384,985 population in 1947, only 6,000,000 were said at that time to be Communists. Yet, when one realizes the might of this minority group, one can well understand that figures do not tell the complete story. In a totalitarian government one political party is in control and in Russia Communism is the one party.

The Communist party admits that they carry on anti-religious propaganda. The leaders are polluting the minds of the young Russian children with the startling statement that there is no God. They are wise in that they are conceiving far in advance the necessity of building a strong future Soviet Russia through the youth of today.

Communist clubs for the children are being formed throughout Russia. Members of the group are called "Young Leninists" or "Pioneers." This new movement is becoming the center of their lives. They would much rather miss their recess at school than miss any of the three weekly lectures of the Guide. The Pioneers shun religion, they boldly declare that there is no God. This group is loyally glued together with the stern determination of exterminating all sacred images called "icons" and any type of religious literature. From the statistics taken in 1945, there were nearly 20,000 orthodox congregations in the U. S. S. R., which goes to prove that religion at least played a role in Russia up to that time. Since then Communist movements have swept through the country and have attempted to overrule the belief in a God.

It is startling but interesting to note that Communism views men impersonally in contrast to religion which views men personally. Religion places its emphasis upon personality which connotes a value. Communism, on the other hand, emphasizes materialism which interprets life from the standpoint of facts—not values. Therefore, we signify Communism as wholly impersonal, devoting more prominence to material goods such as economics, politics, etc. than to the true value and importance of the welfare of mankind. Quoting from the Saturday Evening Post, "Communism does not recognize any dignity in individual man, nor does it hold that human personality as such has any sanctity or value . . . It has a scheme of salvation, albeit a materialistic and worldly kind of salvation." How thankful the Christian should be that his salvation comes through the personal sacrifice of Jesus Christ, our Lord and our God.

The Communistic movement does not view morality as religion views it. In Russia, no crime is criminal if it is committed for the purpose of advancing the Great Plan of Communism. Morality of religion considers the rights of each individual, not that of government. The moral life of the Christian believer is centered around the Supreme Example of Jesus Christ.

Steven, a Russian child who was reared in a religious home, was forced through the Pioneer movement to command his family to forsake their religious heritage. After a tormenting struggle from within and a losing struggle with his family, little Steve was cruelly expelled from his club. As a result of this action, Steve ran away from home. All of his pals were Pioneers and now they would have nothing to do with him—so he felt that this would be the solution to his problem. Steve was sought and finally found, and as you would expect, his religious family graciously welcomed him home with outstretched arms.

The beauty of our Christian faith is that its members will not be expelled. We are all members of one happy family who are invited to enter the Kingdom—we are not forced to enter. Our belief means so much to us because we have sought it ourselves. It is not for the benefit of a social or political machine, but for our own personal betterment.

Communism is ruining the lives of many of the children and adults of Russia as well as the lives of Russia's satellites. Though it seems impossible, Communism is slowly leaking into our country. Our Christian duty toward Russia is to sincerely pray for the abolishment of Communism from her borders. We who enjoy freedom of religion should remember those who are less fortunate than we.

This then is my challenge to you, my friends. Brethren, let us make Russia a missionary field through our daily prayers.

Some one had prayed, and Faith, a reaching hand,

Took hold of God, and brought Him down that day,
So many, many hearts have need of prayer—

Oh, let us pray.

Grace Noll Crowell.

Twins arrived at the parsonage in Fremont, Ohio, the home of Reverend and Mrs. George Hagenbuck, Sunday morning, May 1st. Our last report is that the mother and babies are doing well. Their many friends will join in congratulations and will pray that these two added to their family may, also, fill an important place in Christian service.

Switzerland, Land of Contrasts

by Howard Fox

Switzerland is a land of contrasts. One sees some of the highest peaks in Europe pointing their stony fingers toward the sky capped with snow the year round. Deep valleys guide rushing torrents toward the seas to the north and the south of the continent. Hundreds of little villages nestle high on the slopes of the mountains, villages that are reached only after several hours of hard climbing afoot or on a mountain mule. On the plains industrial cities employ hundreds of men manufacturing merchandise for all parts of the world. This is all present in a country which has a land area of only 15,737 square miles. These scenes of beauty attract tourists from the whole world.

Europe is a troubled continent, but this little country with four official languages has not been involved in either of the two great conflicts which have shaken the world. On the contrary, Switzerland has helped the suffering of both powers prosecuting the wars.

Contrasts are seen in the social realm too. We held high the splendid example of brotherly love demonstrated by the Red Cross, thinking of the hundreds and thousands of lives that have been saved or helped; we rejoice that this little country could, by its neutrality, do this work. However, we need to be enlightened about conditions in Switzerland. Proportionally, Switzerland has the greatest number of divorcees, the greatest number of suicides, and the highest percentage of drunkenness in all Europe!

Consider the spiritual contrasts. From some of Switzerland's cities sounded forth the bold testimony of the Protestant Reformation. Geneva, where John Calvin uncompromisingly led a democratic and solidly Protestant reform even to expelling all the Catholics, now has as many Catholics as Protestants. Geneva has three priests for every Protestant pastor. Furthermore, modernism now is being preached from the very pulpit where once these reformation truths were heralded.

The people whose ancestors were stirred by the reformation have a cold national church supported by the state which leaves the people who attend hardly any obligation to give for the furtherance of the Gospel. Worse than that, their hearts are void of the knowledge of the Gospel of Christ. For the most part they are self-righteous and satisfied. They all, in one way or another, support their church and complacently believe that their occasional church attendance and meager giving satisfy God's requirements. They neglect God's house, but fill to capacity their wonderful electric trains, Sunday after Sunday, going off for a mountain hike, a visit, or a ski trip.

It should also be remembered that some of the Swiss Cantons (a canton compares with a State in the U. S. A.) are entirely Catholic, and Protestantism has no part in them at all. These Catholic powers are strong. There are also groups representing five hundred different religious sects. Surely little Switzerland needs the help of praying people.

Evangelical Christianity is not entirely out of the picture. It is represented by a number of churches and organizations, among them those of our Pentecostal ranks, Leonard Steiner, pastor in Basel, Switzerland, states in an article on Switzerland, that there are nearly 100 assemblies with a total attendance of 3,000. I can speak more freely of the French part of Switzerland for it is here we have lived the past months while studying the French language.

When the Pentecostal message came in the early years of 1900, also in 1920, and later in 1934 and 36, there were mighty manifestations of the power of God working through yielded vessels. Since these days other churches have come into being. Now about twenty-four towns and villages have Pentecostal assemblies. Some of these groups are very small, not having a resident pastor, while the largest church has a membership of approximately 225 members. Of all the Pentecostal churches in Switzerland, there are only two which have their own church building. The others have services in rented halls and in homes. Most of the people come from the national church and are not used to liberal giving, therefore they continue in their halls. For the same reason, the missionary enterprise suffers.

A large percentage of the people have never seen a real outpouring of the Spirit, and the accompanying wonders that God works. The prayer of many a sincere heart is: "Lord, send a revival." Pray that God will deepen their hunger and that others will join in the same earnest prayer.—Missionary Digest.

Plan Of Life

Horace Bushnell said, "Every man's life is a plan of God." That does not mean that each life is like a movie reel, plotted and mapped out from beginning to end in some celestial studio, and run off on the screen of life. Such a view of life is sheer fatalism, leaving no place for moral choice and hence no place for moral greatness. God does not plan our lives in detail. But He does plan the moral pattern of every life.

God does not plan for any life to be criminal, or mean, or selfish, or petty, or unbrotherly, or impure. He plans for every life to be clean and just and Christlike. When God raised Jesus from the dead on Easter morning, He was saying to us—"This is the kind of life I planned for all men. The quality of life you see in Jesus is the only kind of life that is worthy of living forever."

Yes, God plans that every man should seek to measure up to the fullness of the stature of Christ Jesus. But, alas, we can reject his plan.

"The sweet persuasion of his voice
Respects our sanctity of will;
He gives us day, but we have our choice
To walk in darkness still."

FIRESTONE PARK BRETHREN CHURCH AKRON, OHIO

by J. G. Dodds

This fine report from Akron has been condensed in some places due to space.—Editor.

Statistical reports reveal interesting facts in the Sunday School and church. From an average of 40 per year in 1946-47 to 80 in 1948-49, or in two years the record has been doubled. Likewise the morning worship services increased from 38 in 1946 to 73 in 1949.

A two week Bible Conference was held last Fall during which ten were added to the church membership. The average attendance was 47, with a high of 93 and a low of 18. Beginning March 28, 1949, Brother Floyd Sibert held a two week Revival campaign for us. From this meeting six have already been added to church membership—five of whom are adults and the other a young lady aged 14. Others have promised to be baptized later. One woman made the good confession after Communion Service on the last night; she is waiting for her husband to get ready so they can be baptized at the same time. The average attendance was 58 plus with a high of 95 and a low of 21. (The low mark was on a night when we had wind, snow and ice to contend with.)

Brother Sibert is sound in the ministry of the Word. His sermons are true to the "Faith once for all delivered to the Saints" as believer, taught and practiced by the Brethren Church. He preaches the Bible, the whole Bible and nothing but the Bible for the whole world. Our church is greatly strengthened by his ministry among us; the membership more firmly grounded in their knowledge of the Bible, many new contacts were made, and the Brethren Church more firmly established in the community. We hope that Brother Sibert may be able to come back to us for another meeting.

We have good news from this little mission church to all our friends and church people from ocean to ocean and from north to south. Our last quarter's average attendance has been higher than for many moons. Since our last report we have received three by relation, and baptized one. The one will go to another church, however, but we are willing to give any one Christian baptism. We have a new C. E. and is doing fine work and the attendance is commendable. Some of our new talent is being used for the glory of the Lord. Mrs. Deeter and I took three of our new girls to the Mid-year Y. P. Camp-Rally at Lanark, recently. Now they have a desire to go to the summer camp. In May Mrs. Deeter and I and some of our church folks will be on the air each morning from Centerville, KCOG new radio station.

OTHER NEWS OF THE CHURCH

A choir has been organized with Oliver M. Parker as president and Mrs. Royce Gates as secretary-treasurer. The choir has conducted several special services: a negro spiritual; a Christmas service; an Easter service given on Easter Sunday night. H. L. Glaze is the choir director and Oliver Parker is the chorister. Mrs. Mamie Smith is the pianist. I might add here that we have a male quartette that will soon be second to none in this area.

At the March regular Laymen meeting Brother A. E. Schwab of Louisville gave a helpful and inspiring talk to the men. During this meeting a Boys' Brotherhood was organized.

The W. M. S. keeps pace in its growth with other organizations of the church. As women are added to the church, they are immediately solicited for membership in the W. M. S. The Laymen do likewise with the men. The W. M. S. public service was given Sunday, February 20th. In addition to presenting the work of the W. M. S. the women presented a playlet, "How the Story Grew." Also, the women have one or more all-day meetings every month in which they sew, quilt, count tax stamps, and do other work for missions and for the good of the church.

A Vacation Bible School is in process of preparation to be held before Ohio District Conference. Teachers and other workers have been appointed and the material is ordered.

During the statistical year 33 new members were added to the church, 26 by baptism and 7 by statement and former baptism.

We request all Brethren Churches that have isolated members living in Akron, Ohio, to write them and urge them to get into the Firestone Park Brethren Church and thus keep their church membership alive and active. Any Brethren passing through Akron have a cordial invitation to visit us. Pray for us and for all the work of this mission in a city of nearly 400,000.

faction all winter. Just one Sunday, when 20 below zero, it did not warm up sufficient for worship, so we met at the Manse. Some new things have been added to the inside equipment. No longer needing the coal house, it was sold and moved off the lots. Recently the laity had charge of the morning service. We are planning a Sunrise Easter service, and some specials for the day; also several nights of post-Easter Bible lectures and communion. We think we will have a community Vacation Bible school again this year. We are still hoping and praying for a successor to take over this splendid field next fall. Who will answer the call? After praying and working for some definite things for three years the Lord has answered prayers. How can we help but give Him all the Praise and Glory?

The Foreign Missions Conference of North America reports that the more than 100 missionary-sending agencies of more than sixty Protestant churches, which comprise the Conference, are seeking to recruit 3,593 young people within the next few years for missionary service. Technicians are also sought for educational advance in the field of radio, motion picture and journalism overseas.—World Outlook.

A Lutheran-owned plane, "St. Paul," has been flying Scriptures to rural areas in China in recent months, the American Bible Society reports. This fast means of delivery was used because of the urgency for getting Scriptures to outlying areas in a hurry. The Bible group recognizes the possibility that the war may bring an end to the publication of the Scriptures, which are printed in Shanghai. Then too, overland transportation to any given point may stop at any time.

The Bible Society reports that the circulation of Scriptures in China during 1948 was 94,842 Bibles, 111,686 New Testaments and 2,726,154 Scripture Portions.—World Outlook.

In order to speed up production of Bibles in Germany, the American Bible Society has ordered a new speed press at a cost of $17,500 and two folding machines along with $48,000 worth of binding materials, to be put to use at the printing plant in Stuttgart. The program for 1949 includes 150,000 Bibles and 300,000 Testaments.

The fact that increasing numbers of men and women want to continue their education through adult life was characterized recently by Paul A. McGhee, dean of New York University's division of general education, as a sign of social health. The total registration in adult education courses this year at the University is 16,244. It was 15,000 for 1947-48. Both these figures represent a substantial increase over prewar totals.

Puerto Rico's first elected governor was inaugurated to the enthusiastic approval of the island's citizens. Former governors have been appointed by the President of the U. S. government. Luis Munoz Martin's first act was to appoint the first commissioner of Education to be approved by the island's Senate.

This act attracted more attention than his appointment of an attorney general due to the enthusiasm for an improvement of the island's educational system.

Missionaries from our churches will welcome this much needed change in the educational outlook of the island.—Selected.

FISHERS OF MEN

LESSON XLIX—STUMBLING STONES

Text—1 Cor. 11:29—"There must also be factions among you that they who are approved may be made manifest."

1. "That rib story bothers me." Can you believe that the woman was created from the side of man to be his companion under his arm to be protected and near his heart to beloved? If so, believe that much and, for your salvation believe John 3:16.
2. "I cannot forget the evil I have done." God promises to forget it and that is the principal concern. Heb. 8:12. With Christ in you all things will be made new. Try the mirror of 2 Cor. 3:18.
3. "They tell me that I can be saved in the next world." Do they know more about it than Jesus? See what he says in Luke 16:19-21.
4. "How do I know which religion is best?" Simply do as the first disciples did. Acts 2:42.
5. "I was baptized when a child." That need not keep you from being saved now. Can you answer the question of Acts 19:2? Do as they did. vss. 2-6.
6. "I do not harm anybody." That is not the question. Do you believe in Christ as your Savior and promise to obey Him? John 5:24.
7. "I mean to come some time." The road to hell is paved with such promises. Now is the only time that is yours. Jas. 4:13-16; Lk. 9:57-62.

REMOVE THE STUMBLING BLOCK

Silly as most excuses sound to the worker, they do not seem silly to the one who makes them and we should try to appreciate his or her point of view. An old man told me that he was once interested in becoming a Christian and went to a pastor to talk things over. He spoke of his difficulties but instead of giving him real help the pastor ridiculed him and called him a "silly little infidel." Thus the pastor not only failed to win a soul, he made himself the target of numberless criticisms from the one he insulted.

LESSON L—QUESTIONS

Text—Jas. 1:25—"He that looketh into the perfect law of liberty and continueth therein, not being a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the word, this man shall be blessed in his deed."

1. "Is there a church in which I can obey all the commandments?" Yes. You will know its door by 1 Cor. 12:13; its members by John 13:39; 39; its creed and discipline by 2 Tim. 3:16; its work by Mat. 28:29; its leaders by Eph. 4:11-15; and its name by Mat. 23:8.
2. "Can I be a member and an employee of the government?" Why not? The government needs Christians. Obey Mat. 22:19-21.
3. "I am in military service. What shall I do?" Be a good soldier of Christ. Your companions will need your testimony and help. 2 Tim. 2:1-7.
4. "Is it right to use medicine or a doctor?" Is it right to work after praying for daily bread? Mat. 6:11. See 1 Tim. 5:23.
5. "Is it wrong to carry life insurance?" See 1 Tim. 5:8.
6. "I cannot eat the Lord's Supper with hypocrites." Study well Rom. 14:4-10 and then 1 Cor. 11:17, and stay by vs. 28.
7. "I tried once and failed." Then you are now prepared to avoid your former mistake. Read the story of Peter,

Lk. 22:31-34; Jn. 21:15-19.

A little girl, daughter of a college president, spilled her daddy's ink on the desk. She was badly frightened, but when he came home at noon, she met him and took him by the hand and led him to the inkspot on the floor and said, "You did this." She did the same with several other spots. Thus she prepared the way for clemency when at last he saw the ink spot on the desk and said, "But who did this?" Thus sinners must be led to learn that "every man must give account of HIMSELF unto God."

LESSON LI—MORE QUESTIONS

Text—Jas. 1:5—"If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God."

1. "I must work on Sundays." Look for better work and meanwhile rest the seventh day after six of work. Lk. 18:7; Rom. 14:6.
2. "A church member owes me and will not pay." Have you done as told in Mt. 18:15-17? If not, do so. Consult your pastor. Heb. 13:7.
3. "How can I be a Christian when my children do not obey me?" When a child is disobedient, take him alone and read together the passages the child should learn. Explain them and have prayer together. Deut. 6:7.
4. "The pastor never comes to visit me." Have you gone to visit him? He will be glad to help you. Do as Nicodemus did. Jn. 3:1-6.
5. "There is no church in our town." Start one. Others have done that. Rom. 16:5. In the meantime, find comfort in the promise of Ezek. 11:16:
6. "I cannot read." You can learn and be well repaid. Meanwhile you need all the more help from your church. Heb. 10:25.

ASK OF GOD

Once a man whom I was trying to win to Christ produced so many criticisms of church members that I said, "Isn't it a pity that such a good work as God is trying to do with the church is being hindered by lack of cooperation on our part? Let us pray about it." I led in prayer and then asked him to pray. He mumbled something so low that I could not understand what he said. But he did not repeat any of his criticisms and some time later surrendered to Christ. Conversations are like fruit that is most easily plucked when ripe.

LESSON LII—INSPIRING EXAMPLES

Text—Jas. 5:10—"Take for example . . ."

The Bible is a marvel of inspiring short biographies. We close these studies by citing a few.

1. Examples which serve as a warning. 1 Cor. 10:6-11.
2. Examples of abnegation. Jas. 5:10.
3. Examples of power in prayer. Jas. 5:17, 18.
4. Examples of faith. Heb. 11:1-40.
5. Examples of testimony. Acts 8:4-8.
6. Examples of missionaries. Acts 15:12.
7. Examples of children:
 - (1) A little captive girl. 2 Kings 5:1-5.
 - (2) A little boy with a basket. Jn. 6:9-13.
 - (3) Children in the temple. Mt. 21:15, 16.
 - (4) The child Samuel. 1 Sam. 1:27, 28; 2:18, 26.
 - (5) A young prince. Dan. 1:8, 9.
 - (6) A boy preacher. 2 Tim. 1:5.
 - (7) The child Jesus. Lk. 2:40-47.

THE CHURCH IN THE CARIBBEAN

Scripture: Acts 17:22-28

(Topic Editor's note: This is the second in a series of two topics written for us by the wife of your Topic Editor. We thank her for her contribution to the C. E. work in this way.)

For The Leader

THERE ARE MANY ISLANDS in the Caribbean and these islands are just as much in need of the gospel as any other part of the earth. The church has played a great part in the life of the islands since the early 1900's. Many ways have been planned to help the people change their methods of living so that they could overcome some of the diseases prevalent in their land. The Whites moving into these islands brought new diseases to them and now they have many things to combat before real gospel preaching can be started. So, as we study these islands in the Caribbean tonight, pray that these people might also learn Christ, for He is interested in them and their souls.

TOPICS

1. THE VIRGIN ISLANDS. This Island which really consists of three islands, namely, St. Thomas, Sr. Croix and St. John, are the Virgin Islands of our U. S. And at one time this Island was considered very prosperous, but today it is indeed poor. In 1878 a wild protest broke out as the negroes who were held slave became free men. These men used to be engaged in raising a large sugar crop on the islands. But, after their freedom, much destruction resulted and there was little left of the sugar crop, or the plantations. The Church, however, has played a great part. In the early 1900's, Slagelse, served as Chaplain from the Lutheran Church of Copenhagen. His work among the island people was wonderful. Today, they even teach religious education in their school systems. If these people find it necessary to teach the Bible in the school, why can't it be done in our own in this country? Are we afraid of the Bible and what it MIGHT do for our youth? The Virgin Islands send out a call for more helpers to give out the gospel to their people. Are you ready and willing to go? Here is your opportunity to do that missionary work for your church that you are planning to do.

2. PUERTO RICO. This is a land where nearly 600 people live in each square mile of territory. The life of the villages was so lacking in intellectual and social quality that the better educated individual found it hard to endure. But many ways and means have been discovered in order to meet the people and their needs. At least three well known Christian hospitals have been established. These mission hospitals provide everything, a regular hospital and something more. They tell their patients about Jesus. They talk with them, and help them understand God's plan. They have available tracts and devotional booklets on display where the patient can see them and read them. But still more workers are needed. While the people of the island are Protestant, still all need Christ. A great responsibility rests on the Christians of the States. We must encourage and help the Church in Puerto Rico where it needs help and support the projects that point the way to a better day materially and spiritually for the Island Peoples. The American Bible Society is doing its share in distributing Bibles and their influence is greatly felt throughout the Islands as well as right here at home. Jesus gave us a standard by which to test all our relations with other people, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart and soul and strength and mind and thy neighbor as thyself." This is one of the secrets of peaceful relations in the World.

3. THE END OR THE BEGINNING? The end of our study tonight should be just the beginning of action. There is much yet to be done. Wanting changes in these places means standing up on the right side of issues—on the Christian side. Things happen only when young people like you and older people like us help make them happen. So the end is only the beginning. What form of action will you choose to tell about Jesus? Are you ashamed of Him? We shouldn't be! But under God's guidance any little acts of kindness on behalf of God's people anywhere is another step in favor of Christ and His program on earth. Make up your mind tonight to really be a help to others and further the cause of Christ. As Endeavorers we can not do less. Let us do More.

4. FOR CHRIST AND THE CHURCH. This has been our Motto for a good many years in C. E. and it can well be the rest of our lives on earth, The need is so great and the laborers are so few. Begin tonight to pray definitely that God will show to you His plan for your life. Perhaps you will be called to a foreign field to labor. Then, again, it might be right here at home. But pray and pray and pray, for Prayer is the power which brings the success we can have in this wonderful work for Him. Talk to other young people with whom you come in contact and don't be afraid to witness. If your life is what it should be, your witness will ring true and win others; but if you are not living as true to Christ as you should, then a change must take place before any good can be accomplished. Think it over, young Folks, Choose Christ and His Way tonight. It Pays!

TUNE OUT — TUNE IN

Tune out annoying thoughts of care;
Tune in on child-like faith and prayer.
Tune out the memories of pain;
Tune in on nature's glad refrain.
Tune out all that is false and base;
Tune in on heaven's truth and grace.
Tune out the tempter's whispered lies;
Tune in on words from Paradise.
Tune out the discord and the strife;
Tune in on God's harmonious life.
Tune out the lawlessness of sin;
Tune in on heaven's discipline.
Tune out the stifling thoughts of fear;
Tune in on Christ's, "Be of good cheer."

THE GREAT COMMAND

"Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature" (Mark 16:15).

Well nigh two thousand years have passed,
Since from the Master's lips there fell
The farewell word—His Great Command:
"Go into all the world and tell
The story of redeeming grace
To ev'ry son of Adam's race."

"Go ye—go into all the world,
And preach the Gospel, full and free,
Until the sin-stained sons of men—
Whate'er their name, where'er they be—
Shall know the boundless love of God,
And find salvation through My blood."

Well nigh two thousand years have passed
Since Christ His Great Commission gave;
And still He waits—has waited long—
For Messengers alert and brave,
Whom He may send to bear the Light
To lands engulfed in heathen night.

Thou patient Christ! Bear with us still!
Fain would we for the past atone.
Come kindle in our hearts afresh
A love for souls like to Thine own.
Then shall we work, and give, and pray
Till the whole world shall own Thy Sway!

OUR LORD'S LAST ORDERS

Scriptures: Luke 22:45-52; Matt. 28:18-20; Mark 16:15, 16; Acts 1:8

Missionary Hymns

Prayers for Missions

Seed Thought Provokers:

IN THE GREAT COMMISSION our Lord gave the program of the church. The success of that program depends upon the Church paying the price for the power to carry it out. The Commission is assigned to every Christian, whose only business is to get the gospel to every creature. The twelve disciples could not reach the whole world of their day. Again Jesus said that upon the carrying out of the commission, "I am with you always unto the end of the age." The twelve apostles died nineteen hundred years ago, so the Lord meant for somebody besides them to carry on the commission.

The Commission, briefly, is to "make disciples of all nations," "baptizing them" in the name of each member of the Trinity, "teaching them to observe all" the commandments of Jesus, and have them win other souls. To refuse to win souls is to be out of the Lord's will, to be disobedient. Every saved person is to get the gospel out. Christianity and soul winning are synonymous. To be a Christian one has to believe and practice evangelism and personal soul winning!

Nothing else matters as does the Commission (Matt. 8:22). Everything else is incidental (Luke 14:26). If the saving of the lost was important enough for Christ to leave Heaven, then we can well put it first. Soul winning is the one thing Christ told us to do. The apostles ignored difficulties and persecutions in carrying out the Commission. They were empowered by the Holy Spirit. They were anointed of power from God for soul winning. This same power is as needful for us (Zech. 4:6). The same undertaking requires the same power today as in their day. The program is soul winning and the power is an anointing of the Holy Spirit. The price is prevailing prayer—"tarry until ye be endued with power from on high." Read Isa. 44:3. Heaven's supernatural power is for the winning of souls.

ASSURANCE AND POWER THROUGH PRAYER

Lesson: Mark 14:32-42

JUST HOW MANY of us pray with assurance? Far too many times we pray, not by thought, but by form. True, we mean what we say, but we too often fail to take time to think out our prayers.

In our lesson today we have an example of prayer which was really prayed with assurance. Jesus was in a place where He had to do one of two things, either depend on His own resources, or go to the Father with His petitions. That He had prayed many times in this same spot where he retired to that night, we know, for it was a favorite place for his prayer time. It was not the first time He had met the Father in secret. But now He needed a special time of communion in order to prepare Himself for the ordeal through which He was so soon to pass—the ordeal of the cross.

There are two things we need notice—the thing He prayed for, and the way He met it. He prayed within the will of the Father, yet He was sure of His ground. He was assured that God could, that He had the ability, to free Him from the cross; but He was likewise sure that whatever was the Father's will must be obeyed. Hence the manner of His prayer.

We can learn much as to our own prayer life if we will study closely the way in which Jesus met His problems. We can note that He always approached God without fear; with assurance of being heard; and with the full willingness to abide by the Father's decisions. If we pray thus we can be assured that our prayers will be answered.

'Tis Such a Little Way to Jesus

'Tis such a little way to Jesus
Just a turning to the right,
It's just a step forward
From darkness into light.

Do our footsteps falter
Cause we fear to tread alone,
The short distance to the altar
Where He takes us for His own?

'Tis such a little way to Jesus
Across a narrow space,
To receive Him as our Saviour
With His redeeming grace.

'Tis such a little way to Jesus
What ever may betide,
We have but to seek Him
And find Him at our side.

I once was lost in darkness
And I thought I was alone,
But I found Him there beside me
To show me the way home.

We are near enough to Jesus
To touch His robe as white as snow,
To feel His healing presence
Every where we go.

We are near enough to Jesus
To see the nail print in His hand,
No sin too great for His forgiveness
Or for Him to understand.

T'was for our sins His side was riv'n
He shed His blood for you and me,
His tormenters were forgiven
While He died on Calvary's Tree.

His was the long, hard way of torture
To save us from our sins and woe,
We've but to reach out and receive Him
'Tis such a little way to go.

Jean Marie Bennett.

The writer of this poem was baptized and received into the Stockton Church on March 6, 1949. She was marvelously saved and has a ringing testimony for her Lord. She is the mother of two daughters, the older of which is also a member of the Stockton Church.

St. James, Maryland. We quote from a card received from Brother Roy H. Lowery, Chairman of the St. James Pulpit Committee which we have received: "It gives me great pleasure to announce that Rev. Freeman Ankrum has accepted a call to the pastorate of the St. James Brethren Church and will take over the duties of the pastorate here on August 7th. He has resigned from the Mason-town pastorate."

A program of "inspiration and fun" has been planned by the St. James Youth for Saturday, May 21, with Brother Charles Munson, National Youth Director, in charge. He will also speak at the Sunday morning service on May 22. A Gospel Team will accompany Brother Munson on the trip.

Daily Vacation Bible School will be conducted at St. James from June 20th to July 1st.

The Mother-Daughter Banquet was held on Thursday evening, May 12th.

Johnstown, Penna. Second. Brother N. V. Leatherman reports that there were eighty-six who availed themselves of the opportunity of sitting down at the Lord's Table to partake of communion on April 17th. There were 95 at Sunday School and 123 for the morning Easter service.

Loree, Indiana. Brother Robert Higgins reports that five of his class in the course "Training for Service" completed the work and took the final examination on Tuesday evening, May 3rd. Another such class will be formed in the fall.

Riddle as guest speaker for that service.

Ohio Intermediate Camp. The Camp which will be held at Camp Indianola this year for youngsters ages 9 to 13, will be held from July 3rd to 9th.

Elkhart, Indiana. If we made no mistake in the count from the bulletins recently received from Brother L. V. King, we find that since we last reported from the Elkhart Church there have been seventeen received into the church by baptism; three by letter and two by relation, which makes a total of twenty-two.

A service of dedication of children was held in the Elkhart church on Sunday, April 10th, at which time a number of parents presented their little ones to the Lord.

Carleton, Nebraska. A joint meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society and the Sisterhood of Mary and Martha was held at Carleton on Monday evening, May 2nd.

We are glad to note from the report of Brother H. M. Oberholtzer, pastor of the Carleton church, that recently a brand new Laymen's Organization was established in Carleton, with Brother M. K. Brinegar being elected as president, and Brother Ralph A. Lichty as Secretary-Treasurer. The impulse for this organization came with a visit of Brother H. D. "Bud" Hunter, National Laymen President. We will be expecting things from this new organization.

Gratis, Ohio. Brother W. S. Crick, pastor of the Gratis Church, reports the reception of eight into the church by baptism at the Easter season.

The Women's "Truth Seeker" Class are planning to purchase an additional chair to match the other two chairs in the pulpit if such can be done; otherwise they will purchase entirely new pulpit furniture.

Miami Valley Brethren Laymen's Rally. We learn that there were fifty-two laymen from five of the Miami (Ohio) Valley churches in attendance at the meeting which was held at West Alexandria on Monday evening, May 18th.

YOUTH—WHAT IS IT?

FOLLOWING THE INTENSE strain of the activities of the Ashland College week-end May Day, most of those who attended felt that they could say that they were about as old as time. There is a common expression that comes to our mind which goes something like this, "Well, you are just as old as you feel." There is so much truth in this that as it came to my mind this morning,

It set me to thinking!

After all how old is "old" and how young is "young?" I heard a man say the other day, in speaking of a certain other person, "Why, that man is not anyway nearly as old as I am, and yet he looks and acts as if he were twice my age." That was true, for I knew both of them. The trouble was that the one man had become old before his time because he thought "old" thoughts; lived in the past; could not take on anything new, and, in other words, was just existing, not living. The other man, older by at least fifteen years had kept young by being "young" in his thinking (not childish); by mingling with young people (not by trying to be one of them, but by trying to see their point of view); had taken on new life by taking on new ideas as they were advanced in line with the progress which was being attained, and by realizing that "real youth" does not have a line of demarkation measured in years attained.

I feel that one of the finest things that has come to our Brethren Churches is the "Youth impulse that has come in our Brethren Youth Movement. "Brethren Youth" has not barred anyone from their activities because of a certain age attained. They only ask that those who identify themselves with such activities be young in spirit. Because of this fact it has given an incentive to many, who had almost given up the idea that they were acceptable to youth, to get behind this great movement among our young people to be of real service to the church. Of course they do not expect those of us who are "of age" to step in and try to come into the "limelight." That is what is done far too often by those who think and feel that our "young people" are not capable of doing a lot of thinking for themselves.

What we are trying to say in this "think" this week, is that age is not a matter of counting years. Age and youth should go hand in hand. A father keeps young and his son attains years of wisdom because they travel the path of life together, hand in hand. A mother loses the "aging" process when she stays "young" with her daughter. And both son and daughter grow into "age" still retaining their youth.

Well should we note that our youth are not trying to "usurp" the authority of age, but are merely stepping in and trying to take some of the burdens off the shoulders of those who have so long borne the load alone. They want to help, not hinder; they want to "share the load," not become an additional burden; they want to be taught, that they may take their rightful place in the work as they "grow" into it. They need our help. Let's give it to them.

Think it over!

Ashland, Ohio. One of the largest church audiences for some time was present to hear President Glenn L. Clayton deliver a fine message, which rightly climaxed the observance of the May Day festivities of Ashland College, nearly 300 being present. Dr. Clayton's topic was, "Religion in Education." The Sunday School also was largely attended.

The Sisterhood girls of the Ashland Church, with the assistance of Kenneth Solomon and Robert Holsinger have painted all the chairs and tables in the Primary and Beginners rooms.

New Lebanon, Ohio. Brother W. C. Berkshire reports that their Easter attendance was 337 for Sunday School and 320 for the morning worship service. He also reports that they are well on their way to make the goal of $1,000.00 for their Easter Mission Offering.

Cerro Gordo, Illinois. Brother Arthur J. Tinkel, pastor of the Cerro Gordo church says that the attendance at the services is gradually increasing. There were ninety-six present for the Easter service.

Firestone Park, Akron, Ohio. The Mother and Daughter Banquet of the Firestone Park church was held on Friday evening, May 6th, with Mrs. Ruth Royer, of Louisville, Ohio, Ohio District W. M. S. President, as the guest speaker.

Masontown, Penna. Brother Freeman Ankrum, pastor of the Masontown church, reports that the average attendance for April was 180, as compared to an average for the same month last year of 168. Thus this April average becomes the highest April average in the past eight and one-third years.

Nappanee, Indiana. The Annual Bible Program of the city was held in our church on Friday evening, May 13th, with Mrs. Bowman directing. One hundred and twenty-five children of the public school took part.

The Sisterhood of Mary and Martha held their Public Service on Sunday morning, May 8th, with Mrs. C. Y. Gilmer of Huntington, Indiana, as the guest speaker.

Peru, Indiana. We are sorry that Brother Carrithers' announcement of their Communion service which was held on May 19th, did not arrive in our hands in time for it to go out as an announcement. We trust that they had a fine service.

Mexico, Indiana. The Mother and Daughter Banquet of the Mexico Church was held on May 5th, with Mrs. Loretta Carrithers as the guest speaker.

Here Is Another Important Letter

Francis C. Stifler, D.D.

Secretary Public Relations, American Bible Society

THE MOST IMPORTANT historical document ever written was written by a physician. It isn't very long. You can read it in less than two hours. And I suggest you do so some evening. Although it was written almost 1900 years ago you will find no difficulty in getting hold of a copy of this little document. You don't even have to go to a book store for it. You can find it in any chain store and it will not cost you much.

If you don't read English, no matter, for you can get this little history book in other languages. No book of history has ever been translated into so many tongues. The American Bible Society list 426 languages in which the whole New Testament has been translated, including all the tongues used by most of the people of the world.

When Dr Luke wrote his historical treatise he dedicated it to a friend whom he addresses as Theophilus which, appropriately enough, means "Lover of God."

Luke begins by reminding Theophilus of a former letter, also, and we call this devoted doctor's first letter the "Gospel of Luke."

I have found that many people do not know that Luke, who apparently was the Apostle Paul's traveling companion, is also the author of the Book of Acts, which just follows the four Gospels in our New Testament.

The Book of Acts is the most important historical work because it is the only record of the most important period in human history. We are just about getting used to writing a new number on our date lines. It is 1949—and why?—because the dating of most of the documents of today's world are figured from the birth of Jesus Christ. His coming proved to be the turning point in history and the record of those first days when the world was turning its most important corner is to be found only in this second letter of Dr. Luke's to his esteemed friend Theophilus.

The story related in the book of Acts begins with eleven men huddled in a secluded room waiting for something to happen. Then suddenly something does happen. These simple men who six weeks before had been ready to look upon their months of companionship with Jesus as a closed chapter in their lives, suddenly experienced a new visitation of the spirit of God. Luke tries to describe what happened—but who can describe acts of God? From the standpoint of history what interests us is that on that day—it was the day of the Feast of Pentecost in the Jewish calendar—the Christian movement was born, the movement which has been and is today the most vital social and spiritual force in the world's life.

Peter, the natural leader of the little band of disciples stood up that day and preached his first Christian sermon. He minced no words. He accused his audience of rejecting their Savior and when they asked what they should do to make amends Peter gave in about ten seconds' time the formula, which, to the exact degree to which it has been followed by men ever since, has measured the progress of the Christian movement in the world. In English this is what Peter said:

"Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of your sins and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit."

Luke says that 3,000 accepted the offer and a little later he says the company of believers had become 5,000.

Read those first eight chapters of the Book of Acts. They are, just as you would expect, crammed with drama, and excitement. One leader, named Stephen, spoke out so boldly that the rough element in the crowd stoned him to death. Stephen was Christian martyr number one. We have an old saying that the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church. Luke handles this idea with consummate literary and historical skill in his story of the stoning of Stephen. He points out one seemingly insignificant detail—that a man named Saul was standing by, who, though not throwing stones, was guarding the coats of those who were.

This is our introduction to the foremost leader of that first century and probably of all Christian history. Luke devotes most of the remaining twenty chapters to the story of this Saul who was later called Paul. He was a man with some sort of physical handicap, which possibly had prevented him from throwing rocks at Stephen. This same handicap may have made Luke's presence with him as an attending physician necessary.

Now Paul was of a different stripe altogether from the twelve apostles. He was what we would call a University graduate. He had been a lawyer and a theologian—they always went together among the Jews. He was a Roman citizen—a man of travel and culture, who, after the custom of well-educated young men of that day, also had learned a trade. Paul was a tent-maker.

Read Luke's 9th Chapter of Acts—about how Paul became a Christian. When this big change comes, Paul loses none of his aggressive zeal, only it is now for Jesus rather than against him.

The book of Acts is now in full swing with the Apostle Paul in the center of the stage.

It is a book that almost shouts its story. It is radiant with joy and prayer and brotherhood. Women play their part heroically. In scene after scene Luke condenses, many times into a few sentences, the thrilling scenes in which a new world was being carved out of the dreary dying Roman Empire. I wonder if the march of history has ever been so vividly and powerfully recorded. Paul carried the Gospel over into Europe. He challenged every stand that the old Roman religion took against him. The book ends with Paul, though a prisoner, living in his own house in Rome, and with freedom enough to keep on with his work.

One wonders, when he comes to the end of the Book of Acts, why it stops where it does. Why doesn't Dr. Luke go on and tell us how Paul's trial came out or what happened when Paul died. Maybe Luke died first—or maybe the end of the book has been lost—we can think of a hundred things we might like to have at the ending of the book.

But I think the Book of Acts ends just as it ought to. It tells of the beginnings of the most wonderful movement in human history—the coming, just as Jesus had promised it, of the Holy Spirit into men's lives—a coming which would never end until “the Kingdoms of this world are become the Kingdoms of Our Lord and his Christ and he shall reign forever and ever.”

Are you fed up with the cynicism and the smugness and the sneers of much of our current literature? If you want refreshment just pick up the book of Acts and read it through. It is sober history—describing the seed plot out of which everything you count dearest in your life today has come. It tells its story in colors of radiant confidence and joy. But it is more than history. That is why so many millions of copies of it are distributed by the American Bible Society. They go to people who are not interested in history. They are interested in Salvation. The Book of Acts has a message for you—it throbs with a call to you to repent and be baptized and receive the Holy Spirit and snatch the torch and race on to do your bit for Christ and his Kingdom till he comes.

A MISER

A miser had many pains in his death, and especially the pains of a disturbed conscience. He had his money bags brought one by one, with his mortgages and bonds and deeds, and putting them near his heart, he sighed and said, “These will not do; these will not do; take them away.” He who knew the secrets of the unknown world said, “Seek ye first the Kingdom of God.” “For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?”

Spiritual Meditations

Rev. Dyoll Belote

HOW HIGH IS TALL?

HOW HIGH is tall? How long is a long line? How much must one know in order to know more than one does not know? “Well,” some one remarks, “is that fellow trying to be funny, or is he a little ‘teched’ in the head?” True the questions may be a bit queer, but at least they can serve to remind us that we must have standards of measurement in a sane world.

Plato, the Greek philosopher, declared that “by measurement the soul is saved.” Our lives must be governed by the strict rules of discipline; they must be ordered in harmony with eternal law, else we shall never know salvation. Character, while it cannot be measured by a yardstick, is no chance by-product.

“Man is finally measured by what is immeasurable in him—his attitude of soul.” We are measured by the depth of our convictions; by the height of our aspirations; and by the breadth of our sympathy.

Measured by the depth of our convictions how solid is the foundation of our life? The higher and larger the building which is being built, the deeper they sink the foundation. The safety of the building depends upon the surety of the foundation. So also the safety of our Christian faith depends upon the depth of our convictions.

The height of our aspirations determines how close we come to a comprehension of the loftiness of the divine design for Godly living. The Word declares that “Eye hath not seen, ear hath not heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things that God hath prepared for those that love Him.” While this is true, yet it is possible for the earnest Christian to catch glimpses of the glories that shall be revealed, and the more earnest our endeavors to attain unto our highest conception of Christian attainment, the nearer we shall come to experiencing the realization of our soul desires.

And the breadth of our sympathies will determine the outreach of our Christian love and helpfulness. The man who prays for God to bless him and his wife, his son John and his wife, they four and no more, has a very narrow brand of love and sympathy. The individual who can see no good in any other Christian group than the one to which he belongs, has a very restricted sympathy. The patriot who can see no good in any land other than the one in which he dwells, has a very limited brand of patriotism. It takes largeness of heart to produce broadness of sympathy. Selfishness tends only to narrowness of sympathy and helpfulness.

We are hearing much of a new world; but no mere measuring of national boundaries; no yardstick applied to armies and navies; no tabulating of national resources, will build or insure this new world. It will take the same measuring device for the new order, as it has always taken, quality of living.

Rev. J. Milton Bowman Resigns at Nappanee, Ind.

Seated—Rev. J. M. Bowman, Wanda, Virginia, Mrs. Bowman. Standing—Marguerite and Rosena.

(The following was taken partly from the "Nappanee Advance News," and partly from a letter from Brother Bowman, in which he made some corrections of statements made in the paper. Therefore we scarcely know just where to place the "credit" for the following. However, we follow largely the newspaper report, with corrections as suggested by Brother Bowman, and a few other additions.—Editor)

* * * *

"Rev. J. Milton Bowman, pastor of the First Brethren Church of Nappanee, Indiana, tendered his resignation as pastor on Sunday, May 1st, same to become effective August 1st, with two weeks leave of absence. He has served the Nappanee church for the past eleven years.

"His leaving Nappanee will be a distinct loss to the city, and by this no reflection is cast upon his successor as pastor of the church, but rather over losing a man that has become an active leader in the community. Not only will Rev. Bowman be missed, but so will the members of his family (pictured above). Mrs. Bowman has served as Bible teacher in the Nappanee public schools for the past eight years, as well as taking an active part in the social and religious life of the community. The oldest daughter, Rosena, was salutatorian of the class of 1948 and is now attending college. Marguerite is valedictorian of the 1949 High School graduating class.

"The Bowmans came to Nappanee eleven years ago from Sergeantsville, New Jersey. On February 13, 1945, the church building burned to the ground and it became necessary to find places of worship for the congregation. The various churches and organizations of the city were very kind in assisting in this matter in every way.

"Rev. Bowman became very active in promoting the erection of a new church building and supervised the work until its completion. Dedicatory services were held for the new church on June 27, 1948, with Dr. John Holland of Chicago, bringing the dedicatory sermon.

"During the years of Rev. Bowman's pastorate many have united with the church, and on this last Easter Sunday 528 were in attendance at the morning service. Approximately $30,000.00 has been contributed yearly during the past several years for all purposes, including the Building Fund.

"Rev. Bowman was president of the Nappanee Ministerial Association in 1948 and is currently the vice-president of that organization. He is also a valued member of the General Missionary Board of the Brethren Church and a member of the National Brethren Youth Board. Mrs. Bowman is the National Patroness of the Sisterhood of Mary and Martha, and second vice-president of the National Woman's Missionary Society.

"No definite plans have been made by the Bowmans for the future."

It Pays To Advertise!

Rev. Henry Bates, Pastor Oakville Brethren Church

SOME MONTHS AGO there appeared in the "Evangelist" an article bearing the above title, written by the present writer. At Oakville, Indiana, we have a church that puts that slogan into practice, for we have in this small rural community an outdoor bulletin board which is attracting the attention of all who go through the village.

This bulletin board started out as a memorial plaque for the men and women in service during the recent war. However, in recent years it had fallen into a state of deterioration, and had become a liability to the church grounds rather than an asset. Several months ago, therefore, the Board of Trustees (and we have an active one here) decided to do something about it. (The picture which furnishes the frontis of this issue tells what they did about it.)

The servicemen's names, which had been originally in the center panel, were taken out, cleaned, and replaced in the two panels on each side. In the smaller panel at the top of each of the columns of names was placed a small American flag. (Covered in this picture by snow.) A un-type liner was then purchased through our Publishing Company, along with a goodly supply of letters of various sizes, and was placed in the large center panel. The entire board received a coat of paint, the name of the church was placed at the top, and the lighting equipment was checked and adjusted. Besides the lights which can be seen in the large panel and in the side columns, there are two large spotlights hidden in the nearby shrubbery. The board is equipped with an automatic timing device, and at the designated time the inside lights and the spotlights come into play upon the board. The effect is worth driving several miles to see. Visitors in the vicinity, passers-by, and many others are attracted to this particular church because of the invitation of this beautiful board.

"... AND WE BE BRETHREN"

(Under the caption, "What My Church Means,"—a Lenten message, Rev. John C. Roberts, Chairman of the Delaware County, Indiana, Ministerial Association's Evangelistic Committee, and pastor of the Riverside E. U. B. Church of Muncie, Indiana, wrote the following meditation, which was printed in a Muncie newspaper, and sent to us by Brother Henry Bates, pastor of the Oakville Brethren Church. As illustrative of the thought of "Brethren" there appeared along with the message a cut of our Oakville Church. We pass portions of that meditation, together with a cut of our Oakville Church, on to our Evangelist readers.—Editor.)

"There is hope for the world so long as church bells continue to ring; so long as the pastor's home is a service center. Pictured is a 'Brethren' Church. It symbolizes every church in every community.

"Billy Sunday in a public service, is said to have made a long distance call to St. Peter at the gates of heaven. 'Are there any Methodists in Heaven?' he asked. The answer came back, 'No Methodists in Heaven.' He had no better success in asking about the Baptists, the Presbyterians and many others. Finally he said, 'Well, just who is in Heaven?' And the answer came back. 'Here there are only Christians—those whose robes have been washed in the blood of the Lamb.'

"In hearing this story referred to, one is said to have remarked, 'There is one exception: there are Brethren in Heaven for there we will be all of the family of God.'

"The Evangelistic Committee of the Delaware County Ministerial Association feels that even now—in this world—we are 'Brethren.' To that extent we may, and do, have heaven on earth."

Benevolent Offering Report

The following is the report of the Benevolent Offering as it has been received by the Treasurer of the Board up to April 30th. You will note that a number of churches have not as yet sent in their offerings. Also, we feel that some of the churches only show a partial report and that more will be forthcoming at a later date. If your church appears in the "blank" space where there should be $$$$$, then see to it that your offering is sent in at once. In the report a * shows an increase over last year's offering. Member of Ashland Church is Honored with Fellowship

(From The Ashland Collegian)

Miss Betty June Myers

Miss Betty June Myers has been awarded a study fellowship at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln, Nebraska. She will be assistant in the zoology department while working for her master's degree in parasitology.

Miss Myers was granted her fellowship on the basis of the fine scholarship and leadership she has shown at Ashland College. This year her college activities include being vice president of the Gooch science club, president of the Pi Kappa Pi art society, treasurer for Girls' Gospel Team, and being chosen to appear in Who's Who In American Colleges And Universities. She is holder of the John Myers' scholarship, recipient of the junior activity award and club editor of the Collegian.

For the past 2 years, working as an assistant in the biology laboratory and serving on the student council have also been a part of her extra-curricular activities.

Miss Myers has been active in a number of organizations ever since she entered A.C., and has served as treasurer of the Y. W. C. A., treasurer of the W. A. A., treasurer of the F. T. A. and business manager of the year book.

At graduation, June 3, Miss Myers will have earned a Bachelor of Arts and a Bachelor of Science degree. She is majoring in biology and minoring in chemistry, German and art. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Myers, 131 High Street.

WORD CONCERNING SISTER ADA DRUSHAL

On Wednesday morning, May 11th, the editor received the following telegram from Brother Drushal from Lost Creek:

"Ada arrived home this evening much improved. She has a long way yet to go to be well, but think she is on the way to health again. Your prayers for her complete recovery appreciated."

We certainly praise the Lord for the way in which He has intervened in her case.

In a note from Brother John F. Locke he speaks of the taking of Sister Ada home from the hospital. He makes this very significant statement: "That she is alive is a miracle." Surely God is good.

Also Brother J. Milton Bowman, who made a recent trip to Kentucky, says, in a letter to the editor, "Sister Ada Drushal has made a remarkable recovery from her critical brain operation."

All this will be indeed good news to the entire Brotherhood.

We note that Brother Miller is to be the speaker at the Baccalaureate Service of the High School on Sunday evening, May 22nd.

Daily Vacation School will begin at Berlin on May 31st.

Stockton, Calif. Brother C. E. Johnson says that the Youth Week will be observed the week of May 15th to 22nd. On the 22nd the young people will fill all the various offices of the Sunday School and will have full charge of the evening service.

Brother Johnson was elected Moderator of the Northern California Conference.

Warsaw, Indiana. The editor journeyed to Warsaw, Indiana, his old home town over last week end to spend Mother's day with his Mother. While we were there she had the misfortune of falling and breaking her knee cap, which made Mother's Day a rather sad time for us. But we are glad to report that she is getting along as well as can be expected and that she is in fine spirits. While there, on Sunday evening, because of the necessity of Brother W. B. Brant, the Warsaw pastor, making a trip to Cleveland for treatment for his eyes, the editor had the privilege of bringing the evening message.

Ashland College May Day. One of the finest, if not the finest, May Day observances in the history of the traditional annual celebration at the College, was viewed by a packed stadium on last Saturday afternoon, May 14th. We are assured of a full report of the entire activity of the week-end by Brother Art Petit, Public Relations Director of the College, in next week's issue of The Evangelist. Watch for it!

SUMMER OPPORTUNITIES FOR CHRISTIAN SERVICE

Scripture: Neh. 4:1-6; Col. 3:23-25

For The Leader

SUMMER TIME is here again, and with it, a lot of free time for young people. Undoubtedly, you are looking forward to some type of a job to help earn money. Perhaps you are looking forward to a summer of Christian service. Whatever may be the call, be sure to weigh the facts carefully, and see which will bring you the most lasting satisfaction. Even if you are working, you will have plenty of time to do the Lord's work in evenings and weekends. Or, if you are a student, and your home can help you, then a summer in Christian service will do you a lot of good, and will help a multitude of other peoples. Let the Holy Spirit direct you as you pray, that God might use you wherever he feels you are best suited to serve.

DISCUSSION

1. DO YOU REALLY WANT TO WORK? In this day there seems to be a tendency away from work. Benefits, insurance, allowances, short hours and big pay have more or less taken the incentive out of individuals. The thing today seems to be to do as little for as much pay as possible. That is not good, for it fails to develop within us that something which makes us what we should be. The more we have to overcome, and the harder we have to work, the better individuals we shall be. Take a look at your really successful people today. Almost invariably they came up through the ranks, fighting every step of the way to overcome. In our Christian service it is the same way. Meet up with strong opposition, pray and trust and work, and success will come. The Lord needs those of us who will thus serve Him this summer. Will you be one?

2. THE RESULTS OF WORK. The book of Nehemiah shows once and for all what can be done if people really want to work. The walls of the destroyed city of Jerusalem were completely rebuilt by the Jews. Not because they had superior materials, workers, equipment or money. No, not at all. But the city was rebuilt "because the people had a mind to work." They set themselves to the task, and worked until they were done. And because they were doing what the Lord wanted them to do, they found His blessing upon them. Is it not thus true today? If we promise to devote the summer to His work, He will surely bless us. And if we work hard, He will see that we will do much good. It all depends on whether or not we have a mind to work.

3. WHAT CAN WE DO? Young people, there is no limit to what we can do. In our own community, we can help those who are in need: mowing lawns, running errands, helping care for children, etc. And any monies received can be turned into your C. E. Society, or for a special Church project. (Be sure you tell the people what you are doing the things for, that you are seeking to serve God through your labors.) They may give you a little more, then. Or, a group of you might take on a piece of ground and raise vegetables, etc. Enlist some one with executive ability to help you market the crops as they mature through the summer. You'll have a nice fund to give to missions, or some project of your choice. Use a "share the work" plan, though; don't expect one or two to do all the weeding, and picking of the beans and peas, etc.

4. OTHER FIELDS OF SERVICE. Our Brethren Youth work is calling for workers to serve in our churches. This is by far the best proposition for young people of the Church. By getting out "on your own" you will develop resourcefulness, independence, confidence and skill. You will learn to be an individual, and will gain much practical knowledge. In addition, you will be helping the Lord's work among our churches. Your own local church will need you in Bible School, and you can learn much on the lives of children as you teach them the things of God. Be a good example to them, for often they will place more emphasis on the way you live than on what you try to tell them from the Bible. It just works that way. Then, too, perhaps your pastor will be going away on a vacation. He will need someone to help take care of the Sunday services. You young people plan a service or so. And don't just have one person announce some hymns and read scripture and pray, then introduce an outside speaker you've secured. Do it yourselves. Have a number of "real" short original talks on some Bible verse or passage. It can be done, and well done, too. Pray a lot about it.

5. KEEPING THE PRAYER MEETING GOING. If your church is the average, you will be closing down your Wednesday evening prayer meetings for the summer. They close down simply because (the same old reasons) of poor attendance and hot weather. Well, let's have it different this summer. (Even if you young people haven't been attending your regular prayer-meetings you can go ahead on this program. Then it may be that when fall comes again, you'll know the value of such, and keep coming). So, ask permission to "take over" the meetings during the summer. Make them definitely devotional. Search your libraries, Evangelists, and Outlooks, for topics, Bible Studies, etc., to use. Ask your pastor for some books which would help you. Even at times, you might engage some outside speaker, but don't make this a practice. Use your own local talent. Sounds difficult? Yes, and so did the building of the walls of Jerusalem, but "the people had a mind to work." Do you? Then go to it!

QUESTIONS

1. Give your definition of "Christian Service." What all does it involve?

2. Is yours a church which is different? That is, plans we suggest will work in other places, but our church just can't use them. Just why can't your church do things other churches are doing.

God will give us touches of inspiration when He sees we are not in danger of being led away by them.

FIRST TO THROW A STONE

Galatians 6:1

If there's one who often falters
By the wayside in despair,
Seems unusual his shortcomings,
Did you hold him up in prayer?
If the weak should stumble, brethren,
If he cannot stand alone,
Let the perfect one among you
Be the first to throw a stone.

If so often he has wavered,
You cannot believe him true,
Have you mentioned it to Jesus
As the strong one ought to do?
Do you ever stop, consider,
Have you no faults of your own?
Let the perfect one among you
Be the first to throw a stone.

Is there one with crosses heavy,
Seems he cannot carry all,
And he doesn't keep step as we do;
If he ever chance to fall,
Do you plead with God for mercy
Till He answers from the throne?
Let the perfect one among you
Be the first to throw a stone.—Sel.

ABOUT JUDGING

Scripture: Luke 6:37; Matt. 7:1-5; 15-20

Hymns and Prayers

Seed Thought provokers:

OUR LORD forbade us to judge persons, hearts and motives because such is the sin of pride, self-righteousness, and arrogance. In these matters we are tempted to think ourselves better than others with the result that we fall to the sin of hypocrisy and the sin of omitting to help those whom we judge (2 Cor. 10:12; Gal. 6:1; 1 Cor. 10:12; Prov. 16:18). "The Lord knoweth them that are His," and it is not our prerogative to discredit people's profession of salvation.

In Matthew 7:1-5 it is the hypocrite who should not judge for the reason that with a beam in his own eye he seeks to remove a speck of sawdust from his brother's eye. In verses 15-20 the Christian is commanded to judge false doctrine. The unsaved cannot judge the saved (1 Cor. 1:18, 21). The unsaved themselves shall be judged on the basis of law (Matt. 7:2; Rev. 20:12). While the believer should guard against judging of persons, hearts and motives (Luke 6:37), he is commanded to judge "all things" (1 Cor. 2:15). In judging we must have "the Mind of Christ" (v. 16).

Scripture abounds with the necessity of judging: Joshua judged sin in the camp (Joshua ch. 7); Nathan judged David's sin (2 Sam. 12:5-7); John, the Apostle of love, named the sin of Diotrephes (3 John 9); John the Baptist judged religious leaders by their fruits (Matt. 3:7-12); Stephen, "full of faith and power" judged the betrayers and murderers of Christ (Acts 7:51-52); Paul, "filled with the Holy Ghost," judged a man to be a "child of the devil" (Acts 13:9, 10); and John judged against sin and hypocrisy (1 John 2:22; 2 John 9, 10, 11). The devil has used "judge not" to silence Christians so he could prevail against the Church.

The fruit of false prophets is unscriptural doctrine, and doctrine usually determines conduct. Like the Bereans, we should weigh what we hear in the light of the Bible (Acts 17:11). True Christians have the right to judge right and wrong (1 Cor. 8:1-5), but the law courts have shown that some Christians have a prejudiced mind. In 1 Cor. 5:2, 3 Paul asked the church of Corinth to disfellowship a member of the church. Certain sins break Christian fellowship (v. 11), but such people should first be visited with an attempt to win them to the right way (Matt. 18:15-17). It was hoped that the disfellowshipping of the man at Corinth would bring about his repentance (1 Cor. 5:5). It did, and Paul urged the church to quickly forgive and receive him (2 Cor. 2:5-11).

COMMENTS

On The Sunday School Lesson

by The Editor

Lesson for June 5, 1949

"BEHOLD THE MAN!"

Lesson: John 19:1-16

AS WE APPROACH this lesson we have almost forgotten that Palm Sunday, Passion Week and Easter Sunday have been celebrated throughout our churches. But today we are brought face to face with the trial and sentencing of Jesus at the hands of Pilate.

As we look closely into the lesson we find it rather difficult to adjust ourselves to the inconsistencies which we find in the attitude of Pilate that day. First he admits that he "finds no fault in Him." Then he presents Him to the mob with the well known words, "Ecce Homo!"—"Behold the Man!" Then following another period of questioning of Jesus, he "sought to release Him," only to heed the voice of the mob which constantly cried, "Crucify Him! crucify Him!" and "delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified."

Had Pilate fully realized just who Jesus really was—that He was in truth the Son of God, and, as Pilate caused to be written about Him later, "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews" and, indeed of all men, it may have been that he would have rendered a different decision. But he did not—and Jesus was sent to the cross.

We can find out a great deal concerning the circumstances surrounding this mock trial if we will study carefully verses 9 to 11. Let's look at these verses a bit.

In Pilate's question, "Whence art thou?" we can find a slight bit of doubt as to where Jesus came from. Pilate was not asking from what province He came, for this he knew. But he was delving deeper into what was really behind that which caused all this uproar. He wanted to know who Jesus really was. That Jesus refused to give him a direct answer made him all the more insistent and he begins to pit power against power. Pilate has the temporal power to crucify Jesus, but he fears because of it. But in order to force Jesus to speak he presses the point. In Jesus' answer Pilate finds something that convinces him even more that here is a circumstance with which he really has no power to cope. Note Jesus' words:

"Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivereth me unto thee hath the greater sin."

Here is the eternal conflict between the spiritual and the temporal; between the powers of darkness and the Power of Light. Pilate had to consider either the holding of his temporal power by delivering Jesus to His accusers, or the losing of his position of ruler in Palestine by siding with Jesus against the Jews. He made his choice, and he lost. Look up in secular history what became of Pilate shortly after the crucifixion. The whole course of Pilate's future life is bound up in the last verse of our lesson—"Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. And they took Jesus and led him away."

Condemned by false witnesses; handed over to death through false accusation; sentenced to pay the extreme penalty because a "judge" feared the people; but hung upon the cross because "His hour was come." Could Pilate have done other than he did? What do you think?

HEAVE AWAY, LADS

Near the home of John Knox, Edinburgh, is a coffee house named the "Heave Away House."

May years ago a six-story brick building crashed, which stood on that spot, crushing and burying thirty people amid the ruins.

One after another the trapped were rescued.

Deep in the debris, altogether lost from sight was a little boy. And when the laborers stopped to rest themselves a moment he would yell from the pile—

"Heave away! I'm not dead yet!"

They kept on heaving and he kept on yelling until rescued.

Hence the unusual name of the coffee house.

He who loses the up-look, soon loses the up-lift.

News From Our Churches

CARLETON, NEBRASKA

April 3rd we concluded a two weeks revival and evangelistic effort. Brother H. E. Eppley, pastor of the Brethren church in Falls City, Nebraska, was our evangelist. We are grateful to the Falls City Brethren for permitting their pastor to assist us, also to Brother Eppley for including this service in his already busy schedule.

Brother Eppley is a very forceful preacher and his sermons were practical and timely. They were well received by all who heard him, both in the church and out of it. There were no conversions, but many hearts were stirred and the membership was aroused and revived. Their faith was strengthened and their courage renewed, which assured greater possibilities in the days ahead. Unfavorable weather and deep mud caused by melting snow and rain hindered attendance. Yet the attendance was above the average.

The pastor had the joy of entertaining the evangelist in his home, except for noon meals, which were served in the homes of members of the church. It was a delightful and wholesome fellowship.

A young married man whose wife belongs to our church, having publicly confessed Christ previous to our special meetings, was baptized the last day of the meetings and received into the membership of the church. A boy and a girl, a brother and sister of intermediate and junior age, accepted Christ as their Savior Easter Sunday morning and were baptized in the evening. These additions have given us added joy and inspiration.

Our winter was very severe, although we did not suffer as much as others farther west. Six preaching services were recalled because of drifted and slippery roads. Our faith and ardor has survived and with God's help we press on. Pray for us.

H. D. Hunter, president of the National Layman's Organization of the Brethren church was with us April 19th and 20th. On Tuesday evening he spoke to a group of our laymen concerning the needs and possibilities of a Layman's Organization, and on Wednesday evening he spoke on our mission work in Kentucky, showing two reels of picture film of our mission work and workers. His visit, his talks and the pictures were very much enjoyed and appreciated. The following Sunday evening a local Layman's Organization was formed, with M. K. Brinegar as president and Ralph A. Lichty as Secretary-Treasurer. We consider this a promising step forward.

H. M. Oberholtzer, pastor.

CARLETON, NEBRASKA

At the invitation of the Carleton church I journeyed to this little south central Nebraska town on March the 21st to assist them in two weeks of meetings.

Fellowship

I was entertained in the parsonage, the home of the pastor, Brother H. M. Oberholtzer. To say that this fellowship was pleasant and profitable will in no way express the fact. The fruitage of this fellowship will extend to glory.

The W. M. S. had arranged for the twelve o'clock dinners. This took us into eleven homes and into one the second time. And what dinners they were. The fellowship in these homes was delightful and will be remembered with pleasure.

A Big Day

On Wednesday of the second week I was called back to Falls City to conduct a funeral service. This trip was made possible by the kindness of a man and his wife who are not members of the church, but who worship with its people. They brought me in their Kaiser. We left at 5:30 in the morning and were here in time for the service at 10:30. After the service a stop at the Falls City parsonage for a hasty dinner and immediately afterward started the 172 mile trip back to Carleton, arriving at 5:15 after a 344 mile trip. Next a wee bit of rest, lunch, and into the service at 7:30. Truly it was a big day and this writer was a bit weary when it was over.

Appreciation

I wish to express my appreciation to the pastor and people for their many considerations and kindnesses and the offering of appreciation which was voluntarily placed in the offering plates. Thank you Carleton and pastor.

H. E. Eppley.

BIBLE CONFERENCE AT LANARK, ILLINOIS

In the Fall of 1948 the Lanark church invited us for a pre-Easter Bible Conference Week. On our way to Lanark it was a pleasure to visit a day and a night with Gil and Myron and families at Wheaton. I found both of them busy with many tasks. Myron will graduate from Wheaton College in June. Gil is Track Coach at Wheaton College, and Myron coaches the boys at the Academy.

I arrived in Lanark on Saturday night, April 9, and began the Bible Conference at the eleven o'clock hour Sunday morning. The entire week was a joy and inspiration to the speaker. Interest in Bible teaching was clearly manifest and the attention was the best that could be expected. The music and singing were uplifting in every service; special messages by the choir, under the direction of Mrs. McCartneysmith, challenged to better preaching. Our home was with the pastor and his good wife, and the Christian fellowship of their home will never be forgotten. And, like all Brethren communities, the meals served in the homes were typical of good cooks for which the Brethren Church is noted.

The McCartneysmiths have done and are doing a good work in Lanark. I rejoiced continually in making calls upon the unsaved, and to see and hear Brother McCartneysmith's earnestness and love in winning souls to Christ. I am leaving to him to report the immediate noticeable results of the meeting. I thank the Lanark Brethren for the privilege of working with them for the week; and I thank the Akron Church for allowing me the privilege of enjoying this memorable week of Bible Conference.

THE FIRST BRETHERN CHURCH

Lanark, Illinois

Inasmuch as the pastor had only two weeks vacation since coming here in 1946, the Official Board very graciously permitted him to take the month of February for vacation, which was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. McCartneysmith, her father, and I left Lanark on Monday, January 31st, driving slowly down through Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, and into Sebring, Florida, by noon Saturday, February 5th, where we made our headquarters, and drove out from Sebring to several other places of interest during vacation. We were fortunate in being able to attend the Moody Bible Institute mid-winter Bible Conference at Sebring, which met daily morning and evening, during the month of February. It was our privilege to listen to several outstanding Bible lecturers. During my absence the pulpit was filled by Rev. H. A. Gossard, of Lanark; Rev. C. L. Anderson, Ridatt, Illinois; Rev. James Gandy, Wheaton, Illinois; and Rev. Grant Macomber, DeKalb, Illinois. On March 3rd I returned to Lanark by rail, again taking up pastoral duties; however I returned to Waycross, Georgia, March 29th where I met the family, and drove for them back through the Carolinas, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, and home in time for the Lord's Day service, April 3rd.

On Friday evening, March 18th, Brethren Youth of the Central District met at Lanark for their Spring Camp. Pastors Virgil E. Meyer, Waterloo, Iowa; W. R. Deeter, Udell, Iowa; D. C. White, Milledgeville, Illinois; and Arthur Tinkel, Jr., Cerro Gordo, Illinois, were present. Rev. Charles Munson, National Youth Director, Ashland, Ohio; Rev. Spencer Gentle, Ashland, Ohio, and Mrs. Joe Commisso, who had been Ashland's Argentina, S. A. exchange student, were with us and participated in the program. Friday evening after refreshments, Rev. Gentle led a "Get-acquainted Party" for the youth which was greatly enjoyed. Saturday morning was taken up with business meeting until the 11:00 o'clock hour, at which time the writer delivered the usual Bible Lecture. Saturday afternoon after a luncheon, served by the W. M. S. Groups, the youth met at the local high school gymnasium for various games, returning to the church for the Youth Banquet at 7:00, at which time some 65 were served a "Circus Banquet" by the Evening W. M. S. Youth attended Bible School at 10:00 A. M. and Morning Worship at 10:50 to hear Rev. V. E. Meyer's most interesting sermon. After a luncheon at the church the youth met in the auditorium for a short service, and then left for their various homes. It was indeed a great joy to have these fine young people as our guests, and we shall look forward to having them with us again some time in the future.

On the Lord's Day morning of April 10th, our pre-Easter Bible Conference opened under the direction of Dr. J. Gilbert Dodds, Akron, Ohio, which conference closed Easter Sunday evening, April 17th. Each service was in nature a "double feature," inasmuch as Dr. Dodds first gave an illustrated lecture each evening under the general heading of "Bible Prophecies Already Fulfilled," using pictures portraying the actual fulfillment of each prophecy read from Scripture, after which he delivered his never-to-be-forgotten Bible Lectures which were greatly appreciated. Not a single indication of lack of interest was noted, throughout the week.

On Easter afternoon eleven candidates for baptism were present, and "dipped" according to the formula set up by our Lord, and then confirmed by Dr. Dodds, Rev. H. A. Gossard and the pastor. One gained during the meeting was ill and could not be present, but will receive baptism at a later date, making twelve confessions altogether. We are happy to commend Dr. Dodd's services to any church needing either an evangelist or Bible lecturer. It was indeed a blessing to have him with us.

An Easter Sunrise Service was planned and presented in the form of a playlet entitled, "Mine Eyes Have Seen Him," by several of our energetic young people, to a large audience, after which the Builders, and Berean Sunday School classes served a tasty Easter Breakfast to 127 guests. The playlet was so popular that a repeat presentation was requested, which was given Sunday evening, April 24th, to a large audience.

April 21st brought to us the popular Ashland College A cappella Choir under direction of Dr. Louis E. Pete, who in his inimitable manner thrilled a well filled auditorium of listeners with his well-rendered program, which included sacred works, several modern compositions, and a few Negro spirituals. The program was well rendered and showed excellent work by the director. It was a pleasure to have this fine group of fifty-seven young men and women from Ashland College, together with their director, Dr. Pete, business manager, Mr. Arthur Petit, and Dean of Women, Miss Mildred Furry.

We are observing National Youth Week, beginning with Mothers' Day evening, May 8th, with a program in which our Youth Church, and Youth Choir will have complete charge of the entire service. Inasmuch as our Spring Communion was planned for May 15th, before we knew about Youth Week, we are carrying over to May 29th for our closing program with our teen agers, known as the Modern Youth Sunday school class, in charge of the evening service at which time we shall receive our Youth Offering.

For Mothers' Day the Morning Worship Hour was used to give a review of the history of our mothers under the following topics: "Mothers of Yesterday," H. B. Puter-baugh; "Mothers of Today," Mrs. William H. Miller; Reading, Mrs. Merle Yeager; Solo, Harry Tallman.

L. O. McCartneysmith, Minister.

REVIVAL AT ST. LUKE'S BRETHREN CHURCH

(Near Woodstock, Virginia)

The two weeks following Easter we were privileged to spend with the good people of the St. Luke community in Shenandoah County, Virginia. St. Luke is six miles west of Woodstock and the Brethren flock there is shepherded by Brother John Dodson of Quicksburg, who is also the pastor of the Liberty Church there. In 1947 a meeting at the St. Luke Brethren church was so enjoyable and the Lord gave such happy results that it was with real pleasure and anticipation that we looked forward to this return visit after Easter. Last time under the blessing of the Lord there were eighteen to baptize at the close of the services. This time six more were baptized on the closing day of the meeting. For these and all other blessings we thank Our God.

The attendance was excellent throughout the meeting and their interest and attention was all that could be desired by any preacher.

Twenty-three New Testaments were presented to young people who, by their acceptance of them, obligated themselves to read them and make themselves at home in the scriptures. A number of reprints of famous masterpieces of Christian art were given to those with perfect or near perfect attendance records.

Bible pictures were shown each evening, illustrating scriptures from Genesis to Revelation. These were loaned by Brother E. L. Miller who also rendered a very effective sermon in song one evening when he sang as a solo The Great Judgment Morning. Brother Miller assisted at the Baptismal services in the ordinance of Laying on of Hands. These services were held in the Maurertown Church.

Mrs. Locke and myself wish to express again our sincere thanks for the gracious and generous treatment accorded us by these good people of the St. Luke community.

John F. Locke.

SOMETHING NEW

At the request of Dr. L. L. Garber, retired Professor of English in Ashland College, we are announcing what he is pleased to call "An Amazing Keyboard on a Superior Typewriter."

Speaking of this new arrangement, Dr. Garber says, "In this new Typewriter the useless and unnecessary keys of the old keyboard are replaced with a scientific collocation of new keys, which splendidly enlarges its usefulness. With this typewriter you can write five languages; set up arithmetic problems and algebraic equations; make geometric figures; fill in accent marks for foreign languages; diagram sentences; scan poetry; make decorative pictures and handsome borders. Such a typewriter would make a fine gift for anyone."

If you are interested in obtaining further information, just drop a card to The Garber Company, 420 College Avenue, Ashland, Ohio.

INTERESTING ITEMS

Meyersdale, Penna. We note that President Glenn L. Clayton of Ashland College was the speaker at the morning service at Meyersdale on Sunday, May 23rd.

Brother W. S. Benshoff, Meyersdale pastor, reports that they had a very fine Mother's Day service. A consecration service for children was an added part of the program.

Waterloo, Iowa. The Waterloo Laymen entertained their wives and lady friends at a seven o'clock dinner on Friday evening, May 21st. This is one of the high spots in the Laymen's program in the Waterloo church.

We note from Brother Meyer's bulletins that eight have been received into the church in the past two weeks by baptism and one by letter.

We also note that beginning on Thursday evening, May 20th, a children's mid-week Bible Class is being organized, meeting at the same hour of the adult mid-week service. Mrs. Helen Jordan will be in charge. This type of service for the children should be adopted by all of our churches. It will pay great dividends in the years to come. It takes work, but anything that is worth while takes work and plenty of it.

St. James, Maryland. The St. James bulletin of May 15th has this paragraph: "The Mother and Daughter Banquet which was held at the church on Friday evening, May 13th, was quite a success. Seventy-nine attended the service. Mrs. Ronald Baker was chairman of the Banquet Committee, and Mrs. Myron Bloom chairman of the Program Committee. Mrs. Laughlin of the Hagerstown, Maryland, Church, was the speaker of the evening."

The D. V. B. S. will be held at St. James from June 20th to July 1st.

Washington, D. C. Washington has set June 5th as their next Building Fund Day. They are trying to top their last one at which time they totaled $1,250.00.

Baptismal services were conducted on Sunday afternoon, May 1st. Brother Fairbanks does not say how many there were to be baptized.

Sergeantsville, N. J. Brother J. J. Margush, pastor of the Sergeantsville Church, says that there were three confessions on Easter Sunday, and that baptismal services were held at the close of the evening service on May 8th.

A pageant, "The Light From the Cross," was presented on Easter Sunday evening, and was much appreciated.

Oakville, Indiana. The worship services of Sunday, May 15th were in complete charge of the young people of the church. Several of the young men and women brought short messages. Brother Bates said he had no part in the service at all.

The attendance on May 1st was 123 and on May 8th, 127, as compared to 88 and 103 a year ago on the same Sundays.

Brother and Sister A. E. Whitted to move to Smithville, Ohio. We have word from Brother Whitted, who with Mrs. Whitted have been spending the winter months in the Brethren Home (where, by the way, they have been a great help) that they have purchased a home in Smithville, Ohio, and will be moving there about June 1st. Brother Whitted hopes soon to be able to hold some short evangelistic meetings, but that he will not try to take up a pastorate. We rejoice in his recovery.

Milledgeville, Illinois. We note that the community Vacation Bible School at Milledgeville will open on June 6th and continue for a period of two weeks. Brother D. C. White, pastor of our church, will act as director of the school.

Nappanee, Indiana. Brother J. M. Bowman says that there are fourteen of the High School graduating class of this year that are either members of the Nappanee church or who are attendants at the church and Sunday School.

Mexico, Indiana. The Spring Communion of the Mexico church will be held on Sunday evening, May 29th.

The Jefferson Township Ministerial Association held their meeting at the Loree parsonage (in which Brother Higgins lives, as pastor of the Mexico-Loree Circuit), on Monday evening, May 9th. There were twenty-five in attendance and a fine time of Christian worship and fellowship was enjoyed.

Brother Higgins is kept rather busy with many calls to speak in the surrounding community and even beyond. His outside schedule for May was something like this: Commencement at Liberty School—May 10th; Warsaw, Indiana, Church—Sunday evening, May 22; Memorial Services at Rankin Cemetery—May 29; and at the District Youth Rally at Center Chapel—May 31.

Masontown, Penna. Brother Freeman Ankrum says there will be a group of four young men from Ashland College—"Crusaders"—who will hold a week of services in the Masontown Church from June 12 to 18th.

New Lebanon, Ohio. On May 8th the New Lebanon congregation enjoyed a concert by Wilbur Fish, the Joy-Bell Ringer.

HOW OFTEN DO WE?

I HAVE JUST FINISHED reading and preparing the copy for our next quarter's Sunday School lessons—lessons that will deal with the Psalms. Time and time again our quarterly "contributors" for these lessons call our attention to the great necessity of "giving thanks" to God for His manifold blessings and also to the necessity of "singing His praises" before all people. As I read these comments

It set me to thinking!

What is the matter with the people who fail to see how God blesses them? Why is it that it is so difficult to say "Thank you" to God and so simple to say it to our friends? Or do we even forget to do that as a common courtesy?

We, far too often, feel that we have set forth the full measure of our thankfulness when we pause for a "few moments" on a special "Thanksgiving Day," probably just before we fill our plates with the "bounties of God's love and care" and through that meal have talked about everything under the sun except what God has done for us. That time, being now about six months past, and but a vague memory to us, we would have a difficult time in recalling just how we spent that day, and whether or not we gave a minute or an hour to a memory of God's blessings upon us.

We lustily sing the hymn, "Count Your Blessings" and we repeat:

"Count your blessings,
Name them one by one;
Count your blessings,
See what God has done!
Count your blessings,
Name them one by one—
And it will surprise you
What the Lord has done."

But do we ever take time to even count the blessings of a single day?

The difficulty is that we take too much for granted these days, and we should be brought up squarely to the place where we suddenly realize how much of our satisfaction and blessings depend on God's care for His world. We marvel, sometimes, that God continues to keep this world moving along as it does. Then we realize that He does it, not for those who are unthankful, but because there are many who do appreciate His care and who are truly thankful and express their thankfulness to Him.

When we open the Book of Psalms at the beginning of our next quarter's Sunday School lessons on July 3rd, if we have been thinking in terms of our blessings, we will appreciate these thoughts from the "Hymn Book" of the Hebrew people, to a much greater degree. The problems that they faced are the same problems as those which we find in our own lives, though they are clothed in different ways. We praise the same God that they praised; we find that He is as willing to help us as He was to help them.

All He asks is that we approach Him in the proper attitude, and He stands as ready to help us as He was to help His chosen people, Israel.

Think it over!

Added to Our Tract List

We have just completed the printing of a fine useful booklet entitled, "A Handy Guide," or "The Bible Welcome to the Brethren Church," which is a finely correlated group of scriptures that form a useful instrument in the hands of the personal worker for leading souls through the questions which are so often asked. This little booklet was compiled by Brother H. E. Eppley, now pastor of the Falls City, Nebraska, Brethren Church, while he was pastor of the Mansfield, Ohio, Brethren Church, where it proved, in its first printing, a great help as a tract as it was used by the membership of that church. It has now been released to the Brotherhood at large and we have printed sufficient copies that it may now be largely circulated through the entire church. The booklet which Brother Eppley has so kindly released to us is put up in a handy pocket size—16 pages and cover—at the price of fifty-five cents a dozen, postpaid. Send your orders to either The Brethren Publishing Company, 524 College Avenue, Ashland, or to Carl E. Mohler, National Layman's Tract Secretary, 141 College Avenue, Ashland, Ohio. We are sure you will want to use them widely.

More Wiping Rags

We wish to acknowledge receipt of more wiping rags for our press room, from the following: Mr. and Mrs. James Richcreek and Mrs. Hilda Carpenter, Ashland, Ohio; Mrs. Byron Humphrey of the Williamstown, Ohio, church; and Mrs. L. D. Hoffman of the Second Church of Johnstown, Pennsylvania. We express our appreciation to each of these.

Audio-Visual Materials for Uniform Lessons of 1949

We have been asked quite often concerning the possibility of obtaining visual material for the International Uniform Lessons as published in our Sunday School quarterlies. Until now we have not been able to point to any particular source that might be contacted. But we now have definite information as to slides, film strips and motion pictures that have been correlated and obtained for the lessons as they appear in the quarterlies under the titles put forth by the International Board of Religious Education. Information may be received by those interested by writing The International Council of Religious Education, Department of Audio-Visual and Radio Education, 203 N. Wabash Avenue, Chicago 1, Illinois.

There is rampant in the world today, a Christ-hating, Satan motivated program, known as communism.

The High Mission of Jesus

NO MORE CLEARLY expressed statement concerning the mission of Jesus can be found than that which is expressed in His words as recorded by Luke in his gospel, chapter 19, verse 10. Here are those words: "For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

If we follow closely the path which Jesus trod, from His early life on to the very cross upon which He was crucified, we find that He was always "about His Father's business." From the time, when a lad of twelve, He astonished the masters of the law and gave answer to the troubled question of His mother by saying that He must be "about His Father's business," till He hung on Calvary's cross and gave forth the cry of triumph, "It is finished," He had but one purpose—"to seek and to save that which was lost."

There was no voice in all humanity that reached the ear of the Master as quickly as that of one who cried out that he was lost. His sympathy was stirred by a sick child, a blind man, a lamed individual, a poor widow, or a distressed soul. But beneath the physical suffering and pain He always saw the lost condition of the soul and ministered to it. That is why, when He laid hands of healing on the sick, or touched the eyes of the blind, His admonition was always and ever, "Go thou and sin no more."

There should be something inspiring in the thought that the mighty power of the everlasting God is being used in our behalf. God's love is not for the righteous alone, although He loves His own with an overwhelming love. But every sinner is the subject of His loving solicitude. So much does He love them that it was the "sinner" for whom Christ came to die. Remember He said, "I came not to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance," or, as Luke says, "to seek and to save that which was lost."

Someone has said, "Man has a way to go, and if he follows the right highway, he will find that it leads to life eternal." Jesus came to show us that "Way." Indeed, He said, "I am the Way." In that "Way" we find the mission of Jesus.

This world is populated by two classes of people and only two—one class wants to be saved; the other does not. These two classes of people have always existed and will always exist as long as the world stands. A person who loses himself voluntarily just does not want to be found. We are constantly reading of men and women who suddenly disappear from their homes and towns and who are not heard of for years, but are finally discovered in a far-away place, under another name, and living a different life from that which they lived before. Many of these "want to lose themselves" from their former surroundings and they do not want to be found. Even so, it is very difficult for Jesus to "find" those who "want to be lost." But He never ceases trying to find them. For He came to "seek and to save that which was lost."

One time when Jesus was passing through the town of Jericho, a city about seventeen miles from Jerusalem, there was a man who wanted to see Him. This man was a little man, that is, small of stature, and sharing the excitement of the day that was to see the Master walk through the streets of that town, he was determined to look upon this "man" he had heard so much about. Being the type of man that he was, a much hated "tax-gatherer," he knew he would get little or no consideration from the Jews who lined the highway to watch the passing of this "man from Galilee." But this "little man" made good the saying, "Where there is a will, there is always a way." He overcame his difficulty by climbing a tree along the pathway. There, well hidden from view (so he thought) he would not be molested by those below him. But Jesus had other plans for him, for He had come "to seek and to save that which was lost."

We may well mark the astonishment of this little man when Jesus came directly under him and stopped, without apparent reason. "Now," he must have thought, "I'll get a good look at Him, anyway." Can you imagine his surprise when Jesus looked up at the face peering at Him from among the leaves of the tree, and said, "Zacchaeus, come down; for today I must abide at thy house." Right there Zacchaeus learned a lesson with which we all ought to be familiar—it is impossible to hide from the all-seeing eyes of Jesus.

There are some notable things about this man Zacchaeus. He was the chief among the publicans. He was a very rich man—but he wanted to "see" the Lord. It matters not that at the beginning the urge to see Jesus was brought about by curiosity, the main thing was that he wanted to see. He was willing to bring himself to a position where vision was possible. Although he did not know it when he climbed into the tree, he was meeting Jesus half-way, for he did his part in making that meeting possible. That is exactly what so many fail to do. Man has his part laid out for him in the process of conversion, and God has His part. In doing our part we make it possible for God to do His part. Zacchaeus climbed up a tree where Jesus could see him and where he could see Jesus.

What heart-warming words came from Jesus' lips—He would abide in Zacchaeus' house. Here is the only recorded incident where Jesus invited Himself to be any man's guest. Zacchaeus was one of the lost sheep of the House of Israel and Jesus had come "to seek and to save that which was lost." As Jesus looked into the eyes of this little man, He must have seen there the desire for something better than being a "hated" tax-gatherer. Christ looked up into a tree and "saw a man." Wherever Jesus looks He sees men. Jesus knew men then; is there any reason why He should not know them now?

At the voice of Jesus, Zacchaeus "makes haste and comes down." It was a sad, disquieted Zacchaeus that climbed that tree; but it was a glad and joyous Zacchaeus that climbed down from that tree. Here is the supreme moment in his life. There is joy in his soul. What cares he that those who are around him are beginning to grumble and to say, "Why this Jesus is going to break bread with a sinner!"

But let us walk along with Jesus and His new-found friend. They talk. Jesus tells him of the new way of life; that even though he be a tax-gatherer, he can be an honest one; that being a rich man he has a great opportunity to use his wealth to do good; that after all the real value in life is not here, but hereafter. Does it have its effect? does the message reach the little man's heart? Let us see.

Even before Zacchaeus permits Jesus to enter his home (probably a very elaborate home) he has something to say to the disdainful multitude; something that took courage to say to them. Listen to him! "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold." Here was the making of a very generous man. Not only was he willing to give above the tithe, which the Pharisees in the crowd boasted about, he was ready to give above the most liberal. More than that, he was ready to make restitution for any falsely gained wealth. And if he measured up to most of the tax-gatherers there must have been a great deal of that. His restoring was not to be by "restoring double" as required in Exodus 22:4—it would be four-fold. Yes, it was even more than that required by law as recorded in Numbers 5:7.

Now Zacchaeus had done his part and Jesus was ready to do His. We find it in His words which follow Zacchaeus' declaration. Note them: "This day is salvation come to this house . . . for the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost."

Accepting Jesus is more than a matter of words. We accept our Lord, not with our lips alone, but also with our hearts. It was thus that salvation came to the household of Zacchaeus. With a willing mind he came to Jesus, and willingly he opened his heart and his home to Him.

In this humble, simple story we see the high mission of Jesus fulfilled in one life. It can be multiplied in untold millions of other lives. And the most wonderful part of the story is that He still reaches out "to seek and to save that which was lost." We become instruments in His hands to carry out His mission. But we should ever remember that the effort goes for naught unless we "seek" as He sought, and carry out His plans.

As Jesus left that home the next morning the sun must have shown with a new light to that household. But the brightness of the sun surely was dimmed by the shining of the "Son of Righteousness" who left His blessing on all who were therein.

The Daily Vacation Bible School

BEFORE MANY MORE WEEKS have passed by many of our churches will be in the midst of Daily Vacation Bible Schools. Such schools present one of the finest opportunities which the church can hope for, to present to the children of the Sunday School, the church, and the community the Bible and its place in life today. Some weeks ago there appeared in this column an article dealing with weekday religious education—and the genus of that column was that the church ought to utilize the free time that the boys and girls have rather than bemoaning the recent decision of the Supreme Court regarding Bible instruction in the public schools. The D. V. B. S. is one of those alternatives—and a very worthwhile one! In a two-week school, meeting five days a week from nine to eleven-thirty each morning, the child receives the equivalent to approximately six months in the regular Sunday School, and the equivalent of more than half a school year of public school Bible instruction. In view of these statistics can any church afford to be without a summer program for her young people?

No school or church is too small to conduct such a vacation school, nor is the fact that a church is a rural church reasonable grounds for failing to give the youth a worthwhile Vacation Bible School. Some of the finest and most successful schools have been sponsored by rural churches. Of course there will be problems, both in the rural church and in the city or town church, but with a little preparation, ingenuity, and forethought; and with a lot of prayer and work, these problems can usually be met and overcome. A number of good books have been written in recent years, concerning this phase of the church's work, and any pastor, superintendent, or teacher contemplating a vacation school would do well to read and to study some of these books. The following are but a few suggestions gleaned from various writings in this field and from personal experience in such work.

1. Advertise! Advertise! ADVERTISE! If you plan on having a Daily Vacation Bible School let everybody for miles around know about it—and let them know about it several months in advance. It has been found very profitable to have the pastor or the director of the school send out a letter concerning the school as early as the beginning of the year. Have included in this preliminary letter the dates and time of the school, the age limits the various phases of the school's program, and any other pertinent information. Send this letter to all of the youngsters within traveling distance of the church. Then keep the proposed school in the minds of the parents through weekly announcements in the church bulletin or calendar. Between the sending of this first letter and the actual opening of the school send out another letter or postcard reminding the boys and girls and telling them of any further plans which have been made. Posters also can be purchased to be placed in conspicuous places, as well as flyers to be distributed by the teachers and the youngsters themselves. If you expect people to know about your school you have to tell them about it!

2. Have a diversified program! Choruses, new songs, Bible memorization, flannelgraph stories, object lessons, Bible stories, recreation, should all have a part on the program along with the actual class work itself. Vary this from day to day—have a different teacher tell the Bible story each morning; let the boys and girls take part in the prayer period; use several of the boys as ushers and stewards.

3. The most successful advertising, the surest way of winning others to the school, will be the enthusiasm of the young people themselves. Right from the start it is important that they be aroused and enthused about this work. We saw one rural school grow to an average attendance of 103 through the enthusiasm aroused within the youngsters themselves through a contest between the boys and the girls. Points were given to the side having the largest number present each day; for the side bringing the largest number of new scholars; for the side learning the largest number of Scripture verses, and for various other activities. An active and enthusiastic leader can do much to engender this spirit of enthusiasm and interest.

4. As much as possible use local talent! At times it becomes necessary for a church to "import" outside talent and help to successfully conduct a Daily Vacation Bible School, but as much as possible the church should endeavor to use what talent they have right in their midst. Not only does this help to train local workers, but it also gives the school a keener feeling that this is "OUR" school—"WE" did it! And that means a lot.

5. The D. V. B. S. can be a wonderful evangelistic effort. Let the teachers and the leader make use of every opportunity to point the young people to Jesus Christ as the way of salvation. This writer has made a practice of announcing from time to time during the school that on each Friday morning the invitation will be given to accept Christ as Lord and Saviour—encouraging the young people to consider this great step, and suggesting that they go home and speak to their parents about it. One of the happiest experiences of our ministry was the sight of nine young folks from twelve to fifteen years old coming forward to make the great confession before the rest of that large group of children. Jesus said, "And a little child shall lead them . . ."

6. Remember, this is a BIBLE school! As one examines the D. V. B. S. literature and workbooks published by the various publishing houses and other groups, he is prone to wonder at times just where the actual Bible study comes in. In altogether too many instances the commercially printed D. V. B. S. workbooks deal with everything imaginable except the Word of God. Nature, the school to which Jesus went, a study of social conditions in Christ's time, the customs of that day, all of these—and many others—have taken the place of the actual study of the Bible. Cutting out paper models of Christ and some of his disciples, and then hanging paper clothes and shoes upon them is hardly a worthwhile study of the life of our Lord. It might well be that we have lost sight—both in D. V. B. S. and in our regular Sunday Schools—that the primary purpose of all Bible instruction and study is to reverse the process by which we got our Bible, namely a process from Life to Tradition to Record. Our task, therefore, is to read that divine record with the intent of making it once again life itself. It is well, therefore, in selecting materials for Vacation Bible Schools to select those workbooks and other materials which will instruct the young people in the Word of God, and will also challenge them to apply the truths learned therein to their own daily lives. If such materials can be purchased, then the pastor or the director, or some of the teachers might get together and work up books which will adequately meet the needs of the boys and girls.

BURNING TRUTH

By Charles Emory Byers

"Truth crushed to earth shall rise again,
The eternal years of God are hers;
But Error, wounded writhes in pain
And dies amid his worshippers."

—William Cullen Bryant.

Time is the greatest friend of truth as well as the greatest enemy of error. With time the riddles we do not understand tend to solve themselves. Thus time establishes truth and plants it indelibly in the hearts of men. Since men love truth when they recognize it and understand it, time places it on a throne where it is enshrined in men's hearts as a co-worker with God and nature.

Error is often so wicked and vicious in its fanaticism that it tries to annihilate all who oppose it. It throws the Christian to the hungry lions in the Roman arena, it poisons its Socrates in Athens, it burns its Savonarola at the stake in Florence, it imprisons its sage in a Bedford jail and nails its Savior to a cross on Golgotha hill.

As time is the unwavering friend of truth it is also the firm friend of all worthwhile things in life for they have a vital connection with both time and truth. It takes time for rumors and false theories and superstitions and lies to be screened out so that only truth remains. Men must learn that eclipses are not harmful, that a broken mirror is not a bad omen, that evil spirits do not enter the body and must be driven out, and a host of other foolish things. When this is done truth shines forth in her glory. But stubborn falsehoods persist for years, even for centuries.

The simple truth to us that the earth is round and moves through space was observed by error and had a tedious course to run before it was established. It was so confused by falsehood and error that when in the process of being defeated it writhed in bitter pain. It gave ground grudgingly but finally had to die.

Time and the slow centuries have come to the rescue of the vital truths that give the world an upward swing. They have no fear. Instead they have infinite patience because they know that at last they will triumph, and are sure that all their tenets will be established. Time slowly but unerringly uncovers all the facts and makes the completed picture perfect. This is as it should be in an orderly and established universe.

Thus time and truth are handmaidens who work together for the salvation of mankind.

Humility is perfect quietness of heart. It is never to be fretted or irritated or sore or disappointed. It is to be at rest when nobody praises me and when I am blamed or despised. It is to have a blessed home in the Lord, where I can go in and shut the door and kneel to my Father in secret, and am at peace as in a sea of calmness when all around and above is trouble.—Andrew Murray.

Intercession leaves you neither time nor inclination to pray for your own "sad sweet self."

Ashland College

May Queen, Velma Brownson

and Her Court

Reported by Arthur Petit
Public Relations Director

MAY DAY AT ASHLAND COLLEGE was every bit the success that was anticipated for it. The three day celebration was one of the largest and best ever on the hilltop. The six events which went to make up the occasion attracted over 4500 people. Of course this included duplications as many attended all of the events. The productions were up to the standards set by former such celebrations and in some cases surpassed similar previous events.

Beginning with the Festival of the Lanterns on Friday evening, May 13, crowds were larger than any time in the past ten years. The Festival of the Lanterns is becoming the traditional pre-May Day activity. The college band plays its last concert of the year at that time. Several hundred people came to the front campus to sit or stand under the Japanese lanterns and hear the music. Seats were provided for as many as possible and the band was placed near the light cluster in front of Founders. This was the last concert under the direction of Cutler Silliman who is leaving Ashland for further study.

The second event on the program was the coronation of the Queen and the pageant in her honor, the feature attraction, so to speak. Miss Velma Brownson of Ashland was a beautiful queen and was a credit to the high honor to which she had been elected by the student body. At one in the afternoon of May 14, the college band heralded her approach to the throne. After her coronation, a brilliantly conceived and masterfully directed pageant was performed in her honor. The college art department prepared "flats" representing the first three buildings on the campus. These stood about 15 feet high and fit into the play perfectly. Lois Snook, art instructor, deserves commendation for the many hours she spent on these with her students.

The pageant itself was concerned with the past fifty years of the college history. Beginning with the opening of the college in 1898 by Dr. Miller and Dr. L. L. Garber, it brought the audience down through the years with the literary societies, a typical May Day of 30 years ago, the First World War, the burning of the "gym" and the arrival of Louise, the iron eagle. A speaking chorus had much to do with the success of the pageant.

Among faculty members, Miss Lulu Wood, college librarian deserves special thanks for her untiring efforts to make the pageant a success. Newspapers estimated that at least 2000 witnessed the spectacle.

The alumni dinner in the early evening was another fine event. The attendance was larger than usual. Principal event of the program was the induction of the largest senior class ever into the Alumni Association.

The dramatic production, "Family Portrait" was presented in the evening in McDowell Auditorium. This play was designed to portray any family in any age into which Jesus might have been born, with the family struggles and the bitterness and frustration which might come to it because of Jesus. It was a splendid medium, excellently directed and portrayed and well received by a large audience. It was an unusual play, but it carried its lesson to the group which filled all of the desirable seats in the large auditorium.

The services in the First Brethren Church on Sunday morning found the May Day crowd filling the church to hear President Clayton deliver the sermon. He presented challenging thoughts for his large congregation and was highly commended for his address.

On Sunday afternoon the May Day week end was brought to a climactic close with the home concert of the cappella choir. This very fine musical organization of about sixty voices, under the direction of Dr. Louis E. Peterson sang its most brilliant concert of the year on that occasion. Using their regular repertoire for the first part of the concert, they then sang almost a half hour of new music including the "Canticle of the Sun" by Eunice Lea uttering, Ashland College's own composer in residence. They were assisted in this second part of the concert by a group from Ohio State University and by the Ashland High School choir. A near capacity audience in the McWell Auditorium heard this concert. Since very few of its choir graduate this year, the prospects are good for another fine choir next year.

Miss Mildred Furry, Dean of Women, was chairman of the May Day committee. Much of the credit for its success belongs to her.

Ashland College Gospel Team Makes Trip to Mid-West

On Easter Sunday afternoon, in the midst of a snowstorm, the following people left Ashland for Kansas and Nebraska in order to hold special services for a few of the Brethren Churches there: Charles Munson, Clarence Stogsdill, Lois Coleman, Spencer Gentle, Mrs. Gentle, and their two sons. In other words, there were seven people in the Ford.

They arrived in Fort Scott, Kansas, late Monday night (had car trouble in Indianapolis, Indiana). However, Rev. and Mrs. Cecil Johnson were waiting for the group.

Tuesday was spent by resting, but early Wednesday morning, the Gospel Team left Fort Scott for Morrill, Kansas, where they were to hold the evening service. The church was filled for this meeting. Clarence Stogsdill led the singing, Miss Coleman played the piano, Charles Munson had charge of the devotions, and Spencer Gentle preached the sermon. After this service, the young people of the church had a social period. This time was spent in singing and having a good time.

On Thursday evening, the Team had charge of a Communion service at the Morrill Church. Preceding this service, Rev. Clarence Stogsdill ordained Brother T. W. Kimmel as deacon of the church. Following this, the Communion service was observed in the basement of the church in connection with a candle-lighting service. There were over 30 at this service and the Lord truly blessed all, especially those in charge.

The Team left Morrill early Friday morning for Falls City, Nebraska, where they were to have the evening services. At 6:45, the group was served a very lovely meal in the church basement. For the evening meeting, Clarence Stogsdill led the singing with Miss Coleman at the piano; Spencer Gentle had the devotions; Charles Munson brought the evening message. Also, after this service, a "get-acquainted" social was enjoyed by the group.

Saturday found the Gospel Team on their way back to Fort Scott, Kansas, which is a distance of over 200 miles. The Fort Scott Brethren Church held an all-day service on Sunday with the Gospel Team fully in charge. At the Sunday School hour, Brother Munson and Brother Gentle taught classes. The morning worship service was in charge of Spencer Gentle, with Charles Munson as the Devotional Leader and Clarence Stogsdill as the preacher. Dinner was served at the church. In the afternoon, a youth rally was held with about 50 young people present. There were two car loads from Mulvane, Kansas, which is 189 miles away and one car load from Falls City, Nebraska. This service was truly an inspiration to all.

In the evening, the service was again under the leadership of Spencer Gentle with Clarence Stogsdill in charge of the devotions. Charles Munson brought the evening message. Miss Coleman was at the piano.

After a week of hard work, and much fun, the group left Fort Scott on Monday morning to return to Ashland. They arrived in Ashland early Tuesday morning. The Team drove almost 2500 miles, but every mile was enjoyable. This was the first time that such a team had ever visited in the Mid-West District, and this Team truly appreciated the opportunity.

The Team wishes to thank all those in Morrill, Kansas who so graciously received the members of the Team into their homes. This also is extended to those in Falls City, Nebraska, and in Fort Scott, Kansas.

Plans are NOW being made to send another such team out there next Easter!

JOHNSTOWN, PENNSYLVANIA, SECOND BRETHREN

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Second Brethren Church of Johnstown, Pennsylvania, under the leadership of a very capable adviser, is doing a wonderful piece of work in trying to bring the young people into the church.

We now have an enrollment of twenty-three members.

Six of these had perfect attendance during the last quarter of 1948. Our programs vary. We have found that the young people enjoy Bible quizzes. Our main source, however, is The Evangelist, the Christian Endeavor Quarterly and the much appreciated Christian Endeavor programs put out by Rev. W. S. Benshoff.

We are trying to train our very young members to be leaders by making them responsible for most of the program for an evening, with the aid of an experienced and older leader. We find this is working out to an advantage.

The Easter program for our church was sponsored by the Christian Endeavor Society, and was given on Palm Sunday evening.

We pray that the Lord will guide us in our endeavors to win souls for Him.
